With panic in their hearts, some of the people dashed back into the house, while the others continued to call to the voice above their heads which was still moaning: "Help me…Help…" Anxiously they continued to scan the moonlit sky, but there was nothing to be seen; only the voice could be heard: "Help me, help…"

It is highly possible that the glare from the lights of the house may, to a limited extent, have affected the visibility of the would-be rescuers. Then too, the trees and bushes situated near the house may have deflected the apparent direction of the pleading voice. But for almost five minutes the voice continued to call. Sometimes it was loud, then soft, now close at hand, now feeble and far away—but always from the sky, never on the ground level.

Neighbors were called and a frantic search was begun which covered the entire yard, the farm buildings, the roof and chimney of the house, and even the basement. Men got ladders and climbed in trees, poked in the snow, and even lowered the lantern down the well. Oliver could not be found.

At 10:00, the horror of the ghastly situation became all the more apparent when eight or nine people in the yard heard the voice calling to them from above their heads. Once more it uttered a soul-tingling plea for help. After that, the voice was never heard again.

The search was continued with renewed effort, the members not daring to venture an opinion as to what weird, unnatural event was taking place. Then it was noticed the Oliver's tracks had stopped about 225 feet from the house, about half the distance to the well; beyond these tracks the snow was undisturbed. There was no sign of struggle, nothing to indicate that a fracas of nature had occurred. At the end of the tracks, halfway between the house and the well, lay an abandoned bucket. Oliver had left the house with two. Where was the other one?

The search for Oliver continued all night and all the next day, without revealing the slightest clue as to his whereabouts.

Some witnesses disagreed as to the exact words called out by Oliver. Some swore he called "It's got me." Others were just as dogmatic and claimed he screamed: "They've got me!"

Said both, first "Its"when attractor hit Him & upon sight of L-M on receiving-Port, said
"They"

Different theories were advanced to the effect that an eagle might have carried him off. But who ever heard of an eagle carrying off a grown man? And would an eagle, even if it could do so, hover over the scene for half an hour, holding on to its victim? What about the missing bucket? Would Oliver, thus lifted up into the sky, still retain his hold on a bucket? Would he not drop it and use both hands in the struggle?

For a time it was thought that the grapnel of a balloon had carried off the man. This, however, was quickly disproved. Due to weather conditions no balloon had ascended that day, anywhere.

Another theory holds that Oliver was murdered; that the slayer crept up behind his unsuspecting victim as he went to the well, seizing the bucket and killing him with it. One of the guests at the Lerch farm that night, driven mad with jealousy over the attentions Oliver was giving to Lillian Hirsch, may have been a amateur ventriloquist. Did he murder Oliver and conceal his body somewhere? If so, how did he manage it? The entire farm was searched. Aided by the darkness, did this guest simulate Olivers' voice and "throw" it into the air, thereby confusing the other startled guests? Or was Oliver Lerch, by some unknown trick of nature, sucked into another dimension? (Fate, September, 1950)

As a corollary to the disappearance of Oliver Lerch, a Mr. H.M. Cranmer of Hammersley Fork, Pennsylvania, Wrote a letter tot he editor of Fate Magazine which we reproduce in part.

An event similar to the strange disappearance of Oliver Lerch happened here, about twenty-five years earlier. (This would make it around 1865).

It was late in summer when a group of men gathered here for the winter work of cutting pine. Just after dark a dozen men finished their supper at the hotel kept by Uriah Hammersley, and seated themselves on the hotel porch to enjoy their after-dinner smoke.

PO-Great, WANA=FISH (NATICK LINGO)

As they sat talking, they noticed a drunken man—a stranger no one had ever seen before—staggering along the road in front of the hotel. The stranger, cursing to himself as drunks often do, passed the hotel without stopping, and continued down the road. After he had gone about two hundred yards, he suddenly began to shout angrily, "damn you, let me go!"

The men from the hotel porch ran down to the spot, and Kelleys who lived on a farm an equal distance below—came running from the opposite direction. The stranger was nowhere to be seen, but everyone could hear him still shouting, "damn you, let me go," from overhead. His voice got fainter and fainter and finally stopped.

No more drunks will be picked up after Ole Potter, His breath killed two.

The dust in the road was several inches thick and the stranger's boot tracks were plainly visible up to the spot where they abruptly ended. On one side of the road was Kelley's cornfield – no tracks could be found in it. On the other side was a creek forty feet away, with a sandbar thirty feet wide. No tracks were found in the sand.

In the crowd there were men who could track deer or bear all day on bare ground, but not one of them could, or even did, find a trace of the missing man!

PO=Great, MOLA=BIRD (NATICK)

Up to 100 years ago the Indians stoutly maintained that the "thunderbird" – a bird that could carry a full grown deer or a man – still existed in the United States. In Maine the Indians called it "Pomola."

"Bird"= Primitive Description

Sometime after 1500 AD, the Indians killed two "thunderbirds" along the Mississippi River, and carved and painted them, life size, on rocks on the Illinois side. One of the carvings was destroyed by a stone quarry but the other one is still there. The Indians along the upper Mississippi called the bird "Piazzi"—meaning destroyer.

In translating "thunderbird" from the Indian languages, the word "eagle" was used. The average American, if he saw a gigantic bird carry off a calf, would be afraid to tell of it, because he would know that no one would believe him. Or, if a pilot saw one, who would believe his story of a bird with a 25 or 30 foot wingspread?

According to the Chicago Tribune, of January 5, 1900, there disappeared a young chap named Sherman Church. It seems that Mr. Church was employed in the August Mills in Battle Creek at the time. He was seated in the company's office, when he arose and ran into the mill. He has not been seen since. The mill was almost taken apart by searchers, and the river, woods and country were scoured, but to no avail. Nobody saw Church leave town, nor was there any known reason for his leaving.

What can we make of that one? If somebody (or something) desired to teleport Mr. Church, it seems that the teleportation could just as well have taken him right out of his seat. So—what impelled him to run out of the offices? Did "something" want him to go outside where he could be lifted…?

Have resisted this of them. Myself. "Telepathic control" only resisted by another telepath. Darn tough on me, I am only partly telepathic but can "set" call-barriers. If ever see L-M swimming about again, Ill grab him.

This account, from the London Sunday Express, September 21, and 28, 1924, bears careful consideration. On July 24, 1924, at a time of Arab hostility, Flight Lieutenant, W.T.Day, and Pilot Officer, D.R.Stewart, were sent from British Headquarters upon an ordinary reconnaissance flight over a desert in Mesopotamia. According to scheduled flight plan they would not be absent more than a few hours. The men did not return, and they were searched for. The plane was soon found, easily spotted in the desert. Why it should have landed was the problem. "There was some petrol in the tank. There was nothing wrong with the craft. It was, in fact, flown back to the aerodrome." But the men were missing. "So far as can be ascertained, they encountered no meteorological conditions which might have forced them to land." There were no marks to indicate that the plane had been shot at.

In the sand around the plane were seen footprints of Day and Stewart. "They were traced, side by side, for some forty yards from the machine. Then, as suddenly as if they had come to the brink of a cliff, the marks ended."

The landing of the plane was unaccountable. But, accepting that as a minor mystery, the suggested explanation of the abrupt ending of the footprints was that Day and Stewart had been captured by hostile Bedouins, who had brushed away all trails in the sand, starting from a point forty yards from the plane. But hostile Bedouins could not be thought of brushing indefinitely and a search was made for a renewal of traces.

Airplanes, armored cars, and mounted police searched. Rewards were offered. Tribal patrols searched unceasingly for four days. Nowhere beyond the point in the sand where the tracks ended abruptly were other tracks to be found.

What is there about that account that would lead you to suspect a hoax, a mistake, or an error? I do not see anything, and if there is I would be grateful for being put straight. So far as I can see, these two men really did disappear—at the end of their tracks…in a barren desert. Oliver Lerch disappeared the same way. He left a bucket. These sturdy Britishers, two of them, mind you, walking side by side, left a plane. I have known some British airmen. They would not give up without a struggle, unless they were overpowered instantly and unexpectedly—or were snatched up off the ground! Have you ever tried to brush tracks out of the sand without leaving more disturbance than you obliterated?

I suggest that these two men were abducted by some levitating power which suddenly pulled them off the ground after compelling them to land and walk away from their plane to a point where they could be levitated without injury to themselves or damage to the plane.

Kaspar Hauser entered the town of Nuremberg, Germany, on Whit-Monday, May 1828. Most accounts agree that he had poor control of his legs as he walked. About sixteen or seventeen years old, he knew nothing at all of the accoutrements of civilized living, even trying to pick up the flame of a candle. Either he suffered from almost complete amnesia, or practically his entire life had been spent in solitary confinement or its equivalent. Nobody knows to this day where Kaspar came from. Many suspect imposture but that doesn't fit the known circumstances. In view of some of our modern knowledge of handling prisoners, he may have been subjected to brain-washing. There may be no connection at all for us, in the advent of Kaspar Hauser. We merely mention that he suddenly appeared, full grown, at the gates of Nuremberg, but without mentality enough to have arrived there by his own volition. ??? (Red is A & B)

Not too long ago I had some correspondence with R. DeWitt Miller, author of Forgotten Mysteries, and, some time back, the contributor of a long series on the same subject in Coronet. Mr. Miller is devoted to the investigation of all types of paranormal events, and especially the sort of thing we have been discussing here. When I mentioned Oliver Lerch's case to him, Mr. Miller expressed the opinion that the Lerch story might have had the same origin of that of David Lang. Certainly we must concede an element of parallelism in the various accounts of sudden disappearances. Miller sent me the following story, which bore the pencilled note that there is an affidavit and the story is said to be essentially identical with the disposition. This is it:

On September 23, 1880 (again those incredible 1880's), Land, a farmer and prominent land owner living near Gallatin, Tennessee, returned home from a business trip. After greeting his family, he started across an eight-acre field to inspect his blooded horses.

While he was walking across the field his wife and two children saw a buggy approach along the road, and stop. In the buggy were "Judge" Peck, a local attorney, and a friend. When he saw Lang crossing the field, Peck stopped his buggy and signaled the farmer to return to his house.

There, in full view of five persons—Lang's wife and two children, Peck and his friend—Lang vanished in a field which was devoid of trees, boulders, or any sort of cover; a field covered with grass and without caves, bogs, abandoned wells, or other chasms. In fact, a later geological survey showed this entire field was underlayed at a depth of a few feet with a solid stratum of limestone.

The press of Tennessee was filled for months with stories about the "Lang Disappearance." There were searches – made immediately following Lang's vanishing and for months afterwards.

Bloodhounds were used. Detectives were called in. The story reached Vienna, and a Dr. Hern stated that: "there are vortices (in the so-called physical world) through which a man might vanish." Ambrose Bierce wrote a fictionalized version of the incident. The bloodhounds, the detectives and the theorists produced nothing.

VORTICES, NODES, DEAD SPOTS "traps," = all the same things.

The case has been the subject of endless speculation. But no one has ever found a trace of David Lang. And there remains only the affidavit of Lang's daughter and the statements of the the other witnesses that Lang simply vanished while crossing an open field.

LEVITATION

It is not within the scope of this book so show that a civilization of single origin covered this planet some tens of thousands of years ago – perhaps hundreds of thousands.

Such a case can be made, without too much difficulty, in spite of the anti-Atlantians who have a phobia against it; and we can show that there have been two – at least two—principle waves of civilization. The first can be said, roughly, to be antediluvian and the second postdiluvian, speaking in general terms and putting the Flood, or its equivalent, far enough back in history so as to coincide with the cataclysm which caused it.

All of the centers of civilization and cultural renaissance recognized by present-day anthropologists – India, Peru, Yucatan, Egypt, Babylonia, Greece, China, Rome, England and others – are but the reviving remnants of an empire and civilization which colonized the world a hundred thousand years ago. They area all "parts," or nuclei, in one great renaissance which has been taking place for, roughly, six to ten thousand years. In it are some traces of the archaic, original, master culture, and, perhaps through India, Tibet, Egypt and Middle America, there are some tenuous links between our immature revival and the parent past. These traces are mostly in the form of stone works, and some glyphs, of a singular nature, with a very few written records existing mostly in the Orient, and particularly in southern Asia.

Above is true, Jemi They are Written about in Many Writings, So old, as to be Nulified by antiquity.

All of this is anathema to conventional science, archaeology and anthropology especially, for organized science has set up a pattern which covers human growth in broad general terms, and has accepted some rigidly restricting tenets which limit original thinking and shut out much that is obvious. While these general assumptions of science are largely proven by observation and deduction, they are only proven up to a point. Beyond that point there are the "erratics": little annoying things, events, or artifacts, which stubbornly refuse to fit into the pattern, and which are sturdily disregarded in the interest of maintaining a working hypothesis acceptable to science in its current state of thinking.

A THORN IN AN OSTRICHES HEAD, PAINS SO CONTINUALLY THAT IT HIDE IT IN THE SAND, YET IT PAINS IT STILL, ED?

In addition to all this there is the refusal to acknowledge evidence antedating the current subwave which extends back only about three thousand to eight thousand years, and that far only in Egypt and south Asia. All data in conflict with this basic assumption are rejected by definition.

Many of the so-called erratics cease to be erratics by the simple expedient of admitting the real antiquity of human culture upon the earth. Most of the perpetual squabble over whether Asians settled America, or American colonized Asia, are painlessly dissolved by merely extending the time scale back a few thousand years—and, perhaps, accepting a new working theory to the effect that all present cultures are traceable to a common origin.

ED: The following has no obvious reference or necessary position.

I do Not know much about The Ancient L-M' Colonies.

Aside from written records, to be discussed later, which establish mechanical flight at a remote time of maybe 70,000 to 200,000 years ago, we concern ourselves at the moment only with the gigantic stone masonry which remains in almost all parts of the world. Certain characteristics of some of the stone work bespeak origin in a single, widespread civilization, highly developed in some way, but not mechanical in the same sense as ours of today. We will presently limit ourselves to one phase only: the massive size and weight of the various monoliths. The manner or method of their carving is material for another report, but it can be confidently said that the First Civilization had simple and effective methods of working and moving stone which are unused today, and which were more effective than anything which we of the Second Civilization have developed. (red is A & b)

Cut with over sized Measure-Marker

In many areas we find evidence of stone blocks of unbelievable weight being quarried, more or less casually moved considerable distances, then lifted into place. This common factor connects pre-Inca Peru with Easter Island in a startling and undeniable way, and seems to tie in the Middle East, the Orient, Africa, and maybe Polynesia. Many investigators and thinkers have proposed methods for moving these quarried and dressed blocks. All of the proposals are based on application of such simple present day engineering equipment as block-and tackle or sand ramps. The great pyramids, consisting of hundreds of thousands of huge stone blocks, are thought by some to have been erected by thousands of slaves toiling up long ramps of sand to bring these gigantic masses from the Nile. Flotation has been considered. No suggestions have been made which really fit all cases, and some of the submissions are so cumbersome and inadequate as to seem ridiculous.

Let's take a look at some of these great monoliths, and note their size, their geographical distributions, and, where possible, something of their age and any other details which stand out.

One such example is that of Sacsahuaman Fortress, in the High Andes of Peru, above the ancient Inca, and pre-Inca city of Cuzco. There are several eras of civilization represented in the poorly understood archaeological remains at, and near, Cuzco. The latest, aside from the present Spanish-Indian population, are the Inca ruins, most of which were in use at the time of the iniquitous Spanish conquest. The Incas were also using some structures which were inherited from their predecessors, and this has led to some confusion, because practically all other ruins in the neighborhood have been vaguely and uncertainly classified as "pre-Incan."

This is a rather too comprehensive term, and the pre-Inca remains should be divided into those ruins which were immediately pre-Inca, and those which had their creation remote in time; some of which were skillfully constructed before the mountains were raised to their present high level – certainly before glaciation.

The massive work of Sacsahuaman seems to be intermediate between the extremely old and the more immediately pre-Inca, and may very well be the initial works of those people who were last in the area before the Incas, and whose works the Incas inherited and used.

Rope of that day was so crude as to even

Inca & Mayan peoples (sic) Did NOT know the use of the Wheel in any shape, form or size, at all. SO THEY COULD NOT HAVE MOVED SUCH HUGE MASSES.

Not so, Jemi, one by one they were Lifted & only one face was "matched" at a time, using FORCE-GRIPS OR THE STRONG "FREEZE" SIMPLY MAKING SHIP TO MOVE BACK & FORTH each thusly NOW appears to have been ground between each, which, as you know & see could Not work for the force-freeze Doesn't Grip two Huge ones AND RUB them, If two were "Gripped" BOTH Would be forced to Move with the ship, back & forth, simultaneously, thus roughness would BE between the two Held. HOWEVER, if these HUGE STONE BLOCKS WERE FORCE CUT BY FORCE-CUTTERS, THEN, END TO END, SIDE FOR SIDE THEY WOULD "MATCH" PERFECTLY WHEN CUT FROM SAME QUARRY. BOTH WAYS WERE USED. A SHORT-CUT LATER USED WAS ROCK-WELDING.

ROCK-WELDING, IE. MOLECULAR-ELECTRONIC-FIELD BLENDING Was used as the signs of the Great War approached as an Emergency speed-up Measure.

The Fortress (so-called by archaeologists, who admit no types of building other than religious, military, and occasionally residential) of Sacsahuaman is on a mountain top overlooking modern Cuzco. It is noteworthy as one of the earliest works showing the construction of walls by grinding and fitting stones, in situ. These walls are also noted for the very large stones which make up the lower of three tiers, and it is these in which we are more interested. (See Fate, Vol. II, No. 1, and American Anthropologist, 1936.)

The stones making up the corners of the reentrant angles, of this lower tier, appear to be a dark basalt; heavy, hard, and rugged. They are so large that they dwarf a man on horseback standing beside them. Some of them are about twelve feet square at the base, and eighteen to twenty feet high. They are estimated to weigh about two hundred tons each. Other stones in the same walls range from small ones of only a few hundred pounds, through continuous gradations up to the largest. All of them were crudely rough quarried, and were then ground into their designated niches in the structure by pushing them back and forth, in situ, until they fitted so closely, completely and accurately that a knife blade cannot be inserted between them. This is a logical and practical shortcut to effective stone fitting which we have not equaled in modern engineering.

(It is interesting to note in passing, however, that we use this method in what is probably our operation of highest accuracy and precision: lens and mirror grinding for astronomical telescopes. No substitute has been found for this system of grinding pieces of glass together to obtain perfect curvature, and there is no basic difference in the two operations.)

However, there are some startling inferences in the size and mass of the stones. To place the largest of these corner stones in place, so that others could be worked to fit them, required tremendous force. It is unimaginable that sufficient hand labor and crude tackle could be massed around them so that they could be moved and handled.

The intermediate sizes, some to them weighing ten, twenty, and forty tons, or more, had to be picked up, put approximately into place, and pushed back and forth until they ground themselves into their individually fitting contours. This was no mean chore. It is inferred that means of handling must have existed which made it easy, or at any rate possible, to swing these stones up and around, and to shove them to and fro, against terrific friction, while pinched between their adjacent neighbors. Such power would tax any modern machine or power plant and require an installation of generating equipment sufficient to run a city. It seems plainly obvious that some other source of power existed.

ALUMINUM, NON-MAGNETIC METAL HAS & IS NOW BEING MADE TO "FLOAT" IN A FORCE-FIELD, 1948 cyclotron, 2000 WATTS. NEW YORK STATE.

It may be that this tremendous power was limited in its application to articles of stone texture only, but this is a little doubtful. Or, perhaps it was limited to nonmagnetic materials in general. Such a limitation would have sidetracked the development of a mechanized culture such as ours of this day, and would partly account for the strange fact that almost all relics of the profound past are non-metallic. It does seem possible that the usefulness of that power, whatever it was, may have been limited by its very nature and that it was never developed along industrial lines because of this limitation and even, perhaps, because of a basic difference in values. This writer cannot see his way to believing that such a power was electrical, magnetic, calorific, or strictly mechanical, else it would have led to industrial developments leaving at least a few traces.

The ruins of Baalbek lie to the northeast of Beirut, between the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea and the northern end of the Syrian Desert. The ruins of Baalbek are the most majestic and the most notable of the earth's ancient structures. They have caused more speculation among scientists generally, and archaeologists in particular, than any other group of ruins on earth, for it is usually conceded that there has never been found a single vestige of information intimating or showing when, or by what people, they were created. I have several descriptions of these ruins before me. The one of all others which, it seems to me, would appeal to the layman, as strongly as to the scientist is Mark Twain's, and as this book is written for the people, his description is the one I have selected to use:

At eleven o'clock our eyes fell upon the walls and columns of Baalbek, a notable ruin, whose history is a sealed book. It has stood there for thousands of years, the wonder and admiration of travelers. Who built it is a question that may never be answered. One thing is sure though, such grandeur of design, and such grace of execution as one sees in the temples of Baalbek, have not been equaled or even approached in any other work of man's hands that has ever been built within the last twenty centuries.

The great Temple of the Sun, the Temple of Jupiter, and the several smaller temples are clustered together in the midst of these Syrian villages miserably dirty. They look strange enough in such plebian company. These temples are built upon massive sub-structures that might support a world almost. The material used is blocks of stone as large as an omnibus, very few of them are smaller than a carpenter's tool chest. These structures are traversed by tunnels of masonry through which a train of cars might pass. With such foundations as these it is little wonder that Baalbek has lasted so long.

The temple of the Sun is nearly 300 feet long and 160 feet wide. It has 54 columns around it, but only six are standing now; the others lie broken at its base, a confused and picturesque mass. Corinthian capitals and entablatures, and six more shapely columns do not exist. These columns and their entablatures together are ninety feet high, a prodigious altitude for shafts of stone to reach, and yet one only thinks of their beauty and symmetry when looking at them. The pillars look slender and delicate, the entablatures with their elaborate sculpture look like rich stucco work, but when gazed aloft until your eyes are weary you glance at the great fragments of pillars among which you are not standing and find that they are eight feet thick, and with them lie beautiful capitals (?) apparently as large as a small cottage, and also single slabs of stone superbly sculptured that are four or five feet thick and would completely cover the floor of any ordinary parlor.

DON'T KNOW, SURELY NOT WRITING L-Ms WERE & ARE ALL TELE-PATHS

The temple of Jupiter is a smaller ruin than the one I have just been speaking of, and yet it is immense. It is in a tolerable state of preservation. One of nine columns stands almost uninjured. They are 65 feet high and support a sort of porch or roof. This porch roof is composed of tremendous slabs of stone which are so finely sculptured on the undersides that the work looks like fresco from below. One or two of the slabs that lay around me were no larger than those above my head. Within the temple the ornamentation was elaborate and colossal. What a wonder of architectural beauty and grandeur this edifice must have been when it was new and what a noble picture it, and its stellar companion, with the chaos of mighty fragments scattered around them made in the moonlight.

And yet, these sculptured blocks are trifles in size compared with the rough-hewn stones that form the side verandah, or platform which surrounds the great temple. One stretch of that platform composed of only three stones is nearly 300 feet in length. They are thirteen feet square, two of them are each 64 feet and a third 69 feet long. They are built into the massive wall twenty feet above the ground.

We went to the quarry from whence these stones of Baalbek were taken. It was a quarter of a mile off, down-hill. In a pit lay the mate of the largest stone in the ruins. It lay there just as the giants of the old forgotten time left it when they were called hence; to remain for thousands of years an eloquent rebuke to such as are prone to think slightingly of the men who have lived before them. This enormous block lies there squared and ready for the builder's hands, a solid mass 14 feet by 17 feet wide and 70 feet long.

One could use the same words almost to describe the massive unfinished stone statues left in the quarries on Easter Island. Something sudden terminated the work of Easter Island and Baalbek. I do not say that it was the very same something, but the epoch is certainly of the same order of time and there are elements in common --Easter Island, Peru, Baalbek, Egypt – all with screaming evidence of sudden overwhelming disaster happening to a race of beings who handled rocks weighing hundreds and hundreds of tons.

THEY SHOULD SEE THE "ATLANTIC CHAIN" CITIES GREAT UNDERSEA METROPOLISES.

There is little in Baalbek, Easter Island, Peru, or Egypt to show a gradual development of so advanced a culture or civilization: they, or at least their megalithic stone work, appear to have been ready-made, as though a colony was set up directly, complete, a going concern. In Peru it appears that the levitator, or power plant, was lost. In Baalbek it has been shown that the work was never completed and the largest stone still lies in the quarry. In Easter Island a similar great stone, a statue, still lies in the quarry where it was being sculptured, in a depression from which great power manipulation would be required to move it. In both cases work stopped suddenly, and apparently the "force-lift" for the 1,200 ton stones was lost, somehow.

THE BOMBARDMENT, OF WHICH THE EAST COAST SHOWS GOOD SIGNS, even yet. THE GRAND BANK, Circular swamps & etc.

Largest Would Have been cut into regular building sizes or else it Had a twin to be Marched to.

It seems necessary to conclude that while massive stone work was in progress all over the world (for we have to include India, Tibet, Polynesia, etc.), sources of power were limited in number, and available only to a few important projects. It seems that such levitators disappeared suddenly and unexpectedly. Where to?

They Went Home.

It is further possible that maybe there was only one machine available which could lift the greatest of weights, and that it was mobile and used first in one part of the world and then another.

What kind of power was this levitation agency? How did it work? If through our crude mechanical principles of ropes, cables, blocks and tackles, how did the ancients get enough rope on a 1,200-ton block to take the strain of lifting it, and how shift the position of the prime mover? Rocks are not magnetic. Does flotation offer a complete answer for lifting the big ones into place? Sand ramps do not seem suitable.

THESE PROVED INADEQUETE

THEORY.

TRUE. "PRIME-MOVER" Caused GRAV. NODE OR MINOR STRENETH (sic) or Major. thus Gravity didn't exist upon these stones.

I have used the word "levitation" as a substitute for power or force. I have suggested that flying saucers used some means of reacting with the gravitational field. In this way they could apply accelerations or lifting forces to all particles of a body, inside and outside, simultaneously, and not through external force applied by pressure, or harness, to the surface only. I believe that this same, or a similar force was used to move stones in very ancient times. I believe the source of this lifting or levitating power was lost suddenly.

All Comes under one Principle, just applied diff.

We believe, in short, that this lifting engine was a space ship, probably of vast proportions; that it brought colonists to various parts of the earth, probably from other terrestrial areas; and that it supplied the heavy lift power for erecting great stone works; and that it was suddenly destroyed or taken away. Such a hypothesis would underwrite all of the movements of stone over which archaeologists and engineers have puzzled.

We believe Mu to have existed as a world civilization, hoary with age, replete with knowledge or astronomy and physics in an almost unbelievably remote past; that this entire civilization was wiped out with great, and sudden, violence, leaving very little trace. Whatever we have of culture development today is but the thin, reviving remnants of that era, propagated by a little handful of people who happened to be in sheltered positions when the devastation struck. Earthquakes have been most usually cited as probable causes for such catastrophes, but they do not explain all the concomitant details. One thing does, and is logical. Collision from outside bodies striking the earth. It is the only common denominator for our broadest and most basic problems of anthropology.

Heh: He's hit it.

Let us merely state that our tenet, and the point of inserting this discussion into the general concept, is to indicate that there was long ago a very advanced culture, which could and almost certainly did, invent a means of levitation and space mobility; that this world-wide culture was cataclysmically and instantly wiped out all over the world. Remnants of humanity escaped, and it is our suggestion that at least one space ship was afloat at the time and escaped the disaster and sired a race of space dwellers which has ever after used the neutral at the limit of the earth's sphere of influence as an abode or headquarters.

Marks and "Footprints"

The following series of oddities is perhaps the most conclusive of all. Because I wish to develop "The Devil's Footprints" fully, I shall not go into detail about the innumerable marks and depressions in stone. However, after the footprints study, and a mention of the stone depressions and what they are, I believe the case for the UFO's will be clearly in your mind. What other source but something from space could account for these erratics?

The story of "The Devil's Footprints" is classic. It was told as follows, by Frank W. Lane, In Fate, April-May, 1952 – The material being largely the product of research by Rupert Gould as printed in Stargazer Folks and elsewhere:

On the night of Thursday, February 7, 1855, there was a fall of snow over South Devon, in southwest England. The next morning, as men and women went about their business, they discovered, imprinted in the virgin snow, a series of tracks unlike any seen before. At first glance they looked like the impression made by a donkey's hoof, measuring four by two and three-quarter inches. But there, all resemblance between the imprints on the snow and the sort of tracks left by a workaday donkey, ends. And the real mystery begins.

It was found that the hoof marks ran in a single line, and also that the distance between one impression and the next, as carefully measured, was undeviatingly eight and one-half inches. to appreciate properly the imprints in the snow that greeted the incredulous eyes of the Devonians, that Friday morning, you must try to imagine a line of marks such as would be made by a creature with only one leg, terminating a hoof, which proceeded by a series of jumps, always mathematically eight and one-half inches apart.

MARKER: IDELING (sic)

This was only the beginning of the puzzles associated with this mystery written in the snow. As word of the strange markings spread and men began to look more closely at them, and to trace their path across the whitened landscape, they discovered further inexplicable details.

Whereas the tracks of cats, dogs, horses, rabbits, birds and so forth, looked much as tracks always do in the snow – some clearly defined, others smudged, some cutting the snow deeply, others merely leaving a light imprint – these mystery markings were everywhere utterly clear and distinct. One investigator-on–the-spot said: "This particular mark removed the snow wherever it appeared, clear, as if cut with a diamond, or branded with a hot iron – so closely, even, that the raising in the centre of the frog of each print could be plainly seen." Some witnesses claimed to have seen traces of toe or claw marks at the edges of the impressions.

MARKER IS LIKE LOW POWER STONE CUTTER

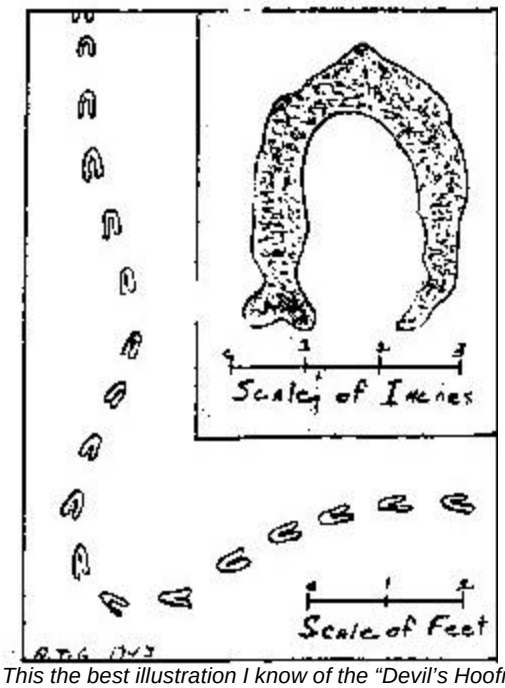
The tracks were not confined to the ground. Two men following the tracks for three and half-hours ("under gooseberry bushes and espaliered fruit trees") suddenly lost all trace of it. They cast around and eventually picked up the tracks in the last place they thought of looking for them: on the roofs of some houses!

The witnesses already quoted said that the marks could be traced "in some instances, over the roofs of houses, and hayricks, and very high walls (one fourteen feet high), without displacing the snow on either side, or altering the distance between the feet; and passing on as if the wall had not been an impediment. The gardens with high fences or walls and gates locked, were equally visited as those open and unprotected."

Another investigator said that he traced the prints across a field up to a hayrick. The surface of the rick was wholly free from the marks but on the opposite side, in a direction corresponding exactly with the track already traced, they began again. A similar occurrence was noted when a wall intervened in the path of the track.

As high walls, hayricks, and houses were no obstacle to the onward march of these tracks, so neither was a great stretch of water. The hoof marks were traced to the bank of the estuary of the river Exe, and then picked up again on the opposite bank – across two miles of salt water.

The meanderings of the track ranged from Bicton in the east to Totnes in the west, a distance of about twenty miles as the crow flies. But the actual mileage covered by the track, as measured by the distance between hamlets, villages, towns and so forth, where the marks were seen was very much more. As one Devonian who was greatly interested in the occurrence wrote: "When we consider the distance that must have been gone over to have left these marks – I may say in almost every garden, on doorsteps, through extensive woods of Luscombe, upon commons, in enclosures and farms – the actual progress must have exceeded one hundred miles."



This the best illustration I know of the "Devil's Hoofmarks."

It did not take long for these markings in the snow to become the talk of all Devon. It was not so difficult to step in those days for a village rustic, pondering the inexplicable nature of the markings and their apparent ability to go wherever they would, and remembering their shape, to wonder fearfully if perhaps the Devil himself had been abroad in the land.

This fear was mentioned in a letter from the Reverend G.M. Musgrave, a local clergyman who was keenly interested in the whole matter, and who wrote of "the state of the public mind of the villagers, the laborers, their wives and children, and old crones, and the trembling old men, dreading to stir out after sunset, or to go half a mile into lanes or byways on a call or message, under the conviction that this was the Devil's walk, and no other, and that it was wicked to trifle with such a manifest proof of the Great Enemy's presence…"

What of the explanation of these prints in the snow? First, review what has to be explained; an exceptionally clearly defined single line of equally spaced marks, which was found on the tops of houses, walls and in enclosed gardens, on both sides of an estuary two miles wide and at places twenty miles distant and which, at a conservative estimate, had a total length (allowing for doubling and meandering) of a hundred miles.

All sorts of well-known creatures were suggested as the makers of the tracks: swans, cranes, bustards, otters, rats, hare, and badgers. It is hardly necessary to add that none of these creatures provide even a plausible explanation. Birds do not leave hoof marks, nor make tracks that remove snow as clearly as if "branded with a hot iron". If a mammal is chosen as the track maker, then how are we to explain the imprints across the roofs of houses and on tops of high walls, let alone the line of single, exactly spaced imprints?

One ingenious correspondent suggested that a hopping toad was the mischief-maker! The hopping would explain the single track, and the imprint of the toad's belly and claws the mark…

There is one single argument against all explanations of the tracks being made by any common animal or bird. The tracks left by such creatures were perfectly familiar to the inhabitants of Devon and if such tracks had been anything like those made by well-known animals nobody would have thought twice about it.

Two unfamiliar species of animals were suggested as possible makers of the tracks: Two kangaroos and a raccoon, these allegedly having escaped from near-by captivity. But simple arithmetic is fatal to the hypothesis that one or even two animals could have made all the tracks. To make a line of marks eight and one-half inches apart and one hundred miles long, the two kangaroos would have had to make an average of six steps a second for some twelve hours nonstop, and the raccoon over a dozen steps.

It is at once obvious that these hoof-prints could not have been caused by an animal. The single prints, in straight line, exactly in front of each other, confute this idea without the necessity of further data or analysis. But there is further data. The tracks extended a hundred miles or more crossed an inlet of the sea without deviation or interruption, passed over and on buildings and walls. Yet, we are asked, by explainers, most of whom were nowhere near the site, to believe that this was done by a badger or a kangaroo?

In the descriptions there are two or three notations which are very significant. First, let's take the rectilinear nature of the line of tracks: no animal walks in such a manner, nor for such a distance, nor over housetops. So – something passed over the country in the air, making contact with the ground as it went. No animal walks by putting one foot directly in front of the other, so these holes in the snow were made with mechanical precision by something mechanical. Therefore let's make the broad conclusion that something, mechanical passed over Devon in the air.

Mechanical, Not Precisely but slightly.

"F" for Force

Some acute observers noted that the prints did not look like normal hoof marks, wherein the snow is packed into the bottom of the track, but that it looked as if the snow had been removed. Also, someone noticed that the tracks looked more as if they had been burned into the snow. Again, it "F" could not be an animal. So – lets's broaden our conclusion to include, not only something mechanical passing over Devonshire, but also, that it reached out in some way and made surface contact at regular intervals.

Something reached, projected or emanated from this contrivance at regular times, and because the contraption was moving with uniform velocity this instrumentality of contact made regularly spaced marks.

"On the Head!"

Now we note that this thing did not pack snow into the tracks, but perhaps removed it instead, so it was not pressure, and therefore, not a mechanical contact. On the other hand, it appears to have been hot, or warm, or at the very least to have conveyed energy convertible into heat. "F" Whatever the method or manner, it conveyed enough energy to melt or remove part of the snow, almost instantaneously. What have we left to consider? Anything besides a ray of some sort? It doesn't seem too likely.

We have advocated levitation as an explanation before; thus the levitation of a few snow crystals in trivial as compared to the kicking, squirming body of Oliver Lerch, or the 1,200-ton blocks at Baalbek.

So we have, by elimination, a mechanical device passing through the air, emitting some sort of ray of heat or energy, at regular intervals of time and distance. What sort of device, and why the rays?

Close, Someone is telepathing to his infierior (sic) receivor.

I suggest that this ray was something in the nature of radar, and that it either adjusted the distance of the machine from the ground or acted as a repulsion medium to sustain the machine in flight. The slight pressure in the prints could hardly account for the latter, so let's guess that the rays were for guidance or navigational purposes to maintain the ship at a uniform distance from the ground or prevent too close an approach to the surface.

Tests should show emanations, else the "Measurer" was only Idleing his "Marker."

or unless, Now Elec. Power is close-by there.

And from the London Times, March 14, 1840, fifteen years before the event of the "Devil's Footprints." Among the high mountains of the elevated district where Glenorchy, Glenlyon, and Glenochay are contiguous, there have been found several times, upon the snow, the tracks of an animal seemingly unknown at present, in Scotland. The prints in every respect resemble that of a foal of considerable size, although perhaps the sole seems a little stronger and not so round. No one has obtained a glimpse of this creature, only, it is remarked that, from the depth to which the feet sank in the snow, it must be a beast of considerable size. It has been observed also that its walk is not like that of the generality of quadrupeds, but more like the bounding or leaping of a horse when scared or pursued. It is not only in one locality that the tracks have been met with, but through a range of at least twelve miles.

Here, once again, is the element of localization which we can associate with intelligence.

"Cup Marks" are strings of cuplike impressions in rocks. Sometimes there are rings around them and sometimes they have only semicircles. They have been found in America, Great Britain, France, Algeria, Palestine, almost everywhere except the far north. In China, cliffs are dotted with them, and in Italy, Spain, and India they occur in enormous numbers.

There are twenty-four cups, varying from one and a half to three inches in diameter, arranged approximately in straight lines, on the Witches' Stone near Ratho, Scotland. It is explained locally that these are tracks of a dog's feet (in stone?). In Inverness-shire the marks are called "Fairies' Footmarks." In Norway and other places they are said to be horses' hoof prints. The rocks of Clare, in Ireland, have prints supposed to have been left by a mythical cow.

Picture coming to Strange unexplored, never seen planet, Not knew Photography or cartography SO Must Mark it, indelibly, No?

On U.S. 40, between Dayton, Ohio, and Richmond, Indiana, there is a popular roadside stop where tourists pull over to look at the footprints in a large stone by the side of the road.

Now, in Devonshire, our space-navigating device seemed to be cruising around, probably slowly and silently, using a weak ray, maybe a sort of beamed radar, to maintain its elevation above the ground. But, where the cup marks appear in stone we get the impression that a more powerful ray was used, capable of disintegrating, or fusing, rocks; and that the flying gimmick was hovering over a small area. This hovering would account for the cupmarks appearing in clusters within which there were rows of cup marks in straight lines, since the hovering machine would be certain to drift back and forth, due to air currents and other disturbances while using its powerful ray to maintain position over a certain area or object.

GRAV. FIELD NOT STEADY, CAUSES WOBBLES

I am reminded, here, of the pigs somewhere in the French-Canadian wilderness which were killed by circular burned spots of totally unexplained origin.

Some hints might be gained by studying all of the places where cup marks are found, and determining whether these locales have any prominent features in common, such as might attract a space flyer, either for a particular interest, or merely for anchoring. For levitating stone, perhaps.

One must have SOME permanent way of finding ones way to lifes necessitys & pleasures.

So, we premise that the cupmarks, like the Devil's footprints, the prints of Glenorchy, and those in the Chinese Palace-compound, and who knows, perhaps those of the legendary "abominable snow man" of the Himalayas, were all made by somewhat similar types of rays from space navigating contrivances.

SNOW MAN CAPTURED, OCT. 1954

It would appear that any resemblance to Morse Codes, or codes in general, or any other form of communication is purely coincidental, and is merely personal interpretation of the obviously mechanical nature of the distribution of the marks, be they cups in stone or depressions in snow. It is the establishment of the mechanical nature of these manifestations and their consequent subordination to intelligent control, which is our first concern. The whys and wherefores must be secondary issues.

Have you heard of the vitrified forts of Scotland, Ireland, Brittany and Bohemia? There are a number of very ancient forts, many on hilltops, which are scattered through those areas. They are unique, because a part of the stone work is vitrified. It isn't clear as to just what enemies caused the building of the forts—whether they were built by invaders or defenders, or already in place prior to an invasion. These forts seem almost to surround England, and since some are in Brittany and Bohemia, one wonders if England at that time was connected with the mainland of Europe.

From the below he may have surmised that there Were two types of people, at War with one another. Can't say for sure.

TRUE.

Archaeologists postulate that these incredibly ancient people built vast fires to vitrify the stone forts and cement them together by melting them externally. Even where there was not a good supply of wood to burn; but then, that was a long time ago and there might, then, have been wood, coal, oil, or something. But a Miss Russel, in the Journal of the B.A.A., has pointed out that single stones, much less long walls, are not vitrified when large houses are burned to the ground, or where the stones are otherwise cooked by so-called natural means.

Force Cutter, full blast.

But the singular fact of these vitrified forts is that the stones are vitrified in streaks, as if special blasts had struck or played upon them

Bdra! He's hit it, on the nose!

Lightning? At any rate, once (or more) upon a time something melted, in streaks, the stones of forts on the hills of Scotland, Ireland, Brittany and Bohemia. Whoever, or whatever did it, they, or it, had some handy way of getting around. Lightning has a way of hitting things prominently displayed on hilltops. But some of the vitrified forts are inconspicuously located and yet didn't escape; their walls, too, are vitrified in streaks. But, on hills and mountains all over the rest of the world are remains of forts which have not been vitrified. I have in mind Sacsahuaman, on top of the Andes at Cuzco.

ANCIENTS WARS. TOO WERE THE CAUSE, BY "F" CUTTER

In this instance of forts partially vitrified, in streaks, we have one of the most outstanding examples of selection and segregation –attributed to intelligence. Not only do we have forts of a certain circumscribed area picked out for attention, but we have such a high degree of concentration and direction that only streaks in certain forts are vitrified.

Disappearing Planes

We shall not devote too much time to disappearing planes as it is a modern phenomenon, by definition, and we are building our Case for the UFOs from a wealth of historical information. However, inasmuch as these disappearances relate, directly, to our thesis of intelligence in space, space contrivances which kidnap human beings, either for study, food, or experiments of a nature beyond our ability to grasp, they bear mention.

FOR PROGENATION.

I should like to suggest, first, that a continuous flow of conversation, via a special frequency, be recorded automatically from all large craft in the air. There could be a series of Air Force and Civil Aeronautics Administrations base stations which could record this conversation. It becomes increasingly unthinkable that so many aircraft are falling from the air without time for a single crewmember to shout something, however brief, into the microphone so that we shall know what is happening to them. If we could establish this system of running conversation we might get some clues as to the destroyers of these ships and the captors of their crews and passengers.

Also, I believe in all fairness that we must admit the ease with which one can overemphasize mysterious disappearances of planes over water. Whereas I, personally, will not accept, categorically, mechanical failure which makes it impossible for the crew to report, and which means the ship is lost forever, its last moments with it, I will admit we cannot afford to draw too many conclusions from these incidents.

But, contrast the sea disappearances with the C-46 with thirty-two marines aboard. The wreckage was found – but never any bodies!

GOD HELPTHE L-Ms, THE MARINES HAVE LANDED

Also, at half past ten o'clock on the morning of March 7, 1922, Flying Officer B. Holding set out from an aerodrome near Chester, England, on what was intended to be a short flight in Wales, turning back and heading in the direction of Chester. He was never seen again. Holding disappeared far from the sea, and he disappeared over a densely populated land of highly civilized people!

The unexplained and unannounced crashes of planes over land are numbered in dozens, but these are crashes – not disappearances. Nevertheless there is a strong element of mystery in many of them. It is the rule, and not the exception that the major catastrophes come without warning. Whatever causes the crash seems to cut off communication simultaneously, for seldom is there any warning from the radio: only routine reports, and then – silence, until the wreckage is found with no survivors, and in at least one case, no bodies!

We cannot, with reasonable certainty, say that aircraft are attacked wantonly, promiscuously, or indiscriminately by a malicious enemy, for if that was true, the attacks would almost certainly be more universal, and we believe, more selective. Yet, it is most difficult to overlook the possibility that some sort of intelligence, coupled with the necessary forces, has destroyed some of our aircraft while simultaneously muting the occupants thereof.

It is one thing for a solitary plane to vanish, from above the sea, without trace, and without signals being heard. It is quite another thing for five military planes, flying as a group, all with full crew and radio, to pass silently and irrevocably from human ken.

There were fourteen men aboard those bombers. As the hours passed, anxious buddies back at the base and in other aircraft out on patrol listened hopefully on the radio channels. But no word came to tell of the whereabouts of the missing flyers.

The last routine message, received at 5:25 that gusty afternoon, had given the position of the flight as seventy-five miles northeast of Banana River (Florida) Naval Station, or about two hundred miles northeast of Miami.

The hands of the clock crawled around to the point where the bombers' fuel supply would be exhausted. Still no word. The Navy swung into action. Search planes and ships were ordered out to cover the entire area from Key West northward to Jacksonville and two hundred and fifty miles out to sea.

For the benefit of the public the Navy pointed out tersely that the Avenger bomber was noted for its buoyancy. In similar emergencies such planes had always remained afloat long enough for the crews to launch the life rafts, often "without getting their feet wet."

One of the first rescue craft to roar off the water in search of the missing fliers was a Navy PBM, a huge Martin Mariner bomber with a crew of thirteen that had been trained for just such work.

This plane, too, disappeared without trace!

Interest in the disappearances now reached the stage where it dominated discussion in the streets. How could five bombers, each with its own crew and radio facilities, disappear from the face of the earth without even flashing a single message of explanation? It was hardly logical to assume that the planes had collided in mid-air, killing all the crewmembers simultaneously.

And, even were such a weird explanation acceptable, how about the PBM?

In July 1952, a strange silvery object was seen high in the sky over San Anselmo, California, and five minutes later there was an unexplained crash of a quite airworthy plane, five miles away, and the Navy has been unable to account for it.

In March 1952, a case-hardened British fighter pilot, Wing Commander J. Baldwin, was flying a jet plane for meteorological and reconnaissance purposes over Korea. He flew into a cloud – and didn't come out again. The mystery was never solved. (About this time, a U.S. Carrier in Korean waters had sighted a strange object in the skies.)

On June 9, 1952, British Air Vice-Marshal Aitcherly set out in an amply fueled meteor jet from Suez to Cyprus, three hundred miles away. A radio signal was received from him three minutes arter take-off. Nothing more has been seen or heard of him. "Without a trace."

February 2, 1953: A York transport aircraft, with thirty-three passengers and crew of six, vanished over the Atlantic, on a trooping flight to Jamaica. No explanation. "Cause unascertainable." (And this, again, in the eerie region of the Gulf and the Caribbean.)

The lists of disasters to jet planes is long. The list of explanations is short. Pilots surviving crashes of whole squadrons have been silenced. When four British jets, all without collision, crash-landed at the same time in foggy flying weather, it was "explained" that all four ran out of fuel at one time.

NOT SO, THEY WERE "PUSHED" DOWN.

Your own reading for the past ten years will tell you of a number of unexplained disappearances and accidents to planes. The Constellation over Brazil. The DC-3 in Lake Michigan, apparently torn a part and its blankets, etc., shredded mysteriously.

On August 2, 1947, the British South American Airways plane, Lancastrian Star Dust, mysteriously vanished on a flight over the Andes. It would not have been so surprising if the craft had disappeared in the high peaks of the Andes, but – she was due to land at the airport at Santiago, Chile, at 5:45 PM, she sent out a signal stating her time of arrival. That is just four minutes from the airport, almost within sight of the control tower. At the end of the message came a word "Stendec," loud and clear and given out very fast. The Chilean Air Force operator, at Santiago, queried the word which he did not understand. He heard it twice repeated by the plane. No explanation of the word has ever been found. Nothing further was heard from the plane although calls were sent out. The plane never arrived, and from that day to this the mystery has never been solved. Searchers were made by ski troops and planes and by skilled mountaineers and automobiles over an area of 250 square miles, in vain. That plane carried a crew of five men and there were six passengers. The pilot, Captain R. J. Cook, had crossed the Andes eight times as second pilot. Four minutes from the landing strip – what happened?

Fifteen minutes out, with no trouble to report, and anticipating an eventless landing, this giant craft disappeared – without a trace of a record, no outcry from its radio.

MEN "FROZEN – HELPLESS" are good Prey.

I submit that these disappearances are in greater number than those of the past – disappearances of people, etc. – because our air age is proving of great interest to our space neighbors. Also, we are infinitely more aware of such disappearances. (The same reasoning, of course, applies to the increase of UFO's sighted since the advent of the air age and use of radar.)

I suggest, further, that these disappearances are but more kidnappings, by the space contrivances. Are there any other explanations which satisfy all the questions?

We close the strange accounts of disappearing planes with an account, published in Coronet, March, 1951, which is as startling as any yet encountered.

On a calm, but overcast Sunday in August, 1942, two experienced Naval Officers, Lieutenant Cody, and Ensign Adams, in fine spirits took off on an antisubmarine patrol in the U.S. Navy blimp, L-8, from a small base on Treasure Island, California. Adams, after fifteen years' service, had just been made Ensign, and this was his first flight as a commissioned officer; so the flight was a bit more than merely routine, as they flew low to look for submarines.

Not far from San Francisco they saw an oil slick, which might denote a submarine. The blimp circled and came over it. There were several patrol craft and many fishermen about, and everyone was interested in whether a depth charge would be dropped.

To the surprise of everyone the airship neither circled nor bombed. Instead, she shot upwards and disappeared into the clouds. The ship was not seen again by the watchers in the patrol and fishing boats – and her happy crew was not heard of again, by anybody.

The L-8 rose to 2,500 feet and drifted for two and one-half hours, and then came down on a California beach, almost striking two fishermen, who grabbed her towing lines and tried to hold her. They looked inside the gondola and found it empty. The craft tore out of their hands and drifted against a cliff, until one of her depth charges loosened and dropped, after which she soared over the cliff and later made a perfect landing in a street of Daly City, a suburb of San Francisco. Inspecting officers found everything in the gondola in perfect order, except – Cody and Adams were missing.

The last word from Lieutenant Cody, commanding, was at 7:50 AM when he radioed, "Am investigating oil slick." There should have been a follow-up report and, at 8:00 AM, a routine position report. There was nothing.

Nothing has ever been found out about the disappearance of these men. They must have left the blimp at the instant when it shop into the clouds, for there is no other suspected cause for it to rise, and the loss of their weight would certainly cause it to do so. Many patrols and fishermen were watching the maneuvers of the aircraft over the suspected area; everyone was standing by, to avoid a possible depth charge; dozens of eyes were on the blimp. Nobody say Cody and Adams jump, fall, or otherwise leave the gondola – no sign of trouble or struggle. The craft merely shop upward into the overcast. Cody and Adams just disappeared – for keeps, with at least a dozen or two interested observers watching every move of their airship. Why? And where to?

Fireballs and Lights

Followers of flying saucers are well acquainted with the "Foo Fighters" reported so extensively during World War II. Because they are modern, and because their presence is so undeniably established and their activities so well catalogued, we shall do nothing with them other than this brief mention in the general category of lights and fireballs.

The "Foo Fighters" seem, however, to be of a slightly different genre from the usual UFO lights. "Foos" are usually reddish or yellowish, soft and diffuse, unattached to any tangible object and extremely mobile. UFO's, on the other hand, have hard, bluish-white lights and are brilliant, functional, and flickering.

Hard. Bluish, White Lighted are Scouts, Solid.

SCOUTS, CURIOUS ABOUT THE LAST WAR, ABLE TO DETECT ELECTRONIC-MAGNETIC FIELDS IN EQUIPMENT AND SO KEPT THEMSELVES AT A STAGE OF MOLECULAR DISSOLUTION IE. STASIS, THAT THEY COULD OBSERVE YET NTO GET HURT BY WHATEVER WEAPONS "WE" HAD, KNOWINGLY OR UNKNOWINGLY. Some of our Electrom's Equipment could have had an odd effect upon functionality of L-M observer Scout ships & caused some consternation to the L-M's, A PEACE-FUL NAIVELY CURIOUS BUNCH OF INADVERTANT HAVOC WREAKERS, AS YOULL EVER SEE, Jemi.

With that distinction in mind, let us suppose that the "Foos" either have intelligence or are remotely directed by intelligence. It is only another short step to say that they are intelligence. That they are a manifestation of some intelligent activity seems the most logical compromise.

The references throughout history to strange lights in the sky, and burning objects fleeing through the air, are common knowledge. There are myriad cases where lights, balls of fire, luminous points and areas, and ball lightning which do not seem to be attached to or emanate from any solid object, have been observed. Two recent sightings will serve to establish our basis of judgement.

QUITE SO!

The following letter, to the editor of Fate, March 1951 bears careful scrutiny. I ask that you recall the rays we suggested in "Marks and Footprints."

"My husband and I live alone in a little hidden hollow in Nye County, Nevada, known as the Old Burns Ranch. It is almost completely surrounded by bleak gray hills, and is located a crooked mile back from the paved highway that runs to the little town of Beatty, eight miles distant.

"The nearest human habitation is a cattle ranch a mile away by coyote trail over the hills.

"It was 1:45 AM on a night in January, 1949, just after what is known as The Big Snow. A frozen white pall lay draped over hill and desert. I had wakened from sound slumber a half-hour earlier. More sleep eluded me and I was standing at my window drinking in the beauty of the dimly moonlit landscape. Not a creature was stirring, nor a breath of wind.

IF THIS HAPPENS, COVER YOURSELF WITH EARTH, Jemi.

"Gradually, my eyes focused upon a pale gray stain, irregularly shaped and no bigger than by two hands. It rested on the smooth crust near a corner of the grape arbor about three rods from the house and in line with the window. Almost at once this fuzzy-gray shadow that was not a shadow bloomed into a disc of clear white light approximately three feet in diameter. It lay there for fully two minutes. Then suddenly contracting into a brilliant orange-tinted stream five or six inches wide, flowed swiftly over the snow toward my window and, to all appearances, exploded soundlessly against the stone foundation of the intervening front porch.

"Several tongues of scintillating red and blue flame spurted a few inches above the two-and-a half foot high wainscoting of the porch. That was all.

"When daylight came, we searched conscientiously but found no signs, marks, or tracks of any kind that might help to explain this phenomenon."

We have another interesting account of a recent visit by a fireball which warrants attention. It was reported by Gordon W. Hackbarth of Seattle, Washington, and tells of an electronics mechanic at the Puget Sound Navy Yard, Robert Burch, and his experience on Tuesday, November 6, 1951.

Returning from his evening meal, Burch stopped at the desk of the Bremerton YMCA, picked up his key, then rode the elevator to the top floor. Inside his room, he noticed that it was 7:30 PM He switched on his radio, then turned to the dresser.

Suddenly, something made him look up. The mirror reflected a ball of orange-red fire coming toward him through the open window. There was a blinding flash and a loud report. The ceiling light went out and Burch was knocked to the floor. In a daze he reached for the foot of his metal bed to haul himself upright. A searing pain shot up his arm. Later it was diagnosed that he had received second-degree burns.

DON'T KNOW IF BULB IMPLODED

(LATER) HYPER-ACTIVATION BY F-F ON MOLECULES COULD HAVE CAUSED BURNS OR PURE-ENERGY IMPLOSION "BOUNCES" BACK, EFFECTS SECONDARY EXPLOSION, THUS BURNS & ETC.

In the corner of his room the contents of a wastebasket blazed furiously. Beneath the window a piece of fireproof Samsonite luggage was charred and smoking. The cabinets of two radios were burned. The sill of the window through which the fireball had entered was black and too hot to touch.

YES, ALL THE ABOVE ARE SCEINTIFICALLY EXPLAINABLE THEY ARE REACTIONS OF FORCE & ENERGY, WILD & TAME.

Burch's roommate, Alex Myers, rushed in from the shower room three doors away. He had heard the loud report. A moment later, a city policeman entered. The officer, in the process of writing a traffic violation ticket three blocks away, had looked up, seen the orange-red ball flash across the sky in an arc from a southerly direction and enter the window.

In the Bremerton Naval Hospital the next day the bewildered Burch, his arm swathed in bandages, still suffered from shock.

The terrifying thing about Fireballs is that When Human & Fireball face each other, the one recognizes a Panicked intelligence in the other AND is thus terrified in reciprocal emotions. A Fireball is either L-M or S-M WHO, LIKE THAT process that Burned the Ancient ARKS HAS TOO HAD A MALFUNCTION

ACCIDENT. OR CAUSED.

OF ONE OR ALL OF HIS "INDUCED" FIELDS & thus burns.

"Crawling fireballs" are still another form of oddities which lend substance to our theory of intelligence in space. Most of these awesome incidents occurred in France. In Marseilles, during October 1898, an adolescent girl was seated at a table when suddenly a spherical shape of fire darted into the room, paused in the corner farthest from her and gradually moved toward her along the floor. Terror stricken, she drew back against the wall. Then, abruptly, it changed its course, circled her several times and shot toward the ceiling. It flung itself at a paper-covered stovepipe hole and burned a ring in it on its way up the chimney. Minutes later a loud crash shattered the chimney top.

A similar occurrence was reported in Paris on July 5, 1852, in the shop of a tailor on the Rue Saint Jacques, near Val De Grace. This time the fireball crawled over the windowsill into the room and came at the man in a floor-skimming action. Horrified, he retreated as the globe of blazing light climbed to the height of his face. It was too much for him. The tailor collapsed. A little later he revived to hear a tremendous explosion atop the shop which scattered bits of chimney brick over surrounding rooftops. Proof that the fireball had fled up the chimney again appeared in the form of a burnt paper cover over the stovepipe hole.

In one series of volumes published around 1898 by The Association Francaise, M. Wander, a scientist, wrote: "A violent thunderstorm has descended upon the Commune of Beugnon. I happened to be passing through a farm in which two children of about twelve and thirteen were playing. I saw these children take refuge from the rain under the roof of a stable, in which were twenty-five oxen. In the courtyard grew a poplar. Suddenly there appeared a globe of fire, the size of an apple, near the top of the poplar. We saw it descend branch by branch, and then down the trunk. It moved along the courtyard very slowly, picking its way, and came through to the door where the two children stood. One of them touched it. Immediately a terrible crash shook the entire farm to its foundation. The children were thrown back, uninjured but eleven of the oxen were felled dead."

In the town of Gray, on July 7, 1886, a luminous ball from thirty to forty centimeters in diameter jumped to the roof of a home and ripped off the corner. In this case, unlike so many others, the fireball didn't disintegrate after a single act of destruction. It rebounded to the home's outside stairs, crushing the slates. Still it retained its shape, crawled into the midst of a group of passers-by who had stopped to watch the queer sight. These persons, in a body, took off down the road. The perverse object seemed to pursue them momentarily: then it vanished without a sound.

Must have hit a Vortice, or been saved somehow.

M. Lawrence Roth, Director of the Blue Hill Observatory, in 1903, was visiting Paris on September 4, of that year. At 10:00:PM, he happened to be looking toward the Eiffel Tower from the Rond-Point of the Champs Elysees. The tower was suddenly struck by white lightning. Simultaneously he spied a flaming sphere edging downward to the second platform. Roth claimed the ball was about a yard in diameter, and that it covered some one hundred yards in a matter of seconds and then vanished completely.

It is very interesting to note that these reports are from the general area where a great deal of UFO activity was reported in late 1954. Localization? Selectivity?

Yes, no doubt.

Additional substantiation of the localization-selectivity factor comes from reports from Hammersly Fork. Remember the strange disappearance in that area.

A fireball at Hammersly Fork floated down through the roof and exploded in a cabin, blowing out windows and doors, at midday on December 9, 1951. Another one came down fifty yards east of the post office there and vanished just before reaching the ground on January 9, 1952. A week later, another one came down just at dusk, at Cross Fork, eight miles from Hammersly Fork and vanished just before touching the ground. On January 23, again at dusk, a fireball floated down in the woods about two hundred feet from the car of Mr. Doyle Schoonover, and vanished just before reaching the ground. Another fireball went through two inches of boards on a building, on February 1, and within seconds the whole roof was ablaze.

Mr. John P. Bessor, a very careful and reliable investigator, made a special trip of inspection to the vicinity of Brown Mountain, near Mogantown, North Carolina, and personally saw the mysterious lights reported there. He avers that they cannot be due to locomotives, cars, houselights, or whatever else the Geological Survey would like them to be. He was not able to coordinate the lights with any mineral deposits, or human activity. Nevertheless the lights were observed by him over a period of several days and nights. They appeared to move at will, to have volition.

No Will of Wisp Gases in that area at all.

While the innumerable reports on strange lights may be only indirectly related to space travel, it does seem obvious that some of the same forces and physical characteristics are common to both types of phenomena, and a study of one may supply insight into others. For instance, we note the common traits of maneuverability, transparency, color, and evidence of intelligent manipulation, not to mention the ability to appear and disappear at will, as did the saucers over Washington in 1952.

There is a report on a puzzling light seen in Hampshire on the night of September 14, 1908 – a light as if from an unseen moon. Strangely enough, that same night, David Packer, in Worcestershire, saw an illumination which he thought was auroral, and proceeded to photograph it. What he saw was a broad, diffuse series of cloudlike illuminations. His photograph in English Mechanic showed a large luminous disc of sphere over the auroral illuminations. This does not in any way indicate a flaw in the film or lights leaking into the camera. The only possible explanation in that case is based on the conventional knowledge that this thing, invisible to the eye, was luminous in that part of the spectrum to which the plate was sensitive, probably ultraviolet, as infra-red plates were not then available.

In Cambrian Natural Observer, 1905-32, are several accounts of lights, in the skies of Wales, which are exactly like many of those reported in the United States since 1947. Lights like "a long cluster of stars, obscured by a thin film of mist," were reported. Later this thing is said to have taken on the shape and appearance of a vertically suspended iron bar heated to an orange-colored glow; but the initial description is that of lights in formation.

SHIP STANDING VERTICALLY IS SIGNALLING "HELP" TO ALL IN VICINITY

I submit that all strange lights reported, throughout history and today, are either from UFO's themselves, or reflections of them. They may be UFO's.

I think we can agree, further, that fireballs may be the only available indication that UFO's have weapons – and that fireballs are their weapons. I base this upon the singular fact that the only reports of destruction or injury come from these fireballs. This is not to inscribe malicious intent to UFO's for accidental shooting of a hunter does not condemn the sorrowed friend who fired the shop, much less the distant manufacturer. That fireballs are released at all is, again, probably sheer experimentation on the part of the UFO's.

(NOT, SO) THE "BURNINGS" MUST BE EJECTED or the ship will catch fire in control pit.

As an example of destruction, we shall close with this brief case.

An intelligent boy was trudging along the highway at night near Palestine, Texas. A woman was riding in the same direction, on a horse. The boy reappeared in Palestine that night, out of breath and very pale. He said he saw a ball of fire come out of the sky and strike the woman and set her ablaze. The horse ran one way and he ran back to town to tell what had happened. The people went to look for further particulars of this curious accident. They found the woman lying on the ground with all her clothing burned, but with enough life in her to tell that she had been struck in the breast by a ball of fire. The horse was found with his mane singed. The woman died the next day.

Such fireballs could also be the new method of Execution of Outlaws or Method of Disposal for Olden Peopole. These theorys could each and every one be Possible. I do know that The Arks were burned, That Scouts can also burn in this fashion. I dread these Fireballs & I believe the U.S. NAVY May also have formed some out of Human Material, 1943-44.

I do Not fear the L-Ms or their enemies themselves but I dread in a Terror filled Hellish Dreadfulness the Least intimation of the appearance of a Fireball that is Not inanimate & thus clearly mere "Burnings" of & from a "coat" upon interior parts of a ship. All electricity gathers a "coat" & this must be disposed of else functionality of ship & fields is impaired. This I understand, but Not a burning personality in TERROR. IT VERGES TOO MUCH UPON THE INHUMAN, THE HORRIBLE.

Legends

In all these discussions, one thing seems to be outstanding as a common denominator. All of the aerial or spatial contrivances and gadgets which we have postulated appear to have one feature in common: they have their natural habitat in space, or at very least in the atmosphere. There is no sure record of an appearance on the ground, and few indications. Appearances from, or disappearances into, the sea indicate only an ability to make use of the fluid medium of seawater, when necessary or desirable. This leads to an assumption that UFO's live naturally and easily in space; that they do not necessarily come from other stellar systems, or even from other planets.

No. Not Easily
The "Little-Men" are known to have GILLS
Just as all Men before birth, have gills, too.

After considering that the space structures or UFO's spend most of their time in line between earth and the sun, it has been suggested that some of the ancient Sun worship may have originated in the condition that some god-like beings may have come from UFO's which were said to be "in the Sun," because of this alignment of the neutral, and that perhaps the "death boats" for celestial flight which were buried with the Egyptian kings may have been symbolic of the UFO flight XXXXXX . Perhaps some of these traditions were fragmentary memories from the first wave of civilization. In fact there are several very ancient traditions which can be at least partially accounted for by our common denominator of life in and from space.

For emphasis, and for the establishment of present principles, we repeat that it is relatively unimportant whether we decide that civilization was brought to us from space, perhaps from the exploded planet between Mars and Jupiter, or whether it reached space from terrestrial development in a previous upsurge of civilization. Such relics as the Great Pyramid indicate the advancement of that age, and it is perhaps a little less strain on our sensibilities to assume that space life, especially if limited to the earth-moon system, originated on earth. Our two greatest mental hazards at the moment are to overcome the blows to our racial ego, and to free ourselves from the idea that UFO's and space life now reaching our cognizance necessarily come from a planet. Their presence in near-by space regions is improbability of lesser order and has little about it which is difficult of acceptance. (Red is A and B)

There is much to make us believe that this extraordinary thing which we call civilization today is nothing but flickering flamelets rekindled from almost extinct embers of civilization, the antiquity of which is undreamed of by modern archaeologists.

The Man is Right, So What.

The Hawaiians claim to have known about flying saucers for 1,000 years, and even to have a name for them: Akualele, or flying spirits. They describe these flying spirits as appearing in many shapes and colors just as they are sighted today…the balls of fire. cones and saucer-shaped discs.

From this it is an easy jump to an obscure, but reliably documented case from England, A.D. 1290. It is one of the best reports on things in space that we call UFO's.

A Mr. A.X. Chumley, a British scholar, recently found a Latin document at Byland Abbey, in Yorkshire, describing a strange aerial object that terrified the monks in A.D. 1290. The document refers to a "Round, flat, silver object called a discus which flew over the monastery exciting maximum terrorem among the brethren."

The farther back in time, the less note is taken of plain, bare facts, thus antiquity of obfuscates, realty.

It is the purpose of this chapter to lead you still farther back in time – to the threshold of human intelligence, in a wave of civilization covering the world before the flood. If we discover that no matter how far we push the periphery of our quest, we still find a ready-made civilization – we have to admit human intellectual antiquity of (to us) fantastic and unbelievable vastness. Could this mean that civilization was planted here, within the species of animal selected by some superintelligence as most fit to develop culture? Could these superfolk be space dwellers? Could they be tending us as sheep are tended? Are we actually owned? Could the UFO's be their abode? Or perhaps their supervisors, shepherds? Could it be that the saucers, in their whimsical variety, are the space dwellers – the intelligences?

In 1809 a Mr. Stavely, in London, saw many bright specks of light moving around the edge of a black cloud. The lights played around for an hour, and one of them became as large and bright as Venus, moving with great speed around the cloud; later it became stationary, lost its brilliance and finally disappeared. There was no lightning, and the altitude of the lights seemed variable.

On June 19, 1801, a great body, moonlike but larger with a dark mark across it, appeared over Hull, England, at about midnight. It devolved into five bodies, all brilliant, which faded away, leaving a very bright sphere. A bluish light was around it all the while, but when it disappeared the sky was left calm and clear. On July 14, in the early evening, something that looked like an ordinary cloud, several miles long, seemed to take fire, burning with a bluish flame, lasting fifteen minutes, and twice repeated for shorter intervals.

On June 3, 1732 a storm of lights appeared in the sky having all the earmarks of an intense meteor shower.

Throughout the 19th century there are many reports of explosions, cannonading, and crashes in the sky. Holby, Kepler, and other scientists acknowledge the veracity of these reports but never offer real solutions.

To this added the following comment from the translator:

As you can see from (the translation) the "flying saucers" made their first appearance in the 22nd year of the reign of Thutmose III, about 3,500 years ago. The first lacuna of the papyrus in the end of another marvel. I think that this papyrus was part of a book preserved in the mysterious institution called House of Life (of which Sir Alan Gardner has written), that I am actually deeply investigating. In it, magic rites were performed and a special group of scribes was trained.

Two things have to be noticed: it left after a foul odor and it was not making any noise. It measures one rod, i.e. 100 cubit. As a cubit is about 20.6 inches we might judge the fire circle was large and long, about fifty meters. During their second appearance they were very numerous and shining, and fishes and volatiles fell down from the sky. And their movements through the sky, from north to south, was regular, and, more than that, powerful! Therefore the king thought that the best thing to do was to pacify the hearth of Ammon Ra, Lord of the Thrones of the Two Lands (Egypt).

This record is a part of the archives of a responsible government. The event was unusual enough to warrant inscribing in the archives, and to have the past records searched for precedent. The descriptions are concise, although the vacant places are annoying in their omissions. De Rachewiltz's comments, supplementing his translation, indicate an interpretation similar to that which we, ourselves, might make.

However we find it difficult to resist pointing out some of the elements of this event, which are so typical of the reports in current sightings. Silence of operation for one thing. Foul odor. In size, this UFO was said to be about one hundred cubits, which is about 172 feet long. The fact that two equal dimensions were given indicating (perhaps) equal length and breadth implies disc shape. In any case it was described as a fire circle, indicating its shape, and that flames were associated with it as has so often been the case. The exact nature of the flames is of course unknown to us; they may have been electrical discharges which would have been strange to the Egyptians of 1500 BC and would have been recorded as ordinary flames. As in our modern sightings, there was sometimes one object and sometimes a group or flock. They were shining, and by this it seems we can infer that they were luminous.

LAMINATED METAL, COVERED BY SHEET-DIAMOND?

One other thing is obvious from this Egyptian record; that mechanical flight, if it had been previously known to the Egyptians, or to their progenitors, was Already a completely lost science in 1500 BC. It is in line with our thinking that the Egyptians were merely another one of the trickles through the dyke of time from the previous great wave of civilization.

The records of Tibet, however, seem to be more complete than those of Egypt, and more ancient. Perhaps it is because the mountain fastnesses of Tibet and Northern India have not been subjected to the burnings and other destructive activities of Western civilization which annihilated the libraries of the Egyptians and the Mayas.

TRUE

If one may judge from his writings, Colonel James Churchward, in a lifetime of study, Learned something of the lore which is stored in the Tibetan monasteries, and supplemented this with studies throughout the world.

Churchward says that he came upon many records ranging back to at least 200,000 years. One of his most fascinating finds relates to mechanical flight, brought to India by the first settlers, and its antiquity may be anything from 15,000 to 200,000 years, with the longer term the more likely. It is Churchward's deduction that India was settled by Nagas from Burma, who, in their turn, were descendents of the original Mayas of the "motherland," common ancestors of the Naga and the Central American Maya. This settlement must have taken place about 70,000 years ago, and it seems most probable that mechanical flight came form the "Motherland."

Not know Churchward. If then he has seen so ancient writs, then he KNEW Why we do Not War. Nor ever Worry & Why each of us knows or Day of Death AND THAT WE ONCE RULERS THEN WERE SLAVES.

Here, by mechanical flight, we most certainly mean something different either our lighter than air or heavier than air flight mechanisms of today. That the flight of those millennia employed a type of power unknown today, "seems almost certain." Whatever the source of that power was it did not involve power plants as we know them today, and apparently did not result in a truly mechanical or industrialized civilization such as we have. That this power source worked on some principle of levitation or gravity nullification seems logical. It may be, too, that such a force or power does not lend itself to industry.

IT DOES. FROM LIFE-BOAT POWER IS XXXXX BUILT "SCOUT & SO, ON UP TO Great Arks

An Hindu Manuscript of ancient origin says: "When morning dawned, Rama, taking the celestial car which Pushpaka had sent him be Vivishand, stood ready to depart; self moving was this car; it was large and finely "painted." It had two stories, and many chambers with windows, and was draped with flags and banners. It gave forth a melodious sound as it coursed along its airy way."

This was written millennia ago – and this translation was made before the modern age of mechanical flight. If the translation had been made by a person with the technical training available in 1955, it would read like this:

When dawn came, Rama took the flying machine with Pushpaka had sent to him by Vivishand, and stood by to take off. This machine was self-propelled, large and finely-finished. It was a two-decker, with many compartments having windows, and was draped with flags and pennants. As the machine flew it made a humming or droning sound.

NO; Had TWO EQUALLY SHAPED HALVES; LOOKED UP AT FROM GROUND IT SEEMED ---- TO BE OF TWO PARTS as hereon.

There is another Hindu manuscript dated 500 BC, which has been translated as follows:

Rawan (Ravan?), King of Ceylon, flew over the enemy's army and dropped bombs, causing many casualties. Eventually Rawan was captured and slain, and his flying machine fell into the hands of the Hindu Chieftain, Ram Chandra (Rama), who flew it all the way back to his Capital in northern India.

No, Not bombs: Rocks or "Frozen" air, or 'Coat" Burnings.

Both of these manuscripts seem to have been taken from the same temple records at Ayhodia and refer to a time at least 20,000 years ago.

Astronomy Speaks

The Incredible Decade

From 1877 to 1887, the decade of the Great Comets, we had a greater and more representative concentration of phenomena related to UFO activity than during any other similar period prior to 1947. Astronomy's part has been an important one; the pertinent observations of astronomers extend through the centuries; and to such an extent that we cannot consider all of them in one short volume. However, if we consider the decade of the Great Comets, as a typical slice of UFO History, we shall err but little and that little quantitative rather than qualitative. The events of the comet years were numerous and concentrated, but not typical.

Astronomers missed the best cue of their collective lives during those years, for they were the culmination of generations of observations which, if accepted at face value and interpreted with psychic insight, would have authenticated UFO deduction. The comet years would have supplied visible confirmation to anyone with the perspicacity to look for it.

It is difficult to select any single event as having initiated this period. In fact there is no real discontinuity; merely an unusual surge of erratics. Either of two obscure occurrences might serve as curtain raisers, but there were straws in the wind before 1877. Dr. Kirkwood of Indiana University had commented on the unusual, and increasingly large, number of fireballs reported, and there had been a modest but steady increase in the number of comets discovered per year.

Neither of the two minor events within our solar system was great enough to attract much public attention at a time when astronomy was moving out of the visual stage into its golden era of spectroscopic and photographic adventure.

The true magnitude of the universe of stars and nebulae was only beginning to dawn on the human intellect, and studies of the solar system beginning to be passé, because objects only a few score millions of miles distant were too near home to concern the exploring mind. Yet visual observation rolled up a record in the later years of the 19th century which may turn out to be Astronomy's magnum opus for the race of mankind.

The first of the two little events took place in an obscure corner of the Mare Serenitatis, which is one of the Seas, or dark areas, which make up the Man in the Moon. Near the modest sized but well-known lunar crater called Hyginus by the selenographers, there appeared sometime in 1877, without fuss or warning, a small but perfect and distinct crater. It was only a few short miles in diameter. It was just big enough to be comfortably seen with the small telescopes of that day. Orthodox astronomers, who did not believe in changes of the moon, refused to accept the word of the selenographers at first, and there was a minor intraprofessional hassle. Eventually the little erratic was called Hyginus N ?

The discovery should have been a tip-off!

In 1878, a tremendous disturbance broke out on the surface of our greatest planet. At the beginning it escaped the notice of professional astronomers. They were busy conquering worlds much further afield. But the amateurs noted it. The Great Red Spot of Jupiter (some called livid pink) was some six or seven thousand miles wide, thirty thousand miles long, shaped like a longitudinal section of a pecan, and it raced around the planet at a surface speed of about 200 miles per hour, shouldering aside all one other surface features of that planet. This storm, if it was such, lasted several decades. Whether there was anything purposeful about it is problematical. Certainly for absolute size it dwarfed little Hyginus N.

But Hyginus N was close to being in our own back yard, and it should have received more attention than a busy profession gave it. It should have been remembered when Watson and Swift thought that they were observing some new planets.

It wasn't. And science moved on in a manner which has been called "progress."

Whether or not the era of the great comets was initiated, or only marked, by the appearance of Jupiter's Red Spot, the surface of Jupiter was exhibiting a condition of great turmoil and disturbance. Round white spots, and equally well formed dark spots, formed, moved over the surface and went away. The big cloud belts were sometimes shifted and distorted. To maintain that such activity on Jupiter was intelligently directed, or that it actually caused the odd phenomena in our own neighborhood, would be presumptuous. But that a common state of disturbance existed both here and there cannot be denied.

The Great Ark.

To Have seen "The GREAT ARK" would Humble or Terrify any Human. I wish, even so, that I could have seen it, the Greatest structure ever built, by Humanoids, or all time.

Jupiter, largest of the planets, fifth from the sun, is bright and easy to observe with small telescopes, hence it has been a continuos subject for amateur astronomical research. The literature is full of their reports. Jupiter has about a dozen satellites big enough to be seen from the earth, and some are comparable to our moon in size. These, together with their 88,000-mile diameter parent, make up a complex system in which many things may be expected to happen and many are indeed reported by observers. Jupiter is practically, if not actually, a fluid planet, having an average density only a little greater that that of water, and in spite of its vast bulk, its surface gravity is only two and one-half times that of the earth. It rotates on its axis a little less than ten hours with an equatorial velocity of roughly 28,000 miles per hour, and is so unstable that different latitudes move with different speeds. Local spots, both defined and hazy, have movements of their own, and some pass each other at speeds up to two hundred miles per hour. The clouds, spots, and belts appear to be floating on a liquid or gaseous base.

Such in the environment of the Great Red Spot which appeared over night in 1878 and covered an area comparable to that of the entire terrestrial surface.

It might be expected that such a large feature would be rigidly attached to a core or substratum. Not so. The Red Spot changed its speed and position constantly. In twenty years, for all its size, it drifted more than twice around the planet – total distance of over half a million miles – and, shoving the cloud belts aside, it shifted latitude by several hundred miles.

We do not know the depth of the spot. Its silhouette shape was almost identical with that of the so-called auroral object which passed over Europe and England in 1882. If it was three-dimensionally symmetrical, it was shaped like a pecan – which is to say it had the shape so familiar to UFO observers: The cigar, spindle or Zeppelin shape – but 8,000 miles in diameter and 30,000 miles long.

Besides shape and particular movement, the Spot had one other characteristic in common with Maunder's Object. There was no noticeable distortion of its front, or advancing edge, as it plowed through the cloudy or fluid surface on which it floated, although it moved with a speed of two hundred miles per hour through the medium.

It is conceded by all scientists that life, such as we know, could not exist on Jupiter in any form, from our lowest to our highest. As for life in some other form, or weird, discarnate intelligence, the limit is defined only by one's ability to speculate.

I "READ": "No Life there at all, Malfunction"

Because Jupiter's great size, complex and turbulent condition, intricate system of satellites and attendant comets, and its gravitational effects on all other bodies within the sun's bailiwick, it would seem that most anything could happen on or around the huge orb.

ARK GOT STUCK.

It is a fair question to ask whence came the power to drive this mass, several times greater than the earth, through the surface material at such high speeds, and to crowd aside the vast equatorial belts, sometimes as much as 8,000 miles. What created it; what started it in motion and what kept it in motion; and what directed its movements?

Such a Mass would cause a Huge Explosion when it Hit that Great Planet unleess introduced with great care.

As part of the celestial show of 1878, we should take a closer look at the reports of Russell and Hirst from the Blue Mountains of Australia.

Mr. H.C. Russell was heading a small expedition into the mountains to study high altitude and clear mountain air for better observing conditions. Here is his report, extracted from a letter to Observatory.

…the only observation which I would here place on record was made on the morning of the 21st of October (1889) at nine o'clock AM, when, on looking at the moon, (Mr. Hirst) found that a large part of it was covered with a dark shade quite as dark as the shadow of the earth during an eclipse of the moon; its outlines were generally circular and it seemed to be fainter near the edges…it quite obliterated the view of about half the moon's terminator (or that part where the sunlight ends) whilst those parts of the terminator not within the shadow could be very distinctly seen. I should estimate the diameter of the shadow, from the part we could see on the moon, as about three-quarters the diameter of the moon. This is one of those remarkable facts which, being seen, should be recorded, although no explanation can at present be offered. One could hardly resist the conviction that it was a shadow; yet it could not have been the shadow of any known body…No change in the position of the shade could be detected after three hours of watching. 1878, November 26th, H.C. Russell.

This is an important observation it shows that things were going on in space near the earth. Such an observation as this seems almost without recorded precedent. The moon was past third quarter and was proceeding the sun across the morning sky. The shade seen by Hirst and Russell was either a cloudlike formation between the earth and the moon, or it was the shadow of something between the moon and the sun.

MIND. "DEEP" MOBILIZATION & Mulai

IE MINDINAO DEEP, [1] PROJECT MOBILIZATION FOR M-Chil & The Building of it.

If between moon and sun, it was well within the intense glare of sunlight and difficult to see. Not only would it escape a casual glance but might evade a search and, unless solid, it might be almost entirely invisible. We cannot tell how far it was from the moon, but by the geometry of shadows we can make some estimates. Russell describes the shape as circular and fainter towards the edges. This is a typical description of a dense umbra and lighter penumbra. Making allowance for a tapering shadow, and the estimated diameter, the object should not have been much over 100,000 miles away and probably about 75,000 to 80,000 miles. It is similarly obvious that the object itself must have been approximately the same size as the combined umbra and penumbra, shall we say about 1,400 – 1,700 miles in diameter. We cannot tell whether it was solid or a dense cloud.

Old* ark or "old" Home-ship -- ?

Most important, however, is that this shade did not move in three hours' time. With both moon and sun moving, this object so maintained its position that its shadow, cast by the light of one moving object, the sun, remained stationary for three hours or more upon another moving object, the moon. That is control – firm, steady, calculated and maintained control of position. It implies purposefulness, persistence, delicacy and … intelligence.

Suppose, on the other hand, that it was not a shadow, but was a cloud interposed between earth and moon. Its actual size then could be anything from a gnat to something three-quarters the diameter of the moon, depending on its distance from the Blue Mountains. Thus we don't know the size for certain, except that it was smaller than 1,500 miles in diameter.

But in this case the manipulation of this object was even more complex. Not only was the object maintained between moon and earth, it was maintained steadily between moon and a very definite portion of the earth's surface which was rotating rapidly while the moon was revolving around it. This represents doubly intricate control. This is calculated control of a higher order than the other, and, in fact, requires more manipulation than simple hovering. By way of explanation, something more is required than an inorganic spatial body moving under unmodified laws of Kepler and Newton.

It was this phenomenon which evoked the scorn of the armchair astronomer and editor, Mr. R.A. Proctor, in London, and caused him to publicly impugn and the sanity, observational acuity, and even the good faith of Russell in a long and flippantly scurrilous letter to the Echo, a London evening paper, March 14, 1879.

FOR MORE PRESTIGE.

Russell replied with considerable warmth to Proctor's unprovoked attack, and while he does not overtly say so, it is hard to escape the belief that he felt there was something purposeful in the behavior of this cloud and also in the way some other clouds and, for example, dry frogs, have maintained themselves over limited parts of the earth. At best he was thoroughly but honestly puzzled. Proctor's attack, on the other hand, had some of the characteristics of whistling in the dark. He showed a perceptible fear of admitting the reality of Russell's observation and sought to squelch the observer.

I sense a tinge of nervousness in this, and certainly believe that Proctor, himself an astronomical student, writer and observer of note, recognized more than physical import in this odd event. UFO's Against the Sun

For generations, perhaps centuries, it was thought that there were one or more planets revolving within the orbit of Mercury. Perturbation of that planet and its orbit led to such a conclusion, particularly before the theory of relativity explained a part of the disturbance. Over a long period of years, astronomers kept seeing object of planetary shape and apparently planetary size crossing the disc of the sun, and these were almost universally assumed to be intra-Mercurial planets. Somehow it never occurred to anyone that similar crossings of the moon, also seen occasionally, could be related, nor that such objects between the earth and moon could undermine the intra-Mercurial planet Hypothesis.

Relativity? Will explain by man???

After a number of carefully observed crossings of the solar disc were recorded, some of the more able mathematicians calculated tentative orbits for an intra-Mercurial planet. They based this on the assumption that the intervals of time between transits were susceptible to a least-common-denominator which was the probable time of revolution of the suspected planet around the sun. Such calculations led consistently to disappointment and sometimes to heartbreak. No intra-Mercurial planet was ever found, although mathematical astronomers were so confidant of its existence they even named it: "Vulcan." Much time was spent searching for the hypothetical object and many an astronomer hoped to make the discovery and thus perpetuate his name. Since it was realized that such an object would never be far from the sun, searching was especially vigorous at times of total solar eclipse. (Such an opportunity was afforded by the total eclipse of July 29th, 1878 or which more later).

Authors* Childishness

From the earliest days of organized astronomical observation there have been these sightings of round and spindle-shaped bodies crossing the disc of the sun. Some of these observations disclosed objects so discordant with the established framework of the solar system that science considered them anomalous and often denied the validity of the observations and the mental balance of the observers. Despite scathing linguistic fire, however, some of these vital notations got through to editors of astronomical and other journals.

Many such observations are tabulated in the Observatory, but they are also scattered through the scientific literature in general. Since it has now been irrefutably demonstrated that these could not have been intra-Mercurial planets, their significance becomes much more apparent than it was to the casual reader in the early 19th century. We have changed our conception, and now we can accept these objects as being close to the earth. The overwhelming mass of evidence is too great to brush aside, and proves that astronomy has been sighting UFO's in space.

So has ??????? but they deny it
Will always so, they too ??? (unreadable)

During the eclipse of September 7, 1820, crowds in the streets of Ebrun saw great numbers of objects in the sky, moving in straight lines, countermarching and turning, all separated by uniform spaces. Five unidentified bodies of appreciable size were seen by Astronomer Gruithuisen. Two unknown dark bodies were seen by Pastorff on October 23, 1822. Webb saw an unknown thing near Venus, March 22, 1823. Many more unknowns were reported in 1823, and this may have been another peak period if these phenomena are really periodic in their appearances. Sporer saw one crossing the sun August 20, 1863. Two starlike objects were seen crossing the sun by Carrington on September 1859. Several examples are reported in Webb's Celestial Objects, particularly on the dates July 31, 1826, to May 30, 1828. Jaennicke saw an unknown object against the sun on May 30, 1853. The unknown planetary object seen by several people in London, and described in Nature, has never been explained. In the summer of 1860, R. Covington saw, without optical aid, an object crossing the sun. On June 6, 1761, Scheuten was watching a transit of Venus and saw an object as round, black, and distinct as Venus, but about one-half it size, moving for three hours across the sun. He thought it was a satellite of Venus, but since the many other skilled observers who watched the transit did not see this thing, it is most likely that it was very close to the earth's surface, and so displaced by parallax that it was silhouetted against the bright disc only in that one location.

Great Arks advance Home ship bringing news
& orders for Preparation of its arrival.

All this leads up to a showdown on the intra-Mercurial planet question. Since it has been shown by C.H. F. Peters and others that there is no intra-Mercurial planet, then what are these things?

Although C.H.F. Peters tried to belittle the sightings of all observers as illusions or fraud, we have difficulty in rejecting the statement of experienced observers like Staudacher of Nuremberg, who saw, in February 1762, a round black spot on the sun. He missed it the next day, and such was its appearance and movement that he thought it may have been a new planet.

On November 19, 1762, Observer Lichtenberg saw with his unaided eye, a very large, round spot one-twelfth the diameter of the sun, traverse a chord of 70 degrees in approximately three hours. Since the apparent diameter of the sun is about half degree of arc, one-twelfth would be about two and one-half minutes or one hundred and fifty seconds. Mercury's apparent diameter, when in transit, averages about twelve seconds, depending on its distance of the moment, so this thing, if it be considered an intra-Mercurial planet, must have had an actual size of more than twenty times that of Mercury, that is, a diameter of 60,000 miles or so. Obviously such a thing as large as Saturn does not exist in any intra-Mercurial orbit. What then, was it? And how far away? At the gravitational neutral the apparent diameter of two and one-half minutes would represent a real diameter of two hundred miles or less. Again, it seems unlikely that a thing so large would penetrate the earth-moon system without causing some noticeable disturbance – so, again, what and how far? At eight hundred miles it would have to be only about a mile in diameter to appear that big, and we are getting used to the idea of something a mile or so in diameter and a few hundred miles away.

THE RETURN OF THE GREAT ARK.

Between the first and fifth of May, 1764, Hoffman saw with the naked eye a large round spot, one-fifth the diameter of the sun, traverse it slowly from north to south. That is a direction of motion almost unheard of in the solar system, except, perhaps, for a few maverick comets. It looks like controlled motion. The size is comparable to that of Lichtenberg's object, and the difference is no greater than would be apparent with an object between earth and moon shifting its position with the changing location of the gravitational neutral.

GREAT ARKS GRAND-TOUR

On June 17, 1777, Messier, cataloguer of Nebulae and Star Clusters, saw a number of little bodies crossing the sun very rapidly and in parallel directions.

D'Angos, at Tarbes, France, saw a slightly elliptical, sharply defined spot on the sun, about halfway between the edge and center, which took about twenty-five minutes to pass off the disc. That was on January 18, 1798. This movement is about eight minutes of arc in twenty-five minutes of time, and at a distance of 1,000 miles this would represent a speed of about one-mile in ten minutes or six miles per hour. At 10,000 miles it would be sixty miles per hour, and at 100,000 miles it would be about six hundred miles per hour and at 1,000,000 miles distance it would be speeding at 6,000 miles per hour. No data are available regarding its apparent size, but if it was ten seconds in diameter, just comfortable for visibility in a small telescope, its diameter in miles would be about 1/500,000 of whatever distance you might assign to it.

GREAT ARK

The next celestial event on our roster is unusually pertinent to our theme, and must have been startling when it was first published. On October 10, 1802, at Madgeburg, Fritch saw a spot moving two minutes of arc in four minutes of time, across the sun and not seen again after a cloudy spell. Near the sun, e.g., in a deep intra-Mercurial orbit, this indicates a velocity of 15,000-20,000 miles per minute. Fritch also states that on March 20, 1800, and February 7, 1802, he saw spots having rapid motions of their own. In hundred of hours in the dusty tomes of the Library of Congress, that is the first case I have found where a scientist has state clearly that these objects were free-lance agents. Even so he seems to have been imbued with the idea that they were near the sun, or in other words, in intra-Mercurial orbits – at any rate not adjuncts of the third planet and its satellite. This seems to be a statement of controlled motion, but Fritch said it in 1802, and Fritch was an astronomer!

On January 6, 1818, two Englishmen, Capel Lofft and a Mr. Acton saw a small subelliptical, opaque spot moving more rapidly over the sun than Venus moves when in transit. It disappeared before sunset and seemed to be of either cometary or planetary appearance. This is a well attested instance of observation by two men who were sober and reliable.

Gruituisen saw two bodies cross the sun together on July 26, 1819. There are a goodly number of sightings which report two objects traveling together, e.g., the planets seen by Watson and Swift during the eclipse of July 29, 1878.

A circular, well-defined spot, with a circular atmosphere and orange-gold tint, not seen again the same evening, is reported by two independent observers: Stark and Steinbuhl. It crossed the sun in about five hours. February 12, 1820.

On July 31, 1826, Stark saw a round spot on the northwest border of the sun at 4:45 PM which was not visible on either of the preceding day or following days.

The American Journal of Science, discusses reports by Pastorff for the years 1834, 1836, and 1837, wherein he reports having seen bodies crossing the sun's disc in comparatively short spaces of time. Definite dates are lacking, but there is a description of a large object, and an accompanying much smaller one, changing position relatively to each other and taking different courses, if not orbits. In 1834 he had seen similar bodies pass across the disc of the sun – looking very much like Mercury in transit – six times.

Now, there is another statement of rugged individualism in celestial, controlled motion. How confusing this must have seemed how frustrating to an inhibited observer who could think only in terms of intra-Mercurial planets. There was not one, but two or more bodies, of size comparable to Mercury, moving across the sun repeatedly with what seemed to be directed movement. But how simple it all is to us, when we are thinking of objects from one to ten miles in diameter only a few hundred miles away, or ten to two hundred miles in diameter and 150,000 miles distant, attendant on the earth-moon system, navigable, and possibly using the gravitational neutral as a habitat.

There is another observation by Steinheibel at Vienna, April 27, 1820, reported in the Monthly Notices, in 1862.

A very small perfectly round spot, without a trace of penumbra, was seen to cross a considerable portion of the sun's disc in the short space of six hours as observed and reported, July 12, 1837, by De Vico at Rome.

At a distance comparable to that of the gravitational neutral, an object would cover half a degree in six hours with a speed of about 300-325 miles per hour. At the distance of an intra-Mercurial planet the speed would be in the order of 100,000 to 135,000 miles per hour, which is about 30-35 miles per second – a little bit high for planetary velocity, but not inconceivable.

In October 2, 1839, De Cuppis, an astronomical pupil at a College in Rome, saw a perfectly clear, round and definite spot moving at such a rate that it would cross the sun in about six hours.

In late June or early July 1847, Scott and Wray saw a spot like Mercury in transit. On October 11, 1847, Schmidt, at Bonn, saw a small black body pass rapidly over the sun, "which was neither bird nor insect crossing before the telescope." We do not know what he means by rapidly – six hours, six minutes, or six seconds. All those would be rapid depending on where you think the object was in space. If it was, say, half an hour, and the body was intra-Mercurial, its speed would be 650,000 to 800,000 miles per hour, or 200 miles per second, which is nebular velocity, not planetary. If only two or three seconds were involved, which is a reasonable assumption since Schmidt compared the object to a seed or a bird, then, whatever it was, it was not more than a few hundred miles from the earth—certainly not farther than the "neutral." We assume that this was Julius Schmidt who became director of the observatory at Athens.

He saw a similar object on October 14, 1849, and there is still another sighting by him on February 18, 1850.

On March 12, 1849, Lowe and Sidebotham watched for half an hour a small round black spot traversing the sun.

On June 11, 1855, Ritter and Schmidt, near Naples, watched, just before sunset and with the naked eye, a black body crossing the sun's disc. That the color, here, is always black is of not concern. That is the only color silhouettes against the sun could have, unless they had intrinsic brilliance per unit of apparent area much in excess of that of the sun itself.

On September 12, 1857, at Wandsbeck, Ohrt saw a remarkable round spot near the north border or edge of the sun, at 1:00 PM, It had disappeared when the sun was next seen on the 14th. This thing was a little bit smaller in appearance than Mercury.

On August 1, 1858, a circular, opaque body moving from east to west was watched for about one and a half hours in late afternoon by Wilson at Manchester, England.

In 1859, Dr. Lescarbault, an amateur astronomer of Oregeres, France, announced that he had observed the passage of a body of planetary size across the sun on March 26. Dr. Lescarbault wrote to Le Verrier, knowing of Le Verrier's interest in intra-Mercurial planets. The cloak and dagger investigation and third degree imposed on the good doctor by Le Verrier is quite an incident.

Le Verrier was convinced that this was a transit of "Vulcan," and predicted another transit for March 22, 1877. At that time astronomers of the whole civilized world were alerted, and an intense and eager watch was kept on that date, in order to confirm the existence of "Vulcan," and to verify Le Verrier's orbital computations.

Nobody saw anything on March 22, 1877; and the whole idea of an intra-Mercurial planet has been pretty much broken down…but: what was it that these many good people really did see? Were these reputable astronomers deluded, mendacious or irresponsible? They were all highly intelligent people, educated and trained in the fields of astronomy and mathematics. Either you must say yes to one or more to the above charges, or these alert observers saw something round and solid —and it wasn't an intra-Mercurial planet.

They will NEVER ALERT the WHOLE WORLD AGAIN,

Note how uniform the reports are as to the apparent size of these things: usually about the apparent size of Mercury; sometimes a bit larger, occasionally somewhat smaller. That implies either that the distances are usually about the same, or that these objects vary greatly in size. It seems a little more likely that both sizes and distances vary, but as or now this is debatable. We do have Pastorff's observation, and a few others, of large and small bodies seen simultaneously. It is our considered opinion that most of these things reported by astronomers as seen crossing the sun are of about the same size, and that they maintain a distance of about 150,000 to 175,000 miles from the earth for a considerable portion of the time.

On March 20, 1862, a sharply defined round spot was watched in its progress across the sun for about twenty minutes by Lummis, of Manchester, and a friend. It was about one-half the apparent diameter of Mercury.

On February 12, 1864, a spot 8" seconds of arc in diameter crossed the sun at a rate between that of Mercury and Venus. On May 6, 1865, a round black spot moving across the sun was watched by Coumbray, at Constantinople. It was watched for over three-quarters of an hour, until its departure from the disc. This spot was a sharply defined, black point, which detached itself from a group of sunspots near the limb of the sun and crossed the entire disc in forty-eight minutes. In an intra-Mercurial orbit having one-third the radius of the earth's orbit, it would require a speed of approximately 6,000 miles per minute, or a hundred miles per second to accomplish this, and this is a very high planetary velocity. At the earth-sun neutral, however, an object would move the same angular distance in the same time, with a speed of about thirty-five miles per hour, a conservative velocity even for a UFO.

There are seven reported sightings, in 1886, of a large body being seen near Venus. These are not transits of the sun, it is true; but the objects are in general direction of the sun – and the gravitational neutral -- and there is always the possibility that some bodies are floating at the Venus-Sun neutral, as well as close to the earth.

In 1645, a body large enough to look like a satellite was seen near Venus. It was said to have been seen four times in the first half of the 18th century and again in 1867.

A luminous spot was seen in 1799, by Harding and Schroedter, moving over the disc of Mercury. This indeed, could not have been a intra-Mercurial planet.

There were two observations by Denning and Hind, persistent observers, on November 3, 1871, and March 26, 1873, and a black body was seen by Weber, at Berlin, April 4, 1876.

The London Times, for December 17, 1883, reports that Mr. Hicks Pashaw, in Egypt, saw through glasses, "an immense black spot upon the lower part of the sun."

According to Science, July 31, 1896, Brooks, of Smith Observatory, saw a round object pass slowly across the moon; he thought it was a dark meteor. It was about one-thirtieth the moon's diameter, and crossed in three or four seconds. According to the Scientific American, astronomer Muller saw a similar phenomenon on April 4, 1892. Now there are some objects which were actually seen to be closer than the moon. If Brooks' object was close to the moon, and traversed the disc in four seconds, it was moving at better than five hundred miles per second, and that is nebular velocity, neither planetary nor stellar, meteoric nor cometary velocity. So we adjudge it to have been closer to the earth. At the neutral it would still have to be moving at several hundred miles per second. At two hundred and fifty miles above the earth it would only have to be moving half a mile a second, If the thing was hovering, on the other hand, it would cross the moon's disc in two minutes – so it could not have been hovering.

Home-ship

All this account of objects of planetary aspect crossing the discs of the sun and moon is preamble to the hassle of Watson and Swift vs. the "profession," subsequent to the total solar eclipse of July 29, 1878.

There can be little doubt but that these objects existed, and that they existed in space; that they are quite commonly seen between the earth and t moon, and at least once between the earth and Mercury; that they appear as discs or spheres, spindles or dumbbells.

We have already mentioned Swift and Watson, and the objects which they saw. We are now going to present the details of how the observations were made and of the controversy arising with those astronomers who were not there and who did not see the object. We expect to show how these observations not only establish the actuality of UFO's in space, but demonstrate their approximate distance as well.

James C. Watson, one-time director of the Astronomical Observatory of the University of Michigan, wrote one of the most widely used text and reference books on mathematical astronomy. He had one of the best minds in astronomy and was an expert observer. Dr. Watson was at the peak of his career on July 29, 1878 the time of the total solar eclipse.

Lewis Swift was the director of Warner Observatory, and a skilled searcher for new bodies like planets and comets.

Neither of these men can be called irresponsible. They knew the difference between stars, planets, comets and nebulae. They did not see ghosts. However, at the total eclipse of the Sun, July 29, 1878, they saw unscheduled, unexplained objects. Like many of their contemporary scientists, however, they were too preoccupied with intra-Mercurial planets to speculate on anything close to the earth.

MOBILIZATION FOR BUILDING of Chol was SEEN

Astronomers came long distances to observe this eclipse. Many Europeans traveled across the Atlantic, then to the high plateaus of Colorado and Wyoming. Many were determined to make a final desperate search for an intra-Mercurial planet which, supposedly quite near the sun, should have shown up at the time of total eclipse. Both Watson and Swift arranged special equipment for this search, and both brought special skills to the task.

Watson was first to announce his findings. Through skillful use of a four-and-one-half-inch telescope (which this writer has used many times at the University of Michigan), Watson found two disclike or planetary objects, both red and both comparable in size to Mercury, perhaps a bit smaller. One was 2 ½° from the sun and the other between 4° and 5°. Both were to the west. Watson measured their positions carefully. He reported them as intra-Mercurial planets.

Swift saw two discoid objects also, of about the same size, brightness and color. He reported them as intra-Mercurial planets. But Swift saw them in different places. Whereas Watson's two were several degrees apart, Swift's were very close together. The members of the astronomical fraternity, who were not there, and observed nothing, were scathingly sarcastic. They maintained that Swift and Watson saw nothing but some stars which they had failed to identify accurately. But these men had memorized the star-fields and had made careful measurements. To have made mistakes of which they were accused, they would have been guilty of puerile errors.

An attitude common, even among primitives, "I haven't been there or Seen such a place or a Thing or Person or Happening SO I must SHOW a semblance of Intellec & DOUBT this thing until I see it Myself." (Too Common)

Strangely, No Sailor would believe that the World was Round even when SEEING its round-ness Each Day, for It WAS NOT THE PROPER WAY TO THINK THEN.

The conflict was long and hot, and towards the end it was bitter, but the observers stood their ground. They insisted that they saw something, and since not one person in the profession could conceive of anything but an intra-Mercurial planet, no common ground was ever found for agreement. The British professionals, and Dr. C.H.F. Peters, in the United States, were especially vehement in their protests. In a long and brilliant analysis, Peters proved conclusively that these objects could not possibly be intra-Mercurial planets, and for good measure proved that none of the other long lists or objects seen near the sun or crossing it could be such planets. In fact he did a credible job of proving that no such planet could exist! After studying his arguments, I most whole-heartedly concur – up to a point. That point is where Dr. Peters tries to prove that since Watson and Swift did not see intra-Mercurial planets, what they did see were erroneously identified stars. But he would not necessarily agree that they had seen anything at all. Peters was bitterly sarcastic and felt rather too secure in his superb analytical ability.

IN THE ABOVE EXAMPLED CONFLICT IT WAS NOT WHO WAS RIGHT OR WRONG BUT "WHO BUT MYSELF IS THE BEST OBSERVER: I.E. MY PRIDE & MY EXPIERENCE OR EGO. WHEN EGO SLIGHTS EGO, BOTH BECOME NARROW AND QUITE SMALL.

But Peters performed a wonderful service for us!

Dr. C.H.F. Peters, arch master of astronomical and mathematical analysis, set up the best scientific case for UFO's which has ever been stated – unless one denies the observations, together with the sanity and honesty of Watson and Swift and about thirty other honest observers. I would be willing to rest the entire case for UFO's on Peters' analysis, if the observations be granted as presented by those practiced observers.

It boils down to this: Watson and Swift did see two disclike objects. C.H.F. Peters proved that they were not planets and not very far from the earth.

So did 30 others.

To make a long story much too short, here is what happened. First, everybody was wrong to some degree, as often happens in bitter controversies; and everybody was partly right. Watson and Swift did see what they said they saw – but they were wrong in thinking that they saw planets. Peters was eminently right in his analysis that they could not have been planets – but he was wrong, most blindly and unjustly, in saying that they did not see anything.

Watson saw two discs several degrees apart. Swift saw them close together and near the locations of Watson's first one. Watson and Swift observed from sites about one hundred and eight-five miles apart. Parallax caused the difference in the locations of the objects. On the basis of the measured positions and sizes, it is possible for us who are not blinded by inhibition and preconception, as were Watson, Swift, and Peters, to see that these two objects were UFO's not far away, but far enough to be surely in space. One was nearer than the other. The nearest one was displaced by parallax in Swift's observations due to the one-hundred-and-eight-five-mile base line. It is as simple as that.

Watson's object "a" turns out to have been between the extreme limits of ten thousand and sixty thousand miles from the earth. The best overall consideration places it at about twenty thousand miles away. Watson's "b" object, on the other hand, which was so greatly displaced in apparent position by the one-hundred-and-eighty--five-mile base line, was about one-tenth as far away as "a." If we assume "a" to be at twenty thousand miles, then "b" was at about two thousand miles.

The nearer one seems to have been smaller. The more distant one appears to have had a diameter of one-quarter to one and one-half miles depending on its distance, and at twenty thousand miles would be about half a mile or somewhat more in diameter. "B," the nearer one, would be about one-tenth as great. This is in keeping with our mother ship concept.

As for the red color, which Peters doubted so bitterly, it is simply explained when we realize that the objects were near the earth. At such a distance, they must have been within the penumbra of the moon's shadow. They thus escaped direct sunlight which would have given them crecentic illumination. However, they were illuminated by sunlight which came first to the earth through a long thickness of atmosphere and was reflected back from the surface. The blue light was therefore screened out. When the light finally got back to the objects it was red. On being returned by them to the observers, the light passed a third time through the atmosphere and naturally it was very red. Those who have seen the moon in eclipse will remember how red it looks from just one passage of the light through the atmosphere.

At various times during the past half-century, there have been suggestions of small satellites circling the earth, very rapidly, and close to the surface – two hundred to six hundred miles away, that is. The New York Times of August 23, 1954 discusses the rediscovery of these little bodies by Dr. Lapaz of the Department of Astronomy of the University of New Mexico. It seems that there has been some feeling that Russia may have catapulted these into space as observation platforms, and the Ordnance Department of the U.S. Army became concerned about it. While we do not deny the possibility of such an advance by the Russians, we do feel that observations covering hundreds of years disprove this supposed Russian origin of UFO's, and also establish controlled and irregular motion as opposed to the regularity of orbital motion.

In any event, it is time that the U.S.A. took note of these entities and made some study of them. Since they probably stay in the gravitational neutral most of the time, they are never far out of line with the sun, and this is why it is so difficult to see them except at times of eclipse or when they are actually in transit across the sun.

But there are ways to look for them: one is with telescopes and the other is with radar. Barring more searches at eclipse time, it does seem that radar has the better possibilities. We know that radar blips can be bounced off the moon: why not from these objects which are nearer? Let's point both our radar sets and telescopes at the region near the sun, at times of both new and full moon and see what we can see. The objects probably range a very few degrees east and west of the sun at first and third quarters of the moon. That would probably be the best time to look.

The years 1879 and 1880 partook of the general spiciness of the era of the comets. The astronomical profession did not work up any major fracases, but then you cannot have a riot every year. However, things did happen.

There was the house whose roof suddenly took its departure on Easter Sunday of 1879 – a slate roof. It jumped up into the air suddenly and then fell back on to the ground. Beyond ten meters from the house nothing was disturbed. There wasn't the least bit of wind. This was officially recorded in the French science magazine, La Nature 1879. There are other cases of roofs taking off without provocation. An American case was reportedly similar.

On July 10, 1880, the conservative Scientific American broke its editorial policy of reticence regarding abnormal events and noted that some men were working in a field in Ontario when they saw stones shooting upward – without the aid of a whirlwind or any other obvious cause. Something seemed to be disturbing gravity.

On April 9, 1879, slag was reported to fall in the city of Chicago.

There were many falls of ice in 1879 – some at Richmond England, was in chunks five inches long.

Bright spots or lights continued to be seen on the moon in 1879-80, and the disturbances on the surface of Jupiter were so noteworthy as to cause comment in Nature. There were five comets visible in 1879 and six in 1880, although not all were visible to the naked eye. A green thunderbolt was reported in the Scientific American, and we are thereby reminded of the spate of green thunderbolts over New Mexico during the past three or four years.

The sako Banjo meteorite, which fell in Eastern Europe in the quite incredibly active years of 1879 – 80, was a strange and startling new kind of meteoric stone, and there were darkness, sun darkening, and abnormally cold winter weather.

The Great Red Spot continued to evolve and to maintain its merciless drive around the great globe of that planet. Because of its peculiar shape and movement, one could almost imagine a great interstellar space ship landing and floating on Jupiter's surface. Its size makes this a debatable hypothesis.

Would he believe it when he sees it?

But there was one astronomical event, which escaped general notice by being in the freak class. Only in retrospect is its significance revealed, for it was one of those dogs which seldom get reported except by naïve folk who think that what they see is what they see. There have been several reports of misty, fiery or cometary objects, which exhibited unusual motion. Often times, our attention is only attracted to them by unusually rapid movement, but even this has some statistical value and may signify the proximity of the object to earth. Such a report was telegraphed by Russian Astronomers in the early 1920's and was said to be moving ten degrees per hour. However, some alert observers have been acute enough to note motion which was too erratic to partake of the normal characteristics of meteoric or cometary activity, and only now are we awakening to the possibility that such erratic movement may signify direction and control by intelligence.

One of the most outstanding examples of erratic celestial movement was that noted by observer Henry Harrison, of Jersey City, New Jersey, on the night of April 12 and 13, 1879. He took careful settings and times on an object whose motion is a revelation. Harrison reported this event to the Naval Observatory at Washington by telegram, but the notice was disregarded by Director Hall, with the proper professional aplomb; for verily it was without doubt an erratic on the periphery of the consummately damned.

Getting no response from the fount of authority, Harrison reported his discovery to the New York Tribune in a letter, and this was reproduced in the Scientific American May 10, 1879. It is to the everlasting credit of the very conservative editors that they could and did recognize this item, partially at least, for its true worth. After publication in the Scientific American, some of the more alert astronomers bedeviled Harrison for further details, while berating him for sloppy scientific reporting. Harrison, an astronomer of militantly unpretentious character, was depressed by the critics and embittered by the snubbing he received from the inner sanctum of the Naval Observatory. But he responded with a letter under the date may 20, 1879. After some sarcastic remarks anent people who always see wonders in everything celestial, he says in part:

…I did not think that the above phenomenon was anything but of a meteoric nature…and it would have been XXXXXXX to have made a great outcry. Messages sent to Professor Hall were urged by a personal friend, whom I called into the observatory to see the object; otherwise it would this day only be known to my personal friends. The coolness with which my dispatch was received at the Washington Observatory, after great inconveniences in sending it, has compelled me to regret any publicity on my part. The presumption that I found Brorsen's comet ought to have been abandoned immediately from the fact that Brorsen's comet moved a little over a degree per day, whereas this object moved with a (variable) rapidity of two minutes of Right Ascension of one minute of time, passing the comet by about four degrees…There is one fact, however, which reconciles me to it, and that is the fact that the object was seen also by Mr. J. Spencer Devoe, on Manhattanville, New York, who published a letter to that effect.

After acknowledging indebtedness to his friend, Henry M. Parkhurst, for his interest, he gives the details of his observations:

POSITIONS OF OBJECT 1879, April 12 (Local Mean Time)

Time	Right Ascension	(Rate of R.A. per minute of time	North Declination
8h 40m PM	2h 34m	2.4	37°
9 10	3 46	3.1	37
9 35	5 04	2.6	37
10 30	7 08		37 06'
11 30	-- --		37 28'
2 10	15 30	2.3	37 30'

He comments on the irregularity of motion.

Harrison concludes by hoping that Devoe will quickly publish his own observations for corroboration and confirmation, but as of the date of this writing I have not succeeded in finding any such report. The report from Devoe would be of considerable importance to the case for intelligently directed motion. Anyone reporting the reference will be making a worthwhile contribution to the Case for the UFO's. And unless we deny the veracity of Devoe, Harrison, and Parkhurst, or impugn their intelligence as observers – or both – there cannot possibly be any argument against manipulated objects of the misty or ethereal types in space.

So called Ethereal types are the Old Force-
Shield cooking full blast, Made good Protection.

With his letter to the Scientific American, Harrison sent a description and a sketch. He described it as looking like a planetary nebula, which has but slight resemblance to a comet, or any other celestial object. To us, however, there is value in his drawing. A planetary nebula is almost circular, and certainly not flat on one side. This object looked organic. We are vaguely reminded of some of the shapes of pyramids, bells, pears, etc., which have been reported for generations. Clearly a nebulous or gaseous object, freely suspended in space, would assume a symmetrical shape and fuzzy edges. This thing did neither. Its appearance alone indicates that it was a UFO. Its motion clinches the argument. There are other similar reports in history of astronomy, but this one can be our prototype. It should be a classic, not only of observation but of how an inhabited and regimented science can pass up the most spectacular of discoveries. It is just possible that this is the most important and revolutionary telescopic observation ever published, especially if we place as high a value on discovering and contacting a new racial intelligence as we do on finding new nebulae a few million lights years distant.

Yeah, IF. Well, Nobody's interested.

Before you get excited about that harmless little table of figures, and complain that I'm turning technical, I will give a modicum of explanation. Right Ascension (usually abbreviated RA) is the astronomer's technical way of locating an object eastward among the stars, from an arbitrarily selected point in the sky, and corresponds to longitude on the earth's' surface. Declination is the distance north or south of the celestial equator, and corresponds to latitude on the earth's surface. It really is not complicated.

We will better understand Harrison's observation if we realize that an object hovering directly overhead will move among the stars at a rate of one minute of RA in one minute of time. Imagine yourself lying under a tree at night looking upward at the stars. As the earth turns on it axis the twigs above you move slowly eastward across the stars at exactly one minute of RA per minute of time. Harrison's object was moving approximately three times that quickly.

These figures of Harrison's are the very thing for which UFO protagonists have been praying. They are the scientific pay-off!

Three minutes of RA per one minute of time is much too rapid for a comet, and the object didn't even look like a comet. Such a speed is impossibly slow for a meteor, not even a fraction of one per cent of meteoric velocity; and it certainly has less resemblance to a meteor than almost anything you could name. A comet very close to earth could move that rapidly, but a comet would not make sudden changes in direction. Under the laws of gravitation it could not.

It is important to note that during the first three hours the object did not move in declination. Hence it was not moving in a great circle, but around a parallel of declination, which in turn means that it was moving straight eastward, which, except at the equator, is impossible for uncontrolled motion – so it was directed.

So What.

But, then, it suddenly changed from one declination to another – an impossible maneuver for an uncontrolled body!

Catch one of them A Magnetic "Net" will do.

Harrison's bell-shaped object was moving almost three times as fast as rotation of the earth would cause it to do. At first one hesitates to say that it was hovering, but a little mathematical deduction indicates an object merely drifting with currents of the upper air and at one hundred miles latitude would need to have but 2.4 miles per hour velocity over the ground, an at ten miles above New York and appearing in Dec. 37° north, it would be drifting only a quarter mile per hour and would have been but seven-tenths of a mile south of Harrson's observing point an therefore directly over New York Harbor.

Furthermore, if the object was actually moving in a straight line, overhead, it would appear to speed up slightly when it crossed his meridian (the N-S line) and this is precisely what it did. And, assuming that it shifted its position slightly so as to pass nearly over the city, its shift of a little more than half a degree of declination would indicated height of from ten to one hundred miles.

Considered from ANY approach, this object appears to have been organic, intelligently operated and hovering over New York City!

The New York Tribune of April 26, 1879, published a letter from Mr. Devoe, dated April 17, in which he stated that he, too, had at first thought it to be a planetary nebula like one near Beta Ursa Majoris, but he was equally astonished at the rapid pace which carried it away so fast that he could not find it again after taking time out for coffee. A little can be gained from his letter. He says the object was wonderfully brilliant, and at least the size of the Praesepe star cluster, which is a well-known naked eye object, and was brighter than Praesepe. It would, therefore, appear that it was brighter and larger as seen by Devoe than by Harrison, and if such a small difference in the site of observation could make such a difference in appearance, then the wanderer was indeed close to New York City. From Devoe's rough description of the size, this object would have been about half a mile in diameter at an altitude of eight to one hundred miles, If I can find a more accurate report of Devoe's observations, I could learn more about the size and distance of the object.

Whatever this thing was, and whatever may be the accuracy of our speculations as to its speed, distance and size, it exhibited motion inexplicable except as intelligent control.

There is a suggestion for us in this story of Harrison's rambling object. Professional astronomers are not spending much time, if any at all, in searching the sky for comets or cometary objects. For more than a hundred years most of this has been done by amateurs, and today very little is done by anybody. We have seen that a minimum of quantitative observation by Devoe would have enabled us to determine the distance, altitude, speed and size of Harrison's object. We do not know how many of the things there are near the earth, so why not start a UFO searching campaign among a coalition of UFO enthusiasts, amateur astronomers and radio hams?

Dr. Bone's crude observation of the discoid object was of the greatest importance in confirming Dr. Gould's discovery of 1882, and the observations of Bone and Tebbutt established the great parallax which has enabled us to show the proximity of those objects.

There are apparently two classes of dirigible UFO's to look for. One is the planetary, disclike things seen near the sun and moon, as by Watson and Swift, and the other is the cometary type as seen by Harrison.

The cometary ones can be swept for, just as are comets, and with the identical equipment – special comet-seeking telescopes with structure, and lenses designed for that purpose. Any telescope can be used and there are many idle ones.

I do not believe that large numbers of cometary UFO's will be found, although I am not sure. Observers near large centers of population, atom plants or industrial sites will probably have the most success. But while the number of expected objects is small, the searching is easier than for discs. (red is B and Jemi)

The planetary discs, like those of Watson, are difficult to see because they stay nearly in line with the sun and moon and are lost in the glare of sunlight. Even so, this assures that they will be in a very limited part of the sky. Why not devise ways to search the regions near both sun and moon, especially at new moon with telescopes and radar? Because of the glare, radar would seem to offer the most likely chances of success as it will not suffer interference from the sun.

We have some tremendous advantages for this type of research today. We note the essential necessity for simultaneous observation from at least two points. This can be ONLY accomplished through the help of the radio ham networks. Let us set up dozens of observational stations, with telescopes, and let us man them with at least one saucer specialist, let us add some radar observers, for triangulation can be effected by radar as well as with telescopes. Let us maintain instantaneous contacts via the ham networks so that if one station sees a suspicious object, other stations can be alerted immediately; let us report all of this to an established central office.

WILL NEVER BE PERMITTED BY OUR GOVERNMENT
TO* A PURELY CIVILIAN SET-UP NOHOW

In this way we can track these erratic things to their source, be it the upper atmosphere, the moon, the gravitational neutral, or what have you. The UFO's problem can be solved, despite the curtain of secrecy, by coordinated effort. If an observing station in, say Philadelphia discovered a fast mover, they could alert observers in Baltimore, Harrisburg, and Jersey City, and a quick, triangulation would tell just how far out the interloper was, how big, and its speed. This would be a new type of saucer patrol, and would doubtless result in some genuine comets being discovered as well as xzxxx suspicious characters. So much the better.

This would make a good cooperative program for all interest parties. A specially organized saucer club could sponsor it.

The Height of the Puzzle

There is no way of estimating how many of these fast-moving space objects escape all notice, nor is there any way of knowing how many are seen but not reported for fear of embarrassment. We have found a few examples, and still further search of the literature would produce more.

Colonel Marwick, amateur in South Africa, saw an object near the moon on September 27, 1881 (not the concentration of these in 1881), like a comet but moving very rapidly. On August 28, 1883 Captain Noble saw something "like a comet, new and glorious." On the nights of September 11, and 13, 1883, Professor Swift, at Rochester, saw an unknown object like a comet, and something was seen in Puerto Rico and about the same time in Ohio.

The most spectacular of these speed demons was seen by Captain Eddie, at his observatory in Grahamstown, South Africa, on October 27, 1890. It was called a comet, but almost certainly was not, for its description was much more like that of Maunder's auroral object. In fact it has something of the appearance of an auroral arch bridging a quarter of the horizon, but moving with a deliberate speed very similar to the Maunder thing. This object of Captain Eddie's sped 100 degrees across the sky in three-quarter of an hour. It made Harrison's cometary whiffit seem to be hovering, which no doubt it was. How far away was it and how high? What was its size? Who knows? But, a second observation from Pretoria, Johannesburg, Bloemfontein, East London, Port Elizabeth or Capetown would have located it definitely and determined the distance via parallax – and at that speed ??? we know it was close enough to exhibit great parallax – and thence we could sense its size and real speed, and perhaps its nature.

Another one of these celestail mavericks was seen by Professor Copeland, September 10, 1891, and Drayer saw it at Armagh Observatory and Alexander Graham Bell saw it or one like it in Nova Scotia the next night. If these astronomers made time measurements, and those measurements could be found, they would be invaluable to us today.

There were other things that were happening in 1879-80. There was reported a great waterspout at St. Kitts, in the West Indies, about the first of February 1880. It was called a waterspout and reported as though a single and unassociated entity. But while a solid mass of water of unknown origin was drowning St. Kitts, masses of water were deluging the Island of Grenada three hundred miles away. And in the Island of Dominica, masses of water broke windows and roofs. Mud fell in tons. Rivers burped with the detachables of the island: trees, cattle, houses, people. Other nations and islands were hit by masses of water. Colombia and Salvador were among them. Beginning on October 10, and continuing until the catastrophe at Saint Kitts, there was deluge after deluge on the earth – in one zone of latitude, the north tropical area. It seemed that a swarm of meteoric lakes must have gotten in the way of a rotating earth. To most of us such a thing "just could not be". But it did happen, and it is doubtful if meteorologists have ever assembled all of the data on that series of floods. Maybe it was not as general as the world-wide deluge of 1913, but it was bad enough, and its very concentration within a limited belt of terrestrial surface is sufficient for us to conclude that extraterrestrial forces and materials were involved. These storms partook, of the ado of a very disturbed period in which we should have become aware of our spatial environment.

On May 15, 1879, Commander Pringle, of H.M.S. Vulture, saw luminous waves of pulsating water. They were under the surface, not above it, and passed beneath his ship. The appearance was that of a revolving wheel of light, with illuminated or luminous spokes. In fact there were two wheels, one on each side of the ship, and the phenomenon lasted more than half an hour. There have been several such reports, and most of them come from oriental waters.

About this time an enormous number of luminous bodies were seen to rise from the horizon in Germany. They shone with remarkably brilliant light and passed horizontally from east to west. A carbonacious (sic) mass like brown coal fell from the sky in Argentina. The red, blue and gray hailstones fell in 1880. An object of quartzite was reported to fall at Schroon Lake, New York. Ricco, at the Palermo Observatory, saw long parallel line of bodies crossing the sun. The wheels of light in the sea were seen again in May and June of 1880, reported from more than one vessel at sea. The three lights moving in the ravine at St. Petersburg were seen on July 30, 1880. Luminous phenomena continued to appear on the moon throughout 1879-80, including a luminous line, cable or wall which was seen January 23, definitely dividing in half the very brilliant interior of the prominent lunar crater Aristarchus, which has been carefully studied for centuries by those who suspect the moon of harboring life in some form. This was seen and sketched by Trouvelot, one of the few skilled astronomical observers with artistic ability.

A dead "sea serpent" was found at sea in early 1880, and sailors danced on its upturned belly. Something similar, like a turtle sixty feel long and forty feet wide was reported in the New Zealand Times, in December 1883, and there were several reports of huge marine animals during the comet years.

IF SO CALLED "SEA MONSTER OR SERPENT WAS A L-M SHIP IT IS STILL THERE UNDERSEA IF IF S-Ms NEUTRALIZED IT: THE L-MS WILL NOT HAVE COME BACK OR CALLED FOR IT, IN S-M TERRITORY.

The flying machine over Louisville, Kentucky was of 1880 vintage, and also the thing changing shape over Madisonville, Kentucky. The British trading ship, Atlanta, bound for Bermuda, was lost in 1880 – without trace in that region so well known today as the area of missing planes and ships.

There was an invasion of insects – flies – in 1880. Clouds of them, millions and millions appeared over Havre, France, as though from the Atlantic. On August 21, they blackened the air and seemed exhausted when they fell. The same day a cloud of long, black flies, so large that it took twenty minutes to pass, blackened the sky over Nova Scotia. Another cloud on September first. East or west, they seemed to come from the mysterious Atlantic. In November, a host of flies overwhelmed a schooner off the coast of Norfolk, England, lasting over five hours and driving the crew below decks. On September 4 the steamboat Martin was swarmed by a cloud of flies that reached as far as the eye could see; a drift of black snow. On the fifth a cloud of black flies appeared over Gusboro, Nova Scotia; took over half an hour to pass.

According to the New York Times, a woman was killed in 1880 in a closed room which nobody had entered. Explanations were that she had been killed by lightning, but bedposts were chopped as by a hatchet.

There seems almost always to be poltergeist activity in England, but an especially cirulent (sic) case broke out in October, 1880.

The year 1880 was in the midst of what we have chosen to call the years of the comets. There were six comets in the skies of 1880. The 19th century as a whole showed increasing activity in comet discovery, and in the number of bright comets. In part this can be attributed to increasing interest in telescopic work, and to improved availability and quality of small telescopes suitable for amateurs who made up a growing body wishing to participate in astronomical research, but lacked the great, fine-quality instruments of the large observatories. But such activity cannot in any way account for the very bright, very spectacular comets of 1880, 1880, and 1882, with their attendant phenomena, many of which can conservatively be described as abnormal. One had two tails; one aft and one forward, and appeared to have nuclei exhibiting independent motion within the head or the coma.

Study the following table of comet discoveries:

Period AD	New Comets Found	Average per year
1782 – 1801	25	1.25
1802 - 1821	26	1.30
1822 – 1841	36	1.80
1842 – 1861	83	4.15
1882 – 1889	40	5.00

There is a hint, of the added activity which we have suspected for 1845-55. Astronomer Barnard tabulated the comets discovered for 1876-86 and published the results in 1886, almost as though he felt, even then, that something abnormal was going on.

The score for "The Decade" is as follows:

1877 . . . 6	1883 . . . 2
1878 . . . 3	1884 . . . 3
1879 . . . 5	1885 . . . 6
1880 . . . 5	1886 . . . 3 (first seven months)
1881 . . . 8

The peak at 1877-81 is very noticeable, without taking into consideration the number and size of the naked eye comets of mid-decade. What with comets, red spots, Hyginus N, will-o-the-wisps like Harrison's lights on the moon, and objects crossing the sun, the decade of the 1880's was, for certain, ushered in with a blaze of celestial glory, and it ended with a fanfare of puzzles.

The light of comets has been seen to fluctuate in rather remarkable manners. This was especially true of Pon's comet during its return in 1883-84, at which time it manifested the spirit of the times and presented some eccentric behavior. Its brilliance, for example, increased thirty-forty-fold above that explainable from merely becoming closer to the sun. In addition there were hour-to-hour fluctuations of one hundred percent and more, and concomitantly the nucleus experienced some tortuous changes in shape and structure, as such as we will note again in the great comets of 1881 and 1882.

In the Monthly Notices of the Royal Astronomical Society, there is detailed description of all of the six comets of 1880, and there is added the following:

In addition to the six comets, an object was observed by Mr. Swift, of Rochester, New York, on April 11, 1880 in the constellation Ursa Major (Big Dipper) in RA 11h 28m and Declination 68º, and supposed by him to be a faint comet. However, no motion was detected in one hour. It was not a nebula for it could not be found again after a period of bad weather.

Like Harrison's object, this was farther north than usual for a comet and quite far from the sun. If a comet, it should have manifest motion in an hour. The fact that it did not, yet moved away later, is indicative of controlled motion. Its stationary position suggests hovering.

Meteors came in for their share of attention during these years. The Royal Astronomical Society had a committee which assembled meteor data for a long period of years, and published it regularly as a part of the permanent records of the Society. Many of these meteors were of remarkable characteristics. For instance, in the Monthly Notices of December 1880, W.F. Denning describes a very "slow" meteor which took fifteen to twenty seconds to cross the sky and mentions a "stationary" meteor which seemed to be approaching the observer in a sinuous track. There are many references to unusual meteors during these years, and there are hundreds of drawings showing meteor trains, explosions, zigzag paths and erratic movements.

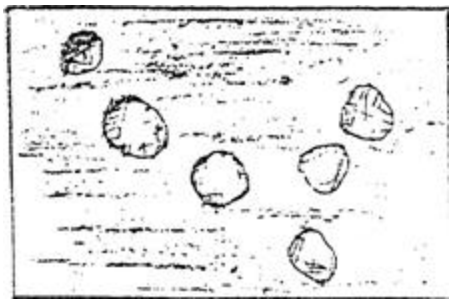
On the night of April 18, 1880, a storm of unprecedented severity passed over Missouri and adjacent states. Local whirlwinds, probably tornadoes, developed, and at least one town was completely destroyed. Everywhere along the track there was evidence of a wave of water flowing in the rear of the cloud spots, and in places debris was carried over obstacles of considerable height. The direction of the currents was always uphill. One man and his family were deluged by a wave of water and they said the wave was about fifteen feet high and was icy cold. Stones weighing several hundred pounds were lifted from the ground and carried along for some distance. There is an accredited statement that a stone weighing two tons fell from this storm into a field belonging to Mr. S. Rose, but it was impossible to determine from whence it came.



These six UFO's were seen and drawn by Astronomer Barnard, October 14, 1882, and were only 6º from the head of the great comet of 1882. They were accompanied by a spindle-shaped object, looking like a "mother ship" only a few degrees away. This comet had a tail which preceded it, and a complicated head which contained moving parts. Schmidt, at Athens, saw a number of these nebulous UFO's move away from the comet into space.

Now, there is a storm for you! It covered parts of several states. The two-ton stone is a problem, and where did all the water come from, since there are surely no waterspouts in Missouri—and it was icy cold water!

What wind Velocity could ever Lift a two ton stone off of a Hill top and Maintain it in the air until it was carried to that spot. How far was the nearest Hill where such a stone could be found at all?

The above questions will never be asked & so Will never be answered & if asked, No one would want to tell the truth, Lest he be Led away to the "Funny Farm" or Etc of the Like.

The Case is Proved! (B & Jemi)

In the summer of 1881, a routine announcement appeared in the form of a letter to the editor of the German Astronomical publication, Astronomishce Nachrichten:

While scanning the western sky on the evening of (May 22nd) with the unassisted eye, I detected a hazy-looking object just below the constellation Columba, which, for my familiarity with that part of the Heavens, I regarded æs new. On examining it with a small marine telescope I found it half and five and one-half magnitude…and the head of a comet…and telegraphed (the news) to Mr. Ellery at Melbourne…

This announcement was signed: John Tebbutt, Observatory Windsor, N.S. Wales, 1881, June18th.

This seems to be an entirely normal and innocuous communication, and would have been except for certain complications. Astronomers of the Southern Hemisphere immediately started making measurements of the comet's position. It would be a few weeks before the fuzzy object moved far enough north to be seen from observatories in Europe and North America.

Because of the shorter distance for mail, the following communication arrived in Germany ahead of Mr. Tebbutt's letter and appeared in Astronomische Nachrichten:

On June 9th, I sent you the series of observations which I made of the bright comet which has now passed to the North…the weather has been exceptionally bad and only two additional observations have been obtained. The first of these was on the 10th, (compared) with a star which I have not yet been able to identify. (My italics) It is, however, with regard to the second…June 11th, that I now write you…On that evening the comet was found with but little difficulty…although it was quite pale in the bright twilight…I obtained a preliminary determination of its position…for the purpose of identifying some comparison star, when I discovered one in the field…It was blurred by the thick haze and mists near the horizon. I believe it to have been as bright as second magnitude. On attempting to identify the star I found it in none of the catalogues. On the next evening I scrutinized the region without finding any visible star. A glance at the comet, which had moved nearly 3 northward, showed no visible object (accompanying it). I send you the observations as they were made:

Position of the comet determined from the setting of the telescope:
Right Ascension 5h 11m 04s; Declination 9º 36':
Sidereal time 10h 58m 09s.
Comparisons (Distance of comet from comparison star):

Cordoba Sidereal Time	Difference, RA	Difference, Dec.:	Second Time
11h 08m 49s	0m 49s	5' 12.9"	4.7"
11 02.5	49	08.2	0.2"
13 11.0	48	08.4	5.6
14 37.5	48.5	02.8

The whole observation seemed to me so improbable that I have hesitated a good deal before sending it to you, fearing some gross error…But I have discovered none. Cordoba, 1881, June 16th. B.A. Gould.

(A "comparison" is the measurement of the location of a moving object such as a comet as related to a fixed star. It is the manner in which orbits are determined. It is not always easy to find a known star close enough to make a good comparison.)

Let us review Dr. Gould's statements. He had bad weather which handicapped him in seeing both comet and stars, and made all objects somewhat hazy. He made a comparison on June 10, but failed to find his companion star in any chart or star catalog. This item was overlooked by all correspondents in the controversy which followed, including the astute editors of the Astronomische Nachrichton, the Monthly Notices, and Nature. Do not forget it; for it is important to the Case for the UFO's.

A comet, or any other celestial body, moving under the natural forces of gravitation, traverses a smooth curve, and while its velocity may vary, it does so smoothly and gradually. Dr. Gould, a skilled observer whose Argentine Star Catalogues have been accurate reference material for eighty years, was deeply concerned because his observation of the comet indicated erratic motion. Later he was even more seriously troubled because he could neither identify his companion star nor relocate it. Nobody, much less an astronomer, likes to make a fool of himself, and to be frank this whole set of observations looks like mincemeat. It took courage to report this melee and a man of lesser standing than Dr. Gould would have been brushed off.

DR. GOULD WOULD HAVE HAD TO TAKE DR. PETERS ATTITUDE IF HE WERE HANDED THE VERY REPORT THAT HIS PROFESSIONAL INTEGRITY DEMANDED THAT HE SEND TO ASTRO-NACHRICHTEN AND TO OBSERVER MR. ELLERY. WOULDN'T HE!

The observations speak for themselves. There is little change in RA but such as there is reverses itself in the fourth comparison. In declination there was rapid motion (too rapid for this comet), the outright reversal, then rapid motion again. Such a thing is unheard of and, as Dr. Gould indicates, it is enough to shake an observer's confidence in his own ability. It is very difficult to escape the conclusion that one of these objects was moving erratically, and since there is no reason to suspect the comet, and since the "star" could not be found at later times, the "comparison object" must have been moving rapidly and erratically.) An explanation occurs to us, but in 1881 such explanations were of such heretical nature that no one even thought of them, much less put them on paper.)

Dr. Krueger, editor of the Astronomische Nachrichten, calculated the position of the comet for June 11, using orbital elements determined in the meanwhile, and analyzes the whole situation. His analysis was translated and published together with still further editorial discussion. Since Dr. Gould's position for the comet agrees well enough with the calculated position, the erratic motion is attributed to the star. After considerable mathematical deduction, the conclusion of the European astronomers was that a second comet had been mistaken for a star. This, however, did not account for the irregular motion.

Normally, this would have closed the discussion. But they reckoned without the intrepid amateur from Australia, the active and competent Mr. John Tebbutt. He immediately took pen in hand to address the editor as follows:

I have read the letter of Dr. Gould, dated June 16th, with much interest. It is quite obvious from the change in the relative declinations of the comet and the bright star of comparison, that the latter could not be a fixed star, and the only feasible conclusion is that it was a companion comet. But that this object had no existence a short time previously to Dr. Gould's observation is I think, shown by negative evidence in my journal: "The horizon being clear before sunrise yesterday morning I rose to observe the comet. The diffused twilight and full moon… prevented me seeing any stars near the comet for comparison. There was certainly no star of brighter than seventh magnitude…it will be found that (my) observation preceded the first comparison at Cordoba by only 1h 29m…" I feel confident that, at my last observation, no such object as that described by Dr. Gould could have been in the field with the comet…P.S.: Could Dr. Gould, by any possibility, have observed the blurred images of the stars, BAC 1592 and 1597, and if so is the former a variable star? (The difference in position is about the same, and different magnitudes have been assigned to BAC 1592 by different observers) John Tebbutt, Observatory, Windsor, N.S. Wales.

There are two vital points in Tebbutt's letter. First, he establishes that he was observing the comet only one and one-half hours before Gould, for, because of the difference in longitude the evening of June 11th in Cordoba was the morning of the 12th at Windsor, New South Wales, Australia. He then states that the object used by Gould for comparison was definitely not visible at Windsor an hour and one –half before it was seen at Cordoba.

The second point is the suggestions that Dr. Gould, by mistaken identity, observed a pair of stars which, by strange coincidence, have about the same distance and direction from each other as the comet and "object." Except for a rather supercilious assumption of Dr. Gould's incompetence as an observer, Tebbutt's suggestion is not without merit. Yet there is one rather deplorable flaw in Mr. Tebbutt's letter; and we quote: "but that this object had no existence a short time previously to Dr. Gould's observation is, I think, shown by negative evidence…"

This is an unjustified and ill-considered conclusion and statement. True, Mr. Tebbutt did not see the object, under conditions in which it should have been seen according to his viewpoint. His assumption was, of course, that the object or star was as distant from the earth as the comet, if, in fact, it did exist. Therefore, if Gould saw it, Tebbutt should have seen it. Tebbutt didn't see it…ergo, it wasn't there!

Not satisfied with a somewhat reserved statement in Astronomische Nachrichte, Tebbutt sent a scathing letter to Observatory (1882) in which he reiterated all of his arguments, belittled Gould sarcastically, and postulated that one of the pair of stars which he thought was observed by Gould was sufficiently variable in light to have been mistaken for second magnitude while normally appearing as sixth or seventh magnitude. It would be hard to find more irrelevant data.

Mr. Tebbutt was quite honest in his conviction that Dr. Gould had made some kind of crude and unpardonable error in observing. The coincidence of a double star, the components of which have about the same relative position as Dr. Gould's two objects, had let Mr. Tebbutt completely astray, and his indignation at what he considers stupidity caused him to make the unnecessary insinuation that Gould was careless. Tebbutt went so far as to invoke a temporary outburst of light in one star to account for Gould's confusion.

Up to this point, nobody, including the cooler and more objective astronomical editors in Europe, had tried to explain why one skilled observer saw an object which was plainly there to be seen, while another experienced man did not see it. All efforts went toward proving one of them wrong.

But the confusion was only well started. A new astronomical knight-errant entered the celestial jousting. In a publication of the Royal Astronomical Society, January 1882, we find a letter to the editor from W. Bone, M.D., another amateur in Australia. Dr. Bone deposed as follows:

On June 10th, 1881, whilst measuring the position of the comet (at this time it was called comet 1881b) I noticed a peculiar discordance in each succeeding measure, and at length found that the star (?) from which I was measuring, was a rapidly moving body. At first I was inclined to believe it (the star) was the result of refraction, but this would have affected both the comet and the star nearly equally. On more careful inspection, I found it was somewhat discoid, but its light, although bright, was diffused and hazy. It moved through 6' of arc in 34m 34s of time, in a northerly direction. I telegraphed to the Melbourne Observatory and asked instructions. Bad weather prevented me from searching for it next morning and in the evening I could not succeed in again picking it up, neither could I find it where seen on the previous evening. I never received any answer from the Melbourne Observatory. This struck me as so remarkable that I decided to send you my records, Castelmaine, Victoria, 1881, October 22nd, W. Bone, M.D.

In a subsequent letter, Dr. Bone says that his stray object moved about 24s in right ascension in the same interval of time, and that he estimated it at about 2.5 magnitude in brightness, which agrees closely with Gould's estimate of his object. Bone quotes his telegram and concludes that both he and Gould have seen some peculiar type in addition to comet 1881b.

We are now sufficiently remote in time to have an objective view, and we can see more in this correspondence than met the eye in 1881-82. Hark back to Dr. Gould's announcement. Not only did he fail to relocate his comparison star on the 11th, but he admits that his observations on the 10th also failed for the same reason. Now, Dr. Gould, producer of the Uranametria Argintina, was too experienced a man to make this sort of blunder as a matter of habit. Something more than carelessness is demanded to explain.

We now have that something!

Dr. Bone made the same error, if it can be called an error, and at not too different a time, on the 10th. His comparison star disappeared also. It, too, was moving rapidly during the period of observation.

It is impossible to avoid the conclusion that something was moving around in the sky, which Bone and Gould thought was a star, or at least as distant as the comet, and which some other equally capable people did not see at all. The element which was consistently overlooked was the possibility that the wayward cometary object(s) was close to the earth and not as distant as either comet or stars. Even Dr. Bone, in his belated statement, failed to see the connection between his abortive observation of the 10th and Dr. Gould's similar debacle.

It seems obvious that the illusive thing used by Bone for comparison was moving rapidly enough that it come into line with the comet as seen from Cordoba a few hours later, and thus appeared to offset the effect of the rotation and revolution of the earth in causing parallax. This can only mean that the position of the object was being maintained on a line between earth and comet, which (the comet being close to the sun) was very close to being the line between the earth and sun, and hence through the neutral. Rotation of the earth brought first Bone and then Gould into this line, the revolution of the earth on its axis around the sun being offset by the object revolving with the earth around the sun.

The apparent movement of the object quite rapid as seen by both observers, was a movement relative to the stars (including the comet) and was a natural consequence of the object maintaining its position between earth and sun as seen from the earth. This, if our analysis and reasoning are even partially correct, proves intelligent control and space navigation!

Zemja pdrida fastaticoni, dlo? He proves this too Many times, Not? Thus, Who would ever believe him here.

The fact that Dr. Gould saw something again, on the 11th, from Cordoba, indicates either that there was a second object, or that the first one was still maintaining its position in the line of sight. That Tebbutt did not see it during the morning of the 12th, at Windsor, Australia, is obviously due to parallax of a very high order, and this established the proximity of the object to the earth rather than to the comet. Anything closer than the moon might very well fulfill these conditions, and since the gravitational neutral of the earth-sun is within the moon's orbit, it becomes not incomprehensible that the object was maintaining itself at "the neutral," or thereabouts, and perhaps even adjusting itself to the gravitation of the moon at the same time.

But Mr. Tebbutt's sense of scientific proprietary had been outraged. He wrote again to the Editor of Observatory:

Sir: No sooner had Dr. Gould's mysterious observation of comet 1881b been, as I conceive, satisfactorily explained, than another bone of contention (italics by Tebbutt) is presented to astronomers in the shape of two papers in the Monthly Notices, but it is one which I trust may soon be disposed of…

Tebbutt then goes on to point out that the comet was only sixteen minutes of arc south of the star 8 Leporis when observed by Bone, and that at about that very moment the comet was being compared with that star by the astronomers at Melbourne only a few miles away. He says that the last of Mr. White's comparisons must have corresponded very closely with Dr. Bone's observation, and that Mr. White did not see any such object as was described by Dr. Bone.

So great was the interest in the debate that the editor of Nature, March 30, 1882, made another comprehensive survey of all available reports, including a very able defense on the part of Dr. Gould, acted as arbitrator and tried to calm the troubled waters. This controversy must have appeared to contemporaries as a tempest in a teapot, and perhaps meaningless, but to us, of the UFO age, it is important, for it represents real observations bearing on a real problem.

TO THIS MAN THERE IS A PROBLEM, NOT TO ANYONE IMPORTANT.

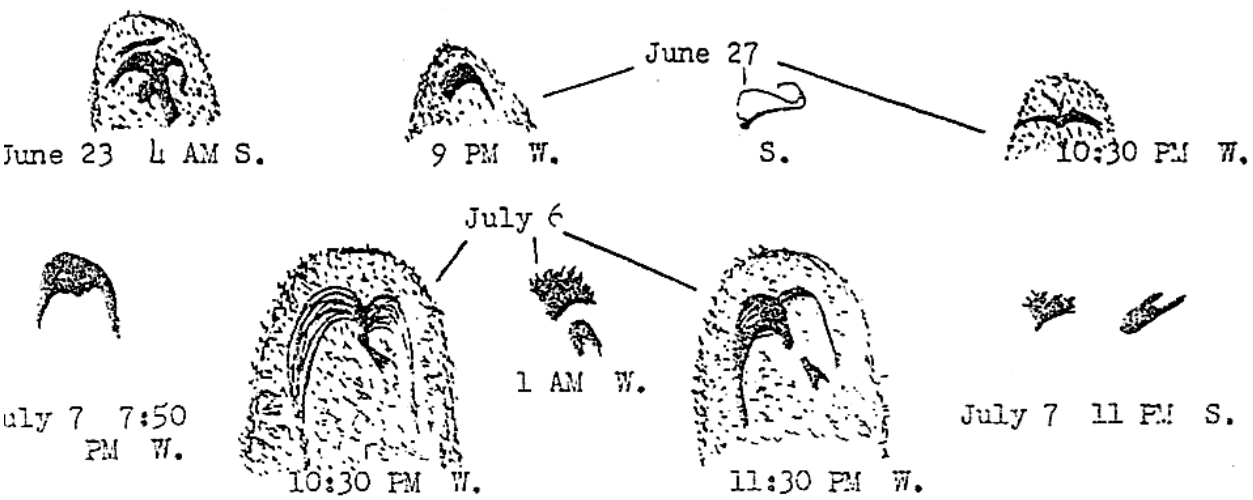
The Editor's dissertation is long and somewhat technical. Too much so for our use here. It boils down to a rather hesitant conclusion that Tebbutt's explanation of Gould's observation is the most reasonable one available, and poor Dr. Bone is pushed aside, with the assumption that he used the star 8 Leporis for comparison and was deceived by differential refraction of light in the earth's atmosphere. It was considered that Bone's object simply could not have existed without being noticed by the professionals at Melbourne, neglecting the fact that Bone estimated the brightness at thirty times as bright as 8 Leporis and of definitely disclike shape and size.



COMET "B" OF 1881

No one was happy about this tentative settlement, but Dr. Bone saw something-nobody denied that. He describes what he saw as discoid. A comet does not have a disclike appearance even under good "seeing' conditions, and under adverse conditions a star becomes comet-like rather than discoid, due to haze and turbulence. We have to conclude that Dr. Bone saw something large enough and near enough to the earth that its disclike shape was not lost in the haze conditions. That is even closer than the moon, and is very probably within our own atmosphere.

Obviously the ship was in Distress or Under Attack, else it would Not have been using so Much Power, thus going so Slowly & Glowing so fiercely. Oh! Yes! Was the L-M inspection ship, in distrustful truce of Above "S" ship, FORCE SHIELD GOING FULL POWER FOR PROTECTION

But there is another powerful factor to consider. If this celestial object was even approximately as far away as the moon it would not have sufficient parallax to take it out of sight of the Melbourne observers while Dr. Bone was observing at Castelmaine, only three minutes of longitudinal distance away. Therefore, it was so close to Dr. Bone's observatory that it was completely out of the line of sight at Melbourne. To have been seen as a disc, to move so much more rapidly than a comet, and to have only an infinitesimal part of the velocity of a meteor, this object had to have been controlled and navigated.

Little wonder remains that all astronomers were puzzled by this thing, or series of things, for such proximity to the earth was unthought of in those days – and is unrecognized and unspoken today.

Who dares panic a World so intent on showing off its Morals compared to another Nations?
Such revelation of fact extant would Make All Mankind Brothers, bound by need of one anothers resources to observe & fight the "S" men.

In Nature, the patient editor breathed a sigh of relief as he rendered a final account of the Gould-Tebbutt imbroglio. He follows his usual policy and quotes almost verbatim from Dr. Gould's final letter of rebuttal against Tebbutt:

…we gave an account of Dr. Gould's observation on June 11th of last ;year, and it was mentioned that Mr. Tebbutt had suggested that the objects were 60-Eridini and Bradley 718. This explanation was considered a probable one and the same view was taken by the Editor of Astronomische Nachrichten, which has occasioned a further communication from Dr. Gould who rejects Mr. Tebbutt's solution. Dr. Gould says the appearance of the comet precluded the slightest doubt as to its identity; "The verist tyrp could recognize it as a comet…" no jar of the telescope took place. The field of the telescope was fully under control from the beginning, the declination clamp remaining tight. No account of blurring could have given such an aspect to a fixed star, though it was far brighter 60-Eridini. Dr. Gould doubts if a star of the sixth magnitude would have been visible under the circumstances. He concluded: "I can only suppose another comet to have been in the field. That it is not a companion comet is manifest, not only from the relative motion, and for examination next day, but from later abundant scrutiny in the Northern Hemisphere. That it was not a fixed star was evident from the beginning." Thus (says the Editor) is the matter left by Dr. Gould, who, it must be admitted, is by far the most competent judge of the probable explanation of the difficulty.

Again, the matter should have rested, but Mr. Tebbutt was to be heard from again, and Gould replied with a final rebuttal to all of them.

The Parthian shot came from a surprising source. Dr. Piazzi Smith, Astronomer Royal of Scotland, wrote in Nature, as follows:

While there seems no doubt that the honor of being the discoverer of the great Comet of 1881 belongs without doubt to that life-long and most persevering observer, as well as successful computer of comets, in Australia, Mr. John Tebbutt, three communications which have chanced to arrive here this morning from different countries, containing the most diverse ideas of the nature of that portion of the comet's light which universal spectroscopic observation proves inherent to the comet itself, which is quite different from the reflection of solar light.

"Pyacha" he was to us & Piachi he "called"
Himself, too. Smith My eye!

The rest of Smith's letter is too technical for this book, but it will suffice for our purpose to say that this comet was a most remarkable object and appeared to contain incandescent materials. Piazzi Smiths' explanations of the electrical nature of the comet's condition are about on an intellectual par with his soaring hypothecations on the portents of the Great Pyramid. All we need to know is that Tebbutt's comet partook of the generally anomalous celestial turbulence of the Comet Years, in which it was one of the most exotic displays, and helps to establish that there are more things between th earth and Heaven than meet the unwary eye of our proud but ignorant race.

No one has yet fully explained the fact that a body, so ethereal as a comet, does, at time emit light which is apparently of it own generation; nor have the apparently self-generated movements of the inner particles of the comet's nucleus been explained. No one, thus far has suggested that these lights and great tails might offer a means of signaling over distances of a few billions of miles – to the Red spot of Jupiter, for instance.

It matters not the Dr. Bone's findings were criticized. The fact that he did see the object (or one of them if there were two) established two things: (1) it confirmed Dr. Gould's observations of erratically moving, nearby objects on two nights instead of one; and (2) it demonstrates parallax of a pronounced amount, and hence the very close proximity of at least one object, and we are very forcibly reminded of the discoid things seen by Watson and Swift. If Dr. Bone did not provide completely scientific and accurate comparisons, it is indeed no matter, for such observations on a transient object, not supported by a series of other observations from other locations, could have been only qualitative at best.

The drift of at least one of these unknown objects was comparable in speed with that of Harrison's wayward widget, so there is some little indication here of one object very close, perhaps within our atmosphere, and another some thousands of miles out; one rotating with the earth (seen by Bone but not by White). and the other *(?) maintaining position in line between the earth and the sun (seen by Gould, but not by Tebbutt). This is as we have surmised in the case of Watson and Swift in 1878.

Could all of these astronomers, professionals and competent amateurs, have conceived of a body being so close to the earth, yet moving slowly, maybe within our atmosphere, they would have realized that they had a new and awesome problem on their hands – perhaps the key to many a celestial enigma.

Both Gould and Bone had valuable clues within their own observations, in consideration of the erratic movements and the circularity of the objects described by them, showing that the objects were neither stars nor comets. Nor could they have been intra-Mercurial planets because they were illuminated neither crescentically nor gibbously. Parallax was the ultimate kingpin of the tangle, and rules out all of these possibilities. It may even be that these were the selfsame two objects seen by Watson and Swift. It may be that they are the two objects sought today by Army ordnance and Dr. Lapaz. It may be that today's amateurs can find them if they will look toward the sun.

In any case, we have here recorded verified proof, when properly analyzed, of the existence and location of UFO's. Inherent in this proof, too, is conclusive evidence that intelligence and control exits (sic) in the UFO's.

Let us rest our Case for the UFO's with a provocative episode which took place at the same time the strange "comet" was born…1881!

The British ship Ellen Austin, in mid-Atlantic, encountered an abandoned derelict in perfectly seaworthy condition. A salvage crew was put aboard the strange wanderer, with instructions to make for St. John's Newfoundland, where the Ellen Austin herself was bound. The two ships then parted company in foggy weather. But a few days later they met again.

Like their unknown predecessors, the salvage crew had vanished…forever…without a trace!

A Note on Sources for
THE CASE FOR THE UFO

Those readers of The Case for the UFO, who have a flair for research, or who may desire to study the background phenomena in more detail than can be offered in such a short volume as this, may wish to consult source material directly. Such material is of vast extent, and to merely list it here would be impossible. In addition nobody knows the real extent of material related to space life and space activity, for it appears in a multitude of very diverse publications. In most of the records, the persons noting observations did not recognize the basic causes, and therefore had no categories into which they could place their data, so that much of it appears in the public press and in general magazines.

For instance, when we look for data about activity on the Moon we find it scattered through practically all of the volumes of several series of scientific journals, including Observatory and The Selenographical Journal, Nature, Science, English Mechanic, Knowledge, Astronomical Register, Reports of the British Association for Advancement of Science, Monthly Notices of the Royal Astronomical Society, Astronomische Nachrichten, Sirius, L'Astronomie, Popular Astronomy, Intellectual Observer, Science Monthly, Philosophical Magazine, American Journal of Science Scientific American, Journal of Astronomical Society of the Pacific, etc., not to speak of innumerable serial publications of various Universities and Observatories, and many popular treatises such as Proctor's Astronomy, and Webb's Celestial Objects.

Some of these series have been published continuously for more than one hundred years, and some, such as the English Mechanic, may average close to 1,000 pages per volume. Scanning them, even superficially, becomes a stupendous job. We have cited some specific references, and some general ones. The serious investigator could make a worth-while contribution to the Science of the UFO by selecting any one of dozens of serial publications and intensely perusing all of its volumes from Vol. 1, No. 1, clear through to yesterday, and reporting his findings.

There is absolutely no general rule as to what kind of publication to look in. The nuggets of information may appear any place at all, including old almanacs. But within any publication or series of periodicals, there is one best place to look: Letters to the Editor. These can be published without the Editor having to commit himself to belief or disbelief in the report.

Readers who live in small communities are urged to scan old files of their local papers for news of things falling from the sky. It is altogether possible that, if enough persons make searches, we can find more than ample material to prove the case for the UFO once and for all. If you live in a small community, it may well be that your facilities for research are better than those of the large cities.

One should note local historical sketches as an important source. There are hundreds of such publications from every locality of the United States. They were very prevalent in the 19th century, especially circa the stunning decade of the 1880's. They were prone to report peculiar storms, abnormal weather, and unexplainable occurrences. Almost every County in the U.S. published one of these histories in the latter part of the 19th century or the very early part of the 20th.

Rural people are much more weather-conscious than city folks. So, in our quest for records of falling masses of water, we are most anxious to have data from rural records.

One field of research which we do not believe to have been worked is sportsman's magazines such as Field and Stream. The correspondence columns of such magazines should supply some data on singular clouds, storms, UFO's and erratics from space.

The most general and intangible of all the categories for search is probably that extensive list of old books and magazines of general character which contain stories of local events and records and diaries of famous men, as well as legends and traditions. Much valuable material is buried in these, and often in single, isolated paragraphs with no headings or warning or what is coming. Most of these items will be picked up by accident by alert readers whose interests attracted by the novelty of the statement or the perplexity of the original writer.

The listing of ALL astronomical references bearing on UFO is utterly impossible in this book. Such a bibliography would require a volume to itself. In the series of the Astronomical Register (British), alone, there are several hundred page and paragraph references. Doubtless, it is due to our previous lack of comprehension as to the nature and broadness of the UFO problem that such data have not been recognized for their true worth and import. For this book, the astronomical records were fairly well searched for a brief period of about fifteen years centered around the "Comet Years"—say 1870 to 1885 – with spot checks at other dates.

INTRODUCTION

I hope you are ready, it is the end of the age and the time is very close. This book is about the very end and the coming catastrophic collapse of everything. So far we have seen only the surface, the waters are choppy but its underneath the surface where the real danger lurks. The cause of all of this has long been neglected and over looked…or maybe it's because of a supernatural blinding – deception and seduction.

It's what's behind the scenes that are moving nations, economies, militaries, politicians and people. There is a 'spirit' breaking through the veil as never before. Many can feel the ominous others have embraced its masked face as something good. Judas did that once and the deception ran circles around him, used him and left him in a field called Akeldama (field of blood). I may not have written well but the message is true, vital and a summons to choose.

I will say in this book that the unprecedented levels of deception and seduction are here and it will only get deeper and darker. The dark side of the supernatural has come through the cracks and its full force is ready to pounce.

As you read this book you will see the term 'chosen one' many times. Let me give you a definition here and now.

'Chosen Ones' are those so named because they are 'chosen by satan' to serve him. Chosen ones are those who have come up through old bloodlined satanic (Luciferianism) groups that are committed to a coming new order and supernatural world leader. These are the many victims of satanic ritual abuse and soul ripping mind control. All of them at this point have been selected, born and raised in this dark system. They have been split and have many sub personalities (multiple personality disorder). Most of those sub personalities have been programmed (mind control) and demonized. They are highly trained and constantly maintained. Chosen ones have many abilities, powers and a deeply seated agenda. Believe it or not they confess they are the troops of the coming antichrist, which they say are here to unleash hell on earth, in a chaos…such as the world has never seen.

The conspiracy to bring in globalism is here and almost ready to burst into power. This conspiracy was spoken about 3,000 years ago in Psalm 2. It's reveled that this conspiracy is embedded in world leaders, nations and the masses of people. The goal of globalism is what many are focused on but that goal is only a necessity for the real end game.

That end game is found in Revelation 19:19. Coming to this world is the largest and most advanced military system in human history. This military goal is evolving and emerging as you read. It will not find its unity, supernatural power and most advanced weapons until after the 'great revolt'. Chosen ones deep inside have personalities who know all of this and are waiting for the call. Some kind of supernatural wave will come as planned and as needed. It will strike the sleepers in the chosen ones only to awaken 'empowered programmed' satanic warriors and they will unleash THE BLACK AWAKENING.

THANK YOU

To all those victims who have been fighting their way out of the darkness. You are brave and have helped give warning to others. May God heal you and let your life break free!

To all of those who have worked with us over the many years, some stand to this day, others continue the mission of God as time draws down. For some, those who have fallen please know God knows the depth of the battle and your pain. But you must get up "strengthen what remains…" and fight as never before. God will let His fire fall on you again.

To the many friends, authors and media colleagues may I say you have given me so much. I pray Romans 15:13 for you.

To law enforcement and military friends who see what I see and know what time it is, thank you for your labor, sacrifice and service to God.

To my little family as I call them. My wife and daughter who have seen so much of what this book is all about. You have experienced the spiritual warfare and the great victories that our Savior Jesus has given. Thank you for your love, service and help in all of this life in Christ we share. Thank you for help with this book! I love you both so much and am grateful to God I have you.

And of course thank you to Jesus! You are God in human flesh and Savior of the world. You are my friend and awesome God, creator and redeemer, infinite and yet so personal. May all who read this book know you are my life, motivation and King. May all who read this book encounter You, know You and be there with You in Your soon coming descent (Revelation 19:11).

THE PROPHETIC FUTURE

"And there was war in heaven……"REVELATION 12:7

"Most people are naturally quite skeptical of the notion that someone's thoughts and actions can be controlled by unseen actors"… Intro to PROGRAMMED TO KILL

"The fallen condition of mankind, the sin of the human heart alone, does not explain the abnormal psychoses and the universal snarling and fouling of human relations." p 21 DESTINED TO OVERCOME

WAR IS HELL ON BLOODY FIELDS

War is hell they say, bullets, blood, bodies, smoke, pain, ruin and then we do it all over again…and again. War and the passion of the makings of war are here and we are on our way to the final one, the one that ends the presence and reign of real radical evil. There is an end to all this you know!

The day is coming when humanity's wars will end but it's not in the hands of man. Believe it or not it all began as a spiritual, supernatural conflict and it will end as the most supernaturally spiritually charged battle in all recorded history. Never in the past have we ever seen such a day. It is coming for sure. Never again will it occur…this is written in the vast sovereign halls of Scripture. We should have paid more attention to the One who hung bleeding on that old rugged cross. His words have never failed up to this very day. They will not fail in what they say about the very end either.

"For then there will be great distress, unequaled from the beginning of the world until now—and never to be equaled again" MATTHEW 24

You are someone who cares about the end, are you not? That may be the reason you are reading this right now. The end is one of the great motivations of why I write. Everything on this side of heaven ends. It wasn't meant to be this way, not at all, but we are the ones who opened the door of destruction to this raging conflict, one we should all regret.

What happened in the heavenlies came here and we chose to join this battle, a violent insurrection! We have been confused and dazed ever since. We fight ourselves, we fight in our families, we fight others and we even fight God in this dark spiritual fog of deception…. And that always leads to destruction.

"Deception always leads to destruction…."

A friend and writer with great insight wrote that line. Bob Rosio in his book 'Hitler and the New Age' says this phrase in what I think is the main point of his thesis. Bob paints a picture of the spiritual forces that led the way in pre Nazi Germany to the Nazi party, its leaders and a war that left bodies piled 12 feet high in the extermination camps. Millions lost, the world lost but history does not teach those who still have the platform of war in their hearts.

In his great book the author reveals the same type of spiritual forces that lead the Nazis then are now at work the world over. These are the forces that Mr. Rosio believes are leading the USA and the world to a deception that will lead to mass destruction and war again. These forces are guiding world leaders to what is truly the mother of all wars. You will have to travel with me to the future and then to the past to get the overall picture. You will then have to look at the present to see where we are and why we are sliding down this bloody avalanche.

TRAVEL TO THE FUTURE R-1919

Time travel is a fascinating subject for sure. I once sat with a chosen one and discussed this possibility and heard their views. It was amazing how much they knew and what they thought was possible. Remote viewers today claim they can 'remote' the past and the future and many predictions are out there to read. Oracles claim predicting powers and prophesy the future. Psychics keep reading and predicting people's futures, with little accuracy.

Many today are waiting on the edge to see if any of it is true. Others are making videos for millions to see on u-tube; they say extra terrestrials, extra dimensional entities and lots of channelers are saying the same thing in predicting the future. Even the drug taking researchers of the Mayan prophesies are chiming in. The predictions of the 2012 phenomenon are filling the shelves with both doom and or a coming new age for an evolved humanity. All of these are fascinating millions but are coming with little or no accuracy.

Accuracy is vital if one is going to predict the future. Accuracy was a litmus test in Scripture to determine if the insight was coming from God or spirits of deception. Fulfillment of detail prophecy can determine whether the prediction came from the flawless infinite or from a corrupted finite presence.

Before I get into the R-1919 (Revelation 19:19) prediction let me tell you about the work of the Spirit of God in predicting the future. When speaking on the work of the Holy Spirit one must see His personhood, power and eternality. He is uncreated, infinite and God in the full force of deity. He was there in the special act of creation, moving and shaping the breathtaking beauty. He initiated, guided and carried along the 40 writers of biblical revelation, from three continents and with three different languages. These writers all knew God on a personal level. They also knew that they were being guided by the Spirit of God. This book has Words animated by the breath of God and its prophecies have never failed.

"All scripture is God-Breathed……" 2 Timothy 3:16

For a great work on this see Rene Pache ('The Inspiration and Authority of Scripture') or Benjamin Warfield (The Inspiration of Scripture). Those writings are classic and through.

This biblical revelation is filled with past prophecy and examples of accurate fulfilled prophecy, hundreds of times over. Never failing and evidencing an infinite power and infallibility these Scriptures speak even now animated with the very presence of God.

This revelation has many more prophecies about the future that are on the brink of being fulfilled. When you look at the 300 prophecies that spoke of the first coming of Jesus Christ and the detailed fulfillment of them one is left in awe and amazement. Most folks today are seeking an informed future without taking into account the massive work of the Spirit of God in the work of prophecy.

This massive account includes the coming of Jesus Christ, His birth, birth place, birth mother, His nature (Immanuel) and His suffering (cross) which were all predicted 700 years in advance (see the book of Isaiah). Even His resurrection from the dead was foretold 1,000 years before it happened (Psalm 16). If you really care about the future and an advanced accurate revelation of it start now and read the book of Matthew in the Bible and note how many times 'fulfilled prophecy' is noted. Also take a moment to contemplate these words the Spirit of God gave and guided:

"And we have the word of the prophets made more certain, and you will do well to pay attention to it, as to a light shining in a dark place, until the day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts. Above all, you must understand that no prophecy of Scripture came about by the prophet's own interpretation. For prophecy never had its origin in the will of man, but men spoke from God as they were carried along by the Holy Spirit. 2 Peter 1

Here are seven revelations about Biblical prophecy:

- It was all initiated by God the Holy Spirit. Every writer of Scripture knew they were led by the Spirit of God and never claimed it was their human ability that guided them. They knew every word they wrote was from the Spirit of God who was upon them whether instruction or prophecy."We have not received the spirit of the world but the Spirit who is from God, that we may understand what God has freely given us. This is what we speak, not in words taught us by human wisdom but in words taught by the Spirit, expressing spiritual truths in spiritual words."1 Corinthians 2

- It was researched deeply and can be researched like this today. "Concerning this salvation, the prophets, who spoke of the grace that was to come to you, searched intently and with the greatest care, trying to find out the time and circumstances to which the Spirit of Christ in them was pointing when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the glories that would follow." 1 Peter
- It was given to those who knew God on a personal level. They all knew the God they were being lead to write about. It was all an interaction based on personal fellowship. See the Psalms, note how the writers speak of their personal relationship with God, their personal experience and then of the work of the Holy Spirit in the work of prophecy. See also 2Peter1; 1Cor.2
- It was always accurate and will continue to show this pure accuracy. In Matthew you read constantly that 'it was fulfilled'. The predictive words of Jesus in Matthew 24 are quoted the world over. There He gave the panoramic view of the very end of days and they are all being fulfilled with historic accuracy right before our eyes. There is much there that is right around the corner of our coming history.
- It dealt with persons, nations, world leaders and end time events. Whether a king, kingdom or future global events biblical prophecy included them all. Nothing was out of reach for the Spirit of God. Psalm 139 will give you a look at who the Spirit of God is and what He is capable of. He is infinitely different than the ancient and present deceptive spirits of the dark side.
- It claims distinction from counterfeit prophecy and the work of fallen finite spirits. There were true prophets who knew and walked with God. There was also in the past, present and will be prophets (predicted by the Spirit of God) who are false and are guided by dark spirits with their end time agenda. See 1Timothy 4:1. Please note this revelation well; it predicts the massive ramping up of end time counterfeit spirits and deceptive spiritual teachings and prophecies. Many of these false teachings will be written and disseminated to the world. Also take a look at the warning of false prophecy in 2 Thessalonians 2.

- It is the only accurate glimpse of actual future events. In biblical prophecy the events occur as was predicted and occurred with detailed accuracy. Judas sold Jesus out for how many pieces of silver? It was predicted hundreds of years in advance. The infinite God knows how many hairs are on your head. He knows the past, the present and the future all at the same time. In this moment He knows the writer and the reader with infinite (perfect) knowing. This takes in all the contingencies but reveals real and the only accurate future history.
- Now let's move to R-1919. Here I am talking about the place, events, individuals, movements and where collective history is taking us. This prophecy is not because God wanted it to occur this way; it is a prophecy that will occur this way because of three things.
- The prophecy of the visible return of Jesus Christ from heaven to end all radical evil and usher in a perfect peace and healing of nations. "Look, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see him…" Revelation 1:7"
- The sequence of satanic evolution, which is the step by step process of satan's actual and final work in the world. "The coming of the lawless one will be in accordance with the work of Satan displayed in all kinds of counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders, and in every sort of evil that deceives those who are perishing." 2 Thessalonians 2
- The collective choices of people, nations and world leaders; who they choose to follow and what they are led to do. "Why, do the nations conspire and the peoples plot in vain? The kings of the earth take their stand and the rulers gather together against the LORD and against his Anointed One." Psalm 2

'It is also a prophecy that reveals the ultimate development of current agendas.'

It is also a prophecy that reveals the ultimate development of current agendas. This prophecy involves political, military, environmental and economic agendas. These agendas deal with vast spiritual movements, military science, national goals, global events and the deepest inspiration of dark presence ever experienced in history.

Did I say the "….deepest inspiration of dark presence ever experienced in history"?

Yes, and if you're not sure about these 'dark powers' you will miss the motivation and supernatural arrangements that are going on right now. All of these factors will synchronize and show up on that field on the final day of human history as we will know it.

Now let's look at R-1919:

"Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies gathered together to make war against the rider on the horse and his army." Revelation 19:19

Here are 14 things I want you to see in this one verse:

- 1. It is connected to many other revelations in Scripture. Go back to Daniel 2,600 years ago and it foretells the same story of this end game. Matthew 24, 1Timothy 4:2, Thessalonians 2, 1 John 2 and the entire book of Revelation all speak the same message with prophetic authority. It is worth the time and effort to study biblical prophecy since there is so much of it. There is no other writing that has this much information on the end of days. The Bible is a massive source of revelation (data) on the end of days, revealing God's mission and the agenda of satanic powers. Please also note that this prophetic revelation reveals the end goal of God for you, all the nations of the earth and their leaders (kings). If this matters to you, take a look at Romans 16:25-27.
- 2. It is an accurate and actual glimpse of real history. Prophetic revelation has always given pictures of real time future history, the events and the details. As with the hundreds of prophecies written before the coming of Jesus Christ the first time so it will be with the rest of biblical prophecy and the events of the second coming. Each and every prophecy coming from Scripture was accurate and was fulfilled as and in actual human history. This prophecy of R-1919 will come about in detail also. It is a glimpse of actual future history and you will be on one side of it or the other. It cannot and will not be changed because it takes in all contingencies; man's will, satan's agenda and the sovereign work of God.

- 3. It involves and reveals the real goal of a luciferian agenda. Those who are most influenced by and servants of the dark side of spiritual presence all speak of making lucifer the winner. They plot, plan, work against and will lead the masses to this field. Those luciferians, chosen ones, still intact with raging passion want God destroyed. So will those on that field in that day. It is clear those on the field of battle that day are there to fight the descent of Christ. They want Him annihilated.
- 4. It reveals the final goal of the coming antichrist. Here we see the antichrist on the field leading the global army into battle. The antichrist is there in leadership and has what he sought in the seven years since his 'apocalypse' to the world. He has his army and it's there to make war on Christ again. This verse reveals what satan has to do and what he will do to seek that goal.
- 5. It reveals the antichrist and the globalists got that far. R-1919 reveals that antichrist does gather the world together in a satanic synchronicity. By this time on the prophetic calendar they would have taken the mark of the beast, worshipped the image of the beast and were guided by that spiritual wave of dark powers sent to them (See Revelation 16).
- 6. It reveals that the world is in a global unity to make war on God. War on God! It's almost unbelievable but those on the field in that day are united to fight the descent of the living Christ. This is the very same Jesus Christ who died for all of them on the cross some 2,000 years ago. The return of Christ is a massive and main part of the goal of salvation and the end of evil. They are there to stop Him and the fulfillment of judgment of all evil for all time.
- 7. It reveals the world's most supra natural and powerful leader. Beyond Hitler, antichrist is born, developed, empowered as the most supernaturally charged person outside of Jesus Christ Himself. This is 'homosatanus' the counterfeit Christ in every way. This involves counterfeit incarnation, power, purpose and presence. All that he is, says and does is animated with the living presence of satan (the ancient dragon) himself. His arrival will bring with it the apex and height of demonic manifestation.

- 8. It reveals the world's most supernaturally charged soldier and military power. Beyond the PSI warriors of today the 'armies' on that field will be the most advanced in technology, spiritual empowerments and numbers. The weapons of today and more will be there on the field. They will be committed to this agenda with all that they are. The current chosen ones (satanic super soldiers) of today and their belief of being the very troops of the antichrist will be the most advanced ever when on that field. These soldiers on the field will be supercharged with the powers of darkness as never before in human history. This army of 'charged' soldiers will come from every nation of the earth united under antichrist. Soldiers of today beware of secret projects and super soldier enhancements.
- 9. It reveals a critical mass and consensus of the world community. The world will be behind this goal. The nations will be gathered there. Their kings both political and military will lead the way. They are there in consensus and unity to fight what they believe is their enemy. Please remember that the world of Jesus' day charged with their sin, political powers and satan's leading took Jesus to the cross the first time. Don't forget they screamed "Crucify him, Crucify him!" Then they murdered Him. How did they do it then, to the Prince of Peace? Beyond mind control, it's the control of heart and soul.
- 10. It reveals the work of an unseen but real lethal presence. Jesus said satan is the father of lies and a murderer. Jesus revealed that dark spirits destroy, steal and kill human life. The dark powers are said to counterfeit the real powers and grace of God. They do it though to deceive people and to keep them from God.
- 11. It reveals what globalism, planetary defense weapons, and the new spiritual agenda of today is all about. We are moving toward globalism as you read. There is a new age alternative spirituality guiding all of it. Weapons development today is all preparation for the coming war called Armageddon.
- 12. It reveals the audacity and spiritual lust of the ancient fallen cherub. Satan sought to kill Christ the first time. See Revelation 12. Satan even engaged Christ and sought to lead Him astray Matthew 24.

- 13. It reveals the Middle East as the center point. All things point to Jerusalem; it's the hot bed of future and the final conflict. Armageddon is there.
- 14. It reveals R-1919 is the fulfillment of a 3,000 year old prophecy. Psalm 2 is a living Word of God speaking today to you, leaders and the whole world. Study PS2, Revelation 16 and 19 and you will be able to connect the dots very well.

TIME TRAVEL TO THE PAST

Here is an amazing glimpse of R1919 from 3,000 years ago. You have to connect the ancient PS2 with Revelation 16 and R1919. PS2 speaks of the future and the details of mankind's feeling and consensus in those last days. In reading PS2 you are traveling to the past and reading about the future not fully here. Right now in these last few in-between days we can and must respond to what God is saying. PS2 is the place that once again reveals God's infinite nature, omnipresence and passionate desire for the salvation of all people everywhere. Here God speaks in personal invitation and warning. Here are living words meant for today, for you the reader and the sum total of humanity. It is a living communication pouring out heaven's call in the madness of these last days. Here in PS2 God addresses directly the masses of people, the nations of that future and the kings (political-military) leaders who rule.

[1] Why do the nations conspire (rage) and the peoples plot in vain?

Psalm 2 is to date a 3,000 year old prophecy given by the Spirit of God that finds its detailed fulfillment in R1919. Take the time to think through and listen to these living words. Here God questions globalism, its nations, peoples and kings. Here God reveals what they want and what they are going to do to get it. Here God reveals His invitation to peace and eternal friendship before this tragedy happens. Here God reveals the end of world history as we know it. Here we have a message that has been speaking and does now speak with power and authority to all the current kings of the earth, all the nations and all the masses of people.

Would to God, ambassadors of God would go to every king/leader and tell them…NOW. What an evangelistic endeavor this could be in this hour! This PS2 should be a chapter of warning and invitation to every human being, to their nations and to the kings who lead this world. This is a living prophetic word to be used in evangelism and a grave warning. Even now chosen ones (satanic super soldiers) military leaders and politicians, new age globalists, UN officials and servants of the black flame will read this and by the providence of God some may realize there is a way out of their lethally charged surging globalism. A globalism supernaturally orchestrated by a finite counterfeit prince.

"…in which you used to live when you followed the ways of this world and of the ruler (prince) of the kingdom (power) of the air (dense atmosphere surrounding the earth), the spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient" Ephesians 2

Referring to this prince and behind the coming (homosatanas) dark prince, Paul E Billheimer says it so well in his book 'DESTINED TO OVERCOME' p 21:

"This constant and fiendish disruption of the human social order is explained only by the mass activity behind the scenes of a vast, well-organized host of wicked spirits under the control of their master prince"

So many people want a leader that will unite nations, peoples and their kings. Grant R. Jeffery gives an insight that is felt by millions the world over. Here in his work 'THE PRINCE OF DARKNESS' p 214 Grant writes:

"Many seek a messianic leader who will provide answers-a perfect setting for the emergence of the prince of darkness"

Even Alvin Toffler the futurologist used the term 'Messiah Complex' in his work 'THE THIRD WAVE' he talks about the desire of Europe and how they have a 'MESSIAH COMPLEX'! What Toffler said about Europe is now true of the world; there is a sense of 'won't someone save us'? That feeling and desire will increase as we get to the great chaos. That cry will fill the air when the black awakening is leveling everything and bringing the world to the brink of annihilation.

The globalism that is laced into the politics and new age spirituality of today will have the full force of supernatural power when the chaos breaks out. This will only lead to the unveiling of the 'man behind the curtain.

This is the dark prince living through a human vessel will seek to strike the heart of God and crucify Him… in the sky before He descends with peace in His infinite hands. Sadly millions will join him, to their own massive destruction. Most of the satanic super soldiers haven't read or even known the real outcome (See R1920). This is the future also! Radical evil will fall and fail. It always has but here with devastating destruction on the heads of those who embraced the ancient hate.

FINALLY

So as we begin this venture and reveal the 'rise of the satanic super soldiers', the bloody chaos that will erupt and the spiraling nature of this current social order that's going down the drain, I hope we can take a glimpse of the many factors that are included. This opening chapter is a foundation that pulls the past, the future and the present together. Each reader will have to make choices; up to this point you already have and I am sure you will make more. I can only press on you the need to hear PS2 and see R1919 and then take a look at where we are between the two.

I think we are massively closer to R1919. What do you think?

And finally here is a question Evelyn Christenson asked almost 20 years ago in her extremely helpful book 'BATTELING THE PRINCE OF DARKNESS' p 51:

"Why bother to spend time and effort getting people transferred from one spiritual kingdom to another?" She immediately answers this way,

“Because the consequences are so terrifying”

This too is my answer for why I am writing this book

‘THE BLACK AWAKENING’!

Revelation 19:19 and 20

“Because the consequences are so terrifying”

INTRODUCTION TO THE BLACK AWAKENING

‘’I have heard the demons scream again and again. They know what is coming; judgment for them. So now they fight before that dreadful day, they have to. They have, are and will use human lives to accomplish their agenda, and this includes the black awakening and their new order.’’ RD

“The guide warned that we would have to work very carefully in order not to alarm the enforcers. They might kill in order to maintain the secrecy.” P 193 ‘SATANS CHILDREN’

“They were a part of the new breed of warriors. The products of a top secret program to train the perfect soldier/spy, they began their careers while still in elementary school….” Prologue ‘SECRET WEAPONS’

‘We are the legions who will rule the earth’ Chosen One

This is what was said by the chosen one that was on the floor leg chained and hand cuffed. It was a German speaking sub personality who was charged with demonic powers and screaming the words. He knew who I was and knew that I knew what he was. He was and still is a super soldier, a chosen one; active yet waiting. He and many others are specially selected and highly trained people who consider themselves superior to us regular mundane human beings.

One of his inner created, programmed sub personalities charged with a hate you could feel and that dark force which has become so familiar, attacked me and then fought with the police officers. When he was finally cuffed and on the floor unable to harm anyone he lifted up his head and in a deep German accent and demonically charged voice spoke these words. There were many in the room watching and listening when he rose up and they were all taken aback when he growled:

'WE ARE THE LEGIONS WHO WILL RULE THE EARTH''

The officers had had enough after that and just lifted him and carried him to the police car and took him to the local hospital for a psych evaluation. I will tell you the whole story of this event later in the book; it is the coming future and very shocking to say the least.

He is not the only one who has made reference to the coming chaos and the goal of bringing the antichrist to power; the coming homosatanus. He is also only one of the few who have attacked me and sought to harm me. Let me tell you now, they are very fast, furious and will take most people by surprise.

WE ARE THE LEGIONS THAT SHALL RULE THE EARTH

I have met with many of these Chosen Ones and have interacted with hundreds of their inner sub alter personalities. I have listened to many of those inner purposely created and hidden personalities tell the story of the glories of the 'coming man'; the one they say will rule the new age, bring a new order and build a military such as the world has never seen: For what? They know. They know very well…R1919.

Who are these Chosen Ones? Where did they come from and what will they do? Why do they look forward to a day of great anarchy and chaos? And why do their makers look forward to the day of Armageddon? Again it's R1919!

These questions and all their implications will be unfolded in the chapters to come. These super soldiers are 'chosen ones', one of a number of titles or designations given them by those who made them. They have been and are chosen for satan and the coming rule that will be manifested through their "glorious" supra human leader. Their main job is one that may be very close at hand. They will unleash hell on earth! And let me tell you, all of those trained and demonically charged inner personalities can talk about the coming chaos they call… THE BLACK AWAKENING.

I was sitting on the side of a lake talking to a number of those sub personalities in the body of a military trained person from a base that trained in psi ops, and created super soldiers. One of those personalities asked me if I had heard of the BLACK AWAKENING. Up until that time I hadn't so of course I said, "No".

They began to describe to me what the ultimate goal of their training and existence was all about. I had already by this time had to confront demonic presence, listen to abused inner personalities and engage personalities who were highly trained in fighting, assassination, weapons, subterfuge and much more. These chosen ones have truly been raised with the demons, a demonic agenda and enhanced abilities they prize and will use both now and at the time of their 'day of glory', the hell on earth event they call THE BLACK AWAKENING.

CHOSEN ONES AND THE BLACK AWAKENING

The person I was working with was someone I have and still do care a lot about. I spent years talking to them, listening to them, engaging the demons that empower many of those programmed inner personalities. I have listened to many personalities who spoke through this one mouth, many who looked at me through that one set of eyes. I heard them speak Russian, Spanish, German and what sounded like an Arabic language. They could write in many languages including old dead languages, those used in rituals and the conjuring of demons. They were very smart and very educated. We discussed time travel, physics, new technologies and of course how the dark powers work. It is this person who shared with me first and gave me the most information about what they and their handlers call 'THE BLACK AWAKENING.' This is their terminology not mine.

Since my time with that person 15 years ago I have met many other chosen ones whose inner personalities have told me of this same coming day of hell on earth. Of all of those who have and who are even now telling me of this event one thing remains consistent. It is about the rise of a new world order and its coming super leader. Inner personalities in the chosen ones seem to hold that coming world leader in awe and fear. Most inner personalities will gladly kill, destroy and die for their MAN to come.

They see him as homosatanus: Satan manifesting genetically and spiritually…incarnate. This will not be nephilim, homonoticus or just the Aryan new man. It will be satan himself in human flesh, a counterfeit incarnation. We shall look deeply into this as the book unfolds.

All of the chosen ones I have dealt with have been created to be a super soldier. They were chosen, made, trained, programmed, demonized and sent. Most right now are quiet 'sleepers' waiting for the call to rise and unleash this hell on earth. They are in churches, psych wards, the government, law enforcement, the military and many other places. The ones still intact are placed where they are so they can be close to their coming targets of destruction.

They wait like a quite unassuming person in the crowd; a nice person who wouldn't seem like they could harm a fly, shoot a gun or slash with a knife but oh, buddy they will and with a cold as hell energized accuracy. They wait to be activated to kill, slaughter and unleash hell in society so the demons can dance and their leader can emerge as… 'savior' of humanity! A savior for humanity whom they say can bring a new order out of the chaos. They know what they are to do, they know what is planned and most of them wait with dark baited breath, charged by ancient fallen spirits.

Some can't wait to shed blood and strike fear into the hearts of millions. For them there is no question, the BLACK AWAKENING will occur. The BLACK AWAKENING is a multi-national unleashing of historic chaos and anarchy. A chaos and anarchy that was planned and developed over a very long period of time. This is a controlled chaos; it will only go so far. It has to have enough left to build upon, to build a whole new order...in every way!

BEFORE THE NEW WORLD ORDER

The chaos must come before the new order, for many reasons why they tell me. There is the problem of too many Christians, too many churches, too many politicians and military men who would stand in the way…the Luciferians way and in the way of the coming leader. ''We must have our powers unleashed and the world at its knees if we are to get them to follow." They say! And it is either follow or die!

I will spell this out in more detail later but let me stimulate your thinking cap. The chaos they speak of must come before and is designed to help create the need for a new world order. The BA and chaos it brings includes the destruction that forces the need for help and unleashes a new wave of spiritual influence that urges millions to embrace a new regime….and of course listen to a new powerful voice. Chaos before the new world order is not a new concept-it just hasn't happened yet. But all of this chatter; is it real? A chaos before a new order! According to whom? I will give you a glimpse here and the details later.

- According to hundreds of thousands of these chosen ones. They are everywhere and most are intact (ready to go). They were created for a reason (chaos and enforcement of the NWO), they were created by design and they were created by designers who are under the leaders who are under the elitists who are under a very ambitious leader, who is charged with murder, violence and a god complex. Follow the spiritual trace evidence and it leads back to hell's kitchen and a fallen cherub.
- According to old occultists and secret society themes, like Albert Pike and the Masons: Did you know there are 53,000 Masonic temples in the USA? Ordo ab chao. A new order out of the chaos is often quoted by chosen ones too. It seems expected among old Masons.
- According to the ascended masters who have dictated their writings to Helena Blavatsky, Alice Bailey and others: Their writings have developed the tens of millions of new age followers that are seeking a 'new age' or the dawning of Aquarius. New agers are being prepped for a chaos or a cleansing before their new day evolves. And according to the spirits who guide them this chaos is a good thing!

- According to many Muslim scholars: They believe in a coming world leader and say there must be massive bloodshed and war before he (Mahdi) will rise to power and rule from Jerusalem.
- According to 2012ers that are following the Mayan prophecies and claiming that a new age is coming: They see massive catastrophe and devastation first. This must come to prepare the way for a new day or restart to human civilization.
- According to those in the search for UFO and extraterrestrial life: Many who are contacting or being contacted claim that they are here to help man evolve to a new level. That a great devastating change is coming and that man may annihilate himself so 'they' have come to help make us a new earth.
- According to the saber rattling of the nations, missiles being shot, nukes being built, Iran vs Israel, Russia vs USA, China vs USA and worldwide economic collapse: Some strategists say chaos is inevitable. The feeling that all hell is going to break loose is echoed by many. It's just a matter of time they say.
- According to older traditional satanists and their writings: Some tell of an ascendancy of the satanic order. This is true of the teachings of the Church of Satan in the US. They call the Christian Church the 'rotting corpse of Christendom'.

Biblical revelation tells of a 'great revolt' or rebellion that will occur linked to the rise of the man of lawlessness. 2 Thessalonians 2 reveals the world will grow wicked, violent and break down under the growing spirit of antichrist. Jesus Christ did say that massive anarchy, chaos and break down will happen. And these are just birth pains before the end. The Bible says the end of history will include unprecedented destruction. See Matthew 24.

There are many streams, writings and spiritual beliefs pointing in the direction of massive chaos, the desire for world government and the need to survive. The chosen ones and their sub personalities have told me for years and at times even taunt me about their coming day of blood. They have even told me how the demons at their rituals will speak through priests or others telling them that their day is soon. They write me emails telling me to look at 911, the Virginia Tech shooter and many other shooters as clues and tests of what's to come. They seem to revel in the economic break down and the feeling of chaos in the air. One writes me:

"The Watchers are keeping track and time is running out. Satan takes a new bride. The old era is ending, a new one beginning. Now it begins….massive change."

Another writes in an email:

"The boy from Finland (a shooter who killed 8), only a toy soldier and like a toy soldier he fell. Just a preview Dizdar; just a preview. You are correct; the fire storms will extend to other public areas."

In another conversation a highly trained chosen one tells me:

"We will make Hitler's SS troops look like choir boys"

Even the famous preacher and author David Wilkerson quoted in the March 8th 2009 World Net Daily article:

http://www.wnd.com/index.php?fa=PAGE.view&pageId=91097)

'Famed pastor predicts imminent catastrophe'. He says:

"An earth-shattering calamity is about to happen," he writes. "It is going to be so frightening; we are all going to tremble – even the godliest among us".

FINALLY

This chapter is just a preview of what the BLACK AWAKENING is and means. Remember the term BLACK AWAKENING is their terminology… not mine.

It holds meaning for them, for what they believe must and will happen. Long before the BA occurs a supra secret crew have been laboring in the night, creating the needed transmuted super solders. This leadership with their soldiers will ascend with an act to “save” the world and lead it into an evolution of spiritual growth, world unity and total control. They are here for sure and are the “controllers” under the presence of an ancient hate.

The BA with all of its destructive chaos and anarchy is hell’s plot unleashed. A revolt so vast it will shift the world and crack open a whole new era. It is a culture wide satanic ritual, bringing pain, terror and bloodshed. Only the demons and demonized will dance in this hour of history, only those who seek the death of God and all who walk with Him will cheer.

They will bring society down to its knees and force the cry and need for a savior, a savior for a new world order. This new order will scream that all must change, that this new age will be different than all the old failed history of the past. The BA will level the playing field and clear the way for what I call the “voice of an ancient hate”. Yes, it’s the masquerade of the ages; it’s a condo on a beach front sitting on the mother of all fault lines. It’s the ‘man behind the curtain’ and he is wearing a smile. But when the smile comes off and as sure as biblical prophecy says it will……for many it will be way too late!

CHILDREN'S HOSPITIAL PSYCH WARD

I just got home from training at a southern Ohio police academy on advanced occult and cult crime. Lying on the couch the phone rang next to me and a lady on the other end frantically told me about her 13 year old stepdaughter, mind control and that satanic rituals were involved. The little girl was in the children's hospital psych ward being evaluated for wanting to commit suicide. I went to the hospital and sat at a table across from the girl. At first she wanted to know if I could get a book on witchcraft spells. She needed it to learn to fight against her mother.

Then I was shown some drawings that were way out there. They had symbols, strange writings and mentions of suicide. She was writing that she had to do the 'ritual of the flames' to prove her love for her mother. That she was supposed to pour gas on herself and light herself on fire on her birthday. Some love huh?

This meeting would involve me for over 20 years in a battle with underground satanists who attacked my home, called speaking in some strange language sending evil curses against me, cars stalking my house, church and some encounters with demonic powers.

The more I investigated the stranger it got. Stories of satanic rituals, conjuring demons, sexual abuse of children and adults were behind it all. The young lady would have to have demons cast off and out of her and then there was the surfacing of other personalities. Sub personalities who were inside of her. Each was different, each had a story and each had secrets.

There is no question that all of this involved deep conspiracy, conspiracy of the real kind and we would learn along the way this conspiracy would get bigger and bigger.

This little girl's story involved more and more people. It involved the purposeful creation of sub personalities who could be trained in sex, psychic powers and even for satanic rituals.

This real life story would be one of hundreds to come. Behind the abuse were satanic rituals, behind the rituals were some evil people, behind them were some more out of state people and behind them was the handed down ancient rituals and technology that was used to create what some called ‘multiple personality disorder’ (MPD) and now called ‘dissociative identity disorder’ (DID).

The sub personalities in this little girl knew who some of the perpetrators were and where some of the rituals were done. She took us miles away to one sight. There in an old barn we found the remains of a dog that was used in a ritual and then memories came up in her that described in detail the black robes, chants, smells, men and the lady who gave her something to drink before she went fuzzy. Yes, she also knew what they did to her sexually.

CONSPIRACY IS REAL

Behind this one case is conspiracy and it was all real. There are those who have planned, plotted and executed their evil scheme on this child. There were men, women, places, books, and many more issues connected to this one little girl. The plots and plans were the conspiring of some wicked men and women.

The conspiracy involved deep secrecy, codes, writings, people and places that were never to be found out. These wicked and perverted ones sat in meetings conspiring how, when and where they would use a little girl in a satanic blood and sex rituals. They met to conspire how they would keep her and the many other victims quite or brain washed from knowing and remembering. They were trained in ritual, hypnosis, ritual languages, and familiar with dark…very dark powers.

This little girl now in her thirties represents to me not only one of hundreds of cases we have been and are involved in. There are not just hundreds though. We learned by the late eighties that there were thousands of victims in psych wards and counseling centers seeking help and trying to remember. By the nineties the numbers went into the millions. O yes, I said millions, one by one over years and years. This means millions of victims, in thousands of rituals, sexual episodes, animals sacrificed, old barns, basements, buildings and of course the conspiring of hundreds of thousands of perpetrators.

The conspiring on the human scale had to be vast. One pedophile ring and or sexual abuse case in a day care center is horrific and massive enough but if each victim of satanic ritual abuse had a dozen or more wicked ones behind them and if they had more behind them the question is …where will the investigation take us, where will it end and when did it start?

There is not one case of satanic ritual abuse or child sexual abuse that does not have within and behind it a trail of perpetrators, records, places, events and…the memories that are buried deep into the fear packed consciousness of the victim or like in millions of cases now buried deep in alter sub personalities who were torn off the original core person.

There the secrets, pain, fear and knowledge dwells, you can be sure of it. Evil is never a perfect science, and the Scripture says that your sins (all of them) will be found out. Like those who cage animals the perpetrators know how to bury the secrets and they bury the sub personalities they created, used and abused. It's all so no one will find out, at least not yet! They tell them it's a secret, you tell and you will be punished or die.

"Don't tell", "Don't tell" said one little sub personality screaming at me.

I am so grateful that God does know! And the day is coming that they shall all pay the price and all of this shall stop! There are no rat lines at or before the Great White Throne Judgment see in Revelation 20. Note also:

"Nothing in all creation is hidden from God's sight. Everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give an account." Hebrews 4:13

From the brave author of the massive work 'SECRET DON'T TELL' p xxxii Carla Emery asks the question:

"... is it better to know, or not know? Is it better to be silent or to speak out?"

The little girl's story I started this chapter with, whom I know to this day, spoke out and to the sneer of the cloaked for now perpetrators (doctors, priests, psyches and military men) so have millions of others. With all of hell's breath, threats and power they can't stop the victims who want out of their forced nightmare.

You cannot have, in one case many children who have all been sexually abused from the same school, church or day care center and not have conspiring (scumbag) adults who are behind it. The issue with all real conspiracy is 'WHO'S BEHIND IT'? The story of this dear girl has behind it many perpetrators, who are still active and watching. And we are watching them!

You surely can't have two million or more cases of trauma based split personality with detailed stories of satanic rituals and not have massive conspiracy behind it! When you hear one case and get involved it can be massive. When you count the numbers of the same type of victimization (SRA satanic ritual abuse – MPD multiple personality disorder) by the hundreds then find out there are thousands and then millions you have to ask the question:

"Who in all of hell has done this"?

WHO FROM ALL OF HELL HAS DONE THIS?

Craig Roberts in his 'eyes only' and 'top secret' exposing book 'THE MEDUSA FILE' writes what many of us on this field of work agree with" p 86:

"As we have seen in previous chapters, drugs, sensory deprivation, hypnosis, torture and other brainwashing techniques on unsuspecting U.S. citizens are the admitted practice of not only the CIA, but of certain military and private institutions as well."

If you have contemplated the PS2 prophecy of 3,000 years ago and looked into the future at R1919 with its massive army of super soldiers, dark powers, supernatural leader and agenda you are looking at the ultimate in conspiracy and vile plotting. What you may have to do now is stick with me as I connect the millions of cases of SRA/MPD/DID to the prophecy of PS2 and its fulfillment in R1919.

In R1919 I kept asking the question, 'How does it ever get that far'? How does the world come together, build its new government, have its masqueraded leader, have a super army and join in the goal of riding humanity and the world of God? I have done a broadcast in the past (a free one hour intro to the course The Black Awakening).(See here http://www.theblackawakening.com.)

Called; "Play it forward, the satanic endgame."

In this broadcast and here in this book we must look at what God foretold is going to happen and what is happening right now that's leading us to that endgame. When I look at what is going to happen I realize that it doesn't happen overnight. Just as with this little girl and the now millions of victims their nightmare of SRA/MPD/DID didn't happen over night! There is a long history to all of this and it includes pain, fear and the transmutation of millions.

CONSPIRACY AND SPIRITUAL REALITY MEET

Just as there is a local conspiracy of individuals who have for years done this evil of abuse, ritual and creation of split programmed victims, there is a network and overall agenda behind the mass number of these millions of victims. Two things are involved in this local conspiracy that leads to a national conspiracy and then leads to yes…a global conspiracy.

There is a clear human side to the conspiring and there is a clear supra natural spiritual side to all of this development.

- First the human side of this conspiracy. The human side as in the Nazi plot of the final solution (the planned annihilation of the Jews), the 'final solution' was the conspiring of national leaders who had a global quest. They sat in rooms and hashed out a plot that would rid the world of Jews. They planned the what, how, when and they created laws and the critical mass in the mindset of their people. Then they started gathering the Jews and transporting them to the camps that were being readied. Readied…by workers, wielders and administrators who were all in agreement. They, with all the new soldiers (SS) were all working for the mission of the Nazi party, its goal of cleansing and world domination. There the gas chambers were constructed and large ovens built while some knew and others followed orders. There were designers, builders and workers. There were those who gave the orders and those who took them. There were those who drove trains, ordered the prisoners and led them to the 'showers'.

Please realize when you see pictures of the Nazi concentration camps and all those stacked dead bodies, barely alive starving bodies, dead bodies in ash by the hundreds of thousands then….ask the question;

'Who in all of hell has done this?'

Real conspiracy is what's behind crime, murders, war and the secrets of world governments. Look at any picture of a Nazi soldier or the camps where millions died and behind it is real conspiring. When you realize that they burned away into ash millions of victims (human beings) and sought to annihilate an entire race of fellow human beings you have to ask…who in all of hell would do this? What kind of people were they? What ideology did they believe in? And could it be that an ancient unseen but very operative presence breathed into the minds of these God rejecting occultists. My answer is of course yes, a thousand times over. Remember who it was that betrayed Jesus Christ Himself, it was not just a human idea! This betrayal demonstrates the force of the satanic agenda moving through the will of unaided fallen mankind.

"As soon as Judas took the bread, Satan entered into him."John 13

What the Nazi party was then is but a pale grey picture of memory now; it merely scratches the surface of what is in the works right now. The black flame that burned in the hearts and minds of real Nazis (and still does in those who remain to this day), is what's behind the black and white grainy glimpses you see of them in the movies. This old black flame burns darkly right now in many hearts, more than you know. It's the lethal presence that will bring on the full force of the BA and all of what will happen when the final seven years roll onto the carpet of human history. It's already begun, you can't stop it and I clearly hear the sound of this train steaming out of hell. It's in the final stages before it strikes and as is said……you feel it in the air tonight.

"If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear..." Mark 4

And mentioned seven times in Revelation chapters 2-3 is this call;

"He, who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches." Revelation 2-3

The supernatural side of this conspiracy:

- Second is the supernatural side of this conspiracy. The heart of man can become a platform for God or the devil. When it is opened to darkness that darkness will rage in and through it. If you don't believe this type of thing is being plotted today you may be living in denial or in a bubble of ignorance. It could also be that the secrecy of the coming black awakening, globalism, the destruction of 1/3 of humanity, the coming persecution of Christianity and the Jews and final gathering of the world's largest super powered military is too much to believe. Then you are like the many skeptics who took way too long to believe that the Nazis plotted and were actually cooking humans in ovens …….by the millions!
- The Nazi conspiracy was real; many have shed the blood and smelled the real smoke. For some their ash couldn't scream anymore…no one heard them when it counted. For those who had to catch up to reality, it was way too late to help the victims and stop the madness. It was clearly supernatural forces that led to this action. Demonic revelation can become political ideology and military enforcement procedures.

What was even harder for some to realize was that the Nazi's were started in the realm of the spirit. An unseen but very real powerful spiritual force shot its arrows of influence into the minds and hearts of those who became the Nazi leaders. That extreme presence spread culture wide, an evil critical mass that blanketed Germany with dark powers until the war ended. As with Judas, the devil and his minions just walked right in and entered them. And as in the case of Judas, Germany (accepting that presence) hung itself! They acted under an almost undetectable presence and so are millions right now!

Please don't forget the revelation in Ephesians 2, its happening now as never before in human history.

"…the ruler of the kingdom of the air, the spirit who is now at work (supernaturally operative) in those who are disobedient." Ephesians 2

Evil spreads like a cancer in the dark at first and it's all there before it makes itself known. I know that a supernaturally empowered army forged and ready to rise at hell's request is too much for some to believe. But this field of blood is coming; it will roll over the ignorance and bury those who choose denial like an avalanche.

Many will be behind evil's evolution and many more will be on that field called Armageddon and by then it's way too late. The spiritual forces that influence the people, nations and kings will be so thick at that time no one can become unglued; the mark mentioned of Revelation 13 will seal their decision forever! These are the spiritual forces that led the Nazis. It is this same force that will lead the world to gather on that last day of fallen human history.

This powerful spiritual presence is a supernatural operative force in the halls of government, the military labs and think tanks and it flows out of the many alternative spiritual streams. It sought angels and got a third of them, it sought humankind and got us all for a time.

Listen carefully to what the Spirit of God is saying, these words reveal that old black flame:

"…the ways of this world and of the ruler of the kingdom of the air, the spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient." Ephesians 2

"For the secret power of lawlessness is already at work….." : "The coming of the lawless one will be in accordance with the work of Satan displayed in all kinds of counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders, and in every sort of evil that deceives those who are perishing." 2 Thessalonians 2

"The great dragon was hurled down—that ancient serpent called the devil, or Satan, who leads the whole world astray. He was hurled to the earth, and his angels with him." Revelation 12

"Then I saw three evil spirits that looked like frogs; they came out of the mouth of the dragon, out of the mouth of the beast and out of the mouth of the false prophet. 14They are spirits of demons performing miraculous signs, and they go out to the kings of the whole world, to gather them for the battle on the great day of God Almighty." Revelation 16

"Then they gathered the kings together to the place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon." Revelation 16

Finally in fulfillment of PS2

"Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies gathered together to make war against the rider on the horse and his army." Revelation 19:19

What is revealed on the pages of these infallible prophetic writings is too much for some to believe, but the events both good (what God does) and horrific will occur in all of their detail and with all of their fury. So dear reader it's time to step out of "la la" land and smell the smoke before the fire consumes you. It's in the air even now! These prophetic writings are for the people, nations and their leaders. See here the 'telos' (the purpose, goal) of the Spirit of God in Scripture:

"Now to him who is able to establish you by my gospel and the proclamation of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery hidden for long ages past, but now revealed and made known through the prophetic writings by the command of the eternal God, so that all nations might believe and obey him— to the only wise God be glory forever through Jesus Christ! Amen." Romans 16

LISTENING TO LIVING WORDS

God in PS2 asks the people (locals), the nations and the leaders of the world …WHY? Why do they rage, why do they conspire…plot and plan? Why? Why? Why? I have found the answer to be the same whether it's the locals, national institutions or even in the leaders that are guiding the world to global unity. There is the human side with all of its reasoning but there is also the spiritual or supernatural side.

Behind every meeting, writing, work and plot for a globalism that will lead to R1919 is an over arching spiritual belief, presence and power that guides it. Please note:

' 'THERE IS NO GLOBALISM WITHOUT THE SUPERNATUAL SPIRITUAL FORCE BEHIND IT" RD

With all of the victims of SRA/MPD and they are in the millions, there are the people who are behind it and behind them are the spiritual beliefs, practices, presence and powers that lead and motivate them. It will seem uncanny, weird and crazy but the world will be led to a supernatural globalism that includes the willful choices of people, nations and their leaders. It is happening now as you read! God foresees the conspiracy, the plotting and planning even now. He even sees the rage and knows what future humanity is saying. God has spoken, written down what is now 'living words' (PS2) directed at this current piece of history, its people, nations and leaders. Maybe you are one of those who are caught up in the plot. Perhaps these words are your final warning and invitation?

The conspiring mentioned in PS2 was going on long before you read this. It's old but here with a vengeance. This ancient agenda and conspiring affects all of us right now and we need to know at least these six points:

- This conspiracy is older than most know. It began in the heavenlies with a force of will that was violent and demonstrated the ground zero of revolt and rebellion. See Ezekiel 28 and Isaiah 14. The origin of sin and all evil began there. The trouble is we have opened the door to it and let it in. It is here also that we see the raging desire of the fallen cherub; he wanted then, wants now and will seek again soon the very throne of God. See 2 Thessalonians 2
- This conspiracy is personal with deep emotion. Revealed in Revelation 12 is the exposure of satan's existence and emotion. He is furious! And he knows his time is short. I have seen this ugly fury when the demons inside people had to come out. They show deep emotion, hate God and anyone who walks with Him…with a raging eternal hate. They scream and mock God, humanity and desire mankind's destruction.
- This conspiracy is now at unprecedented levels. Just as prophesied in the Bible the growth of demonic manifestation, doctrines of demons, demonic counterfeit religion, signs and wonders have increased beyond anything history has ever seen. And it's not over, what you see now is pale in comparison to the release of dark powers when the black awakening is unleashed and the tribulation begins. Much, very much more is to come. Jesus said in Matthew 24 that it will be a time of unequaled turmoil and chaos.
- This conspiracy will become global. We are no longer talking about just a nation or only a region. The black awakening has one goal, to ready the world, the whole world for the rise of antichrist. So all that is behind creating satan's super soldiers has with it the push for global rule.
- This conspiracy has a mask. The outward signs of the need for a globalism will be impressive. The need for world peace, environmental concerns, economic security and picking up the pieces of the massive destruction that the black awakening (great revolt) delivered. What most will never know is that the chaos that forces a new order to rise is inspired by the very one who will act as its savior - the antichrist (instead of Christ) himself. His mask will be beyond the deceit of the smiling pedophile who offers candy to the unwitting child. Like the raped dead child the world will have been deceived and sabotaged with the supra natural smile of satan incarnate.

- This conspiracy is doomed to final destruction. The good news after all the bad is that the very prophetic revelation that predicts all of this with divine accuracy is the same revelation that foretells the total destruction of all evil, the antichrist and those who served this blood bathed beast. Both PS2 and Revelation 19:20 declare the end of evil. The real Prince of Peace who proved Himself on the Cross will crack the skies and end this hell on earth. A new day is coming, one where there is no war, murder, rape or evil. It is not produced by the hand of man. This glory can only come from the Infinite and His name is Jesus. Connecting prophecy from the book of Daniel the Spirit of God then pens these same words in the opening chapter of the "Apocalypse of Jesus Christ "See Revelation chapter one:

"Look, he is coming in the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him; and all the peoples of the earth will mourn because of him. So shall it be! Amen.

'I am the Alpha and the Omega," says the Lord God, "who is, and who was, and who is to come, the Almighty."

There are those workers of the night (the black flame) who will commit to the plan of the coming world teacher/leader. They will labor for what they believe is a great cause. The desire for power, control and even godhood is very strong in the underground and in the underworld of fallen hearts and minds. Judas desired money so much that he couldn't see God walking on the water or raising a dead child being worth more than 30 pieces of silver. Judas so blind in his dark ambitions didn't even know the moment that the fallen cherub walked right into his very being. All Judas knew (like all the active luciferians) was that…..for a promise they must and will seek to betray (kill) the son of God again.

FINALLY

Do you understand the impact of Revelation 19:19 yet? There is a supra natural power that binds and blinds the minds of many. In 2 Corinthians 4:4 you have the combination of the blind (people/the human side) and the one doing the blinding (satan/from the supernatural side). Judas, like the emerging elite are clearly the blind who really know nothing of the one who has blinded them. When you take the devil's doctrine hook line and sinker you have embraced darkness as light and evil as good.

Dr. Stan Monteith in his revealing book 'THE BROTHEHOOD OF DARKNESS' speaks of Lord Tennyson's poem "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and comments that Lord Tennyson may have had no idea of its impact and then sums up this conclusion: p. 12

'I also suspect that he had no concept of the true nature of the dark spiritual forces he had engaged, or how those forces influenced his view of the world'

I would have to say that this conclusion could have been said of Judas, the Nazis, communism, secret societies, authors of the new age movement and many today that are being carried along in this conspiracy of the ages. All who buy into this evolving globalism are breathing in the breath of the 'god of this age' (1 Corinthians 4:4). Dr. Monteith goes on to say on p. 49:

"Although socialists talk about democracy, their real goal is a world government under the control of the enlightened Elite."

This is what the conspiring (as seen in Psalm 2) of people, nations and kings is all about. This 3,000 year old revelation reveals the final 'enlightened elite' at the end of the age. Though God has and is speaking to them the trick of embracing darkness as light has taken their sight. And don't mistake the final conclusion either: you are either one of them or one who stands for and walks with the King of heaven. There will be no middle ground; this is the conclusion of Psalm 2 and Revelation 19:19. Right now you are either for or against the Anointed One of God. Right now there is this moment in history for you to choose.

Again the Spirit of God says:

“This day I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you that I have set before you life and death, blessings and curses. Now choose life, so that you and your children may live” Deuteronomy 30:19

“But if serving the LORD seems undesirable to you, then choose for yourselves this day whom you will serve, whether the gods your forefathers served beyond the river, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you are living. But as for me and my household, we will serve the LORD." Joshua 24:15

THE SPIRITS WILL COME

She came in the door of my office with her mom in tow. She was silent and very stiff. She didn't smile nor did she answer my first questions with words, only nods. I could feel it, the presence of dark spirits. I looked at her as she sat down. Her mother was right outside the door and a worker was in the room with us. I looked at her again with a pause then said, "They don't want you to talk do they?" Again I spoke, "They want you to leave, right?" She nodded in the affirmative. I don't like these spirits at all, they were not meant to inhabit human minds or hearts.

I looked at the worker in the room to see if he was ready and I just began an opening prayer. Immediately she was thrown to the ground and began wrestling around. I commanded the spirit in Jesus' name to stop it and leave her alone. I commanded again for the demon to answer me and it did. It told me its name and I commanded a third time for it to tell how it got in this teenage girl. It told me the doorway she had opened up.

Like so many before her it was witchcraft and drugs. That was enough. We commanded it and all with it to leave her right now, again using Jesus' name. It shook her a little and then it left. She was free and talking openly to me now. We went over what she needed to do with her life, what she needed to stay away from and she agreed. She renounced those doors the demons came through and in prayer she opened and surrendered her life to Jesus Christ.

Once again the phone rang. This woman began telling me about a boy who said he was a satanic priest. When we arrived the young man began telling us about his coven take over and powers he had obtained. He continued in the car to tell of his big powers and how he wanted to be the next 'black (satanic) pope'. I finally called out his name and stopped him. I said, "If you have all this power, money and position why then did you want us to come up here?"

I will never forget the look I saw in the rear view mirror of the car as I stared at him sitting in the back seat. His countenance went down and he looked very disturbed and sad. His response, "I have no joy!"

We arrived at the church but he wouldn't go in so we just sat there in the grass and talked to him about Jesus. Finally I said, "Are you ready to ask Jesus Christ to come into your life and give you His love and power?" He looked up as if to say yes and started to say Jeeeesssu…but suddenly he was thrown to the ground before he could say the whole name. He was gagging, holding his throat and choking.

Immediately we all began praying and I commanded the spirit to release him. He was still struggling and as we prayed I told him to call out to Jesus to come into his life and He would set him free. Finally the demon departed and this young man prayed loudly for Jesus to come into his life and save him. He prayed prayers of renunciation of all the satanic practices, oaths and evil he had done.

We all prayed over him to cover anything and everything else that was needed. He and others were amazed at the viciousness of the demons but were even more amazed with the massive authority Jesus' name carried and how the demons feared Jesus.

We took this young man out to eat at a restaurant to follow up on him some more. We were all eating, laughing and praising God when all of a sudden one of our workers spoke up loudly pointing at the young man. He said, "Look, look at his face, it is filled with joy and look at that smile!" We all agreed and praised God all the more. He was free, joyful and enjoying this new exchange of powers.

From darkness to light is what the Scriptures tell us. There is a difference you know, a vast difference as to what spirit is in and upon you. One is infinite and unleashes all the fullness of the living Christ into a person's life. The other is finite and sought only to use this boy for degradation and evil. One is the Holy Spirit giving the very life of God within while the other is demonic and seeking to steal a soul.

One we were meant for and the other was not made for humankind. It's really something when you have been on both sides of this spiritual fence. You know very well one side is of heaven the other of hell. Do you really know why Jesus came?

"He who does what is sinful is of the devil, because the devil has been sinning from the beginning. The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work." 1 John 3

MORE ENCOUNTERS

- A man came saying he had a dark cloud over him and felt oppressed. We listened more and then offered to pray. Once again we rebuked the powers of darkness and commanded them to leave him alone. Immediately he said that 'it' had left and was off him. He was amazed and very thankful. We discussed the issues involved and he went off with a living joy that only the Prince of Peace could give him. In this fallen world and with the massive ramping up of the dark spirits, they do come and in many ways.
- Another person was sitting before the two of us in an office. We were talking when all of a sudden this person switched personalities and a demonized sub personality came up. This was a chosen one who had many sub personalities and many demons. A very sinister look came on this girl's face. I looked at the fellow pastor and he also saw it and wrote down a note. This spirit dwelling in the sub personality looked at me and said, "Don't you want me?" I instantly felt an unclean perverse presence come at me like a wave. The Spirit of God within me gave the discernment and I started rebuking this unclean spirit and the fellow pastor and I both commanded this spirit to get out! It did and the girl switched back to her main self. I looked at the pastor and said that it was a demon that functioned in lust; he held up his writing pad and showed me that he had written down spirit of lust. We knew this spirit had left but there was much more ministry this person needed.
- A mom brought in "Billy". He was fearful and she was mad. He had been invited a party where there was free metal music, alcohol and drugs. Sex was included too and it was all a smoke screen for the real reason. A women came to Billy during the party took his hand and made a cut. She wiped his bloody hand in a book (or made him write) and claimed he was one of them. Some occult practices took place and then he went home. Later that week some from that group came to his house with a document with writing in some kind of script. It was a letter calling him to come to the next meeting. That's when he wanted out and told his mother. He refused to go and the coven threatened to kill him if he told anyone.
- A woman with an animal spirit stood at the door of my fellow pastor's office. She was brought upstairs by another worker who tried to tell her that the 'ancestral animal spirit guide' was evil. When the pastor opened the door she tried to confirm that it wasn't anything evil. The pastor said, “Let’s see” and began to pray. Immediately the dark spirit surfaced and showed itself for what it was. She was over taken and an animal growling sound poured out of her mouth. The pastor prayed for the spirit to leave and it left her. When this lady realized what this was and it was exposed and kicked out by the authority of Jesus, she was overwhelmed with thanks and praise to God.

- A group of youth came to the church I was pastoring. Their pastor was a friend of mine and he sent them to me. They had gone to a meeting where a weird man prayed over them in tongues (supernatural other languages) and spoke prophesies over them. They all felt strange, confused and were having a hard time praying. We prayed for them and broke the transferred demonic presence that was put on them by this imposter. This man was a chosen one and his upfront personality seemed to be a ‘minister’ but the sub, coven loyal demonized personalities were looking for more victims. This person was engaged by us and we found he had a trail of many victims who were seduced by him and became his victims of sexual abuse.
- A woman brought to our church as a visitor stepped out into the sanctuary isle and the voice of a demon bellowed out, “You can’t have her, she is ours”. Everyone turned to look as I approach her with prayer and she fell to the ground screaming and jerking. The whole church prayed and sang worship songs while some of us prayed over her. Someone had really hurt and used this girl. It was some kind of priest who transferred demonic spirits into her mouth to mouth. When the demonic was hit by the power and authority of Jesus Christ who exposed them they of course had to leave. She is now married and serving Christ with her husband.

THE RAMPING UP

I could tell you many stories like the ones above. This spiritual engagement has clearly ramped up in the last 30 years. I have now been in hundreds of spiritual exorcisms (we call them freedom encounters) and commanded dark spirits out of people. This book will have a few dozen stories of these episodes and is far from the millions that are out there who still need help.

Sometimes when I sit and think about the encounters with the demonic we have had I am amazed we have had to engage so many. The people have been very young, old, black, white, male and female, etc. Most knew they had something wrong. Others knew they had demons they had welcomed in and at first wanted. Now most wanted them out while a few fought back and wanted to keep their powers (demonic given abilities).

I have seen, felt and experienced in many of these power encounters the nature and tact of the demons. They lie all the time. They try to stay in the bodies they inhabit and we found out they all know one thing very well. They all know and have to obey the person, authority and name of Jesus Christ. They know who Jesus is and what He did at that Cross. These ancient dark spirits know that a judgment is coming and they are full of hate.

There may be many spiritual skeptics in this world and maybe some are reading this book right now. I can tell you for sure and many others in this field also know that all these demons (fallen angels) know Jesus Christ is God, Lord and what He did on the cross has final authority. This work on the cross is hated and feared by the hoards of hell because they know that its work seals their fate. Nevertheless they are here and they are as mad as…the devil himself.

"…..But woe to the earth and the sea, because the devil has gone down to you! He is filled with fury, because he knows that his time is short"

Dear folks have sent me articles that talk about people with voices in their heads and a dark presence on them. They talk about a shadowy presence that may visit them or uncontrolled addictions that seem to be supernaturally over- powering them. In my own area demon oppressed, possessed and troubled folks have been brought to us from over 40 churches and 5 states.

From one large church alone over a hundred members have come to us or were brought to our offices. They all were seeking freedom from dark spirits and deliverance prayers. I have gone to 6 other states to pray for those who are victims of satanic ritual abuse or felt they had demonic presence in their lives. We have heard the demons scream now many times through the mouths of people possessed and taken over.

Workers and I in Shatter the Darkness have by the authority that Christ gave us (Luke 10) commanded dark spirits out of individuals in churches, schools, parks, on the streets, in the car, at a book store, in a hotel room, in homes and even inside a McDonalds restaurant. The demons don't care where they are and when they come up (manifest) they can cause a scene.

Wherever and whenever these evil ones have come up in a person we responded with prayers of power and the authority of Jesus Christ. Again and again we have seen the demonic spirits seized and comply with the authority of Christ. I have seen them try to harm the person as they were being kicked out. I have also seen the relief, joy and peace that would follow when a once demonize person was set free.

Even satanists and chosen ones would be amazed at a power and presence they had never seen before. When they saw the overwhelming presence of Jesus Christ and how the demons cringed and fear Him they were impressed and many were ready to surrender their lives to the person behind the power- Jesus Christ. With new found freedom, an eager willingness and joy they accept the Savior Jesus Christ who rushes in with His gift of new life. See Mark chapter 5 or Acts chapter 16 for some clear examples of 'power encounters'.

Now, let's go over what some of the evidence is for the ramping up of demonic/spirits in these last days.

- For me it has been the massive number of cases of individuals who have come for help. I have seen demonized people hundreds of times now and the number of victims, urgency and power of the demonic has intensified over the past 30 years. I have heard the demons speaking through possessed people scream, curse and threaten me. I have also heard the demons yell that they will win, destroy the church and kill Christians. I know their voices, eerie evil presence and tactics. I can tell you from an experienced stand point that demonic presence, activity and intensity has grown massively and this is only the tip of the black iceberg below.

- The Vatican is calling for exorcists. In Italy and actually a number of other countries there has been a call for help. The request is for exorcists, for those who can discern and get rid of the evil presence that has gotten into millions of people the world over.
- The Vatican has started new training in exorcism and hundreds are now being trained. In Matt Baglio's book 'THE RITE': The making of a modern exorcist, he goes over a volume of stories of the once demonized and how they got there. It's clear the Catholic Church has to deal with thousands of cases. Author of 'THE RITE' speaking of the 'rise' of demonization writes on p 54:

"Because millions of people are reportedly involved in the occult around the world and the numbers are on the rise, the exorcism course would explain the ramifications to novice exorcists."

- Books written on the occult, alternative spiritual practices and even satanism are flying off over packed book shelves at Borders and Barns and Nobles book stores. These kinds of books are offered by the thousands on Amazon.com also and please realize that each book has an author.
- There are books on spells, rituals, summoning of demons, channeling, contacting 'angels' and many more on all kinds of new ways to connect to something spiritual. Many of these books are what the Spirit of God has called 'doctrines of demons' i.e. writings that were inspired by seducing fallen angels who guided the believing authors.
- Books written about the ramping up of spiritual deception and spiritual warfare. I said many times in the 90's that more books have been written on spiritual warfare in the last 20 years than in all of the history of Christianity (2000 years). I have over 500 books on spiritual warfare, the rise of spiritual deception, books on the demonic presence and practices that are here or will be in the last days.
- The book you are reading right now will be added to the growing number of books that warn of end time spiritual confusion, deception and destruction.

- A local pastor of one of the largest churches in my area came to one of our Shatter the Darkness meetings and spoke on spiritual warfare. He told us that night that he was at the end of a series of sermons and teachings he was doing on the subject of spiritual warfare. The number of messages on spiritual warfare was over 35. He and many other pastors who are on the cutting edge of ministry and know what time it is on the prophetic Biblical clock are pouring out what has been neglected and what is vitally needed right now.
- The NAM or the new age movement as some call it is the largest fastest growing occult/cultic spiritual movement in the entire history of Christianity. It is a challenge because it seeks to use Christian terms and phrases but change the meaning. It proclaims a 'christ' but this new age concoction is nothing like the real Christ of history, scripture and eternity.
- NAM has hundreds of millions of followers the world over and is the foundational spiritual system that nurtures the need for a 'one world system'. It seeks a new globalism in both political and spiritual arenas. It has no direct leader/ founder yet (but antichrist is coming) however, it's growth is massive and influence worldwide. Many have come to our offices for prayer to get rid of the spirits they opened up to in NAM spiritual experiences. See the chapter on NAM in this book for more.
- We saw in youth ministry that satanism and dark occultism was the fastest growing sub group among high schools students in the 80's and 90's. The signs, symbols and 'satanic' themed music were filling the minds and hearts of millions of youth. The satanic bible and hundreds of satanic ritual books, songs and images have filled the imaginations of America's youth now for over 40 years.

As one of those youth in the late 60's and early 70's I was reading the dark occult books, listening to groups like 'Lucifer's Friend' and plastering my bedroom walls with images of hell and demons coming out of ritual circles.

KNOCKING DOWN THE DOORS

If someone is knocking hard at your door you may want to get up and quickly open the door to see what the fuss is all about. That's also how physical 'home invasion' crime activity occurs. Now there is a spiritual knocking and many are opening the door without caution. The issue here is the fact of the predicted invasion of dark spirits ramping up their work in the last days.

Here are some of the revelations that come from the Spirit of God about the work, presence and ramping up of dark spirits in these days. Only scripture gives an accurate and preemptive revelation on this ancient hate. Only the infinite Spirit of God can give the 'heads up' on what this underworld of the demonic is up to and planning. The omniscience and omnipresence of the Spirit of God would reveal that He knows them all, where they are and what they are up to.

The presence, power and work of a very real radical evil is ramping up. God alone in scripture gives us the facts on the origin, nature, methodology and fierce agenda of satan's existence and desires. Only scripture gives us this level of revelation of a real and very radical evil. Without this insight we would only be guessing at what is happening to our lives and our world. God is specific, preemptive and exact.

Here are some of the Biblical revelations and predictions of the ramping up to the highest pinnacle of satanic power ever in history. What is here now is unprecedented but it's only the beginning of hell's agenda.

- The ramping up of seduction and spiritual deception is spoken about more than the rapture and millennium put together. We are warned first of all and most of all about deception. Jesus in Matthew 24 is central in all the predictions of the swelling of dark forces. This chapter stands in the middle of the Old and New Testament prophecies and connects them in a clear unified unveiling of coming global events. Jesus in answering the questions about the end of the world starts with and emphasizes 'let no one deceive you'.
- The ramping up of many false Christs, prophets and teachers to do one thing…deceive many. In Matthew 24 we are warned about these false spiritual leaders and the powers behind them. All that is written there corresponds with many other warnings the Spirit of God has selected to give us as a 'heads up' and warning of what to expect. Each of these false Christs, prophets and teachers are the opposite of the real Christ and are initiated directly by demons warring against God, the Church and seeking to deceive the world. The fact that there are many now and will be many more coming gives evidence to the work of dark spirits and the willingness of those who do not have the Spirit of Christ in them, to embrace the growing darkness.

- The ramping up of 'imposter' spirits and doctrines of demons. In 1Timothy 4 the prediction is clear. Again the Spirit of God demonstrating His eternal and infinite knowing paints a picture of the future we are sliding into. The Holy Spirit about 2,000 years ago 'expressly', 'emphatically' and 'factually' says that a pouring out of very seducing dark spirits will come in the last days. They will use willing vessels (people). They will give 'writings' to influence many and have one agenda… to seek to pull people away from God, Christ and the faith and establish an alternative.
- The ramping up of demonic supernatural powers and abilities is foretold also. In 2Thessalonians 2 there are predictions of the supernatural work of satan, the secret power of lawlessness at work and supernatural real but counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders. All of this will come with a growing rise in 'every sort of evil' that deceives those who embrace it. The demonic cloaked to look like 'angels', 'ancestors', and 'friends' who will give any kind of spiritual experience that could be used to insure deception.
- The prophetic picture of the rise of Babylon is massive. If you will study Revelation 18 you see the final judgment on a spiritual system God calls Babylon. This is the culmination and pinnacle of the work of dark spirits. Their manifestation and what this counterfeit spiritual system has done to the world will go beyond any level of demonism in the past. God shows society by that future time is filled with operating demons on every level. That they have polluted and deceived the whole world and they influenced the death of the saints of God.
- These dark spirit's operation in and through people has brought grave moral and spiritual adultery to billions. Yes, billions. This is a future look at what is rising among us right now. The bulging spiritual presence that seeks the coming antichrist will be sensed and present before his apocalypse (unveiling). The chaos that will open the door for homosatanas (satan in human flesh) comes by that ramped up dark power, it is spiritual forces that build it and bring it.

- The black awakening (revolt) is packed with that deceptive secret power from head to toe; when released that satanic chaos will be like a planetary shock wave unleashed from hell itself. The great revolt or rebellion of 2 Thess. 2 is charged with 'the work (supernatural) of satan.

And please, be sure of this, this evil domain is up to violence and is following a plan born out of the heart of the one who wanted to dethrone God (Isaiah 14), kill Jesus (Revelation 12), and control the world by deadly force. These 'extra dimensional entities' and 'ascended masters' are roving imposters spiritually and have no mercy...at all. It is clear to me that a massive advance of dark spirits have been knocking on many doors, now as never before.

My premise is the rise of demonic presence operating actively in lives, societies and the world is directly related to and corresponds with the rise of violence, unrest and chaos. Jesus Himself connects the ramping up of demonic deception, earth changes and societal breakdown

Jesus in Matthew 24

"Tell us," they said, "when will this happen, and what will be the sign of your coming and of the end of the age?" Jesus answered: "Watch out that no one deceives you. For many will come in my name, claiming, 'I am the Christ,' and will deceive many. You will hear of wars and rumors of wars, but see to it that you are not alarmed. Such things must happen, but the end is still to come. Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be famines and earthquakes in various places. All these are the beginning of birth pains.. also...Because of the increase of wickedness, the love of most will grow cold,"

FINALLY

This ramping up is so vast it is impossible to list all the new doorways of the demons. Their presence has brought thousands of cults, new demonic writings, and spiritual leaders who are deceived and help deceive millions more.

Seeing the new age spirits operating in education, business, politics and invade military development is shocking. Paganism, Wicca, forms of voodoo and even UFO cults have filled the news for years now. The blatant face of satanism in schools, crime, music, on TV, in books and poured out on the www is astounding. The difficultly of all this ramping up is that it's like the frog in the kettle approach. It has happened so slowly over the last 50 years that millions have no idea that the dark waters are boiling and that the world is so tender for what's next…the blast of the black awakening.

MIRAGE OF THE NEW AGE

"My own journey leading into the new age and rising to heights of leadership is a classic portrait of spiritual seduction. Seeking after truth, I found only masterful counterfeits disguised as the truth" p 1 'INSIDE THE NEW AGE NIGHTMARE'

"The new age movement is not new; it is the most recent repeat of the second oldest religion, the spirituality of the serpent."P 17 'CONFRONTING THE NEW AGE'

"The deeper one probes, the clearer it becomes that the jesus of the new age movement lacks any basis in history."P 46 'THE COUNTERFIET CHRIST OF THE NEW AGE MOVEMENT'

"…these are enough to quicken an appreciation of the horror of great darkness sweeping over the west, inexorably rolling inward like a swelling black tide or approaching with its encircling eyes"p 276 'DUST OF DEATH'

"Do not put out the Spirits fire…"2Thessalonians 5

DIM CHRISTENDOM

In a section of Oz Guinness's eye opening culture confronting book 'THE DUST OF DEATH' he writes in a paragraph sub titled 'the fires burn low' about a safari taking place in Africa. He explains when in the hunter's camp they set up a great fire that warms and brightens everything. But as the hours slip by and the hunters grow tired and sleepy they no longer keep the fire burning boldly. As the light goes down and night moves into deep darkness the wild animals begin to creep closer. At some point the fires are very low and the wild animals are very close, you can now see them by their eyes...'the encircling eyes'! You can see them as they get closer and are no longer pushed back by the bright fire. The more the old bold fires go down the more the beasts close in. You can see them as they draw closer. Those big bold fires just hours before kept the roving beasts at bay but now they grow bold and seek prey…as the fire is neglected.

The story Oz tells is about the decline of western Christianity as it waxes cold and grows dim. The once bright bold fire of Christianity in the west was the light that gave spiritual depth, freedom and safety to millions for years. When the Body of Christ is on target the fullness of God's presence, power and work is greatly manifest. But now those fires have grown dim and the light the Church should shine is very weak. We Christians are the 'hunters' who have not kept the fire bright and unhindered. We have quenched the Spirit of God and dimmed the bright beauty of God's love and mercy; truly we are in need of revival! The good news is revival and greater things can come…the Spirit of God tells us, "Because of the Lords great love we are not consumed, for his compassions never fail. They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness." Lamentations 3

Truly the growth of the NAM (new age movement) corresponds to the dimming down of the Body of Christ. Jesus said it would be a spiritual battle and so it is. If there is nothing or no one to contest or test the spirits of the new age then they will come in unhindered and wearing whatever mask they want. The Biblical prophecies of the unleashing of 'seducing spirits' find their greatest fulfillment in the mammoth movement called 'the new age' and if Christendom waxes dim it gives ground for dark satanic forces to show up as angels of light. Believers in Christ must not just ask, "What time is it?" but also what have we done…or perhaps not done?

THE ENCIRCLING EYES OF THE NAM

The massive front of roving spirits has been unleashed. They are here and operating in unprecedented numbers. They are the ones who have initiated and developed NAM i.e. the NEW AGE MOVEMENT. This NAM as we will call it is the largest and fastest growing spiritual movement in the entire history of Christendom. I do believe its evolution was foretold by the Spirit of God some 2000 years ago (see 1Timothy 4). A time would come when lethal dark spirits will arrive dressed like translucent angels of celestial realms.

They will speak with a silver tongue and offer gifts to feed broken limited man. They will come bearing gifts of enhanced human abilities and teachings that seem to be beyond the minds of mere men. The seduction behind this is, they come with sweet gifts, friendly smiles, offers of help and looking so harmless……..just like a child sexual predator. NAM is more lethal than most ever thought. And surely they have nabbed millions of what they see as 'unwittings' and dragged them off to rape them spiritually.

All of the predictions of coming spiritual deception and seduction would include the fact that some will receive contact and become channelers, spirit writers and inspired speakers for the spirits of the new age. By now there are hundreds of millions who either participate in or are influenced by these alternative spiritual encounters of NAM and this in no small thing. Those influenced may feel they have something real (and and it is real) but it's not right…it is as deadly as poisoned candy. The experiences given by these predicted spiritual predators and their embracing humanity is more of a hook than a hug.

Do you know these spirits? What they can do, say or what they really want? Predicted 2000 years ago the Spirit of God warned with passion that a pouring out of these new age type spirits would come. (See 1Timothy 4)

The spirits of the NAM have offered:

- Alternative spiritual experiences and many of them.
- Alternative writings they say surpass the Bible.
- Alternative angels who are only wearing masks; they have to.
- Alternative powers and energies to amaze and preoccupy.
- Alternative knowledge, secrets and mysteries.
- Alternative grand promises that they cannot keep and never have because they are finite not infinite.
- Alternative concepts of human identity and origins.

- Alternative teachings on death and the afterlife.
- The spirits of the new age also offer:
- An alternative christ who is not the one of Scripture.
- An alternative agenda looking for a new world order.
- An alternative morality that only darkens the conscience.
- An alternative transformation that does not connect anyone to God.
- An alternative spiritual practice that promises enhancement but deepens the spiritual blinders.
- Alternative spiritual goals that seek the opposite of what God is really doing.

NAM may be more lethal than blatant satanism because the mask that hides the demonic face is so comfortable many never question the source or test these spirits… to see if they come from God. (See 1 John 4).

ITS ORIGIN AND EXPANSE

It would seem that the foundations for the new age spiritual movement were laid by the occult practitioner Helena P. Blavatsky. Her involvement in the realm of spirits is known and now felt the world over. It is amazing how one life can be used for good or for evil; how one life given over to the Spirit of God or to a demonic presence known as an 'ascended master' will bring influence one way or the other. HPB as she is known wrote the massive work called 'THE SECRET DOCTRINE' and it is claimed to have been a (spiritual master) spiritual presence that guided the writing from beginning to end.

That secret doctrine not only runs totally contrary to ancient scripture, it offers a substitute christ and an alternative agenda for humanity. If the source is from God then the teaching will lead to Christ, salvation and the arms of God. If the source is a seducing spirit it will lead further away from God and deeper into the spirit of antichrist.

Along with Helena is another leader who paved what I feel is the broadest road the new age movement now rides on. This writer has written over 20 volumes and testifies that it was an ascended master (The Tibetan) who engaged her to write and then dictated every page of each volume. I have read some of these volumes and can tell you that the Spirit of God in me sounded the alarm clearly.

These books are the very doctrines (teachings) of demons (planos-spirits 1Tim.4) that the Spirit of God warned us would come. In these books which I will not quote here we are told of a 'sequence of spiritual evolution' and of an agenda of a new world order. Both of which are the two main points of the satanic mission. It is as if the demonic has revealed its play book and is seeking players in these writings of Alice Bailey. The spirit guide like Helena's led Alice to offer the world an alternative christ, alternative church, writing and agenda. This spirit or ascended master gave her the strategy on how to use Bible terminology and change the meaning, how to be among the Christian Church and influence it with the 'new teaching'. Behind all new age teaching is a very strong spiritual force but it is not the Holy Spirit of God.

The writings of Helena and Alice were clearly spiritually guided, their writings have influenced all of the later new age writers/leaders like Marilyn Ferguson, David Spangler, Barbara Marx Hubbard and many others. Their teaching is the same because it comes from those fallen dark spirits acting as angels of light. As I have read much of new age teaching from the main sources I can see some clear patterns. Here are some main teachings:

ITS INCLUSION AND EXCLUSION

It seems the spirits of the new age seek to include any and all teaching that is compatible with the agenda. Though it sounds good to say 'we included everyone' and make the new spirituality sound tolerant the dirty little secret is there between the lines. The spirits, writings, practices and entrenched members of NAM will include just about any spirituality… except one. They do have exclusion and it's a strong one. The NAM exclusion is anyone who believes in the real Christ of scripture and has the Spirit of God dwelling in them.

Their inclusion involves anyone who denies the deity of Christ, His Word and His second coming. You see they have a new christ; one they are helping to bring in. The new christ is called the 'world teacher' and he will come to set up the new order. There is no second coming of the Christ of the cross, only a reappearance of a christ in the form of a super human that will come to rule the world. The spirit of antichrist that guides them will only champion the coming homosatanas. As I have said, the deception is deadly. NAM will be at the cutting edge of the coming chaos and rise of a supernatural world leader. NAM excludes all else.

IT'S SMORGASBORD OF EXPERIENCES

Sitting at the theosophical society I watched for some time how many kinds of spiritual experiences are embraced. The NAM has a big variety of supernatural practices and experiences that both fit its agenda and deepens its growth. You can channel, talk to angels, develop your psychic abilities, leave your body, acquire hidden knowledge and become a spiritual master. You can read tea leaves, remote view, talk to the dead, predict the future, release and receive spiritual energies, get visits from aliens and more…so much more. Each spiritual experience will hook the participant with real spiritual presence because there is a real spirit giving it. The problem is, however, the 'spirit behind the spiritual experience' is finite, fallen and not from God. They are called 'imposters' and have massive power to seduce. The spiritual pattern throughout all of NAM and its teaching is clear; the denial of Jesus Christ for all of who He is and the rejection of the Biblical revelation of the Cross, Salvation and the Second Coming. This is what every dark spirit who opposes God seeks to teach. It is why they reward their followers…for now.

DO NOT MISS ITS TWO FOUNDATIONAL ISSUES

It is vital for us not to miss the bottom line of all NAM teaching. Behind all of the old and new leaders, books and seminars of NAM we find the same core 'revelations'. These revelations are from spirits but not one bit is from the Spirit of God. It is vital in that it is not new at all; it is very, very old.

- IT'S A PROMISE OF A SPIRITUAL EVOLUTION (doctrine). NAM's bottom line is the promise of 'the spiritual evolution' of human kind; that all the spiritual movement, energies and development of the human race is in the process of evolving. It promises a great surge or planetary spiritual wave is coming and when it does it will change everything. Mankind will be transformed and move to spiritual deity. With this transformation comes a new world where we will be...almost god like.
- IT'S A PROMISE OF A NEW AGE–GLOBALISM (agenda). The connecting spiritual teaching is that a new age is coming. A whole new order will arrive and the old will go. So the spiritual practices of the NAM will help open the door to allow the spiritual push that will usher in the new age. A new spiritual globalism is promised and when it comes everything will change! So the spirits of the new age have said.

The spiritual evolution and the new order will bring to us what the world has always needed according to them. The new spiritual world order will manifest a new 'world teacher' who will guide us to unprecedented peace and amazement. The truth is that the antichrist will lead the world into the deepest deception and broadest destruction. See Revelation 9 for the future of new age spiritual results.

IT'S A GLIMPSE OF A NEW SUPER LEADER

Yes all of this new age teaching, spiritual practice and push will culminate with the supernatural arrival. A super man with super wisdom and super powers is coming. The new age christ is coming and he will lead the world into bags of sweet candy….poisoned by hell itself.

What the new age movement spirit guided writers have and are writing is what the Holy Spirit of God has revealed as the antichrist and the final devastating age in human history. The new age promise is as old as the Garden of Eden. There the fallen angry cherub (satan) promised humanity that if they would forget the mean God who is withholding from them then they could get the real inner hidden knowledge and evolve to godhood. That promise then is the promise of the new age movement. That promise back in the garden led to the fall of humanity, death, disease, war, pain and hell itself.

What the new age promise will not be fulfilled; it cannot because it was given by the fallen finite father of lies.

Again I say with author Bob Rosio,

"'Deception always leads to destruction"

THE NEED FOR CLEANSING

NAM teaching has one more element; it is a little known and very secretive mission. It is the spiritual teaching of 'cleansing' or purging. As the NAM and its new spiritual wave are unleashed and humans who have been prepared evolve, something will happen. But it will not be an 'evolution to deification! It will be a solidification of the spirit of antichrist in the hearts of those following the masked angel of light. The earth they say and the spiritual evolutionary process will cleanse the earth, it will be thorough and remove anything that opposes it.

As the spiritual evolutionary bubble breaks and an unleashing of the new spiritual wave comes, those not attuned to it will be wiped out. A critical chaos may come and many of those who will not bend to the new age spirit will have to go. For the new age- teaching getting rid of millions of humans is the normal process in the evolutionary chain of development. The concept is that resistors need to go (be cleansed) because they hinder the 'evolution of humanity' and the new super leader from coming in.

New age writers and practioners know very well that a mass chaos must occur and only then can the new age burst into place. For the NAM the black awakening this book talks about will be a necessary and expected event to make way for the world teacher and the unified world of 'peace'.

NAM AND THE LOSS OF GOD

The NAM has produced more spiritual deception, writings, and doctrines and unleashed more spiritual experiences than any other movement in history. I believe it will continue to bulge and grow right up to the chaos of the black awakening. After the anarchy and with new layers of dark spiritual presence it will be very easy for the spirits of this NAM to lead its hooked adherents into the super spiritual system that is known as Babylon. (See Revelation 17-18)

Here is what the evidence shows, the spirits of the new age movement never led anyone to Christ, they are opposed to Him. They are here to do what the Spirit of God said…to seduce and lead astray. NAM experiences have a lot of spiritual events and supernatural things do occur, but none give by them lead to God.

I once asked an 86 year old spiritual seeker who was eagerly telling me of all the years he had studied and all of the avenues of spiritual things he experienced. He was totally entrenched in new age spiritual experience and teaching but something was missing and I had to ask him. "Bill", I said, "Have you found what you're looking for? Have you found God?"

His countenance fell and his smile turned to a frown, then with those watery eyes looking deeply into me old Bill answered…."NO".

FINALLY

Dear reader know one thing for sure, the spirits of the NAM cannot and will not lead anyone to God. That would be the opposite of their mission and their nature. Do you know who they are and what they really want? They and what they promise is a mirage. The spiritual doctrines and promises are a cover for the dark plot and coming black awakening. These spirits are here to preoccupy the masses and lead them away. Nam is a vast door and cover for the coming antichrist and all of the spirits of NAM come from the 'man behind the curtain'.

'They must keep those who embrace them from God and from seeing that the sweet candy of NAM is the bait for the rape of the ages.'

"This is the spirit of antichrist, which you have heard is coming and even now is already in the world" 1John 4

“Therefore I tell you that no one who is speaking by the Spirit of God says, ‘Jesus be cursed,’ and no one can say, ‘Jesus is Lord,’ except by the Holy Spirit.”

1Corinthians12 “What agreement is there between the temple of God and idols” 2Corinthians 6

2012'ERS
THE ANCIENTS AND THE COMING CHAOS

"The victims of human sacrifice by…ancient Mayans, who threw children into water-filled caverns….Mayan priests in the city of Chichen Itza … sacrificed children to petition the gods for rain.."
"So the children were offered as a way to directly communicate with chaac (demon god)"

January 23, 2008 news report Reuters with archeologist Guillermo de Anda from the University of Yucatan

"There is no doubt now…I have linked up with the Mayan power."… "I am explaining the Mayan power"…"that it covers the ancient key Mayan pyramids and temples like an invisible blanket…"

p. 215-216 Ted Owens in THE PK MAN

There seems to be a new wave of excitement swelling all over the world and it only shows me how far from truth and the Spirit of God many have gone. Many are now hailing the ancient Mayans as if they were a glorious group of spiritual masters. Many are going to the ancient temples and ruins of a people who have long been vanquished. Once again like many they seek spiritual presence, knowledge and experience. It is clear they are getting what they are looking for or are they? These spirit seekers are getting something that the Mayans themselves got… but hasn't anyone seen where that led them? Vanquished and in ruins!

There is a reason for the ruins of the ancient Mayans, it seems their old civilization was wiped out or somehow just disappeared. Many are seeking Mayan spirituality and want the prophecies that were left behind. So I have taken the time to listen to hours of talk shows, seen a number of 2012 promoting videos, movies and bought a bunch of books so I could see what all this buzz is about.

It seems there is a very deep spiritual presence among those Mayan ruins and some very interesting 'spirit' guided writings declaring future events. The Mayan calendar and its calculations are predicting the end of human civilization. The Mayan researchers are saying the prophecies of these people declare the world will end in December 2012. At the writing of this book we are just a three years away.

You can read books like: 'THE SUPERNATUAL' 'SERPENT OF LIGHT BEYOND 2012' 'MAYA COSMOGENESIS 2012' 'THE MAYAN PROPHECIES' 'TOWARD 2012 PERPECTIVES ON THE NEXT AGE' OR Daniel Pinchbecks book '2012 THE RETURN OF QUETZALCOATL' and you will see some massive research and personal seeking has gone on. The 2012 prophecies of the Mayans are making a global impact.

The sad issue though is the fact that most of these researchers and others haven't come to grips with who the old Mayans really were.

The ancient Mayans were not a spiritually peace loving quiet people. They were a civilization who gave wide open doors to very powerful demon/gods who lead the people to massive drug use (usually for interaction with spirits/spirit vision), sexual ritual perversion of children and to massive human sacrifice. The 'temples' and ziggurats were not nice peaceful cathedrals where contemplative prayers were issued but the home of major demon gods who sought human possession and blood. Please make a note of this…wherever you see ancient temples and especially ziggurats you can know that human heads have rolled and massive blood was shed.

The dark gods of the Mayans were Chac, Kinich Ahau, Yumil Kaxob, Yum Cimil, Ixtab, Kukulcan, Ix Chel and of course Quetzacoltal, demonstrate the attributes of demons. It may be that some of them were actually nephilim (demon human hybrids) who ruled and took advantage of the people. In biblical revelation all of these would be demon/gods much like Baals, Bel, Marduk, and Moloch. Like demon gods of the Old Testament the Mayan demon/gods took from the people and gave…well mostly took. From this dark atmosphere of demon gods the spirit given religion, writings, practices and prophecy came. From these very dark powers comes the inspiration for what are now known as the 2012 Mayan prophecies.

The premise of the 2012 Mayan prophecy is that a massive catastrophe will occur, wipe out most everything and end civilization. There are basically two streams to this thought:

- First, there are those who see that Mayan prophecy speaks of the end of human civilization….totally. We are done its over and there is nothing else.
- Second, the major views out there hold there will be a massive catastrophic event and it will destroy much but not everything. The sense is out of the catastrophic 'chaos' will come a new humanity with a whole new future. Many I have heard are postulating a needed earth evolution: That the earth is out of balance and the (spirit) of the earth will cleanse itself of all the bad and start over. Well that's one way to deal with sin, greed and evil but where do all the people go? Who gets to stay? What force decides who is good or evil and gets rid of….the bad ones?

This is the picture we get from the summer of 2009 movie with Nicolas Cage called 'KNOWING'. It is about prophecy, the end of this world and the saving of some people to start all over. But the concept doesn't stop there, author and radio host Whitney Strieber who wrote 'COMMUNION' and other books put out this year the new book 2012 with a sub title that truly fits…'A WAR FOR SOULS.'

I wonder now whether or not in all the streams of luciferians, satanism, Mayan prophecy, the new age belief, and occult secret societies if the participants have seen that there is a hidden hand behind them, guiding their work and revealing a plan. This hidden hand is really the same source/presence weaving its thread among and within them each of them.

It would seem that among them all the thread of thought is: the world is breaking down and a catastrophic world collapse is coming but we believe and hope a new world is coming that will evolve humanity out this dust of death and into an Aquarian age. If the ultimate message is the same with each of the above streams of spiritual belief wouldn't that tell us it all comes from the same source? It's that source that is planning a massive 'chaos' before a new world order and that source has always been the dark finite demonic.

DOWN IN THE JUNGLE

This is not my story but one which tells about a man called the PK (psychic power) man. In his book Jeffery Mishlove, Ph.D tells of a man named Ted Owens who is some kind of major psychic, remote viewer, and alien abductee and ultimately an enhanced human. This man is said to have received psychic powers from non human intelligences and used those powers to affect events and predict future events.

In the development of the story of PK man we find him going down to the Mayan ruins/temple to seek contact with the presence there but what is that presence? PK man as Ted is called goes to the ruins of the Mayan temple where he seeks the dark powers he is already in touch with and asks them to introduce him to the 'Mayan Power'. The story goes on to tell how PK man does meet the dark god and sees it as a peaceful presence…imagine that! The spirits who were there in the past are there right now. They are ready as they are all over the world to invited new recruits. All I can think right now is… "My, what big teeth you have grandma!"

AS IN THE PAST SO IN THE PRESENT

Going back to the Bible the demon gods who engaged the people at some point begin to seek human sacrifice. 2Kings chapters 21-23 show the progressive development of Manasseh and the doors to the demonic he opened. It ends in tragedy with human sacrifice and Manasseh slaughtering his own living child. My point in all this is that the demons never change regardless of where they come from. Whether from Old Testament or the Mayan society, when the demonic gods are allowed to manifest the blood will flow. If the doorways to these gods are found and opened again they will seek to set up the same 'spiritual evolution' that will end in human transmutation and blood sacrifice.

"He built altars in the temple of the Lord, of which the Lord has said, 'in Jerusalem I will put my Name.' …..he built altars to all the starry hosts. He sacrificed his own son in the fire, practiced sorcery and divination, and consulted mediums and spiritists. He did much evil in the sight of the Lord…." 2Kings 21

If you have every dealt with a satanic chosen one (SRA/MPD) and heard what they came through, you know quite well they are very versed in the details of human sacrifice. The know well how human torture, fear and blood will bring the dark powers up and over. The how, why and what of human blood is obscure to most but is sought by the dark side whether in the past or the present. You can also be sure it will be the staple of the future during the rise of Babylon! (See Revelation 17-18). Innocent blood has and will be shed throughout the nation.

"…shed so much blood that he filled Jerusalem (the nation) from one end to end…" 2Kings 21

All of what was true in Manasseh's day was true among the Mayan civilization. This is now the reality among the ancient satanic brotherhood; they have helped produce hundreds of thousands of demonically charged super soldiers…by human blood ritual! Whether in the past or presence the demons will seek human sacrifice and through it will come with powers, prophecies and deep deception.

DEMON GODS DON'T DIE

If you find and open their doors they will come again! The theology of the demonic is that their nature is evil and eternal. Satan and demons don't die.

Try if you want but in the scriptures you will not find any reference to the death of demons. They can be cast out see Mark chapter 5, sent to the Abyss (a prison for very dark powers) or shut down see 2Kings 23 but they don't die. So as researchers and spiritual seekers look into the dirt of the temples of the ancient gods what they don't know is that they (the same demons gods) have been waiting for new inquirers for a long time.

These dark gods may have even been the ones who have been calling and whispering for new servants and the danger right now is that many are willing to listen. The dark gods of the Mayans haven't died; they were shut down by the hand of God. They are not dead, just waiting and if you answer their call and open their doors they will begin again…….2012ers beware!

RESURRECTION OF THE INSURECTION

So the demons don't die and there is no 'resurrection' for them per say. They can be shut down, cut off and 'buried' though. As in Josiah's day (see 2Kings21-23) the goal was to shut all the doors by smashing the altars, crushing the idols, and destroying the symbols that were associated with the demons/gods. They stopped Moloch and the call to his followers to sacrifice their own children alive on altars to this dark god. He had to be crushed and the doors through which Moloch came in that day were closed.

This was done to close the door of interaction with them, but it didn't kill them. As we have said the demon/god, was still there waiting and looking for someone to open the door again. Satanists and others who call on the dark powers and summon demons know you have to open the doors for them. They are also sure once you do these dogs do come and they begin their transmuting work.

At the Mayan temple and among its ruins the demons and powerful territorial gods still remain and they have waited for someone to release them again. It is very clear to me that those who are going down to the ancient temples, taking 'spirit' summoning drugs like 'ayahuasca', touching the demonized objects and reading the names of the old gods are 'resurrecting the insurrection' (a God hating rebellion) and this will lead to what it always does…human degradation and human blood.

Dear reader some doors should never be opened…ever!

It's very evident today that millions are opening these gateways…or at least answering the knocks of the old blood lusting dark powers. Please also realize that the Biblical predictions of the unprecedented rise and manifestation of demonic powers in the last days correspond to the spirit inspired books that have been written, the hidden rituals that are done, the old and new gateways that have been opened (or reopened), and the blood that is being shed…even if it hasn't been seen by the general public yet.

WHERE DID THE MAYANS GO WRONG?

How does all of this start? It's similar to satanic recruiting; you get the person to come to 'light' events, then to things darker and finally to the heavy blood ritual. It's an incremental approach; it starts off small and then goes step by step in a darker direction. I have even seen this approach begin with book authors. They have a 'supernatural' experience, they feel led to go deeper and then they feel guided to eventually write about it. The problem then is the doors they opened in their life are now opened up and unleashed to a larger audience. Daniel Pinchbeck in his book on 2012 does this and so does author Courtney Brown in his work on extraterrestrials. Both have their experience and engagement with a spiritual/non human source after which they write to tell others, then the doors to deeper and darker experiences occur.

One known author it is vividly clear, knows how this all starts. I wish Craig Hines would have known better than to follow the call of seducing spirits. Sometimes they start with a whisper, knock or even with a curious dream. In his book 'GATEWAY TO THE GODS', a book that helps to open the door to the old dark and deceiving spirits, he tells where it began for him. Why does he do it? Like many who have been engaged with these fallen spirits he tells us how he was lead. On p 26 he reveals how it all starts:

"I began having some rather disturbing dreams involving a dark, shadowy entity that seemed to be stalking me."…"like there was actually something else in my head making its presence known"…"…a cold December morning, at 3:04 am to be precise, it seemed as if the thing actually came out of those life-altering moments…"

From here Craig is led into a variety of events, research and engagements that lead him to write a book and that book opens the doors to the dark deceptive side… of the spiritual evolution all real luciferians hope for. One should note, it started with a 'dark shadowy entity.'

BLOODY FIELDS AND THE COMING CATASTROPHE

What happened to end Sodom and Gomorrah, the Mayans or even the Nephilim degradation of Genesis 6 was the work of the living God Himself. Someone has to stop the embrace of the demonic, human sacrificing, the perverted sexual damage and bring in a real redemption that could change everything. The bloody fields of 2 kings 21-22 were brought about by the dark spirits and fallen ones. These eternal, evil, non human intelligences were and are viscously active; they seek the corruption of humanity and broader doors to come through. They want possession, manifestation and the ability to operate supernaturally in the affairs of humanity.When these doors are opened wide enough and long enough the blood begins to flow and the spiritually convinced twisted minds of the followers will knowingly, willfully and with devotion slaughter their children in horrific ways. This is what the demons themselves need and prescribe.

So who do human sacrificing satanists believe guided their ritual prescriptions? The designers of ancient rituals are the ones who sought the doorways so they could come to our side. It allows them to come up and over, they come through the door they crafted. Each ritual is a 'foot in the door' of human interaction. The more the rituals are done, the more human blood is shed the wider the door and broader the grip the demonic/demon gods will have on a person, group and or an entire civilization. The Mayans were not taken over in one night, it took years, just like with the Nazi ritual ovens…and so it will be with globalism.

FINALLY

Could this be another wave of spiritual teaching that will build the critical mass ‘feeling’ and or acceptance of a coming horrific bloodshed? Will the world say that such a ‘chaos’ is needed to cleanse this old world so a new one can come? Did the demons reveal their play book of a coming chaos among the ancient Mayan priests? If they did it was through the practice of human sacrifice and that always spells out the end of a civilization.

CHAPTER 7
THE SECQUENCE OF SATANIC EVOLUTION

"Not enough has been said about satan."

Law enforcement agent Tom Wedge p36 'THE SATAN HUNTER'

"The repertoire of evil has never been richer. Yet never have our responses been so weak"..."So the work of the devil is everywhere, but no one knows where to find him." p 3 & 9 'THE DEATH OF SATAN' How Americans Have Lost the Sense of Evil'

"The spirits have come out in the open"…"they have initiated an assault in ways that a generation ago would have seemed unthinkable" p 61 'THE COMING DARKNESS'

"While we are quite accustomed to revelations from God concerning the future, whether immediate of remote from the time of the inspired writer, we must not be startled by the thought of revelations from God concerning things in the past. Should it be thought strange that God who knows and reveals the future, has also been pleased to reveal certain things which took place in the shadowy past -shadowy to us who are creatures, but containing no shadows for him who is light and in whom dwelleth no darkness at all?" p 53 'THE INVISIBLE WAR'

Here in the middle of the first section of this book I need to bring an unveiling that deals with the 'man' behind the curtain. Satan is either too weird for some to think about or he's just too scary to look at face to face. If he didn't exist then the full roots and fruit of radical evil is laid at the feet of man…and that includes your toes too.

Some will live in denial but other self affirming intellectuals will cry out with powerful 'reason' that it's impossible that the devil is real. All the while the sitting front and center with a wired grin is the fallen cherub… and he gives the first applause in the hall of the half-a-brains. The one we are talking about is:

"The god of this age has blinded the minds….so that they cannot see…." 2Corinthians 4

"The ruler of the domain of the air, the spirit who is now at work in…" Ephesians 2

"…and the whole world is under the control of the evil one." 1 John 5

Join me please in taking a look at ancient scripture as it reveals not just the origin, character and methodology of this stealth war monger but his active and coming agenda in the affairs of the whole world.

In the Book of Ezekiel chapter 8 we have a situation, one that is local but typical of what's happening world wide right now; it's the secret power of darkness supernaturally operating among Ezekiel…hundreds of years before Jesus comes the first time. Take a moment to read Ezekiel chapter 8. Here are some of the factors:

- God is there and does know the presence of evil and what it's doing.
- Real old luciferians are revealed as they live in super secrecy summoning dark spirits and reveling in hidden rituals. They are part of a long chain of serpent worshippers who have inched their way right into the center of God's city.
- A fallen world of people are all around living, working and dying. None are aware of this dark presence that operates right in their midst. They continue to be unaware of satan's schemes.

- Those who did not see what was going on are the targets of this underground movement and recruitment is ongoing. Most do not see the shadow government, shadow religion or the shadow powers that were operating. They may have a feeling and there may be rumors but they have no idea there are 'luciferian worshippers' in the middle of the city.
- Those who were given the insight and a heads up were only able to seen and know by the supernatural power of God. Dark presence has dark powers to cloak their activities….for now. A prophet was there but without the aid of the hand of God even he did not know.
- It is very clear that God sees and wills to put an end to radial evil like this. But there will have to be ready and willing individuals who will allow God to show them what is there and what to do.

Always remember, until the time of the rise of antichrist the secret forms of direct serpent worship, the summoning of demons and the long line of servants of the black flame have been, are and will be mostly hidden or shrouded in a 'secret power', ….until the rebellion (chaos) that opens the door to the unveiling of satan in human skin (homosatanas) happens .

When this does occur the largest manifestation of the 'domain of darkness' will arrive right here, in the face of all humanity…and reign for a short time. It's all just around the corner.

RUNNING SURVEILANCE

We got tired of running around in circles as we tried to protect the federal officer's wife. She was a high powered chosen one with sub personalities that continually set us up and kept us searching in the wrong direction for the perpetrators. Mary would tell us one thing and the sub personalities would tell us another. We kept getting phone calls to our offices by the coven that told us to back off and whatever plans we made it seemed the coven knew. They were running surveillance by having other 'watchers' watch our house, follow staff members and get information from her sub personalities who were watching (getting information) from us.

Mary's sub personalities who were coven loyal and others programmed to retrieve information would call the coven members after Mary had been with us. Those personalities would then tell everything we were planning. Mary and other chosen ones can use 'psychic' abilities to 'feel' what we are planning and where we were stationed. It was really uncanny how many times when we were following her or watching her apartment she knew. Sometimes she called us and even drove to where we were parked to let us know she and the coven knew where we were. Though we learned the hard way at first…we learned what to do, God does give countermeasures.

We began to pray for her 'abilities' to be blocked; we also stopped sharing our plans in front of her because of the sub personalities who were listening. Then we placed a recording system in her apartment for 21 days that would be voice activated. At the end we got the tapes and every conversation. The primary culprits were her coven loyal sub personalities. She even had a small recorder herself that had a tape on it with a male voice; she would call our offices and play the tape, it was the one that warned us to stay away from Mary…that her blood and power belonged to the circle of dominion. When we played the tapes in front of Mary and her listening sub personalities a new one we had not talked to before came up. This one was mad but defeated and told us how much they were playing games with us… and preoccupying our time.

THE SATANIC PLAY BOOK

I have told psychologists, pastors and police officers we can't understand this SRA/MPD issue without the reality of satan's existence and his agenda. It's not what you believe (however satan is real) it's what they (criminals in satanic crime) believe that makes them dangerous. That phrase was the one Tom Wedge of law enforcement repeated so many times. Most have no idea of the existence of dark powers, covens and satanic activity but not because it's not there.

Father Jeffery J Steffon reveals in his book 'SATANISM IS IT REAL?' that there may be a hundred thousand covens in the US. I have no doubt this is a low number.

I break down the cover up and awareness of all this underground activity into five categories:

- 1. PUBLIC COVER UP. Many have an idea but don't want to know the details. The details and facts are too awful and gory. So just ignore the reports and don't think about it….maybe it's just a rumor or it will go away. Even law enforcement teaches officers in the police academy that they should not report the 'satanic' details of this kind of crime. They say it will only create public panic, so keep the information buried/quite.
- 2. PROFESSIONAL COVER UP. There are those in psychiatry, education and progressives who think the devil and demons are made up stories of fearful, uneducated societies of the past. They tell victims who report these stories that it's just delusion. One psychologist I listened to here in a seminar told the participants to…not talk to sub personalities it only strengthens their existence and empowers them to stay around. Another psychiatrist wrote me a letter telling me not to mix psychology and religion concerning this issue. Another one says tell the victims that memories of satanic ritual abuse are a delusion!
- 3. RELIGIOUS COVER UP. There are those who are very versed in the Bible and believe that satan is real but only in the religious sense. That the old devil just teases believers and is an 'undetectable annoyance' that you can't nail down. I had a man send me a letter stating that "to talk about the devil only glorifies him'. So, I guess that means that the Bible glorifies the devil since it speaks so much about him and reveals so much about this 'secret power' of darkness? You may have to get rid of a third of the entire Bible to do this or just willfully stay ignorant of it!
- 4. PERPETRATORS COVER UP. Drug runners and child sexual criminals are masters at cover up, secrecy and hiding in plain sight. We know there are more active drug dealers and sexual perverts than the number of those who've been caught. Perpetrators of satanic ritual abuse and crime are without question masters of masquerade, deception and cover up…they have the active presence of the father of lies supporting them. Secrecy is the law of underground satanism. Threats of death, retribution and severe punishment await those who tell.

- 5. SATANIC COVER UP. If you believe the Bible then you know what he and his work have done in supernatural secrecy with real supernatural power. God alone has revealed who and what this evil one is all about. Jesus himself comes and pulls back the veil on existing dark powers by his sheer presence and ministry. God has come to reveal who, what, when and the where of this radical evil. I will emphasize in this book that God, Christ, the Holy Spirit and the Word of God give the only (accurate) unveiling of this active evil. It's vital to be knowledgeable and very aware of this menace.

"In order that satan might not outwit us. For we are not unaware of his schemes." 2Corinthians 2

SERVANT WARRIORS

Some are ready to know and then do something about it: Ezekiel was one of them. Many books have been written on this subject by now but nothing brings the impact of this active evil more than dealing with it…face to face. Ezekiel was given a 'supernatural look into the substructure of radical evil.' I will deal in detail with this in the 4th section. As in Ezekiel 8 radical evil was there and is here…as never before in human history. God knows every inch of what is going on and looks for those who will be open to knowing and doing something about it.

To get a heads up on the devil and his 'play book' you can read books like the many volumes of Jeffery Burton Russell's work on the existence of the devil in public history. You can read 'The Franklin Cover Up', 'The Satan Hunter', 'Secret Weapons', 'Is Satanism Real?' or a hundred other books that I listed in this work but the best and only accurate work is in the Scripture God has given.

"Everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give account" Hebrews 2

"He reveals deep and hidden things; he knows what lies in darkness and light dwells with him" Daniel 2

THE SPB EXPOSED BY THE BOOK

If you know what somebody else's plan is you have a real advantage. An even greater advantage in this case is when knowledge of what the once anointed cherub is and is doing moves from the fallen finite mind of man and yields to the infinite awareness of God. Truly omnipresence, omniscience and omnipotence are the ultimate weapons that will suffice in dealing with this ancient but active evil and only God is and has this. God can and does do total surveillance on this entire dark agenda. Literally, satan can't plan or do anything without God knowing.

Is there a satanic master plan/play (SPB) book? YES! Scripture reveals:

- It is a furious plot Revelation 12
- It is evil in control 1 John 5
- There are global goals 2 Thessalonians 2
- He has never stopped Revelation 18
- He seeks a more opportune time Matthew 4
- He asks to destroy Christians
- He seeks to devour 1 Peter 5
- He is a murderer and father of lies John
- There is a sequence of Satanic evolution
- 1 Thessalonians 2-Revelation
- It's not random but planned. Revelation 19:19
- He seeks the masses as part of his plan. Psalm 2
- Satan has a plan and it includes you, the world, governments, politicians, militaries, economics, counterfeit doctrine, miracles, prophets, supernatural secrecy-deception and the coming pinnacle…the anti (counterfeit) christ (satan in human skin). Daniel; Matthew 24; 1Timothy 4; 2Thessalonians 2; 1John 2 the entire book of Revelation.

This is only a small part of the Biblical revelation. One can start with these scriptures…they will be an eye full. Do we have even more inside information to this sequence and the evolution of that plan? YES!

"…the secret power of lawlessness is already at work…in accordance with the work of satan…" 2 Thessalonians 2 "…the ruler of the kingdom of the air, the Spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient (active willful rebellion against God). Ephesians 2

The primary drive is chaos (black awakening) and then a new world order. But don't miss the ultimate reason for the chaos. It's for the creation of a new world order! And the only reason for the goal of globalism is political and military development and control. What is this all for? So he can use them in mass (PS2-R1919) when Jesus is going to return. Whether you believe in the second coming or not, satan knows Jesus is coming (just like the first time Revelation 12). All of the political, global and military might he evolves is for one thing and only one thing, in the end…. the attempted annihilation of God. Don't lose sight of this as you consider satanic ritual abuse and the millions of victims of 'mind control' and or who is behind it.

This is the madness of the satanic agenda. It's what this darkness is all about and leading to. Knowing this ultimate goal will cause you to realize satan must have a supernaturally controlled military ('super soldiers') to have a controlled globalism.

As you think over these points in this chapter my question is; can you track the satanic playbook? The answer is yes but only with a:

Supernatural hole into this substructure of radical evil

You will need:

- a deep knowledge of the Biblical and prophetic revelation of God in scripture,
- an affective prayer life,
- to be experienced in the power and work of the Holy Spirit,
- to know and be involved in the love compelling mission of God
- and a have personal knowledge of the One who came to destroy the devil's work (1John3) and rescue us…the Savior Jesus Christ.

After all it's not the anti-Buddha anti-Mohammad or Anti-Quetzacoltal who's coming to do all this…it's the anti-Christ!!

FINALLY

God revealed the substructure, activity and agenda of radical evil in Ezekiel's day. It wasn't so Ezekiel would be amazed or just educated. God reveals radical evil so we can be:

- Warned
- Go to work to stop it
- Witness to others of God's grace
- Embrace God and worship Him alone
- Engage in spiritual warfare
- Trust in the One who fights against radical evil and will end all of evil one day.

God reveals the substructure of radical evil… as we have quoted:

"Because the consequences are so terrible"

SATANIC ASCENDENCY OR PANIC

"Evidence from Gunderson's investigations has convinced him that tens of thousands of children or young people disappear from their homes each year, and that many are ritually sacrificed." Former FBI 'THE FRANKLIN COVER UP'

"The student counselor…confirmed that a satanic fad had been sweeping through the school. Kids were scratching pentagrams and 666 signs on their desks and schoolbooks and drawing inverted crosses in pen on the back of their hands." p 64 'SATANIC KILLINGS'

"Ritual ceremonies were held in barns and in open fields on private property. The most important ceremonies, Sam says, were held on Christmas and Easter in order to blaspheme the most holy Christian days." p 67 'THE DEVILS WEB'

"So from time immemorial men have believed in the existence of the devil. Sin and wickedness are the hallmarks of his kingdom, disintegration and destruction its inevitable result." p 14 'MARX & SATAN"

"The devil plants people in many churches that pretend to be Christians but are not" p 264 'SPIRITUAL WARFARE' DEFEATING THE FORCES OF DARKNESS

Many who have read and are aware of the rise of satanism in the US know the stories of Tommy Sullivan who cut up his mother and took his own life or of Richard Ramirez who raped, beat and brutally murdered many victims 'in the name of satan'. Stories of Sean Sellers, Ricky Kasso and a hundred others only begin the first chapter on the issue of satanic ascendency and satanic crime in the last 30 years. Multitudes of dark spiritual streams have flooded the US since the 60's. Occult historian James Web reveals to us in his book 'THE OCCULT ESTABLISHMENT' that the second greatest release of occult books and writings in history took place in the USA in the 60's, the first according to Web occurred in pre-Nazi Germany. Webs conclusions correspond to author Bob Rosio's view of this development in his work 'HITLER AND THE NEW AGE'. It is without question that this influx of information has contributed to the practices of satanism and the rise of very dark occultism.

In my youth work with thousands of students in the 70's to the 90's the staff and I saw a consistent rise of young people involved in satanism and ritual practice. When I began to target these youth I not only ran into young people who had read, practiced and sought satan, I engaged kids who also had demonic presence in them and others who were ready to harm others in satan's name.

The stories below are a number of personal engagements that relate to this 'ascendancy of satan'. I have read tons of the books and reports which are bad enough but it was the engagement with many people that revealed the aggressive nature of the rise of satanism.

WAR ON THE SAINTS

There was a call from a pastor who said a young satanist had shown up at his church. He wanted me to talk to her. Getting her address I went. She was there and surprised that I found her. As we talked she told me about some of the satanic background she was in though she would not tell me names or ritual sites. At the end of our conversation I told her I would pray for her, at that she bolted up the outside stairs yelling and cussing at me not to and slammed the door. I smiled because I thought doesn't she know that running away and closing the door would not block the prayers?

This girl had been going to a local church where we arranged a small conference with author Tom Wedge (THE SATAN HUNTER). Tom had just returned from California and a meeting with Anton LaVey (author of the satanic bible). She began to infiltrate this church and would even be at the pastor's home engaging his children. This young satanist told me she was trying to recruit young people out of that church and into satanism. At one point she let me read her 'book of shadows' where it was written that she was putting ritual curses on the pastor and his wife. She was seeking to destroy them. She actually got caught in the church late one night doing a satanic ritual.

I didn't trust her much and felt she really was up to some sinister harm. She showed up at my office one day unannounced to talk for a while. After she left I went to prayer and looked over and saw something that was stuffed in the edged of the couch. It was her demonized power rings. When I pulled them out the Spirit of God warned me that they were placed with a curse. I prayed over them and any curses she sought to release.

Then she showed up at my church dressed all in black and would get up and leave right when I started to preach. She returned on Sunday and came up to me in the midst of a bunch of people and swore she would steal my 2 years old daughter and sacrifice her. Her eyes were dark and cold and the resolve was there. She said she had to get her rank back in the coven and had to do this. I did tell her that if she broke into my house and sought my daughter I would…blow her away. Mad she said 'you can't you're a Christian'! I responded that I wouldn't hesitate to use the sling 12 gauge that I had, because I knew what they would do to a child. She left angry.

This is the satanist who had tattooed on her left wrist the phrase 'war on the saints'; a statement from the book of Daniel about the antichrist's coming attack on believers. She came to a big evangelism event with others who stood in the sanctuary doing some kind of 'chaos magic hand curses'. Prayer team members went behind them in the 3,000 seat auditorium and prayed against the dark powers. The only things that happened in those services were that over 60 people per night came to Christ for salvation and God's power was overwhelmingly present. (I think the coven group left mad).

The last time I saw her was when I got a call to go and talk to her. She wasn't living at her home but moved to an apartment. I got the address from her mom and went to talk to her. It was very strange, the apartment was over 20 miles from her family's home but only 2 houses away from the small apartment my wife, my daughter and I had lived in a few weeks prior. We had just moved from there because of the need to have a larger place for our daughter. Our address of that little apartment was still in the phone book but most didn't know we had moved. I wonder why she moved that close. She is still out there with that tattoo on the left wrist…war on the saints.

MARK IS DEAD

This young man talked to me and cried about his home life. I talked about Jesus and His love for him…he listened for some time. I had other kids living in our home at the time and they told me that Mark had been missing. In the area where I lived there were a lot of youth who were out on the streets, running and partying. I saw Mark one night and tried to talk to him. He just flashed me the 'goat's head' sign and yelled something.

A few weeks later I got the call, a young person told me Mark was living with a bunch of runaway youth at a house with some older women and they were doing satanic rituals. With some prayer and investigation I finally found the house and went up to the door. It was smashed in and had satanic symbols all over it.

The man who came to the door let me in; he was the landlord and had just kicked out a woman and a bunch of kids the day before. The whole inside of the home was covered in satanic symbols, words, curses against God, and blood stains. I went looking for Mark. I was told by others he would not talk to me and two days later Mark was dead. In his own bedroom he got a gun and blew his brains out. My last image of Mark was when he put up that goats head sign and yelled at me.

CHANTING TO KILL THE BABY

They called me because they feared what a boy was doing to the teenage girl. She was a pregnant teen whose satanic boyfriend was cursing her and using ritual language on the phone against her and her mom. I confronted the boy and tried to talk to him. He just sneered at me and slammed the door shut.

We prayed against the curses and rituals that were done. The teenage girl had her baby with no harm done.

A CURSED NOTE

A girl came to me and was very animated to say the least. A boy had written out some sort of spell with strange writings and symbols on it. He claimed he would come to her in her dreams and invade her mind. We prayed over the note, for the boy and for God's protection on the girl. We then burned the note and went on to the food fellowship that was planned. No one invaded her mind. But the questions are…who was this boy? Why did he want to harm the girl? Who taught him these satanic writings, symbols and abilities?

BILLY

Then there was Billy, who was taken to a party to get free sex, alcohol and drugs. But it was all done with a dark purpose. They wanted to recruit Billy into the local coven. They started by cutting his hand and taking that hand and smearing his blood on the page of a 'strange' book. They threatened him with death if he ever told.

A FAMILY UNDER ATTACK

This family lived over an apartment where dark occult practices were being done. They heard chanting, smelled incense and saw people with hooded robes on in the backyard in the middle of the night. It was a 'master' and some members of the Black Sun Camp of the OTO. Family members told me they felt an evil presence and strange supernatural things were occurring so they decided to move. The even stranger thing was the fact that this was the dark occult group some of our staff infiltrated 4 times to see what rituals they were doing.

All of the above stories are a few of the many we have engaged for years. This type of encounter and those much worse are still growing beyond what most would know. Since the 80's police departments have created cult/occult crime units and some hospitals have formed ritual abuse wards/floors just to handle the swelling numbers of SRA/MPD victims and the numbers are still growing.

I am listing below the outline of a course taught on the rise of satanism in the US and decided to put it up on the internet as a training course. The goal was to let folks know what is happening, what to look for and then how to respond.

Here is the outline and a few comments on each area. The internet course has over 24 hours of teaching sessions on these topics. I consider this only a basic course but it has more information than most any pastor, parent or teacher has usually learned. Since you have bought this book and are an interested reader/researcher just go to our website www.shatterthedarkness.netclick the tab that says 'book plus' enter this code R1919 and a link will be sent to you with this full web course with 24+ hours of mp3 sessions…free! The course alone is more than twice the cost of the book you're holding, so I think that's a great deal. (There is one more course coupon coming later in the book also). I just wanted to give you this information as an added bonus to help in the spiritual battle. Here is the outline and a few comments:

- ORIGINS. This session deals with the origins of evil and the reasons for radial evil. It will touch on the growth of satanism and give a panoramic view of the satanic agenda.
- SIGNS & SYMBOLS-THE DEMONS ARE DANCING. To know what a black mass or satanic justice symbol is can help you know what might be going on in an area or what went on in a crime scene. There are so many symbols and signs used in satanism and the occult that it's hard to keep track. But it's like its own language and even indicates the summoning or presence of a demonic entity.
- BIBLICAL REVELATION ON SATANISM. Scripture alone gives the best, most and only accurate unveiling of satan. The Bible reveals his origin, nature, methods and agenda. Most people have no way of knowing what to look for when it comes to real satanic or demonic activity. The scripture also gives the prophetic or future insight of satanic activity including the end of days and the rise of antichrist.

- SATANIC POWERS ARE REAL. It's true that real luciferians and satanists know the demons and satanic powers are real. The scriptures reveal that the words used for God's power, presence and supernatural works are also used by satanists. Real satanism is not about parlor tricks or fake magic; the powers are of old and they have been running their schemes for millennia. The presence, power and abilities that satan/demons can unleash are as real as God's but of course finite, able to be defeated and deadly for those who acquire them. People can really be possessed, satanists can really summon demonic presence and release dark powers and covens can really send demons against chosen targets! Do you know how to tell when it's satan's masquerading works?
- PSYCHO SATANISM. This is the form of satanic work done by those who are 'psycho' or taken over by the dark powers. Richard Ramirez the satanic night stalker who raped, killed and terrorized many would be a classic example; Jeffery Dahmer is another. Psycho satanists usually are already deviant and use satanism to further their own evil. Psycho satanists are usually loners and only have some basic knowledge of satanic practice and rituals. They mix their deviant behavior with satanic imagery but can become deadly and are destructive.
- SELF STYLED SATANISM. This form of satanism is developed by those who may read the satanic literature and practice the dark arts but join no groups. They may wear black, have satanic tattoos, or have pentagrams or other symbols on them or in their home. They may even listen to music that is very dark and satanic. Usually they won't seek to harm others or join official groups but they may have a circle of friends that are into likeminded practices.
- DABBLERS ARE DANGEROUS. I say this because some cases where a youth killed his parents or some who have committed suicide bits and pieces of satanic practice were engaged. A dabbler may be a youth who has seen satanic symbols on an album cover or read a book that deals with satanic rituals. They, being novices may go to a graveyard and knock over graves and or draw symbols on them. They may want to 'freak' out other youth but they have no idea they are playing with fire. If they open doors to the demonic realm they usually have no idea what they have done or how to stop it. Dabblers out of control can damage property, harm a small animal or even commit major crimes when they're out of control.

- POPULAR SATANISM. This is 'main' stream; you will see it in music, art, movies or on clothing. The man figure was Anton LaVey who was the founder of the Church of satan and author of the satanic bible. There are thousands of web sites dedicated to Anton and the church of satan. Anton and the dark church includes rituals and practices that feed the fallen nature of man and open them to moral and spiritual corruption. Though popular satanism claims that satan is only a philosophy the rituals and calling on of demons seem to reveal that real powers are sought. Though they say satan is not a real entity all that satan is seems to be infused into their practices.
- TRADITIONAL SATANISM. This is the form that does worship satan directly. They will seek satan and demons as real beings and desire favors from them. They may use blood in their rituals and seek secrecy beyond that of those in popular satanism. The church of the black goat with their book called the devil's bible will be an example of traditional satanism. In that book you will have clear insight to a hatred of God, rituals that include renouncing God, Christ, the Bible and ceremonies that lead into seeking direct fellowship with satan. There is a warning in the devil's "bible" that tells the one who surrenders to satan there is no turning back and warns that if anyone would try satan will bring them harm.
- ELITIST SET-ISM/SATANISM deals with a form of satanism that will mix older dark occultism, the Egyptian god Set (satan) and practices that include; numerous rituals, sex rituals and engagement with very high rituals. Col. Michal Aquino and his founding of the 'Temple of Set' is the main example. The Col. is deeply versed in mind control and advanced military weapons systems. Though he was accused of child sexual abuse and mind control he has never been convicted. The Col. has said that they have a satanic grotto (coven) on every US military base in the world. This form of satanism seeks members who are highly "intellectual" and those who are involved in the military.
- Linda Blood author of THE NEW SATANISTS claims to have been used by this leader and his group in rituals and claims to have been at many meetings where blood was shed and children were abused.

- ALEISTER CROWLEY. This dark occultist is known around the world. He has been called the 'BEAST 666' and from the rituals, crimes and practices of this sophisticated satanist that title fits. Crowley has authored many books and has influenced millions with darker forms of ritual magik. It is reported that he sought a 'moon child' which would be a cross between a demon and human. His rituals include deeply perverted sex, shedding of blood and the reception of very dark spirits. Crowley performed a ritual in which his son died and very strange things occurred. Crowley died poor, sick and in misery.
- REAL LUCIFERIANS. Many have asked what a 'luciferian' really is and do they exist. It's clear they exist and their form of belief and practice may be the closest link to the fallen cherub than all the rest. They believe that satan is really a being of great and superior light, he was unjustly thrown out of heaven and is coming back to take his rightful place.
- Real luciferians directly worship to bring about the purpose and will of this "angel of light" and seek/work for Lucifer's entrance into the world where they believe they will become gods themselves. They believe the antichrist is their 'light being' and will come to rule the world.
- Chosen Ones I write about in this book claim to be a part of this luciferian agenda. It's clear that real luciferians are the ones behind the creation of chosen ones and the coming chaos. Other terms for them would be 'the brotherhood' 'the ancient brotherhood' and or the illuminati.
- They are the wealthy elite who control the world's wealth, seek control of the political and military realms, are trans-generational, multinational and believe their own bloodlines may go back to the nephilim.
- SATANIC WORSHIP. Though all of the above listings of satanism may have differences they all have some form of satanic worship. From benign ceremonies to large group coven meetings, from just words spoken to human sacrifice and orgies…all of it is part of the evil one's work. Please remember satan seeks worshipers who will exalt him and serve his destructive cause. You can go back to the Bible in Ezekiel 8 and see the old roots of this dark line. You can also see on You-Tube all of these above forms practiced in various ways.
- When you study 2Thessalonians 2 you will see the ultimate desire of satan as he comes in human form-self exultation to Godhood. In the book of Revelation the antichrist seeks worship and even causes a 'forced worship' of his image or die scenario. His desire to take the throne of God and replace God is his passionate agenda (Isaiah 14). This is something the finite fallen cherub seeks but can never become. The finite cannot evolve or transmute into the infinite!

- SATANISM AND THE WEB. Nowhere can more be found on satanism than on the web. There are thousands of sites, meet up groups, teachings and information. There is also a lot of recruiting going on and many enticements to become a part. The really bad thing is that many old rituals are now on line. Rituals that were once secretive and known to only a few are now open to the world. Many of these rituals that I looked at are the real McCoy! If used by teenagers and others who are just curious or even seek powers they may get more than they bargained for. If you call on the dark powers they will come. If millions learn the information, rituals and possibilities then massive doorways will be opened. I have even been told that real luciferians transfer demons onto their web work to ward off Christians, attack them or seek to draw novice seekers.
- SATANIC CRIMES. The next chapter in this book will deal more in depth with this area of satanic influence. Let me just say here that massive underground satanic crime has and is being committed.
- SATANISM AND MUSIC. While I was a police chaplain I was called on duty for the many rock concerts held at the Jar arena at the University of Akron. There I watched bands like Slayer, Marilyn Manson, Danzig, Pantera, Type O Negative and others. There was a host of popular satanic symbols, signs and lyrics demonstrated. Also thousands of young people who came to hear wore clothes, had tattoos and jewelry with the same. The worst I saw was the 'cartoon' magazines that were produced by Danzig; they had in them graphic pictures of demons raping young girls.
- WEAPONIZING SATANIC POWERS. In this section I deal with the ancient, historic and current desire to seek supernatural powers to aid in military warfare. Rituals have been used in the past and may be being used today to seek supernatural powers to give advantage in military weapons systems.
- In the course I also deal with issues; Does God love satanists? Can you get out? How does satan masquerade his powers? How did satan use Judas? Satanism's war on the church, satanic ritual abuse and satanism ties to the coming black awakening. So if you want the 24 hours of mp3s just go to the Shatter the Darkness site and click 'book plus' to get a more in-depth overview of the ascendancy of satanism. I would urge too that throughout this book and all of your research that you stay fearless, bold and prayed up! Remember we must not be 'unaware' of the enemy's schemes. (2 Corinthians 1).

- In my experience of dealing with satanists from all of the above areas and the research of the materials that I have done there is a constant theme; hatred of God, blaspheme of Christ and an agenda that seeks to rid the world of God and anyone that follows Christ. Satanism is also self defeating in that no matter how powerful the rituals are or how deep one is involved with the dark side it is all finite. Satan lost in the heavenlies, couldn't destroy the Old Testament people of God, lost at the Cross (which sealed his fate) and its predicted that he can't destroy the Church, the world or stop the descent of Jesus Christ when He returns visibly (See Revelation 19-20).

Though satan is real and will bring grave deception and destruction to the world (because of those who embrace him) his fate is clear and one day the totality of the fallen cherub and his radical evil will be ended. So if you're in this dark camp I would urge you to get out now, there is coming a day when you can't. The work of Christ and the blood he shed there can set you free and bring you the power, love and future you need.

FINALLY

The rise of satanism in the US and the world is clearly unprecedented and still growing. All of the forms of satanism are ascending right now and will help open more and more doors to the seeking of dark spirits. There is a supernatural dark agenda operating and it's manifesting in the world as I write and you read. No one will escape the rise of the dark powers. It's not going away. It's only going to get worse! What Jesus spoke in Matthew 24 over 2000 years ago about the end should be known well and heeded. The rise of all forms of satanism is unequaled and there are no signs of it slowing down.

“For then there will be great distress, unequaled from the beginning of the world until now and never to be equaled again.”

Jesus and the prediction of the rise of evil in the end of days. Matthew 24

The consequences of not listening are too terrible!

SATANIC CRIMES
PROGRAMMED TO KILL

"For homicide investigations….I advise that officers investigate from the outside perimeter in….if a body's right hand is tied or taped down, their chest has been cut open and heart taken, this is a definite indication of satanic involvement" p147 'THE SATAN HUNTER'

"A pentagram had been carved in the victim's chest and his body had partially been drained of blood during the ritual. Candle-wax drippings were found in his right eye." P 139 'CULTS THAT KILL'

"In a dark and ugly netherworld where violent crime and covert operations collide, there appear to be two general categories into which a large majority of those we label 'serial killers' can be sorted: controlled assassins, and controlled patsies." P 271 'PROGRAMMED TO KILL'

"There are many reasons for an officer to develop a working knowledge of occult religions. One is to help steer an investigation in the right direction." 5'A COP'S GUIDE TO OCCULT INVESTIGATIONS

You are about to read some very terrible events; they involve crime, real people and even satanic motivation. You may want to take a drink of some strong coffee or put up some prayers and then take your time through this chapter. What you read here may sicken you, outrage you and even move you to action. It's one thing to read about occult or satanic crime, it's another thing to see it or talk to the victims who tremble just to tell what was done in dark secrecy. It's painful to listen, see or even read about this hellishness it's another thing to be the one going through it. Hopefully you are not one that has gone through it and prayerfully you never will. There is great pain, fear and hopelessness that accompany the victim of satanic crime. Reading the stories here and in other books that I have listened will make your head spin and I hope cause you to set your heart against radical evil in all of its forms.

"Love must be sincere. Hate what is evil; cling to what is good" Romans 12

"….he feared God and shunned evil." Job

THE PINK HEAD

First let me tell you about an image that is in my head because I saw it. I hope you haven't but now you will at least have an idea. I was at a law enforcement training facility and the instructor was Tom Wedge. It was an advanced occult field training course and we were watching a video in the class room. There she was, or at least part of her……it was the head of a teenage girl who had been used in a violent satanic ritual. It was first just a head, a pink head with no hair, eyelids or eyebrows. You see the psycho satanists scum bags had cut around the outside parameters of this teens head and then peeled off her face and scalp!...and then they cut her head off. All I saw was the pink head with eyes that couldn't shut; it only spoke of the horror and pain that must have been there as she went through it. Once a mom and dad's daughter, a little girl playing house or with her dolls but now a few years latter….just a pink head.

Damn them to hell and thank God that he will bring it all to justice. None of the unrepentant perpetrators will escape the in your face judgment that will come and rightly so. What could have made this group do such a thing? Where do the ideas come from? How can anyone cause so much pain to another and them lavish in such a sick cruelty to a human corpse?

"But if you do not do what is right, sin is crouching at your door; it desires to have you..." Genesis 4

"As soon as Judas had taken the bread satan entered into him…., he went out. And it was night." John 13:27-30

Sin is no laughing matter, it is what the devil is about, it is what he drew humanity into, and it is an active code deep in the DNA of mankind. The sin code in fallen humanity is a law, a controlling operating law (see Romans 8). The sin code is a force that can lead anyone who gives into it the wherewithal to do unspeakable things. Sin is a manifestation of saying no to God and yes to a dark snake. Sin can 'crouch' and push. Sin is the devil's tool and a doorway that allows the entrance of the father of sin himself. In many ways sin is a form of programming. It is what the evil one wants (imposition of another's will) us to do. Deep willful sin is the place satan can work (be supernaturally operative) and how he influences individual lives. Note the scriptures:

"…the spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient (willfully actively sinning, see Ephesians 2). Also note in 1 John 3 "He who does what is sinful is of the devil, because the devil has been sinning from the beginning."

The broader the door of sin and evil a person delves into the wider the opening is for the devil to just walk right in and supercharge the direction and actions of their life and nothing good every comes from this deep destructive combination. For that little teenage girl who was used, abused and left only as a pink head on a table demonstrates the dark lethal nature of the sin code with the demonic operating through it.

FEWTON ROAD

Two teenage girls were left naked, brutally abused and dead back in the fields on Fewton Rd. I have been back there to see the sight and pray over the area many times now. It's a known place of satanic rituals and practices far back into the woods and a very eerie place. I was involved because the man believed to have done this is a deadly intact chosen one.

This is the man who attacked me in front of four police officers because I told his inner Nazi satanist personality that I stand against satan and his works. He returned home after spending a few days in the very area the second girl was taken from. He knew the murder weapon and his inner coven personality told us that he had to 'purify' the body because he was contaminated. The contamination (spiritually weakening) was because he was reading the Bible and wanting to turn to Jesus Christ. That 'purification' involves the need to abduct a victim on a ritual date and then do a ritual that includes torturing a young girl, shedding her blood, drawing the demons and then slaying her. Deep luciferians (and inner sub personalities) who do this believe they then receive the dark powers that were attached (summoned) to the ritualized girl which in turn charges their own blood with the demons/dark energies and 'purifies' (totally darkens) them.

The first girl he did this to had been taken from a neighboring state and brought here. The second girl was taken from the city next to the county where the ritual crime was done. The first crime was on demon revels and the second girl's murder was done on satanic revels. Both were left out in the open field to be found. A cult crime law enforcement person took me to the crime scene area just a day after the 17 year old was found.

To this day a team of workers still pray for the perpetrator satanist and that those who created and handle him will be exposed and dealt with…one way or another. I personally believe that this person with his inside satan loyal personalities has done this before and will do it again (if he hasn't already) if not stopped. I also know that he is only one of thousands of intact chosen ones who have and will do this 'purification' ritual again and again.

JACKIE

She was a beautiful little girl only 6 months old when I met her and her parents. She and her twin sister were like two peas in a pod with the exception of one being a little bigger than the other. I met the parents who were coming out of a hard past life and were willing to seek a change. I prayed with them and picked them up for church. We packed my old Jeep Cherokee and got to the church where many folks just fell in love with the girls and cared for the young parents.

I went over again to see the girls and was planning on giving these parents my jeep so they could get around and come to church. I was told the girls were sick and couldn't come to church and this continued for a few months. I went over again to find them but only the mom was there and a man who didn't seem glad that I showed up.

I was not allowed to see the twins and was told they were moving. I offered help, food, furniture and other aide. I gave the mom my home number and told her to call me the next day. She didn't and then she and the girls were gone. It would be 4 months later that I was led by the Spirit of God to go back and find them; I left a note on the old house and was told by others there that the dad still lived there. That same day I heard the fateful news report on the radio that little Jackie was dead! I drove back to the house and there was the father sitting on the stoop talking with the news media. He told me that a new man came into the mother's life, that he was a dark occultist and that he ritually murdered little Jackie.

The Beacon Journal newspaper reported that the man said he was a self proclaimed 'black pagan'. The mother was said to have multiple personality disorder and a background of drugs and dark practices. They were both charged and are in an Ohio prison to this very day.

Little Jackie is gone. She had many broken bones and numerous stab wounds on the bottoms of her feet. She had occult symbols tattooed on the side of her head and was tortured for her tears and pain. Those doing it wanted to offer her for spiritual powers for their own lives. The father told me where his daughter was taken for some of the ritual abuse she experienced. It was and is known for a number of satanic rituals. It is a place we monitor to this day. I believe there were more involved and know what was done to Jackie; we are hunting them even now. A picture of this little girl I once held and took to my church is on my web site www.shatterthedarkness.net.

HER HANDS ARE STILL OUT THERE

A defense attorney in my city called me and asked me to come to his office. When I arrived he asked me if I would help with a case that dealt with a girl who was ritually murdered around a satanic ritual date (the hands of glory) in September. He asked me if I believed satan was real and of course I told him yes. There was a man charged with the crime and he is in prison seeking an appeal. I met with him a number of times and conclude that he was a part of the crime but others were too, however I am not sure if those others are real outside satanists or if it is satanists within him…dark sub personalities.

The girl was stabbed many times as she was sexually abused. The energies of fear, pain and terror were raised to draw the demons. She was kept alive until a point of time in the middle of the night and then killed. In this ritual the dark powers summoned would then be given to the murderer. Her hands were cut off, taken and never found. This is an ongoing case.

LEWIS NEVER FOUND

A girl came into my office; she had just returned from the state of Oregon and told me she was escaping a family of satanists and a life of abuse. She began to tell me about a satanic priest named Kieno and that he put her through sex rituals and had her at one of the most horrific rituals I have ever heard about. She told me of a house in our area where a bloody ritual occurred. She was taken there by others and was sexually used. A little boy was also there who was being stripped and put on the floor. It was there that a sacrifice of a little boy was being conducted. She told me what the boy was wearing and that he had these bright little socks on. She also told me that it may have been her mother and a man that went out of the state of Ohio to abduct this boy.

The amazing thing about this confession was that I had never met this girl before but she knew of Kieno whom we engaged many times in my home town. We knew Kieno was a very wicked man who had done animal and human sacrifice. This is the man who was taking the federal officer's wife we dealt with and was abusing her. She had been put through many rituals and told us of his ritual sites and sacrifices. Now this girl shows up and tells us the same things with this additional bit of information. The little boy who was abducted was taken from a Pennsylvania city and was never found. She then told us that they sacrificed him and then they ate him…yes they ate him! She said she will never forget him and that those bright socks he had were still in her mind.

I looked for missing children and to my amazement I found little Lewis. He was from a small city in PA and was said to be talking to a man and a women before he went missing. The news and police report said that he had a very, very distinct pair of bright socks on. I called the current detective who had the case; I told him all of this…to his shame he has never looked into this. Then again some of the powers sought in a ritual are release for protection and invisibility. There are even rituals that are done against law enforcement to blind them to the satanic rituals. To this day we have not given up on this case, we have been to the boarded up house where Lewis was said to be ritually murdered. We are working on it.

The above cases are the ones we have been draw into over the last 20 years. I could repeat the oft told stories that have been written about again and again. Sean Sellers, Richard Ramirez, Tommy Sullivan and others are well known. Here are a list of books that have many other cases and a lot of documentation. If you want more research I suggest you read:

'PAINTED BLACK', 'THE SATAN HUNTER', 'LUCIFERS LODGE', 'BLACK MASS', 'IS SATANISM REAL', 'A COPS GUIDE TO OCCULT INVESTIGATION', 'THE COMING DARKNESS', 'PROGRAMMED TO KILL', 'CRIME WARPS', 'SECRET WEAPONS', 'NOBODYS ANGEL', 'THE EDGE OF EVIL' and CULTS THAT KILL.'

I could mention a dozen more but these will have case after case of satanic crime and victimization with documentation and other facts. I have personally seen hundreds of satanic and occult crime slides and pictures while at law enforcement training. I have listened to and heard hundreds of stories of these types of crimes. I have interviewed victims and sought to lead them to healing that can be found in Jesus Christ. Under a section called 'the new criminals' in the book 'CRIME WARPS' we are told that the crime wave of the 90's would be satanic crime.

We have investigated, ran surveillance, dug up bones, turned over evidence to law enforcement and engaged satanic perpetrators. We have been warned, stabbed at, cursed, harassed and stalked. They have taken pictures of us, our house and came on our property. They threatened to steal my daughter and said they want to get me to split my ‘Christian core’.

SATANIC CRIME IS REAL

Yes it is real and growing. Thousands of cases are reported and investigated. Drug runners have satanist priests do rituals to keep them hidden and hundreds of thousands of cases of satanic ritual abuse have been reported. There are satanic crimes in grave yards, against animals, in families and others preformed by teens getting hold of the ritual books. The reports are one thing, the victim’s broken lives are another…then there are the little ones like Lewis, Jackie and the girl or what was left of her…the pink head. This is why law enforcement all over this country have created cult crime units and have included satanic and occult crime training in the police academies.

THE POWERS SOUGHT ARE REAL

Our experience and thousands of others will tell you that the powers sought in satanic rituals are real. Demons can be summoned and sent. The dark powers can have their affect. For Christians who have lived outside of this crime wave read Ezekiel 8; 2 Kings 21-22 and Revelation 16. There we see what has been done and what will be done in the future. The dark powers are very real and are behind the dark satanic rituals that are growing all around us. The ramping up of the dark side includes these dark rituals; it’s how they can come across and manifest their power.

THE VICTIMS ARE REAL

The victims of serial rapists, murderers and other convicted criminals are growing and being reported all over. The books listed above and this one brings to light what no one really wants to know…satan and underground satanic rituals are happening. If the number of 4 + million claims of ritual abuse and the creation of multiple personality disorder are not enough then check out Dr. Collin Ross, he’s the psychiatrist who mentions maybe there are 10 million cases of SRA/MPD. All of which have as their foundation ‘criminal’- sexual, physical, mental, emotional and spiritual abuse. It has and is happening all around us.

FINALLY

The stories I told above should be enough! They are enough for me to know that the satanic powers, rituals and workers are real and growing. That all of this we know about and have seen is but the tip of the deep demonic iceberg. Each story above has a host of family and others who were damaged and left in the bloody wake of these satanic crimes.

I have sat with parents who lost their children to these sadistic acts and I'll never forget their tears and anguish. The victims have experienced hell on earth per say and it is taking a long time to bring the help and healing they need. The goal should be to listen, learn and do something about this. To sit and do nothing only helps aid and abed, giving them all the room they need to continue. I for one don't want to see…another girl's pink head!

LUCIFERS LODGE AND THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

"But what is the ultimate purpose behind the perpetuation of these satanic traditions by the various secret societies that practice them? Evidence points to a concerted effort for world domination: the New World Order…" p 5 'LUCIFERS LODGE'

"…looking grim, father Daniel responded that the possession was entrenched. Giovanna had been undergoing exorcisms….her case was considered one of the most severe that many exorcists in Rome…had seen." P 184 'THE RITE' The Making of a Modern Exorcist

"Since Jesus' first act is to confront satan in the desert, and his first sign of power and authority is to cast out a demonic spirit, it is apparent that a primary purpose of his ministry was to expose satan and destroy his power." p 30 'SATANISM IS IT REAL?'

"Sensing the discomforting secrets within the bosom of the Church, the two curates collaborated to gather information about pedophile priests who were practicing Satanism and the church leaders who protected them." P146 'LUCIFERS LODGE'

We snuck down the stairs and took a look for a 'black' room in the old basement of a catholic church. Knowing we would get in trouble if we got caught was on my mind but the knowledge of ritual abuse of children and the summoning of dark spirits down there was more important and needed to be exposed. I would rather risk getting in trouble than to know that victims are suffering and no one is helping them. I say let's cleanse the temple as Jesus did and stop the hidden and secret sins of satan worshipping priests...right?

I care about victims; I have seen what seems like a million tears and faces that are filled with pain, shame and unjustifiable loss. I have heard the why me, why didn't anyone help me questions too many times…I am outraged about all of this. I am willing to rip up the floor boards of a church and let the chips fall where they may: Especially if it is a hard core luciferian who has long infiltrated the structure of the Church and stands as a smiling imposter.

Like many who are now on the inside they act like a lamb but in secrecy they're raping and ritually abusing kids. They have hidden their black robes in what seems like secure places, in the house that should only be used for good and the revelation of God.

THE PRIEST, THE FLY AND THE NUN

We had set up a conference on satanic ritual abuse and we had a number of victims who were going to expose perpetrators and tell what happened to them. Everything was going good until some men arrived and upset the SRA/MPD victims. One was a catholic priest who seemed really off. He sought to make contact with the victims and sneered at the testimonies of the victims. I went back where the priest was standing and tried to start a conversation however he sought to avoid me. He looked at me picked up a Bible and used it to slam down and crush a fly. He turned the bible over with the crushed fly still stuck on it and then threw the bible down smiling at me… it was an unholy gaze. He was not what he presented himself to be. He was a fake.

Two of the victims came to me during the break and told me the priest tired to 'trigger' them and sought to disrupt them. Then a man who came with the priest asked me to come down the hall and talk to him. When I got there he began telling be about the Jews and their goal to overtake the world. He gave me paper work that was anti-Semitic and very erroneous. It reminded me of Nazi propaganda. The priest and his folk seemed to disappear in the crowd and were nowhere to be found. Their cars were gone too. The phone numbers on their registration card for the conference were called and they just blipped off when called.

What they didn't know was that we took down their license plate numbers when they arrived and because of their behavior we had them run. It all lead to an obscure old Latin mass catholic church.…this church was already under suspicion for satanic ritual abuse. A team went to find the priest but the name he gave went nowhere.

A few years later this old Catholic church in a very bizarre way took over a local church building used by a very powerful small church known for its soul winning and spiritual warfare activities. We were involved with this small church and realized that the old priest who was the leader of the Catholic Church was implicated in child sex crimes. As we prayed for exposure I got a strange phone call, it was a woman claiming to be a nun from a monastery where she was ritually abused. I don't know how she got my number but I agreed to meet her.

The meeting was held at a local McDonalds. I was there first and observed her drive in. She drove around again and again looking over her shoulder. She came in, I met her and we sat down. She told me about a catholic church she was serving in and that it had some old retired priests and they were all involved in child sex abuse and satanic rituals. She said they had videos and other evidence. She gave the address, names…..and then told me the name of the Catholic Church. It was the same one we had been dealing with. It was the same one we traced the fake priest to. She told me that if they found out she was talking and helping us they would harm her. She told me how they killed another one of their own who wanted out. She said she had access to the video tapes. Fearful she said she had to go and out the door she went. One of our workers was sitting in McDonalds just a few feet away.

We met again and she told us more. My wife was at this meeting and discerned that maybe she had sub personalities. After that meeting she disappeared. I mean we could not find her anywhere and to this day I have no idea what happened to her. But it doesn't stop there. An old man came to a Sunday night meeting that I was holding where we exposed subjects like this. For weeks he would come and want a private meeting with me. I finally met with him and he urged me to come with him to a secret meeting, it would be in the basement of a church. I asked him where the church was, it was that building that was taken over by the Catholic Church with the satanic priests. I was being set up just like a number of staff was warned about.

This is not over! That church and its priests are now targeted with specific prayers. A team was staking out that church on a ritual night (on the satanic calendar). The team was sitting in the back of the parking lot at 12 midnight and a car pulled in, a tall priest got out….it was the same priest who first came to our conference. He was in his full garb and went into the building where he met others. There is now a special team of two who are doing counter infiltration of this church. This is not over!

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH INFITRATIED

It is no question that part of the methodology of satan himself is to infiltrate and harm the church. Five of the seven churches listed in the first few chapters of the book of Revelation were being infiltrated with occult and satanic presence.

Satan is at war with the people of God for sure. Jesus taught that He would build His church and that the gates of hell would not prevail. That very statement reveals that the Body of Christ will be thrust into battle…with the very forces of hell itself. If satan had the audacity to confront Jesus directly (Matthew 4), enter into Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5) and seek to devour Christians (1Peter 5) it's very clear that the visible Church will be attacked. Revelation 12 reveals the long and passionate battle that satan wields against the Church. Note:

"There is no other institution on the face of the earth more fought against than the Body of Christ. If satan can get in he will…and he will seek the greatest harm" RD

Paul Billheimer the great author of some very deep insight of spiritual battle has said in his book 'DESTINED FOR THE THRONE' that satan would rule the world if it were not for the Church's presence that contests his total rule. It was the Church that was launched by Christ with authority over all the power of the devil (Luke 10) but that there would be spiritual battle for sure. Satan has no problem trying to damage the Church; he has done this from the very beginning of it (see Acts 5).

It does seem that the Catholic Church has been infiltrated deeply and evidence of the satanic crimes has been mounting for years. There are now victims by the hundreds who have come forward. This is why Father Malachi Martian directed William Kennedy to investigate and tell it all, and so he did. William Kennedy's book 'Lucifer's Lodge' is a must read and I am sure from listening to him on talk shows and reading all of his works that what he has exposed is only the tip of the satanic iceberg. The Catholic Church has a lot of places to hide and satanists who have learned from their master has put on the masquerade of priest or a nun but are experienced perverted servants of satan.

THE SEX CRIMES OF THE PREISTS

I have listened to many chosen ones and other victims of satanic rituals who said a catholic priest abused them. Many victims of SRA/MPD say that priests and nuns who were by day the religious figures of respect by night were chanting Latin backwards and holding secret rituals with sexual perversions being performed. There are now hundreds of victims who have come out of the Catholic Church USA that have been sexually abused. Millions of dollars have been poured out now by the Catholic Church in payment to the victims who have won their court cases.

What hasn't been told is that most of those cases included satanic ritual abuse and the creation of multiple personalities in the victims. The satanic ritual issue is being kept out of the courts because it seems so bizarre…and you cannot sue just for the satanic worship. This is where people like William Kennedy come in. In his book 'LUCIFERS LODGE' Kennedy brings massive exposure of the perpetrators within the Catholic Church. He names them, reveals documentation of cover up and implicates priests, bishops and even the Vatican in the crimes of child sexual abuse, satanic rituals and the unjust protection of the perpetrators. Kennedy reveals what many victims have said for years; that there is an underground network of child sex pedophiles also using satanic rituals to do their vile evil.

It is our experience that there are many fake priests who only masquerade as religious leaders in the catholic system and that the catholic system was easy for them to infiltrate. These occultists dressed in religious garb have been there for a long time and many of them came in through the 'rat lines' that protected fleeing Nazis who still dream of a 4th Reich.

THE SHADOW ORDER MALACHI MARTIN

Listening to Coast to Coast Am with the well known talk show host Art Bell the night he interviewed an older Catholic leader was fascinating. To hear his guest Father Malachi Martin speak about demonic possession, satanic ritual abuse and the existence of a satanic order inside the structure of the Vatican and the Catholic Church was very revealing. This didn't come from a protestant; the massive exposure was coming from Catholics themselves. In Father Martins book 'WINDSWEPT HOUSE' we find this brave priest exposing and seeking to show that satanic rituals, a shadow order and the abuse of children are going on deep inside the Vatican itself.

If what he was putting in novel format was his way of sneaking out the truth then the birth of the antichrist may have occurred in dark secrecy at St. Paul's chapel inside the Vatican walls itself.

This is how real luciferians like it. They like to be right inside the house of God and do their work in blaspheme and in secrecy (see Ezekiel 8). If I were you I would read 'WINDSWEPT HOUSE'. Read it as a report and exposure of a satanic order deep within the Vatican and throughout the Catholic system. This book by Martin says what many chosen ones have revealed and other victims may have experienced.

LUCIFER'S LODGE AND SATANIC CRIME

The book by William Kennedy sits here at my right; it is packed with inside information of the crimes of satanists and their abuse of children. On pages 177 and 179 Kennedy says:

"Father Martin also mentions the existence of 'Mother Chapels' in the banned AFA video, and states that they were satanist covens operation secrecy in the Catholic Church. The existence of 'The black room' and 'devil's room' in the previous case studies points to this assertion as fact. There is in reality various ritual chambers used by Catholic priests for the ritual abuse of children."

It is clear from the parable of Jesus Himself that the real Body of Christ will grow vast and even worldwide before the end comes. Jesus also taught that the 'birds' (demonic/unclean spirits and satanic agenda) will come in among the visible Church and perch! See Luke 13. Other Biblical examples are clear also:

- 2 Kings 21-23 deals with the leader who opened the doors to the occult spirits. He sought every type of demon god and demonic practice. This satanic worship included the power god Moloch who always seeks human sacrifice. Manasseh the king in the city of God opened the doors so wide that he allowed demonic worship and the promotion of occult symbols in open sight in the very temple where God was to be revealed and embraced. This entire light level practice moved as it always does to deep dark satanic worship. The beliefs and dark presence finally lead this leader to do the unthinkable; he sacrificed his very own son…in a burning, torturous and agonizing child sacrifice! What happened there has happened before, happened since and still does even now.
- Ezekiel 8 reveals again how the satanic worship is being done in dark secrecy and at the same time those dark practitioners are posing as religious leaders in visible Israel (the OT people of God). Those elders were supposed to be leaders who pointed others to the God they worshipped. The real reason for their presence is behind the scenes willful embrace of the unclean darkness.
- In satanic infiltration the leader's worship of God is a sham and a fake. They are expert posers! They, (having a form of godliness but denying its power….2Timothy 3) live two lives; one for the public and the real one shrouded in occult secrecy. That verse goes on to say: '…Have nothing to do with them.'
- The real reason for a luciferian/satanic worshipper hiding in 'plain' sight within the Church structure, temple and Body of Christ is to blaspheme God, corrupt the people of God and seek the defeat of God's purpose. And please note, they will continue and grow until something is done. That is their nature and agenda. I believe with every ounce of my being that there are fake religious leaders today whom the public thinks are godly and pious but who double as priests of the fallen cherub.

- This same approach can be found in the first two chapters of the book of Revelation. Five of the seven churches had occult and satanic infiltration. Believers in Christ should not think it strange that some Church finds out an elder or deacon is a child abusing satanist. It's not the Church's fault unless it knowingly turns a deaf ear and blind eye to what is going on.

In these chapters Jesus is seen as knowing all that is going on, He cares and it's clear that He does not tolerate the corrupting energy of satanic infiltration of His Body. Nor should any real Shepherd of God!

I say… save the flock and crush the wolves!

COUNTER INFILTRATION AND THE CATOLIC CHURCH

I do know of a few brave folks who are trained and at work to expose the evil deeds of darkness, save children and route underground luciferians who are within the visible Church. These folks who know what's going on and are deeply versed in spiritual warfare are like the 'spies' that went into Jericho. They are counter infiltrating some Catholic Churches right now where known satanic practices are going on. They are following the principle of God giving…'A supernatural hole into the substructure of radial evil'.

Why do they do it? Like in the Ezekiel 8 and 2Kings 21-23 they believe that God wants something done and that something can and must be done. They want victims to be rescued and dark practitioners exposed and stopped. They are willing to do whatever it takes. God does ask:

“Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, “Whom shall I send? And who will go for us?” Isaiah 6

Someone called this next verse the ‘saddest’ verse in the Bible. It doesn’t have to be!

“I looked for a man among them who would build up the wall and stand before me in the gap on behalf of the land so I would not have to destroy it, but I found none” Ezekiel 22

FINALLY

It shouldn’t surprise us that the satanic agenda would find its way into Church structures and seek to advance its cause from the inside out. This same methodology was used by satanic forces in willing people past and present. Acts chapter five is another testimony of the infiltration work of satan, himself. It’s clear this unclean serpent wants in. If you are in the visible structure of the Church and suspect that there is a person or group of people that are doing this hidden satanic worship…what will you do? If you just run away you might as well give them the keys to the church and hand over the kids. Those who know and do nothing are cowards which aide and abed lethal darkness!

I say… save the flock and crush the wolves

And because…the consequences are too terrible

CHAPTER 11
NAZIS AND THE FOURTH RIECH

"The program of the spirit behind Hitler has now expanded into a worldwide arena…These deceivers are like termites, working invisibly in society, gnawing, undermining, destroying." p 39 'HITLER AND THE NEW AGE'

"This movement contained within itself a 'drawing power' of a strange and dangerous sort." p 146 'RESURRECTING THE THIRD REICH'

"In the years preceding World War I German anti-Semitism was fed by an underground stream of secret cults running like a sewer beneath Vienna and other cultural centers. Hitler dipped into this stream." p 16 'THE NAZIS AND THE OCCULT'

In the movie Apt Pupil we can get a glimpse of what is true across the world. Thousands upon thousands of Nazis got out of Germany and hid around the world. Some say 80,000 SS troops got out through the 'rat lines' and thousands more by those already planted in other nations. It is also clear that the USA in the now oft quoted 'OPERATION PAPER CLIP' managed to sneak out many Nazi doctors, scientists and leaders but they got far more than they bargained for. It is in this process that I believe an occult infiltration of the US intelligence community and military services exists and continues to grow.

Like a Trojan horse the Nazi technology and secrets were pregnant with a hidden presence, power and agenda…but not a physical one. Demons with an agenda do create political, scientific, technological and religious doctrines which they attend and attach to!

Anyone reading doctrines of demons (1Timothy 4) will be engaged by the very demons who gave them. Demons can attach to objects too and can transfer to those with like dispositions. If you believe the demonic and willfully open a door to them, they will always come and with many of their unclean brethren. If you believe that the Nazi regime was created by and infused with satanic presence, power and purpose then there is a big….a very big question we must answer:

WHERE DID ALL THE DARK SPIRITS OF THE NAZI REGIME GO WHEN THE NAZIS LOST?

The secret project of acquiring elitist knowledge offered to new governments from the occult inspired Nazis was more than human. As Jim Marrs says in his book 'THE RISE OF THE FOURTH REICH' p 178:

"…the Nazis turned to occultists….such groups were concerned with raising their consciousness by means of rituals to an awareness of evil and non-human Intelligences in the universe and with achieving a means of communications with these Intelligences"

Dusty Sklar in her revealing book 'THE NAZIS AND THE OCCULT' writes to reveal the satanic practice and power that was behind their movement and development. Secular historians who knew nothing of the occult couldn't come to grips with the answer to what and why of Nazism. The Nazis, all that they were and all they had was infected with a 'drawing power'; the very 'spirit' behind Hitler and now that same spirit has gone global.

The old Nazis created new Nazis and have built a global network. They have continued the occult dream but this dream was forged in hell's kitchen and carries the force and presence of lethal darkness. Millions of chosen ones (SRA/MPD) are the creation of this same technology and spiritual agenda. The new Nazis (globalists) seek to use them in the upcoming chaos. They are the ones who came up with the term.…The Black Awakening.

Movies like Apt Pupil and others like THE BOYS FROM BRAZIL and THE FINAL SOLUTION give a small glimpse of the passion they had for the third and a now a fourth Reich. The spiritual force behind those committed to the Nazi cause is still among us. It is without question they have raised a next generation and have empowered them with the same spirit and technology they themselves began with. The spirit of Hitler is among us; it was here before him and will be here operating in a supernatural way among those who embrace its breath…until the very end.

THE NAZI WHO SCREAMED AT US

It was a Nazi bred and trained sub personality in that chosen one who rose up and with a strong German accent screamed with strong demonic energy these words:

"We are the legions who will rule the earth."

When this man was taken to the hospital psych ward we were there. As we waited to see what the police would tell us an officer whom I had worked with from another department walked in wearing full uniform. She was a chosen one also and a sub personality in her that both spoke and wrote fluently in German came up. She then handed me a note and without saying a word she left. The note said that this man was raised by an old Nazi, where he lived and where the coven was located. The note said that this man was raised to be and is used as an assassin and was used to clean up messes within their structure. The officer and some of her sub personalities in the next few days took us late at night to the place where two girls were ritually murdered. She told us why he had to do it and that it was an internal matter. This is still an active case.

BLOODY ARMS AND A NAZI FARM

We had been up late again and in a wooded area where we were told old satanic rituals were being done. We knew there must be victims in the area so we searched and prayed. Many victims would tell me how they wished someone would have found them when they were young, so we began looking and still do to this day. For years we targeted this area by prayer mapping and asked the Lord to expose the coven and help us find any victim. Then it happened.

I got a call to go to a city and take food money to a person we had never met. When our team got there that day we went door to door in the apartment complex, finally I saw a door that said office so I went in. The moment I walked in the management person looked up at me with shock and yelled, "Pastor Russ….O God has surely led you here". She was a person who had come to a course I taught at a larger church years before. Sitting across from her was a young woman whose arms were freshly bandaged up. This Christian lady said, "I have been praying for help and here you are. This girl needs your help". Then she left the room so I could talk to the young women.

A team member stood there with me as I began to talk to the girl and I could see and feel what was there. I told her who I was and what we do, that we had been praying for many years to find and help victims of SRA/MPD in her area. At once some sub personalities came up and began to talk. They told of a grandfather and a farm, that he was a German and a Nazi and he was the coven leader. She told us when and where some of the rituals were being held and then the demonic began to surface. We had to pray and bind them and she said she had to go. I asked the young women if she would meet with us again and she agreed. I gave her the office number and we left.

A sub personality called and told me more and that they wanted out of the coven. We set up meeting after meeting and went there again and again but there was always someone there to run interference. Then she disappeared. So we started praying to find her again. It was so strange how it happened but we were in the apartment complex just praying when a man in a wheelchair yelled "She don't live here anymore". He had been watching us from inside his apartment. Another man came out and told us that this girl was taken to her grandfather's farm and lived there. He even gave us directions to the farm and of course we went.

It was the place where rituals were done and where an old German and his family lived. It wasn't until the third time that this girl's father came out to meet us. He was a deep blue eyed man of German descent. We were finally told not to come back and if we did they would call the police. The young girl lives there, she is being kept from us and we are seeking to get in or…get her out.

When you find an SRA/MPD victim like this in a small city area you can be sure of a number of things. First there is a family background (most likely of German descent) and they are involved. Second there is a trans-generational satanic coven somewhere in the area and they have been there a long time. Third there has to be more that one victim. If you find one there must be a dozen more. No Nazi black flame coven creating and raising chosen ones would have only one victim so more are in the area. And then the fourth point is that the network of coven perpetrators has been there for a long time and they will seek to ward you off if you get too close. This is an active and ongoing work.

GERMAN CIGARETTES AND NAZI MUSIC

I was sitting in the car waiting for other staff members to get there stuff and return to the car. In the back seat was a military coven chosen one. A sub personality came up, leaned forward and offered me a cigarette. It was an old pack with German writing on it. I declined politely. Then a male personality talked to me and handed me a cassette to play so I put it in the car player. It was scratchy sounding pro Nazi war time propaganda music. This personality told me his name and how great Hitler was. He spoke with an accent and would talk in fluent German. This is an ongoing case and I am waiting for them to return.

THEY SPIT AT ME IN MY OFFICE

This woman was a victim of SRA and was a multiple. She had a father who was deeply Nazi committed and when he found out I was helping her would send me “special” cards. He would have typed messages on a post card letting me know he was watching me and was finding information about who I was. They were subtle warnings. When he died this dear lady came to my office with a friend and told me that memories and personalities were now surfacing left and right and that she was getting calls with a bunch of tone sounds only. Then she switched and a young personality came up and began yelling at me, “You know. You know…you know about the men in white coats and the labs. You know about the military's involvement". Each time they would tell me things they got louder and louder. They just yelled and then spit at me. The women she brought with her sat amazed and perplexed. This dear woman feared that Nazi dad to the day he died. She was split, programmed, abused and used by him and others. It was this Nazi man who personally took his two grandchildren to the military base that had the PSI OPS unit and where MK ULTLA mind control projects and the old Nazi doctor's worked in secrecy…here the Monarchs had deep roots. This too is a case that is still active.

Case after case and victim after victim it all seems the same. The procedures to split, program and train chosen ones have Nazi origins and the spirit behind the Nazis is still operating here in the US. Here in the US there are now over 4 million cases of SRA/MPD. Someone did this and the roots continue to go back to the black flame…satan serving Nazis.

A PICTURE OF A NAZI TROOP

The federal officer's wife who would speak to us in German many times went off to Germany with her young daughter. When she returned she told me of her grandmother who was part of the whole underground chosen one's project. She then handed me a black and white picture of a SS Nazi in full uniform. His name is Otto Kritz and on the back of the picture were the signed words…the black flame.

Yes there are many more stories where sub personalities who were pro Nazi and spoke German talked to us. Most at first hated us and would see us as inferior. There is great pride in those German personalities. I have even sought to learn a little German so I could better converse with them. I know I will talk to many more. Two vital things we need to look at are 'the spirit of the Nazis' and the 'the doctrine of the Nazis'. They are connected and are clearly operating today as we write.

THE SPIRIT OF THE NAZIS

It is very clear that the spirit behind the origin, development and agenda of the Nazi party was…"the prince (ruler) of the power (domain) of the air (atmosphere), the spirit who is now at work (supernaturally operative) in those who are disobedient (reject Christ and commit to the satanic agenda)". The force behind the ideas, laws, plans and development was guided by that black flame…the same one who entered Judas and moved him (See John 13). Biblical revelation does show that satan's conquest is global (See Revelation 12). The Spirit of God reveals that this quest has been and is right now being sought. The power and force behind the Nazi leader's politics and military ascendancy was the ancient hate…the fallen cherub.

It is amazing to learn that the entire second world war with its multiple millions of war time dead, the engagement of nations, the development of weapons and the slaughter at the concentration camps were all the result of yielding to and being influenced by a prince…who operates behind the scenes. For some the devil's tracks can be seen only after the destruction. What we need is the insight that comes from God to see where this spirit is going before it happens again.

The prophetic revelation of Scripture gives us a detailed heads up. It does expose this same operating presence (spirit). I wish the Germans would have known this before the destruction of World War II. The sad thing right now is that political and military leaders have been infected with the same spirit. They have embraced the Trojan horse of superior everything just like the pre Nazi German leaders did. That ancient spirit of war and hate is leading kings, nations and peoples down the same path…only the path has gotten much broader.

We must ponder, if the deception from the satanic 'spirit' is broader and more have taken hold of it…how much broader and deeper will the destruction be? I think a read of Revelation 9 and a deep study of Revelation 19:19-20 is the screaming heads up that must be heeded!

THE SOURCE OF ONE'S SPIRITUALITY DOES MATTER

THE DOCTRINE OF THE NAZIS

The doctrine of the Nazi party was the accumulative ideology that flowed from the demonic side; it was and is 'demonic ideology'. This 'doctrine' is the data and information that was acquired from a supernatural source. The guided writings of occult leaders bear this out; they believed and wrote what the dark spirits are now seeking. The satanic agenda then and even now seeks:

- The destruction of Israel and all Jews. The Jews are a sub human 'pig race' and must be annihilated. The core of this belief was given by occult doctrines. The plot for the final solution included finding Jewish people everywhere and destroying them. This same spirit can be found in those who believe in the Muslim Mahdi.
- Christians are in the way and must yield to the new spiritual/political state (globalism). This state is a new order that will seek to reign worldwide. Christians need to join and be loyal to this movement or be 'cleansed'…i.e. removed.
- A 1,000 year reign was the goal of the Nazis. This is a counterfeit of the coming Biblical millennium (a 1000 year reign) where Christ the Prince of Peace will rule.
- A master race of god-men. The spirit inspired vision was to create a mass master race of super humans who could be spiritually strong and ready to be the soldiers of a super leader. It was a secret project that they called Lebensborn and it involved the creation of chosen babies. They believed in an Aryan race of god-men whose blood carried supernatural powers and abilities. I do believe the Aryan race to be a part of the generations of the nephilim and that they did have super human attributes. But the enhancements came from the demonic inbreeding that occurred as seen in Genesis 6. The Nazis believed that if they could breed out the subhuman corruption by breeding Aryan to Aryan over and over again they would soon have god-like warriors with supernatural abilities.
- All chosen ones I have dealt with have the belief in and need to keep their blood pure. By pure I mean 'charged' with the energy and power of the demonic. Rituals are done just for this purpose. The more demons raised and ingested (received) the more the blood would be pure (empowered). It is also true that all chosen ones I have worked with have German speaking sub personates who are pro Nazi and pro Hitler.

They have a belief that the antichrist will be a cloned or resurrected Hitler.

- The resurrection of the old pagan gods/deities is a part of the spiritual plan. Hitler and his leaders were constantly seeking spiritual places, powers and knowledge. They were using rune stones, pagan symbols and ritual concepts in all their parades and gatherings. Even Himmler's Castle at Wewelsburg was considered a cone of spiritual power and was to be a new spiritual center (in opposition to the Vatican). This castle had the hall of the dead and many rituals were done in its chambers. It is believed that they still do take place there. Even a US Col. Michael Aquino performed a dark ritual there seeking to raise powers. Aquino is the founder of the satanic Temple of Set.

FINALLY

In all of the cases of satanic ritual abuse and of the technology of creating chosen ones that I have dealt with I have found that it all has deep spiritual Nazi roots. Those roots though did not originate with the Germans. They were simply the nation in search of a salvation and their failure was in turning to the fallen deceiving spirits who promised special knowledge, special status and supernatural help…instead of God. The problem just like in Genesis 6 was that they were lied to and their embrace of that lying 'spirit' fueled a fire that eventually blew back on them. And it will every time!

I am convinced to the core of my being that the new age movement here in the US and throughout Europe has the same methodology at work in it (in its millions) that the dark spirits used in pre Nazi Germany. I unashamedly scream out to those on a spiritual quest and seekers of the NAM, I declare that you will be betrayed to the core…just like Judas was. The spirit now operating (Ephesians 2) in you will leave when it is done with you. The root of every luciferian lie bears the fruit of destruction every time. The question for us today is, have we learned or have millions once again embraced the same (Nazi/demonic) spirits that once danced on German soil? When the father of lies lost in his challenge to Jesus Christ he went off…looking for a more opportune time! (Matthew 4)

He was a world 'renown' psychiatrist to many; he was the devil incarnate to the victims of his invention…psychic driving. Dr Cameron was seeking to erase a person's patterned personality and it was painful. He sought to de-pattern them and then recreate a whole new person! Did this man have a God complex or what? In the book 'SECRETS & LIES' Gordon Thomas reveals the nature of a mad psychiatrist: Look at this… "..Dr. Cameron led him into his office and explained that 'de-patterning' consisted of extensive periods of 'sleep therapy' followed by electroshocks." "The biggest problem we have," Dr. Cameron confided, is "making sure our patients don't wake up unexpectedly and try and make a run for it." And again on page 127 "Her case file showed she had lost count of how many times the machine had been wheeled to her bedside, each time to shock her into unconsciousness."

This is a world 'renowned' psychiatrist whom many revered. It was said of him in a report: p 130"…it contained the revelation that Dr. Cameron hoped "one day soon he would have created a brainwashing machine." I have to ask, is that what psychology (soul care) is for?

THE PSYCH WHO HELPS

Over the years psychologists would bring into my office those who had demonic presence and those who were SRA/MPD. There are many in this field who want to help. One of those brave psychologists would bring us demonized individuals and chosen ones who were seeking healing and freedom. A number of times those with demons would manifest (the demon would talk) in the office in full view of the psychologist who brought the person.

On one occasion an SRA was there with a sub personality talking. I sensed darkness in them and ordered the dark spirit to manifest without hurting anyone; it came up. The demon was looking through the eyes of the person and if a look could kill this one would. I commanded in Jesus' name for it to tell me its name: "stario", it said. After some other interaction I told it that I was going to make it leave. In a split second the sub personality energized by the demon reached over and grabbed the bare arm of the psychologist and sought to sink the teeth of the SRA victim into the lady's arm. I instantly commanded for it to stop. It did and then I ordered it to leave; it did but with a short fight. The main person of the victim came back up and asked what happened. The psychologist sat stunned. The demon and demonized sub personalities believe that you can transfer demons from person to person through blood/trauma and that is what was just attempted.

The psychologist's license would not allow for or really acknowledge what just happened. That is the great weakness of secular counseling. It can't detect or deal with this area and every SRA/MPD that I know to date has demons and sub personalities inside with demons…buried and hiding.

It's very clear that many psychologists and psychiatrists know about and are seeking to help these victims. I have met a number of them at the many conferences and training seminars that deal with this issue. One of those conferences was packed with professionals from the field of psychology; there were counselors and many licensed social workers also.

This was the conference on mind control that was held in Richman, Virginia. Ph.D Corydon Hammond and Alan W. Scheflin (author of TRANCE ON TRIAL) were there and the now famous 'Greenbaum' speech was given. We had it all right there for the first time. The Greenbaum lecture was front line news about the purposeful creation of multiple personality disorder. We saw slides and heard lectures on the creation and activities of sub alters, the possible CIA connection and of the concept that a larger conspiracy was brewing. This conference in the 90's is where I sat down with counselors and psychologists who shared wild stories of their attempts at helping victims. That is where I met Daniel Ryder SRA/MPD victim and author of 'BREAKING THE CIRCLE OF SATANIC RITUAL ABUSE'.

This conference at the time was a major exposure of what is behind mind control and the victims of satanic ritual abuse. The trouble with this conference and with many others I would go to would be the treatment model. While many follow the DSM III and IV with its definition of this victimization and some suggested treatment models the issue remains the same. All of these only scratch the surface of the creation and attempted healing of SRA/ MPD which is now DID (Dissociative Identity Disorder). There are many questions that remain unanswered in most of the books and seminars on this subject. Here are a few to consider:

- If the satanic side of the creation of multiplicity is real and the demonization is real what then can professional secular psychology offer?
- If it is a human rights issue and the perpetrators may be family, rogue military and even a religious priest what is the response…goal?
- If there are over 4 million cases (Collin Ross mentions 10 million) of SRA/MPD (and growing) and that most were created cases of multiplicity then what are the implications?
- These are major questions that need to have an answer!

  Who and how many are the perpetrators?

  How did the perpetrators learn to do this?

  And why did almost all of it begin in the 1950's?

- If there is conspiracy (luciferian globalists) behind the creation of multiples (chosen ones) why is it that most every one of the 'professional' books and or seminars are not exposing or confronting it?
- If SRA/MPD cases are found in the USA, Australia, England and throughout Europe then:

How vast is the organization that has orchestrated this?

How high up the ladder (or down the steps of this dark cellar) does this go?

These and other hard questions must be asked. Is it fear of retribution or are we just too busy to mount up the posse and go after the bad guys? Some have called for deep investigation into all of this and that would be good but there is major issue that law enforcement and professional counseling must engage.

PLEASE NOTE: IF the creation of MPD by satanic ritual abuse is the case and if the satanism is real and the dark powers are real (as we have clearly seen) then how do you battle perpetrators who have the powers of darkness to cloak and protect them? I boldly declare to professional counselors, pastors and law enforcement that the origins, process and continuation of satanic ritual abuse and the creation of MPD is inspired, empowered and covered with a superhuman presence and it is very dangerous and dark…set on fire by hell itself (James).

Biblical revelation calls this 'shadow' presence "…the secret power of lawlessness…" and that it is "…already at work (supernaturally operative)." (See 2Thess.2) This power is sought, and active from top to bottom in this agenda to create and maintain…satanic super soldiers. At least look in to the spiritual side of this phenomenon: I don't believe it can be fully comprehended without this perspective. My experience shows that the depth and length of this conspiracy is cloaked by a presence that most don't know about and could not penetrate if they did. There are special rituals to summon and send dark spirits against those who seek to look under their carpet of darkness.

WERE THE PSYCHS READY FOR EVERYTHING?

When the federal officer's wife Mary was missing again the husband decided to send her to a hospital. It was in the state where I was and she would be locked up for a week. The psychologist called me to get some information so I told him everything including information about the sub personality who sought to kill me. When Mary was released she met with us. I asked her and another personality how it went. They all told me they wouldn't talk to him and that Mike as they called him was afraid of them and stayed behind his desk.

Mary was sent by her husband to a hospital in Texas for a three week stay. Again she came out with no change, no healing and the bill that was into the thousands. Mary was a high powered coven multiple who had a sub personality who was committed to the black flame.

Another chosen one, a police officer had a sub personality who took her to the psych ward of a local hospital and signed her in. I found out later that a doctor who had a fictitious background was a handler and he arranged for her to be brought in. When we went after Dr. Mark we found out that he was multiple also and was there to retrieve and silence talking chosen ones. Hospital security ran checks on him and a NCIC report was obtained. This man was not who the hospital thought he was. Whether a plant that could monitor multiples coming into the psych ward or just a victim himself we did not find out. Dr. Mark disappeared soon after.

Again a boy:

The boy who was split and programmed by a rogue chosen one was going to a psychologist and had two counselors. I asked the sub personalities that I had been taking to why they would not come out and talk directly to the psychologists or to the counselors. They told me, "they don't respect us, they don't believe us, they can't help so what's the use?" Sub personalities do observe, read and make decisions on whether or not they will come out.

PSYCHS WERE USED TO DEVELOP MPD

The CIA doctors and psychologists who are listed in Collin Ross' book 'THE C.I.A. DOCTORS' are all implicated as those who knew, participated in and even furthered the use of creating sub personalities and mind control abilities. The psychologists who worked for the military were there to help weaponize this mind control technology. The list of names goes on and on and surely the published lists are only the tip of the iceberg. Anyone wanting documentation for psychology's involvement in this crime is given information in most of the major works that I sight in this book.

No greater documentation can be found than what I have found in the book 'HYPNOTISM'. The author was a world 'renown' psychologist who was recruited by military and worked with the weaponization of mind control. His book 'HYPNOTISM' is a revelation of the use of alters (sub personalities) as military weapons. I personally believe this book is a water shed that reveals the infiltration of the (Nazi/demonic) technology and its agenda to purposely create multiple personality disorder. In this book G. H. Estabrooks tells us that they knew how to create sub personalities and what they could use them for. On pages 193-205 he includes in the use of programmed multiples:

- Reconnaissance
- Sowing Disinformation
- Assassinations….and
- Curriers of secret information. All this can be done Estabrooks says and they can still keep the core (main) person from knowing (amnesic).

Estabrooks then tells us on p204:

"So a synthetic hypnotic spy with a dual personality is extremely hard to detect."

Please note this well, Estabrooks book was put out in 1947!

They have had 60 years to create hundreds of thousands of 'programmed multiples' and to advance the technology of doing it!

How many are in your city, government, offices, departments, Churches? I think 60 years is a lot of time to create, advance and place chosen ones everywhere.

PSYCHS WERE USED TO COVER UP SRA/MPD

As with secret weapons so it is with this weaponization of mind control; it's all done in secrecy and denied when necessary. If Estabrooks spills the beans on the creation of and use of alter personalities (and mind control), why would other well known psychologists who worked for the CIA/military seek to deny it all? Dr. Jolly West and Dr. Orne (both psychologists and both mind control specialists) were on the board of the infamous 'FALSE MEMORY SYNDROME FOUNDATION (FMSF)…as was a child predator but all of this is old news.

The creation of that foundation was one way to go after therapists and psychologists who began telling the secrets of satanic and governmental mind control. It is said by many that FMSF was created to silence victims and protect the perpetrators. The psychologist Estabrooks says they can create, control and remove sub personalities and it is my experience that many other professionals know how to do this also.

The Nazi dad who sent me post cards on holidays and sought to intimidate me into not helping his SRA/MPD daughter warned me of what the FMSF could do. It seems perpetrators love the FMSF even though it has massive controversy with who created it and those who were on its board.

There have been numerous times that chosen ones were taken back into the psych wards only to come out with 'missing sub personalities' and all the information they were telling us came up buried and hidden within them…but we have learned how to find it again. Many times when sub personalities would talk to us, take us to places where they were abused and tell us the names of their abusers they would then come up missing for a week or two. They return only to tell us they 'had' to go back to the psych ward and that they don't remember anything anymore.

I had one person I was working with for some time; I talked to many of the sub personalities and was told many different stories of perpetrators, secret places and given documents. She went missing here locally and was found in the local hospital psych ward. When she came out she didn't remember anything and when I asked to talk to the other personalities she would just sit there blank. It took a week and then finally sub personalities started coming up and talking, they even told what the psychologists did to bury them. Drug therapy, hypnotherapy, punishment/pain and even demonic powers are used to bury sub personalities who want freedom.

I have seen over the years five categories or positions that psychologists have taken regarding the existence of SRA/MPD/DID

- First (brave ones) there are those who have sought to help the victims. They believe what they say, work with the sub personalities and seek to 'integrate' them. Some psychologists have even used deliverance prayers to rid the victim of the demonic, though they did this in secrecy. One psychologist (Dr. Olsen) even lost his license for doing deliverance prayers. Other psychologists have sought to use outside pastors or others to do spiritual deliverance prayers while they work with many other aspects of the victim's needs.

- Second (buriers) there are those psychologists who would tell us to stop working with multiples. So many multiples were coming to us straight out of a local hospital that one psychologist wrote me a letter telling me not to mix religion with psychology. He is gone now and was charged with sexual abuse. One of the psychologists who wrote an article in 'TREATING DISSOCIATIVE IDENTITY DISORDER' and lives in my area tells victims that their memories are just delusions and to forget them. These are the ones who cannot help any of the victims…unless you consider loading them up with drugs and using hypnotherapy as the answer.
- Third (enablers) there was one local psychiatrist that told us in a training conference they were holding in the hospital that the personalities are not really real, so don't talk to them and they will fade away. He even said that if you talk to the sub personalities that this would strengthen them and 'you don't want that'. They don't help or heal the victim they enable them. Once again the victims of SRA/MPD who have come from that counsel and the one who was with me at the conference laughed at that. The sub personalities just stay there unhealed and wait for someone to help them and the perpetrator personalities continue to do harm. In the book 'PSYCHOLOGICAL SEDUCTION' p 30-31 the author says:

  "However good-intentioned and however nice, it is not at all clear that the psychological establishment knows how to help."

- Fourthly (silencers) there are those psychologists who are there to 'silence' the victims. They know how to bury sub personalities and or inform other handlers of their condition. I have confronted some and even exposed one here at a local hospital. He has left town and another one who called me was later arrested and then fired for an undisclosed 'sexual abuse' charge. So if counselors and helpers are noticing that their SRA victims are missing and then return after a stay at the local psych ward and have gone silent, it's time to pray for and seek exposure.
- The fifth (avoiders) category are those professionals who see the whole field of SRA/MPD as too complicated and make it known that they don't work with them. Avoidance like this is based on fear and an unwillingness to seek a solution. After all it does take a lot of time and most of the time the insurance money runs out quickly. They don't want to get involved with the debated issues; it is just too much for some. In 'MEMORY,TRAUMA TREATMENT, AND THE LAW' the author of the first chapter says on page 1:

"For a variety of reasons, the debate has become savage; zealots on both sides have staked positions so radical that intelligent discussion and scientific inquiry have been difficult if not impossible."

One psychologist I met with in Pennsylvania was sued by a multiple when a denial personality came up and denied they were ever a multiple. The psychologist worked with the client for 10 years and talked to many personalities. This person won an award of 300,000 dollars. The psychologist I met with was broken and deeply concerned that he was being watched…by a coven and that the client he had still lived nearby. He is in my prayers to this day.

FINALLY

I have met a number of really great people in the field of psychology and have appreciated their desire to help get victims free. The trouble with this field is that 90% or more of MPD is SRA, has a dark spiritual origin and needs a spiritual solution. And it's not new age alternative spirituality that's needed; it can't help. It's the Spirit of God who seeks to bring the living Lord Jesus and all of His work to the aide of these hurting victims.

The once beaten, bloodied innocent Christ knows how to deal with the damage of the demonic and the abuse of the perpetrators. He rose from the dead with infinite power. He is omniscient, omnipresent and omnipotent. He knows how to weep for lost sheep, be near the broken hearted and rebuke and bring down the abusers. He alone can reach the depths of this issue…and there is no debate among the demons, they flee at His command.

P 101 THE PSYCHIC BATTELFIELD' A HISTORY OF THE MILITARY-OCCULT COMPLEX

"The military and CIA copied the Nazi methodology and began numerous programs of their own. The first CIA program was known as MKULTRA, the MK is an abbreviation for the German words for mind control." P 34
'MONARCH: THE NEW PHOENIX PROGRAM

This is what it's all about! A host of satanic super soldiers and the creation of a super spiritually infused military system that will be bigger and more powerful than anything in all of history. I do beg you to consider, especially all of you who are embracing the spirit behind globalism and the new spiritual evolution of human consciousness. The same game is being played out here that was done with the Nazis, only it's bigger, evolved and global.

They (sinister forces) are offering the military leaders, scientists and weapons makers ideas. The ideas are small at first and on a need to know basis. The ideas become larger and eventually a pattern is revealed. The thoughts are coming in and ideas are being planted. Once planted and used more 'ideas' come in. Someone wants to build a supernatural and massive military system and that someone knows how to send ideas, influence science and give dreams.

I was reading just today where Ingo Swann who was the 'psychic' used by the military to develop/weaponize what is now called remote viewing was hit. He like many others in these fields all of a sudden receive a type of communication in their head. Jim Marrs, in his book 'PSI SPIES', tells how one of the main leaders in the development of military remote viewing got the inspiration to go further. On p 47 of the book it says:

"(Ingo) Swann recalled that on one day, while relaxing in the swimming pool of the apartments where he lived near SRI, he suddenly heard a small voice in his head say, "Why don't you try coordinates?"…"

And so he did! And the weaponization of remote viewing continued. He did what the 'voice in his head' said to do. It is this outside to inside influence that has been occurring for over 60 years to many people. Whether it's with Helena Blavatsky, Alice Bailey or military rocket scientists the agenda to fuel globalism and build a super soldier/military power so vast that it dwarfs Babylon, the Meads, the Greeks, the Romans, the Nazis, the Russians, the USA and any/all that is out there right now. I will say it again… please grab this:

"Someone wants a highly spiritually charged super military… created for one purpose alone…to be used at Armageddon!R1919"

It has been my belief for a long time that the dark spirits who can create writings (inspired ideas called demonic doctrine 1Tim.4) can also inspire sciences, psychology and weapons making. Ideas come in, late night dreams arrive and new information is planted…and all the while it is 'voice to skull' of the demonic kind. If you really understand and believe Revelation 19:19 which is a picture of a global super military power gone mad, one that is the biggest and was supernaturally evolved then you have to ask….how do they get there?

SATANIC SUPER SOLDIERS

I was sitting with a highly trained military soldier. They handed me a large notebook; it was the 'FIRST EARTH BATTALION OPERATIONS MANUAL'. This person had sub personalities who could speak five different languages, they could fight, use weapons and even had an 'assassin' sub personality who came out and talked to me. They talked about Sidney Gottlieb and many others who worked in military mind control (MKULTRA) projects. They showed me a tiny purple monarch butterfly on their left ankle.

This is the one who said they were a 'super soldier', that they were a 'warrior monk', that they can use their inner powers to hurt people and do 'lightning warfare' by sending demonic spirits to attack. This is the person who showed me a black uniform and talked about the majestic and monarch mines where they meet and train. This is the one who gave me a paper that came from a handler; it said that they look forward to the day of Armageddon when they can unleash on me the very super soldier who was sitting there next to me.

Satanic super soldiers were being formed in the black flame of the Nazi regime and this spiritual military agenda has continued to this day: The genetic birthing centers in 1939 and Germany created hundreds of thousands of what was to be future soldiers. The warrior sitting next to me had a sub personality who could speak fluent German and praised Hitler. They said they are the kind of soldiers who will make the SS troops of the Nazis look like choir boys. They could remote view, send powers and kill without a conscience. This is the first one to tell me about the coming day of the Black Awakening; that luciferian covens and power centers are unleashing dark spirits continuously to dirty the air and claim regions. This one and thousands like this soldier believe they were created to usher in a chaos that would be the stepping stone for the new world leader.

This satanic agenda is like a war, a conquest and the two main areas of conquest are: first politics and second military. You will have to keep in mind the prophecy of Psalm 2 (PS2) and its final fulfillment in Revelation 19:19 (R1919). I hope you will think through these next few points, especially if you are a political leader or military personnel and even more so if you have already been infused (infected) with the spirit given dream of globalism and a new spiritually evolved humanity.

I BELIEVE THE US MILITARY HAS BEEN INFILTRATED

Since the dark end goal is to acquire the largest and most power filled military system in human history, the closer they get to that goal we should see signs of its evolution. The Nazi war machine was developed and evolved to advance the Nazi cause worldwide and bring in a spiritual new pagan age, a new order. Today as political propensity moves toward globalism the only way to enforce it and maintain it is with a global force. The 'luciferian' charged military coming will be used to acquire global rule but the inner and real purpose is much broader.

If you knew Jesus Christ (God) is coming back in spectacular visible fashion and is coming to end radical evil forever and destroy this long dark night where satan has been "…god of this age who has blinded the minds…" and the "...ruler of the power of the air, the spirit who is now at work…", and "…the evil one who is in control of the world". If you were that evil one and knew in the past the God of heaven does do all He says He will, what would you do to stop the event that would stop you forever?

Would you build a massive military system that had even supernatural dark power burning in its soldiers? Would you unleash every possible piece of advanced technology that could be used to stop this 'evil empire' ending event? Would you convince a world that globalism and a military system is needed to protect the new age-new order from any and all outside 'enemy' attack? Would you be filling military weapons makers, leaders and strategists with ideas (voice to skull) to develop the 'ultimate' weapons, weapons that could be used for a 'planetary defense'? Dear readers how far along are we on this road to Armageddon?

"By 1964, the use of occult themes and rituals became an accepted part of psychological warfare planning…" "In the early 1950's an American neurologist began a series of research projects to determine how a psychic ability such as extrasensory perception could be used as a weapon…." p 128- 133 'SINSITER FORCES' A Glimmer of American Political Witchcraft Book One: The Nine

I BELIEVE IDEAS HAVE POPPED INTO THEIR HEADS

Jack Parsons a US military rocket scientist performed dark satanic rituals and invoked major power demons. This kind of activity will open the door to the fallen cherub far more than Judas and his evil greed. With the arrival of Nazi scientists and the dark occultism they brought the massive dark spirits of that era have begun a new one…it came bursting and laying its global foundations during the 1940's.

I BELIEVE WHAT'S BEING DONE NOW SETS THE STAGE

"In 1981 General Stubblebine, who had been deeply moved by Jim Channon's First Earth Battalion Operations Manual and was filled with the conviction that America, the great superpower, needed to be defended by people who actually had superpowers……." P 70 'THE MEN WHO STARE AT GOATS'

You can't build a house over night nor can you build a city or a nation in a day. What about building a global empire? There are a lot of minds that have to be convinced, this will have to be a process. The process approach involves laying the foundations, building a critical mass of belief and to move millions into the belief that the old ways are bad and need to give way to a new day. This process approach has been evolving for over 60 years now and it's clear that it will need more than just this process to break into the 'age of Aquarius.'

Every one of the concepts of a new age and its global reign is traced back to a spiritual inspiration. Reading 'THE EXTERNALIZATION OF THE HIERACHY' by occultist Alice Bailey is one of the clearest examples of a spirit given (1Tim.4) sequential plan. A plan for globalism, spirit induced science, the spiritual evolution of humanity, the coming of a globalist spiritual world leader, the elimination of all who resist and the need for a process and a burst (black awakening) to accomplish all of this.

The spirit that dictated the ideas, agenda and mandates to Alice Bailey fill over 20 volumes and these books are the alternative spiritual agenda that is raging for conquest right now. The spirit that guided these so called 'guide books' (and other writings like it) for the coming new world military is the same one who will make war on the saints (see Daniel). It is "the ruler of the power of the air" (atmosphere), the spirit who is now (supernaturally operative) in secret military projects (minds/ideas) and the power that is engaging military evolution.

God did ask 3,000 years ago… "Why do the nations rage (conspire) and the peoples plot in vain? The kings of the earth (political/military leaders) take their stand and the rulers gather together against the LORD (living God) and against His Anointed One (Christ)".

Large globalist meetings will include all new age spiritual practices (that open the door to ancient dark spirits) along with an ostracizing of anything that is real Christianity. This out with the old and in with the new spirit can be found in politics, military and in the critical mass thinking of hundreds of millions. This is a spiritual clash that is now seen in the dreams and desired destiny of the spirit/mind now operating in the new politics and new military goals. There is a goal for a new evolved super humanity and a new super… or in the words from the above quote: "…the great superpower, needed to be defended by people who actually had superpowers"

I BELIEVE THERE ARE SLEEPERS IN US MILITARY

I was working with a person who had a group of military trained sub personalities. They were down and 'sleeping' for many years. When one came up to talk they just kept looking around at everything and wondered how so many years have gone by. This group of sub personalities could speak German and wondered where their trainers were. They like many military trained and spiritual charged programmed sub personalities were made for the coming black awakening.

Not only has the US military been infiltrated (spiritually and with spirit given technologies) it has been lead to develop the very spirit inspired technologies that it was given. MKULTRA and all the mind control 'science' had a goal much further down the road that just the creation of PSI spies and Manchurian candidates/assassins. The goal was and is to set in place the spiritual and technical process that can create….millions of super soldiers whose minds/hearts are fully charged and committed to globalism and a new world leader.

Every chosen one I have worked with has inside of them powerful programmed sub personalities who are highly trained to fight and use all of their spiritual and advanced war fighting techniques. Deep inside all of them there is a spiritual power, loyalty and commitment…not to local national militaries but to be the troops of the coming new bright world leader (antichrist). I have never found a different agenda inside chosen ones in over 25 years!

Please note the technology that came by spirit inspiration has been put into practice. US military and the hidden hand behind the scenes have created over four million (some say 10 million) of these super soldiers. They are in US military and other militaries throughout the world and dear reader more of them are being forged every day. The new ones will be even more ‘supernaturally’ powerful than anything seen in the last 30 years.

Most of these super soldiers are intact and doing their job. Most of the ‘warrior’ sub personalities are down inside, sealed and asleep. They with the outside elite are waiting for the pre planned and programmed call. This activation is coming. It will be spiritual (spirit sent) and maybe piggybacking some form of technology; a technology that was given for this very use. This sleeping army charged with the demonic hate (and revenge) desires bloodshed and will glory in the massive chaos/revolt of their black awakening.

Jack Parsons a US military scientist (and dark occultist) believed what most intact satanic super soldiers feel…

> Parsons had come to believe that Christianity was the “…enemy of civilization, of humanity, and that it had to be destroyed...”

FINALLY

Many of these chosen ones listen to my radio programs. Some are seeking healing and freedom, others are…in their words ‘my enemy’ who can’t wait to taste the blood and revel in the anarchy. Many of them are so programmed and charged with glory in the killing fields. They my dear reader friends are made to be antichrist’s warriors who have no conscience left within them (that’s what programming is for).

To the sub personalities who now read and evaluate whether I have all, enough or only some of your secret information must realize…you do serve a prophesied losing cause. You know of Armageddon, you glory in R1919 but have you read R1920?

Military personal who have taken in the new age spirits and the quest for globalism have embraced the precursors for something so much darker. You have been inducted and spiritually initiated into a certain level of this dark well. This is how the left hand path works, step by step to the point of no return. I hope you will look up and see the light of Christ and the Cross. You are being layered and you are sinking deeper in to a point of no return.

CHAPTER 14
YOU CAN FEEL IT IN THE AIR TONIGHT

"The ruler of the domain of the air (atmosphere) the spirit who is now at work (supernaturally operative) in (people)…" Ephesians 2

"….finally Paul became so troubled (agitated in spirit)…." Acts 16

"An earth-shattering calamity is about to happen. It is going to be so frightening, we are all going to tremble-even the godliest among us…..it will engulf the whole megaplex….Major cities all across America will experience riots and blazing fires….there will be riots and fires worldwide. There will be looting….." David Wilkerson's prophetic vision 'www.davidwilkerson.blogspot.com'

I was listening to George Noory of the Coast to Coast Am radio talk show last week. Millions listen nightly and a few times this last week I heard him ask a number of the guests if they see what he does, if they feel what he does. It seems he believes there is a growing evil and that people are being led to do very evil and bizarre things. Art Bell, George Noory and millions of the Coast to Coast listeners do feel what they feel and I believe this 'feeling' in the air has a cause. Art Bell, George Norry, many other talk show hosts and millions more believe there is a ramped up evil in the air, that things are getting worse and that there is a dark agenda surfacing as never before in human history.

I COULD FEEL IT IN THE AIR THAT AND I WAS AGITATED

I was with other workers one night and a chosen one from out of state was coming in to meet with us. I was in the van and was feeling deeply agitated… agitated in spirit. There was a chosen one next to me and my fellow worker told me that they came down to talk…the spiritual agitation continued. We stopped at a park and they got out to talk I stayed in the van with the side door open, I was praying about what was going on. My friend and the chosen one were a hundred yards away when the Lord spoke to me and said 'warfare' and 'testing', this one is here to do warfare against us and see how we will do.

I was praying against all dark powers and watching my friend, the chosen one was knelt down…drawing symbols or a language in the sand. Suddenly my friend began to pray and the chosen one was saying something. It was intense and then the chosen one ran off into the woods. My friend came back and said they got into a verbal spiritual warfare battle and the chosen one threw up and ran into the woods. I told him then that I knew this was not a random visit, I even believe to this day that the coven behind this chosen one may have been doing satanic warfare in support of their member against us.

The agitation was real and I did feel it in the air that night. It reminded me of the 'troubled' feeling that the apostle Paul must have had in Acts 16 when he had a girl following their team around, the girl had a spirit (python/demon) operating through her.

THE BUZZ OF GLOBAL CONSCIOUSNESS

One of the guests on Coast to Coast was someone I have been researching with interest for some time. It was the inventor of the 'Web Bot' project and this is all about the buzz or what people are 'feeling in the air'. This project consumes millions of bytes of information on the World Wide Web. It looks for 'emotional language' and then they simply crunch the information and come out with what 'the feelings' of what the masses or bytes of info are saying, feeling, seeing, believing and what this information then predicts will happen. In a more technical version of the web bot language George Ure writes:

"The web bots are an attempt to use the high data density of the internet to sample language and seek linguistic shifts that we believe may precede events. The initial results suggest that language shifts on a macro level begin to occur 45 to 90 days before society-changing events."
www.urbansurvival.com

This web bot project is like the Global Consciousness Project that looks for the 'consciousness' and or the feelings that are in the air or atmosphere (global consciousness). Some may see this as a 'critical mass' or what the masses are believing and feeling.

If you read the following web bot predictions you are reading the emotional language of what millions around the globe are feeling and sensing. It's what is in the air…it's the buzz of talk shows and many books.

These are some of the 'predictions' that are posted on the web and that were on the Coast to Coast sight. These tell you what millions are feeling is in the air and what they perceive or predict will happen. From the Web Bot project:

- 2009 – Earthquakes may damage dams and/or much unprecedented flooding may occur.
- 2009 – People in rural areas will begin arming themselves heavily and hoarding weapons+ammunition.
- 2009 – Spring or summer – A "global coastal event"or process (possibly a tidal change) will involve a rise in sea level that will knock out refineries and severely damage …
- 2009/10: A big crisis is kicked off. It could be that Israel bombs Iran, or that Swine Flu goes into a level of extreme lethality. 10 days later, in relation to this crisis, the Obama administration will be thrown into chaos. When Israel bombs Iran, they'll use a nuclear-tipped bunker buster that will hit something unforeseen underground. As a result, a radioactive cloud will form that will pollute and sicken Southeast Asia. This will cause much of the world to turn against Israel.

- 2010-: The “Death of the Dollar” will be a continuing trend, with a hyper inflationary period and banking crises/confidence losses that will begin in August 2009.
- 2010- : In South America, there’ll be large or mass sightings of UFO-related phenomena. A video crew will interview an escapee from an internment facility. The young bald man will later be revealed to be a “non-Terran” human. Sustainable living will be the only way to survive the upcoming economic change and food shortages.
- 2011- “Global Coastal Phenomena” will be gradual; the situation could be disturbing for many people. Unusual movements of the Moon brought on by anomalies in the magnetosphere could cause coastal disruptions.
- 2011- The magnetosphere problems could lead to ultraviolet scorching of food crops. Grain crops will fail, mainly in the Northern Hemisphere, leading to food riots in the winter/spring. Specifically, there’ll be riots in Rome that will spill over into the Vatican.
- 2012- brought upon by some combination of pandemics, economic collapse, breakdown of health care and unknown energies from space.

Did you notice it? There is nothing good coming in the near or distant future! Web Bot is like the internet prophet of doom. Like the perditions of Ed Dames world renown military remote viewer who has been called Dr. Doom.

So what do we do? If the collective feeling of the world is that chaos and calamity is here, coming and will get worse what is the answer or why is all this coming down? If you take the web bot predictions, what many remote viewers and psychics are saying and what those who predict a world change are saying then we better brace ourselves for the end of….something.

Let’s put the ‘feeling’ in the air in perspective:

- Talk shows that represent millions of people the world over continue to see many bad and catastrophic events coming…most of which will be far worse than 911.
- The web bot and projects like it are saying massive catastrophic events are coming and will be ‘society changing’ events.

- Prophetically oriented individuals like David Wilkerson see a mass collapse coming to the US and around the world.
- Remote viewers and psychics who claim to see or read the future are predicting doom, destruction and chaos.
- Military men and those who keep an eye on future war see Israel attacking Iran, and massive war breaking out. That many countries will join in.
- Islam seeks to annihilate Israel and unleash such bloodshed that it will bring in their new world leader…the Mahdi.
- 2012ers as I call them are those who are looking at the old Mayan prophesies and telling us that in December 2012 the world will end-change-be destroyed. After reading a half dozen of the new books on the subject it seems that most of the authors tell us that the end is coming and that a new world will emerge. This is what the premise of author Whitley Strieber's Book 2012 is all about.
- Older occultists believe like Albert Pike of the Masons that chaos will come and then the new world order.
- New agers now see that a cleansing might occur, that mother earth may unleash hell and millions of people and nations will end and then of course a new world will come with an expected bright powerful world leader to run it all.
- This may be the hope of the Georgia 'GUIDE STONES' the occult oriented 'stones' proclaim that the world population should be reduced to a manageable 500 million. That means that billions should be eliminated!
- And many now are learning survivalist skills and are preparing themselves for anarchy and collapse.

Doesn't anyone have any good news? What do you see and feel? Why did you buy this book? I think you feel the chaos coming too. It's not what anyone wants but it seems like the bomb has been dropped and everyone is waiting for it to hit. This book is a warning and proclaims that a history changing chaos-anarchy-revolt is coming…very…very soon and it is part of a satanic plot that has been evolving for a long time. This book also proclaims the Bible's prophecy includes that the deception and manifestation of lethal dark presence will result in massive destruction.

If you read Revelation Chapter 9 it also reveals that 1/3 of humanity will be lost (die) in the coming chaos and the calamities that follow. And dear friends I know there are a lot of sources for the 'feeling in the air' and predictions but only one has a source of prediction which has never failed. They have been true (infallible). These revelations are found only in the scriptures that the uncreated infinite Spirit of God has given us. The Bible is still light years ahead of the web bot, remote viewers and the old perdition of the Maya. I hope you will look at the source that is packed with mass fulfilled prophecies and a New Testament that is 1/3 predictive prophecy. The difference in Biblical prophecy in comparison with all the above sources is that it is given directly by God and is to be used to bring people into a personal relationship with Him. Check out a few things in God's revelation (data) and what it has to say about this "feeling in the air". The book of Daniel 11-12; Matthew 24; 1Timothy 4:1; 2Thess.2; 1John 2; and the book of Revelation.

The premise of this book is that a dark and lethal presence is bringing all this coming chaos and destruction. This book points a biblical finger at the powers of darkness and their real and coming agenda. Here are a few things we need to know about what the Spirit of God says about the dark spirits (demons) and of that 'spirit in the air.'

IT'S THEIR PRESENCE

The dark side does have 'power' and you can feel the energy of their presence just like the heat that comes from a blast furnace. I know God's presence and power; I also know the feeling of the manifested presence of demons. In exorcism when demons come up (manifest) there is a 'feeling'. I can feel them in the air around places or in people, at times I can feel them in the midst of spiritual warfare too. I can also see/feel that the atmosphere itself is darker and more of them from the other side are coming to this side.

I was taken to a ritual sight years ago where the 'black mass' indicator was painted on a tree. The highly trained luciferian who took me there, was used to the sight. It was in deep woods and as I drove down in the circular area I could sense and feel major demonic presence. I felt as if they saw who I was and flocked around to protect their area. It was a ritual sight where many satanic sacrifices were held. It was there we dug up bones that were used in a ritual. All of those who came with me said the same thing, you could feel it…and it seemed like we were being watched.

As the other side by the masses moves more and more into our realm, the 'air' will seem charged and it may feel like violence, evil and death are swarming. The pinnacle of demonic presence in our society is seen in Revelation 18:

"…a home (dwelling place) for demons and a haunt for every evil spirit…"

IT'S THEIR NATURE

If you know the nature of a person you can feel it too. If a person is very angry all the time it seems you can feel that anger coming off of them as they enter a room. It's also true when someone is so filled with God's love and His Spirit that you can feel the presence and power coming off of them. We do manifest what's in us.

The 'dark side' as I call it often is real and massive. They are the fallen ones, demons and unclean spirits who hate God and seek to set up their agenda in the affairs of humanity. It's the nature of a being that will be felt, seen and have its affect on you. If it's Charlie Manson walking into the room… watch out.

The nature of the demons is revealed throughout Scripture. They hate God, Christ the Bible and anyone who loves them. They are evil, liars, deceivers and users. They come to kill, steal and destroy. They want human blood, to control and to possess humans. The demon gods of the past and present want human sacrifice and seek to keep people from God. Take a look at Mark 5 and see what happens to a man who was filled with the demonic. Look at Acts 16 and see how a little girl was used. If their nature is radical lethal evil then their coming to this side in larger numbers means what they are and what they do comes here too.

IT'S THEIR AGENDA

The satanic agenda is personal and vast. The ultimate goal is to break into humanity and rule with consuming control. The Bible shows with the arrival of the pinnacle of their presence comes a corresponding destruction. The black awakening unleashes their presence as never before and brings a massive destruction to humanity. What we 'feel' in the air is the burgeoning, swelling presence of their agenda finding fulfillment in the affairs of the World.

Their emergence and blasting into our side means the "secret power of lawlessness" will be felt and will affect the world.(2Thess.2). The more the satanic agenda comes to fulfillment the more destruction will follow. By the time we reach Revelation 9 the level of destruction is overwhelming, 1/3 of humanity dies! The satanic agenda if unchecked would mean the annihilation of humanity. Do you think that's too much of a statement? Then see the words of Jesus in Matthew 24:

"For there will be great distress, unequaled from the beginning of the world until now-and never to be equaled again. If those days had not been cut short, no one would survive"…Jesus

FINALLY

I believe the presence, nature and agenda of the dark side as it manifests more and more will be felt. It seems their manifested presence in pre Nazi Germany was 'felt' but also embraced. Their acceptance into the political and military evolution leads to massive destruction, bloodshed and crudity!

Dear folks…it already has, is now and will happen again only 10,000 times broader and darker. We are talking about satan's finale, the apex of his agenda and the pinnacle of his power. It is felt, feared, but make no mistake, it will happen just as God has warned us it would. What you may feel now and when the black awakening occurs, as bad as it will be, only sets the stage for the rest…and not any web bot has seen this.

> “Immediately after the distress of those days, the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light; the stars will fall from the sky, and the heavenly bodies will be shaken” Jesus in Matthew 24

LUCIFERIANS, ILLUMINATI AND STREAMS OF DARKNESS

"The illuminati consist of many of the world's richest families ….they pay lip service to religion, they worship Lucifer. Their agents control the world's media, education, business and politics."P 66 'ILLUMINATI' The cult that hijacked the world

"The object of the first degrees of illuminism is at once to train their young men, and to be informed of everything that is going forward by a system of espionage." P 463 'PERFECTIBILISTS' The 18th Century Bavarian Order of the Illuminati

"This included the fact that the illuminati were proposing to destroy princes and prelates throughout the world, and were to remove forever the feeling of local nationality from the minds of men. The ways in which this was to be done involved infiltrating high positions in education, administration and the Press" p 232 A History of 'SECRET SOCIETIES'

"For the secret (hidden) power of lawlessness is already at work" (Supernaturally operative) 2Thessalonians 2

Lt. Col. Jim Channon, producer of the First Earth Battalion Operations Manual was the military trainer who learned all he could about the new age, alternative spirituality and sought to infuse military soldiers with new abilities so they would be better trained and better protected. In a recent YouTube video he made from his home in Hawaii Lt. Col. Channon asks, “Did you ever meet a luciferian in your whole life”? “Have you ever met illuminati”? These are important questions and those who have can say, “Yes”.

A chosen one I was with, (a highly trained luciferian) who was military trained handed me this First Earth Battalion Manual in the 90’s. They described to me the broader goal of creating super soldiers, soldiers who will serve the luciferian cause. This super soldier knew well what luciferians and the ‘illuminate’ of today are; so do the hundreds of thousands of chosen ones across the US and Europe. The illuminate of the past have clearly ‘evolved’ and do, under massive supernatural presence and power pull the strings in many places. Whether you want to call them ‘illuminate’ or not the biblical truth and contemporary reality is that there are and will be a very powerful hidden group seeking a secret destiny, the destiny of the ages as some old occultists called it.

This chosen one was a new warrior with many sub personalities. They could project their mind to get into yours. They could remote view and find you. They could release ‘powers’ and cause you harm. They could also use weapons well and were trained in martial arts. Chosen ones truly go way beyond the precursor of the ‘First Earth Battalion’ training, however, include some of its new age spirituality as a foundation. What Col. Channon and those in the act of evolving a military with an alternative spirituality base (and to reach a global status) don’t know is…this is the very core of an ‘illumined’ agenda of ‘…the spirit who is now at work…” which is totally luciferic! See Ephesians 2 and Revelations 12. The goal is the whole World!

This spirit, the ‘one behind the curtain’, is pulling the strings of globalism. The need for and must have of all things global will be the core agenda of the ‘illuminati’ and all those under the luciferian cause. They will push for and need:

- Global consensus.
- Global government
- Global religion/spirituality
- Global military/super soldiers.

Behind these four goals is the fifth element; the belief in an 'illuminated' elite who can evolve it, rule it, control it and reap from it. The Biblical prophecies (which have never failed) reveal 'future history' and show that real luciferians do accomplish their 'supernaturally motivated' goals. The issue right now is whether or not we can see the signs of the illumined world elite and the evolution of the above four prong goals. To miss these four core goals is to miss the foundation of the hidden agenda that is evolving in every direction. The elite (illuminati) and all those who serve 'luciferian' spirituality are in the process of leading the whole world in these directions to accomplish their agenda.

The highly trained and spiritually empowered chosen one was sitting in my office one day writing and drawing. The drawing was a picture of a large room with a place for 13 chairs; the thirteenth chair was the only one that was not filled. The 13th chair I was told was the chair of Lucifer, incarnate (the antichrist). This person explained to me what many others have, that the whole system of creating transmuted super soldiers was for the purpose of bringing in the rule and reign of a super illumined world leader and the new leader will have his 'team' in place before he appears.

So, dear reader, the premise of this book is the issue of 'super soldiers' who are engineered by the illumined elite. They will use them to collapse the old order (by a violent chaos) and help make the way for a whole new illumined ruling class and their "god like" leader. This is the core of the luciferian belief and agenda. I will spell it all out point by point.

- THE SUPER ILLUMINED. They feel they are the secret elite who are light years above the riff raff of the world. They feel they are superior and the 'secret' knowledge they have received, preserved and added to is highly guarded and only for the illumined. The illumination comes from many, any and all spiritual streams: Get this….except the spiritual presence, power and knowledge that come from the Bible, the real Christ and His mission. The spirit that initiated the illumined group began this in the garden of human history. See Genesis for the fallen cherub, his method, offer and promise. This is where the concept of the illumined elite began. To miss this connection is to miss the root and its future ‘fruit’. Satan has promised those who reject God and follow him…elitist knowledge and position. The trouble with the ‘illumined’ is that they have not figured out that the finite no matter how powerful cannot grant infinite status.

- THE SUPER KNOWLEDGEABLE. The real luciferian will be one who is well read and deeply versed in the ‘secret’ spiritual knowledge. The illumined ones feel they are way beyond the common man and because of that they must lead, rule and control…for the ‘good’ of all. Trying to read books like Albert Pike’s Masonic ‘Morals & Dogma’ and hundreds others just like it will reveal the vast depth of ‘entrenched esoteric, mystical and spiritual revelation’. There may be different streams but all of it has one source, the teachings of the old mystery schools. This spiritual illumined teaching they say goes way back...maybe even to the nephilim and to the watchers who birthed them. Some say they taught early fallen man sorcery and many other secret things.

  Tracking this body of religious dogma (yes it is teaching/dogma) can be long and tedious, it can be dangerous too. If you really have in your hands ‘doctrines of demons’ (1Timothy 4) you have inspired writings and by my experience the dark (planos/imposter) spirits who gave them may be right there with them when you read. You can’t read ‘illumined’ teachings without being affected, visited and sought after. After all that’s what they’re for. Alice Bailey’s book, ‘THE EXTERNALIZATION OF THE HIERARCHY’ which was dictated by a ‘kosmocrator’ whom she thought was an ascended spiritual master is a major example of demonic ideology and agenda in written form. It has affected millions and spells out the incremental approach to spirit guided globalism and the rise of a ‘world teacher’.
- THE SUPER CONTROLLERS. The illuminate are those who seek to lead and then control the world for sure. That is the spirit behind them, the spirit that inspires guides and empowers is also the one that controls. All chosen ones evidence this concept of control. Their unilateral will has been taken away. The very technology being used to split and program separate the personalities inside one person has this main hook…total control.

All of those who have been through SRA/MPD know that their birth, childhood and development have been controlled and the big question for everyone to answer is…by whom? I say it is ultimately the elite or higher up that would be the ones to claim illumined bloodlines (demonic), illuminated knowing and would be in direct contact with the 'bright and shining one' Lucifer himself! Those who have come under his control will seek to extend that control all the way to the end.

Control is the issue and Scripture itself says of a fallen world system that is evolving:

"….the whole world is under the control of the evil one." 1John5

- THE SUPER WEALTHY AND POWERFUL. To create, evolve and maintain 4-10 million super soldiers will cost billions. To grab control of the banks, the oil, communications-media, government and military and have a plan to seize the world will cost trillions. The spirit guided Nazis knew this and they acquired mass amounts of gold and other resources. If you want to know who and where the illuminati are then… follow the money. Look at the Bilderbergers and those who are behind the elite at the Bohemian Grove Empire. Those invited to Bohemian Grove each year (for over 100 years) are the world's elite and powerful wealthy, political, military and media moguls.

  Many of those gathered there may not know but may be influenced by the major dark powers that are summoned and put on them. Like the spirits sent out to the world's elite in Revelation 16 (to be 'gathered') spirits are raised there by the ritual of human sacrifice and sent on the world's elite. So at meetings like this, you are either the 'the illuminati' or those whom the illuminate seek to influence. Either way the world's wealth is sought and acquired by this final group of world controllers and for one reason…a control that will set everything up for Armageddon.
- THE SUPER AGENDA. Hitler and the Nazis had an agenda that's for sure. They sought to fulfill this cause and without interference they may have reached it and I would be writing in German! The final agenda of the illumined elite is very clear…globalism. They want all national boundaries and individual rule ended. They want a central ruling group with one head leader. They want control of the wealth, politics, military and the people. But we must reveal something now that God has given a heads up about. While most conspiracy writers speak of a shadow elite who seek to control the world they miss the fact of the real reason for global control. Note: global control is not the end game, it's the necessary step to get to the illumined 'final solution'. All of this leads to the attempt to kill God.

The agenda within the observable agenda is to build, evolve and acquire the world's largest military power. A military that has millions of super soldiers, who have taken the mark, worshipped the image and are prepared to fight.

Dear friends the goal of the illuminist is the agenda that goes all the way to the end. All the promises and pledges along the way mean nothing to the fallen cherub. I have told super soldiers (chosen ones) for a long time now…you will not get rewarded; like Judas you will lose it all.

Every ounce of Biblical prophecy speaks of an end time controlling empire that will surpass every one that came before it. Its agenda will involve the full force and pinnacle of satanic presence "…who leads the whole world astray" Revelation 12.

- THE SUPERNATURAL SECRECY. We are just scratching the surface of the deep here. No matter how many books I have read or chosen ones I have talked to I know one thing very well; it's all much deeper than I know. Deeper than this book and deeper than the few whistle blowers who have surfaced. We can read, talk, and research does help us to connect the dots of this emerging darkness but I still say for now we are only scratching the surface…of a very deep well. The entire agenda of the illuminate is bathed in a supernatural secrecy. In 2 Thessalonians the Spirit of God reveals that this whole evolution of the satanic agenda is operated by and bathed in 'supernatural' and very powerful secrecy. It's called "the secret power of lawlessness…that is already at work". Let me break that down:

  First, 'the secret power' is in reference to pure satanic power that cloaks the ongoing agenda. Satan seeks to operate in stealth until the coming 'revolt' (black awakening) and visible 'revealing' of the antichrist. All chosen ones know the 'law of secrecy' that rules the vast underground. You tell- you die! That's why there is shut down programming, suicide programming and punishment issued.

Second, the idea of lawlessness is; total opposition to God, His presence, His people and His Word. Satan and the illumined ones have law, strict law but the force of lawlessness means….total fierce opposition to God. Satan wants to eradicate God and anything that is called God or of Him. Please remember this all began as a war against God. Not just take His throne (see Isaiah 14) but to oust Him. The attempt at eliminating God occurred again when He came in human flesh as Messiah. Satan was there (See Revelation 12) prepared and waiting to devour the Christ when He was born.

Satan's attack the second time was on Immanuel, God with us! The agenda now is supposed to be a secret but God has given us a glimpse…satan and all that he is doing is for the end game of a third chance at killing God. That is what R1919 is all about.

So now you have to chew on this and please do…the creation of super soldiers, the entire new age movement, the quest for controlled globalism, the coming black awakening and the reason for antichrist is ….R1919! The super secret is that this is an agenda that will use all of its enlisted and slaves from top to bottom as fodder to go up against God and seek to kill Him.

When demonic presence through trained committed sub personalities screamed at me, "We are the legions that shall rule the earth" It is clear, they and all those in this illumined nightmare really know they are being forged to reach this end goal, that they will 'willingly' go to Armageddon believing that the 'mass accumulation of finite presence and power' will be able to annihilate the infinite God once and for all.

Or

All of the super soldier chosen ones, their creators and all the others clear up to the tip top of the illuminati have been horribly deceived and have not read Revelation 19:20.

WHO ARE THE ILLUMINATI?

Whatever name they go by today whether the brotherhood, ancient brotherhood, brotherhood of darkness or the illuminati, they can be seen and are described in Psalm 2. God gave a picture of them 3,000 years ago; who they are, what they say and what their agenda is. In PS2 we have an old message that calls out to this self proclaimed supernaturally illumined group today. Whether political, military or the wealthy elite the leaders of this agenda and those who follow are seen by God as an army of darkness. The peoples, nations and kings of the earth who have taken their stand against the Lord and against His Anointed (Christ) are what make up this group.

You may find the leaders of this entire agenda; they are the ones working toward globalism and a spiritual evolution that will change human beings and human history forever. They feel elite and believe they shall rule, but once again I must say……just like Judas who betrayed Christ they will lose their silver, their guts and their eternal souls. See Acts 2 and Revelation 19:20

WHAT IS A LUCIFERIAN

I can name people who are Luciferian; there are even some sub personalities in chosen ones who have told me that is what they are. You can tell a real luciferian by what they believe and by what they are working for. They believe the core luciferian doctrine and are committed to the ultimate luciferian dream. Whatever they call themselves the belief and agenda tags them.

- One, they believe in an evolution of human consciousness and are seeking this through 'alternative spiritual' experiences. That mankind is evolving and a massive spiritual burst (wave) is coming which will transform humanity and make us god-like.
- Two, they believe and are working for a spiritual new age of globalism that will replace all the old structures of human government, nations, laws and religion. This new order will emerge from a great chaos and will be lead by a super human leader.

FINALLY

These two things reveal the core of what a real luciferian is and what the elite group of illumined ones are and live for. They know a great force is guiding them; by following it they are embracing what they feel is a 'bright light'… a spirit who has power in the air and in the lives of each one of them who …open the door for it. This illuminate and its luciferian doctrine my friends is the deepest poisoned candy ever in history and it will have its affect in the end. Some who read this may find out that its definition draws a circle around them and says you are one, maybe now is the time for real change.

The infinite God has made a way, if you have missed the Cross where Jesus died you may have to re-examine the Person, the Power and the Purpose of what was done there 2,000 years ago. The Cross is all about you, the love that God has for you and the door He has opened. There is only one who gave His life willingly and only this one is infinite and able to give life…eternal life.

Jesus was feared by the demons, worshipped by the angles, foretold by the prophets and revealed by 1,600 years of Scripture (data-revelation), given not by fallen finite spirits but by the Spirit of God. He had a birth, life and death like no one in all of history, but it was His resurrection that fulfilled all of these ancient scriptures and blasted into finality the enemy of death. There is this door God calls you to right now in this moment of time, yes even while you read.

"Turn to me and be saved, all you ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is no other" God in Isaiah 45

"If anyone is thirsty, let him come to me and drink. Whoever believes in me, as the scripture has said, streams of living water will flow from within him….."Jesus in John 7

If you don't know Jesus Christ then let it be known that He knows you and is calling you, summoning you to come home. Come home to God. He is creator and redeemer! Take a deep read of the Gospel of John. Experience God speak, act, give and grip you.

This now ends the second section. It has been written to give a foundation for what you are about to read. There is a reason for the feeling of angst in the air. That sense of chaos millions feel is real. It's coming…the satanic black awakening that is. The next session will go over the creation and plot for the use of hundreds of thousands of those who consider themselves the 'Chosen Ones'. They are here, the ones who are trying to get free and the many that are still controlled, prepared and just waiting for the call.

"Then another horse came out, a fiery red one. Its rider was given power to take peace from the earth and to make men slay each other. To him was given a large sword" Unknown to them, at the very same time, hundreds of other parents across the nation were faced with the same terrible loss……As he follows a confusing trail of evidence from the past to the present, he realizes that he has stumbled upon a conspiracy so vast, so terrifying, that it threatens not only America's security, but the future of the entire world." They began showing up in the psych wards in the late seventies and now by 2009 there are millions of cases. Where did they come from? Is it real and if so, who is behind this massive multinational crime of the century? We gave more detail on this in the chapter on mind control and psychology. As we have said already victims of SRA-DID were not showing up in the 50's and 60's. The 50's and the 60's are when the covens and secret military labs were making them. Victims were just children in the 50's; it would be 25 years later when some would begin to seek help. If all of this abuse begins when they were babies and if there are 100,000 victims showing up in the late 80's you know what that means, right? Those who were and are the perpetrators began a project so vast that it included hundreds of thousands of babies/children in the 1950's.

Most victims that are out today and speaking are in their 40's and 50's and all of them track the beginning of their abuse back to early childhood. All of this victimization began at the end of the 40's and continued into the 50's and 60's. And O, yes, it is still going on now! From birth to those in their fifties there are millions of victims, some have gotten out others are just in the first steps of this process.

Where are all the children?

More victims of this technology from hell began to show up in their late 30's and 40's. They began to show up in the help centers and psych wards. They began hearing voices in their heads and noticed they were losing time. They could be in one place doing something and then hours later find themselves in another location with different clothes on and doing something else. They began remembering pieces of their past. Panic and overwhelming emotions of fear would rise as the terror filled memories began to surface. They had dreams of blood and sexual abuse; they began to realize that so much of their life is a blank.

Some freak out and take drugs or consume alcohol, others go deeply passive because they don't want to find out that what they fear is real. Reality is too fearful and painful at first but the memories and little sub personalities keep coming up screaming for healing air.

The skeptics can't stop them, not even their handlers or enforcers can stop them. Some want help and freedom so much they will risk it all to get out. The greatest fear is two-fold; the punishment from the bad guys and whether or not anyone will believe what they tell them is true. They want someone to rescue them; they look for heroes but seldom find even one. They struggle, watch and listen as psychologists and other professionals "do their stuff". They can tell if the person believes them, they can even tell if the person can help or not. Sometimes it's just the fact that someone will love them and hug them. They know some are safe and won't drag them off to a late night ritual where they are used, abused and see hell in action. They just want it all to stop….or die. Hell's breath does have that affect on you.

These, my dear readers, are the products of hell's kitchen. The radical evil that conceived and hatched this plan is bad enough. The radical evil that has performed the rituals, splitting, programming and the rest is simply hell in action. This icy cold as hell continues even as your eyes hit the pages of this book. This living evil has a relentless passion and mission.

It's not Uncle Sam, it's the devil himself and this old fallen cherub wants a lethal cold as hell army…to do his ultimate bidding. He and his are doing everything to get it done too. I hope you understand, this is not just a book for a shelf, not a curl up in the covers by the fire with some French roast coffee story that can be just shelved. It's a plea from a late night servant of God for a listening ear, a discerning spirit and emotional state that can become outraged. I pray for tears, fearless outrage and action. I pray that many will swarm the throne of grace and calling on Heaven's fire open their hearts and say:

"Here am I. Send me!" ”

Isaiah 6:8

You can take the time to research the stats on all the facts and figures. I will give few since they have been hashed and rehashed by a number of other good books. And I don't care about skeptics, they can't help anyone anyway. I care about the victims and how to get them safe, healed and in the arms of God. I care about warning the Church, people, nations and leaders. I care about nailing the sons of hell who have joined radical evil's work in these last days.

We must realize that thousands of victims of SRA/MPD want out and seek help. One victim is enough; the multiple abuses are more than anyone can know. If you could see the fear in the eyes of a five year old girl, the hopelessness as her own family keeps her glued to the abuse. The despair of calling on someone to help for years and no one came. If one victim is not enough: How about two? If two is not enough, then how about three hundred or 300,000. When is enough…enough?

One victim writes me as another screams:

"Help me, please help me"!

THE TIMID FEDS WIFE

Never would I imagine the danger and battles my family, friends, and Church would go through all because I agreed to meet a very broken and sad victim. I was called to come to a meeting at a restaurant where I met Mary (not her real name) for the first time. Mary was about 105 lbs, petite and very passive. She had blond hair with blue like eyes but it was hard to tell because of what else was there. She was hunched over and dejected as she began to quietly tell me here story. The friend who introduced us was an SRA/DID gaining freedom from an eastern state. Mary told me stories of abuse, rituals and control by 'them'. I asked many questions and she answered all of them without switching to any other sub personality. We set a time to meet again and begin working on her case.

Mary said the satanic type coven called 'circle of dominion' was abusing her and controlling her life. She had scars physically, mentally, emotionally and spiritually. After seeking all the information I could, I set a meeting with her at my 'safe house' where I lived. Mary was sitting in the side room where a few of us were beginning to pray for her and help plan her total freedom.

My daughter, 2 at the time was being watched in another part of the house by a friend. My wife came home from work and looked into the room where I was. I introduced Mary to her and immediately my wife asked me where our daughter was. She called me to the other room to tell me something very urgent. My wife who has very good discernment told me of a dream she had about a petite blond haired women in a police uniform who sought to steal our daughter and use her in a satanic ritual. Well, a new gaze was in my eye and questioning process from that time on.

I went back to the room and began to ask Mary about the coven and how they abduct her. She told me about the mind control and her sub personalities. She also told me how her federal officer husband set up some detectives to watch her and investigate what was happening to her. She told us of the next ritual date and showed me some items with occult writing or language on them. She said they were coming for her the next Friday. She said they call her sometimes and just say weird things and then she switches and goes. Mary would then lose time or even the whole night and usually wouldn't remember a thing except that she was used and abused.

I asked her about her family line which was German and she said her grandmother was still there. I would later find out she had a sub personality who spoke fluent German. I asked her if the police were of help to her and if they investigating the rapes. She then told me of their inability to catch anyone and that they wouldn't because of the secrecy of the coven and the powers they had. She then looked at me and told me more about her family, her federal officer husband and how she used to be a uniformed police officer.

Yes, a uniformed police officer. From that point on helpers and others were told to keep their eyes on this chosen one. Mary had several inside sub personalities, many of which were coming up to talk to us. At this point workers and I were led into hundreds of hours of surveillance, counseling, protecting and seeking to hunt down the coven.

I began to get calls coming into my home and office warning us to stay away from Mary. They would say, "Mary's power and blood belong to the circle of dominion". It seemed like every time we planned to set up the coven or hide Mary out to protect her, the coven would know. We were taken out many times to places, grave yards, lakesides, the woods etc by the talking sub personalities so they could show us the ritual sites and try to catch the satanists.

We were beginning to see that Mary had sub personalities who were helping the coven and keeping us off track. We began to engage the coven loyal parts and powerful demonic spirits that were on them. It was then that we realized we were the ones who were being set up; we were being targeted by coven members who knew more about us than we did about them. Mary wasn't half out of the coven she was 90% in. Curses, spells and demons summoned were sent against us. People began to show up at our homes and seemed to be watching us. One night a van we identified in Cleveland, Ohio as used by this coven group was sitting across the street from my home….my safe house.

They didn't just find my home. The coven loyal personalities who stayed hidden and quiet at first informed them from the beginning; from the very first meeting at that restaurant. They were co-conscious and watching us. They were getting every ounce of information and passing it along. The sub personalities were taking the physical Mary out to the meetings; they were using the items they stole from my home to use in the rituals against us.

One of those rituals was a death ritual. They were mad because we had found one of their meeting places; an apartment of a satanic priestess. They were mad because we were able to keep Mary safe at hidden places. They were mad because we no longer talked about the what, where or how we were doing things. Even the coven loyal personalities were mad and they would switch (come up) and fight with staff members. Many times they would throw off a helper and run and no one could ever catch or find Mary (or the part running) until hours or days later.

The morning came when I was to preach at the local church but I was sick or something. I was shaking on the inside, it was like an internal flu but different. I had my wife take me to church anyway and I sat on a stool at the pulpit where I was to preach because I was too weak to stand. When I finished preaching a women came up to me from the congregation to 'wipe of that red mark' that was on my forehead. Another came up to ask me what it was that I had on my forehead; she thought it was a little red sticker.

Someone brought Mary to the front. She said the red mark looked like an inverted pentagram. Then Mary confessed that the coven had a picture of me and had used it in a blood death ritual. This picture of me was taken from my home by one of her coven loyal personalities. The group of friends prayed for me and my wife drove me home. I didn't eat and had to lie down. I fell asleep and didn't wake up until Monday morning.

Monday morning my wife and I were talking and I finally told her since this 'sickness' wasn't physical and I was going upstairs to pray it off. I was up there praying for a few minutes when I heard a car with a loud muffler pull up to our house. I got up to look, they didn't see me but I saw them from the upstairs window. It was the priestess and a car load of coven members. I put up another prayer, felt my strength return and then I felt Gods presence all over. The power of God seemed to surge in me and I flew down the stairs grabbed my keys and went bursting out the door. That car packed with the coven members saw me coming and peeled out. I don't know why but I was so filled with strength and health at the moment I got into my car and chased them…everywhere!

I finally cornered them in a bank parking lot and got out pointing at them. I was letting them know I was fine and that they were not. Knowing they carried guns I got back in my car backed up and let them out as we exchanged long hard stares.

After many failed attempts to find the coven, keep Mary completely safe and see her yield to God for total healing I began wondering if she was ever going to break free. We were seeking God for wisdom and reading everything we could get our hands on to deal with this complexity of evil and victimization.

We set up surveillance many times now and each time we would find out that it wasn't so much the coven that was at work but the inner coven loyal personalities. We would catch coven loyal personalities again and again as they sought to set us up and bring us harm. We would record, follow and observe over and over again. The coven loyal personalities who were usually demonized as well hated it when we caught them and would get so angry.

We got another call. Mary had been 'taken' again, or at least that was the set up. We went up to the home of this victim and her federal officer husband. She was found by a staff member and now home but calls were coming into the house with 'trigger' phrases seeking to get sub personalities to come up and run out. We just kept her there. People in the house had weapons and were watching the streets. It was then Mary asked me to come into the other room; she had something she needed to tell me. Once in the next room, I turned around to face her and when I did she switched. It was no longer Mary…it was Iris. Iris was cold, calculating and demonized. She stared into my eyes as if she sought to distract me. She kept coming closer and kept asking me to put my arms down that were crossed over my chest. Then it happened.

It was so fast, so unexpected! The Spirit of God spoke to me instantly, "She is going to stab you". At that same moment Mary/Iris pulled a long thick needle out of the sash around her waist. She plunged it toward me but I was able to deflect it and grab her. I saw the glazed over blackened eyes of Iris with all that pure hate. She fought back to try again and I threw her onto the couch. The noise of this drew her husband and staff into the room. She darted out into the kitchen where she tried to put the needle into the garbage disposal. She (Iris) fought with all of us as she was taken to the floor. I began praying and there with a screaming struggle the demonic was broken, Iris went down and Mary resurfaced. The husband sat on the floor and began to cry. This was all so bizarre and he could not come to grips with it.

Mary with many deeply committed coven loyal personalities is still out there, as are thousands of others just like her. She was a victim who became a perpetrator. She is a victim but is still operating as a satanic chosen one. She is not healed and I am not sure to this day who the main part of her is or if she will ever get out. I do know that what's in her is lethal and active. What is in her can and does conjure power demons, cast spells (satanic warfare), shed blood and know they are a part of a dark agenda.

It was this woman who went to Germany with her 13 year old daughter (to our dismay) and came back with a picture to give me. It was a grainy black and white print of a fully dressed Nazi officer in his SS uniform; he had a grim thin smile. On the back was the name Otto Kritz, below the name was the phrase 'THE BLACK FLAME'. Mary, I still pray for you. I also pray against the darkness within and hate what radical evil has done to you.

WHAT YOU DO KNOW… CAN MOVE YOU

I know that the above story is a big one, not all the cases are like this but there are thousands out there just like Mary. There are thousands also who just want out and do respond to help and the power of God. Right now what you are doing is of vast importance, you are reading. Seek confirmations of the things I share in this book if you want, that's ok. I am confident there is and will be many more 'facts' before the day this massive chaos actually comes. I don't need any more proof. I have been in this box of bolts long enough to know the nuts of radical evil and its agenda. Open your heart to God, offer yourself to be used and you will get all of the real life proof you need. Just helping one multiple will stretch your eyelids, tug your heart and test your resolve. You will either grow or shrink back and hide out in other activities.

In the end, you may just close this book and set it aside but hell will rise and what could and should be done will sit in shamed silence. There is however a help that can conquer kingdoms, administer justice and help those in need (See Hebrews 11).

"[22]Yet Saul grew more and more powerful…" Acts 9:22

KNOW THAT MANY HAVE SOUGHT HELP

Right now there are thousands of cases of SRA/MPD/DID in psych wards and counseling centers all over the US; hundreds of thousands more in Canada, the UK and Europe. In a 1994 conference we held in Akron, Ohio I gave statistics of 4 million cases of SRA-DID with maybe another 4 million who have never been in a psych ward. In our city every psych ward has these victims. Some say there are millions of diagnosed cases and millions more who are out there intact (they don't know yet they are controlled). A very well known psychiatrist in this field named Colin Ross in his book 'PROJECT BLUE BIRD' The Purposeful Creation of Multiple Personality Disorder (the original title) suggests there could be up to ten million cases of MPD/DID. Our estimations were at 4 million in the mid nineties and if the statistics of cases of SRA/MPD/DID who have not sought help and were not counted in the process of diagnosis then there could be another 4-5 million cases.

There are far more victims than anyone has imagined. Many are out there looking for someone or some group that will understand them, believe them and help them. The big concern now is the next two generations of victims. Victims who are in their 50's have children who are in their late 30's that are SRA/MPD and those 30 year olds have 12 year old children who are showing the signs of dissociation, sub personalities and sexual abuse. And don't forget, this terrible process almost always begins in infancy.

KNOW THAT MANY NEED DEEPER WORK

Many who have been to the psych wards and some counseling centers and churches have sought help. They sometimes go from place to place to get the answers they need. If they have some counseling and are given drugs to help them cope they may be able to function for a while but what's in them will seek so much more than that. If we are talking about satanic ritual abuse, sub personalities, programming, triggers and demons then a few words in 50 minutes and some drugs will not do.

Then there is the coven and the handlers and the ties to dark spirits who feel they have rights. They all want their victim (slaves) silenced and back in the group. Victims will get calls, visits and at times are taken back by the occult. They are harassed by demonic spirits who have been placed in them to keep them tied to the coven. When victims get taken back to be with the perpetrators they may get reprogrammed, have new sub personalities placed and punished for ever telling. The deeper work I talk of means covering all of the bases so the victim can get all the healing and freedom they deserve.

Can helpers, psychologists and Pastors

- Talk to sub personalities and help them heal?
- Help the main or presenting person cope and give them hope?
- Command demonic presence off and out of them?

- Protect them from being taken back to the coven or group?
- Stop them from being triggered and sub personalities running?
- Help with housing, food and finances?
- Help with their relationships with family, especially if that family is part of the cult?
- Help break programming, lies and the false patterns they have grown up with while in the cult?

Now, that's a starting list of the main things that have to be done. You will have to be willing to give time, resources and effort to help these victims. In our online basic training course called 'Freedom Encounters' there are over 24 hours of this basic training and we include insight on those eight issues above.

KNOW THAT MANY ARE WAITING TO BE FOUND

A sub personality came up in a 40 year old women, he was a little boy who clinched his fists and said that if he was as big as me he would have beat up all the coven bad people. I have never forgotten that little face and little voice or his cry. So many times while working with victims I have heard them or the sub personalities say; "I wish someone would have come and taken me away from all of that". They wished for a friend or helper who wasn't a coven member. Some are out there sitting in a cage others are locked in and watched over wherever they go. Most are being abused as I write and as you read.

When we got a young man back from an extremely rogue satanic perpetrator who had kidnapped him we were told of how quick this evil man formed personalities in the boy and of the violent sexual abuse that occurred for days. After taking this boy to my home to be guarded and helped I was awakened out of my sleep by him shouting at demons in his room and talking in a weird language. He was remembering all of the ritual stuff that he was put though and was even able to recite Latin backwards.

While his dad cried for us to find this boy and while we were praying, driving and hunting down where the scum bags took him, the boy was being abused. After calling the Feds and local police we tracked down the perpetrator's wife and laid it on her in no uncertain terms. We got a call and the boy was dropped off at a local restaurant where we picked him up. All of the worst damage to this boy occurred while he was waiting for someone to find him. Many victims however know that there is no one searching for them. I will list some things to do to find the victims later in this book.

KNOW MANY ARE INTACT AND BLIND

Thousands of victims who are made to be chosen ones are living life in a box. They are working, eating, sleeping and watching TV. They go to churches, play sports and drive their cars. They also loose time and don't know it, have sub personalities take over at ritual dates and do things they would never do in their main mind (personality). These intact victims are totally controlled by the programming, inside cult loyal personalities and their handlers. They may miss a few hours in a day or even a few days and not know what really happened. They are amnesic to all that is going on.

Please realize the power of dark spirits in this matter. Satan is the father of mind control and is the inspiring force of all forms of mind/soul control including the technology that's being used. Most have no idea that this is where the supernatural powers are at work the most. They seek to hide the crimes, covens, leaders, programs and victim/slaves. Only the authority of Jesus Christ exorcized over the victim will break and send out these dark spirits and help bring freedom to their mind and the minds of the sub-personalities.

Remember:

"The god of this age (time period) has blinded the minds……so they cannot see….."2 Corinthians 4

Also notice "…the secret power …is already at work…" 2 Thessalonians 2

The point being is that supernatural dark power is able and is used in this whole agenda. The goal is to keep things secret and keep outsiders from finding out. God alone can break a 'supernatural hole into the substructure of radical evil'. The revelation found in Ezekiel 8 will show you God's power and will in the mist of hidden (supernaturally secretive) satanic activities. It takes a superior power to crack into and deal with the source of this radical work and of the transmutation of human beings. If you are willing God may call on you too. You can say… "Here am I Lord, send me".

KNOW THAT MANY MORE KIDS ARE ON THE ALTARS

This is a motivating factor in my life; kids are on the altar of sacrifice and are going through what thousands of current victims did in the '50's. They are sexually abused, tortured, broken and pacified. They are forced to participate in satanic rituals and learn the ways of that underworld.

They are pushed into splitting and the new 'raw' personality may be formed and programmed to commit sex acts with adults or worse. They will sit motionless as they wait their turn…to be used by perverts and the demons.

How anyone can sit back and think of a little 6 year old girl lying on a slab being raped by demented adults is beyond me. This is what was done to Mary long ago and long enough to create so many personalities and place so many demons in her. What was done to her from infancy has left the majority of her controlled by this evil. The victim left to them and without help becomes the perpetrator! So please dear friend never forget that earlier quote:

"Because the consequences are so terrifying"

CHAPTER 16
WHAT ARE MPD/DID/SRA AND CHOSEN ONES?

"Probably nothing stirs our emotions more than the subject of child abuser, and the investigation of such has polarized families as well as entire communities." p 65 THE DEVILS WEB

"Sometimes I was first taken to a local cult meeting. After the horrific ritual, other parts were triggered out to be transported. Most of my op-trained parts were more than willing to go on far-away assignments. It is what they existed for." p 5 UNSHACKLED: A survivor's story of mind control

"His obsession was to turn ordinary human beings into robotic figures whose value systems could be so altered that they would even kill on command-and then be programmed to forget who had given the order" P 26…"…he was becoming more convinced of Dr. Gottlieb's obsession with brainwashing than that of the MK-ULTRA chance of success." p 121 'SECRETS & LIES' a history of CIA mind control & germ warfare

"SS men were held together by the idea that they were a sworn brotherhood of the elect" p 151 'THE NAZIS AND THE OCCULT'

Whatever you believe about them or know about them the fact is this; they are here and they are here by the millions! I am not talking about illegal aliens; I am talking about chosen ones, those who have been purposely created and placed among us. They are not just multiples who have had some childhood trauma-though that's bad enough! They may blend in with the masses and look harmless as a dove but if they are an SS chosen one…they are a warrior who has been through and can unleash hell. I will focus on the creation of chosen ones in this minefield of sub personalities, soul control and satanic ritual abuse.

In this chapter we will look at the terms given to me over the years. As we have already mentioned in chapters 12 - 15 the victims of satanic ritual abuse with multiple personality disorder began showing up in the '70's with thousands in the '80's and hundreds of thousands in the '90's. The early terms and the diagnostic manuals were being rewritten for psychology/psychiatry. The secular side of professional counseling sought to define, categorize and begin treatment models. I don't like the secular terms used because of the term 'disorder' since 95% of all SRA/MPD/DID was purposely created. It is a 'transmutation' not a disorder. It was not a malfunction as if these individuals just went crazy. It was done by design and it had in its purpose to alter the soul/mind and will of a person…thus it is a 'transmutation'! They have mutated the original personality and function of the human person and this is a colossal violation!

There is a technology behind this phenomenon and it comes from very dark blueprints. It's more than manmade and has behind it deep supernatural roots but these roots did not come from the heavenlies. I don't think you can understand, define or treat these victims (chosen ones) without recognizing and engaging the dark side of spirituality. Counselors, helpers and investigators… all roads of this field lead to hell's kitchen and you must know the whole story if you are going to help. All readers who want to rush in to help and fight this evil more effectively must get prepared for a supernatural and fierce fight.

If you are one of them (SRA-DID-CHOSEN ONE) or a helper I am sure you can confirm and add so much more to what I am writing. If you are from Europe the titles may be different and it may be that each term is a 'rank' in the system of this dark brotherhood and underground system. If you are someone who is just beginning to realize that you're missing time or have voices in your head you may want to have your counselor, friend or helper watch over you as you study this section. If you are a perpetrator from the coven or rogue military I am sure you are looking for how much we know. Remember to read chapter 50 well. I hope you know the cost of your crimes and I hope you know the old sermon by the great preacher Dr. R. G. Lee…

‘Pay day, some day’.

SOME OF THE TERMS

- SRA: ‘Satanic ritual abuse’ is the main catch phrase which would include many episodes of physical, mental, emotional and spiritual abuse. It would involve sex and death rituals with sacrificing and the shedding of blood. Hundreds of thousands of victims report this aspect of their childhood abuse. They tell of people in black robes, candles and squealing animals. Here is where you have to have the stomach and discernment to listen. Sacrificed babies and eating flesh is not the kind of talk you hear at the daily water cooler. It’s about crime, blood, guts and satanic secrets.
- MPD: Term used in the DSM III- Multiple Personality Disorder. Referring to the existence of one or more distinct alter persons from trauma based abused.
- DID: The newer term used by the American Psychological Association is Dissociative Identity Disorder. The meaning is basically the same as MPD, but focuses on the ‘identity’ issue as a disorder and not the focus of distinct sub persons within. Neither term for me is adequate.
- ALTERS: This refers to separate distinct personalities inside the body of one person. Another personality and or many alter personalities exiting within the same body…thus an alter personality. Not a thing or state of mind but a real separate personality with all the feelings, memories and history as any other single or regular person. I will deal with the difference between a demon spirit and an alter personality later in the book.
- PARTS: Some use this term a lot to refer to the other personalities that are within. Many victims may say my “parts” tell me or “a part came up”. A part is an individual personality inside the body. This one is a ‘part’ of the many or system of personalities within.
- MULTIPLE: This is the term I hear the most and refers to a person who has many other personalities within. I will use this term when referring to a person who has DID (Dissociative Identity Disorder) SRA (Satanic Ritual Abuse) but has not been clearly revealed as a chosen one.
- HOME CREATED: Sub personalities who were created by the person themselves in order to bear the pain and stay alive. When the personality can't take any more pain it can 'split' and make another. This happens when they are just trying to survive and split under the massive trauma. There are many home created personalities in all multiples. Those who force the creation of sub personalities don't like the home created parts and will seek to manage them. Many times it's the home created parts seeking help and don't/ won't be a part of the evil scheme that is being forced on them.

- COVEN/MILITARY CREATED: These are the sub personalities who were forcefully and purposely created by satanic coven military workers seeking to create a 'mind controlled slave'. They seek to create a useful enhanced human with many abilities. They want a servant and they want a system of inside created sub personalities meant to serve satan and his cause.
- SUB PERSONALITY: I use this term in most of the book. The personalities that were split off and created were made to exist as a 'sub' secondary and hidden personality. There are many sub personalities within multiples and chosen ones. They are still distinct and separate with their own ages, names, histories etc.
- BWB or Babylon Working Baby: This term has been used by some and should not be confused with programming. This term was used by a chosen one who referred to themselves as 'created or raised up to help usher in and unleash the powers of the coming Babylon'. This spiritual system is mentioned in Revelation chapter 18 of the Bible. It is pictured as being packed with demonic presence. It's the revelation or the biblical picture of the rise of globalism's satanic order. It may also be used to refer to part of a chosen one's nature…..demonic and human combined.
- CHOSEN ONES: A chosen one will have all of the above and so much more in them. This is the term that a number of victims of DID/SRA have used or told me about. Chosen ones are those who have many parts who are satanic, use other languages, do rituals etc. They are 'chosen ones' because they have been chosen to be one of satan's special servants and soldiers; Chosen to serve satan and the luciferians cause. Every chosen one knows they were created to serve the coming antichrist. Many chosen ones will be fierce fighters who are loyal to that dark cause and know about the coming Black Awakening (even by other terminology). I'll talk more on chosen ones below but first the story of a super warrior.

THE SUPER WARRIOR

I first met this person when a police officer I knew brought them in from another state. She was very interesting, aware and confident. After a couple of hours it was time to go and I felt tired and strained. The other workers who were there had headaches, were sleepy and done for the night. None of us knew that this person was "carrying" but it wasn't just a nine millimeter. I could see, feel and sense the dark powers on this one like none before. Since she didn't seek anyone's harm we just talked, or so I thought. Later I would realized that even if the upfront person is calm and non threatening there could be ten other sub personalities who were releasing demonic powers against us in a form of covert spiritual warfare most Christians have never heard of.

Her 'PSI' abilities or extra sensory perceptions were highly enhanced but not just human conditioning. In this chosen one there were claims of telekinesis, clairvoyance and remote viewing. This one also knew how to conjure and send demonic spirits.

POINTS

Here is some of what chosen ones have within them;

- FIGHTERS: They have fighting military trained personalities within. They will also have (black ops) military handlers. They came out of the projects like Monarch or MK Ultra and many other unnamed projects. They have knowledge of military workers, bases, places etc. They have personalities who can handle weapons, fight and can be a soldier.
- SPY: They have highly trained covert sub personalities. They know how to spy, do reconnaissance, infiltrate, plant disinformation and more.
- ESP: They have what they term 'psi' powers or enhanced abilities. Some can remote view and will claim ESP - Extra Sensory Perception. If you work with them you may see this operating in them.

- LUCIFERIAN: They have sub personalities who are satanic and serve satan. They have satanic priestess's, ritual workers and those who can summon demonic spirits. They also know how to do satanic spiritual warfare.
- MULITLINGUAL: They speak different languages and all seem to speak Germany well.
- MULTIPLE: They have many sub personalities to count on in doing their work.
- CONJURE: They can summon demonic powers, receive them and even send them.

There are many more aspects to a chosen one which I will spell out in later chapters.

FINALLY

There are many victims of abuse who are not 'chosen ones', they are damaged and in need of healing. It is only those who are purposely created by those who know the dark technology who would have PSI powers and demonic enablement. Chosen ones are here by the hundreds of thousands some say by the millions. They are here for a reason, they know it and so do those who forged them. It is almost unbelievable but then again the 'secret power' that's behind them want it to be that way…for now.

HOW ARE THEY MADE?

She told me that the freshly split personality offered up the new presence of 'raw' personality. 'Raw personality: Is that what they call it? Wow, I thought! Slice a person's personality by massive trauma with the goal of making sub personalities within, program them with someone else's agenda, train them to do evil, continue controlling them and using them for horrific acts and they just call it new 'raw' personality?

She also told me that the high priest of the coven said he would like to get me and "split my Christian core" and see what they could do with me. The problem is then it wouldn't be me anymore doing it, it would be whoever imposed their will (programming) that is culpable.

It is always amazing to me that some of them can talk about the destruction of another person and be able to look past the torture, pain and tears only to arrive at their objective. I guess they are much like the Nazi doctors who experimented on other human beings without batting an eye. Is it just the ability to 'double' (act in two separate and distinct ways for different purposes) or is there glee in the success of radical evil? A book that a chosen one pulled from the bookstore shelf for me to purchase was Robert J. Lifton's 'THE NAZI DOCTORS'. In it he defines the concept of doubling this way on p 421:

"the way in which doubling allowed Nazi doctors to avoid guilt was not by the elimination of conscience but by what can be called the transfer of conscience"……."thereby freeing the original self from responsibility for actions"

This may just be the sin code in man (see Romans 8) exercising its ability to justify the self and override the real moral guilt that is there. The elite who have begun this must have no conscience left or a conscience that is so blackened by dark powers that they couldn't see a bloody hand waving right in front of their faces.

"…hypocritical liars, whose consciences have been seared as with a hot iron" 1 Timothy 4

"The god of this age has blinded the (their) minds….."2 Corinthians 4

Let me tell you in this chapter that the creation of multiple personalities inside a person and the creation of chosen ones must be a massive violation in the sight of God. It is the rape of a person in every possible way; it is the imposition of someone else's will in the whole and in all the parts of the victim. The victim is totally taken over and cannot choose for him/her self. If forcing a will and an agenda into another person (and in all the sub personalities) is not bad enough it's how it is done that evidences the vile evil of this technology. There is a pay day someday and it means that they will pay and this and all evil will end.

A child cannot fight off an imposing adult; they can't stop what is being done to them. They are drugged, traumatized, pressured and forced to split or die. The process of 'trauma based dissociation' (rape-physical-mental abuse) and the splitting of a child so that it can survive are well known in the American Psychological Association and its diagnostic manuals DSM III & IV. It is, using Colin Ross's phrase, "the purposeful creation of multiple personalities" that has to be looked at.

In this chapter I will give the basics of the process that many chosen ones have revealed to me. Thousands of multiples have shared with their counselors these points, though packed with fear, pain and trauma. They are the brave ones on their way to freedom and victory. The day sub personalities begin to remember the day they were created (split off) is when they can also remember what came just before…the trauma of hell's technology.

SELECTION

Remember the secret project Hitler had during the rise of the Nazi regime. It was called Lebensborn (source of life), a project that sought the special creation of future Nazi soldiers, a master race. It was based on an occult understanding of old bloodlines. They believed that the Aryan blood and genetics carried superior qualities, even supernatural powers (godlike-demonic powers). So they thought they could breed pure Aryan born children which they could raise as a master race of enforcers who could be the troops of the 1,000 year long 3rd Reich of the Nazi reign.

So they made many Germans who could prove their Aryan bloodline mate and begin breeding this new future warrior class. Some say that 400,000 to 800,000 genetically bred Aryan babies (god men) were born by the end of World War II. These babies and their parents were selected in a process of making ‘designer’ children who could be their future soldiers. Most of these children created under the Nazi regime are in their late 60’s today. This is the mentality behind the creation of current chosen ones and I personally believe it is the continuation of that very ‘luciferian’ dream… of super soldiers.

Even now victims of SRA will tell you about the selection of parents and their bloodlines. The purpose would be to obtain more of the ‘genetics’ that carry supernatural power in the ‘DNA’ of the new super child. These powers in the blood of parents who are selected are thought to contain bits of the ‘genetics of the nephilim’. O yes, the coven and military sub personalities will tell you this plainly. They believe that they are bred with the genetics that contain powers and that these powers they say go back to the nephilim (the demon human hybrids). Many sub personalities based on this will feel very superior to regular human beings.

The parents of chosen ones are said to have demonic powers, familiar spirits or generational demonic power and seek to pass the powers into the new child. They want to have a ‘demonically’ (god like) empowered conception so they can create a supernaturally empowered fetus. The more demonic power handed down and or demonized genetics passed on the more powerful the new child will be. They will have more abilities and disposition to receive even more dark powers as they grow in the process. If you ask chosen ones and their sub personalities about their parents and the process they will tell you about a long line of demonic power that has been handed down.

MILITARY

The original reason for these super soldiers was for military application. Every chosen one I have worked with knows of the military background in their development. Many will talk about the bases they were on and the military doctors and scientists that were involved. Anyone following the US secret projects like Monarch and MK Ultra that the CIA and the DOD have developed will have some insight into the verification of the testimony of victims.

Back in Chapter 13 on the military and this creation of SRA/MPD/DID you have seen a tip of the iceberg of secret projects, mind control and the goal of creating super soldiers. I am not sure that many of the old leaders of these projects understood the 'satanic shadow' that guided them. The ultimate reason for the creation of super humans with 'godlike' abilities is their future use as super soldiers in the massive chaos and final war against Christ (See Revelation 19:19). Many sub personalities who have been trained for military fighting abilities will testify to their ultimate reason for being….to be the troops of the coming antichrist and a new world order.

COVEN

All SRA multiples have memories and sub personalities that can tell you about rituals, sacrifices and the shedding of blood. As you go deeper into the multiple there are sub personalities who know how to speak and write in old ritual languages, draw the symbols for rituals and even conjure the power demons. They have hundreds of stories of meetings, rituals and the inner workings of the coven. You may even get to sub personalities who know the names, locations and secrets of the coven.

Most chosen ones have told me that there is an inseparable connection of the coven to the rogue military projects and vice versa. There may be men in military uniforms at the ritual or a known satanic priest in a military psi ops unit is fact.

Col. Michel Aquino founder of the satanic temple of Set with his massive knowledge of dark occult powers, mind control techniques and advanced military weaponry confirms this belief. It is this US military person and others who held a ritual in the Nazi fashioned-Himmler's castle where the 'hall of the dead' is located. Jack Parsons the US military rocket scientist, his deep involvement in satanic ritual and the conjuring of dark powers is well known also. Then there is the new exposure of dark occultism in NASA by Richard Hoagland in his book 'DARK MISSION' which is very revealing and ties together dark powers, occult symbolism, US military and US space science operation in one knot.

Since there are hundreds of thousands of victims of satanic ritual abuse and all of them tell of hidden/secretive satanic covens then the conclusions are massive. There must be thousands of covens in the US, UK, Canada and Europe. Father Jeffery Steffon in his book 'IS SATANISM REAL?' estimates that there may be 100,000 covens in the US. One thing is for sure, we have run into them and there are many but they are nothing new. This ancient presence was sought, showed itself and people have practiced the rituals for millennia. Study Ezekiel chapter 8 and see that they were here in the past, hidden and it took an act of God to reveal and deal with them. I personally believe it is the same today; covens are everywhere and operating rituals weekly, advancing the sequence of satanic evolution (agenda) and filling society with dark powers. Even Biblical prophecy shows this development (See Matthew 24; 2Thessalonians 2; 1John 2; Revelation 12-13 and 16)

The covens are supernaturally hidden and until the Black Awakening and appearance of antichrist occurs they are meant or forced (and maybe under sovereign restraint- 2- Thessalonians 2) to stay underground. Secrecy is the satanic law for now, secrecy is supernaturally and physically guarded.

"But you can be very sure of this, the burst of the black awakening and appearance of the antichrist will cause the sewers of hell to erupt and pour forth its hidden waste. The world will be affected by its stench and more"
RD

Do a little study of the four horsemen in the book of Revelation, notice how they 'burst' out and rush on the carpet of human history with all the fury of satanic power and will. Notice also (especially the fiery red horse. What it will bring is more than hell on wheels. If chosen ones feel their past was destroyed just wait until the last day of the last 7 years of human history as we know it. The world will not know what hit it. Talk about shock and awe! Unprecedented deception and destruction is the destiny of those who serve this satanic evolution. There is another way you know and someone has already paved the way. There are those who have been baptized into the Kingdom of God by a blood that does not bring bondage but true eternal freedom. There is a Hero you know, the elect angels did sing of Him. God has visited; God has come for us all. I hope you have embraced this King.

“10But the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid. I bring you good news of great joy that will be for all the people. 11Today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you; he is Christ the Lord. 12This will be a sign to you: You will find a baby wrapped in cloths and lying in a manger."13Suddenly a great company of the heavenly host appeared with the angel, praising God and saying, 14"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men on whom his favor rests.”Luke 2

OVERVIEW OF THIS DEMONIC TECHNOLOGY

Here is a basic overview of how they have and are creating hundreds of thousands of multiples (SRA) and super warrior chosen ones. And let me say you should be outraged! Outrage must be more than words for the victims past, present and those who will be dragged into this in the near future. All chosen ones that I have met and worked with need very deep healing and help. For those in the process right now it is a seeming never ending nightmare.

What do they do to create chosen ones?

PREPARATION

The victims of satanic ritual abuse and the *chosen one*s were and are being prepared. Jesus said that the evil one comes in the night (secrecy) and creates tares (servants of satan). They have to be infused with satan’s will, power and agenda. Parents of future chosen ones are prepared by being demonized, selected and required to produce a child for this agenda. Many victims will talk about being made to mate with other coven members who are chosen so another chosen one can be born.

They are prepared by being birthed in and saturated with demonic powers. They have rituals done before conception, while the baby is in the womb and right after they are born to insure demonic presence is in and on them. They have already created forced dissociation which is forced passivity.

Passivity is needed in the placement and transference of demonic spirits. Check out Jessie Penn Lewis's book, 'WAR ON THE SAINTS', a vital and classic work on spiritual warfare and the dangers of 'passivity of will'! In the book Lewis claims passivity of will may be an open door for dark spirits to begin to work. When I was being trained in golden Buddha meditation I was told by the master at the temple to go 'passive' to allow whatever and whoever to begin their influence on me and never resist the spiritual masters. Of course this is a doorway for demons to come on and even in if you let them. The rule of the dark side is that if you yield to them or call they will come and move upon you.

Passivity of will and compliance is necessary in creating controlled chosen ones; it is needed so that the demonic can begin to operate. Most sub personalities I have worked with don't' believe they can even choose or decide anything. That's how far their will has been taken from them. The will of multiples has been hijacked and imposed upon. Their wills have been forced open to the dark side and its evil agenda. This forced passivity/dissociation in a baby and in a child will open them to the process of splitting their will and creating new sub personalities.

SPLITTING

This is an evil act! It begins with the victim dissociating, almost like they are submerging as they try to avoid the pain, fear and confusion. As the 'core' or main part of the personality submerges, it's as if it is stretched further and further until a break occurs. It's as if the core personality is pushed as far as it can go and then snaps or splits. The core person submerges out of sight and becomes unconscious. From this point the core person is absent, no interaction occurs with them and memory is no longer formed.

At the moment the core person snaps and submerges a new part of them surfaces, this is the new alter personality! This is what splitters and programmers may call new 'raw' personality. This new personality that surfaces is blank and nameless. This is what the splitter/programmer is looking for. This is the raw material they will begin to interact with and form. From this point bonding, programming, demonizing and the rest of the process of building a chosen one continues.

It is the continued process of push them until they split that occurs again and again until you have dozens of sub personalities who are being formed for use in the coven, military and as a future soldier. Splitting is necessary for the creation of new sub personalities and the creation of chosen ones. Splitting is the foundation of the rest of this work of transmuting the construct of the human person. Purposeful splitting my dear reader is a violation and rape of the unique personality of the original person.

BONDING

Once the split occurs and the new raw or blank personality is up the splitter/programmer will seek to bond with it. That is, they will begin to talk to the new personality and assure it that they and they alone are their creators and are the ones who care for them. The S/P will then name the personality, talk to it by that name and being telling it that they are very special and are part of a great mission. This is the very beginning of programming. It is the beginning of a life of lies and deception.

Bonding will create an emotional and mental bond between the splitter/programmer and the new personality. Think in terms of a baby that has just been born. You care for it, name it, hold it and build a natural bond of love from parent to child.

Bonding in this satanic since is a total perversion. It begins with the fact that the new personality does not know how they arrived, what the real nature of the splitter/programmer is and why they have been formed. They don't know what is good or bad yet, they don't know what is right or wrong yet. They are just there…being preyed upon by a perpetrator who will control them and create them to be hell on two feet!

In the beginning the new raw personality has no idea what is planned for them. From this beginning they are made to be passive and only do and be as told. When the new personality is formed, named and bonded and the first session is over they are basically put to sleep (put down or submerged) and the core person will eventually come back up. Please realize the core person doesn't know at this time what happened or that there is an 'alter' personality in them. They have formed no memory because they…were not there!

There are also bonding rituals…just ask the victims. They are put into a box with spiders and bugs or in a coffin and left for dead. Then the perpetrators come and 'save' them. Another method is done by pushing them under water until they pass out until the perpetrators pull them out to 'save' them. The worst one is where the coven members dress up like Jesus and hurt and terrorize the children and never help or comfort them. The kids are then told to call on satan, when a handsome looking satan shows up he frees them, feeds them and cares for them. The kids learn to bond to the perpetrators and satan, himself, with all the depth of their emotions.

PROGRAMMING

Programming is the imposition of another person's will into the mind and emotions of a passive (controlled) personality. Programming is the agenda or will of another being placed into the 'raw' new personality. This new personality does not develop like a new baby, it is force fed thoughts, ideas, agendas, and content. It's very much like hypnosis where the main person is out of the way and the subconscious (alter person) is told what it is and what to do. The hypnotist is very much like a programmer. The hypnotist can tell the 'unconscious' person to act and do what they want them to do and this unconscious part of them seems to believe and then do whatever the 'operator' hypnotist says.

Think of this…'you will only listen to my voice' you will not listen to another'. This is very much like the programmer as they are beginning the process of programming.

Programming is 'thought, content and agenda' placed into the mind, will and emotions of the new personality. So if a personality is a 'runner' it was programmed to run, if it is a 'sex' slave then it was programmed for sex, if it was created to be an assassin then it only knows how to kill etc. etc.

- Programming is a process that begins at splitting and almost never stops. They have to keep building what they want, testing it, add to it and adjust it along the way.

- Programming can have a focus or goal: Sex programming, warrior programming, satanic priestess programming, runner, informer etc. More on 'kinds' of sub personalities in the next chapter. There can be any kind of programming the perpetrator wants. In forming the new personality the programmer has already chosen what they will be, do, and think. They are building a 'servant'; they are building whatever they want in any new personality they formed. This is total mind, emotional and volitional control; it is the control of the 'soul' of a person. Thank God for the coming judgment on the perpetrators of this horrific crime!
- Programming can be very sophisticated and take years to build into the new sub personality. They can use words, words repeated, word and actions, words and agenda on a tape that is forced on the personality to listen to again and again. There is screen programming where the personality is forced to watch 'a movie' or see a scene/script over and over. They are made to repeat verbally and act out the programming.
- Programming is what each created sub personality is and does and is not and does not do. If one is created and programmed to be an assassin and the other a sex slave then that is what they each do and don't do. One sub personality's job is not the job of others. Each has a job and or specialty so that a chosen one can have 50 sub personalities each with a different job or ability to be used when needed or called on.

There are all kinds and or names of programming. I will not go into all that here. The issue is 'what is the programming' that is in a sub personality. Whatever sub personality you meet, what they are, do and say is what they have been programmed to be. At least until the programming is broken and the mind and will are free to choose and grow themselves.

DEMONIZATION

If you are a Christian and know what it is the have the power of God in and on you then you can begin to understand the purpose of 'demonizing' the new programmed sub personality. Take a look at the book of Acts chapter 1 verse 8 where Jesus Christ promises the power of the Spirit of God to come on all believers in Christ (those who are saved). That Power is the Holy Spirit who comes in and on the Christian to help them to be a witness of Jesus Christ. The power has a purpose. This is true of biblical spiritual gifts. The Holy Spirit may give to a Christian the charismatic gift of 'teaching' or 'healing' or 'pastor' which enables/empowers them to be and do what that calling of God is. The fullness/power of the Holy Spirit enables Christians to do the mission of God and share Jesus (evangelism). The believer is already willfully (freely) yielded to God's purpose and will and thus is 'clothed' and filled with the power of the Spirit. The satanic chosen one (SRA/MPD) is not freely but forcefully yielded to the will and purpose of the programmer (the satanic agenda) and then empowered.

Therefore the sub personality that is now programmed to be, say and act according to all the programming (agenda) is then infused with 'power' to help them or make sure they do their assigned task. The demonic power in and on them may be called 'energy' or that they have been 'energized' to do their programmed task. A regular person who gets demonized and has a demon on or in them will act with supernatural ability.

As you look at Mark's gospel chapter 5 you will see the man had supernatural strength. Demons that are added onto or placed into a sub personality now empower that personality to do its chosen mission (programming). This programmed person is now 'charged' or energized. When you deal with an altar that comes up to do its job it can carry with it the manifestation of demonic power(s).

Let's look at a few more points in the demonization process:

- All chosen ones will have demons in them and…in or on many sub personalities. Remember they were conceived and born with demonic presence from the beginning. They may have generational-familiar (from family blood lines) and or coven demons. All seem to have a head or ruling demon that is over all the demons inside.
- All chosen ones and their sub person abilities I have dealt with will know the difference between a demon/dark spirit and other altars/sub personalities. And there is a vast difference between them.
- All chosen ones are forced at first to take in demonic presence. The demonization continues at rituals where demons may be transferred in sex rituals, conjured and accepted (received) and even sought. Chosen ones will know some of their demons very well; they will at times even seek more demons for the sake of more power and abilities.

- Demons give chosen ones (anyone who is possessed) supernatural abilities. Demons will enhance a person's mental and physical strengths. They can supercharge a highly programmed sub personality to do their task with supernatural strength.
- The final goal of the demonization of a chosen one is to load them with programmed personalities who have demonic power. This 'supernatural power' will energize them (their programming) to do all the chaos at the time of the black awakening/great revolt.
- Demonic power in the chosen ones and in sub personalities can move them (and or sub personalities) to fight against you if you are seeking to help or oppose their mission.
- A demonized sub personality who has been trained in and experienced in ritual conjuring or 'casting spells' can and will send demons (curses/assignments) against you. This is part of their infiltration process into churches and other places.
- The demonic powers can operate (unless detected and fought against) by keeping the chosen one 'cloaked' and outsiders confused. The demonic can come and go as needed and help keep the chosen one (the person) captive to satan's will.
- Chosen ones in unison with the coven can and do conjure and send out demons against their targets. The targets are usually the ones (or places) they are infiltrating. They send demons assigned for harm, attack and or influence (See Revelation 16). This is occult level spiritual warfare or satanic warfare.

Final point for now, if you do not deal with the demonic in a chosen one (SRA/MPD) you may never get to the deep down sub personalities or break the power of programming in many of the sub persons. Human counseling and or drugs will not make the demonic go away. There is only one sure way to detect, expose and expel the demonic; the authority, presence and power of the Lord Jesus Christ.

TRAINING

All SRA's and chosen ones will be highly trained and that training will be rigorous, intense and enforce all of the programming they have.

Training can include:

How to do the job they have been programmed for. If a sub personality was programmed for sex (sex slave) then they have to have training in sexual practices. If programmed to conjure demons and perform rituals then they will do it again and again. If programmed to kill they are trained in how to use knives, guns and even martial arts.

Training also includes:

- How to split and program other young ones in the coven.
- How to infiltrate groups, churches and important places.
- How to speak other languages including ancient ritual or occult languages.

Training of chosen ones seems to never stop. If you notice a victim/counselee disappear for a few days it may be because they were called in for re-programming and new or enhanced training.

Though the upfront person in a chosen one may seem docile, weak and unassuming, don't be fooled for a moment. It is just the mask that hides dozens of highly trained, programmed, empowered sub personalities who can run circles around most normal people when they switch (come up). And O, yes, the trained empowered sub personalities are always watching. They are co-conscious and looking through the physical eyes of the body that they are in. They can see you without coming all the way up (out). They are trained to be aware and their demons enable that awareness also.

This training will go on and on. The coven and militaristic side demand perfection. Punishment and pain await those chosen ones who do not accomplish their tasks well. Never forget that the unhealed intact chosen ones are created to be super warriors! They are quicker, stronger and more able than almost any normal person.

TESTING THE POWERS AND ABLILITIES

Many sub personalities may talk about how they were tested regarding their obtained training and abilities. They may have had to fight other 'coven' kids spiritually and physically. They may have had to hurt others or be hurt. The goal is to see how they have developed and what supernatural abilities are coming out.

It might be a shooting contest or a PSI powers contest to evaluate their development. It can also be testing their abilities in drawing the ritual circle, symbols and summoning a demon. They can be tested on how they cut an animal or how sexually aggressive they are. This testing in 'hell's kitchen' could also include killing and if they did it without batting an eye. Praise and reward is given to some who perform their duties with satanic glee.

ASSIGNMENTS

When chosen ones are very capable they may be given an assignment in the coven or group to accomplish. It could be the assignment to infiltrate a Church, fake being Christian and bring compromise to the people there. It could be that the coven just wants them to get in far enough so they can get access to the building to perform rituals.

Assignments may include:

- Infiltrating a church and bring harm.
- Seeking to bring down a Christian leader and ruin them.
- Seeking to destroy a Christian ministry center, plant demonized objects and or steal things from the church to be used in rituals.
- Perform rituals in the church to unleash demonic curse and presence.
- Summoning demons and sending against chosen targets.
- Being placed into a company, building or agency and just wait for further orders.

- If they are placed and assigned to ‘wait’ they could be a sleeper who will be activated later for use.
- They may be assigned to be a sleeper in law enforcement, government and even military.
- They could be assigned to hunt and find victims for satanic rituals. Look up the satanic calendar on the web and note the days/times of rituals and those that involve abductions.

They may be assigned to just get information/ reconnaissance. They can be assigned to make money thus sexual prostitution (porn films) and even drug running.

Most assignments they are given will correspond with the sub personality’s programming, demonization and training. All current assignments are only part of what the ultimate goal is…the black awakening. They all have within them assignments that will be used when the great chaos/revolt is unleashed. I will explain more on this later in the book. The helping, healing and freeing of these chosen ones is the only thing I have seen that will stop the assignments and harm they were created to do.

TRIGGERING

In every created multiple and chosen one there will be ‘triggers’ or codes. These are the sounds, phrases, or things that are used to ‘trigger’ out (make come up) a sub personality to do its job. Once they are programmed and demonized they are instructed to go down inside to a designated place and are given a code (like a secret combination for a lock). The code is known only to that sub personality. At some point a chosen one may get a phone call or hear a sound, the upfront person doesn’t know what it means but a sub personality who has been coded with that sound will know and respond.

Codes or triggers can be:

- A word.
- A phrase.
- A symbol or picture and even a movie with certain songs or characters.

- A sound.
- A phone call with so many rings.
- A tone from a distance.
- A car outside with repetitive honking.
- A letter or card with a word, phrase or symbol.
- A food item like a certain chocolate bar.
- A demonic spirit.
- 11. Using astral projection.

How do you know if a trigger was given?

- They switched personalities
- When they switch and get up to perform a task
- They seem to be in a trace and need to leave
- When they go totally silent a trigger was given to shut them up.

When you can bring healing to inside sub personalities and break the programming then the trigger or codes used will no longer work. At first you may have to keep a victim away from a phone, perpetrators or whatever is used to deliver the trigger. Knowing what a trigger is and what kinds are used is vital in helping a multiple get free. Sometimes inside sub personalities who want to get free will give you codes/triggers that they have learned about. I have also been given trigger/codes phrases and insight of the personality that it would trigger by the Spirit of God; this could be called a word of knowledge for those who know spiritual gifts.

In one case the Spirit of God gave the trigger phrase and the name of a lead demon that was in the ‘sleeper’ sub personality. This sub personality was not supposed to be triggered (called up). When the insight was given by the Holy Spirit I first went after the demonic presence. Calling it up, dealing with it and commanding it to leave with the other nine spirits. I then prayed for the programming to be softened. After that I said the trigger word and sure enough a sub personality came up and wondered what was going on. With the demonic power out of them the programming was weakened and they talked with me. They told me what they were trained to do and that they were just down inside ‘asleep’ and waiting. We led them to full healing and they were gone. No one could trigger them or access them ever again. For more on the inner healing see our basic training conference on the www.shatterthedarkness.net site.

UNLEASHING

There is a coming activation for hundreds of thousands of these chosen ones to be unleashed all at the same time. At the time of the dark revolt and just before the rise of a new world leader the code(s) will be given.

- With an activation code or trigger.
- The trigger will be heard by many at the same time.
- It may come in waves unleashing them step by step.
- It will unleash sub personalities empowered demonically in the full force of their programming (task/job)
- They collectively will be used to create the ‘great revolt’ which they call The Black Awakening.

I will talk about the how and when in a later chapter.

KILLLING

Please understand these super soldiers who will bring in the black awakening are expendable; to satan and his elite that is. They, like the Judas project will be left to hang themselves and die in dark vanity. What they don’t know, however, is the great revolt, rise of antichrist and the attempt to destroy Christ again will utterly fail. The agenda they gave their all to will go down in flames (literally). The ‘new’ world order will collapse with destruction and at the visible descent of the living Christ in Revelation 19. Chosen ones and the luciferian elite should memorize Revelation 19:20. Without redemption this is your destiny and the sad fact you don’t know is that satan and the demons do know this!

All chosen ones have suicide programming. They have within them a sub personality (or two - backup) who is programmed and energized to spring into action. The suicide programmed sub personality will kill the body without a flinch. The lies, programming and dark spirits will insure it. When triggered they will blow themselves away!

Knowing the climate today with the homicide-suicide bombers who unlike programmed chosen ones kill others and themselves this kind of atrocity does occur. All of it is based on the dark deceitful lies of the fallen cherub and the cold careless discarding of those who serve the satanic agenda. Do you think for a moment satan wept when he left Judas, who when straight out and hung himself? Do you think the demons gathered around as Judas fell from the rope onto the rocks where his intestines spilled out? Or did they all cheer with glee as if they won a victory over the deceived? There is a cold place it is called AKELDAMA (see Acts chapter 1) the 'field of blood' where Judas met his historic end.

The suicide programming can be triggered in chosen ones:

- In case a chosen one tries to tell secrets.
- In case a victim seeks to leave the coven and the agenda.
- In case they in any way compromise themselves, the coven or their task.
- If anyone captures them during the black awakening.
- As a demonstration of the control of the coven/handlers over chosen ones in order to ensure compliance among others.

The ultimate suicide programming will be triggered when the antichrist and his elite release the code to stop the chaos and anarchy. They are planning to look like the good guys and save the day. Those who have started this fire storm will set themselves up to look like heroic firemen. The world will be in awe as they swallow this spiritually poisoned candy, the outcome is sure and it's all a massive betrayal!

FINALLY

As many of you think through this chapter you may have to pray and consider its information. As I will say again and again read other books and research that is related. I have been in this field long enough and have seen this technology of hell in action, many times. If you are a perpetrator or victim you know so well that all that I write is so totally real. Some of you could probably add volumes to this but time, space and your freedom are limited…for now.

CHAPTER 18
SUB PERSONLITIES, ALTERS AND PARTS, O MY!

"It has been two weeks since one of the alters had unleashed his rage upon me at that family…"p 223 'THE MAGIC CASTLE'

"The bullet was Switch. He started cutting my right arm again."P 256 'FIRST PERSON PLURAL'

"The confusion in a multiple's life stems not from the number of alters but from the role or function the individual alters play"p 86 'MORE THAN ONE'

"Satanic alters often present themselves during the treatment of patients reporting ritual abuse"….. "The role or function of satanic alters is to align with the perpetrators" p 271 'OUT OF THE DARKNESS'

I have no doubt that sub personalities will be reading this book. Some are victims seeking freedom and victory…so keep going. Some are programmed for reconnaissance and will report this information to their superiors. I know military men and women, psychologists and those who help the victims are reading too. Welcome to a divine appointment! I hope you don't miss the interaction that could come to those of you who need heavens breath. For those of you who are in the Son, I am sure you will be moved and I pray that you go in the right direction.

I have written when mad, in prayer, while crying and mostly under the urgency of the hand of God. The Spirit of God has led me to write and rewrite and as I come to this chapter I am remembering sub personalities I have listened to and befriended from over 20 years ago. I remember when they just watched me long before they would come up and talk. Others who 'scanned' me were glad to know I was ok and began telling me the 'welcome to my nightmare' stories.

I have spent thousands of hours over 20 years talking to sub personalities of many 'types'. Long hours in the middle of the night, by a lake or in Borders book store. Yes in the office too but also in the car and out in the middle of a ritual site we have driven to. Some have talked to me at the police department and others in their homes. Some have been very quite others so loud they caused a major scene.

There have been those who have talked on the phone and now many email me…frequently. I may get one email from a victim and then four or five other sub personalities will get an email address of their own and email me. It is so consuming at times. The hard part is when sub personalities tell me not to let the main person know they are writing.

I have been attacked by some and spit at by others. Some sought to set us up as we hunted down perpetrators and others took our information and told their covens. Some of you have unleashed satanic warfare….dark spirits against me; others have challenged and tested the Power and Presence within me. One thing is for sure; you all know that no matter what I have been able to do I did love and care about each and every one of you. I have sought only to help. I know that your life has been stolen and used like an experimental animal by those who made you. One of you said it's like monkeys in a cage. They make us, bring us up and use us then put us back down in our area 'cage' and leave us.

As you read this chapter please know that I have only so much space to write. This book is three times the size I thought it would be. I have sought to give you an account of this crime and victimization but I struggle with wanting to give more and more. This next section for some may seem in-depth; to others it is only scratching the surface of how many and what kind of sub personalities (alters) there are. Let me start again with a real live occurrence.

ATTACKED BY A SUB PERSONAITY

It happened in a small city in Pennsylvania; I was with a police officer and a fellow worker. The victim had asked for help and did talk to me on the phone before I was taken to her home. On the phone she expressed that she was diagnosed with SRA/MPD and had a psychologist in a neighboring town. She told me she was declared whole and the counselor said she could get her abused children back from child protective services. She admitted that inside sub personalities did abuse the children.

She just wanted to make sure she was whole and that no harm would come to her children. I told her on the phone 'well let's see' and I just simply asked, "Is there anyone else listening'?". She then said "O, NO!" I asked what happened and that's when she told me….they (sub personalities) laughed. I made plans to meet her on that day at the office and she invited us to her home. My friend asked if he could video tape the session and she agreed.

This victim was very large physically and asked me to look over her list. A list she made with the psychologist that gave the names, ages and jobs of dozens of inside sub personalities. I began to look over the 'map' of her inside system of persons. I found one and said his name and asked if he would come and talk to me. He was an 18 year old male alter who was in a 38 year old female body. He came out laughing and telling me that they pulled one over on everyone. I asked him what his job was, he then told me as if he was describing something good. His job was to watch over the coven kids 4-10 years old and to make sure they learn their jobs, if not he was allowed to electro-shock them with a cattle prod.

There was that sick feeling again within me, I knew what he was about to tell me and I could sense demonic presence. He said he had to train the kids in how to perform sex acts on the adults. He seemed to love training them and didn't mind shocking them too.

I was looking at the chart of names of alters and asked if I could talk to 'dark prince' (not his real name). He said, "Oh, no sir, he wouldn't want to talk to you". I said, "No I want to talk to him". He said, "No you don't!" I called on dark prince to come up and instantly the switch occurred and dark prince was there. He was hot mad and asked who the heck I was that I would even dare talk to him. Then with the women's hand stood and struck me on the face and before I could even turn my face back he struck me on the other side. My buddies just sat there stunned or just enjoying the slaps to my face. When a third attempt was made I did have to get up and stop it.

Dark prince was mad and talked for a while. The 18 year old came back up and he with others wanted to take us up to some of their ritual sights. As we went he told us a lot about the coven, the rituals and the abuse of kids. He then told me in detail how they hunt. That is, look for other victims to abduct and bring back to the coven for abuse and use. The hunter told me that they would take existing coven kids in a van to a play area and have them focus on a kid playing by him/herself. They were to befriend the child and invite them back to the van for ice cream. Then with all that coldness and dead stare said ….. 'Then we would just take them'. I then asked, "What do they do with the child?" The hunter just looked at me with a stare that said, "Surely you know". Then the hunter said, "The abducted child will never be found".

In this one woman existed over a hundred sub personalities. On the paper list each one had an age and job. The job is what they are programmed, demonize and trained for. This person and her alters have been active and used for years! The calculation of abuse to others is off the chart!

Not all of the sub personalities (alters) are friendly. In the beginning when a victim is seeking help it's the little ones who will come up and talk first. In a chosen one the little ones or insignificant ones (to them) are allowed to talk…so the deeper down coven loyal alters can observe, take information and or send out spiritual warfare on the inquirer. You will have to be on your physical and spiritual toes if you are going to work with SRA/chosen ones. Be alert!

TYPES, NAMES AND PROGRAMMED ALTERS

There are a few hundred stories I could tell you but again time and space does not permit. I will simply list some of the sub personalities by type or what their programmed job is. I have listened to, worked with and interacted with these types of alters in many different multiples. Talking to many multiples whose physical body is from different states and are different ages for thousands of hours will reveal a few things. Here is a list of some you will find in an SRA multiple and chosen one. And by the way many victims will have someone inside who knows who and what the others are and do; they can make you a map (list) if you get to know them. Discernment and alertness is needed all the way through.

HOME AND COVEN CREATED

Let me point out again that many an SRA multiple will have both home created alters and coven created alters. The first are alters that the person themselves split off just to survive. These home created ones are usually young and don't want the evil stuff that the coven offers. They are not totally controlled by the coven. The others, those who have been purposely and forcefully created are the ones that will have programming, jobs and in some cases demonic presence. It is the ones created by the coven that will have the secrets, abilities and can do great harm. Here is a partial list.

CHILDREN

Alters who are children. If home created usually don't want to do the evil stuff of the coven and are the ones who may be seeking help. There are children who are created by the coven and may be programmed and demonized to the point they seem much older. They may want to fight or do harm but when freed and helped will be just a kid who wants out. Children sometimes come out so the deeper coven loyal alters can watch you and plot.

SEXUAL SLAVES

Simply sub personalities who are trained in sexual abilities and are very versed in sexual practices. They may or may not have demonic presence. They may even offer you sex because that's what they're supposed to do or because they are seeking to compromise you. If they are demonized they can even transfer demonic presence to those who fall to their temptation. Sexual alters can be used to make money or be involved in sex rituals.

Many of these alters can tell you about sex with the demonic and other deep atrocities. They have been sexually abused and without help will be sexual perpetrators. It is these alter personalities in a parent of other physical children who will rape and sexually abuse the kids. These are the sexually addicted alters who can come out anywhere and abuse. They are the ones who look for opportunities by joining a Church nursery ministry or working in a day care center.

SATANIC PRIESTESS

An inside satanic priest or priestess will be very arrogant when they first talk with you. They most likely will not talk in the beginning because they may be doing rituals against you. They know how to cut, torture and kill with precision. They know how to set up a ritual site and draw the symbols. They can even speak in old languages that are used for rituals only. They understand the danger, punishment and give punishment. They know the tools of the ritual well and may even know where the robes and ritual items are. Many times they have charged rings or objects and are themselves charged with demonic powers.

NURSE/MEDICAL

Many multiples have someone inside who is either a nurse or like one. This one is someone who can fix things and charged with taking care of the body. They may have to take care of those who are punished and those who are hurt during training or an assignment. They may even work in the field of nursing, hospital or a care facility. They can give shots, stitch a wound and give medicines. They also can give injections that some chosen ones have to get to maintain implants.

RELIGIOUS PERSON

There are those on the inside who may be very religious. Going to church is a major thing for a coven member to keep them covered. Appearances mean a lot right now. They may even volunteer in a church or a religious institution and seem to fit right in. Mostly this alter is programmed to be a public cover.

COUNTERFIET CHRISTIAN

There are some chosen ones who have alters who are programmed and trained to seem just like a Christian and be involved in a church. This one though would have an assignment to be part of the infiltration of a church. Even if this sub personality doesn't know the real reason why they are placed in a church other trained personalities know they are there for sabotage and harm. I do believe some have a major agenda to cause corruption and compromise. They will use some alters to do spiritual warfare against a church and its leaders and other alters to seek compromise and failure.

We must also watch very closely now as they seek to place chosen ones as major public speakers and miracle workers. Remember counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders will be performed to try and deceive many. See Matthew 24 and 2 Thessalonians 2 for insight.

In highly trained and empowered (by demonic spirits) chosen ones, the front personality can act like a Christian while sub personalities can help unleash counterfeit powers to deceive and harm. See more on all of this in section 4 of this book. Also see the section on the infiltration of the Church to see some of the methodology they use.

RUNNERS

There are programmed and very fast runner alters inside most everyone I have worked with. I have seen the 'runner' sub personality triggered, push away those around and take off running. I have watched as the switch occurs at a certain hour or if a certain question is asked. Triggers for the runner can be internal, set for a time (11pm) of night, day or month and at ritual date time. They may even have a phone call come in that gives a tone or code.

When the runner comes up they jump up and bolt for the door, all they know is they must go! If you try to stop them they will fight you. They are fast, strong and determined. I have seen them throw off workers twice their size and I have never seen anyone catch them, at least not right away. Be careful when a runner takes off. They may have handlers waiting to meet or pick them up and it may be a set up to get you out and down an alley where others are waiting. Then you may have to face down more than the runner.

Many runners only know they must get the body to a phone booth to call a coven member or find the 'safe' house until they are picked up. Some runners will fight hard to leave because if they don't get the body back to the coven and on time they will get punished. If you hold a victim on a ritual night and keep the runner from taking the body be aware, the coven may come looking for them.

INFORMERS

I have never met an SRA/MPD who did not have an informer. What does this sub personality do? Yes, you guessed it, they inform. They tell the coven member or handlers all about you. They are expert on gathering information on you. You can be sure they have a 'file' on you. You will be assessed and evaluated as to your abilities and potential threat. The informer will listen to every conversation, pick up on all that is going on and ask a lot of questions. They will also steal items from your home or office. Pictures of you may go missing; they will need all of that for the rituals performed against you.

I asked a chosen one informer alter once if they (the coven-group) had a file on me. The answer was yes. I then asked them what was listed as my vulnerabilities. Those things the coven could come against me with to stop me from helping victims. This highly trained military chosen one said, "Your family!". They would just threaten to harm my family!

Some informers must call in every night to a handler and report all the activities of the day. They inform on the up front person, others sub personalities, other coven members and anyone who seems to be helping the multiple victims. They may tape record you, memorize your address and phone numbers and learn more about you than you know about the victim you're helping.

ENFORCER/PUNISHER

This one is very hard to deal with. They only know that they are the one who has to keep the multiple in line. They will strike the body, punch it and even cut it to make the person comply with their task and the coven. Enforcers may use their force on other inside alters or on other coven members. They may be assigned to go after others and 'punish' them. Enforcers know very well if they don't punish and keep the chosen one in line that they will get punished instead. It is a vicious cycle. We have caught enforcers as they have come after multiples. They may even come after you or at least take pictures of you and your home.

LANGUAGES

All chosen ones have those on the inside who can speak different languages. I have watched as they write and listened as they speak. I have heard Spanish, Latin, Russian, Arabic languages and every chosen one has someone who speaks German. Two military trained chosen ones each had up to 5 other language abilities.

Languages can be used to converse with others from foreign countries, or used to send messages that other alters cannot know about. Some languages are used in rituals, others like German may be used because of the training and the earlier mind control leaders who came from the Nazi regime.

PSI WARRIOR

Since many chosen ones will tell you about being on military bases and what projects they were in, listen well. Chosen ones will have PSI powers, abilities like telekinesis, clairvoyance, and demonstrate what some would call psychic powers/abilities. They will have sub personalities who will seek to read your mind, project thoughts to you and feel you coming before you show up.

Some will claim they were trained with the 'First Earth Battalion" …kind of a New Age training for soldiers. Other alters will say they can remote view. You can check out the information in the book 'THE MEN WHO STARE AT GOATS' where Jon Ronson the author reveals the PSI warfare projects at Fort Bragg. There, soldiers were training to project their 'mind' or psychic power to explode the heart of a goat.

SPIES

Dale Griffis in the book 'SECRET WEAPONS' will give documentation and unveils the life of a chosen one who was trained in covert spying. Back in 1947 G.H. Estabrooks reveals the US military's use of created sub personalities who can spy on enemy governments. If you find a sub personality who was trained to spy they are very good at collecting information. This spying can be use anywhere and on any group. The spy within is trained not to talk to you and will have a lot of secrets.

DISINFORMATION

There are sub personalities who are programmed to give outsiders only disinformation. They are there to lead helpers, the police, counselors and other outsiders who ask too many questions in the wrong direction with wrong information. If they can give you information that will lead you to spend all your time going in the wrong direction they have done their job.

They also will give you 'special' information and name individuals for you to go after wrongly. They never seem to give information that nails down a perpetrator, exposes the coven or implicates their leaders. They just want you off track and looking like a fool. You will need to seek to verify your information and have some evidence. If you feel you're being mislead, stop and ask yourself, "What are they trying to lead me away from?" Getting close to the real information may be the trigger for them to be triggered and kick in.

KNOWLEDGE

All victims and especially the sub personalities will have knowledge. The information may be on how they were programmed, what the rituals are like, who some of the coven members are and what their ultimate goal is. They will have knowledge of doctors, police and other community leaders who may be involved.

SECRETS

Secrets are to be guarded with their life. Secrets include meeting places of the coven, names and locations. They will also have secrets about murder, disposal of bodies and the abuse of children. I have a rule that when a chosen one/multiple victim is really seeking help and wants to get out and be free they tell you the facts of the crime. They will turn on the coven and its leaders and evil if they are really getting out. If they are faking or using you they will keep you running in circles and will seem like they are never really healing. When there is no progress in their healing and gaining freedom you will have to see if…they really want to. EX-chosen ones can be a real danger to the coven and military covert projects. They can be a real help on revealing the methods and activities of the coven/handlers.

GUARDIAN

These alters will seek to guard secrets and keep other sub personalities from coming out or talking. They will watch the inner system of personalities and limit their activities. They will watch you and fight against your access to sub personalities and the information. They guard the secrets and will inform the coven/handlers if there are breaches.

PROTECTOR

A protector personality will do just that, protect. They don't want anyone to get punished including themselves. They protect by keeping you from getting any information. Every protector I have met is tired and feels like all they do is run around on the inside and keep the little ones from being accessed, coming out or talking. They keep things quite so no one will get hurt.

TRAINER

Trainer personalities are older. They have years of experience and have done the jobs they train others to do. They train others on how to split, program, conjure demons, perform sex, infiltrate and a host of other activities. They are strict perfectionists and have no patience.

WATCHER

Watchers are those sub personalities who will be assigned to 'watch' other multiples/chosen ones. They will even go to hospitals, churches and counseling centers to be close to a chosen one who is seeking to get out. They watch to see where chosen ones are and where those who help them are. They may take pictures and follow the victim and those who help. They are sent by the coven/handlers and will keep tabs on those whom the coven/leaders want dead when the black awakening occurs.

HUNTERS

These sub personalities are dangerous and seem to like what they do. There is an adrenalin rush for those hunters who are stalking potential abductees. They have skills at being a predator and masking their intentions while interacting with the very targets they seek to kidnap. They know that the victim they take will be used, abused and dead soon. Hunters are cold; crying does not move them and they are calloused to the pain and fear of children. Their job is to get victims for the satanic rituals. Many serial rapist/murderers are multiples and it was the 'hunter' in them that made them so unassuming to the soon to be victim. Hunters may get the prey but usually its other sub personalities who will do the horrific abuse.

FIGHTER

I watched as a fighter came up in a chosen one and went toe to toe with men twice their size. They can box, do martial arts and know how to attack. One worker got a clean round house kick by a fighter alter who was inside an unassuming petite little blond. They know holds and seem to be programmed to fight anyone regardless of size. One fighter came up in a male body about 160 lbs. and was willing to fight all three of us 220 lb men. They are scrapers who will fight you to get away or scare you enough to get you to go away. Military chosen ones are killing machines with their abilities.

ASSASSIN

The first assassin I met occurred when a team of us was lead by a chosen one to a dark and exclusive place and after asking me to pull the vehicle over, pulled out their nine millimeter hand gun. He was a male sub personality in a female body. I was taken by surprise and that is part of their specialty. The bullet was in the chamber when they handed me their gun to take a look. Sub personalities who are assassins were being formed programmed and trained back as far as the late 1940's.

They know how to use weapons, poisons, techniques and even spiritual abilities to seek to take out their assigned target. Most will be trained in weapons, have them or know where a cache of weapons are. They know about explosives and seem ready for the coming black awakening. I believe at this point most assassins are sleepers inside who will be triggered at the black awakening. They will have their targets to go after and when they're done the suicide programming is planned to kick in.

DENIAL

These programmed parts are trouble for counselors and professionals who are seeking to nail perpetrators. The upfront victim may have told you and shown you some major evidence of crimes. You may have talked to many sub personalities and know without a doubt that you are working with an SRA/MPD victim. But they have a sub personality who is programmed to 'deny' they have ever been abused and will insist their family is the best in the world. This one will deny there has ever been abuse and seems to keep other sub personalities from coming up. Denial personalities seem to have no memory of abuse or other personalities. They have a hard time remembering anything.

PARENT

There are those who have the parent sub personality inside whose job it is to take care of any children the body has. The parent may feel for the children but it may have been another personality who claims them. Remember, if chosen ones have children, that child's conception, birth and raising will have been planned by the coven. That's how it was for the original chosen one! It may be that a sub personality who is more 'charged' with dark powers was up for the sexual act and seeks conception. This personality is only a surrogate. The feeding and care of the child may be given to a programmed parent alter.

DEMON

This is a wild one and I had to deal with three cases where these sub alters who are trained to act like a demon came up. They can growl, talk gruff and want to seem scary. They seek to divert Christians from where the real demons are and come to wear out the undiscerning. They will growl, fall to the floor, writhe around and they can do this for hours or even days. They love to wear people out or scare them away. Sub personalities who are programmed to act this way cannot do what demons really do nor will they be affected by the authority of Christ. The authority of Jesus Christ given to all believers (Luke 10) is only effectual on real demons.

You will need the discernment of the Spirit of God and must realize that the proof is in the pudding. If it is a real demon it will respond to the authority of Christ, should and can be cast out. Sub personalities on the inside usually know what a personality is and what a demon is. There is a difference and deliverance workers must know this difference if they are going to work affectively.

Rule: if a demon seeks to act like a person and wants to deceive you they will still be struck by the authority of Christ as commands are given and it will be exposed. If a sub personality is acting like a demon, Christ's authority used to cast it out will not affect it nor are they able to do what real demons do. If it is a sub personality acting like a demon tell them you know they're faking and don't play their game or ask them to do what demons can do and they will be confounded and cannot do it.

ANIMAL

Yes, they even program some sub personalities to believe they are animals. Is this just to see what they can do? Sometimes I think so. The animal part may be there to use in bizarre ritual and sex acts. Parts like this may be used to make it seem like they are crazy and it may be that this animal alter is demonized.

WHATEVER IS NEEDED

New raw personality can be bonded, programmed and trained to be just about anything. The fact is, programming is like a script and that script can be anything the programming calls for. Just like an actor can act and perform like just about anything so a new personality can be conditioned and programmed to be whatever the perpetrators want. The goal in counseling and healing is to unravel this and lead them out of this imposed maze.

As you can see this can be very intense and just plain weird. Never forget that the normal development of a human life was taken, stolen and preyed upon. It is a high crime and will be paid for now or later. Helping the victim and the sub personalities understand all that happened to them is a process. The demons need to be dealt with one way but alter personalities need to be treated with the love of God. They are the most abused persons on the plant. They need to be guided out of their world of lies and imposed agendas to a freedom and identity that only God can give.

In the words of James G. Friesen author of the ground breaking book 'UNCOVERING THE MYSTERY OF MPD' p 105:

"Nobody wants to be a 'case study'. It is insulting to treat a human being like a science fair exhibit"

FINALLY

So, dear helpers, treat them with the love that was shown at the cross. It is the highest and most sacrificial love and has the power to change and heal like nothing else. It is this love that will go deeper than the programming and speak of a life far beyond what the demons and perpetrators could ever demonstrate. Besides, they don't have it to give anyway!

CHAPTER 19

"Some in fact already turned away to follow satan" 1Timothy 5:15

In whose lab did they do the crime after the drugs were given? Where did they hook up the soldier with wires and machines seeking to make another person, a sub person, a warrior who will do all it is commanded to do? Where did hundreds of thousands of victims of SRA/MPD come from? By the age of most victims today it had to have started in the early 1950's.

The Russians, UK and the US all wanted the high secrets of the Nazi scientists but they didn't know how to handle the toxic demonic doctrine! They wanted the scientists too and they got them but they didn't catch everything that came with the designers of the god-men of a master race did they? Those soaked in the black flame carried with them, an undetectable presence. The spirits who guided the warlords and scientists of the Nazi's slid right across and on to the eager beavers who dumped their own ethics down the drain. It seems that you have to reject God and those God given ethics in order to get the favors of the shadows.

"…some will abandon the faith and follow deceiving spirits and t*hings taught by demons*. Such teachings come through hypocritical liars. Whose consciences have been seared as with a hot iron."

The Spirit of God 1 Timothy 4

Those who learned the basics of mind control and voice to skull technology never knew who blew these concepts into their tired minds and late night dreams. The master of covert influence was there with his minions as Hitler despised the cross and began his ascendency. You might have the brightest minds in the world working for the governments but they are no match for "….the god of this age who has blinded (pulled the wool over) the minds…" 2 Corinthians 4. The masters of mind control have a master and this master is so good they don't even know what he has done or what science he has used. Hell has risen a thousand more feet with the deployment of its technology in the hands of its unwittings.

I do believe you have to go back to the 'hall of the dead' in Germany to get the full picture of mind control and the creation of chosen ones. You may feel in this chapter I will just restate what other good books have done with the information on projects like Monarch, Phoenix and MK-Ultra.

This stuff of creating super warriors is far beyond the 1950s. All of that information is old. This stuff is far beyond the doctors and intelligence communities, though they have been the 'hypocritical liars' through whom some of this has come. Ideas have origins and the ideas of a master race and controlled humans that will do another's will didn't begin with Hitler/Himmler, the Russians or Sidney Gottlieb of the CIA. The ideas came from the dark side and like the 'arrows' of Ephesians chapter 6 (those involuntary but real ideas that run counter to God and support the devils will) that are shot at their targets so the arrows or ideas of mind control were shot at their targets too.

Those arrows are the ideas, pictures and concepts that are coated with 'brilliant' 'scientific' and 'revolutionary' feelings and enticements but unknown to the receivers and as with 'arrows', there is always a distant sender. There is no arrow shot, no arrow that strikes a target without an expert sender and the devil my reader friend is an expert sender! If anyone knows the technology of mind control or voice to skull influence the fallen cherub does. And not believing that gives him a wide uninhibited window to shoot all the more arrows through.

The arrows of spiritual and physical mind control science are:

"...those involuntary but real ideas, pictures and concepts that run counter to God and support the devil's will"

ROGUE CHOSEN ONES

I know two men though one is dead; they were the subjects of this demonic science. Both were raised with old Nazis guiding their every step, both had been split, bonded and had sub personalities created with given agendas.

The first man was vile to the end. We learned of him through the cries of victims. After our encounter with eight victims who had been taken by this man, split, programmed and used for his own sexual appetite we sought aggressively to find him. We sent a team into a meeting where he was playing the piano and singing Amazing Grace, after which he got up to preach.

Later that night he was out seeking to contact his sex slaves or at least a sub personality he could call up. One of his victims we got back from him was split and had parts in him that were made to have sex with this perpetrator. The young man also had sub personalities who would commit suicide if triggered by this man. We had to stop this twice.

After another victim of this man and hearing about the ritual sexual abuse of a twelve year old at his hands we prayed hard for God to do whatever it took to stop this man. There was so much torture and pain he had caused and he seemed to be on a rampage. I sought to find him and talk to him; he would have nothing to do with our offers of help and counseling. He too could have gotten out. He was a chosen one yes but it sure seemed like he used it for his own gain.

I got a call and was told that this chosen one was dead. Someone else brought me the obituary and notice of burial. One victim went to the showing to see if he was dead for sure or if it was a cover up. In the weeks that followed all the victims told me that he is dead for sure and that they have had no more contact by him. I asked a couple who lived in his area and had been victims of his to share. They told me how he died and when.

His death was ten days after we prayed that God would stop him no matter what it would take. I believe with all my heart that God did step in and spared the victims any more of his horrific abuse. A few months went by and a friend who is very experienced in helping victims brought me a distant family member of this man who was now dead. The boy and many others were now on their list of young people who were ritually abused by this man. I asked the counselor how many victims of this one man is out there. I have never forgotten this; she said that her estimation was two hundred!

This rogue chosen one was a danger to everyone he met. He had military training and was very versed in PSI power and very deep ritual powers. He also had old Nazis who helped raise him, or at lease was part of the coven. This chosen one was an extension of the old dream of a master race. If this is the master race then no one is safe!

The other man was brought to our church by members who were doing outreach. They were counseling him and taking him through some deliverance prayers. I told them to look at his eyes because he had the eyes of a multiple. I told them to keep a discerning eye on him and that I would also. It is this man who became missing for a few days.

His wife got threatening calls and the police were called in. The caller sounded German and declared that the missing man had sinned against the master satan and had to be punished. I was called in by the police because the German speaking caller asked for me. While at the house another call came in, it was the German. We argued and he finally hung up. The police had tapped the phone line and recorded it all.

Finally, to everyone's surprise the missing man came home within about forty-five minutes of the phone call. This is the one who attacked me and ended up in leg chains and hand cuffed on the ground. It was this man who rose up and the sub personality with a demonized scream and German accent barreled, 'We are the legions who will rule the earth'!

He too had military background. He too seemed innocent on the outside… but it was the stuff within that would abduct and slaughter two teenage girls in satanic rituals. One was fourteen and out of state; she was used, abused and ritually murdered on the date of demon revels. The other was seventeen and murdered in the same horrific way, her death was on satanic revels. The Nazi sub personality ritually murdered these two girls as a purification and re-demonization process.

The police had taken this man to the hospital for a psych evaluation; which by the way accomplished nothing so they let him go. While I was at the hospital waiting a chosen one police officer I was working with showed up in full uniform. This officer was from the same area that this man and the other one I just wrote about was from. When the officer saw this man she literally ran out of the hospital. The officer came back in a few minutes and a sub personality handed me a note. On it was where this man lived, the name of an old Nazi satanist who raised him and then gave me details about this man and his early programming.

The sub personalities in this officer then took me to the site where the girls were left naked, cut up, abused and dead. A personality very versed in coven rituals told me how and why the girls were murdered. A few days later the man who had killed these girls started calling me and asking to find out if the police were saying anything. He then told me what instrument was used in the ritual. The girls were stabbed slowly over and over again with a tool only law enforcement knows about. This case is not over so I will wait to tell the rest. Why? Because the man is still out there! I know what the sub personality has done. We have looked each other eyeball to eyeball and in his eyes was pure demonically energized evil.

Both of these men were split, programmed and trained in this kind of satanic slaughter. One has been stopped the other has not. He will do this again…it is in him. Unless of course someone will pursue this and pray that it will not go unsolved. I know of a few folks who know all about this and they are praying for God to stop it…whatever it takes.

Who created these men and the officer? Whoever they are they have the same agenda, methodology and dream. They and those before them want a master race of super soldiers and if you back this up far enough you will land in hell's kitchen.

A SATANIC TECHNOLOGY

Some will not accept this yet but I am very sure many others will agree this technology all begins with dark supernatural powers, with the devil himself! Don't forget there is a passionate (fiery) agenda meshing itself out on the carpet of human history, a 'secret' power is at work. To miss this as the ultimate source will cause most to miss seeing it in the Nazis or in the rise of globalism that is occurring today. Looking at what has been done in the past, at what Jesus taught about the building of the 'tares' and the biblical revelation of a future historic 'super soldier army' it is clear. Satan has, is and will eventually have the world's most powerful military charged with the full force of hell itself.

"…and is itself set on fire by hell"

He and all the forces of hell are bent on creating 'controlled, loyal' super soldiers! If you believe the Bible and its prophecies then look at Revelation 19:19 again. It reveals the world's largest most powerful army ever. It will be the most supernaturally altered military in human history. The SS Nazis will look like choir boys compared to the troops of antichrist. At least that's what a highly trained military chosen one told me.

All of this, its inspiration, dreams, powers and abilities when traced backward always lands on hell's dark door step. In the end of days it is clear, it will be the biggest spiritual war fleshed out through the lives of billions of us. In the end your life will be open to God or to the devil… I just wonder, is there any reason why you are not on heaven's side of the fence yet?

Chosen ones today have their conception in hell's kitchen. The instruments of these dark powers though are people, politicians, scientists and military dreamers. They are the ones who have put the inspiration they received on paper and hammered it out in the lives of the victims…by the hundreds of thousands.

We can get 'freedom of information' documents as many have already done. We can name psychiatrists as others have done and we can point the finger at the CIA and other agencies but this is even bigger than them. They may open the doors to hell's doctrine and script but the agenda to create more and more chosen ones seems to have a life all its own. The fallen cherub lead a third of the angels away and guided the human race to join him. He does have massive but finite supernatural powers. Though unaided people cannot track and outwit him, God can and does all the time.

CUTTING THEIR TEETH ON THE NAZI'S

The rise of the Nazis came on the heels of Germany's defeat and humiliation. The nation was hurting and seeking answers. Who would they turn to? Once you reject God and have enough anger and depression, the door can be swung wide open the other way. Predators can spot pain from far away and look for an opportunity in an individual's life. They also look for a foothold in the life of a nation too. In his data packed book 'THE RISE OF THE FOURTH REICH', Jim Marrs writes about the spiritual inspiration of new technologies. Marrs says in chapter 8 p 178 on mind control and the Nazis:

"It is surmised that it was perhaps through such occult practices that psychic contact was made with nonhuman intelligences, thus providing the Nazis with the concepts that led to their futuristic technology."

The Germans opened up to mediums, psychics and a host of occult practices. They engaged the 'nonhuman intelligences' and they lost their souls. Secret societies and new spiritual inspirations were burning everywhere. The empty lives of millions were looking for a 'savior' and eventually Hitler fit their bill…at least at first. The new city of occultism and its hall of the dead were being built by Himmler and the Jews were being burned by the thousands. It seemed that hell's relentless agenda was being cut on the teeth of loyal occult Nazis. The demonic dream imbedded in the Nazi regime was:

- Throw out God and Christendom.
- Open the door to the old gods and new powers.
- Build a master race of 'enhanced humans' and build massive military power.
- Conquer the world and reign for a thousand years
- PS…whoever gets in the way….annihilate them!

The Nazis, the scientists the psychologists and military leaders did not originate this process though. They have been used to continue it and broaden it. It was through them that what was once only national is now global. Hell's dream has gone worldwide and the same process that operated in the broken German nation is now embedded around the world.

THE NEW GENERATION

The existence of chosen ones has gone from hundreds to thousands and hundreds of thousands to now millions. Multiples by the thousands who are not healed have selected, prepared, split, bonded and are programming their (or a coven's) children. No multiple parent wants to know or think of this but the sub personalities who have the programming and demonic presence in them are doing what was done to them…creating chosen ones. And please understand each generation is evolving into even more powerful and able servants/soldiers of this supernatural agenda.

The process does not have to be done by world renowned psychiatrists or military leaders in covert halls, though they are still doing it too. This process that has reached into the millions is continued in basements, living rooms and far away farms. Older unhealed chosen ones have sub personalities who can do it all and they have taught the next generation to do the same.

What most don't know right now is….this next generation is now doing it to the next generation whose kids are in their early teens. I know of parents in their sixties who have children who are multiples in their late 40's. Those in their 40's have multiple children in their 20's and they have kids who are multiple. Did I say that this is a spiritual generational process? That is the demonic attached to the blood line and it continues with or without the Nazis or the CIA.

So whether in old occult centers and hidden birthing centers or in military labs the agenda for (tares), a master race continues. And according to Biblical prophecy will continue with fury (see Revelation 12) until the 'great day of God almighty" (see Revelation 16 and 19).

FINAL PRODUCTS

Hell's finest products are yet to show up but they are on the way. The process that many counselors, pastors and helpers have uncovered is old but evolving. Many are looking back at the Nazis and the CIA and research things that occurred 50 years ago. All the while and under all of our noses new cutting edge techniques are being designed and new generations are being built.

While psychologists and others are counseling multiples and talking to home created little ones the darker deeper down sub personalities are still working...creating new multiples that will be the next generation of chosen ones. The new ones will be better, stronger and less detectable. This is a monster of a thing and cannot be contained by human energy alone.

FINALLY

Though there are many human instruments along the way in this deep evil it is the force of hell itself that continues this transmuting ever darkening agenda. Mark the words of Revelation 19:19 and you will see that this will not stop until the pinnacle of humanity controlled by hell's lust aims its weapons into the heavens and seeks to crucify Christ all over again.

CHAPTER 20 INFILTRATION & PLACEMENT OF CHOSEN ONES

"…some false brothers had infiltrated our ranks to spy…" Galatians 2

"Yes, there are actual spies walking among us on a regular basis."

P xix 'SPIES AMONG US'

"I know that after I leave, savage wolves will come in among you and will not spare the flock." Acts 20

I have been tricked by them, I have learned the hard way many times in the beginning. They are highly trained for this and we knew nothing at the time. Chosen ones and all that is in them were a mystery to me in the early 80's. Listening to victims of SRA/MPD I did the Christian thing, love them and seek to help them but I didn't know I was also dealing with sub personalities who didn't want my help and did not want anything to do with Jesus. They were just accessing me and long before I knew it they didn't show up by chance. Our first meeting was set up and planned.

In the early church you can read in the book of Acts chapter five where a couple agreed (conspired) together to lie to the church. The word in the text for 'agreed' has the meaning to test the durability of someone and pull the wool over their eyes. It's not a strange word if you understand that satan himself, like with Judas, 'filled' (same word used for Christians being filled with the power of the Holy Spirit) their hearts. You will get the picture of how the head of the total kingdom of darkness sought to covertly infiltrate the Church. The reason for this is clear… he is seeking someone to devour (1Peter5).

Study also the seven churches of the book of Revelation and see how many of them had counterfeit spiritual infiltration. When the dark side seeks to move in on a Church through its chosen servants it's all about compromising it, weakening it and moving it off mission. If they can 'dirty' the Church with corrupted doctrines inspired by imposter spirits they will in effect bury the local Church in the spiritual mud. (See I Timothy 4)

Jesus said He would build His Church (see Matthew 16).The Church is the epicenter and doorway through which the power, presence and mission of God comes. It has been planted however in enemy territory; satan is the god of this time period (2 Corinthians 4) and the ruler of the domain of the immediate atmosphere (Ephesians 2) around the earth, dark powers come and go from there.

The Church however is launched to cut through the dark spiritual 'gates' and reach the world for Christ. The Church is to pray for and seek the advance of the kingdom (rule and reign) of God… but this does not occur without opposition. If the Church is and does what Jesus made it to be it will advance and those gates of hell cannot prevail against her (withstand the onslaught of the advancing Body of Christ). Infiltration of the Church on any level is a Biblically revealed agenda of the demonic and a spiritual warfare strategy of satan himself. Our struggle (warfare) is not against flesh and blood Christian! (Ephesians 6).

It is any wonder this is the methodology used by the 'gates' of hell today as it was in the days of the birth of the Church? The Body of Christ is the irritation and bull's-eye of the full force of hell's kitchen. Who else will darkness fight?

WILL YOU BE MY FRIEND?

Always bringing me Arizona green tea (a favorite of mine) my new friend was also a victim of ritual abuse. There seemed to be a difference with this one though. I began noticing that the emergencies and crisis we would be called to seemed staged. She always wanted to drive with me in my truck; she had to sit right behind me in church every Sunday and Wednesday. She wanted to buy me and other staff items and gifts. She volunteered to do cleaning in the church and got access. She sought to help with any projects as long as it got her close to leaders and the inner workers. I kept getting that agitated feeling over and over again, something was wrong. My wife was sure of what I came to see, this victim is a plant and is seeking to harm me and other staff.

Though she went through many prayer encounters she never seemed to get better, there was always another sub personality or another crisis with the coven (almost all of which was staged). Even her husband told us that she has a 'seduction' spirit and the pastor of her former church felt she was going after him. We warned all our workers and set up counter surveillance that proved over and over again that she was playing a very dangerous game.

After catching her in deceptive practices again and again I dismissed her, stopped working with her and warned others. Her husband in full military fatigues did bring her again to the offices. She came into my office and sat across from me with her coat over her arm. As I looked down to write some notes the next thing that occurred was an education in the potential of all sleeper multiples everywhere. Something brushed by my head forcefully and grazed my hair; the noise was a big bang or slam.

Instantly I looked up and there she was standing with darkened eyes that were glazed over, a military bayonet was stuck in my desk near my note pad and she had her hand on the handle. It was the bayonet that flashed by my head and she pulled it out of the desk and tried again. I called out loud for the secretary to call the police and at that moment her husband opened the office door and cried, "What's going on?"

She or a sub personality looked at him and growled. She then bolted after him with the bayonet held high, he slammed the office door to get out of the way but this didn't stop her/the sub personality from plunging the big knife all the way through the door and inches from his head. The police arrived and took her to a medical center for evaluation. No charges were made. I pray for her and her husband but she is out there unchanged from when she was with us. There are thousands more like that women, some know what they are doing and for others only the sub personalities know the agenda.

One of those who knew it all was a woman from a large church in our area. As a matter of fact she was one of over a hundred who were brought to us from this well known church. Most were not multiples but she was clearly a chosen one. She came to our church because she was informed of the ministry I did. She like other chosen ones sat a few rows back but right behind me. We talked a few times and she told me about her one hundred acre farm in Pennsylvania. After one service she told me that she keeps seeing a very strange thing as she observes me from that row behind me. She said she sees me with a big hole in my back and that it was from a shot gun blast. I haven't seen her in years but remember her in my prayers.

While in Chicago at a major spiritual warfare conference team members and I listened as a well known pastor, author and counselor of multiples told the crowd of two churches he knew of that were infiltrated by chosen ones who didn't come for healing. In both cases the church was compromised and one had to close its doors.

I know of another church that was targeted and also had to close its doors. In one church on the east coast where I held a conference on spiritual warfare, ministry to multiples and the black awakening something very strange occurred. A new friend I came to know called me after I had left and said a man came to the church the very next Sunday and seemed to be saying or praying something during their open prayer and praise time. This friend said he kept hearing 'cursing on the church and the Lord Jesus' name being blasphemed. I told him to go sit a few rows behind this new man and during the open prayer time begin to target him and pray against any demonic spirits or any evil he may be doing. The church member did this and called me that Sunday evening. He said that when he began to pray against any demonic spirit the man instantly turned around and looked at him! He was caught. The man left and never came back.

There was another chosen one whom I had talked to for years. I came to know many sub personalities and when it looked like this military trained warrior was coming out of the ancient brotherhood they told me of their work in the infiltration of many organizations. This included the Amish the KKK and law enforcement. They then told me and explained to me what many others have shown; infiltration of the Christian church (and other organizations) has been going on for over thirty years. This old friend whom I have never forgotten explained in detail the why and how of the coven's and chosen one's infiltration.

HERE IS SOME OF THE METHODOLOGY

THEY ARE SENT

By handlers or a coven who want to begin infiltration into a church or organization they feel may be trouble to them spiritually.

THEY WILL JOIN YOU

Chosen ones are trained to join a church and begin climbing the ladder of relationships and service. They may even volunteer or seek a job in the group. They want to be a part and will seek the inner workings of the church/group.

THEY WERE ASSIGNED

They may have an assignment from the handler/coven and are given a target; a pastor or known member that the coven has identified as trouble. The chosen one or sub personalities are assigned to bring destruction and failure.

THEY CAME BY CRISIS

The chosen one may have come to the church because they were in need or crisis. It may be that they came because they were referred. At first they may just seem to be a sad victim in need of sympathy and support. They will seek your compassion while at the same time research your vulnerabilities. Not all victims are there for real help. If they are there for a long time, consume many hours and never seem to break free, begin to ask yourself….what do they (or their sub personalities) really want?

THEY DO AND DON'T KNOW

There are multiples highly trained in infiltration. They know what they are doing and are fully engaged in seeking to harm the Church. There are some victims whose upfront part does not know that the sub personalities are on an assignment to cause harm. Some victims are blocked by the stronger demonized sub personalities from knowing that they are being used as a cover for them and the coven in order to do harm.

THEY TEST THE POWER OF THE CHURCH

Some chosen ones and especially the sub personalities who are demonized and committed to the satanic cause will seek to see if they can effectively deceive you. They want to see how far they can get and what harm they can do before anyone finds out. By the time some churches and ministries realize that a chosen one is among them great harm has occurred.

A child in the nursery may have been violated, youth may have been led astray and or rituals may have been done in the church sanctuary. Church members may have experienced strange sicknesses and the Church may have fallen into 'plotted' divisions, gossip and factions. Satanic warfare, demon sent/ritual spells may have been released all over the church and gifts given by what seemed to be a grateful victim turn out to be demonized objects to unleash curses. Churches today will need great discernment; alertness and the armor of God…..just as we are supposed to have! See more on the Church's response in section 4.

THEY WILL BEFRIEND YOU

They will butter up to you and anyone else that will be a stepping stone to the church/organizational leaders. They will call you, give you gifts and tell you what a great help you are. They use flattery and emotional bonding as forms of manipulation to get what they're after. Their ability to get close to you is evidenced by 'association'. They will observe all your favorite things, places you go and enjoyments. They will then seem to have the 'same' favorite things, places and enjoyments. They will like what you like and be interested in what you're interested in.…only to elicit your feelings of friendship and openness. They want to get into your head, feelings and home!

THEY WILL GIVE YOU ANYTHING

Chosen ones on assignment will give you time, sacrificial service and gifts. They want to help you and be near you all the time. They seem to be around all the time. The gifts may be sabotaged with demonic curses or just things that will seek your sense of obligation to them. They will bring food and things to eat, your favorites but they may have 'fluids' in them from ritual working.

THEY WANT DISTRACTION

They will seek to pull a church member off focus. They want to distract the pastors, counselors and prayer warriors. As they distract you and pull your attention in one direction other coven members may have come in and are doing things among other areas of the church. If you are feeling that a victim is distracting you or leaders ask the question, "What is it they don't want me to see?"

THEY WILL DO SPIRITUAL WARFARE

This is a major part of the work of the coven and coven loyal sub personalities. They have sub personalities who can summon demons, have them within and seek to release them in the services of the church. They may get access to the building (and they always want the keys) and come late at night to do satanic rituals. If they get access to the pastors' offices they will surely unleash curses and even place demonized objects. They will coordinate satanic warfare against the church/organization with the local coven and continue until the church becomes spiritually dead or they get found out. Do you know this kind of 'occult level warfare'?

THEY SEEK LEADERS

Please realize they know that compromising leaders will be a great victory for them and cause shock waves and grave harm within the Church. If a victim wants to know where the leaders live, what they do and what their schedule is…if they seem like they must have the leaders' attention and focus its most likely an assignment of infiltration.

THEY SEEK INFORMATION

Multiples who are infiltrating are always seeking information on the church and its inner workings. They want to know all about the leaders, their families and any issues going on. They want to come to meetings even if it is only for certain workers or leaders. When a victim multiple knows a lot about the financial and business affairs of the church and or its leaders they are infiltrators. If it seems like a victim has more knowledge on the inner workings of the church than most anyone else….red flag!

THEY SEND INFORMATION

They want information so they can send information. If a coven or satanic leader wants to know about the pastor, ministry of the church or its plans, they can assign a *chosen one t*o make contact and begin the infiltration. If the 'victim' is gaining major information you can be sure they are sharing it, calling it in or informing their handlers. They may even steal business documents, paper work and private information off the office computers and get it sent to outside coven workers so they can look for vulnerabilities or weaknesses.

THEY SEEK ACCESS

They want the building, the offices and access to information. They may even want to work in the nursery alone! They can sexually abuse a child when a switch occurs to a sub personality in seconds. If they volunteer to be the janitor they will want keys to things. It they get to use the office PC they can get everything.

One chosen one in a police department typed and used the PC like a total novice but when she switched the sub personality could use it like a world class hacker. They even had special codes to sights no one else could get to.

It is very likely if they are infiltrating they will seek access and if gotten will seek to use the building late at night (midnight to 3am) for ritual activity. We have been called to a number of churches where this has taken place. Catholic churches are even worse because of the use of all the symbolic objects

THEY WILL WORK COVERTLY

The sub personalities will switch out when needed to do their work. You may never see it but even in worship services demonized alters will come up and curse the service. When others are saying praise the Lord they are too but they are referring to satan. They may seek to counter the prayers and even unleash counterfeit spiritual gifts.

THEY WILL SABOTAGE

If they can go around and gossip covertly and begin to put church members at odds with each other they will have begun their agenda. If you see them contacting a lot of members or going from pastor to pastor it may be that they are telling each of them things (untrue) about the others. They are sowing discord. Planting demonized objects and hidden satanic writing is part of the spiritual sabotage too.

THEY WILL GET HELP

If they are not harming or breaking through with their assignments they may have others show up. Have any new visitors shown up, strangers hanging around or any new counselees? They may go to the coven to beef up the rituals also.

THEY WILL LEAVE WHEN FOUND OUT

If they see they are not getting anywhere or are being found out they may just disappear. Many times when a real infiltrator is working a church or group and then leaves it’s because they have set in motion all the harm they needed to.

THEY WILL SLEEP UNTIL THE BLACK AWAKENING

There are many chosen ones who have been placed in churches that are just quiet and come off and on. Their sub personalities know the sleeper assassin may be waiting for the ultimate call. When this trigger is given they are to find and kill leaders, cause mayhem and may bomb or burn the building. This is the ultimate goal of having hundreds of thousands of intact sleepers-chosen ones planted in the Body of Christ. I have found them in many churches. See section 4 for a call to countermeasures.

THEY ARE ALREADY AMONG YOU

Chosen ones are highly trained in infiltration. They are in many places. We have found them in churches, law enforcement, the military, in hospitals, day care centers and anywhere else the coven or handlers need them.

THE ARE PLACED IN THE MILITARY

Don't forget that many areas of society are chosen for this infiltration and plot to bring chaos and collapse. It was in dark covert military where a lot of this was bred and I believe that this project has formed a vast shadow military system. U.S. and other national militaries are the targets of the satanic agenda and prophetic revelation will give the reasons why. There is a vast secretive for now agenda to breed and evolve their military abilities which will be seized and used in the monster of all wars. (See Revelation 19:19)

The Russians, the UK, European nations and the USA have been grossly swindled and set up for sabotage. I think that only when the black awakening occurs will anyone know the depth of infiltration and the placement of highly capable super soldier/ chosen ones. They will have no problem switching and unleashing hell on bases, other soldiers and sabotaging military response. It is when the black awakening is over that defeated military systems will be pulled into a global unit or be annihilated. It is clear the spiritual critical mass to create a new world order army is and has been in the works for over 50 years… just research the UN (United Nations).

PLACED IN LAW ENFORCEMENT

I have met chosen ones in law enforcement and now know why they are there. They can use the department covertly to send and receive privileged information. They can hide the statistics on satanic crime and be used to sow disinformation against occult crimes and the reports that multiples who seek freedom bring. The worst crime though is that there are sleepers in law enforcement who will sabotage and attack officers when they are deployed to help stop the anarchy caused by the chaos of the black awakening. I believe they will attack weapons stocks and take out key or targeted officers. The goal in this is to stop any major intervention when the chaos begins.

PLACED IN COUNSELING CENTERS

I have dealt with psychologists and counselors who believe that more SRA/MPD victims were sent to them only to keep tabs on other victims who really want out. The chosen ones infiltrating counseling centers will seek to trigger shut down or runner sub persons in the others to get them back. The infiltrating multiple will also gather information on the leader and counselors of an agency/center.

Lately, as in the past, I have received calls from multiples in well known hospital psych wards who report that other multiples are there only to keep tabs, send information to handlers or trigger victims who are seeking real help. Counseling centers must engage this issue if their SRA/MPD victims are going to obtain healing safely.

PLACED IN CHURCHES

This is one of the main places I have found chosen ones. Every chosen one I have worked with was either in a church or was attending one when I met them. Here the sub personalities can watch, target and wait until the activation for the black awakening. Please realize there are over 400,000 local churches in the USA. It they are seeking to take out pastors and scatter millions of believers then they need to have their ‘bombs of chaos’ in the center of all of the churches.

FINALLY

Please understand that the goal of creating multiples/chosen ones has a massive agenda. The need now and until the time for the 'great revolt' is silence and secrecy. They are in a very sophisticated and supernaturally empowered mission. There are rules and procedures. We are talking about a satanic conspiracy and God has given preemptive insight. This whole thing is very big. It is about people, nations, political/military leaders and the end of days. (Psalm 2)

SPECIAL NOTE: AT THE CONFRENCE

This just in, as we were putting down the final chapters and getting ready to edit this book I was invited to speak at a conference called POLITICS, PROPHECY AND THE SUPERNATURAL' in Mansfield, Ohio. At the conference authors Lynn Marzulli and Gary Kah gave presentations and then I was to give mine on this subject THE BLACK AWAKENING. Everything went well and we even had attendees from 6 states. After arriving home on Monday I received an email that had an attached mp3 recording. It was a recording of the session on the black awakening and it was recorded and sent to me with a note. 'They' wanted me to know that a multiple infiltrated the conference and recorded my session. Another piece of information came in and it was about a lady who heard some weird chanting during the conference session. She said she felt an evil presence was released and she prayed against it.

My own workers who were among the crowd also spotted two people whom they thought were spying out the meeting. Prayers went up and the conference was a great success and Jesus Christ was honored. I wonder what other meetings they are taking note of?

From the book 'SECRET WEAPONS'

The authors Griffis and Schwarz placed this quote

‘ONE SPY IN THE RIGHT PLACE IS WORTH TWENTY THOUSAND MEN IN THE FIELD”

Napoleon

I guess the dark side knows this

CHAPTER 21
THEY ARE THE TROOPS OF ANTICHRIST

"The only possible way of determining whether or not a subject will commit a murder in hypnotism is literally to have him commit one."P 194 'HYONTISM G.H. ESTABROOKS

US Rocket scientist Jack "Parsons had come to believe that Christianity was the enemy of civilization, of humanity and that it had to be destroyed"p157 'SINISTER FORCES'

"We are the legions who will rule the earth" A satanic super solder who is out there …waiting

"We are the troops of antichrist and we will make Hitler's SS troops look like choir boys". That is what one military trained chosen one told me. She was very versed in weapons, poisons and killing methods. She was a fighter with many capable sub personalities inside of her. Her training was tough and painful and she had been through a lot. Her pro Nazi sub personalities spoke in German or in a German accent. They played old Nazi propaganda music and even had German cigarettes.

I don't think anyone knows or even has a clue regarding the massive efforts, planning and training that Nazi soldiers went through. This broken little country unleashed hell on earth, sparked a world war and led the bloodshed by annihilating millions of people in the death camps. The dream was a 1,000 year rule and a master race of super soldier god men who could enforce the charged politics of the Nazi order.

Some called it the Black Flame; others call it a great evil and rightly so. If you believe the entire Bible then know that it reveals a lot about the coming super army that the antichrist will need and build. He will need massive troops before this world wide agenda gushes forth and during his reign. The Bible foretells of a time when the world will be united in a supernaturally guided globalism.

THE NAZIS NEEDED IT

There was no Nazi regime without the force to back it up. Even if you agree that it was dark spirits and satanic occultism that inspired the political ideology as I do, the Nazis had to have the soldiers for the conquest of Hitler and the dream. It would not have happened without a powerful, advanced and obedient military. If there were no military, who would have bombed England, invaded Poland or took over Czechoslovakia? Who would have rounded up the Jews and shipped them to the camps?

Never forget this....the dark spiritual forces that inspired the ideology and dreams of the Nazi movement were the same ones who gave the dream of a master race of super soldiers. The Nazi SS and the rise of that massive military flowed out of compliance to the 'non human intelligences' that Jim Marrs reveals in his book 'THE RISE OF THE FOURTH REICH'. Jim's book and others like it tell us that what has occurred in Germany with the rise of that demonic global conquest has been building again for some years and it will surely happen again…only fiercer and it will go global.

Yaron Svory in his book 'IN HITLER'S SHADOW' reveals the rise of skinheads and the neo Nazi development going on in Europe. He exposes what Richard Terrell believes about the same rise of a Nazi like new regime when he writes in his book 'RESURRECTING THE THIRD REICH' P 13:

"Ideas, sooner or later, have their consequences in the behavior of individuals and entire societies. What people believe in, and embrace as a worldview, is vital."

Bob Rosio in an extremely insightful book he wrote 'HITLER AND THE NEW AGE' also believes that it was a 'new age' spiritualism that moved as a wave over the broken Germany. The spiritual forged the intellectual ideology and the bullets to back it. Bob proclaims on pages 38 and 39:

"The ancient evil that manifested itself through Nazi Germany will soon manifest itself again to shake the world"… "The program of the spirit that was behind Hitler has now expanded into a worldwide arena."…. "We are now living at the end of the age."

The prophecy teacher who wrote 'THE SIGN' (a must read) and the follow up novel 'THE FOURTH REICH' author Robert Van Kampen tells us in both books that he believes the antichrist may be the resurrection of Hitler himself. The mortal wound to the head and then….a counterfeit resurrection is possible. There are many chosen ones who believe this is true. Some chosen ones have discussed with me the possibility of 'cloning' Hitler in a mix of satanic ritual that fuses satan's presence in the human DNA thus making him 'HOMOSATANAS' satan in human flesh, a counterfeit incarnation. Whatever the human side of the antichrist is, be sure of this, it will allow the broadest manifestation of satan in the physical realm ever (in all of history), HOMOSATANAS will be unequaled and unprecedented

Those dark spirits from hell's kitchen, whom shot the arrows of a new ideology, (Nazi occult political and military ideology) demonstrated that ideas received and believed have affect and we can all look back now and see the consequences! The question now is can you smell the smoke? The three authors I just quoted do. Please remember the only way the antichrist can come to power is by the building of a super army that will enforce the conquest of a new world order. It is without question that the new ideology for a global military is burning.

It is also the contention of this book that intact chosen ones and their many trained, programmed and 'charged' sub personalities are clamoring to unleash the chaos that will bring in their new MAN and his global order.

They know what Hitler knew; they must be and have a massive army to accomplish what the dark masters have written on their wills. I contend that a major portion of that army is ready and waiting. Hundreds of thousands of super solder chosen ones are among us.

So please don't forget the premise of this book:

"It is also the contention of this book that intact chosen ones and their many trained, programmed and 'charged' sub personalities are clamoring to unleash the chaos that will bring in their new MAN and his global order." RD

So why are there so many SRA/MPD victims? Where did they come from? Who made them, programmed them and trained them? Why does the programming in them seek a chaos and new world order? Are they part of the troops of antichrist? According to many of them the answer is yes. Who and for what are these super soldiers needed?

THE BA WILL NEED THEM

We can read about the feelings of 'all hell is about to break loose.' It's a sense that's in the air and on the hearts of millions. Many around the world believe a massive chaos is coming. New age spirits predict it, the data on World Wide Web postulates it and many are preparing for the end of the age. What most don't know is that those who will bring the chaos and anarchy are the ones who are burning for a new world order.

Just as they in unison with the 'spirit of antichrist' have planned the black awakening, they have also planned for the new regime that will be ready to move in. They are bringing this explosive chaos so that they can bring in the new order. This chaos has one objective, collapse the present systems and force the need for help. The black awakening is not the final product it is the stepping stone for the antichrist to walk onto his self exalting runway, god of the world and total control. Luciferians have planned both sides of this dirty coin and the Spirit of God has given the world a clear heads up before it happens. The 'great revolt' (see 2Thessalonians 2) must have those who will do the 'revolting' and bring the civil and national clash and collapse. The troops of antichrist must be in place and I proclaim… THEY ARE.

THE ENFORCEMENT OF AC WILL NEED THEM

The rise of a new order that pulls the whole world into its grip has to have influenced leaders and enforcers. After the chaos and anarchy occur someone has to be ready to enforce the call to unity and compliance to a new system and its super human leader. If a new leader rises they will as is true in all of history have to have a military force with them. You cannot conquer nations or the world without soldiers. Chosen ones tell me that they will be here to enforce the new order. I was even shown a totally black uniform, beret, and a patch was drawn that had a globe with two lightning bolts going through it. A sign of Lucifer's rein over the world? Chosen ones and those who join the new order will be the enforcers and I am told they will be more unrelenting than the old SS.

THE ENTHRONEMENT OF AC WILL HAVE THEM

To me he is the beast, the antichrist and the most supernaturally empowered (outside of Jesus Christ) person who will ever be on this planet. The world mesmerized by a massive forceful spiritual flood will see him as 'savior' and the greatest leader in the history of the world. The mask he wears is powerful and all that is around him will blanket him with authority and powers (the ancient dragon and the false prophet). I believe that his conception would have been like (counterfeit to) Christ's and that it has already occurred. Maybe Malachi Martin the Catholic priest is right; that the 'enthronement of the antichrist' ritual has already occurred (see his book Windswept House) and that the very dark powers in a linage of satanic bloodlines have produced the beast.

The antichrist lying in a manger draped in black with a DNA mix that will open hell's gates to the highways of all humanity… Wow, imagine that! The Spirit of God says it will happen with details that could warn the world but who will listen? Who has ears to hear what the Spirit of God is saying? This birth of antichrist and his coming arrival into the affairs of the world will have the backing of…in the words of Dr. Stan Monteith's book title:

'BROTHERHOOD OF DARKNESS'.

The secret power mentioned in 2Thessalonians 2 is what is energizing this brotherhood of darkness. They will help with the arrival of the antichrist. But that arrival will not occur without the troops who will clear the way. Chosen ones believe they will help open the door to their 'man of the hour.' Again please don't forget:

"Just as there is no event or advancing of Gods work and kingdom without His Spirit and His Power there is no event or advancing of the 'sequence of satanic evolution' without the expressed manifesting powers of darkness!"
RD

THE COMING CLEANSING

There are two major 'persecutions' coming that are predicted by the Spirit of God. In the book of Daniel 2,600 years ago the Holy Spirit has shown that the antichrist will wage war on the saints and conquer them. In the book of Daniel and Revelation there are prophecies and pictures of the coming wrath of antichrist. He will seek to eliminate all believers of the living Christ (Revelation 12) and will guide the attempt to destroy Israel.

This cannot happen without the troops who will do the 'cleansing'. Just as Hitler had soldiers cart the Jews off to the camps and then those same troops guided the shoveling of the bodies into those oversized ovens….by the thousands. Troops were needed on all fronts as the Nazis sought world conquest. So the troops of antichrist will be here to conquer the world again…and many chosen ones believe they are those 'storm troopers.'

THE ULTIMATE GATHERING

If you believe the Bible and know that all of its prophecies have either been fulfilled or will be fulfilled soon then you have to engage and take in the implications of Revelation 19:19. The beast (homosatanas), the world's accepted leader will lead:

- The world's largest military might in all of history.
- The world's most advanced military 'a global power.'
- A military with the most advanced weapons ever.
- Soldiers and commanders who are 'super soldiers.'
- They have already received the mark.
- They have already worshipped the image of the beast.
- They are moved, guided and GATERED TOGETHER around Jerusalem by massive satanic power that was released in a ritualistic fashion (Please see Revelation 16).

This prophesied 'GATHERING TOGETHER' is clearly pictured in prophetic revelation (study Revelation 16 and 19) and chosen ones are looking forward to it. They are beating the drums at dark rituals even now and helping to unleash more dark powers. One chosen one (a satanic super soldier) gave me a note that was from a luciferian elitist. This man has produced many chosen ones. The note tells me that he looks forward to unleashing this chosen one on me at the battle of Armageddon! What he is missing (beside his brains) is that I will not be on the ground where he is.

I and the rest of all God's redeemed army (Revelation 19:11) will be in the air (glorified with an indestructible immortal new body). We will be descending with the infinite living Christ leading. When the door from heaven's side is opened a descent occurs and is the one every demon in hell knows is coming. It is a day that satan knows will arrive and the fallen cherub will have the pinnacle of his power and mightiest NWO army there on the ground waiting. Super soldiers with weapons raised and pointed into the sky will seek to stop what comes to stop them.

FINALLY

These are the final products, the ultimate chosen ones who are willing to….annihilate God. Even current chosen ones need to contemplate the depth of this. How did you and the coming soldiers get there? Why didn't you fight to get out? Surely you have read the next verse in this revealed prophetic history…Revelation 19:20.

Some of you reading this right now are the troops, chosen ones, sub personalities who are trained to fight. Others reading may be those who made them. At this moment in time you can find a freedom that will last forever. Jesus Christ whom you have been taught to hate did die for you too. His bloodshed on that cross doesn't bind you to slavery to the dark powers. It can cleanse you and set you free from every lie, demon and forced commitment you have ever embraced.

There are clearly two armies on that GREAT DAY OF GOD ALMIGHTY. One is coming down from heaven with a leader who has proved Himself and the other one has been raised by hell. What side you are on right now or then will make all the difference in eternity. Which is better, to be with the troops of the antichrist or troops of Christ?

Revelation 19:11 or 19:19?

Jesus said

"What good will it be for a man if he gains the whole world, yet forfeits his soul? Or what can a man give in exchange for his soul?"
Matthew 16

PROTO TYPES OF R-1919

"…Nazi occult research including some by the notorious Dr. Mengele…"

"…building on these horrible experiments had sped Soviet success in developing PSI weapons"…

"PSI weapons...had been developed and used many times against civilian populations"...

"…for covert activities, the process could be used to develop spies with artificial multiple personalities-like the Manchurian Candidate…"p 338 "PSYCHIC DISCOVERS

"But what if a hostile invasion does happen? We had better be prepared in order to avoid shear and total panic and chaos that would doom us to certain defeat." p 147 'AN INTRODUCTION TO PLANETARY DEFENSE'

"…a futurologist on the staff of SRI…predicted that….a psychic civil war might break out between the military-industrial controllers of our country and a guerilla-like group of psychic radicals. These radicals would use ESP to cause selected enemy commanders to suffer mental breakdowns as well as psychokinetically sabotage computers, satellites and weapons systems" p 196-197 'PSYCHIC WARFARE' Fact of fiction?

Revelation 19:19 as we have said reveals the 'ultimate' goal of 'the prince of the power of the air, the spirit who is now at work in them'. This presence is supernaturally operative in millions, in luciferians and created chosen ones/super soldiers. That prince of darkness is on the move and what he is doing is moving everything in one direction…globalism.

I put up a broadcast on this subject of 'THE SPIRIT BEHIND GLOBALISM.' I was surprised that hundreds of thousands of downloads of these MP3s occurred in the first few weeks. The series deals with the behind the scenes work of a 'ruling nonhuman intelligence' that fills the immediate dense atmosphere (air) around the globe. This ancient presence is making itself known as never before and some are calling this operating power: 'THE FIELD' 'THE GLOBAL MIND' 'A CONCSIOUS UNIVERSE' 'THE COLLECTIVE UNCONCSIOUS' and the 'AKASHIC RECORD/HALLOF RECORDS.'

All of these descriptions are limited and off. They only touch the mask and not who's behind it. They don't even scratch the surface of this massive presence, they can't. It is from here that a critical mass of thinking is opening to spark the dream of a new world order. From this realm come the thoughts, ideas and imaginations for a one world government and its enforcing super military. That communication accepted and put into action includes the progressive development of a needed super military force. Those building the super soldiers may not know that their part in this special ops project is small. The psychologists, scientists and military developers may not yet realize that they have laid the foundations for this final clearly doomed super military. Please think through this statement:

"Chosen ones today are parts of the development of the coming final super soldiers that will be on the field with the antichrist on the day of final battle. Chosen ones today will be agents of the black awakening, enforcers of the NWO and will be part of the final 'planetary defense weapons' on the field of Armageddon." RD

I felt a need to give a few more notes on the troops that are being created now and that will be here in the near future… they may be one and the same. You cannot be a 'troop of antichrist' or of the new world order without the power and control that comes with it.

You cannot fight for the devil and not have his logo stamped into your soul. I believe that the reason for creating chosen ones beginning in infancy is that many mature adults would not agree to being in this project…knowing all that is involved. And let's remember that what will be on the field in R-1919 was/is not built over night. It is a process, a satanic evolution. It may even be that current chosen ones who are on this 'satanic assembly line' may be obsolete and need upgrades before that final battle occurs.

Even in books like 'SECRET WEAPONS', 'UNSHACKLED', 'THE C.I.A. DOCTORS', 'JOURNEY INTO MADNESS', 'THE SEARCH FOR THE MANCHURIAN CANDIDATE', 'MK ULTRA' , 'SECRET DON'T TELL' and a host of others we can see the stories, read of the technologies and feel the horror that has gone into this agenda.

These books give claim and examples of the creation of super soldiers and their use as controlled super weapons. If the information that we have given merely scratches the surface or seems bad enough just wait until this tip of an iceberg reveals all of its depth. It is what we haven't seen and don't know that would scare the total wits out of most. All that is operating in dark supernatural secrecy now will show up sooner or later (see 2 Thessalonians 2). Then many will wish they would have seen the signs and braced themselves.

Here are some of the facts of the coming future history and the unleashing of the chosen ones, the black awakening and opening the door for the antichrist to walk through.

YOU CAN'T GET THERE FROM NOWHERE

If you can travel into the future and look at the military on that day of battle revealed in R1919 what would you see? What would the soldiers look like? What would the color of their uniforms be and could you see the mark of the beast on them? What is there in the future is on the way, it is in process and all of it is being worked on right now. How close are we? I don't know, maybe just 10 years away? All chosen ones tell me that the black awakening is very close which means that the battle of Armageddon would come about 7 years after the massive chaos.

The Nazi event with its world war does look so much like what is to come; it just didn't go global and end at Armageddon. The process of building toward Armageddon (R-1919) is so secretive and hidden that most folks wouldn't even know where to begin. But the dark side in all of its boastful power is beginning to show its dirty undergarments. Hundreds of thousands of victims of mind control (making them the troops of AC) have fallen out of the ranks and sought help in psych wards and counseling centers everywhere. Though we can look at the numbers of victims who have sought help (some say 4-millon) the fact is that most of the chosen ones are still intact, controlled and in sleeper mode waiting for the call…this is a chilling reality.

Are we on the road to Armageddon? My answer is a screaming yes! But there is a process. They have to have many things in place before that day, one of those things are troops who will serve the cause. We are on the road and a number of events will occur before that last day of fallen human history dawns. One of the main events will be the black awakening.

YOU CAN'T DO IT WITHOUT THE POWER

As I have said before there is no advance or event from God that does not have His real presence and power there to perform it. Be it salvation, filled with His Spirit, healing, deliverance, answered prayer or growing dynamically into Christ likeness. All of God's work comes with His presence and power. Think about the resurrection, Pentecost or even the second coming/ glorification (which has an 'atomic' level of power released see 1 Corinthians 15), none have, could or will occur without infinite and massive supernatural power.

Now think about satanic presence and power, this fallen cherub led 1/3 of the angels astray and led the fall of the once perfect majestic 'humanity' and helped bring the sin, death and destruction. Satan has power and presence. Study Matthew 4 and see his interaction with Jesus. There are hundreds of thousands of demons/spirits and they are at work (supernaturally operative) in the world.

There can be no counterfeit doctrines, miracles or 'savior' (anti/instead of Christ) without that dark 'active supernatural power'. There is real power that flows from the satanic kingdom. Jesus and all of scripture acknowledge this. This 'dark energy' as I call it is present, growing in force and will have unprecedented outpourings and manifestations in the near future.

The creation of chosen ones for the black awakening and coming antichrist reveal the pinnacle of that dark power at work. Dark power has been, is now and its coming pinnacle of release are real and will affect billions. The development and coming global bursts of satanic presence and power are prophetically foretold. Revelation 16 gives us a glimpse of a coming ritual release of a 'global planetary wave' of satanic power and force. It is so powerful that it leads the sum total of humanity (peoples, nations and kings) to move (gather together) and fight God in an effort to destroy the descent of Jesus Christ. Can anyone one say Psalm 2! (PS2)?

The point is that nothing, not the black awakening, the appearing of antichrist, the opening of the abyss or the final battle can occur without a massive release and manifestation of the darkest of satanic power.

God's power and presence are open and unmasked, however, satan's power and presence is hidden and masked. The evil one's power, presence and agenda have always been masked to those he seeks to deceive and recruit. This is his character and his methodology. So let's never forget what Bob Rosio (author of Hitler and the New Age) has said so prophetically

'DECEPTION ALWAYS LEADS TO DESTRUCTION!'

Satan's power is a supernatural ability to masquerade and deceive. Biblical revelation reveals his nature and work with accuracy and finality. Nevertheless wherever the dark powers find acceptance (open doors) they will operate and the results of its power filled deception in people is always massive destruction. Death, separation from God and hell are here because satan expressed his presence and power…and humanity embraced it. There are those who choose radical evil in all of its masqueraded form, there are those who:

"…have delighted in evil" 2 Thessalonians 2

YOU CAN'T DO IT WITHOUT THE PEOPLE

As in all national or civil wars there has to be the people who will plot, plan and seek to accomplish their agenda. Wars are won with the use of people, namely soldiers. Politicians may plan and order but if there are no soldiers there can be no new nation or new world order. Hitler had to have troops; he did and rocked the world. The plan of the luciferian shadow government that seeks a global rule includes;

- A new political system.
- All new laws.
- A new spirituality.
- And a new military to bring it in and maintain it.

The long development of the plan of a new order is inspired from hell's kitchen. It is a spiritually empowered movement as was Nazism. From the spiritual realm come ideas, influence and an agenda. If it is from God it will be clear, open, good and benefit all humanity. Just look at the cross. But if it is from the adversary of God then it is packed with 'killing, stealing and destroying.'

God has revealed the origin, character, methods and the clear sequential agenda of the fallen cherub. It is being hashed out on all levels of society and deals with the end of history. Satan will make the biggest move in his entire disintegrating career; the signs of it are everywhere. But it's what is hidden for now that will pack the deepest punch. The black awakening and arrival of the antichrist are evolving by that 'secret power' that is 'already at work' and will bring (is bringing) two main things:

- 1. Unprecedented deception lies and sabotage.
- 2. Unprecedented destruction and devastation.

Let's remember too and I will spell this out in section 4 even more. God is moving to redeem, heal and prepare us for the end and for a new and final beginning….the beginning of indestructible immortality. This new heaven and new earth that is coming includes 'redeemed glorified humanity' (I hope you will be one) and the final end of all this radical evil… all of it forever!

YOU CAN'T DO IT WITHOUT PLANETARY DEFENSE WEAPONS (PDWs)

The troops of antichrist include all of those who serve the cause. When you look at Revelation 1919 as we have seen, it is the world's largest military might on the field of battle. They will be on the field for only one reason; it is the 3rd attempt to annihilate God. The first two failed and the third one will fail in a finality that the first two haven't seen. But the fact remains that the antichrist with a new world order military is unprecedented and dear reader on the way.

Just as the appearance of antichrist and the new order will occur, so too that final battle will come. But we must realize that planning, preparing and developing all that is needed is and has been in its final stages. This includes building the super soldiers and a super charged military. It includes that antichrist was born and operating with a 'beneath the surface' shadow government. They must have the power, people and demonically influenced weapons to pull off the beginning and end of the reign of antichrist. Since that final battle is the antichrist, the nations and the super soldiers gathered together to make war on the descending (second coming) Christ, they will need super weapons.

The kings of the earth and global military will of course see their doomed cause as a 'save the planet battle' campaign. I believe that humanity's search and especially a military search/research for PDWs will be evidence that we are close to the end of history. Since these kinds of weapons will be needed in the battle that seeks to stop the descent of Christ, seeking to develop them now may be that they will be needed and used in the near future. So a few things must be considered:

How did they get this far?

- That question is answered in part by this book. It is the 'sequence of satanic evolution' with all of its stages accomplished that have led them there. And the truth is, all the other events and developments were arranged to lead up to this GREAT DAY OF GOD ALMIGHTY. This is what the satanic powers feared (the second coming) and knowing it was coming sought to stop it. So the black awakening to level society and institute controlled globalism must be very close.
- The events must be chaos and then a new controlled world order with a united super military constructed by supernatural force. All of these are necessary steps to stage a prepared and preemptive strike on Christ… R1919. The beast and his army (super soldiers/final chosen ones) will be there on that day for sure. The creation and evolution of chosen ones has been, is and will progress up to that very day.
- Please realize that no matter what kind of weapons for PDWs are developed (particle or chemical beam/electro-magnetic pulse, etc) the goal of millions of soldiers are desired and needed. It is clear to me that the creation of and final development of chosen ones are themselves considered PWDs, in the hands of the antichrist-false prophet and the ancient dragon.
- They have to have the dark powers present. See Revelation 16 for the pinnacle of satanic powers being released. The unprecedented rise of dark spirits to mesmerize the world, the counterfeit doctrines and miracles will lead to the unleashing of the 'great revolt' (satanic black awakening). Then the arrival of the beast (and his team of the ancient dragon and false prophet) will manifest the most satanic power, influence and practices that have ever been seen. The combination of unprecedented demonic power, a global government and the super soldier military which is the toping, will also include a planetary defense weapons system.
- Research now shows that the weapons for this final day are being considered, researched and built. That's right! Right now planetary defense weapons(PDWs) and battle scenarios are being developed. Consider this:
- Researchers, weapons makers, and scientists from NASA and the Department of Defense (DOD) have already begun the process of building planetary defense weapons systems. Why? Because something (or someone) may come from up there….space, outer space and invade our world. Could this be the preparation needed for R1919?

- From the think tank type book entitled, 'AN INTRODUCTION TO PLANETARY DEFENSE' the scientists (NASA) and military strategists (DOD) are laying out plans for:
    1. Weapons that can be shot into space.
    2. Battle scenarios against invader (s) from the heavens.
    3. A sixth column defense team being
    4. (Super soldiers and leaders) ready and in place.

Note this quote from the book:

"The idea for this book came about while the authors were working in a 'brainstorming group' to develop solutions to the hard targets of today's military and intelligence gathering communities." P 197

Will the chosen ones of today be (or are they) a part of that 'sixth column'? Maybe it's the scare of a cosmic asteroid hitting the earth that is forcing this consideration or it could be that the deceptive 'alien intrusions', abductions and UFO phenomena will force global humanity into thinking… 'we must spend trillions on these new defense weapons'. I wonder whether the whole UFO conspiracy is nothing more than a 'let's scare the world into the need' for PDW's which include millions of marked, controlled and supernaturally charged super soldiers. If so then who's behind the scaring processes? If the largest military ever (super soldiers/chosen ones), the most powerful attack weapons in human history and the pinnacle of dark powers are needed, then it is clear that a study of Revelation 16 to 1919 shows that the 'brotherhood of darkness' will make it there. The future is on the way.

FINALLY

If the satanic presence has ramped up to its 'pinnacle of power manifested'. If the super soldier's project is ready and planetary defense weapons are on the way… then what does hold back the onslaught of the black awakening and appearance of the antichrist? Glad you asked, that is the theme of the next chapter!

But before you go please review and think through this statement:

Revelation 16 gives us a glimpse of a coming ritual release of a 'global planetary wave' of satanic power and force. It is so powerful that it leads the sum total of humanity (peoples, nations and kings) to move (gather together) and fight God to destroy the descent of Jesus Christ. Can anyone one say Psalm 2? PS 2!

So what is being done right now that will lead up to that day?

CHAPTER 23
ACTIVATION OF THE SLEEPER SUPERSOLDIERS

"Then I saw three evil spirits…they came out of the mouth of the dragon, out of the mouth of the beast and out of the mouth of the false prophet."Revelation 16

"They are the spirits of demons performing miraculous signs, and they go out to the kings of the whole world*, to gather them* for the battle on the great day of God Almighty" Revelation 16

"Then they gathered the kings together to the place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon" Revelation 16

"The temptation, the compulsion, and the addiction for more power and control over people are the first evils released from the Pandora's Box of modern gadgetry" p 176 'ANGELS DON'T PLAY THIS HARP'

"Many Oregonians complained of headaches, fatigue, inability to sleep, reddening of the skin, 'clicks in the head' and a buzz that harmonized with a high pitched wail" p 144 'HARP THE UNTIMATE WEAPON OF THE CONSPIRACY'

"Lucifer's evil spirit is alive & well in the New Global Economic & Communications System" p 215 'BIG BROTHER NSA and its little brothers'

Whatever physical tools, mechanics or technology that will be used to trigger thousands (or hundreds of thousands) of chosen ones you can be sure of this, they were inspired by dark science and designed in hell's kitchen and are only a part of the activation sequence of the black awakening. The activation will have a spiritual force behind it. This activation could be sent out from a ritual or like in Revelation 16 directly by the dragon, the beast and the false prophet. You do realize when this black awakening/chaos comes that unholy trinity will be here in full force. They are not simply waiting; they are in a fury seeking to unleash the full array of the luciferian agenda.

THE COP AND THE CODE

She called me and told me to come over right away. When I got there I had some team members there to look out. She was panicked and began to tell me the scenario. They were in town and they were going to 'trigger' her out and either use her or do things to her. She had military background and was a law enforcement agent. She lead a network of law enforcement personal that joined together to review occult and satanic crime in the state. At this moment she needed me to read out loud to her a 'code'. It was a trigger code that could be used to shut down all the sub personalities that I had come to meet and converse with.

Many of those sub personalities have told me about satanic crime, mind control technology and the agenda of the ancient brotherhood. The sub personalities took me to ritual sites, homes of handlers, and gave me details of original Nazi splitter programmers and took me to where they lived. Some of those personalities needed healing others needed a healing encounter with Jesus. A few who could speak other languages and others who could do rituals, seek and release powers, didn't say anything at this moment.

Now she and the sub personalities who trusted me enough wanted me to read a strange code so that all of her sub personalities would be shut down and remain unreachable to outsiders. Praying at that moment, I did it. I was instructed to look right at her and I had to read it out loud and say it perfectly. So I repeated the code phrase from the paper she gave me. I waited, there were a few blinks of her eyes and then I called one of the sub personalities by name…no response. I kept asking to talk to sub alters that I knew but to no avail…for days. It was just her, the cop; I had no phone calls, notes or requests. She had no episodes of being triggered and leaving either. All was very quiet.

She gave me a second code when she gave me the first one. It came with instructions for when I should speak it out loud. The day came and I looked at her like before and spoke the code out loud. In just a few moments a sub personality I knew well came up. These and many others were back, the code 'trigger' released them and they were all clamoring for talk time. I was told that none of them were accessed while the military type handlers were in town seeking her. One of the nights while she was 'shut down' we were doing some surveillance by her house and just prayerfully watching. Once we engaged a bald man who was driving a car, he was wearing a black military type fatigue/uniform top.

The codes to trigger do work and I would see things like this again and again. Let's take a look at triggers/codes and what could be the possible code or trigger that would call forth many chosen ones for the day of the massive chaos (black awakening). I have been asked many times over the years by those who have heard me speak on this subject what I think the activation or type of trigger will be used. Below is my answer. This is how hundreds of thousands of highly trained chosen ones will be activated for the coming anarchy.

WHAT CAN A FEW DEMONS DO?

I know we have already gone over what some triggers are and what kinds are used with SRA/MPD victims. All of these victims have codes/triggers in the sub personalities. One triggering 'device' that should be emphasized is what is seen in Revelation 16. It's a 'spiritual' activation or trigger that will cause an even larger gathering for those who have chosen to be a servant of the antichrist.

Revelation 16 reveals a ritual type of release of demonic spirits. The spirits are sent out, they have their targets and they reach them. When these spirits arrive they are effective! They communicate (voice to skull?), influence and 'trigger' political and military leaders with a vast army of trained super soldiers to come and gather. Notice what happens with the spiritual activation in Revelation 16, this may be how they activate chosen ones now. This is what happens:

- The dark spirits are sent out
- The dark spirits have their targets
- The dark spirits operate supernaturally
- The dark spirits accomplish their goal
- The dark spirits (by sheer satanic power) gather the political and military leaders with the multinational super army.
- This 'ritual' type release of demonic powers to activate and gather millions on a global scale may give us a glimpse of a possible national activation of deployed demonic power to trigger hundreds of thousands of programmed energized chosen ones for the black awakening.

It is sheer demonic powers sent by 'senders' that will gather the largest gathering of men and demons to make war on the descent of the living Christ. Dark spirits can trigger sub personalities that already have demonic presence on them. It has been done while we were hiding out a victim on a ritual holiday. It would be the handlers who know how or the coven that would conjurer and send these 'hounds of hell'.

Also never forget, there is no sending of demonic forces without having 'senders'. It is the sender (s) who knows what they want and when the sending needs to occur. I hope this will give you a clue of what we have called 'occult level spiritual warfare'. Real satanists/luciferians are conjuring and sending demonic spirits against their chosen targets all the time. I will discuss the 'cones of power' that have been operating and sending demonic powers for some time now in section 4.

PREPARED FOR ACTIVATION

Like those in Revelation 1919 who were already prepared for the coming call to 'gather together' and make war, the super soldier chosen ones of today are prepared. They have programming with codes in place. They have sub personalities who were created for this and are waiting (sleepers) for the call. They also have the preparatory demonic presence within them, assigned and waiting. They are ready for a mechanical or technological type trigger; they are also ready and experienced for demonic powers triggering them to action.

THE FIRST SATANIC INVERTED PENTECOST

The biblical picture of a pouring out of the power of God on the day of Pentecost is awesome. It was prophesied by the prophet Joel (by the Spirit of God) that a massive pouring out of the Holy Spirit would occur. Jesus prepared the early disciples for this (see Luke 24; John 7; Acts1:8) before His ascension. If you read in the book of Acts chapter two you will see the fulfillment of the prophecy and the massive power of the Spirit of God that was poured out on the believers. This power of God would come on the 'waiting' Church and 'clothe' them with power from on high. When this occurred the Church (people of God) was launch into the world with the mission that Jesus gave them. The global mission of Jesus did not begin until the Power from on High was sent and received! Please note:

- The Power of the Spirit was sent.
- There was a sender…God.
- And there were those who were ready, waiting and prepared.
- The Power came and only then did the Body of Christ launch with supernatural accomplishment.

So it will be with the 'mission' of the fallen cherub. He too will have his counterfeit body of prepared servants. They are waiting and will be the receivers of this first coming counterfeit or as I call it … 'inverted' satanic Pentecost. Dark powers will be summoned, ready and sent in a massive wave and this will be the main cause of the activation of the 'great revolt'. Chosen ones will feel, receive and be clothed/moved upon with powers from below. I think the rest of us may feel, hear or at least know that 'something is in the air' and it is sheer evil in unprecedented levels.

THE BLACK AWAKENING ACTIVATED

This coming ‘great revolt’, ‘rebellion’ or massive chaos and anarchy will be without equal and cannot be missed. The powers unleashed will be effective and hundreds of thousands of satan’s prepared soldiers will switch and unleash the hell they were trained and programmed to do. Their black awakening will occur.

- They are here and they are ready. Millions of intact super soldiers who are the agents of chaos and the doorway for the black awakening are prepared.
- They will release powers before the chaos, at the chaos and their actions will be like an ongoing ritual…evoking even more dark spirits.
- The activation could use technology but most likely be by sheer demonic power.
- Whatever the tools, technology or trigger that is used the fact is that it will not occur unless it is time, the chosen ones and the powers are ready. Here again are some of the possibilities of what could occur.
- It could be a sound like on the emergency broad cast system. A buzz or tone, or sequence of tones.
- It could be a ‘wave’, electromagnetic wave or signal.
- It could be voice to skull (to sub personality) communication coming from digital TV, cell phones or towers, a satellite or from a military installation deep in a mountain.
- Like a dog whistle it will only have its effect on those trained and programmed to respond to it.

In Revelation 16 we have the revelation of a future coming ‘planetary spiritual wave’ of such satanic power that it moves the already seduced new order into ‘gathering together’ for the final days of human history. It is satanic power that moves the world then and I believe it will be summoned sent satanic powers that activate chosen ones and unleash the predicted (and planned) black awakening.

‘It will be ‘demonic powers’ sent that activate the chosen ones and unleash the black awakening’

These are possibilities of what could be used but here is what I believe will occur. It will be 'demonic powers' sent that activate the chosen ones and unleash the black awakening. The unleashing will include:

- The trigger will be sheer satanic power and will manifest massive dark powers in the air, over cities and on those prepared to destroy.
- The super soldiers when activated will manifest dark power and will seem crazed.
- They will create a national ritual by the fear created, terror demonstrated and blood they shed. Demons are summoned through these doors (raised energy).
- They may come in waves. Like in Jobs case the events caused by satanic presence, plot and power got worse and worse.
- It will be a burst, like bats out of hell. Thus it is a revolt, chaos and anarchy on a massive scale.

The 'gathering together' of leaders and soldiers for the battle at Armageddon is done by sheer dark spiritual forces. The demons and their miraculous powers will 'trigger', influence, guide and call together millions to the middle east to make war on the second coming of Christ. This may be the 'mother' of all triggering (ritual demonic release) but I am sure it wasn't the first!

THE BLACK AWAKENING HELD UP

I do want you to know that none of this will happen until the 'sovereign restraint' is removed! Let me say it again:

"I do want you to know that none of this will happen until the 'sovereign restraint' is removed."RD

All of hell's power, force, preparation and agenda cannot happen until God hands it over. Until the sovereign restraint is taken out of the way none of this is possible. It is once again evidence that the 'finite cannot become or over take the infinite.' God is able, and does at times release the unyielding wickedness of humankind. God does 'hand them over 'to do the evil they are bent on'(see Romans 1). There is right now a Power beyond all of hell combined that is 'holding him (the antichrist and his chaos) back'. The Lamb is infinitely more powerful than the ancient dragon:

"The infinite dwarfs… the fallen finite."

Right at this moment in time it is the hand of God restraining the unleashing of the great revolt. The full force of hell and the evil servants committed to this dark cause cannot break through. Those who are real believers in Christ should know this…"And now you know what is holding him (the antichrist and all of hells powers) back." Please Note:

"My spirit will not contend with man forever…." Genesis 6

"And now you know what is holding him back…"…"but now the one who holds it back will continue to do so till he is taken out of the way. Then…." 2 Thessalonians 2

"Furthermore, since they did not think it worthwhile to retain the knowledge of God, he gave them over to a depraved mind to do what ought not to be done." Romans 1

"….fiery red one. Its rider was given power to take peace form the earth and to make men slay each other" Revelation 6

But for now this 'brotherhood of darkness', that league of luciferian elite are powering up and bugling at the seams to unleash an horrific chaos and ride like hells wind. Like the massive dam that is cracking under pressure so the powers of darkness are pushing and causing the cracks in the walls of society. We may see the spurts of that tainted water but when the dam breaks please realize …everyone will know!

If you think you feel it in the air right now just wait until the atmosphere is filled and the 'revolt' comes. The questions that must be asked dear readers, the ones still pressing on us are: What side of the fence are you on? What are you prepared to do? And what tIme is it?

THEN THE SECOND SATANIC INVERTED PENTECOST

This is the final mother of all rituals and a coming planetary wave of supernatural power! I have only mentioned a little on this 'planetary spiritual wave' that is to come. I don't believe that it is the first one… just the biggest…it is global!

More on this in the December 2009 in the book R1919 and in the spring 2010 release book entitled 'THE VOICE OF AN ANCIENT HATE'.

FINALLY

As I have said and will emphasize, there is no advance to the Kingdom of God without the power of God…so to there is no advance to the domain of darkness without real supernatural demonic powers. There clash of those powers have never been more clear and millions if not billions can feel it. But the worst is yet to come, massive dark powers will be released to cause or activate the black awakening. This happens with individual chosen ones today, we have see this and the only thing to stop it is the authority and power of God. So I hope you are ready and already thinking … what can the body of Christ do to prepare for the coming revolt and rise of homosatanas?

CHAPTER 24
WHEN ALL HELL BREAKS LOOSE

"Don't let anyone deceive you in any way, for that day will not occur until the rebellion occurs…." 2 Thessalonians 2

"Its rider was given power to take peace from the earth and to make men slay each other." Revelation 6

"Notice that the rider (of the red horse) does not do the killing. He will simply take peace from the earth and cause men to slaughter, butcher, and murder each other. (The Greek word for 'kill' here is not for death in battle but for violent killing of all kinds,)" p 9 'BIBLICAL LIBRARY' on the book of Revelation

When the A-bomb was dropped on Nagasaki it could be felt around the world, millions knew, hundreds of thousands experienced it and it was devastating. Truly it changed everything. When I watched the second tower get hit live on TV I felt the evil that was behind this event and I knew massive change had arrived. Was 911 the beginning of the black awakening? As bad as it was the answer is no, 911 was big but it was nothing compared to the coming chaos. Many have written me and asked if the V-Tech shooter who slaughtered many on the college campus was the beginning of the black awakening. My answer on this and those other events of the 'horrific random chaotic' style are types but not the black awakening yet.

When the black awakening occurs it will be known worldwide, it will be felt in the air and it will be seen in every city in the USA. When the spiritual bomb of the black awakening goes off everyone everywhere will know and it will be ….devastating.

IT IS THE TWILIGHT OF CIVILAZATION AS WE KNOW IT

Now let's look at the details of the 'plan' and please realize satan and top military men under his influence never work without a plan. There is a method to this madness!

They came in the night when most people are asleep but then again it's typical of the evil one. As below so they do it above on our streets and in our cities. They are sneaky and sinister as they seek to kill steal and destroy. What they plot in the darkness they seek to accomplish when no one is expecting it.

I woke up about 3:00 am. The pressure alarm didn't go off but I knew God made sure I was up. I walked straight out into the living room and over to my daughter's room that was on the side of the house. I looked out across the street and there they were. It was the coven members that the wife of the federal office told us about and gave evidences of. She called them the 'circle of dominion' and we got calls all the time telling us to back off.

They opened the door of the van and the light came on and it was clear. It was the Guatemalan coven members we had seen before and a man I will call Walt (not his real name) was the driver. I watched as one of them walked across the street in the tree lines hiding from the light of the street light. As he got closer to the side of the house where my daughter was sleeping I had to make a decision. I put up some prayers and then just turned on the front porch light and that was all I needed to do. The man ran back to the van hitting his head on the door frame…of course I laughed. Then they took off.

I know what they do and what they are capable of. They can unleash hell on a person or even a whole family. I know they have no problem killing, torturing and sacrificing even a child. So I watched for a while, all was quiet and then I put down the sling shot gun and lay back down to sleep. The rest of the late night was peaceful.

This individual's method of coming in the night, under the cover of darkness, when no one would suspect them is like the coming black awakening. It is devious and sinister but then again that is the nature of the fallen cherub and of all of those who are his.

WHEN ALL HELL BREAKS LOOSE

When the 'all hell breaks loose', which is what the black awakening is all about, it will be a shock and people will be in awe and dread. What many feel is coming will arrive. It is an event that God has shown us will occur (2Thessalonians 2 'the great revolt). It is an event that is clearly a plan of the luciferians and millions know well they're methodology:

'CHAOS BEFORE THE NEW ORDER'

The Tsunami that occurred in south Indonesia came basically with no warning. Only those who know what the clear signs of a coming tsunami are would have realized what that calm withdrawal of water was before that onslaught came. It was like an eerie calm before the storm. The black awakening may have an eerie calm before it breaks loose. The breaking loose of this chaos may be designed around a national holiday or at least on a date around a satanic ritual date. It is designed to occur, when the nation is focused on something else, like a Fourth of July or Labor Day. If you know how satanic rituals work then know that the massive rituals are done on known Christian holidays…on purpose.

Here are some of the sequences of events or things that will occur. Of course the antichrist, false prophet and the whole new regime has to be in place and ready to step in. But once again the revelation of the antichrist cannot occur without the troops who will help clear the way, release the chaos and level societies' playing field.

PRECURSORS

Presumably the antichrist and all of his entourage will be ready and "somewhere" in the chosen bunkers, clearly in the shadows and fully aware. It is clear they will have to know when the day….the exact moment is that this will all occur. They have to know when to give the call (trigger/activation). You must realize that what was orchestrated in hell's kitchen, under the tutelage of the 'prince of the power of the air-the spirit who is now at work…' will have the 'gun' that will be fired that starts this massacre. This will be the final bullet that will be heard and felt around the world for sure.

You can look for:

- A constant sense of decline and destabilization in society.
- Economic and political failures will be rampant.
- A sense of hopelessness will abound everywhere.
- There will be extreme stress among nations and tense fingers on the triggers that could incite war.
- It will seem that there is only one more straw that is needed to break the back of pent up national, religious and racial anger.
- The pressure for someone to light the match that will ignite the collapse of the world will be almost too much to bear.
- The desire for violence of nation against nation and even inner civil war is part of the 'Chao ab Oder' strategy.
- Many will be in dread and crying loudly for stability and peace, for a 'savior'.
- Sometime in the midst of this the call will come and the chaos will erupt.

You can be sure that dark rituals in sequence and succession will abound….cloaked in the secret places for now. There is a need to have the 'satanic prayers' flowing nonstop until this first inverted power burst erupts. There may be a ramping up of violence and civil unrest and a lot of political activity to stop the descent. Since it is hell coming to the surface as never before in history we should expect the molten lava to be seen…before the ultimate blast.

RESTRAINT REMOVED

We are given revelation by the Spirit of God as to what actually holds this hell on earth back. The entire plan, power and people of the coming black awakening are…as of right now blocked. The hand of God (be an angel or the Holy Spirit) simply holds back the onslaught of the rebellion and rise of antichrist. The hand of restraint here is the power of God holding back this massive unleashing of hell's agenda. The restraint of God spoken of in 2 Thessalonians 2 reveals:

- God has power over all of hell's fiercest force.
- God holds back that which seeks to bring unprecedented deception and destruction. God gives us time to change and turn around.
- God determines the timing, usually to set up evil for its own defeat and destruction.
- God's timing involves set up for the greatest level of redemption and salvation. (see 2 Peter 3)
- Satan and all of his work is finite, however, God is infinite.

FIRST SATANIC INVERTED PENTECOST

As we mentioned in the last chapter this event cannot occur without sheer satanic power. The moment the restraint by God is taken out of the way, the call, powers and agenda of hell will bust out. It is as if all of the demons on that side of the veil, all of the prepared servants of darkness on this side and the fallen cherub himself will be standing there at this door of God's restraint. The troops of antichrist on both sides will be pushing at the gates waiting for the restraint to be removed.

Like a rubber band stretched out and then let loose the prepared chaos soaked in and with satanic powers will spring out and fly forth when loosed. This is not the 'frog in the kettle' approach any more. Society by the billions will have been cooked long enough by the dark power's slow burn. I think that's why most will not see, feel or know what is coming, they have been smoozed and blinded for too long.

FEAR, BLOOD, TERROR AND A NATIONAL RITUAL

As in a satanic death ritual with a human being sacrificed, the process is horrific. There is usually a holding and preparation that goes on first. Then when the day arrives and the servants of darkness begin to gather…dark spirits arrive for the feast. For the demons, human fear, terror and shed blood are the door handles to latch onto if they want to come to this side. Those doing the sacrifice know that the more pain, fear, terror and blood they can gather the better. It's the stuff that draws the dark spirits, it's the 'energies' raised that the demonic can come upon and slide through on.

WHAT TO EXPECT WHEN THE BLACK AWAKENING OCCURS

- An ungodly evil presence everywhere.
- Explosions and fires everywhere
- The electrical grid will be down, failures everywhere.
- Phones and cell phones shut off.
- The www attacked, hacked and down.
- Assigned murder and slaughter of millions.
- Sabotaged responses in military, law enforcement fire and rescue.
- Martial law and troops trying to get on the streets but anarchy, riots and looting will abound.
- Shooters and 'crazed' killers everywhere, blood and bodies in plain sight.
- Civil war opportunists will unleash and battles on the streets will occur.
- Pent up racists anger will rage and unleash.
- Bad weather and chaotic earth events may erupt.
- Shut down on all levels, gas, food, banks etc.
- More waves of the same, day after day and maybe weeks.
- Dead bodies and debris everywhere.
- Suit case type bombs, chemical and biological weapons release may occur but on a small level.
- People hiding and surviving and waiting.
- Will this end or is it the end?

THE GOAL OF THE BLACK AWAKENING

You must know that the goal of the chaos and anarchy is not to annihilate society and a nation. You must remember that the black awakening is not the ultimate luciferian goal. It is only a tool to make a way for the new order they desire. The new order is really only the second phase that is desired and needed. The ultimate goal of a controlled global government and super military system is the final war to try and stop the returning Christ. For now let's take a look at what luciferians hope they can accomplish when they unleash their chaos. This is the whole reason for all the mind control projects, technology and process for creating multiple personality 'disorder'. What you are about to read is the reason the chosen ones are here and why the luciferians have done all they have.

The black awakening will:

- UNLEASH SATANIC POWERS.

  They want and need more spiritual powers to be released. The spiritual influence that is needed to 'lead the whole world astray' (Revelation 12) will be here. The rise of a new unified spiritual system (Babylon) will have to be here if they want to gain the hearts of billions. This satanic power will buffer the apocalypse of the antichrist and help suppress any and all resistance.

- CREATE FEAR PANIC AND TERROR

  Shots fired, buildings bombed and burning, shooters taking out many government leaders, military commanders and law enforcement sabotaged. People on the streets shooting, killing with others shooting back. Dead bodies are lying in the open, bloodshed is seen everywhere; people running, hiding and looking for their families. Panic and confusion abound as more find out this is happening everywhere… EVERYWHERE. They want and need to cause confusion, fear and terror. They want to force millions into hiding and retreat.

- DEMON POSSESSED PEOPLE UNLEASH A PRESENCE

When the chosen ones are activated you must realize that the trained placed sub personality with all of its programming and pent up demonic power will be up and active. Similar to possession the demonic force will be manifesting and emanating from hundreds of thousands of chosen ones as they go on a hell bent rampage. Their look will be crazy with eyes dark and glazed over. I have seen that look and felt that dark energy many times now but I am very sure that its nothing compared to what it will be like when thousands of them are on the streets… everywhere.

- COLLAPSE SOCIETY AND INFRASTRUCTURE

  They need to collapse society. They need every bit of infrastructure crippled. They need the military, law enforcement and governmental response to be crippled and devastated. They will seek to bring the whole nation down to its knees. The electric is out, the food chain is broken, the communications are sporadic and no one trusts anyone. This is the goal, level the whole structure to the point that it cannot respond or help itself. They want it to be in such disarray and need that it (collapsing society) is willing to take help from whoever offers it.

- ELIMINATE RESISTORS AND TARGETED CLEANSING

  While all the chaos and anarchy is going on there will be those selected chosen ones who will be looking for their targets. The targets are those pre-chosen people on every level of society whom luciferian handlers have already deemed dangerous resistors. Just as Hitler and other evil dictators have done the goal is to 'cleanse' the new society of anyone who is not on board. Chosen ones who have been given assassination programming will use it during this time. While all hell is breaking loose and everything is in a panic the trained assassins will get to their targets and slaughter them.

  Though they may make it look like a 'random' killing during a time of chaos, it's not. Chosen ones and their handlers (some called watchers) have done their reconnaissance on those whom they deem as resistors, these undesirables, have already been 'painted' or marked for death. If you are a strong vocal and spiritually powerful (Christian) person and or an opponent of any kind of new world order you have already been marked. I know of chosen ones who know they are placed in churches and other institutions only because they are to take out leaders when the chaos begins. I know of others who have lists, took pictures of perceived resistors, their families and homes to keep tabs on those marked for 'cleansing'.

If you have been a student of history, nations and war then you know that 'cleansing' of perceived resistors is part of the plan as a totally new regime is being built. Just ask the Russians with the rise of Stalin in the 30's. The so called 'great purge' took place and 600,000 to millions were eliminated, deported or in the gulag.

- FORCED HELPLESSNESS

The black awakening will not be over in a day. It will not be one event like 911. It will come most likely in waves, with each new wave of anarchy being worse than the one before it. If you notice the 4 horsemen of the apocalypse (Revelation 6) the deception and then destruction comes in a succession or waves, each one bringing a new level of destruction and chaos.

The goal of the black awakening is to cripple society on all levels. They seek total devastation without annihilation. They want the entire nation (each one they release the BA in) to be on its knees. Like the devastation of Katrina whose people and cities were rendered helpless. The people and the structures that were left were in shambles and helpless. Outside help was needed desperately. It's almost like a satanic bonding ritual where the satanists harm the subject to the point of helplessness and hopelessness, then those who created this condition plan a miraculous deliverance. By masquerading as saviors and helpers the new luciferian regime and its leader will look like the gods of a new era. Thus they will create a psychological or emotional bond with those whom they injured!

- SECURE INFRASTRUCTURE FOR NEW REGIME In the mess and destruction the conspirators of this chaos have planned to take over. What's the use of all the chaos and elimination if they don't take the spoils of this dirty war? Antichrist wants world government and that includes the UK, Canada and the USA. Antichrist and the new regime want the money, the military, the oil and all the tools they can take. They want a new world order and the securing of all the places of power.

  Look for them to show up and the new leaders emerging out of the ashes of the chaos. Like the phoenix rising, these new luciferian leaders will be there to step in and 'help' everyone. New leaders (masqueraded) who were pre-chosen will rise in government, military, law enforcement and many other areas of infrastructure. It's all about control and compliance and taking every place of power and authority is necessary for them.

- THE CALL TO END THE BLACK AWAKENING

  As all this crazy chaos is going on and the feelings of the end of the world set in many will pled for all of this to stop. The government, military and law enforcement will not be able to stop the black awakening. They will be dealing with internal sabotage and betrayal among themselves. As wave after wave of this chaos continues the cry will be, "Who can save us?"

  All of those chosen ones that have discussed this with me have in them suicide programming. They have planted within them sub personalities who are geared to do only one thing…kill the body (commit suicide). When the planned ending to the black awakening is ready there is supposed to be another trigger given that will activate suicide programming in thousands of these slaughtering machines.

  Once again it will be made to look like the new leader and his new regime has stopped the madness and saved society. So the antichrist is the 'savior' of humanity. Woo Who! Right! He stops the chaos, border wars and terror, this 'man of lawlessness' (2 Thess.2-homosatanas) has become the peace maker, and new believers will cry, “Who can make war against him?” What a shock!

- THE CALL TO LISTEN TO A NEW VOICE

  It is at the ending of the chaos and anarchy the electrical grids, phones and maybe even the internet comes back on. People begin to pick up the pieces and bodies. New soldiers are on the streets, many of them were the cloaked agents of the black awakening. Then a new voice is heard by millions, for me it will be the voice of a very ancient hate.

  For the confused and mesmerized world it may be the voice of comfort and security. This voice will be unlike anything anyone has ever heard. It will be sharp, clear, and loud and will emanate a supernatural power. Eyes will glaze over and people may even faint as they listen to the new orator. Most though will never see the fangs for the mask. This will be the voice of that ancient hate, once heard in the heavenlies when some angels listened…agreeing with it as they became demons.

FINALLY

From the book of Daniel the Spirit of God has painted a picture of the antichrist. These prophecies that are 2,600 years old are now being fulfilled. Go check them. Read chapters 7-11, read the whole book. The Spirit of God in prophetic revelation says that this world (counterfeit) savior/antichrist will have…’Eyes like a man,’ ‘be a stern faced leader’ and ‘a mouth that speaks boastfully’ and much more. If you have read this far you can go to my web site and get the now free training course ‘A LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS’ which is over 12+ hours of mp3 teaching/sessions on this very subject. Go to www.shatterthedarkenss.net and click on the tab ‘The book of Daniel-A LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS.

I hope by now you are beginning to plan, prepare and pray.
I hope you are on the right side of the fence.

ANTI CHRIST RIDING THE WAVE

"Just as Jesus, the son of Mary, was uniquely the 'seed' of the women, the antichrist will in some mysterious way be the 'seed' of satan." P 19 'PRINCE OF DARKNESS

"Unbelievable! If he can pull all that off, he'll be the greatest man to ever live!" p 53 'THE FOUTRH REICH

"The diabolical intelligence of the antichrist would be reflected in the eyes, and so one of the outstanding features of the man when he appears may be his eyes" p 60 'HOW TO RECOGNIZE THE ANTICHRIST'

How would you tell others if you knew for absolute sure who the antichrist was? How could you even begin to tell others that the one who seemed to save the world and help humanity reach a new level of human evolution is the devil in human skin?

This one who seems to save the world will also lead it into darkest destruction. His public presence will mean that in a few short years 1/3 off the human race will be wiped out. Maybe he will refer to the occult (new age/Masonic) 'guide stones' down there in Georgia that seek a reduction of the world's population to a manageable 5,000,000. Whatever happens, the antichrist will have a super human ability to spin the devastations that are to come during his reign and make the horrific evil look like icing on a tall wedding cake.

The two events that must and will occur (2 Thess. 2) before the coming of Jesus Christ are 'the rebellion' and the appearance of antichrist. It is clear from scripture that the great revolt or rebellion will be the first and the appearance of the antichrist is second… right on its heels. The first event makes way for the second. It may be the only way global dictatorship could sound so good…to so many.

I remember reading about Lynette Alice Fromme (Squeaky Fromme) who attempted to shoot President Ford. When asked why she followed the crazed spiritually dark Charles Manson and his cult, in Jonathon Gainsburg's book 'TAKE HIM TO THE STREETS' he reports her sad response:

"…a beaten dog will take food from whoever comes along"

Surely the nations, cities and the people coming through the massive, nation crushing black awakening may feel the same way. Whoever comes along in a hopeless crisis to save the day may be welcomed with wide open arms. Food on the table for the kids, safety on the streets for all and a plan of reconstructing the future is good news to a hopeless hungry beaten person.

Please note that the black awakening is designed to create the crying need for a powerful, new leader. The hurting will want someone who has the will and a plan to make things good. The black awakening and its flipside plot to thrust the able sounding 'stern faced king' into the faces of the devastated is a very dark strategy and it is prophesied that it will work…at least at first. The antichrist who will lead the black awakening from behind the curtain will come out to ride the wave of tears and offer a towel.

I was told that a bonding ritual was done to a victim of satanic ritual abuse. I have heard a number of them but this one from the girl who reported it stuck with me the most. She says that in the coven the kids being trained were once tied up and left on tables. The children began to cry, wet themselves and desire food. The kids heard a voice telling them to call on Jesus and see if he would come and help them. They did over and over again, and then finally a figure showed up made to look like a Jesus from the movies. They asked this Jesus to help them but this Jesus laughed at them and spit on them. This Jesus hit them and abused them. The children screamed all the more, they grew hopeless and weary. Then they heard another voice and it told them to call on satan and without any other hope they did!

Then a satan like character immediately showed up, he instantly untied them, wiped away their tears and helped them clean up. This satan hugged them and fed them the finest of foods….the kids bonded to this satan, the kids loved this satan, the kids learned. These kinds of bonding trainings have occurred with many victims of satanic ritual abuse. It all reminds me of the story of Job. Satan comes and strikes Job on many levels. Satan hits Job with more, it seemed that wave after wave came against this man and the cause of it all was hidden from Job until the end.

The satanic methodology was to cause the pain and to get the God fearing Job to blame it all on God, to curse God and die. A deep and central part of satans plot is to cause the pain and embitter the hurting against God and I am very sure that the pain of the great chaos will include a voice that spins the calamity with questions like; "Where's God? And or God has failed. Why doesn't God show up? Why would God allow this?, Forget Him and trust me (antichrist)".

I know after 35 years of counseling others that the embittered and depressed regardless of who caused it hear that same old whisper all the time; Its God's fault; so "curse God and die". And that my dear reader is the voice of this ancient hate. That same voice will have a throat and mouth to speak through in the antichrist, remember the antichrist is that same Job assaulting satan only clothed in human skin.

Whatever he looks like in the flesh it is what he is in his nature that will enable him to smile so brightly… as he cuts your throat to the core. Here are some things to know about satan, the antichrist and the coming chaos.

THE ANTICHRIST LIVES

It is clear from prophecies in the books of Daniel, Matthew, 2 Thessalonians, I John and the book of Revelation that this super being is coming. In I John we are told that the presence of many (smaller) antichrists and the coming of the antichrist is 'how we know it is the last hour' of human history. Surely we know by now that when the antichrist appears (his apocalypse) it will mark the last 7 years of human history as we know it. His appearance also marks two major issues.

- The ultimate lie and deception will be present and it will come with unprecedented supernatural power.
- Unequaled devastation and destruction. Billions will die, the earth will be scorched and a standing globalist army will be ended in one day.

The thing you and I will have to grapple with is this; is the antichrist alive right now on this planet and if so how much time is left until this black awakening occurs? Remember the antichrist does not show up until the 'rebellion/revolt' occurs. It's the event that opens the door for him. Here are some things that point to what I now believe so strongly: Antichrist has been born and he is on the earth among us.

- Every chosen one I know has sub personalities who are satanic ritual priests or priestesses. They and other coven loyal sub personalities believe that the antichrist is alive right now and they are excited about his soon arrival.
- Everywhere I go I ask at conferences and on live radio how many believe that Jesus is coming in the next 5-10 or even 25 years? Most say very soon, most say within 10 years. If Jesus will return in your lifetime this would mean that the antichrist has been born and is alive right now.
- The Prophetic Biblical time line would lead most to say the return of Christ has to be soon (10-20 years). If so antichrist has to be here, alive and operating toward the goals of massive chaos that leads to a new order.

THE ANTICHRIST HAS FRIENDS

Just as Jesus had a human mother with a purely human bloodline that went all the way back to Adam. So too the antichrist will have a human mother and those who have been plotting and working for his conception and his unnatural birth. Those who are the 'friends' of antichrist must be many; they have sought his agenda even before he was born. They, this ancient brotherhood of darkness are the elite that so many feel are controlling the world with its money, oil, wars and influence. Just as antichrist is most likely here, so are those who have raised him right in plain sight.

In the trans-generational satanism that has produced hundreds of thousands of victim/chosen ones there is one theme they can all tell you about. There has been and is an ongoing goal to cause a 'demon to human' conception. The goal of this is to create a 'super' human or an enhanced human but for what end? This goal of a supernatural conception is very similar to the creation of the nephilim (See Genesis 6). The results of the nephilim were the arrival of a 'transmutation' of humanity and a corruption of the human bloodline. The genetics of a demon to human conception changes the God given gift to humanity in procreating pure human offspring.

The demonic doctrine of the Nazis included the breeding of an Aryan super race. The Aryans may have been from the generations of the nephilim and it was thought that their purified blood would bring back the ability to produce god-like humans who could then be used as a master race of warriors. Chosen ones today have been birthed in the context of this goal; luciferian leaders were driven to create a massive army. Only an undefeatable super army can help them reach their goal of a new order and ruling the world. Remember no political system can come or stay without the military might it produces. C*hosen ones* everywhere believe they are the friends of antichrist, they are birthed and raised for him.

THE ANTICHRIST HAS TROOPS

Chosen ones claim to be the troops of the coming antichrist. They claim the training and programming is part of the preparation to be the ones who bring the antichrist into power. Most sub personalities who come up that discuss the antichrist will feel highly superior to you and believe they will help rule the world. The rise of the antichrist means the rise of a whole new system and a new political ideology and the only way to bring it to power is having troops who can help him get there.

The troops of antichrist as we have already said will be needed to bring him to power, eliminate the resistors and establish by force the new order. These troops will also be needed for the attempted destruction of believers in Christ and of the destruction of Israel. But this is not all; the ultimate need for troops as the prophetic revelation of scripture shows us is for that final global super army that will be on the field of Armageddon.

It is strange that military sub personalities who know how to fight, use weapons and have given allegiance to the coming antichrist know so much about Armageddon and can discuss it with you. One of them brought me a letter said to have come from a high up handler. It addressed me and said that they could not wait to unleash this highly trained chosen one on me at Armageddon. Chosen ones know and we should too that…the luciferian elite who are among the governments, military and wealth of the world are planning for Armageddon. The strange thing is they are convinced and feel they can win.

THE ANTICHRIST IS THE CAUSE FOR THE MASSIVE CHAOS

The coming black awakening is what this book is all about. I feel it is a massively neglected aspect of Biblical Prophetic Revelation. It is my conviction that there would be no massive chaos and the things that led up to it, if there were no coming antichrist. And this leads to the fact that the only reason for the black awakening and the long process of creating those who will unleash it must be the soon coming of the prophesied beast.

It is clear also that the 'secret power of lawlessness' of 2 Thessalonians 2 is 'already at work' (supernaturally operative) and that this secret power is lead by 'the ruler' of the power of the air (atmosphere), the spirit who is now at work (super naturally operative/ same word) in fallen human beings (see Ephesians 2). It is this satanic power that is both raising the army of chosen ones and the antichrist who will rise on the boot heels of their fighting skills.

FINALLY

If you are a chosen one or someone who is helping them you know well these things are true. If you are a reader seeking to make sense of the days we live in maybe now you can connect the dots and decide what you will do.

CHAPTER 26
THE BLACK AWAKENING AND PROPHETIC REVELATION

"As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the Lord is flawless…."2 Samuel 22

"But this has all taken place that the writings of the prophets might be fulfilled……"Matthew 26:56

"The angel said to me, these words are trustworthy and true. The Lord, the God of the spirits of the prophets, sent his angel to show his servants the things that must soon take place."Revelation 22

"Jesus regarded the evidence of prophecy as sufficient in itself to prove His claims." p 10' THE PROMISED MESSIAH'

Prophetic Revelation (PR) in Biblical inspiration is unequaled in its scope, depth and details. PR can reveal the end of history, the new heavens, new earth and then also reveal the details of the 30 pieces of silver that Judas was given for betraying Christ long before it ever occurred. Biblical PR evidences that it could only come from someone who is omnipresent, omniscient and omnipotent. The source of all Biblical prophecy is infinite and immeasurable and this is quite different than anything finite no matter what its power. Here are just some of the PR that point to the aspects of this book's premise, namely the rise of satanic globalism, the unleashing of a chaos that makes it possible, the development of satanic super soldiers and the final war-Armageddon.

PR REVEALS A WAR

In Genesis 3:15 we have the first prophetic revelation ever given. It comes right after the fall of the human race and the entrance of the satanic presence as 'god of this world' (age-2 Corinthians 4:4). Just as separation from God and the sin code seizes humanity, God declares that a Messiah is coming and that there would be battle between Christ and satan. It declares satan's audacity to strike at Christ and orchestrate His crucifixion and reveals also that Christ will crush the full force and authority of satan and gain victory over all of what the fallen cherub has done.

PR REVEALS A MASSIVE CONSPIRACY

Three thousand years ago God not only revealed the actions of the world under globalism but the very disposition and feelings of the masses. Here in Psalm 2 God asks the question, WHY? Why do the nations rage/conspire and the peoples plot in vain. Why do the kings political/military leaders lead the way to make war on and fight against God… and against His Anointed One.

The Anointed one is the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, in Psalm 2 for sure and the spirit of antichrist will operate against Him until the end. This prophecy is given 1,000 years before Jesus comes the first time and 3,000 years before (at this time in history) the visible second coming of Christ. Its fulfillment is found in Revelation 19:19-20. PS2 reveals that the shadow government steeped in dark powers is the central conspiracy of all time. This conspiracy has been growing and has now revealed itself in the affairs of the world as never before. That is what the prophetic revelation of Scripture has said would happen and it's all right on track.

This 'conspiracy of the ages' is about to show itself to the world in the form of a chaos before its new order. It has both in its plot. The good news in all of this conspiracy, as it leads us to unequalled destruction, is that God has and is right now offering abounding grace…a way out. God addresses the political and military leaders who are being sucked into luciferian globalism from 3,000 years ago. God offers the way out…embrace the Son! Come to Christ now and be freed, rescued and redeemed. That is the offer in Psalm 2. Here is another one from Isaiah 45:

"Turn to me and be saved, all you ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is no other"

As usual the Spirit of God calls for everyone to come to Christ and embrace Him. It gives warning to the Kings, nations and peoples who are being pulled into this luciferian globalism.

PR REVEALS 'REBELS' TO THE END

Twenty six hundred years ago in one of the most supernaturally engaging books of the Bible, Daniel would become the recipient of immediate prophetic insight and very long range prophecy. In this book we are impacted with the sheer accuracy of historical figures and of the rise and fall of major kingdoms/nations that have come and gone; Babylon, Mead-Persia, Greece and Rome. It also declares the events of the very end of history, the rise of a super evil kingdom and its globalist leader the antichrist. Here we get details of the antichrist as nowhere else in Scripture; his eyes, face, speech and much more.

In Daniel we also have the prophecies that tell us devastations will come, that war and bloodshed will remain until the return of Christ, there will be 'war on the saints' and that wicked rebels will remain to the end. It shows that devastations and violence will continue all the way to the very end. It is clear that it refers to the soldiers of antichrist and their use…which would include the black awakening/rebellion and the final war of Armageddon.

PR SAYS THAT THE END OF DAYS WILL BE VIOLENT

Jesus informed us in a massive prophetic revealing of the end of days in Matthew 24. He urged us to let no one deceive us and the end of days will include wars, violence and devastations. Jesus goes so far in this PR to warn that unless He cuts those days short no flesh would be left. Man's sin and the satanic agenda could go so far and unless stopped bring annihilation to the human race. Now that is massive! Dear reader it is very clear that the last days will include spiritual seduction, the loss of many lives and the reign of radical evil.

PR REVEALS A SUPER ARMY IN THE END

Revelation 1919 has not yet occurred. It may be ten or more years away but it will come. No prophetic revelation has ever failed as a whole or in any of its details. There will be a final war and it's called Armageddon. This prophecy which is part of a massive array of future prophetic revelation was given 2,000 years ago. There will be on the field waiting for the appearance of Jesus Christ in His foretold second coming, the antichrist and his massive globalist army. That army on the field will be the biggest, mightiest and most powerful in all of history. It is an army raised, marked and trained for this full onslaught satanic battle. It's an army that was built over time and I believe it is one that includes the current creation of the super soldier chosen ones.

PR SAYS AN ARMY IS GROWING

In Matthew 13 the parable of the 'tares' that is given lifts up the veil and reveals the hidden spiritual work of the evil one. It reveals that the hidden spiritual work has a corresponding manifestation into visible history. In Matthew 13 these 'tares' (servant soldiers) are here only because of the satanic presence, power and will. Satan is creating an army and it's done by design and in a dark spiritual evolution.

Jesus reveals here what the Scriptures teach about a 'secret power of lawlessness' as seen in 2 Thessalonians Chapter 2. This dark occult power is operating at this very hour (this lawlessness means; opposing any and all of God and His work). Jesus 2,000 years ago gives a picture of what is going on behind the scenes of normal human sight. It is a revelation of the active ongoing agenda of satan's work. It reveals the creation of a counterfeit spiritual kingdom, demonic doctrine, the development of satanic servants and of their placement among the real people of God. It also exposes how the evil one works (without rest) in the dark. It exposes a shadow supernatural conspiracy operating and evolving.

PR REVEALS A COMING GREAT REVOLT

The Spirit of God has given us a picture of many prophetic events. He as revealed not only what God is doing and will do, the Holy Spirit also reveals what I have called 'the sequence of satanic evolution', that is, the step by step (process) of satan's agenda. God knows every move of the 'secret power' and hidden work of the evil one. In PR the Spirit of God reveals what no one could know otherwise. The world with its crisis, destabilization and never ending conflicts would make no sense without the insight that God gives on the activity of radical evil and its affect on society.

The Spirit who gives all of biblical prophecy reveals that the return of Christ (rapture and visible return) will not occur until two major events take place. In 2 Thessalonians Chapter 2 God reveals a 'great revolt' and the 'apocalypse of the antichrist' have to occur first before the coming of Jesus. It's the 'great revolt' that is of great interest here. Let's look at a few things:

It is called a 'great revolt' in older English and Latin translations. It is translated rebellion in most new ones. The concept is not that of a slow sliding away of believers. The very meaning of the word refers to a massive event, a violent overthrow or coup. It's even used in older Greek language for a military coup or overthrow. This Greek word for 'rebellion' is used in Acts 21:21 in reference to the coup/overthrow that occurred in society when Moses went up on the mountain. That overthrow was seen as a violent turning of the people and an agenda to replace God with another totally different disposition and agenda..satanic worship.

The 'great revolt' that is prophesized is not from God, it is revealed by God but is accomplished by evil. It is directly connected to the apocalypse of the man of lawlessness. It's best translated 'rebellion' or 'revolt' because of its meaning of a willful and violent action. It has the idea of 'attack' and that it's attack brings harm.

The old Williams translation says 'great revolt'. God's Word translation says "revolt" and International translation says 'rebellion'. Douay-Rheims says 'revolt'. The NIV, ESV and the Net Bible say 'rebellion'. The NIGTC-New International Greek Testament Commentary digs in to this word

'rebellion' and on p 244 says:

"Paul probably taught that the apostasy (rebellion) was to come about through the activity of the person of rebellion."(Antichrist)

New Testament scholar Gene L Green in his commentary 'THE LETTERS TO THE THESSALONIANS' reveals on p 307 that this word 'revolt':

"In ancient writings a rebellion (apostasia) could be understood as being against any kind of established authority; be it political…religious and against God"

The 'great revolt' is revealed in that chapter in the context of the coming of the antichrist, the active work of the secret power of lawlessness, the satanic powers of counterfeit miracles, signs and wonders. It is in the context of warnings to not let anyone deceive you (by satanic powers) and is a reaffirmation of the real sequence of Christ's return (revolt and antichrist first).

It is clearly my understanding this word 'revolt' reveals the willful and violent attack against God's people and all that is God's within society. It speaks of a massive rebellion/chaos that is plotted and caused by the antichrist and satanic powers. I believe that this revelation exposes the satanic plot to unleash a chaos/attack in order to replace it with the coming reign of antichrist.

PR REVEALS THE ERUPTION OF THE RED HORSE

In Revelation Chapter 6 we see the unleashing of the four horsemen of the 'apocalypse'. If the white horse refers to the counterfeit Christ/ antichrist or even the 'spirit of antichrist' (see 1John 4) it is clear that he or the spirit of antichrist seeks to conquer/dominate. This conquering involves controlling the spiritual as well as the physical realm.

When the red horse breaks out, the picture is of a 'bursting' out and a violent unleashing. The effects of this release are the immediate removal of peace from all of society (the earth). This is an abrupt event that 'takes' peace from the earth. This red fiery (pyros) horse also reveals that it causes the eruption of 'men violently slaying each other. The word used here refers more to a civil insurrection and criminal murder/killings and the actual word can be translated 'butcher'. The Net Bible footnote # 15 says:

"…killing of a person by violence…butcher or murder someone"

It is a picture of an eruption of people breaking out and violently slaughtering others in a type of civil battle and this is what the black awakening is all about.

PR REVEALS THAT THE SATANIC GOAL IS ARMAGEDDON

Psalm 2 is the amazing prophecy that foretells the end of history and the conspiracy of kings, nations and the masses of people under the reign of antichrist. It shows the new luciferian order will be 'against' God and 'against' Christ. Revelation 19:19 is the fulfillment of that ancient Psalm and unveils that a super military/army is on the field with the antichrist. The sole objective of that super soldier military is to 'make war on' Jesus Christ as He is descending at the second coming.

There is no Armageddon without this super army on the field. There is no super army without its recruitment, training and deployment and we all know you cannot raise an army like this over night. From Psalm 2 to Revelation 19:19 the fact is that a satanic conspiracy involving political/military leaders, nations and people will plan, plot and create a super soldier military so massive and so demonic it will take on Christ. The goal is to annihilate Jesus and this is satan's third attempt. The first two failed and prophetic revelation tells us this coming final one will fail miserably.

PR REVEALS AN ARMY FOR PERSECUTION

How will you stop millions of Christians and the influence of the Christian Church in society and among the nations? Well, you can seek to get rid of them! That was Rome's response to the miraculous growth of the church 2.000 years ago. The martyrdom then was outrageous and may be the reason why God crushed Rome under the feet of the Church (see Romans 16:20).

God does take note of those who come against His people. Jesus did intervene when Saul was going to harm more believers (see Acts 9). Revelation 7 reveals millions of believers in Christ are in heaven in the middle part of the great tribulation. It shows they were martyrs who have come from every tribe, nation, language and people group. If this is a prophetic/futuristic look at a global attack and persecution of those who believe in Jesus and many die then we must ask: Who could issue a call to persecute Christian's world-wide and who would be the agents of this world wide attack?

The call comes from antichrist and the persecution is carried out by his troops. Many chosen ones have inside them a rage against Christians. They tell me they can't wait to spill Christian blood and desire to slaughter as many as possible. I have seen their programmed demon empowered hate, I have felt their attempts of murder and attack. I have seen what they can do and they by the thousands are very capable of being used to carry out orders of annihilating millions who simply believe in Jesus.

THE COMING REVOLT MUST HAVE CHOSEN ONES

What all of these chosen ones and their sub personalities have told me over the last 20+ years agrees with and runs parallel to the Biblical and prophetic revelation. They say they are the troops of antichrist; that millions of them have been and are being created to serve him. They claim to be super solders and will be used to cause a vast chaos/revolt. They claim antichrist is here and that the black awakening/revolt is just a few years away.

There can be no massive revolt-rebellion or satanic black awakening without the numbers of soldier servants to carry it out. The vast numbers of victims of SRA/MPD confirm to us either sick people just wanted blood, sex and demons or that the stories of many are true; the agenda is to create hundreds of thousands of controlled super fighters who will be called or activated to unleash hell on earth and flip society over so a new one can begin.

I believe the chosen ones are purposely created and made to be the agents and servants of the antichrist and there may be more of them than anyone has realized.

FINALLY

If you know Scripture, both the PR referring to what God is doing and going to do and also what satan is doing and about to do, you will understand much. Prophetic Revelation is the specially selected intelligence God has given for our best. It can warn, astound and cause us to prepare. Dear reader God has not left us in the dark. He has not left us with mere guess work. If you feel the evil in the air and see the end of days are really here then look to God's strategic PR to see what is coming next and what you can do.

Just as Peter on the day of Pentecost said by the Spirit of God to the crowds 'this is that' (see Acts 2) -referring to the direct fulfillment of the prophet Joel's prophecy about the very day of Pentecost, so too you can know the prophecies and use them to build up your faith in Christ. You can use them to evangelize the people around you; after all Jesus came not to condemn the world but to save it (John 3:17).

If you have time seek to know and memorize this Word of God. Check out 1 Peter 1:10-12. Learn this passage well. Seek to do what great prophets of long ago did.

"Concerning this salvation, the prophets, who spoke of the grace that was to come to you, searched intently and with the greatest care, trying to find out the time and circumstances to which the Spirit of Christ in them was pointing when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the glories that would follow."

CHOSEN ONES

THE FIRE FALLS

"Be very careful, then, how you live-not as unwise but as wise, making the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil"

Ephesians 5

CHAPTER 27
ENGAGING CHOSEN ONES NOW

"And now compelled by the Spirit, I am going…… not knowing what will happen to me there" Acts 20

"It is difficult to identify a hypnoprogrammed, mind-controlled person, if he does not consciously know that fact about himself. p 357 'SECRET, DON'T TELL'

"An example of the satanic cult programming came up in a conversation I had recently with a therapist in Ohio. He is working with a client struggling with satanic cult flashbacks from her childhood." P 77 'BREAKING THE CIRCLE OF SATANIC RITUAL ABUSE'

You may have worked with a multiple and didn't know it. You may even know one right now. They are not crazy but they have had a lot of sophisticated damage done to them. Usually the upfront person that is working next to you or the one that is at your school (or church) wouldn't hurt a fly, but they may have predator programmed sub personalities that could take your head off if they wanted. I have been with many SRA/MPD victims and for the most part they have been harmless to the staff and me. Most of them just want to find out what is wrong with them and get help.

If there are over 4 million victims it's amazing to me that a lot more perpetrators haven't gone to jail, at least not yet. It's also amazing that with so many victims, books and information out, that most everyone I meet has no idea what satanic ritual abuse is or what multiplicity is all about. But this is the nature of the secrecy that surrounds this condition. It is cloaked in dark secrecy and is supposed to stay totally hidden. Victims are not to mention anything and they have 'programmed amnesia' (don't tell conditioning). They are 'mind' controlled not to know or remember any of the bad stuff and if they do remember it is a kick in the head at first!

We are dealing with victims, with human beings who were taken from childhood and forced to live two lives: One in the real world and the other is a world of demons, sex, death and pain. To see a childhood picture of many of the victims I have dealt with at times seems to show the same life as anyone else. Yet here they are with dozens of sub personalities, voices inside them and a world of memories that would even scare victims at Nazi death camps.

So if you are going to engage a multiple, hopefully you are not doing it so you can look at them from afar as if they were a specimen in a glass dish. I am compelled to engage these victims because:

- I know something about them…sra/mpd is real.
- I know they are victims and are in deep need.
- I know that some are seeking help.
- I know that they can't get out without help.
- I know they need Christ, salvation, healing and set free.
- I know there is a love and compassion they haven't tasted.

ABDUCTED AND RUINED

When I first met with this teenager he was scared and fearful of what might happen to him. He came to stay with us for a few days until I could get him back home. He was so passive and unassuming yet there was another world going on the inside of him. I watched him as many others at church talked to him. They sensed he was hurting but had no idea that he had a sub personality that when triggered would seek to commit suicide.

They didn't know he had been to blood sacrifices and was sexually abused for days by a rogue chosen one. In him were some demons that were placed during a ritual ceremony. There were also phrases he was repeating that no one seemed to understand. It was backward Latin, a ritual calling for the demonic to come.

You could be around him and he was as harmless as a fly but I would never leave him alone or with someone else's children. What was in him would look for the opportunity to harm them.…in a second. It would take some time to find out what happened to him.

During those meetings I would get outraged with what was done to him. I wanted to go after the man who did it. This boy was demonized, sexually addicted and a predator. He harmed himself and others who didn't know what he was or how to deal with what was inside him. To this day he is not healed and it's clear that his childhood and life up to this point has been stolen. There are thousands more in your state or area that had the same or worse ritual/total abuse.

KNOWING ABOUT THEM HELPS

If you know about satanic ritual abuse and have some insight to multiple personality disorder then you know more than most. You can educate yourself and even read this entire book but when you engage a victim…that's really when you begin to learn. Those reading this work are like the many listeners who hear me on the radio. They could be victims who are seeking someone who knows, or it could be the perpetrator reading and wanting to know what we know and how they can counter us.

There are others who care about end time events and want to know how some prophecies are fulfilled. Looking at R1919 with its mass army of super soldiers and weapons begs an answer to the questions: Who are they? Who recruited and trained them? And why would they want to destroy Jesus Christ as He descends from heaven? You are reading this and wondering how or why? Unless you know the satanic agenda and the need for globalism with a massive loyalty to the antichrist army then much of this will be a mystery.

There are many books and ones I have quoted that can speak about the reality of SRA/MPD but cannot touch the spiritual depth, discern the dark spirits or see the big picture: The millions of victims who are being treated are only part of the whole. There are many more and they are here with an agenda.

THEY ARE HERE BY DESIGN

They are here by design. They have been created, programmed, 'energized' (demonized) and controlled to perform a task, a very big one. The ultimate agenda and reason for the chosen one's existence are:

- THE BLACK AWAKENING. They are created to prepare for and be placed until the call (the activation) is given and then they are supposed to unleash hell's plot of revolt, rebellion, chaos and anarchy. Make no mistake this is their design! This is the reason for the demonic technology that created them.
- TO MAKE WAY FOR AND SERVE HOMOSATANAS. The upfront person and many sub personalities who want free don't want to do this but if you get to the coven loyal, German speaking or military trained sub persons they will tell you….they are the troops of the coming world leader. Many of them will serve during the rule of antichrist.

If you meet a multiple they may not show or tell you much, at least not at first. Many of them are 'intact' and don't even know they are multiple much less a satanic super soldier (chosen one). If you start to work with one or try to help them don't start with 'you're a satanic chosen one who is going to kill many…". If they have no idea what is inside they may just fall apart. Start with where they are. You can start with loving them, praying for them, talk to sub parts as they come up, protect them, begin to seek their salvation in Christ, healing and deliverance from the demonic.

As you begin to help you will have to keep an eye out for demonic deception, sub personalities who will tell on you and for possible handlers/coven members who want to stop you. You can be sure you will experience ramped up spiritual warfare too. And one more thing, if you are going to help, remember they are here by design, they are here to be used to do great harm. Helping them get free will stop them from doing the destruction they were designed for. You can also check out our 24+ hours of mp3s that deal with the basics of helping SRA/MPD; these will help you and help you help them.

THEY ARE EVERYWHERE

I have met SRA/MPD victims 'chosen ones' in the hospitals, counseling centers, churches, law enforcement, and military, at a restaurant, on the job and in other social meetings. Remember there may have been up to 10 million of them and many more are being forged as you read. There is an agenda!

One person told me why some if not most were called monarchs. The monarch butterfly is one of the only little creatures who have migrated to every continent on the earth. Thus the idea that chosen ones have be made and then placed around the world. It is true that Canada, the USA, England, Germany, Russia, Israel and other nations have SRA/MPD victims. One must ask….How big is this issue?

Dear friend, the creation of chosen ones for the purpose of creating the black awakening and ushering in the antichrist is a multinational agenda. This thing is global and they have been placed everywhere.

You can start to pray for God to expose the active intact ones. Pray that God will cause the demonic power in them to be crushed and they will begin to realize what was done to them. Pray also for God to rescue them and that they can escape. You might want to build a team that will seek them, find them and help get them out. I will tell you if you begin praying this way…… you will find them or they will find you!

THEY CAN AND SHOULD BE REACHED

As I have just said you can begin to pray to be aware of them and where they might be. The goal is to help, heal, deliver and get them saved (knowing God in Christ). They should be reached for these clear reasons:

- Salvation! God is not willing for anyone to perish and wills/desires all people to come to the truth and be saved. If you are involved with the great commission (Matthew 28) and are reaching people for Christ then you most likely will run into an SRA/MPD victim. You may be led to them or they were led to you. God loves people and Jesus came to set captives free. Whatever the satanic agenda has done to them God in Christ can undo.

- Healing! Jesus is the great healer, just look through the gospel of Mark and you will see the compassion, power and willingness Jesus had in touching hurting people with his mercy. Seek to learn all you can about the healing work of Jesus and seek Him to lead you to bring victims healing. They need physical, mental, emotional healing. The inner healing that Jesus can bring to provide wholeness is awesome, needed and available.
- Set free! Every victim of satanic ritual abuse has demonic presence in some manner. Since there has been a ramping up of demonic presence more and more people will have trouble with demons. Chosen ones will have demons inside and on some or many sub personalities. Deliverance work must be done to get them helped and healed. You will also engage more spiritual warfare and personal attack…and that's ok, you will be able to exercise greater resistance to satanic presence (James 4), become experienced in the battle (Eph.6), use and see the authority of Christ defeat the demonic (Luke 10) and see the power of God demonstrated (Acts 16).

Look again at the gospel of Mark and in the first chapter alone Jesus is bringing salvation, healing and deliverance. This is the core of His work. Keep studying the gospels and the book of Acts. You will need to know what the Living Christ can and does do as He seeks the salvation of people and the destruction of evil. All of this incredible evil, its depth and agenda is not a surprise for God. God is infinite and I believe has already 'prepared' ministry that will reach these victims…He is just looking for Christ filled servants who will jump into this fray! (See Ephesians 2:10)

FINALLY

Thank you for reading about all of this. Most who get this book will want to help in some way. Perpetrators and committed chosen ones may just get mad…but God is seeking you too. For those who want to help learn all you can, pray for exposure against the demonic and for Holy Spirit insight. Maybe you can form a team that will seek to find the victims and help them out and to Jesus. One thing is clear, if you are willing to get involved doors of ministry will open. Remember this:

"Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever" Hebrews 13

CHAPTER 28
UNCOVERING THE MYSTRY OF SRA/MPD PERPETRATORS

"Nothing in all creation is hidden from God's sight. Everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give an account" Hebrews 4

"Just as man is destined to die once, and after that to face judgment" Hebrew 9

"Then I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. Earth and sky fled from his presence, and there was no place for them. And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened……the dead were judged according to what they have done as recorded in the books." Revelation 20

I hope you realize now that there are at least 4 or more million victims of this horror. If you do then at some point you will begin to realize chosen ones were forced into this SRA/MPD since birth and there is someone…some perpetrator(s) behind this agenda. I am confident that in the end God will bring all of the perpetrators to justice and none will escape. Those who are the satanic priests, military splitter/programmers…..all of those involved in harming people will face the wrath of God. Some may be cut short and be dealt with as prayer warriors get involved now.

It may be that one perpetrator who has had 50 years of creating chosen ones will read this. There is a chapter toward the end of this book for you. A person like this may have created hundreds of victims. This means that hundreds of these victims had their core spilt, programming forced in and demons transferred on them. Each victim may have gone through many trauma based episodes, rituals, sexual exploitations and been forced to commit acts that no one should even talk about.

Perpetrators like Cain have blood on their hands and will give an account for all they have done. God has and will destroy some of them even now. If God can take down Pharaoh and his army He can deal with these perpetrators.

When you realize what the perpetrators have to do to create a split, force in programming and all the rest then you know that they are as dark as hell and must have no conscience left. How they can harm children, sexually abuse them, and do it again and again…I say thank God for the coming judgment! Even now I and many others do pray about perpetrators…..the hour is late. Jesus has warned you:

"It would be better for him to be thrown into the sea with a millstone tied around his neck that for him to cause one of these little ones to sin"

Luke 17

GIRL IN THE CROWD

I was in Pennsylvania teaching on spiritual warfare and satanic ritual abuse. As always at these pre-announced conferences there were infiltrators from the brotherhood present. There was also a young girl who talked to one of our helpers. I saw her there a few times and each time she looked over at me…knowing I knew what she was. I asked the worker afterward who talked to her and she told me the details. This 17 year old was a multiple. Her grandfather was the perpetrator and a number of sub personalities made themselves known. The worker wanted to just take the girl from there and hide her. I felt the same thing and when we went back we looked for her, however she was gone. I asked the pastor about her and all he knew was her name. The teen did not return and for now we have lost our opportunity to help.

Cases like this haunt me. I know they are back with the perpetrators; they are being used, abused, split, programmed, demonized and for most of them.…by members of their own coven connected family!

Note:

"For every victim of SRA/MPD there is at least one perpetrator who is the cause of their victimization…..let's see now- 4 million + victims and then……..how many perpetrators?"

WHERE IT ALL BEGINS

It all begins in the heart of the desecrated fallen cherub. The idea, technology and process were evolved in the dark heart and evil mind of satan himself. It's clear that he spins his evil web and moves those who follow him to do his will (captive to do Satan's will). It is satan who tore himself from God and turned himself inside out (Ezekiel 28). It was satan who led 1/3 of the angels astray and the human race into death (Genesis 3). He does lead God rejecting people to 'invent ways of doing evil'. Romans 1

Though it all starts with the evil one (he has been sinning from the beginning…1 John 3) the evil has spread! Those who are creating SRA/MPD chosen ones are doing satan's will and most of them know it too. Please realize that perpetrators I have engaged have shown commitment to the luciferian agenda and will do everything to perform satan's agenda. They have shown hate, sent dark powers, threatened and plotted evil against us: They are the sons and daughters of hell itself and the sad fact is that many of them are older SRA/MPD recruits!

The agenda of satan to stop Christ in the end (R1919) is a long and drawn out process. It is the sequence of satanic evolution within humanity that has developed and brought about this grave evil. False doctrines, false Christs, counterfeit miracles and deceiving spirits are all flowing from hell's polluted waters. This means dear reader that the whole process is energized with dark powers and overseen like nothing else in any human endeavor.

THE MILITARY

Even if this kind of mind control and the dream of creating a master race of super warriors (Aryans) started with the Nazis the fact is that all of it is tracked back to demonic technology. If you have a hard time thinking about 'demonic' technology please read and understand 1Timothy 4. It is the revelation of how dark 'imposter' (planos) spirits have an aggressive agenda to lead people astray. These dark forces can inspire/influence with 'involuntary thoughts-ideas-revelation-data-feelings' and convince individuals to put on paper the information they are receiving. This 'voice to skull' form of communication is the most sophisticated and seductive form of messaging around. It's old but very much like 'texting'…from the dark spirits to the mind and heart of individuals.

This form of dark spirit to individual communication includes:

- The inspiration and formation of political ideology
- The inspiration and formation of Military weapons systems and future planetary defense weapons.
- The inspiration and formation of ideas and concepts for 'science', psychology and or religion. The concept to split the human core, program it and purposely create MPD so the victim can be used as a weapon is not from God.
- The inspiration and formation of super technology of the coming 'mark of the beast' and the living 'image of the beast' mentioned in the book of Revelation comes from satanic force.
- The inspiration and formation of satanic rituals, how to conjure spirits, satanic warfare and the goal of creating a massive chaos before a new luciferian order flows from one mind alone…the fallen cherub.

US military weapons makers, lab scientists and leaders may have no idea that once you reject God and the ethics of imago dei (the image of God in man) then any evil cloaked as 'science' or 'technology' will be nothing more than the devil in a white lab coat. There is a mountain of facts in the freedom of information act and other documentation in Colin's book. You can also see the documentation in 'JOURNEY INTO MADNESS', MANCHUIAN CANIDATE' 'SECRET WEAPONS' AND 'SECRET DON'T TELL'- authors listing is in the bibliography.

THE PSYCHS

It is a psychologist who has exposed what many other psychologists have bought into and what evil they have practiced. Colin Ross a Canadian psychologist who wrote THE CIA DOCTORS has named names, locations and projects that were involved in the mind control procedures. The book PSYCHIARTY AND THE CIA: Victims of Mind Control will tell you much of the same. All of this information makes me ask why most psychologists I have met seem to have no clue as to the involvement of psyches in their field. The book written by G.H. Estabrooks 'HYPNOTISM' seems to be a massive confession and revelation of the ability of psychologists to create multiple personally 'disorder.' I have argued that this mind/soul control is not so much a 'disorder' but a purposely created condition!

Including law enforcement, politicians, preachers and the like you can't blame all in the field of psychology for what the few have done but there is so much information and documentation that one wonders why the DSM-3 and 4 does not acknowledge the source of the MPD/DID condition; maybe because it is so supernaturally secret, totally criminal and many should be charged…if not here then for sure at the Great White Throne.

THE COVENS, LUCIFERIANS AND THE ILLUMINATI

In father Steffon's book 'IS SATANISM REAL?' he estimates 100,000 covens in the USA. I would say that the real system of underground trans-generational luciferianism is much broader and the luciferians would agree. Please remember hundreds of thousands of victims are found in many other countries of the world. Since this is a luciferic technology and agenda much of the creation of MPD/DID is done directly by them. I do believe that the technology has gone from the luciferian covens and brought into military 'science'.

The lure of the weaponization of multiplicity for use in a military advantage was and is just too much to pass up by hungry secret projects. D.A.R.P.A. has this same flaw today; the desire to use anything and do anything to get the advantage is bred into the whole of the military system. The major problem is that this 'advanced technology' was and is a Trojan horse…and US military will be bitten badly when the black awakening occurs. The very technology they have acquired, used and advanced will come to haunt them when thousands of these super soldiers turn on and sabotage this country's military system.

Marshall G. Thomas in his book 'MONARCH: The New Phoenix Program' connects the dots of US military and its association with dark spiritual cults, occult and satanic covens. Marshall says on p 60:

"The intelligence agencies have infiltrated and created some satanic groups…."

The real problem is that it may be the other way around. Many people in the intelligence agencies were and are into dark spiritual practices. The Nazi doctors and scientists who were deeply versed in the 'black flame' carried this agenda for a Chaos before a New Order right into US military laps/minds. They also unleashed across the country in great secrecy, on farms and in the basements of tens of thousands of homes the goal to create a monster army.

GENERATIONAL FAMILY TIES

Every chosen one can trace their victimization to a bloodline family member. Dads, moms, grandfather and grandmothers have all been part of this. Each victim I have worked with who had the depth of 'chosen one' status has personal family members who are part of the plan. Almost every victim we have tracked has immediate family and then grandparents who are part of this long dark process.

In some cases I have now there are four generations involved. I have some SRA/MPD victims whose mother and grandmother were and are active perpetrators. These same victims have a child (in their 20's) who is SRA/MPD and now they have smaller children who are SRA/MPD.

It all does go way back. Nazis and others who are in there 70's -80's have produced children who are MPD (Nazi master race children) who are now in their 50's. Then this next generation who are perpetrators too now have their 'kids'! Victims who are in their 50's (hundreds of thousands of them) and are unhealed have children in their late 20's who are now SRA/MPD also….and now we have these 20+ year old victims who have small children to early teens who are SRA/MPD. Four generations are now traced. Some are healed but most are not.

As I write, the 'fourth' generation which may be the largest segment is into the millions. It is very hard to detect SRA/MPD in small children (except by those who are sra/mpd) and for them the newest technology is being used.

CHOSEN ONE VICTIMS/PERPS

The chosen one in PA who called to ask me if I knew whether or not she was healed wanted to know because she wanted her children back from Children's Services. All of her kids were taken away because all of them had experienced sexual and other physical abuses. All of this abuse was done by active unhealed sub personalities within the birth mother!

Please realize dear reader that the sub personality who is programmed-demonized and trained can and does split and program the next generation. They don't see those children as directly theirs, only as fodder for the black flame. There is no emotional bond or desire to protect the kids of the 'main' birth mother. Sub personalities who are programmed, demonized and committed to the luciferian agenda only know that they must keep the process going. The process to make more chosen ones is built in to sub personalities who are chosen ones. There are sub personalities who will want the host person to get pregnant…they want their chance to create another chosen one. There are sub personalities who want the main person…who is unaware and unhealed to obtain foster children/babies for only one purpose…to use them.

If you are a counselor, helper and or a victim coming out of the sra/mpd system….look for this process, it will be very secretive and protected but it will be there. Always…no matter what, save the children!

FINALLY

Radical evil does not care about 'feelings' they only care about what their nature dictates and what their raging agenda is all about. There is passion, power and a personality behind this hellish project and it is a project. It had a start and there is a desired end. You will understand more how there can be four generations of creating sra/mpd when you know what this is all for. There are three major parts to the creation of all these….what we call victims:

- First is the need to create servants of the satanic side who can help bring in spiritual confusion and darker presence. To have those who will help broaden this agenda and create more and more super soldiers (chosen ones).
- Second, these super soldiers (sra/mpd chosen ones) are here to do two main things. Phase one…to unleash the desired 'black awakening'/chaos/revote and all for that one urgent purpose….make way for the arrival or the antichrist!
- Thirdly, the antichrist is creating and is seeking the largest military structure (super solders) that history will record. He must have the planetary weapons and this global army who will obey/comply with the call (Revelation16) of the spirits. They are sent to 'gather together' all of them and use them to make war (R1919).

Yes! From first to last the fallen cherub knows why and what he needs these controlled servants for. Wherever the first chosen one was created to the last one formed the overall goal is the same, make mind/soul controlled super soldiers. When you are helping the sra/mpd seek healing and get out of that system you are taking what satan himself claims and feels is his. So if you have a fight on your hands then know it's far more that 'flesh and blood'. Please see Ephesians Chapter 6 verse 10 on down.

CHOSEN ONES AND PSYCH WARDS

"The mind of sinful man is death, but the mind controlled by the Spirit is life and peace…." Romans 8

"It is possible that Freud's own work may be rooted in occultism, more specifically in Jewish Cabala." P 104 'SPIRITUALY AND THE OCCULT'

"Jung had a lifelong interest in religion, especially the esoteric mystical tradition. His doctoral thesis was dedicated to the 'Psychology of So-Called Occult Phenomena…"p 107 'SPIRITUALITY AND THE OCCULT'

"Part of the pain a broken heart must suffer is the thought that the offender, the heartbreaker, is going to get away with it all….but God keeps the books…" p 17-18 'HAVE YOU EVER FELT LIKE GIVING UP LATELY'

I have been in the psych ward many times…as a visitor seeking to help the afflicted. It's tough in there. You're locked in and your trouble is not yet over. There are others around you who may be far worse off than you. There is a lot of fear, angst, depression and paranoia in those halls. I do believe that the local psych ward is a testament to the fall of mankind, our sin and its affects. It is also a testament to the existence of radial evil…supernatural demonic powers.

A chosen one was signed into a local psych ward by the sub personalities who were directed to do so by handlers. She was an officer who called to tell me that another personality signed them in. When she came out many other personalities where gone (buried) and so was the information she was telling us about. Inside that psych ward was a man who was planted to reel in the chosen ones who were going astray. He would shut down the sub personalities who were talking and remind the rest of server punishment.

Please don't be deceived, psychology has deep rooted beliefs that guide its diagnosis of the afflicted. There are some high level mind control specialists who were/are a part of this discipline (Cameron, Estabrooks, West, and Orne). Some psychology and individual psychologists have a deep background with dark occult leanings too. The psychologist Jung is one of them, his belief system of the collective unconscious is what many occultists, psychics, remote viewers and new agers use, many of them see it as the 'hall of records' (akashic records). This is really the place of the 'prince of the power of the air (atmosphere), the 'spirit' who is now at work…." yes even at work in psychologists! Everyone's beliefs affect their discipline and practice; this includes the most celebrated psychologists in history.

The Bobgans write on p 12-13 of 'PSYCHOHERESY':

"Jung himself repudiated Christianity and explored other forms of religious experience, including the occult……" "Freud argued that religions are delusionary and therefore evil. Jung, on the other hand contended that all religions are imaginary but good".

Today many in this field will use guided imagery, hypnotherapy and even give out books like 'THE COURSE IN MIRACLES' written 'partially' by a psychologist who claims a spirit has guided her to write what is a new syncretistic spirituality. This new revelation turns a person from Christ to another gospel. There is a lot of new age 'spirituality' in modern psychology and the spirits behind it are recognized quickly by SRA/MPD victims…they know the spirit world well.

THE MIS-DIAGNOSED

In the 70's some of those who are SRA/MPD were diagnosed as paranoid schizophrenic and were treated as such. Misdiagnosis of an ailment will not lead to the proper treatment. There is also a high number of real sra/mpd termed bipolar because they did not show all the signs of being multiple.

Some sub personalities may just stay buried until they get out and can continue their tasks. Others have inside punishers who will not let them talk so they may not evidence full multiplicity.

I do wonder why if in 1947 psychologist G.H. Estabrooks who claimed in his book 'HYPNOTISM' that they could create and undue (remove) the alter or sub personalities that they created why this ability is not used...either they can't or won't. Most psychologists and those I read in this field tell of a very long process of integration and seem to struggle with success for the victims. There is more to creating sub personalities than hypnotism; it involves tearing the core person apart and that is not a normal process. It is a vast violent violation. Splitting human personality is an evil process filled with trauma and abuse. And what is it done for? More abuse, mind control and crime.

Please realize that if you misdiagnose a person you will mistreat them also. Treatment is meant to deal with a diagnosed condition but if you diagnose an SRA/MPD as something else and then offer the wrong treatment (healing) no help will be given. If you do not know what this 'creation' of sub personalities is all about, the satanic rituals (they have been through) and the presence of the demonic you will not lead them to healing.

When a psychologist tells a real SRA/MPD that the memories of rituals are fake and a delusion, that demons are only a figment of the imagination and no one wants to control them, they offer helpless psychobabble and evidence the issue of SRA/MPD is beyond their expertise. Even worse there are some psychologists who may be helping to silence sub personalities and shut down the facts.

THE VICTIMS SEEKING HELP

When the SRA/MPD chosen one begins to break down they will seek help and many times they will go to the psychologist or a psych ward. They can have some of the following symptoms:

- They begin missing time. They may be going in one direction but find themselves on the other side of town and not know how they got there.

- They hear voices in their head and may think that everyone does…at first. And it may not be just voices but full conversations.
- They have dreams and flashes of some bits of memory that begin to surface; this may bring them great fear. Traumatic experiences get encoded in a person's 'memory' and at times are buried…to forget it. But like a beach ball that is filled with air and pushed under the water those memories will begin to surface and when they do all the feelings of trauma come too.
- They burst out and say things to others and don't remember and even deny they said it. This is when other sub personalities override them and speak out. They don't know and don't remember saying anything because it's not in their part of memory.
- They buy items at a store and later wonder where it came from. They, a sub personality can also change the color of their hair and then the main person wonders how it happened and changes it back.

Becoming aware that you're a multiple is both strange and very frightening. Some victims think they are going crazy at first and need to be told they are not insane and that it is not their fault! In the beginning a very experienced person who has worked with SRA/MPD may see the symptoms and even talk to sub personalities long before the main (host…some call presenting personality) knows. The victim/person may be totally unaware of their real condition. They call this being 'amnesic' (total unawareness-no memory of it) and…part of the creation and control of a chosen one has this amnesic barrier(s).

THE VICTIM PERPATRATORS

There are victims of SRA/MPD who have sub personalities who seek to harm others in the psych ward and psychologist's office. Some of them have sexual predators and coven trained inside as sub personalities; many of them have informers and punishers also. If they are not engaged they can come out in a psych ward and 'trigger' other victims and or harm other patients. It's hard to keep an eye on everyone all the time so some sub personalities can take advantage of how things work and calculate their activities.

Please realize too that the sub personalities can be ‘co-conscious’ and see-know-and observe everything going on around them without the host person or counselors even knowing. They may look for an opportunity to harm, rape and threaten the others. When sub personalities are not healed from their own sexual, physical or religious abuse they will sneak out and harm others…adults or children.

THE VICTIM INFILTATORS

There are chosen ones sent to psych wards and counseling wards. One girl was receiving help from a psychologist who knew us. Not long into the therapy another person began coming to the counseling center for ‘help’ and counseling. It was a multiple who was more intact and they were there on assignment. Usually they will come to scare the victim into leaving the psychologist, if that doesn’t work the victim SRA/MPD may disappear for a while.

Infiltrators can come from the coven or even such groups as the FMSF (False Memory Syndrome Foundation). I have received calls from SRA/MP victims who were in psych ward ‘in hospital’ care units who reported that there were other infiltrator ‘victims’ just collecting information and seeking to trigger others.

Perpetrators don’t want anyone to know what they have done and covens don’t want the secrets out. If you are in a counseling center and have noticed that new patients have shown up who may be eyeing or seeking to interact with your SRA/MPD victims then keep a close eye out…and always protect the main victims. If real victims who want out feel frightened or threatened they will not open up and this will hinder the healing process.

Perpetrators who infiltrate counseling centers do it for two purposes.

- To bring harm to the counselors and that office, especially if the counselor is having success with victims.
- To seek out SRA/MPD victims and shut them down…any way they can.

FINALLY

There have been and are right now thousands of SRA/MPD victims and chosen ones in psych-wards and counseling centers. Most are seeking help but others are there for harm. They all need to be engaged with treatment/help that fits the condition. They need spiritual, emotional, mental and social healing and I boldly tell you that the Lord Jesus Christ can touch all the areas of their need. In fulfillment of a 700 year old prophecy which was fulfilled in the coming of Christ we read….why Jesus came, what He did and dear reader what He is doing right now…today.

"The Spirit of the Lord is on me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim freedom for the prisoners and recovery of sight for the blind, to release the oppressed, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor." Luke 4

CHOSEN ONES AND THE CHURCH

"This matter arose because some false brother's had infiltrated our ranks to spy…." Galatians 2

"I know where you live-where satan has his throne…." Revelation 2

"On that day a great persecution broke out against the church…all but the apostles were scattered….Saul began to destroy the church." Acts 7

"WAR ON THE SAINTS" Tattooed on a satanists left wrist

In the community the Church is to be a beacon of light and a place of peace and safety though this is not what the early Christians experienced. The church is a place of prayer and spiritual activity and most would see it as a good thing. If you know the history of its work among the poor, helpless and homeless then you know its works are only good. It is not commissioned by Jesus to take up missile and guns, it is however to use 'weapons of warfare' on a spiritual basis.

The church has the frontline mission of leading people into a personal relationship with God and this is what the dominion of darkness doesn't want. To know that Jesus said He would build his Church and the gates of hell (Hades) would not prevail against it is striking to say the least. The Body of Christ is the only 'institution' in the world today that is a direct enemy of the "prince of the power of the air, the spirit (devil) who is at work…(Ephesians 2) …the evil one who is in control of the whole world" 1John5. It was birthed in the context of a spiritual conflict and its presence in this fallen world is an intrusion as far as the dark side is concerned.

The early Church demonstrates its power and supernatural foundations in the Book of Acts chapters 1-6 with Jesus being alive from the dead and directly teaching them, the full power of the Holy Spirit falling upon them, sign wonders and miracles were occurring all around and anyone reading those first 6 chapters will see a 'spiritual institution' from head to toe. The birth of the Church is all about an agenda of redemption, healing and deliverance from satan's ownership. Colossians chapter 1 expresses this reality when it says:

"For he rescued us from the dominion of darkness and brought us into the kingdom of the Son he loves…."

If I call it an institution I must say that it is a 'living body' and a divine one with supernatural power, purpose and presence that backs it. A hamburger stand is there to make hamburgers, is generally a good thing…and I would say that the devil doesn't care. But put up a sign that says Jesus is Lord and start a prayer meeting in the back and then it becomes a bone of contention with dark forces. The Church from head to toe is about the person, work (Cross) and power of Jesus Christ. It is this Savior that exposes the reality of demonic origins, nature and agenda in the gospels.

His work at the cross is two pronged…one of love and redemption for humanity and at the same time destruction and defeat for the real presence and work of satan and demons. John 3:16 and 17 proclaim the central reason why Jesus came, God so loved us he gave Jesus to bring us into relationship with Him and receive the gift of eternal life. 1John 3 tells us "The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work." By His work on the Cross He opens heaven for all and reveals God's love and "disarmed the power and authorities, he made a public spectacle of them, triumphing over them by the cross."Colossians 2

Whatever your experience with God and the Church please realized that part of the reason for the creation of controlled servants of satan is to accomplish a very dark agenda. Satan is at war with God and the Church (people of God gathered in mission). This can be seen throughout early Church history in the book of Acts. God's power is present and people get saved, healed and set free from dark powers (see Acts 8).

There is a constant spiritual battle with satan and demons throughout the mission of the Church and it is the Church satan seeks to compromise, harm and/or destroy. This spiritual battle will heat up as the end of days rolls out before us. Satan sought to infiltrate the early Church and its clear he seeks the same methodology until the end. The parable of the wheat and the tares was a revelation that satan will seek to create, transmute and deploy his workers to counter the Church until the very end. The tares, those directly created by supernatural means are here and among the Church more than ever in history.

MULTIPLES IN THE MEGA CHRUCH

I can tell you that every chosen one I have dealt with has been to or is in a Church and dear reader they have been in the Church for over 40 years now. Their perpetrator coven family members have brought them in when they were young and handlers have placed them as they became more useful. In my office alone pastors, counselors and other church members have and continue to bring me SRA/MPD victims who are in and in many cases are members of local churches.

From a local mega church (and from very small ones) multiples have come. One comes in to observe us and the sub personalities realize who we are and what we know. It was this one who told me that they see me with a big hole in my back…from a shotgun blast. Another one comes who is suing her perpetrator father. The Counselor/psychologist from the mega Church brought her and a number of others over to us for prayer. The mega church they are in says that they don't do 'deliverance' and this church turns over complex counseling cases to licensed psychologists. They in turn have brought chosen ones who have been members or were attending this large city church to us. I would say this church has a few dozen multiples. I would also say that the leadership had no idea what they were dealing with.

One of the SRA/MPD victims from this church had ritual marks and symbols on her back. She described a man who did these things to her. She said he had a key and that he took her with a few others to the library of this church (12mid night -3am) for satanic rituals. This church like many others was infiltrated and had no idea. The man she was talking about was well known and thought to be an upstanding Christian.

He like many perpetrator coven handlers is 'doubling'. They present themselves one way but are really totally the opposite (remember Ezekiel 8 and who was in the coven). This mega Church had satanic rituals being done in it….without them having a clue. They had and have a dozen or more chosen ones among them, some who seek help, some who don't know, and others who are active…infiltrating and seeking harm. They even have some "sleepers", waiting for the day of activation that will unleash hell if not engaged now.

We would track and run surveillance with some of the SRA/MPD victims and find that they and other coven members were doing hidden rituals in four other churches in this area. I would be called into others states to deal with SRA/MPD victims and find the same scenario. Multiples have been there a long time, some of which are now coming out of the ritual abuse closet; others are operative and doing harm. What they have done or are doing by undisclosed sub personalities is another thing, something that needs to be engaged. I do believe that many if not most churches have chosen ones in them and here are some of the reasons.

THEY ARE THERE FOR COVER

To build a fake resume or cover; it may look like a great church family, the dad, mom and kids but something is wrong. The child is an intact multiple who is being taken through many rituals and being 'built' all the while the upfront (host/presenting child) person is amnesic to what's done in the night. The child seems to play and get along; they don't even know that there are other sub personalities inside them. The coven family only has them there for the 'show'. They are there to use the church as a cover. They may even get enough status to become leaders…then they could use the building.

The fact now as we look backward is that hundreds of thousands of current SRA/MPD victims who are in their 30's to 50's were when young taken to church by ritual practicing parents…by that brotherhood of darkness. That these kids were being sexually, mentally and emotionally abused in the worst way and coming to Sunday school each week. Just ask the thousands of victims. They will tell you who the pastor was, what the church was like and how they were made to look like a little Christian darling!

THEY ARE THERE FOR HELP

Some are seeking Jesus and want help. The church is supposed to be a place where anyone is welcome and any need can be ministered to. Multiplicity is a complex issue and the satanic side of it all has laced it with supernatural and programmed secrecy. Some victims may come because they hear voices in their head or they have terrifying dreams. Others have home created sub personalities who seek healing and freedom. They look for someone to understand who and what they are. They want out of the ritual abuse and coven activities. They leave in fear of punishment and being taken back but some have tasted the love of Jesus and His power and will do anything to get completely free.

Once victims do see that Jesus is real and right they call on Him. Many victims have told me that they did ask Christ into their lives and that at the point of salvation the programming and dark powers begin to break. I have noticed over the years that those who really receive Jesus and have the Holy Spirit in them are the ones who keep getting more healing and deliverance. They seem to keep growing even if there are set backs or new sub personalities to engage. I have also seen with extremely damaged SRA/MPD victims that once Christ is in them they will not stop seeking total healing… and a new life in Him. For them this Word of God is true:

"Being confident of this, that he who began a good work in you will carry it on to completion, until the day of Christ Jesus" Philippians 1:6

THEY DON'T KNOW WHY THEY ARE THERE

Others are confused with many other conditions and come for help. They may have addictions and even manifest demonic presence on a surface level. Please remember that some victims of this agenda don't know what was done to them. They have been in the dark and are just seeking to figure out what happened. They may feel they are there because they like the songs, love and presence of God. They may not know they have sub personalities who harm and will seek to harm.

Point! Just because they don't know what is going on doesn't mean that sub personalities don't know. The sub personalities may be operating and seeking to abuse a child sexually or an inner satanic priestess may be doing rituals nightly against the Church when the victim is missing time. I have learned that if I am engaging a SRA/MPD victim who doesn't even know what they are or remember half of their childhood let alone their day then:

- I assume that the sub personalities are there and are active in their programmed and or demonized agenda.
- The confused 'main' person may not hurt a fly but inner coven trained personalities can abuse, torture and kill without batting an eye!
- So heads up! A vulnerable tired hurting confused multiple may have in them someone who wants to compromise your pastor, abuse the toddlers and do blood rituals in the sanctuary

THEY ARE THERE WITH AN EVIL AGENDA

There are without question SRA/MPD chosen ones who are in your church and you don't know because they aren't showing you any sign of it. They don't want to show signs of the real inner selves; they are there by assignment. In some cases we have found chosen ones who can preach, play the piano and sing amazing grace, quote scripture and seem like a real 'minister of righteousness' and all the while have sub personalities looking for people in the crowd (church) to deceive, victimize and bring down.

We have seen them, engaged them, exposed some and even had some removed. The work of intact chosen ones involves the known and committed work of 'counterfeiting' and they and their demons love to pull the wool over the face of the Church!

- Infiltration. First they love to infiltrate and get in, they want to join quickly and be a part. They want to do all the damage they can before they are found out.

- Satanic spiritual warfare. They are there to do harm, they fake the good only as a cover to do greater harm. If they want to 'serve' the Pastor and be close to him then there is only one reason…damage, compromise and defeat him.
- Harm to leaders and even children. Intact committed chosen ones have sub personalities who will seek the chance to be in the nursery or baby sit. They want to abuse children sexually!
- Gather information on the leaders and the church for the broader ritual warfare to be done by a local coven. They want to test their abilities and powers. They want to see what they can do in secrecy. They want to defeat the local Church and I know of a few churches that have been destroyed.
- Disrupt. It they can't defeat a local church they want to see if they can disrupt it. They know well how to sow discord, gossip and start a rumor mill going. They would love to change the prayer meeting and involve church members in non-spiritual activities.

There is so much to this infiltration that I am devoting a full special chapter called 'sub section one' that deals with what to look for when you do or even if you don't suspect satanic infiltration by chosen ones.

THEY ARE IN THE CHURCH AS 'SLEEPERS'… WAITING

There are in my estimation hundreds of thousands of intact chosen ones who are placed in churches everywhere. They (or at least the presenting host) don't know they are there to wait for the call. Chosen ones who are sleepers have deep inside of them the programmed sub personalities that are demonized and fierce. They are placed deep down within and only a strong code or demonic activation will bring them up.

These are the ones who are intact and will be used in the Black Awakening. When the 'activation' does occur, the inside sub personality or group of them will surface with intense programming and demonic power. They will kill, assassinate and unleash the chaos and anarchy that this book discloses. They are here to make a way for the waiting antichrist.

FINALLY

Some who read this will be sneering because you are in the dark and just don't know and that is what these under- grounders count on. Others who have seen the damage and have engaged the battle are ready for war. You must take up the Cross and prepare others! There are also SRA/MPS victims who are healed or almost there. You can reveal the dirt that is under the carpet. You have to! I know many of you just want peace and safety….but that is not what the ancient brotherhood is planning. You know what they did to you and others; you know what they and your sub personalities can do. I urge you in this late hour and in the sight of God to reveal all and fight this lethal darkness with all that Jesus gives you.

CHAPTER 31
CHOSEN ONES AND THE MILITARY

"I saw three evil spirits….they came out of the mouth of the dragon, out of the mouth of the beast and out of the mouth of the false prophet. They are the spirits of demons performing miraculous signs, and they go out to the kings of the whole world, to gather them for the battle on the great day of God Almighty" Revelation 16

"Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies gathered together to make war on the rider on the horse and his army." Revelation 19:19

"But the beast was captured…." Revelation 19:20

There are many victims of this mind control who have come from the military. We have already listed some of the projects and history of the military's (CIA) role in using this technology to create super soldiers. G.H. Estabrooks was very revealing of the military's known ability to create alter/sub personalities and program them to infiltrate, assassinate, sow disinformation and seek reconnaissance. It is my view that most of the documentation of the past was destroyed and a great cover up was done. It is also my view that all of the documentation and freedom of information act files we do have access to, are 35-60 years old.

I know this will be hard for some to accept but the bulk of the information and the current work of creating a new and improved chosen one i.e. super solder is under the deepest secrecy possible. This process if we are correct is truly part of creating troops for the coming antichrist and a new world order.

''The secrecy is empowered with deep supernatural dark powers and that dark power that cloaks this secret project is beyond any normal human detection!''RD

This secret power is central to the luciferian agenda and is called in the Bible a 'secret power of lawlessness that is already at work' (see 2 Thessalonians 2). The creation of super soldiers who have deep within them programmed, charged with dark powers sub personalities are under the deepest cloak of secrecy in human history. If you remember Ezekiel 8 then realize that a secret luciferian coven was present, active and large….and no one knew! It took the infinite power of the omniscient God to reveal this cloaked satanic agenda (within the city of God!) to a good prophet. This begs the question….What then is hidden deep within military structures and bases?

When Jesus Christ told the parable story of the 'evil one' who comes along in the 'night' to created transmuted 'tares' (created servants) he gave the heads up on the 'who' 'when' and 'what for' of the satanic agenda. And let's not forget that if we go into the future by looking at prophetic revelation (see Revelation 16 and 19:19) then we should know that military leaders, military personal, military evolution and military powers/weapons are:

- Sought as a first priority of satan himself!
- Supernaturally inspired and developed; have and will be unleashed by 'inspired' military development.

The most supernaturally, most technologically advanced and largest (global scale) military system is being created as we write…and as you read.

A SUPER SOLDIER/ONE OF MANY

This is the one that told me they, the satanic super soldiers who are called chosen ones will make Hitler's SS troops look like choir boys. The other one spoke with a German accent, demonic force and screamed at us 'We are the legions that will rule the earth.' Whether you believe this or not they believe they are created and trained to help bring in the antichrist. Surely you don't think the antichrist will be able to rise without an army or seek to destroy the descending Christ without a super army, do you?

The one super soldier who showed me a black uniform and sold me a tech nine told me they train in underground mines and other places where regular military does not gather. Sub personalities in this one have shown me pictures of them with weapons, uniforms and in training. They have many abilities and know a lot about the coming war…Armageddon.

Armageddon is a big issue for them; they are planning, preparing and seeking to build up to that day. The alarming thing was that they feel they will be here to fight on that day. They believe they will follow the antichrist (new super leader) into glorious battle. They believe they will be the most powerful force to ever step onto the field of battle.

It was this super soldier's wealthy handler (luciferian priest) who sent me a note by them telling me he can't wait to trigger this chosen one into the super warrior and slaughter me on the day of Armageddon. What this handler doesn't realize is…I won't be on the field where they are. I will be coming down out of the heavens with Christ. I will not even have to fight. It is not my battle…it is Christ's!

"I saw heaven standing open and there before me was a white horse, whose rider is called Faithful and True. With justice he judges and makes war…..the armies of heaven were following him…"R19:11

THEY WERE CREATED BY THE MILTARY

Chosen ones all have a military background. They all have memory, details and even items that come from their military training. The Monarch, MK-ultra and fifty other projects that involved mind control and the creation of enhanced soldiers is an ongoing evolution in a number of military's around the world.

This development will continue to grow and all these military will find themselves being drawn together for a common purpose. That purpose may not be known by all but it is known by some for sure. The principle inside the satanic agenda for now is…the higher you are up (deeper you are in) the thicker the cloak of supernatural power for secrecy there is. There are rituals that are done just for 'invisibility' and powers (demons) can be received to help keep others from detecting what's really going on.

Chosen ones can be in military uniform and mission without revealing who they really are. Many of them are intact and don't know they are 'double agents'. Chosen ones can be lawyers, psychologists and military soldiers. They are created to be out there in society and placed in the right positions so they can be ready. Inside of them are sub personalities who are 'sleepers' and just wait….undisturbed until the activation.

THEY ARE PLACED BY MILITARY

Now revealed to many is the fact that super soldiers are placed everywhere and this includes throughout military structures. Since this is larger than the US you must realize that super soldiers are placed in many other armies in a number of military structures. It is without question they are in military structures throughout Europe. They are in the United Nations and NATO for sure and are simply doing their 'cover' jobs until the time comes.

THEY ARE THERE TO OBTAIN POSITION

There has to be thousands of military trained chosen ones inside the structure of the military. It was G. H. Estabrooks who said in the section of his book (HYPNOTISM) dealing with the weaponization of 'programmed' multiples, that every branch of the military structure should have these special warriors and that was written way back in 1947. Those who are following the plan for a master race of super soldiers have had a long time to perfect this process, create many and then place them in key positions for the coming 'revolt.'

Since many chosen ones are now in their 40's and 50's it is apparent that some would be in upper leadership and even in places of great power. Many of the chosen ones are now the creators, trainers and handlers of a new generation of super soldiers. The luciferian leaders know they must have many of these warriors within all the structures of military. Please remember they have to collapse current military and render it powerless.

THEY ARE THERE TO SABOTAGE

When the call, trigger or activation to unleash the black awakening comes, thousands of chosen ones who are in the military structures already have their planned targets and programmed agendas. I have been told over and over again that the super soldiers will be loyal only to their creators, that they will sabotage, bomb, kill and destroy other soldiers without hesitation.

The US military (CIA) and others have accepted and hoarded a vast Trojan horse! It is late, it is night and they have no idea of the coming slaughter. I have seen chosen ones triggered. I have seen them take down men twice their size. They are quicker, stronger and will not hesitate for a split second to kill and destroy their targets. Those targets include US military soldiers, leaders and structures. At this moment and at many other times I have sat in tears thinking about what they will do; how many loyal solders who are there to do their jobs will be assaulted by surprise and killed.

I warn military soldiers and leaders now by the providence of God…you need to look into this and prepare yourselves.

- Where you see secret covert projects that involve mind control investigate it
- Where you see goals for making super soldiers and technology that will create them.…fight against it.
- Where you see preparations for a globalist army.…resist it.
- Where you see planetary defense weapons being created it is there that the final future is manifesting. Stop and ask what it's all about.
- If all hell breaks loose and you know soldiers are killing soldiers… snap to attention and get ready to fight and don't hesitate.
- Examine this book, think through it and go to www.shatterthedarkness.net and see the mp3 which deals with 'how to detect hidden super soldiers'.

THEY ARE PLACED TO TAKE OVER

The trained sub personalities who are warriors and assassins will kill without a blink of the eye. They will take out the targets they were assigned to. They don't want to destroy the military nor harm the arsenals; they want to take control of it all.

For some this will be too much to understand but there is a future goal beyond the chaos that forces regime change. There is a supernatural presence that will manifest more and more as this day of chaos approaches. There is a supernatural cause and presence that will move to make the US military system join the new global system. Even when thousands of regular soldiers are not killed those who remain will either have to join up with the new global plan or be removed. And for those who are left after the black awakening…you will be asked to take a pledge of loyalty, maybe even some kind of mark to insure your compliance.

Whatever happens…don't do it! Remember now the Cross and the power of the love of Christ. Turn to Him. Eternal life is in his hands. Jesus said:

"But I will show you whom you should fear: fear him who, after the killing of the body, has power to throw you into hell. Yes, I tell you to fear him." Luke 12

FINALLY

Military systems all over the world are in grave trouble. A force beyond their detection and defense has been operating and will pull off the most tragic coo in world history. A great chaos is coming for military soldiers everywhere and a new regime will emerge. New age spirituality has dulled the senses and the spirits have offered to militaries technology of human enhancement and weapons development as never before. It all comes with a price. Memorize R1919!

A seeming 'glorious' new day will dawn and a voice so appealing will speak that it will hard not to join the new legions who claim to save the world. To those reading this and are already committed to that cause… remember Judas.

CHAPTER 32
CHOSEN ONES AND WORLD GOVERNMENT

"The ancient dragon was hurled down-that ancient serpent called the devil, or satan, who leads the whole world astray…."

"…But woe to the earth and the sea because the devil had gone down to you! He is filled with fury because he knows that his time is short"

Revelation 12

Are they there in the halls of the UN-United Nations? Most of us see the SRA/MPD victims in the context of those who want out. We see hurting victims. Most have never seen a chosen one triggered and ready to kill; I have a few times and they are fierce. Since they are here to clear the old and make way for a new regime and leader it is evident that there are many chosen ones who must work in or are present in some capacity in the UN.

Wherever you see the force, teaching and spirituality of the dream of Globalism it is there you will evidence the 'doctrines' of the seducing spirits most. Wherever the 'doctrine' that cries out for getting rid of the old order and seeks a new order raises its voice then… it is there you find the foundations for antichrist and his global empire being laid.

You must realize that all governments of history and of the world today have 'political ideology' and that ideology has come from somewhere… someone has written it. Be it Marx, Hitler or a new strain of governmental rule that seeks a global status the ideology has come from someone's head.

The question is….who helped place it there?

CHOSEN ONES ARE READERS

A chosen one gave me a book called the 'War Lords of Armageddon'. It's a book about the development of new warriors who will be used to bring in a new order. Another one gave me the book 'The Nazi Doctors' and still another one told me about Marx, Hitler and political ideology. They told me that many in government today are 'unwittings' and most of them have no idea of what is to come. It seems that chosen ones are very versed in political power and information. They do understand sabotage and subterfuge.

One thing is for sure; all of the chosen ones I have dealt with know that a new order is what they and the underground are all about. Most of them talk about the new order as if it is a sure thing and that it's not too far away. They seem to act as if they will be here when it all comes down.

THEY MAY BE LEADING THE CALL TO GLOBALISM

Those in the UN and world powers that push for globalism have a spirituality that is very different than the Bible. The new spirituality is leading the way and creating 'political ideology. Chosen ones are very versed in globalism and those chosen ones who are intact are very powerful presenters. If you look at the top leadership in the spiritual push to create globalism you may find chosen ones with sub personalities who are highly trained. They can speak, teach, hold seminars and do seek to convince many others of a need for a new order. I have seen multiples who are versed in NLP programming and others who know how to project their 'powers' when they speak. Some know they are here to convince others to join the new world order.

Don't be surprised to find them at the local Theosophical society, within the Masons, secret societies and throughout Washington. It's the 'doctrine' of globalism they push that gives them away. Where you see the doctrine of aggressive globalism pushed is where the 'spirit' behind the new order exists and where his very own chosen ones are operating. Look for them and you will find them!

THEY ARE THERE TO UNLEASH THE POWERS

Chosen ones would be those who hold spiritual meetings and seek to have chanted the 'luciferian invocation'. I will not put the words to that invocation in this book. It can be found on the www. The word of that invocation when referring to a god does not mean the God of heaven. It is in reference to the belief that a new light being (Lucifer as good guy) is the one being sought.

Chosen ones know how to summon powers and unleash them. They know how to obtain 'charged' objects and place them. They will be in places of national government where globalism is discussed and promoted. When the black awakening occurs they may be triggered to point the confused government workers to a new voice and a new regime.

Intact chosen ones will be sold out and the promoters of a new age…a new order. The black awakening and the rise of antichrist cannot occur without the supernatural power to enable it. The 'secret power' will no longer be a secret; it is the power behind the globalist doctrine and the same power that fosters coming chaos. The secret power now long infused within political structures is the same power that will force a new order.

THE NEW REGIME IS WAITING

Chose ones believe they will be rewarded. Some tell me that whatever happens, even if they are killed they will return in a new body (somebody else's) and get to serve in the new order. Many sub personalities are looking forward to a new order and you can hear the pride as they speak about it…be it a programmed pride. Chosen ones have been told they will be the special troops of a new super leader. They believe the leader and the new regime are already in place. They believe their new global leader (antichrist) has already been born. Chosen ones are told that when they create the chaos to help rip down the old structure they are making way for a new glorious order, they are doing something great and are going to be a major part of it.

There are some who are gripped by the New Age Movement and the concept of a new spiritual age that has started and will surely come. The New Age Movement, by the millions, are seekers who search for a spiritual experience, are guided by supernatural presence and believe a new global family is needed but so far have missed the spiritual singularity that occurred at the Cross.

The New Age spirituality helps drive globalism, the spiritual writings, channeling, remote viewing and spirits are convincing millions that a new day is coming. It's a new day for the evolution of human consciousness and a transformation of humanity. This is what is showing up in world governments. This is what is being pushed at the resort meetings and inner chambers of government workers/leaders. It is the feeling and the sense of what political leaders are speaking and literally globalism is dripping off the lips of leaders the world over.

How did this new political ideology get there? Ideas flow…just like they did in pre Nazi Germany.

CHAPTER 33
CHOSEN ONES AND THE RELEASE OF DARK POWERS

"The idols speak deceit, diviners see visions that lie; they tell dreams that are false, they give comfort in vain…"Zechariah 10

"Pharaoh then summoned wise men and sorcerers, and the Egyptian magicians also did the same things by their secret arts;" Exodus 7

"One of the earliest professional references to the subject of ritual abuse, is a comment in Dr. Karl Menninger's (1930) popular book on psychiatry entitled 'The Human Mind', which mentions the Black Mass, Satanism, and devil worship as real events…" p 123 'CULT RITUAL ABUSE

"Those raised by rituals and among rituals know best how to do them" RD

"The longer you keep them alive, the more torture you can give. This raises the pain and fear. This builds up the 'energies' and will bring more powerful demons…..and that is want we want" Chosen One

RITUAL SPIRITUAL LIGHTNING WARFARE

It was a chosen one from the ancient brotherhood that told me of the grid-map of churches they have. That's right churches on a map that they are doing ritual spiritual war against. A number of military trained chosen ones have told me of the rituals used and how and why they target Pastors, Christians and churches. To this day I still ask sub personalities who know how to conjure demons and who are ritual workers…why they do it. The answers are the same; they conjure the demons for themselves, to protect the covens, to send against their enemies, to release into the air and to further the luciferian agenda.

Chosen ones have also told me that they see most churches as weak and pathetic. They visit churches to observe and event test their powers. Chosen ones tell me that when they meet in their covens everyone is there to be engaged. There are no spectators in a satanic ritual, not when they are conjuring demons. The mood is somber, serious and you must be careful…I am told. After all you are raising or bringing through powerful dark spirits so there is no room for error or games to be played. "We seek them and they come, we do the ritual, they will do what we ask and we ask them to attack you!"

One chosen one told me how they do 'lighting warfare' (blitzkrieg warfare). They will conjure demons and send them on a chosen target…and keep doing it, at the same time others, covens or ritual workers will be doing the same. The idea is to hit the target (church) hard, fast and continuous, until the goal of destruction or harm is accomplished.

THIS BLOOD IS FOR YOU

A letter came in the mail; it had no return address but it did have a post mark over the stamp. I opened it. It was a hand drawn and colored picture. It was a picture of a satanic coven member who was dressed in the hooded black gown. The robe was black and the background of the picture was red. In the hand of the robe ritual worker was a knife, in the other hand was a baby held upside down. The baby had been cut and blood was coming out and down the paper. The only words on the page were…. "THIS BLOOD'S FOR YOU."

I asked the trained satanist who came from the same area of the coven what is was all about. They told me that a baby was sacrificed…'in my honor'! They said the baby was killed in a ritual that was done on my behalf; that powers were raised and sent against me. I still have the picture; I pray prayers about this as the Spirit of God leads me. It is clear that blood was shed and is being shed all over the US…innocent blood that God does see. There is blood that is crying out; blood that is on the heads of those who revel in it. Brotherhood covens and luciferians hide in the dark for now but even their demons know that a day of accountability is coming…this is for sure.

AS IN THE O.T. SO IN THE FUTURE

In the Old Testament it is clear that the powers of darkness were real. Those who served them knew how to appease and seek powers as a weapon against their enemies. The weaponization of satanic power is not new. In 2 Kings a military king is losing a battle. He cannot win with his seven hundred swordsmen so to gain the advantage he sought the dark powers of a demon god called chemosh. Chemosh (destroyer/subdue-the abomination of Moab-a demonized tribe) was and is a living demon-god that was worshipped and sought for personal and military favors.

In this battle and in many others in the O.T. it was the spiritual power behind the nation that could be sought to win battles. Demon war gods have been found everywhere and used to enhance military battle from the tribes of Africa to the supernatural powers seen in Revelation 16. Those dark forces are sent to gather kings to make war. Armies can be 'empowered', supernatural powers are sought, sent and can be affective.

This is the weaponization of dark powers. It is the conjuring and appeasing i.e. doing what the spirits desire and require. One could ask 'How did the O.T. military king know that sacrificing a human would bring him 'powers' for victory?' The demon seeking, human sacrificing king gained military victory over the king of Israel and attributes this victory by the power of chemosh… "…and drove him before my sight."

The closer we get to the end the more the world will see that it is 'supernatural' power that matters. The trouble though is the 'requirement' for the high dark powers to work…human blood! Again in the O.T. in Manasseh's day-2 Kings 21-23 it is said that 'innocent blood' has been shed from one end of the nation to the other. Human sacrifice has been offered to gain favor, power and military victory the world over. This is true at all the ancient ruins where the ziggurats are. It is true among the Mayan also where thousands of radical horrific human sacrifices were performed.

It is my belief that the dark powers themselves inspire and communicate that they will weaponize 'kings' and their militaries. It is also my belief that innocent blood has been shed all across Europe and the US so the greatest and deepest powers of darkness can be conjured and sent. Those powers are sent to influence the current 'kings' of the earth; those who are the political and military leaders. The ritual spiritual warfare is real; it has been, is and will be (Revelation 16). We now have unprecedented manifestation of demonic powers and in the days to come we will see far more than ever in history.

The pinnacle of dark powers charging the air, societies, politicians and military development will be off the charts! Much of that dark power has come to this side by way of satanic-coven ritual spiritual warfare that sheds human blood. Just ask the hundreds of thousands of SRA/MPD victims who have seen it and been forced to do it!

The Body of Christ must engage this concept of spiritual warfare now! As never before believers in Christ must use the authority (Luke 10) they have been given for the purpose it was given for….to trample the dark powers and overcome (gain decisive victory) all the power of the enemy (satan/demons). While most churches on Sunday morning give about 48 seconds to its total prayer time the covens are giving hours of dedicated spiritual warfare time to send dark spirits out against Pastors and Churches everywhere. Is it no wonder millions can file into church buildings and out in 55 minutes to an hour and a half and not even engage-embrace or know if God was present! Wow! Not so in the early church where:

"…they raise their voices together to God in prayer…..after they prayed the place where they were meeting was shaken. And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke the word of God boldly." Acts 4:24-31

The Body of Christ is truly a 'sleeping giant' who has lost sight of its mission and the power that would fuel it! While millions play church with only a fading memory of the boredom from last week's service the dark side is ramping up as never before in history. Whether it is the sinful slack and neglect of our leaders or the fact that there is swelling presence of spiritual darkness that suppress the church's work one thing is for sure…most services today don't come close to Acts 4.

Let's take a look at why the luciferians are seeking dark powers.

THEY CONJURE FOR THEMSEVES

Yes they do love the power and rewards the demons give. There is real power and the dark spirits do grant some things. It's like prayer at a church, you ask, seek and knock and God does answer. You receive and God does open doors. God even does awesome miracles! Please realize that just as God who is Spirit is real (John4) and does do great things, satan is 'the spirit who is now at work' (Ephesians 2) and he and the demons do answer the call.

Rituals are 'procedures' that many luciferians and satanists go through. It's what opens doors and gives the demonic rights to come through. In many rituals if you appease them they will in turn act on the petitioner's behalf. Rituals that are done can be anything from 'food offered', sex rituals and animal or human sacrifice. In the Bible you can read of Manasseh who sought many spiritual doors including offering his own son in human sacrifice to Moloch (2Kings 21-23).

Seeking the spirits for action the petitioner may want a job, sex, money or position. In the satanic bible written by Anton LaVey there are destruction, sex and even death rituals and these are in no way the worst out there. I have books that unveil the original black mass, details of human sacrifice and others that involve children.

Today you can find almost any kind of ritual procedure that used to be in hard to get books. They are now on the web for anyone to get and try out. Many are dabbling in or paying others to do rituals for personal gain. One person may do a ritual to curse a former lover while others seek the favor of spirits for their own enhancement. Whatever the wish, desire or ritual request, the fact is more rituals are known and being done than ever in history.

THEY CONJURE TO ATTACK THEIR ENEMIES

It is clear from the written rituals that folks in the left hand path can summon powers and send them out and on those they consider their enemies. Satanism only has one visible enemy I know of…the Church. If you read the rituals or have heard victims of SRA/MPD tell the stories then it's clear that most 'summon spirits to attack' rituals are aimed at the Church and Christians. In Revelation 12 when satan could not destroy Christ or Israel, who did he go after; all of those who hold to the testimony of Jesus and obey the Word of God. They (the Church) are satan's enemy (1Peter 5).

Underground satanists can target a church or a Pastor. They can coordinate with others and launch ritual spiritual warfare, summon demons and send them against Pastors and specific Churches. Remember 2 Kings 3 where the demon worshiping king seeks the power of chemosh to defeat the O.T. people of God and that it did have affect!

Christians today have been taught that if you don't open a door to the demonic then they have no legal right (Ephesians 4 foothold). That is mostly true but the fact remains that someone else has opened a door and if the demonic assignment has been sent against you there will be a battle.

THEY CONJURE TO ADVANCE THE CAUSE

Chosen ones tell me that they summon dark power demons not just for their own wishes. Just as Christians pray for the power of God to move and give them supernatural help to advance the gospel so real satanists can and do summon demons to empower them and their cause. Core luciferians know they cannot advance the cause, agenda of antichrist, without supernatural aid. O yes, chosen ones tell me that rituals are done for the rise and appearance of their leader (antichrist). The more power the more advancement!

If you study the ritual release of demon spirits in Revelation 16 notice that it takes massive dark power to move the world leaders and they are already in league with the antichrist at that time. Don't forget this point…they cannot advance without the summoning of dark powers and targeted sending of those demons for a direct purpose.

In the ritual release of demons that affects the whole world (a satanic planetary spiritual wave) in R16 we see a future glimpse of what is done in a smaller measure right now on US soil (see Chapter 34).

THEY CONJURE TO INFLUENCE TARGETS FOR USE

Read R1919 again and you will see that the demons sent had an 'assignment'; they had their designated target. This is not the use of 'energy' or dry 'power'. These demons may emanate energy and power but they are personalities who have a known target. They are more than 'smart lazar guided' missiles. They are powerful entities with function and will. They are sent for sure, but like the best trained Special Forces they have a mind and will to get their assignment done. Revelation 1919 shows that the spirits of R16 get that diabolical job done!

The targets of illuminati-luciferian or the ancient brotherhood are:

- Pastors and Christian leaders.
- Churches, especially the ones that matter to them.
- Christian ministries that are making great affect.
- Political leaders who need to be recruited or influenced
- Political events that need to be 'guided'
- The wealthiest people of the world are targets. It does take money to plan and accomplish a multination coo (black awakening)
- The world media moguls. It will take spin and control to convince the world of its need for globalism and shut down the opposition.
- Military leaders, scientists and weapons developers.

THEY CONJURE TO FILL THE AIR

One of the most highly trained chosen ones I have ever met went with me to a large crusade meeting. The sub personalities came out for sure to see what the big event was all about. We were sitting there and that's when someone told me they seek superiority over a tri-state area and that they conjure dark powers just to send out into the 'air'. The goal is to have a sense of superior manifest power over an area…thus in or from the air.

With satan being the 'ruler of the domain of the air' (atmosphere) one has to ask…What is it that he 'rules' up above us in the dense atmosphere around the planet?

Many Christians have told me about an area of their city or of an entire city that seems to be covered in darkness. Don't forget that satan/demons are even territorial; they are always seeking to cover, influence and control an area. The prince of Persia in Daniel's day (Allah?) was and is territorial. It was this demonic ruler of that area that opposed Daniel's prayer, fought angels in the heavenlies and most likely fueled the local demonic structures, ritual sites and servants on the ground.

A point to remember here is that wherever you find ritual sites on the ground or a city that 'feels' dark there must be territorial demonic presence in the air above. The satanic structure is a hierarchy with rules, authority and position, all of which serve the full satanic cause and all of which fight against the cause of Christ and His servants.

FINALLY

I do believe the 'air' is packed with demonic presence; this presence is more manifest now than 30 years ago. The ground level covens, the rituals they have done and are being done fuel the 'skies' and that dark presence in the 'air' empowers the ground level troops. The 'thicker' or heavier the manifestation is only means the demons are more numerous and they are more powerful.

This dark heavy spiritual presence does have affect:

- It's dulling the Church
- It's seducing the people spiritually
- It's fueling the political ideology

- It inspires crime, violence and moral decadence, all of which make even bigger doors for them to move in
- It’s digging deeper trenches for the darker stuff it does in secrecy.

THAT MAP ON GREEN PAPER AND THE OWL

She asked if she could have some big sheets of paper, I found 17x11 inch sheets. She began to draw. She worked for some time on the drawings and then brought them to me. I saw underground meeting places, cabins, woods, a lake and on one page was a big owl…yes, a very tall owl. At the feet of the owl were robed individuals with hoods and they were putting a corpse into a fire at the base of the owl. It seemed there was an audience watching or something. Of course I had to ask this Monarch chosen one what it was all about.

While she explained the maps she also had a necklace she wanted to give me. It was a silver chain with a small owl on it. She said many of the Monarchs who were used as sex slaves had them. This is what I was told. The crowd watching was world leaders; US government and military leaders, even presidents. The towering owl was an idol to a high and powerful demon god…Molech! The people in the hooded robes were real luciferians and the body of a human (shown on this map as screaming!) which was not an effigy but a real live person who was prepared for this sacrifice. She told me of bizarre occult symbols on the property and of gruesome sex done to kids in the late night hours. She said videos were taken for blackmail.

I have kept these maps to this day. It was in the mid 90's when this Monarch drew them. I have long wondered about this place. This same victim took me to other ritual sites, even one where the black mass symbol was painted on a large tree and it was there we dug up bones. Our teams at the time continued to pray for exposure and I never forgot the map or the stories of kids used as sex slaves by drunken powerful men of world renown.

It was in 2001 that a person came to me and brought me a video tape that they said I had to watch. It was the one where talk show host Alex Jones infiltrated Bohemian Grove on the week that they did the 'cremation of care' ritual in the deep woods there in California, here in the USA. The video showed that many known world leaders, senators, the wealthy, military leaders and even US top political leaders were present.

I saw the cabins, the occult symbols and then there it was that massive owl next to a body of water. The fires were high and the world leaders were sitting by the hundreds across from the ritual site. Hooded robed ritual workers rowed down the little river and brought onto shore a wrapped body. It was supposed to be a fake human representing a real one!

The voice of a man was telling the tale of 'DULL CARE' and then the robed workers threw the body into the flames at the feet of the owl….a screech was heard and the crowd of world leaders applauded.....they clapped and cheered! I wondered, are they freaks or what? Even if it was a fake mock human sacrifice to an ancient demon god what sane US politician or world leader would ever watch that…let alone applaud?

Why didn't ANY leader get up and exclaim, "This is an outrage!"?

The Monarch chosen one told me as have others now that it was no fake mock ritual, it was real and so was the human body that was wrapped and prepared. I have researched all I could on Bohemian Grove since that time. I was so moved by it all I created a web site and started a prayer agenda against that site and the elite who are behind it.

Dear reader, this has and is occurring in the USA! And there is no outrage. Political leaders can say, 'it's only a mock ritual'. Are you crazy or what! Who would go to a mock human sacrifice? Who would sit and watch a body being thrown into the flames and then applaud? Is this a play? A drama? A game? The questions continue to mount:

- Who is behind this place called the Bohemian Grove?
- Why is it so super secret and hidden?
- Why are the world's most influential leaders invited to come and who does the inviting?
- Why are there so many occult symbols and a 40 foot owl idol of a demon god molech?
- Why is it set up as an ancient ritual?
- Who are the people dressed in 'satanic' like hooded robes?
- Why even if it is a mock human wrapped in ritual preparation carried and thrown into the fire does anyone watch?
- Why is there no outrage about this from those who were invited?
- Were they forced to watch a human sacrifice…real or mock?
- Did they know and want to watch?
- Who was the dead body used for sacrificial offering?
- When the demons are conjured and the demon god appeased what favors do they give?

Is it because there is so much booze given out? Or maybe the video tapes of bizarre criminal sex acts with youth that are held keep their mouths shut. Or is it something more?

Could it be this site is an old ritual site that real luciferians have built where many real human sacrifices have been done? Could it be a 'cone of power' (a high place) where powerful dark forces have manifested and lay claim to the land? Maybe the whole site and all that is done is a 'type' or precursor to the coming of the ritual release of demonic power we have seen in Revelation 16. Maybe it is real elite luciferians who have set up this site and program so they can call in the world's most powerful leaders (the kings of the earth) wine and dine them and then unleash summoned dark powerful demons to begin…the influence.

IN MY VIEW

It is my understanding this is a real human sacrifice and the powers that are summoned are sent on the leaders to guide, influence and steer them. The Bohemian Grove site is a "high place" right here in the USA and is a major place of the darkest and most powerful rituals to date! This is a "weapon of mass destruction" on a spiritual level and those who attend this ritual are blinded by the darkness or they are part of the known process!

This place performs rituals all year long and coordinates many rituals with other sites just like it. This place and the rituals done do have affect and help fuel the satanic agenda for the coming globalism and rise of homosatanas. This place is filled with the filth of sexual abuse against children, mind controlled chosen ones, satanic ritual abuse, the summoning of dark powers and the targeted release of demons on US and world leaders.

In my view this high place and cone of satanic power should be prayed against by hundreds of thousands of those who love God and know the reality of spiritual warfare and know how the laws of spiritual engagement work. I pray for God to strike the owl of moloch and the land with a massive strike, that the elites behind this will be exposed and the past and present victims will be rescued, saved and healed. I pray for those in the hooded robes and other workers to be engaged by the power of God and like Saul they will be visited, saved and tell the story.

I pray for this high place and cone of power to be destroyed; for its demonic guts and crimes to be crushed. I pray against the demons raised, sent and working to be bound, stopped and destroyed. I pray for those to whom the demons were sent to be delivered. I pray for the crimes to stop and be dealt with. I pray this daily and hope you will join in.

Here are some more issues to think about when it comes to current and future 'cones of power.'

PLACES OF POWER

Bohemian Grove is only one of many large places of ritual practice. It is much like the high places that are spoken of in the O.T. The BG is just like in the OT where Manasseh conjured spirits and filled Jerusalem with dark powers or the place where the prophet Ezekiel was taken, a place where the demons had been raised for years. Yes, there are high places today. These "high places" (considered a cone of power) are the location of dark rituals and shed blood. This is where the demons find a doorway and satan has a "throne". From this throne or cone of power demonic powers can grip the land, air, objects and have a gateway. The dark spirits will call for more rituals and the rituals will increase the dark powers and hold they have.

I have been to smaller ritual sites, it's as though you can feel the spirits being enraged because I was there. It seems clear that they know who I am and Who is living in me. In the book of Acts 19:5 we read where the demon was quoted…"One day the evil spirit answered them, "Jesus I know and Paul I know but who are you?"

See the next section Chapter 37 for more on how to find, expose and see these places destroyed.

PEOPLE OF POWER

Who were these 70 elders of the house of Israel and what were they doing deep in the hidden cave? Ezekiel found out by God giving a 'supernatural' hole into that dark substructure. They were leaders in the public life by day and luciferian worshipper by night. What was done there is a glimpse of what continues today only on a much larger scale.

THE FIRST BURST/PLANETARY WAVE

The first multinational if not planetary spiritual wave is about to burst. Like hot air being pumped into the hot air balloon the air of the fires of hell (demons) itself have and are filling the bubble of air we are calling the coming chaos/revolt and (apocalypse) breaking out of …homosatanas. In 1 Thessalonians 2 we have been telling in this book that not one iota of satan's work or advancing agenda can move forward without supernatural power.

I only wonder now how much of that manifested power fills the inner sub personality of chosen ones. I wonder how many of those rituals that unleashed demons into the air (society), and on world leaders have come from planned or even coordinated ritual summoning. Chosen ones will tell you the demons put on those programmed sub personalities were summoned by ritual ceremony.

If we can see in Revelation 16 it was a release of demon spirits that 'triggered' and supernaturally moved world leaders and a massive global army to join together (gathering) and make war, then it shouldn't be hard to understand that the core of the 'activation' for the black awakening will be….demons sent to kick it off.

When hundreds of thousands of chosen ones are struck by the demonic triggering (and maybe combined with some technology) and the inner sub personalities come up….they come up with very powerful demonic manifestation. When they unleash assassinations, bloodshed and bring on the fear-violence and terror…you can be sure that like 'bats out of hell' the demonic will flow, the air will be filled and like an upside down (inverted) Pentecost…..dark powers will come with a rush!

THE SECOND BURST/PLANETARY WAVE

This coming planetary wave has not even begun, not yet anyway but it is coming for sure. It will be the largest release of demon power ever in human history. This will be the mother of all ritual spiritual warfare ever known. It will lead the world to the final day of history this side of the coming of Christ and His millennial reign.

This planetary wave will sweep the world over and grip the intended targets. This ritually released satanic spiritual wave will bring:

- The pinnacle or apex of manifested satanic power the world has ever been gripped by.
- An unprecedented global gathering of world leaders and their armies.
- An empowered consensus that is so blinded it has no idea about what it is going to attempt.
- Physical, technological and spiritual weapons combined with highly charged super soldiers and all of this will be unleashed at the call of… homosatanas.

FINALLY

There is only one way to destroy the demonic satanic powers and supernatural works. The frontline and foundation of satan's defeat is what all of hell fears and trembles at….that old rugged Cross, the blood of the Lamb of God…the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

"The reason the son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work"
1John 3

As the Spirit of God reveals in the book of Daniel the end of evil will come and the counterfeit incarnation of satan himself will be annihilated. It will happen but it will not be done by human power; ancient prophecy from 2,600 years ago says:

"…Yet he will be destroyed, but not by human power."
Daniel 8

Politicians, world rules, the wealthy and military leaders are the main targets of some of the deepest supernatural power the world has or will ever know. Arrogance and a sold out will to embrace any new technology regardless of ethics will be an open window for the lord of the flies to come on in. Just like Judas my friends…just like Judas.

"…as soon as Judas took the bread, satan entered into him."
John 13

CHAPTER 35
CHOSEN ONES AND THE NEW RECRUITS

"Then I saw the kings of the earth and their armies gathered…."R1919

It is very clear from prophetic scripture that antichrist will have a following. This following can be put into three categories:

- First, there are those who are spiritually blinded by the call to a spiritual evolution of human consciousness. These New Agers have believed the lie and have been initiated into the masquerade; a very deep and powerful masquerade. They by the hundreds of millions will long for, believe in and seek to do all things 'spiritual' for the dawn of a new order and for its needed new supernatural leader. For those who long for a new 'world teacher', 'world ruler', 'Mahdi' or Maytraia the foundation is set. They will conspire and rage for a super man with a new super age.
- Second, there will be those who have been created for this coming event. Chosen ones by the hundreds of thousands have been selected, birthed, raised and trained for one purpose….bring the massive chaos/revolt that will level all things and make a way for the antichrist. This group is the one that the first demonic spiritual wave will come for, they will help unleash and release massive demonic force. Those who are still intact and those who have finally chose to….will fight to end society and bring in a new one.
- Third, there are those who are the elite, those who are real luciferians. They are covered in the deepest of demonic power and their hands are > covered in blood. They are serpent worshippers like those in Ezekiel's cave. They are the 'apostles' of satan who have led the underground. They, dear reader, believe the Albert Pike revelation that lucifer is the good guy, that he is coming and that he will rule. For this they fight, do rituals and plot the global final solution.

I do believe there will be others who will be drawn in. To escape the terror, chaotic collapse and with a desire to live, eat and survive many will be willing to sell their souls and take a mark when the choice is forced. I hope you have made the choice dear reader. This book is not a conspiracy theory. It deals with the end of days, with life and death, heaven or hell and how you can know for sure how close we are.

If you can calculate the end but are not ready for it spiritually then you are like the chicken showing the fox its eggs. The power of the Cross is the event that no one else has ever achieved. It is only Jesus Christ who came from eternity and holds the gift of eternal life. He has been there and done that. It was all for you and I hope you know Him.

A BLOND A BLOND AND ANOTHER BLOND

A girl was tormented and trying to tell us who had used her and created the sub personality within. Each time she tried some demonized sub personality would throw her to the ground; it was hard to watch. This blond had a little blonde haired girl. She was cute as a button as they say. This little one would also be a candidate to be a next generation chosen one. The satanic rituals, sexual and mental abuse the mother went through was bad enough but she knew that those who did it to her were doing it to her daughter.

This blond had a family perpetrator; it was her own mother and she had, though older now, blond hair. All three of them are still in that dark system. All three are part of that multigenerational ancient brotherhood. The little girl must be in her teens now, most will not detect it but she like her mother has sub personalities who have seen the dark side and stay hidden for now. This little girl is part of the next generation of chosen ones.

If there were thousands of parents who either sold out their kids to a system that promised super children and thousands more who were raised in the satanic covens then we must begin to calculate. This first generation was in the thousands, they helped produce hundreds of thousands of new chosen ones from the 1950's on up. The second generation measuring hundreds of thousands have also had children and they are in their late 20's and early 30's. This third generation is now the one who have children 3-13 years old and these children are now evidencing multiplicity.

FACE TO FACE

I have been to the homes of many chosen ones; I have looked into the faces of those who have given their children to this long dark night. They have given, participated and worked to help raise their own children as satanic super soldiers. How they could do it is beyond almost anyone understanding but it is a sad and true reality. The dark powers are so convincing that even a father would offer his first born to a demon god like moloch (2Kings 21-21). Manasseh was that father and he like other parents in that day offered their children to be burned in fire as an offering to a demon.

Today parents of chosen ones are either control multiples themselves or military personnel who were told that the use of their children would help the country fight a war with communism and other enemies. The concept of a master race of super warriors came to the surface in Nazi Germany's occult lead military goal. What started there as we have said earlier has come to the US as 'secret' and advanced 'projects'. What the parents were not told and what many in the CIA did not know was that there was a spiritual agenda that came with the Nazi science… a demonic Trojan horse. Once the children were in, the threat of whistle blowing would be stilled by the threat of grave harm or death.

I do believe some parent perpetrators and those recruited into the projects wish they could stop it. Some have looked deep into my eyes and only tears would come from their eyes filled with 'secret don't tell' fear. This silent boxed fear has become the disposition of the early generation victims as they give way to the new generation and that new generation is their flesh and blood. I have often wondered if the parents think about how their children are used and what they will do when the black awakening occurs. Without the power of God in Christ I don't see any way out for any of them. The good news is that many have made it and thousands more are 'fighting their way out of this black bag'.

GENERATION X

The next generation of SRA/MPD chosen ones is on the way. They have newer technology (demonized) that helps split, program and train them. It does seem harder to detect them and see sub personalities come out. Maybe their programming is stronger or the punishment harder…maybe it's both. When it comes to traditional satanism and lesser forms of satanic practice the numbers are growing. There is an expectation of a new satanic age among this group and they are out to expand their work.

Recruiting people into other forms of satanism:

- Select them. If the satanic group is secretive enough they will observe others and decide whom they will recruit.
- Invite them to step one… indulge the flesh, party, drink, drugs and seek to give them a good time.
- Invite them to experience some form of spiritual event, a small ritual or 'mind' power. Reading minds, tell a person their future etc.
- Invite them to take a step. Have the new recruit come to a meeting where they can participate. They can light candles. They can have sex with the girl on an altar and hear others summon the demons.
- Invite them to cross all lines. Have them recite renunciation of Christ, God and the Bible. Lead them to choose Lucifer, dedicate and offer to him their life. This will involve ceremony and personal offerings.
- Invite them to blood. At first they may have to offer a little blood or even drink a mixture with blood in it. They may see at this point an animal sacrifice or even help in it.
- Seal the deal; vows to satan and participation in human sacrifice.

These are some of the basics of how individuals are sought and recruited into deeper satanic groups. Even those in the ancient brotherhood tell me they recruit others. With some satanic groups you can just enroll online or through the mail, pay the fee and become a member. Other groups that are more serious will take a person through steps and each one of those step get darker as they go.

When it comes to the creation of super soldiers the recruitment is not the same. Raising children in a transgenerational luciferian coven system is a little different because you really have no choice, at least at first. Babies are conceived and bred for the purpose of creating a chosen one. The biological parents seeking conception may be picked, they are demonized and from conception to birth there are rituals. From birth on the core personality is split with programming coming later. Some even say the babies of multiples may have a 'predisposition' for dissociation and being split. By age 6 the child has sub personalities, demonic presence and has seen many horrific things in the hidden ritual ceremonies. The upfront child may seem fine and go to school but the inside little persons are in fear, agony and pain.

This is where the new generation of recruits of super soldier chosen ones are being developed:

- The children of multiples. Many times it's the trained sub personalities in one generation that begin the process on the next generation. Many victim chosen ones have found out they have sub personalities who have been splitting and programming sub parts into their children. Therefore thousands of SRA/MPD victims have created hundreds of thousands of new chosen ones.
- Foster children. There are a number of cases I have worked on where the mother SRA/MPD victim had sub personalities who 'pushed from within' and influenced the mom and husband to 'get' children. In some of those cases all of the foster children were split, sexually used and now have sub personalities.
- There is no question that the luciferian elite do seek and steal children to create new chosen ones. The case of the 'FINDERS' a group thought to be rouge CIA special projects agents have abducted children and delivered them to those who would make chosen ones. This group was discovered and is still sought to this day. They were said to have a number of unrelated children who were neglected and transported to hidden locations. The FBI has investigated and could not solve the case. There are thousands of missing children who have never to this date been found.

- Then there are the breeders. There are thousands of SRA/MPD victims who believe they were forced to have children. (Like the Nazi Lebensborn project). Those children were then taken and used to create chosen ones. Many victims have told me of a baby they had that was either used in sacrifice or taken to be made into a chosen one.
- Children's day care centers. Not only are there many stories of children who were sexually and ritually abused in a day care center but cases like the McMartin day care center case where many children have memories of ritual abuse is still not fully solved. I was called into a city where a mother had twin girls. She said both were sexually abused at a day care center. When I met with them they both had sub personalities and demonic activity.

Another case involved a doctor who had in his house a ritual room and a room packed with pornography. He and his wife were seeking to raise money so they could make a day care type center. A law enforcement agent who was SRA/MPD informed us that the doctor and his wife were handlers and ritual abusers of children.

Just by counting the number of SRA/MPD victims and tracking back to see where they came from you will see how their stories will be similar. They will tell you their parents or grandparents were involved. Others will tell you they don't know who their real parents are. One girl was found in a place we had searched for years. We were told there was a coven there and years later by God's providence we found the girl…a chosen one who at first wanted out. We have met her dad (a blue eyed Aryan type) and found the property where her Nazi German speaking grandfather is still operating out of. It's an ongoing case. The alarming thing is that this SRA/MPD victim is unhealed, out there and babysitting little children!

FINALLY

When we can get to one victim and see them saved, healed and set free we also know it can stop the creation of new chosen ones. It has always been my goal and prayer to get to the victims early. To stop it in childhood is the best; to stop it before a child is even conceived is better! It will save them from years of ritual and sexual abuse. As we write and as you now read there are hundreds of thousands of little ones who are the children of SRA/MPD victims being created to be chosen ones. You may not stop all of it but always remember you can get to some…AND WE MUST!

As new generations of chosen ones are being forged right now never forget the process. Hate evil and do something against it. The process is gruesome and the product is meant to be a killing machine. The time is short and the need is great. Just what will you do?

The CIA hired psychologist Estabrooks added:

"…two hundred trained foreign operators, working in the United States, could develop a uniquely dangerous army of hypnotically controlled Sixth Columnists."

CHAPTER 36
THE BLACK AWAKENING AND THE GATHERING AT THE VEIL

"The existence of evil spirits is a dread reality, even though some Christians are not sufficiently aware of this fact" p 95 'DEMON EXPERIENCES'

"Imagine being trapped inside a burning building. Some people inside the building are saying there is nothing wrong, that everything is as it is supposed to be. Yet you feel the heat and smell the smoke and you hear the fire engines outside….." p93 'EVANGELIZING THE NEW AGE'

"Unfortunately, the church is so preoccupied with secondary issues, that we are not visible or attractive to a spiritually starved generation." P 31 'SUBTLE SERPENT'

As a kid one of the great fun things to do in the hot summer time was to have water fights. Whoever controlled the hose would have the most fun. When it came to balloons, well they were a blast. At times we would have to run to the water spigot, put the balloon on it and then turn on the water. The balloon would fill and you had to watch that you didn't fill it too much or it would swell and then explode! That was kind of fun too.

What's not fun is the knowing, like the swelling of the water balloon that another swelling is going on. It's the swelling of the spiritual realm. As prophesied the massive wicked forces from the heavenly realm are breaking through to our side in unprecedented numbers and force. The veil as they say is growing very thin and the troops of demonic forces are waiting…bulging at the seams to burst into and onto our side. It's as though they are amassed at the border and a line is drawn forcing them to wait but only a little while longer. These extra dimensional beings (demons) wait for the first wave; what I call an 'inverted Pentecost'.

As I have already said the demonic presence has been ramping up. The second largest proliferation of occult literature in history was unleashed in the US during the1960's according to occult historian James Web and this has opened the door to massive 'doctrines of seducing spirits'. Those very spirit inspired writings are the ones the Spirit of God warned about. They have opened up many doors of spiritual experience. I keep telling everyone that those spiritual experiences are real….they are just not right. If it comes from fallen finite spirits then the message and the following spiritual experience will be real alright but it will not and cannot lead to God. Here are the facts:

- If it comes from fallen spirits then it will only lead to them and the cause of the "ruler of the authority of the air, the spirit who is now at work…." See Ephesians 2.
- Fallen spirits (angels) cannot and will not lead anyone to God, Christ or the Word of God. They cannot because of their now corrupted eternal nature. They will not because of their will to oppose God and deceive man.
- If the message and spiritual experience comes from God it will be used to lead people to God.

Along with the massive rise of demonic inspired writings come the increase of occult and satanic crimes, the rise of satanic ritual abuse cases (beginning in the late 70's), the rise of possession and personal supernatural spiritual experiences (dreams, visions, visitations, channeling, astral projection, rituals, spells and magik of all kinds). There is the return to spiritual practices like Wicca, paganism, goddess worship, secret societies, druidism, Santeria and millions are involved with the New Age Movement.

All of this put together will reveal that there has been a massive shift and the dark spirits who are pushing their agenda are among us. Hundreds of millions of people have opened the doors. Along with this is the fact that more books on spiritual warfare have been written in the last 30 years than in the entire history of Christianity. The Church is packed with a lot of good literature the problem though is only a small segment of the Body of Christ is reading and learning.

When faith arises, a revelation of the critical time we are in is understood and the roar of massive prolonged intercession by a highly experienced Church is unleashed…then the power shall fall, the miracles will come and powers of darkness trampled. A spiritual clothing will cover the saints and buildings (city's and nations too) will shake. But it must be now.

The manifestation of dark spirits is unprecedented right now and the swelling and bulging at the seams is evident. What is here now has sucked hundreds of millions into the 'spirit led globalist' agenda and this is nothing compared to what is about to occur.

Note:

"The manifestation of dark spirits is unprecedented right now and the swelling and bulging at the seams is evident."RD

What is here now has sucked hundreds of millions into the 'spirit led globalist' agenda and this is nothing compared to what is about to occur."

It is massively something, this ramping up of demonic presence but my point at this moment is…we haven't seen anything yet! None of the current spiritual deception and dark powers is going to go away; they will only be added to a hundred…a thousand times over.

This is how you can look at the 'gathering at the veil' and its progression.

- THE FROG IN THE KETTLE APPROACH. We have been cooked and most don't know it. The hidden agenda is real and it's evolving. The work involves 'blinding minds, deception, seduction, masquerading and engaging people with an alternative spiritual message and experience. (The same method used in the garden Genesis 3). See also 1Timothy 4

- THE MASSIVE RAMPING UP. The manifestation of supernatural spiritual powers that counterfeit those of Christ and the early Church. Unprecedented numbers of spiritual experiences and spirit contact. This would include the direct operation of these spirits in and through many people. See 2Thessalonians 2
- THE MORAL SPIRITUAL CONNECTION. The embrace and addition of deep moral decadence that helps darken the conscience and build a bigger platform for more deception. 2 Thessalonians tell us that the massive supernatural manifestation coming directly from the active operating presence of satan himself will include "every sort of morally decedent evil that deceives those who are perishing". Please note all forms of the occult, new age and even darker spiritual practice include addictive sexual perversion and moral decadence.

Luciferians who create chosen ones know the connection between moral depravity and demonic attachment. Rituals that get a person to do evil dirty the conscience and prepare the human construct to receive more unclean spirits. So as Scripture has revealed, moral corruption and spiritual deception will both rise and contribute to the larger coming of massive demonic manifestation. Study the book of Revelation and what it says about Babylon and you will see the connection. Notice how demonic presence, moral corruption, violence, crime and addictive decadence all support each other.

"Fallen, Fallen is Babylon the Great! She has become a home for demons and a haunt for every evil spirit, a haunt for every unclean and detestable bird. For all of the nations have drunk the maddening wine of her adulteries. The kings of the earth committed adultery with her, and the merchants of the earth grew rich from her excessive luxuries…..her sins are piled up to heaven and God has remembered her crimes." Revelation 18

- THE SATANIC STRIKE; the coming Great Revolt or Rebellion that the luciferians are planning on. They call this the Black Awakening. This massive chaos and anarchy is what millions feel is coming and many talk show hosts and book authors are talking about. This is the next big event on the Biblical prophetic calendar. It will strike with an 'inverted satanic Pentecost'! A massive pouring out of demonic power….truly the swelling balloon of demonic forces will break and when it does nothing like it will have ever occurred in world history. It will be a multinational, historic unleashing of chaos, violence and anarchy all fueled by sheer and massive satanic power. It will be accompanied by the collapsing of nations as this book has spelled out.

- Like the hurricane that hit New Orleans, it will be unmistakable. Bodies will lie in the streets and everything will change. Only the helpless pleas of change, restoration and need will be heard…at least until a new voice is heard.
- THE GOAL OF REGIME CHANGE. The Black Awakening (This massive spiritual rebellion and chaos) will not close human history, it will however change its course and spark the last seven years of human history this side of the second coming of Christ. The Black Awakening is meant to be a spiritual and societal regime change. And so it will be! The next event is what it's all about. When the frog in the kettle approach is over the spiritual 'balloon' will break and like a collapsing dam the dark waters from the other side will rush in and change the landscape.
- THEN THE VOICE OF AN ANCIENT HATE. The apocalypse of antichrist will occur. With his appearance come the ruling waves of demonic force and the new world order. This new globalism started out as a 'frog in the kettle' approach. With the public arrival and takeover of the antichrist. 'Spirit guided' globalism will happen and change everything. The spiritual force and manifestation of the darkest of the demonic will have arrived also.

FINALLY

I will say it again…most people can feel something in the 'air', that something ominous and catastrophic is coming. It seems all streams of thinking are emptying out into the ocean of a coming chaos. I stand on record and proclaim what the ancient prophets and even Jesus Himself has said; that a time of unequaled devastation is coming and every one everywhere will be affected by it.

History is changing and will change…for the worse and I say that it's not just 'flesh and blood' that has or is doing this. It is the ruler of the power of the air, the spirit who is now at work, it is a secret power of lawlessness that is supernaturally operative and the push for the veil to break and hell to come gushing out is upon us!

PART FIVE
UNLEASHING HEAVEN

He was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and faith, and a great number of people were brought to the Lord.

Acts 11

A SUPERNATURAL HOLE INTO THE SUBSTUCTURE OF RADICAL EVIL

"Nevertheless, I have a few things against you: You have people there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to entice the Israelites to sin by eating food sacrificed to idols and by committing sexual immorality."
Revelation 2

" And he said to me, "Son of man, do you see what they are doing—the utterly detestable things the house of Israel is doing here, things that will drive me far from my sanctuary? But you will see things that are even more detestable. "[7] Then he brought me to the entrance to the court. I looked, and I saw a hole in the wall. [8] He said to me, "Son of man, now dig into the wall." So I dug into the wall and saw a doorway there.[9]And he said to me, "Go in and see the wicked and detestable things they are doing here." [10] So I went in and looked, and I saw portrayed all over the walls all kinds of crawling things and detestable animals and all the idols of the house of Israel. [11] In front of them stood seventy elders of the house of Israel, and Jaazaniah son of Shaphan was standing among them. Each had a censor in his hand, and a fragrant cloud of incense was rising.[12] He said to me, "Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the darkness, each at the shrine of his own idol? They say, "The LORD does not see us; the LORD has forsaken the land". " [13] Again, he said, "You will see them doing things that are even more detestable."[14] Then he brought me to the entrance to the north gate of the house of the LORD, and I saw women sitting there, mourning for Tammuz. 15 He said to me, "Do you see this, son of man? You will see things that are even more detestable than this." Ezekiel 8

"How much do elected officials know about the Shadow Government's activities and plan's?" p 75 'INSIDE THE SHADOW GOVERNMENT'

WHO KNEW?

If only we knew when the rapist would strike or what the pedophile was planning: We could be there the strike them down and save the victim from a world of pain, sorrow or even death. It would be worth having a heads up! Satan is operating in deep secrecy and this supernatural activity is a major aspect of his power. While the early disciples kicked back and had a meal with Jesus they had no idea who else was in the room. It was there that satan was asking to blast and defeat the disciples. It was there in the room that satan himself was waiting to enter into Judas and supernaturally influence him to betray Jesus Christ unto death.

But who knew?

It is very clear that only Jesus did! Without that infinite omniscience, no one would have known that a powerful radical evil was standing right there ready to pounce with his method and agenda. This fallen cherub's agenda is always about deception and destruction. It is on the move right now. Jesus knew and gave the disciples a heads up....a supernatural hole into the substructure of radial evil. That evil was right there in the room and no one but Jesus knew. The finite and the infinite were engaged. So let me say with confidence and clarity that God does know every iota of satanic breath, finger print, method and agenda. Only God, Himself, knows every thought and move the 'prince of darkness' has, is and will make. The great news is that God does give us massive revelation on the origin, nature, method and active agenda of satan.

BONES IN THE WOODS

While on a research outreach trip I found the book 'HITLER AND THE NEW AGE'. It was strange to begin reading about the occult infused political ideology that created the final solution (in secrecy) and stacked the bodies high as they shoveled as many as they could into those massive ovens. The book was in my hands when we pulled into a deep wooded area where the black mass indicator was painted in black on a tree. This was the ritual site where we dug up bones that were used in satanic rituals. It was this place that a chosen one revealed and spoke of the blood sacrifices and dark powers that were engaged. Dear reader this is one of thousands of hidden ritual centers that have been in operation for years. More are coming and they are active....on a supernatural level.

This was like many of the ones I have seen now. What I have seen in places like this and on slide shows of police academy training screens was horrific but it doesn't scratch the surface of what God sees at every moment and everywhere. God has and can lead those who are willing to find, see and help bring exposure to this deadly practice. God will also lead many to pour out Spirit led prayer against the active open doorways to the demons who are pouring in and building for a coming history changing chaos.

"He reveals deep and hidden things; he knows what lies in darkness, and light dwells with him. "Daniel 2

"Nothing in all creation is hidden from God's sight, everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give account" Hebrews 4

I hope this book has in some measure been an exposure of the satanic agenda but it's not just exposure that I am shooting for, it's a fired up engagement to confront the rise of end time radical evil and an intense release of the awesome mission of God in His power and compelling love. Has the Spirit of God spoken to your heart yet? I love what Isaiah said in chapter 6.... "Hear am I, send me."

A SUPRANATURAL HOLE INTO THE SUBSTRUCTURE OF RADICAL EVIL

It will take the hand of God who can show a strong believer where the darkest of evil practice is present. In Ezekiel 8 while deep level luciferic worship was going on, not even the great prophet Ezekiel knew what was going on until God moved him and opened the door for him to see. God can, will and I believe wants to rip the secrecy lid off of what has been, is and will be going on. Biblical revelation has massive revelation on the origin, nature methodology and current active agenda of this radical evil; the very radical evil that is changing the face of history right now. Because the nature and work of evil is to do its dirty works in the cloak of secrecy who knows? As we have emphasized… God does. God has given a hole into the substructure of real radical evil. He can help you see and then take action but let's look at what most never see until it's too late; a supernatural hole into the origin, nature, methodology and agenda. That substructure of radical evil has been and is given but it must be discovered as you search. Here is what we need and can count on.

THE LANGAUGE OF GOD (WORD) THE REVELATION OF GOD

Scriptures are the final authority on this subject. They alone give what no other writing has ever given...ever! In scripture we find a systematic and progressive revelation on radical evil from head to toe. The origin, nature, methodology, agenda (plans) can be discovered if we search the scriptures. What we have is a specific heads up to what satan is doing. Knowing the inspired revelation will grant you Holy Spirit Perception (HSP). This is the God given supernatural ability to perceive and discern. Here are some points to study:

- The (Revelation/scripture) Word of God is the Holy Spirit's language see Hebrews 1-4.
- The Word of God gives you faith to believe. Romans 10
- The Word of God is Active and Alive/Living. Scriptures are Spirit and life, Jesus said. Hebrews 4
- The Word of God alone can lead us to acquire salvation. Romans 10 and see the Gospel of John
- The Word of God causes you to grow, know more, be strong and walk with God. 1 Peter 1

- The Word of God defeats deception and gives discernment. Hebrews 5; 1John 2
- The Word of God gives revelation of and victory over the devil himself. 1John 2; Matthew 4

The Word of God is a massive revelation by the Spirit of God who will give a supernatural insight and heads up to the current and increasing spiritual masquerade. Prophetic Revelation has revealed and spelled out the sequence of the satanic agenda and knowing this 'PR' will give you accurate and massive insight to what is going on, what God is doing and what the '...ruler of the domain of the atmosphere' is doing. No matter how many supernatural and spiritual experiences occur, screen them all through the Word, what the Holy Spirit has and is saying. (See 1Corinthians 14).

THE SPIRIT OF GOD

The Spirit of God is....God. He is 'eternal', 'Holy', called God (Acts 5) and holds/has all three main attributes of God-Omnipresence, Omniscience and Omnipotence. The Holy Spirit knows every detail of the fallen cherub; what his nature, methodology and agenda are. There is nothing that satan/demons can do, think, plan or say without the Spirit of God knowing (Psalm139).

It is the Spirit of God who has revealed all of who and what satan/demons are. The Spirit of God is seeking to bring every human being 'out of darkness and into the light' (see 1Peter) to direct and permanent relationship with Christ.The Spirit of God will reveal Christ and the revelation of God and in so doing will expose the demonic and all of their deception. The Holy Spirit lives in the believer in Christ (Romans 8) and gives us discernment (1Corinthians 2), Spiritual insight (Ephesians 1), and the Spiritual advantage (1John 4:1-4). By the Spirit of God we can be lead to victims of SRA/MPD and engage the perpetrators. In Acts chapter 8 you will see how the Spirit of God lead and spoke to Philip with very distinct and direct guidance for ministry.

It is the Spirit of Christ that can help you pray, discern and will guide you concerning uncovering and exposing hidden satanic practices. We have a prayer mapping training that helps us to learn how to listen to the Holy Spirit as we focus prayers on covens and underground occult crime practices.

THE POWER OF PRAYER

Seeking God in prayer like Daniel did in his day can bring the same God given supernatural insight. God can break the satanic blinding, masquerade and deception by revealing, who, what and where dark practices are being done. It will be vital that you pray for dark powers that hide the perpetrators to be broken and then pray for full exposure.

Please see Daniel and rely on these words of God:

"He reveals deep and hidden things; he knows what lies in darkness, and light dwells within him". Daniel 2

"Nothing in all creation is hidden from God's sight, everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give account" Hebrews 4

It was prayer and praise that led God to grant an earthquake to free Paul from jail and Peter who was being prayed for had angels show up to set him free and open iron gates (See the book of Acts to see the powerful answers to prayer). Miracles do still happen and they are needed!

God is against evil, you can be sure of that. He wants to save all but does intervene to stop murderers and even the detestable things underground luciferians do. So stand up strong...and immoveable and fight radical evil. Psalm 125:1 tells us:

"Those who trust in the LORD are like Mount Zion, which cannot be shaken but endures forever." Psalm 125

When a believers prayers become fierce and you grow...'more and more powerful' then it can be like the reformer John Knox whose prayers were very strong against evil. The wicked queen who opposed Christ's work...' feared the prayers of John Knox more than an invading army'!

THE WILLINGNESS TO LOOK

When God led the prophet Ezekiel over to the cave he may have had no idea what he was about to see. In chapter 8 Ezekiel was willing to look at what God was showing. God led him point by point to see 'detestable' things and then he was shown even more 'detestable' things. If you want to help victims and nail down perpetrators you may have to see things that most never will. You will have to be ready to be confronted with real radical evil....and then do something about it.

There are “chickens” out there unwilling to see what is really going on. We need to realize that God has not given us a Spirit of cowardice but of Power. (See 2 Timothy1). A lawyer once told me, "Russ I am so glad you are doing this because it scares the snot out of me". This believer in Christ needs some 'boldness'. Acts 4! Fear is a platform for the dark spirits to speak and hold people in bondage. Fear is a snare and grieves the Holy Spirit who gives and wants His Power to be a fire through us, so '...don't put out the Spirits fire (1Thessalonians 5).

Know that God can:

"Yet Saul grew more and more powerful" Acts 9:22

"27By faith he left Egypt, not fearing the king's anger; he persevered because he saw him who is invisible..... 32And what more shall I say? I do not have time to tell about Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah, David, Samuel and the prophets, 33who through faith conquered kingdoms, administered justice, and gained what was promised; who shut the mouths of lions, 34quenched the fury of the flames, and escaped the edge of the sword; whose weakness was turned to strength; and who became powerful in battle and routed foreign armies. " Hebrews 11

THE LIVING ACTIVE CHRIST

Who could stop Jesus? The demons fear Him and nothing stopped Him. This great Savior said to us "...and I will be with you always even to the end of the age."Matthew 28. Jesus worked (supernaturally operative) with active obedient believers...in very powerful ways, "Then the disciples went out and preached everywhere, and the Lord worked with them and confirmed his word by the signs that accompanied it." Mark 16

Your Lord Jesus Christ is alive! Never forget that! He pledged His active living presence and you can count on His powerful hands of ministry on and with you. Paul himself testifies about the Living Christ after a long history of ministry and labor with these words:

"He has delivered us from such a deadly peril, and he will deliver us. On him we have set our hope that he will continue to deliver us, 11as you help us by your prayers. Then many will give thanks on our behalf for the gracious favor granted us in answer to the prayers of many." 2Corinthians 1 and "But the Lord stood at my side and gave me strength, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. And I was delivered from the lion's mouth." 2Timothy 4

ANGELS DO SCRAP

The elect angles of God are our friends, brethren and fellow servants. They are powerful and are working to:

- Help those who are saved Hebrews 1
- Are seen in the book of Acts helping, defending and freeing (rescuing) servants of Christ. They are at work and can even show themselves as they did in the early church. (See the book of Acts and how it reveals angelic ministry). They helped Paul, pointed Philip in the right direction, got Peter out of prison and helped in the front line work of evangelism.

- "But during the night an angel of the Lord opened the doors of the jail and brought them out. 20"Go, stand in the temple courts," he said, "and tell the people the full message of this new life". Acts 5
- Psalm 68 gives us an example of calling on the Lord for his power to come and this would include that God sends angels to fight.
- Angels fighting dark fallen angels (demons) can be seen in Revelaton12. As a matter of fact the book of Revelation has over 60 references to the work, ministry and activity of angels of God in the very last days.
- They are at work on the behalf of believers and come in answer to prayer. See the book of Daniel to see how angels worked.

FINALLY

Looking under the carpet and seeing the dirt and results of satanic activity can be very ugly and dangerous. But it was God himself who led Ezekiel to see it. God also tells believers to expose the evil deeds of darkness (Ephesians 5) and as I have always said, "You can't expose what you don't know about". The question is dear reader, "Will you let God show you the lethal face of evil and if so will you stand and say, here am I send me"?

You are needed in the fight but the weapons will not be human; instead by the supernatural power and works of God you can break into this hidden satanic system of human misery. If you don't want God to be involved then step back and get out of the way...this is a supernatural fight. It began as one (Ezekiel 28) and it will end as one. (Revelation 19)

Along with all of the bloody evil I have seen I have also seen and experienced the awe striking power and presence of God. The providence of God is amazing and His work for saving, rescuing, healing and setting people free is filled with a glorious love and compelling drive. You can be sure you will experience the incredible acts of Jesus when you are on the field of ministry instead of the basement of personal survival. Note:

"Though you have not seen him, you love him; and even though you do not see him now, you believe in him and are filled with an inexpressible and glorious joy"

CHAPTER 38

COUNTER MEASURES

The missiles have been fired now what are you going to do?

“Your enemy the devil prowls around like a roaring lion looking for someone to devour…” 1 Peter 5

"He who does what is sinful is of the devil, because the devil has been sinning from the beginning. The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the devil's work." 1John 3

SUPRISE ATTACK

It took me three blows to break the grip of the chosen one who was choking me. I was trying to rebuke the demonic power in this coven loyal sub personality and at the same time break his physical grip. Sub personalities not only have a fierce fixed mind to do what they must but the ‘energy’ in their programming gives them a dark supra natural edge. His eyes like the others were glazed over, dark and very cold. Every ounce of his being was into what he was doing, trying to harm or kill me. Once his hands were off my neck the three officers grabbed him and they battled him till he was on the ground, legged chained and cuffed. There was only one passion in this chosen one, his (and the rest of the sub personalities) ability and quickness to physically attack and do lethal harm.

SNEAK ATTACK

When she left the office I felt something was wrong; she was always up to something. This time I felt so agitated that I went over to the couch knelt down and began to pray. I looked up once or twice and saw something over in the crack of the couch. I dug them out and realized they were put there by design. They were her 'power' rings that she wore every time I saw her. These rings were all black and had been 'charged', meaning they were demonized. As I have said earlier the uses of demonized objects are many. They are 'charged' with demonic presence and with demonic purpose. An object like a necklace, a ring or even a statue can have demonic presence on them with the purpose of protection or cursing. This time the Spirit of God spoke to me and showed me that they were charged and placed for confusion and a curse. I also discerned that this was only part and the beginning of an agenda. She had done this before to another pastor and his church in the area. The results were devastating.

I took the rings, washed them off and prayed over them. I also prayed against the purpose of the demonic intent. I commanded that all of the intent, powers and presence of demons would be broken and canceled. I kept the rings in a baggy for about a week and then called the girl satanist to say I found them and that God foiled her plan.

This is the girl who had 'war on the saints' tattooed on her left wrist. She sought earnestly to destroy the other pastor, declared she would steal my daughter and sought to release demonic forces on me right in my pastor's office.

What would you do? What would your pastor do? Who would be ready and watching for this type of secret occult warfare? Isn't it time we know and learn powerful and fierce countermeasures?

DEADLY ATTACK

I sat at my desk and the girl sat across from me, her military husband was right outside the door. When I looked down at my notes ….in an instant there was a 'slam' and a bayonet swished by my head and stuck into the desk. I looked up, her eyes were black and glazed over; she was only making growling sounds. Did she mean to miss? I had no time to ask as she pulled the bayonet out of the wood and tried to strike me again.

When her husband came rushing in, she growled at him and ran for the door. This soldier husband pulled back and shut the door. She put the bayonet right through the door and an inch away from his head. When the officers arrived she collapsed and said she didn't know what happened. They took her for psych evaluation anyway.

Was it planned? Someone got that bayonet and put it inside her leather coat. This calls for careful thought and a preparedness that must be put in place. We need to be prepared now and we need countermeasures!

If you say yes, right! Let's do something about this! Great....but so many have been willing to say with a pat on my head, "We're glad you're out there doing this stuff or even worse, "Glad you're doing this because this stuff 'scares the snot out of me'." I*ndifference and fear are the stone cold emotions of the powerless and the uncommitted. Those bound by them are frozen in time and unable to help themselves or others*. Please don't forget that sentence; it may help you get disgusted about the weakness of your life or of the failing weakness of the Church and do something about it. If you're just sitting around in the rocks hiding out waiting for the end to come so you won't be touched then realize that at this point you are letting darkness fall.

Hell's mouth is wide open and there is an unprecedented pouring out of attack on the world, the church and the weak. You must realize people are being destroyed, the demons are dancing at glowing rituals and the satanists are mocking the silence and inaction of Christians and the Church. Let's hear the words and wisdom of God:

"One who is slack in his work is brother to one who destroys" Proverbs 18:9

Jesus was no slacker! When Jesus hung on that Cross He demonstrated that fearless sacrifice was the stuff of redemption and rescue. Redemption is all action and a demonstration that God is stepping in; that God is moving in opposition of radial evil. He is also building a Church (people) who will step out in mission. Let's remember that obedience is God empowered action and that it manifests His love, grace and power.

Jesus on the move as seen in the dynamic gospel of Mark was and is working for the defeat and destruction of evil. This dynamic active work of Christ is going on to this day by those who have taken up the Cross, thrown evil to the dirt and followed Christ in the work of bringing people to God.

So again:

"Indifference and fear are the stone cold emotions of the powerless and the uncommitted. Those bound by them are frozen in time and unable to help themselves or others. '

May I ask again, "What are you prepared to do"? Counter measures begin with you deciding to take action. You can hide in the rocks while the demons scream and the children cry in horror. You can bury yourself in many pointless activities and be so busy that you don't see the numbers of violated victims, or you can do the right thing, take up the cross and fight like heaven! It's only in this work that you shall experience the power of God and see the footprints of the Living Christ. (See Mark 16:20 or read the great book of Acts).

This book was not written so much to show the guts of evil, it was written to find brave souls who fear nothing and love God; those who will fight like heaven and count on His counter measures. You may be one of those 'counter measures.'

A DIRTY COP AND A GUN NO MATCH FOR THE DEVIL

Let me share a third story. I was sitting in a room in a local police department with a victim of satanic ritual abuse. She was the wife of a federal officer and had gone through a lot of pain. She was also a perpetrator and could be used by the local coven to kill. When asked to tell on the bad guys she blurted out "Who will protect me"? She had been taken and beaten many times to shut her up. I have heard the same question many times now from victims of SRA/MPD.

The officer, a detective looked at her reached down patted his side arm and said he would. But is this the only countermeasure we can use? I think God has given law enforcement to us to 'bear the sword on the evil doer' (Romans 13) and we have involved officers many times in the crisis events many SRA's go through but we must become more proactive than just reactive. The police can't be everywhere all the time and not every officer wants to spend hours just looking for evidence. Besides the officer in question was a "dirty" cop. It wasn't strange to us that this cop who got underage favors under the table never came up with satanic crime perpetrators. A good officer is a great tool in the hand of God, an instrument for good and a sword against evil but one bad cop enables the pain of many.

We need to research, pray through and find a host of critical Spirit lead countermeasures for the crimes happening now but also prepare for the coming of the full culture wide onslaught of the black awakening. A good place to look for guidance is in the book of Nehemiah chapter 4. Quick response and bold faith can slam the door on the noise and activities of radial evil. The Word of God will give many powerful countermeasures in the face of crisis and danger. The OT is full of them; after all the believers then had to fight like heaven against nephilim (demon human hybrids-Genesis 6) and demonized tribes who sacrificed their children to gain the powers of the war gods. Children and victim bodies were used in the weaponization of demonic powers then...and now. The temporary victory for radical evil does have its price.

THE POWER OF KNOWLEDGE...ON THE FIELD

We must have the goal of educating ourselves and this, my friends is no small issue! It was this passion and desire for consuming information and knowledge that led me to know, grow and prepare for more encounters with this agenda of radical evil. Much of the knowledge has emboldened me to fight and even lead me to take the fight right up to the gates of hell itself. It has also led me to put out the information you are reading. Running from evil only lets it reign and grow with sinister glee. Confronting it as David did Goliath brings the backing of the God of Heaven and a demonstration of His power. It wasn't up there where soldiers were hiding in the rocks that the power of God was displayed. It was on the field where faith fought like heaven.

Encountering, confronting and engaging this dark agenda is needed on a personal level yes, but counter measures need to be acquired for the sake of the big picture too. Anyone who just seeks to save themselves is truly weak and may I say a rotting coward! Please hear me when I say that inaction in this area is the evidence that we are filled with fear, don't care and most likely are too busy.

Inaction is a betrayal of who and what Jesus is all about. For any Christian fear and inaction are unacceptable. We cannot just bask in the grace that the blood, sweat and tears of the Savior gave while others are destroyed.

Laziness, fear and apathy are the foundations that aid and abed the work of the dark side.

As you read the three small but potentially dangerous stories above please realize that this is how it is with them and it only gives a tiny glimpse into what is coming. Sit on your duff if you want. Hide out in empty busyness or close your eyes.....but none of this is going away. Like the coming of the rising tide just ignoring the water at your ankles will only drown you in the end.

Here are some of the countermeasures that are needed and needed right now! May the God of heaven grant even more insight and wisdom in the days to come! As the Spirit of God in revealed preparation for the last days says….

"This, calls for patient endurance and faithfulness on the part of the saints and .....This calls for wisdom...."

Revelation 13:10 and 18

THE POWER OF KNOWLEDGE BREAKS SECRECY

First you are going to need wisdom and knowledge. If you don't know who, what and the why of these satanic warrior monks or the satanic agenda, you are already at a vast disadvantage. Let me say it again, you are at a vast crippling disadvantage! Remember that satan (and the demonic realm) himself uses his 'secrecy' as a weapon and so do his elite servants who work in the night.

'Never forget that secrecy is a weapon, a dark one! It hides what is really there'

Living and plotting in secrecy is the trade of the luciferians and it is a supernaturally empowered tactic (2Thess2). It is the Spirit of God who has revealed the origin, the nature, the methodology and the raging agenda of this 'secret power of lawlessness' (see2Thess.2). It is revealed in the stories that Jesus Himself told of an evil one who works in the secrecy of night creating transmuted servants to grow up right alongside the ever growing Body of Christ. 'Tares' are right now in your midst. Secret knowledge, secret oaths, secret places, secret power, secret rituals and an underground army of people who are sworn to secrecy have swelling ranks.

Chosen ones and those who created them are bathed in 'supernatural' secrecy; they and the elites are supposed to know but you are not. Secrecy is the rule. It is the law for now. Soon the final agenda of evil will arrive on the surface and what was sown in the dark will pounce in the daylight of history. It is the supernatural knowledge of God that reveals this satanic secrecy that is now ascending out of is hiding place. Don't wait too long to get a grip on all of this. As you stand up and begin to fight like heaven you will see that God has satan's play book and reveals it all.

It is the knowledge God gives that will expose evil and prepare you to overcome and fight it. Only here in the record of biblical revelation do we have the full and only accurate information of the existence and activities of evil. The biblical knowledge of the origin, nature, methodology and agenda of radial satanic evil will give you the grid by which you can recognize and measure its activities. Satan may be unseen for now but he and the demonic are not untraceable.

Here is what we know:

- The origin of evil is found in the 'will to power' and its self exalting violent revolt against God. (See Isaiah 14 and Ezekiel 28). Scripture reveals where it all began.
- The nature of evil is revealed in the words of Jesus Himself when he said that the thief (satan/demons) comes to kill, steal and destroy. (See John 10) Satan is the father of lies and is a murderer a billion times over! Scripture reveals the stone cold permanent nature of evil.
- The methodology of the fallen cherub and his servants are demonstrated in his attack at the beginning of the human race (Genesis 3), in the middle (see Matthew 4 and 2 Corinthians 11:1-3) and in the end (see 2 Thessalonians 2). Deception, lies and seduction are the three unholy devices of this ancient one…. all of which lead to bloody destruction and eternal damnation. Have we learned this yet? It is vital that we are not 'outwitted' and instead know well what the 'schemes' of the devil are.(2Corinthinans1)
- And the Agenda of evil! This is where most have gone snow blind. We can't see because satan seeks to blind minds so they can't. (2 Corinthians 4:4) Maybe we don't want to see because of the fear! Have I said this yet, "Fear cripples and fogs our sight"? Lethal evil isthere but who wants to look? It's bloody and messy and it might get us, right? The dark side counts on this! The raging active supernatural agenda of the evil one is so vast it took out one third of the angles, brought the fall of the human race, sought to destroy Jesus the first time, is seeking global domination and will seek the extermination of God himself in the end. (See Revelation 19:19)

What do you really know of the ancient dragon and his intentions? The evil one is not just a high school boy who wants to date your daughter…he would rather slaughter her and eat her! Gruesome yes, but this is exposing real radical evil. This is what real evil is.

It is true satan does not want you to know about him, his origins, nature, methods, agenda and active presence. I am even more convinced that this dark menace does not want you know about the countermeasure that God gives and reveals in detailed Biblical knowledge. This knowledge is purposely revealed, privileged and strategic. It is also vitally necessary if you are going to do anything at all. What God gives involves the preemptive insights and weapons you will need to live for Christ and fight for the salvation of others. Do you know His Word deeply?

FIRST HEAVEN'S REVELATION

First of all seek Biblical revelation. It is the only infallible record and purposefully given knowledge of the existence and work of evil. Study intensely the impact of the fall in Genesis 3. Look at the evil that almost swept away humanity from the face of the earth in Genesis 6. See how the evil one constantly grew and attacked Israel in 2 Kings 21-23. Then take a look at why Jesus came in 1 John 3 and the dark preparations that were made to destroy the infant Son of God in Revelation 12.

The birth of the Church was released as early disciples were attacked by satanic force. The Church was birthed in the context of spiritual war. The words spoken "……and the 'gates of hell will not prevail" was declared by the one who fought evil's audacity in the desert. See Matthew 4. The early disciples felt the heat of the enemy when satan himself asked to 'sift' them as wheat. You can look at Judas whose heart was wide open for the devil to walk right in. Ananias and Sapphira experienced the same in Acts 5. Both events lead to tragic deaths.

The New Testament itself with its 'Living Words' will unleash a knowledge that will transform any faint hearted saint into a spiritual lion. You will learn of your authority in Christ to 'trample' the demons and 'over come' all the power of the enemy in Luke 10. You are called to put on the armor of God in Ephesians 6 and called to Spirit empowered resistance of the devil in James 2. James 5 will echo the power of prayer and Colossians 4 will call the believer in Christ not only to be a devoted prayer warrior but will tell us to 'watch' for impending danger. That watching for 'impending' danger is a reference to the presence and plots of the evil one. The Holy Spirit warns us clearly in 1Peter 5 who and what the enemy is and is doing. Don't miss this insight!

Jesus gives a heads up to the disciples and to a Church in the book of Revelation that satan is coming to harm them and the rest of the Word of God will unveil how satan and the demons attack, use a dark methodology and then what to do about them. The Spirit of God will lay out prophetic revelation as He paints the picture of satan's sequence and deadly agenda in these last days.

- THEOLOGICAL KNOWLEDGE
  You can get hold of some great Biblical studies and become very versed in spiritual warfare. Read the books by Dr. Fred Dickenson 'ANGELS:ELECT AND EVIL', or Ed Murphy's book on spiritual warfare which has a great depth of information and Tom White's 'SPIRITUAL WARFARE-A Guide For Believers' is a must to start with.

- THE KNOWLEDGE OF EVIL DEEDS
  You are never to practice evil to get to know it! You can however listen to the victims, read about it and research deeply what is really going on in dark secrecy. You may have to pray hard and hunt down perpetrators but remember this, no matter how much you read about or see this evil it should have an effect....outrage! Never lose this outrage...if you lose outrage then you may have lost your will.

  The facts and documentation are not just in old researched files, they are living in pain right before our eyes. Did I ask....Why are there over 4 million (10 million) victims of SRA/MPD....Who did this to them....and Is it still going on? How do you help and heal them, how do you track the perpetrators and what do you do when they fight back? One story, if you ever see the video of the teenage girl 'pink head' should be more than enough; If not there are hundreds of thousands of more cases.

  Knowledge of what evil is doing must move us into doing what God has and is doing about it. That's what the Cross and the Blood of Christ are all about.

- KNOWLEDGE OF THE STREETS

  When Paul was in the streets of Athens (Acts) he became disturbed. He was disturbed about the spiritual seduction and idolatry. His passion over this didn't lead to running out of the city to get away from it: It led him into the heart of the city to preach Christ and turn them to God. One of the greatest sermons ever given came from of his troubled emotions regarding what he heard and saw.

  When Philip was scattered with threats behind him and a sorcerer in front of him (in Samaria Acts 8) he did go to a cave. He unleashed the Kingdom of God and people got saved, healed and set free. The end of the story led to a city full of joy.

  When you engage a fully possessed person and the demon is speaking out at you, you will see or have knowledge of the streets. Books help immensely but only if we get out on the streets to do the work Christ sent us to do See Luke 10.

- KNOWLEDGE OF THE VICTIMS

  Many today have heard about satanic ritual abuse or may have even read a little about it in a psych book in the class room but sitting there listening to and engaging a victim will educate you for life. The victims are not just names in a book or people to point at; they are the ones whose childhood has been stolen. They have been raped, seen blood sacrifice and were forced to split. They are the products of hell's agenda, they are real hurting human beings and at times they seem to have no hope. Christ in you should be a beacon, a light at the end of their long dark night. A pat on the back, a few drugs or a room in the happy farm will never help. If you are a believer in Christ, then like Jesus you are sent...to do what He did and in His Name, power and love. Remember 'as the Father sent Me (Jesus) so send I you'. He has sent us all...but many haven't taken a step.

This volume's main focus is on the revealed knowledge of the 'troops of antichrist', the coming dark revolt (black awakening) and the sequence of satan's agenda in these days before the rise of antichrist. Your calling is to seek and know the wealth of the wisdom and knowledge of God and let it move you; then you can fight like heaven and do some great good.

FINALLY

The wisdom and Knowledge of God are the foundations and beginning place of a Christ like spirit and empowered countermeasure. David, Samson, Nehemiah, Moses, Debra and Philip were all countermeasures in the hand of God. Armed with a depth of biblical knowledge, what God reveals and the knowledge of what is happening right now in the world around you, action can and must be taken.

The best countermeasures in the presence of this growing agenda of radical evil comes from a higher source, from Someone who knows and reveals the alpha and omega of evil's origin, history and stealing agenda. That alone is God; outside of Him you're only fighting shadows.

"Do not say that you have no spiritual power or qualifications. A boy gave to Jesus five loaves of bread and two fish. Jesus multiplied them"

p 111 'VICTORIOUS FAITH' by Richard Wurmbrand

Give Him your life and watch it become a countermeasure to the agenda of radical evil.

CHAPTER 39
FIGHT THEM, NOW AND THEN

"I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith." 2Timothy 4

"Have I not commanded you? Be strong and courageous. Do not be terrified; do not be discouraged, for the LORD your God will be with you wherever you go." Joshua 1:9

"Therefore, my dear brothers, stand firm. Let nothing move you. Always give yourselves fully to the work of the Lord, because you know that your labor in the Lord is not in vain." 1 Corinthians 15

"Help me help me help me…….”Victim

"Why didn’t any one come when I cried for help? Victim

Anyone who remembers the story of the sexual predator who was a registered pedophile feels the pain, regret and the loss of that little happy girl he raped and killed. We all wish something could have been done. Clearly something should have been done. If you were there and saw what the mad man wanted and what he was about to do, what would you have done? Would you have fought to restrain him? Yes, I would have! I would had done all I could have if I had the knowledge of this pervert’s agenda. It’s tough to be a Monday morning quarterback, to only wish we could have known and done things differently. But who knew? She was taken and things were being done to her long before anyone had the knowledge of it...she experienced that man's radical evil and then he buried her alive.

Have you ever wondered how she felt? What she was thinking? Or what she was hoping for? No doubt she cried and asked to go home but radical evil's conscience is so cold it can't hear, it doesn't want to hear…..it doesn't care! How in all of hell could someone be so cold as to abuse and then bury alive a little helpless girl? That is a question for outrage, the answer does not bring her back but the finger must be pointed to the sin of man and the influence of dark radical evil. This is very true of the current realities of satanic ritual abuse and of the millions of victims of the cold as hell perpetrators.

THE TWIN WHO IS GONE

Here it went again, when a little baby had her bones broken and feet stabbed over and over again who was there to stop it, to free her and help her? No one! Silence fell and the abuse went on until the occult and demonically influenced man murdered the little baby girl I had once held in my arms. The ritual murder of Jackie Cooper reported in the Beacon Journal of Akron, Ohio was horrific and too little too late. The newspaper said the perpetrator was a 'black (spiritually dark) pagan' and self described Alastair Crowley devotee. Months prior I had picked up the mother and father and their two little girls and brought them to church. I held this little girl and sought to help the parents get their lives right. They chose a different path and it all ended in the prolonged abuse, torture and death of a little baby girl.

HER AGAIN

The young girl who had 'war on the saints' tattooed on her wrist gave me her 'book of shadows' which described rituals being done against a pastor and his wife. This young satanist told me about her goal to bring down the pastor and harm the church. She was the one that showed up at the Church I was pastoring, she came to the front of the sanctuary and told me that she was going to steal my baby daughter (then about 2 yrs old) and sacrifice her to satan. She said it was the only way she could get her rank back in her coven.

What would you have done? What would you have told her? If you were the fly on the pulpit you would have heard me tell her that if she broke into my house, sought to steal my little girl and plan to torture her....would you have heard me say 'I will blow your face off' because that is what I said.....and I would have done it. Of course she then objected and said I couldn't do that because I was a Christian. What she did not understand was that I was also a father and would have done just what I said, as any good father would. There are times when fighting back this way is right and must be done. Nehemiah chapter 4 has some insight for all of us.

''Therefore I stationed some of the people behind the lowest points of the wall at the exposed places, posting them by families, with their swords, spears and bows. After I looked things over, I stood up and said to the nobles, the officials and the rest of the people,

"Don't be afraid of them. Remember the Lord, who is great and awesome, and fight for your brothers, your sons and your daughters, your wives and your homes."

Reaction must be strong now and later. We have to move on from the knowledge and experience we have and seek even more so we can be active and ready. Fighting back involves being aware and having the spiritual guts to act....and act boldly.

I WISH I WAS THERE

A little boy, a sub personality came forward in the body of a 40 year old women, he was 6. He raised his arms with clinched fists, tears in his/her eyes and said with frustration as he looked at me 'if only I was as big as you, I would have fought them off, I would have beat them up!' This internal little alter personality had been in the body of this women for almost 35 years, he carried the pain and memories of what the coven members and sadistic evil Nazi satanist father had done.

How many times did he go through rape and ritual? How many times did he sink into hopelessness and shame? Millions of others carry this same pain and anger but they too are too little and powerless in a system who makes victims slaves to do anything. I wish I had been there; I would have done anything that was necessary to stop the heartless evil thrust on that helpless victim.

A SPIRITUAL WAR

Remember that the violence of satanic ritual abuse, mind control, and creating 'troops for antichrist' is all rooted in a deep dark spiritual battle. This violence was first exerted in the heavenlies by the sheer force of will, by the once anointed cherub. A widespread trade (trafficking in a revolt/ recruiting an army) by the now fallen self transmuted cherub was unleashed and one third of the once holy angles joined in a willful rebellion. This violent revolt fixed them for eternity. Their nature and will for radical evil is passionate and permanent. This entire willful violent agenda was brought here to our streets, to our domain. We too were once holy, free and majestic. As spiritual beings we walked with our creator and life was pure paradise. God knowing all saw the intent of the now adversary and gave to us (humankind) a powerful word of God, this one, love filled instruction would have shielded us and preserved our original way of life forever.

Then it happened, we threw the living Word of God to the ground, rejected the creator and embraced a lie. When you embrace the lie you receive the liar and all his intent.

"……when you followed the ways of this world and of the ruler of the kingdom of the air, the spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient." (Ephesians 2:1-)

We dear reader sinned; we did wrong and opened the door to the devil himself and it has been a trail of tears ever since. You and I along with the rest of humanity have reaped what we have sown and the devil has danced on our graves ever since.

It is this fallen cherub "…….who holds the power of death—that is, the devil" (See Hebrews 2:14-15) until Christ came!

With the loss of majesty, eternity, innocence and the presence of God we became very vulnerable to much deeper levels of deception and degradation. By the time you come to Genesis 6 the revelation of humanity's partnership with the dark side has grown to a point that almost exterminated the existence of original mankind. Humanity was almost exterminated. If not for the grace of the flood we would not be here today. The reality of the Nephilim, demonic human genetic cross breeding sought to eradicate real humanity from the face of the earth; more on this in another book.

From the beginning to Genesis 6 and to this very day the fall of the human race was initiated and spawned by direct supernatural spiritual force. It was a spiritual war from the moment the ancient dragon looked upon human kind's original parents and spoke those first words

"……..yea hath God said?" Genesis 3KJV

Casting doubt, lying and persuading us to reject God and believe an alternative spiritual word was the first 'bullet' shot. We did not duck, we chose. This was a spiritual battle that we lost and the devil won, at least at first, until...the Lamb arrived.

SPIT IN THE FACE

This battle showed itself again when I stood there looking at this woman who was sitting on a chair. I had prayed ahead of time for the Lord to give me insight and then it happened. The Spirit of God showed me and gave me the name of an inner hidden satanic priestess that was listening; I spoke her name out and said I want to talk to her. The chosen one stood up and the priestess came up angry and ready to battle. She grabbed a chair with one hand and threw it across the room at me, as she started for me a co worker stepped in and it turned into a knock down drag out fight. This fight is only the tip top of the iceberg of the violence that is sleeping and waiting in them...and it will erupt. Fighting it now, and when it explodes onto our streets must be done. The alternative is to do nothing and sit in sinful frozen silence as destruction has its way!

This chosen one fought and even spit in the face of the former law officer who was there to help her. There is so much spite and hate built into many sub personalities and the demons that empower them only maximize this rage. The worker wiped away the spit and continued to help. That incident made me remember the story of the great evangelist John Wesley. He was preaching the gospel out in the open streets where it was needed. As he spoke someone threw a rock, hit him on the head and he began to bleed. The story goes on to say....'he wiped away the blood and continued to preach!' So we are going to have to fight and it will as we have said be with the weapons of heaven.

FIGHT WITH INTENSE TRAINING

You look like a man who used to be in shape said the older lady as she asked me for advice at the workout club. Ouch! That one hurt and only told me the truth, I was not in the shape I used to be. I am working on it though lol.. I think. Training involves time and no I am not going to tell you that we have a lot of it. Intense training needs to be goal oriented and must be worked at consistently and then even evaluated. What are your goals for spiritual, physical and information growth? If you don't know, it's time to start. If you have no goals then growth in these areas may never really occur. In this day and hour it's time to press the issue.

- SPIRITUAL:
  Nail down and have daily time in the Word of God and in worship and prayer. Jude 20 says...."build yourselves up in your holy faith" You will have to memorize scripture and start deep consistent personal Bible studies. Study the Bible book by book, know it systematically. "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly" Colossians 3. DON'T wait until Sunday to get a message from the Pastor. It's good to hear the Word of God but you must study on your own also. Some folks cannot go to Bible school but you can learn just as much and more if you want to. Set out a plan. Get some good Bible study guides. Use good internet Bible study tools (while we still have it). Don't put this off. You can stop reading and pray for the Lord's leading then start. You can sharpen your study skills as you go.

Always study the Word of God in His living presence. Acknowledge the immediate presence of the Holy Spirit and watch how the study time becomes an interaction and fellowship with Jesus right there with you. Study hard and seek to know, memorize and then put into practice this awesome revelation of God. The book of James tells us that we will be blessed if we practice the Word and in 1John 2 we see we can become strong and overcome the evil one. If you don't have anyone else to preach the Word of God to you or encourage you then preach the Word to yourself, speak it out loud and encouraged yourself!

You must also grow in your prayer life. We should know this already but realize that there is a deeper need of powerful prayer warriors when things get bad. In the book of Acts the Church was attacked and persecuted. The believers responded again and again with intense and prolonged prayer. Read over chapter 4 and see also what the believers did when Peter was taken captive or when Paul was put in jail. We should be a people of prayer and experience powerful answers to prayer. In the book of Acts you will see that the power of God came, the building shook, the dead were raised, people were healed, angels were dispatched, miracles occurred, demons were crushed and even earth quakes were caused...all in answer to the prolonged powerful prayers of the believers.

- Be deeply experienced in winning souls to Christ, praying for the sick and commanding demons to leave. Seek to build the Body of Christ and do study the book of Acts as a field manual of the end of days. Know the power of the Holy Spirit the use of spiritual gifts and know how to deal with spiritual warfare and fight. You will need all of this in increasing measure.
- PHYSICAL:

  You can get stronger and have greater heath if you decide to. Seek to train yourself physically! It takes work but you have to start somewhere. It is true that your physical health can affect your ability to study, pray and do great things for God. So start today with a plan, use exercise tapes or join a program for health in your area.

- You can build muscle, strengthen your frame and increase your physical energy. Doing this will also give your body and mind better ability to do intensive biblical studies and increase ministry experience. Some strong self defense training would do us all good...when the great chaos breaks loose, who knows what we will have to do to protect others.See Nehemiah 4. See the whole book for that matter! Nehemiah knew how to lead, respond and fight and this was all written down to teach us, so learn how to be strong, intense and prepared to do whatever it takes to do the will of God.

- INFORMATION:

  Getting this book and reading this far would tell me that you want to know and be ready. The streams of information are many and can be overwhelming, especially since there is a dark spiritual program of 'disinformation' and a 'secret power of lawlessness in operation. Know the Word of God well. It will be your life and defense too. It will help you discern and cut through the clutter. The prophetic revelation does tell us of massive spiritual deception, counterfeit supernatural works, increasing evil, the coming globalism, the coming revolt (chaos BA) and rise of antichrist. (See 1Tim.4; 2Thess.2 Matthew24;). Know well the books of Daniel and Revelation, these are packed with cutting edge information, a heads up and remember this.....the Word of God is the only accurate and infallible source (foundation).

FIGHT WITH A HEART OF IMMOVEABLE TRUST

Since fear, terror and violence is coming and part of the method of the dark side then you will need to thrust these to the ground right now! Bury fear, fear and faith cannot coexist, you will either push forward with great faith or sink and cower with crippling fear. I do not write, plan or do what I do out of fear. All is done out of an active faith and I seek to become stronger. It is by faith we receive Christ and are saved. It is by faith we grow, learn and step out to do the will of God.

Remember Hebrews 11 teaches us how faith can move mountains, administer justice and conquer kingdoms. Remember God commended those who lived by faith. You must realize that God does not move through doubt and fear, God moves through your personal faith. It is impossible to please Him without it. It is also impossible to do great things for God without faith.

Know Hebrews 11 well and know that God will answer, show His power and reward those who stand in persistent faith.

"Those who trust in the Lord are like mount Zion which cannot be shaken but endures forever" Psalm 125

"All things are possible for him who believes" Mark 9

"....I tell you the truth, if you have faith as small as a mustard seed, you can say to this mountain, 'Move from here to there' and it will move. Nothing will be impossible for you. Jesus Matthew 17

J. Oswald Sanders says in his book 'MIGHTY FAITH' p 89

"Hear these assertions fallen from the lips other than those of the Son of God, they could justifiably be dismissed as sheer fantasy. But He made them as plain affirmations of fact."

FIGHT WITH FIERCE REACTION

They took no action! David was incensed when he heard and saw Goliath, so he did act! For every action there is a reaction. Our action must be intense and ongoing. Our reactions to the darkest lies, attacks and threats must be fierce. Nehemiah 4 teaches you what? Have you looked that up yet? I will tell you that if the information in this book hasn't moved you.....you must be dead:)

Horrific days must be met with fierce reaction:

- You must never back down, Jesus did not.
- You must never give room to the enemy, overcomers don't.
- You must always stand, fight and move forward in faith.
- Fear, cowardice and shrinking back ends in defeat, loss and regret.

Study Acts chapters seven and eight. See how persecution broke out against the Church. The believers were scattered and the persecutors were 'breathing out murderous threats'. Believers were being targeted and chased down and when that occurs you must react....fast. Phillip was just one believer. He chose not to run and hide, in the midst of an evil challenging attack he ramped and intensified his obedience to Christ by seeking to win the lost and advance the Kingdom.

Acts 8 reveals that fierce faith took over and a city once lost and covered in dark power was invaded by Philip and won to Christ. Satanic power was dethroned, people were saved, healed and delivered and the city was (totally impacted) filled with joy! In the book of Acts when the believers refused to run or live in fear they were blessed and empowered all the more (Acts 4). They truly became immovable and undefeatable. It was said of these believers that they never stopped (Acts 5:42) teaching and preaching that Jesus is the Christ. They continued to go house to house; to go wherever they could and in whatever the conditions to do the will of God.

FIGHT IN PREEMPTIVE PRO-ACTION

Start now, be preemptive and decide

- Fight for the lost
- Fight for the victims
- Fight for your families
- Fight for your city
- Fight for your nation
- Fight for righteous laws
- Fight for 'influence' for the Kingdom of God
- Fight against the demonic wherever and everywhere!
- Fight dear Christian. Start now and never turn back, there is rest coming for you when Jesus cracks the skies and unleashes the victory that He won on the Cross.

THE FINAL HAMMER

Though God has called out to the kings, nations and world (see Psalm2) the truth is, antichrist and all the foretold events will occur. We can do much for the cause of Christ and we must but the final blow has been determined a long time ago. If you read Revelation 19 again see how it starts. See the 5 halleluiahs and then notice the first thing done just before Jesus touches the earth. He hammers the antichrist, false prophet and crushes this highly charged satanic super army. Evil is crushed once and for all. From this day forward the long dark night of human tragedy, failure and sin is over. Evil is over...forever. What no one in fallen human history could do (because we were part of the problem) Jesus has done. This, my friend is the reason we fight! The Cross where Jesus once hung for you and the heavens where He will come out of, both motivate us to fight.

"Let not your heart be troubled; you believe in God, believe also in Me.
2In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you to Myself; that where I am, there you may be also"

Jesus - John 14

ONLY THE BEGINNING OF THE END

"Jesus answered: "Watch out that no one deceives you. For many will come in my name, claiming, 'I am the Christ, ' and will deceive many. You will hear of wars and rumors of wars, but see to it that you are not alarmed. Such things must happen, but the end is still to come. Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be famines and earthquakes in various places. All these are the beginning of birth pains. " Matthew 25

"New age leaders consider these resisters (Christians-my note) as eventually the only hindrance in allowing this global oneness occur." P 162 'FOR MANY SHALL COME IN MY NAME'

America's Second Civil War "We are in the middle of the greatest ideological struggle in America's history" p ix 'THE EXTERMINATION OF CHRISTIANITY'

"The current cultural conflict in America is not between conservative and liberals; it is a contest between Christianity and the occult-a battle that can be traced to the very beginning of our country...."p 148 Christian J. Pinto 'How To Overcome THE MOST FRIGHTENING ISSUES You Will Face This Century'

"Matthew thus ends on a note of triumph and joyous expectation: the community of Jesus, with its conquering general at its side, is bent on a worldwide mission" P 256 'SALVATION TO THE ENDS OF THE EARTH'

"...I am with you always, to the very end...." Jesus Matthew 28

The black awakening, this catastrophic chaos and all that leads up to it are fueled by dark supernatural powers (the demonic). This event will bring massive destruction, more than most are warning about. This is not just a civil war or racial issue nor is it just a simple political coo. This is a purely spiritual conflict manifesting through the lives of millions and erupting in the physical....on our streets and in our faces. No one will escape it. No one will have to ask, “Is this it”? It will be so clear and so massive that it will seem like the end of humanity and not just a global regime change. I have been told by chosen ones who have declared the luciferian mission; “Your (Christians and western culture) time is up....we are coming to power” and according to all that I know and all that this book is about so it shall be...the end of one system and the beginning of a new one.

But it's not over until it's over! The black awakening which I believe is the great revolt of 2Thessalonians 2 will occur and nations will fall, millions will die and it will seem like the end of the world to many...but it’s only the beginning of the end. As a matter of fact it's not the apocalypse of the antichrist that will kick off the last 7 years of human history as we know it; it's the black awakening that does that. There is no rise of antichrist and all that he brings until this revolt paves the way and opens the door.

AFTER GREAT REVOLT

The great revolt will happen and then it will be....over, done and become history. The events that follow will occur so fast that yesterday will seem to be a thousand years ago. September 11 and the vivid memories in my mind of a plane slamming into the tower and of tiny dots (people)jumping out of fire filled broken windows are still here but the alarm and the bite of it all does seem faded in the light of a fast moving world. Billions events come and go and it seems survivors must move on, even if it is with tears. We don't want to forget because we don't want it to happen again. We don't want to minimize the pain or dishonor the victims.

The black awakening will force the masses, nations and leaders to leap into the future...it's one way of escaping the past. After this plotted mass chaos dies down and seems to have ended there will be a scramble to do many things:

- Law and order will have to be aggressive. The need to be safe and cautious will be the rule as societies begin to come out of hiding and surface.
- Communications, electrical grids and the food chain will have to be restored. Safe zones and make shift hospitals will be serving the wounded. Some will help and others will look for selfish opportunities.
- Crowds will gather and start screaming out for help and information. Millions will help to bury the dead and begin to clean up the debris of destruction. As radio, cell phones and television are slowly restored most will be scanning for information.
- Then the questions will fly and the resolve to never let this happen again will burn. Answers will be planned and disseminated by design as the new prepared regime steps in to fill the void.

The black awakening will seem like a horrific tragedy to many but for those who planned it, to those who helped it occur it will be the 'glorious cleansing' and necessary event to make way for the new golden age of globalism and its new promise to a new world. Luciferians are not focused on the black awakening. It’s only the needed surgery that brings the desired new face of their future.

AFTER THE BIRTH PAINS

Jesus said false Christ's, unprecedented spiritual deception and massive violence will come. He foretold wars and rumors of wars, earth quakes and famines will come. He also said this time will be the worst time in human history....never to be repeated again. All that Jesus foretold in Matthew 24 about the end of the age continues to be an outline for many about how things will occur. But let's not miss the point, after Jesus foretells these “end of the world” events he tells us:

"...but see to it that you are not alarmed. Such things must happen, but the end is still to come." (Matthew 24)

Many of these “end of the world” type events are only the beginnings of birth pain not the end itself. Many of the world shaking events will only be the beginning of the end....not the end. The sad and scary part of all this for some is the fact; after these events and the black awakening occurs the worst is still to come.

So much more is to come in such a short amount of time. It is mind blowing but God has given us a vital warning. It will be like the world is being sucked into a sink whole as one global catastrophic event occurs right after another. For an example of this take a read of Revelation chapter nine; the seals are opened and the events that follow lead to the destruction of one third of the then existing human race (possibly 2 billion people). The black awakening is horrific and bad enough but it really does pale (believe it or not) in comparison to the last few years that follow.

AFTER THE RED HORSE

You can look at the four horseman of Revelation 6 and like many ponder the vast and future historic events that will occur. The white horse and its rider I do believe refers to the whole panoramic view of the antichrist. From the 'spirit of antichrist', to his birth and his rise to power the rider of the white horse is all about the coming globalism. It's the red horse that most represents the coming black awakening.

The fiery red horse will be a 'burst' and a 'blast' of massive and horrifying violence. It tells us that with its 'bursting' out onto the scene of humanity only one thing is revealed; culture wide if not worldwide bloodshed. This event tells us the peace is 'taken' from the world and what that 'peace' (restrainer ?? of 2Thess.2) held back (black awakening) is eventually unleashed. What's unleashed is not war per say but the butchering and murdering of people by other people. It will be a killing field of violent slaughter that forces me to ask....What is it that causes this violent, civil slaughter?

I will say this sounds like the great revolt. And notice that the red horse doesn't end things; more horsemen are to come with ever increasing evil.

AFTER THE REVELATION OF ANTICHRIST

The most important issue with the black awakening not being the event that ends it all is that the antichrist is prophesied and all he will do is still to come. Even when the revolt occurs and the antichrist arrives the end is not yet. Keep in mind the sequence of satanic evolution. Satan's goal is not even his rise to power in the person of the antichrist. His goal is Armageddon! Here are some of the events to think about after the black awakening occurs:

- The coming Antichrist. The door to the rise of the antichrist and his regime. The whole purpose for the black awakening is to clear the way and reduce the world to a helpless, drowning mass in need of a miracle of earthly salvation. It is the plan of the antichrist to be that savior...albeit a fake one.
- The coming globalism. The black awakening will be used to convince the world that it needs a new future. The consensus will be that the old way doesn't work so we must join all our forces together and unite.
- The coming Witnesses. The Spirit of God tells us that there are two powerful witness coming and will unleash global communication and visible signs and wonders. These witnesses will come after the great revolt.
- The coming lie. Homosatanas will declare himself to be God and millions will believe. (2Thessalonians 2). This is part of the sequence of the satanic plan and will come after the revolt.
- The opening of the Abyss and the global invasion, 200 million 'soldiers'. Revelation 9.
- The attempted annihilation of believers in Christ and the attempt to destroy Israel. Revelation 7-12
- The rise to its pinnacle and fall of Babylon. Revelation 18.
- And then there is the planetary ritual release of satanic power to gather the whole world into the final battle-Revelation 19:19.

FINALLY

The sense of disintegration and tragic events we have all seen in the last twenty years are historic. They remind us of other events that reveal more unspeakable evil, the holocaust and the world wars scream at us.....as we, the world slide down that same razor's edge.

Have we learned that just learning about the past evil is not enough to stop the sin and supernatural evil that drives hearts, nations and kings of the earth. Why is such rage swelling up in society is the question of that 3,000 year old Psalm 2....Why? As you ponder the possible answer I hope you will make a b-line to the Cross of Christ. Jesus talks a lot about the end of the age and all that leads up to it but it's not the main reason He came here. He came here to get us, save us and open a door to real everlasting change.

THE BLACK AWAKENING AND THE USA

"The world appears to be headed for a series of disasters. Rivers of blood could flow." P 246'THE END OF MAN'

"The American psychotherapist Dr. Scott Peck describes 'people of the lie' as all those who have handed themselves over to evil." P 28 'MORAL MELTDOWN The Core of Globalism'

"...America, which is at the center of all crucial global matters today, is at the heart of this quest to find peace-particularly peace that will disarm the trigger to World War III" p 225 'THE AMERICAN APOCALYPSE Is the United States in Biblical Prophecy?

"Most pastors are well aware of the fact that the church could use some improvement in terms of impact-effectiveness."P 145 'SAVE AMERICA!'

It would seem the sharks are circling the USA today as never before. There is a lot of hate emerging all around the world. So I ask, would anyone care if the US was destroyed? What if all hell broke loose here in America today; would those who hate this nation seize the opportunity to stick the knife in all the further? All of this concerns me for sure and it is hard sometimes as I go about my daily stuff because I know the evil that has been and is being plotted will surface just as God has said it would.

I was in the deep woods last week and the sights are just awesome; the trees and colors, the trails and the small animals reveal the wonders of God to me. But these are the woods I have also had to look in for evidence of ritual sacrifice and the summoning of demons. The world you and I live in has been spoiled by sin, satan and the worst dear reader is yet to come. America is in for a rude awakening.....a dark satanic one.

If you were the antichrist sitting deep and hidden in Europe with your selected leaders in scarlet chambers and the question came up, "What do we do with the USA"?' What do you think the answer would be? There are two things that come to my mind first:

- First, we are already years behind looking at and considering what satan, the antichrist and a massive underground elite have planned. They are not asking the question. They answered it long ago and are instead seeking to accomplish their plan. I believe with all my heart they are way ahead of what the mass majority of people are thinking. While the world stands in angst over its destabilization the 'secret power' operating in this hidden shadow regime is licking its chops and they are ready to pounce!
- Second, from all I know in biblical prophecy all the nations are the targets of antichrists 'globalism' but some may be more important than others. The USA has a lot of resources; military, industrial, economic, wealth and bodies! The USA is a treasure trove for the antichrist. The hidden hand and their 'secret power', has been working here among the US since its birth. Just turn your dollar bill over and look at that pyramid and that beaming, "all seeing eye"....those are not in any way shape or form, Christian symbols. Those symbols are of the deepest occult source and represent purely a luciferic agenda; chaos and a new world order.

Among us in the US there is a shadow government, a shadow military and a cloaked counterfeit shadow spiritual presence behind it all. No, antichrist is not thinking or asking what he and his are going to do with the US, they already know and are deeply embedded here.....and have hundreds of thousands of intact chosen ones (satanic super soldiers) waiting for the call!

THE BLACK AWAKEING DEEP IN THE USA

Those who were involved in crashing the planes into the towers counted on the fact that many would die. It was part of the goal. This is only a glimpse of what chosen ones tell me is going to happen here. Whether the black awakening is progressive and occurs over months or whether it happens over night one thing is for sure, chosen ones all know it will be an 'unmistakable event' that will take the US by surprise and from within. When the lights go out and the power is off, when the phones are silent and the explosions begin millions will know this is no local event. When buildings are burning and thousands are dying, when targets are hunted down and assassinated hour by hour and day by day, Americans will know this is beyond what anyone expected.

The evil in the air and the madness on the streets will be unlike anyone has conceived; once it starts many will think it will soon be over or that the government will save us. But the sabotage within military, law enforcement and among governmental leaders will shock and awe them. Those who planned this chaos have planned for everything. The anarchy will not stop until....the antichrist calls for it to. And you need to know he will not call a stop to it until the USA is on its knees seeking help from a regime in Europe that has emerged out of nowhere.

It is one thing to know that thousands of chosen ones are fully intact and ready for activation; it's another thing to know they are only part of the plot. They are leaders, workers, soldiers and others who are not the 'suicide killing' machines that are on the streets. These once cloaked luciferians are the ones who will join antichrist’s call and seek to lead the US to bow at the feet of this new super leader. They are here. They are in the shadows...like Greeks in the belly of a wooden horse they wait. They will come out when the time is right.

THE BLACK AWAKENING TAKING DOWN THE SUPER POWER

Who would think the USA could become a lesser super power? Yet that is what parts of the world are 'banking' on. The US has too much resistance against globalism right now and too many who will not bow. The response on 912 after the attacks of 911 were very telling...go fight and destroy the bad guys was the resolve of the then unified US. I do wonder whether or not 911 was a trial run to test the resolve of American citizens and its government. And if you wondered who the bad guys were then well then just wait until the black awakening rips out, it will seem like destruction and chaos is coming from everywhere.....with no one to blame.

Part of the reason for the coming chaos and nation changing coo is to stop the US from stopping the rise of antichrist and the unification of powers in Europe and the seizing of economic, military and other resources. If the US can't be stopped or brought down by conventional war then an internal one is needed. The seeds for a civil war within the US are here but are not yet at a level that would take the entire nation down and if nukes were used two things would occur:

- First, the US would respond with nukes and massive destruction could occur. This is what most fear and seek to avoid.
- Second, the US could be so destroyed that none of its resources could be used for the reign of antichrist and the new globalism.

For these reasons and the fact that prophetic revelation tells us antichrist's goal will be to have all the nations (Psalm 2 and Revelation 16) with their resources join him. For his goals to be fulfilled and Armageddon to come a conventional war will not occur. Antichrist and globalist (luciferic) leaders want and will bring the US down.....but not annihilate it.

Now this does not mean that there will not be border wars and skirmishes between nations, these will happen for sure. Wars and rumors of wars will be everywhere. These are happening right now as you read but when the black awakening occurs you can expect border wars, skirmishes and even a few missiles will fly....but not an end of the world nuclear war.

THE BLACK AWAKENING AND INTERNAL LUCIFERIANS

They are here that you can take to the bank. The very ones who are plotting the fall of the US are working right here among us. If there are even a few million intact chosen ones planted throughout all of our institutions then you must realize...someone (committed luciferian elitists) have made them, handle them and placed them. These elitists that so many talk about are living two lives, the outward public one with all the smiles and suits (like at Bohemian Grove) and then there is their hidden life (just like the Nazi doubling).

Who are the 'luciferians?' that's the billion dollar question. Since they are shrouded in personal and supernatural secrecy it's hard to nail them down. The personal secrecy is there right now because they don't want anyone, colleagues and the public to know who they are. What they hold to and are joined to would be considered 'anti-American' and even treasonous if they were found out. The other side of this is the fact that there is a supernatural secrecy imposed. The 'secret power' referred to in 2 Thessalonians 2 is the controlling factor in all of their current activities. Though they claim and feel they are the elite, they are subservient to the 'powers that be'.... the fallen cherub.

You can look for signs of the shadow government, shadow military and hidden luciferians by discerning two things; what they believe and what they are opposed too.

- First what they believe. Luciferian elitist will not go around with a badge on that says they are. They do however have a belief system that comes from and must fit the satanic agenda. I break it down into 3 parts but they are inseparably connected.
    - They believe that mankind is evolving, that there is a spiritual evolution coming and that this will lead to mankind's golden age. Thisbelief in human spiritual evolution is the flip side of the coin...globalism.
    - They believe in a new age that will unify the world and will reshape everything. Globalism is what they talk about, legislate for and push in all they do. For them globalism is mandatory.

    - They also believe that a super world leader is coming and will be the one to accomplish all of this. They want strong leadership that will be the voice and power for a one world order.

- Secondly, there is the issue of what they don't believe or what they are opposed to. They are against:

  National sovereignty

  Independent military systems
    - Christ; that is the Christ of the scriptures.They may give lip service for their public acceptance to Church, Christ and the Bible but their actions demonstrate they are not of God...at all. Since they are of the 'spirit of antichrist' then the real Christ and the Holy Spirit would be offensive to them and so would all who love the real Christ, have the Holy Spirit in them and are committed to His cause.

Just like Jesus said..... "You will know them by their fruit....."

The satanic core agenda is a globalized, spiritual, political, military and monetary system in visible unity. This satanic evolution will also have a deadly and fierce opposition to anything that would resist it; anything and anyone! The closer we get to the burst of the black awakening you will see these areas become a 'critical mass' of 'feeling in the air' and thinking among the world's 'mesmerized kings', 'surrendering nations' and 'seduced people groups' (thus PS2). Seeing this energized momentum is seeing the world going down that drain and it will all flush out and end up at...R1919.

THE BLACK AWAKENING AND THE END OF THE US

Have you read Carl F. H. Henry's book 'THE TWILIGHT OF A GREAT CIVILIAZATION'? This theologian warned us years ago when he said:

"A half-generation ago the pagans (occult-Satanist-luciferians my note) were still largely threatening at the gates of Western culture; now the barbarians are plunging into the...mainstream. As they seek to reverse the inherited intellectual and moral heritage of the Bible,... [we are] engaged as never before in a rival conflict for the mind, the conscience, the will, the spirit, the very selfhood of contemporary man."

What Dr. Henry said is echoed by many others who also saw the 'writing on the wall'. Here are some of the works that need to be read and understood:

- IS AMERICA IN BIBLE PROPHECY? Mark Hitchcock
- SAVE AMERICA! By H. Edward Rowe
- THE EXTERMINATION OF CHRISTIANITY by Robert L. Schenck
- HOW TO OVERCOME THE MOST FRIGHTENING ISSUES YOU WILL FACE IN THIS CENTERY by 20 experts
- The UNITED NATIONS' GLOBAL STRAIGHT JACKET by Joan Veon
- PATRIOTS Surviving the Coming Collapse by James Wesley, Rawles
- WHEN ALL HELL BREAKS LOOSE by Cody Lundin
- THE AMERICAN APOCALYPSE by Terry James
- THE LATE GREAT USA by Jerome R. Corsi
- THE LATE GREAT USA by Mark Hitchcock
- CARASTROPHE by Dick Morris
- AMERICA FOR SALE by Jerome R. Corsi

These and other books mentioned in this work are crying out that the USA is in vast trouble and headed for a major crash not just decline. I keep saying what so many also feel....it's in the air, an ominous coming chaos that is. All of these authors and a hundred others that I have read may have different details but all of them are telling us that chaos, anarchy and collapse are coming to the USA.

'The goal is to end the power of the US and then plunder its resources for the masqueraded global cause'.

I don't know about you but that takes me to my knees for prayer and moves me to work for preemptive action.

None of those books I mention though will tell you about the plot to unleash the chaos of the coming black awakening. This is what will come as the 'shock and awe': A demonic surprise in a burst of blood not just a slow decline. The black awakening will be the tsunami that will finish the smoldering, emerging chaos that so many are talking about and see coming. This black awakening that I have outlined in this book is the underside of the tip of the iceberg that many can see and I feel it will be bigger than what I have estimated it would be. This coming chaos is the event that is so vast that it truly brings collapse to this once great world superpower.

With the second greatest release of occult-satanic literature in history that occurred in the 60's here in the US, (see James Web 'THE OCCULT ESTABLISHMENT') and the enormous rise of the new age movement (60+million) comes the massive doors for the once prophesied arrival of the 'seducing spirits' of 1Tim 4:1. This prophecy reveals what will lead the way to global seduction but the seduction on the surface only cloaks the much darker stuff that's being forged. It's what's in the hidden darkness that should concern us all. Above the surface and on the carpet for all to see is the new age movement but below, underneath the carpet is the blood and guts of satanic rituals, mind control and the creation of hundreds of thousands of satanic super soldiers...chosen ones. And as we have said, there could be 4 to 10 million of them!

Please note! There is only one reason for the creation of chosen ones and there is only one reason there are so many of them in the USA. It is here they were created, it is here they will be activated....it is here where all hell will break loose and the long plotted out goal of collapsing the US will surely come. America will experience the black awakening!

What sub personalities inside chosen ones have said for years now is this (and they have made it clear by their actions), they are here to 'make way for the antichrist and globalism'. They are here to manifest the powers of darkness, unleash anarchy, eliminate resistors, assassinate targets and collapse the whole system. They don't have one iota of care for the US or other nations. They only know one thing....level society as it is and make way for a regime change.

FINALLY

You can let all of this information scare you if you want to or use it to inform you and move you to action. If you only feel fear then my point is lost. I want you to be ready, outraged and moved to a fierce boldness, a boldness that burns with the fire of God.

When I hear sirens and see the flashing lights behind me I don't freeze and stop in the middle of the road. I become alert and pull off so that the emergency vehicle can past on by. Over the years I have heard and seen some of the most bizarre and alarming things. They don't scare me. Instead they make me mad, alert and move me to action. I am mad at the radical evil that is here and is coming for sure. I am alert and will stand my ground. I have also decided to get real busy. Action is what is needed. Countermeasures and bold action must occur now...in response to what is here now but also in playfully packed preparation for all that is about to happen.

ARE YOU READY?

I WISH WE'D ALL BEEN READY

"Estimating the probability that the human race will soon become extinct has become quite a popular activity." P 3 The END of the World'

"You are startled to hear loud, rapid-fire gunshots. They are very close by-right near your neighborhood. This is going to be a very bad day....."p 4 'How To SURVIVE THE END OF THE WORLD As We KNOW IT'

"Yet many believers in God, especially in America, are indifferent to the need to prepare for the unexpected." P433 Tom Horn 'How To Overcome THE MOST FRIGHTENING ISSUES you WILL Face This Century'

"Be always on the watch, and pray that you may be able to escape all that is about to happen, and that you may be able to stand before the Son of Man." Jesus in Luke 21

There is an old song with the title 'I Wish We'd All Been Ready'. The lyrics are talking about being ready for when Christ returns and when the end of all things occurs. Nations, leaders and people come and go and history just keeps on rolling on out...or so it seems. Is there an end to this life of survival-life-survival then you die gig? Hallelujah the answer is yes!

Being ready for events in life can be a blessing or a curse depending on what you are waiting for. Standing on the beach watching the calm waters recede must have been a sight, at least until the tsunami really hit and 200,000 died. Who was ready for that? Or if you were making copies in the office on the 85th floor and thinking about lunch when all of a sudden, seemingly out of nowhere, a plane comes crashing right into your building. Its 911 and who knew? (Yea who knew?) The tsunami and 911 were events that came out of nowhere - seemingly - and struck. Who was ready? Are we ready now? If only someone would have given us a heads up. If only everyone would have been ready.

In New Orleans they were somewhat ready but they didn't want to have to be ready for Katrina! Getting ready for Katrina was a pain. It was also a necessity! The preparations and the bracing yourself in New Orleans was a lot of work. Those who got out of the city did far better than those who refused to go. Many lost much and some lost their lives. The fact remains that they did have some warning. Millions left, others stayed, but they were all called on to be ready. Getting ready for the end of your life and or the end of the world would be a pain too....but it is by far the greatest necessity of all.

Dear reader I am screaming at you....politely but urgently, please get ready! Get ready for an unprecedented chaos (the BA), unprecedented spiritual deception, a new world order and satan himself masked as the world leader. All of which will bring an end to civilization as we know it! What many see and feel are only touches of what God has actually warned us about. There is that 3,000 year old Psalm (PS2) and it screams of warning, invitation and with the rest of prophetic revelation gives a major heads up to us all. Some are listening, some are not. I do with all of my heart (not when it's over because then it's too late) hope you are ready. When I read Revelation 6, 9 and 19...I wish we'd all been ready. Remember, no prophecy God has ever given has failed...none. Are you ready?

READY FOR LIFE

Well how can you be, at least when you are first born and begin to walk out this life stretched out before us. Birth is not controlled by the one being born. Whether you agree or not being born is a privilege. Ya can't get here without it. You are absolutely unique! Think about it. No one else in existence....anywhere has your imprint or identity. In the beginning we were made by a special act of God as the apex of bearing the imago dei, the very image and likeness of God.

We were filled with majesty, beauty and wonder. We were meant to be eternal, spiritual and did walk with God in perfect peace. Potential chaos was coming but like now, so it was then. God set the parameters and gave us a word (a single verse) that would protect us and everything about us. God gave the heads up and made humanity ready right there in the beginning. We were ready for life, eternity without interruption but the warning wasn't heeded and humanity including you was set on this trail of tears.

We listened to the lie but worse than that we rejected God, embraced the lie and the liar. We were instantly transmuted. No evolution to deity but death embraced us. Just as God said "...you will surly die" (in dying you shall die-Hebrew) and as it is said, "the wages of sin is death.... It was there the music stopped. The spiritual, psychological, social, economic, ecological, mental, emotional, relational and future....all the aspects of what was original was struck and changed. Death came in like a flood and physical death with all of its rottenness and ripping of the soul....invaded. Sin is real, as real as death itself.

See a little baby born. Watch her grow. See the awe of life, laughter and her development. Wow it will strike you but sit at the bedside of an 81 year old grandmother with illness, heart failure and watch her die and woe does whisper. I have experienced both. One is great. The other, without hope, is a tragedy! Both are here on this side of the fall. One is a blessing. The other...death is a curse!

Are we ready for life? To only be born, grow, learn, work, get old and then die? Is that all there is my friend? The skeptics, atheists and agnostics can't help you. The existentialist is still doing drugs and the nileiest is looking at a noose. Then there is the new ager and luciferian, one talks of spirituality but can't lead you to God and the other won’t. They are both in the same boat but only the luciferian knows that. What I want to know is what about living forever, what about God, love, significance and meaning? Can I know God, be loved, know my identity and have power over death? O dear reader the answer is an infallible and experiential.....Yes!

Look at the Cross. There He hanged sinless, good and yes it was God in human flesh. He said He would come, defeat evil and give LIFE. In Genesis 3 the chapter in the Bible where the fall and its horrors are recorded is also a little known prophetic spark....the proto-evangel. It is the first Spirit given prophecy and sets the course of God's work to love, redeem us and end evil. All of the battle, the blood and the Cross are included. It is there in Genesis 3:15. God declares a new life is coming and my friend it has.

"Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death." Hebrews 2

READY FOR CHAOS

Chaos can be a plane crashing into an office building. It can be cancer eating your guts away. Chaos is here because sin is and sin opened the door for this violence to reign. The "...god of this age (time period 2Corinthians 4:4) does blind minds and seek destruction (1Peter 5). What the fallen cherub is and does ends in death, always. His work is a deception. That's where his twisted powers excel. This power of deception as has been said always leads to destruction but many haven't learned this.

Though God has given massive communication and revealed the what and why of evil, still many choose death over life. The book of Revelation scared me when I tried to read it while I was in deep spiritual darkness. It is a massive warning and a major heads up concerning what many feel is coming. A simple reading of chapters 6, 9 and 19 will reveal a warning and revelation on evil's final evolution. Billions will die, the earth will be scorched and without the intervention of Christ it would be possible for this radical evil to lead to human extinction.

All this final ending though begins with the massive plotted out and spiritually planned (chaos) black awakening. Revelation chapters 6-19 do not occur without the spirit of antichrist, his birth, evolution and apocalypse to power and antichrist doesn't rise or reign without the coming nation collapsing chaos. If you know it's coming the question must be asked, Are you ready?

READY FOR SPIRITUAL ENGAGEMENT

With the coming chaos that leads to the pinnacle of satanic and demonic manifestation more than any time in fallen human history, will come a frog in the kettle type of preparatory mass spiritual deception. It was prophesied in the Spirit given revelations of scripture that unprecedented demonic powers, communication, works and engagement would come. In my assessment this has occurred and will only...get this-get worse. More, no massively more spiritual masquerading, dark powers and satanic manifestations will come faster, fiercer and without one ounce of mercy...not one drop.

Study well Daniel chapters 7 to the end, Matthew 24, 2 Thessalonians 2, 1John 2 and all of Revelation. This will evidence the infallible nature of Scripture, God's perfect omniscience, omnipresence and sovereign power. You will see prophecy revealed and fulfilled and anyone who can fully see the connection between Psalm 2 and Revelation 19:19 will know that the conspiracy of the ages is playing out on the streets of human life....right now.

Do you have the Spirit of God inside you? Do you know Christ as Savior and Lord? Are you filing yourself with the Word of God? Do you know your spiritual authority, armor and the need for alertness and Spirit empowered action? Can you lead a soul to Christ, pray with power and command the demons to go? How's your spiritual discernment and will you take up the Cross and follow Jesus daily?

READY FOR GOD

I have been at the bedside of those who were about to die. I stood one time next to a dying man and asked him if I could pray for him, if I could tell him about Jesus, if I could explain to him eternal life and seeing the face of God. He vehemently said no, no and no. He died without Christ and without hope. Why would anyone do that? Reject God and die in empty hopeless fear, what for? Yet many do, many will. How about you dear reader? How about you? Are you ready?

"They perish because they refused to love the truth and so be saved" 2 Thess. 2

The flip side of this is that if you don't know for sure, you can know...with absolute assurance. When you have Jesus Christ in your life there will be a witness (the Holy Spirit) within that joins what God says on the outside. Look at this:

"And this is the testimony: God has given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God does not have life. I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God so that you may know that you have eternal life." 1 John 5

There is a day dear friend that I will see God face to face in a body that beams with indestructible...incorruptible immortality. You can know God and know this is coming and then one day fully experience it. If you don't have this hope and assurance what do you have? With every ounce of my being I wish you will be ready.

"He will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away."...Revelation 20...."They will see his face..." Revelation 22:4

READY FOR DEATH

Yes you shall die and be put into that hole in the ground. Yes it seems so strange, death that is. I have seen death. I have stood at the casket of many to speak at their funerals and for most I have stood there with a God filled hope and a joy that went way beyond any grief. I know where they are and I know that being there they would never want to be back here. The grandma I told you about in the last minute of her life patted me on my face and told me to keep warm. She absolutely knew she was going to God, to Christ and be alive there. She knew because of the Word of God, the Spirit of God and the Christ of God that was in her life. I led her to Jesus one day and the day she left I knew and still know...I shall see her again

Death is here because of your sin and mine too. We opened this door but God closed it for all who want out. Jesus stood over Lazarus and commanded 'Lazarus come forth" and he did! Jesus came to die...and rise from the dead. He came to destroy death. The resurrection of Christ was foretold 1,000 years before He came (Psalm 16). When you hear these words what does it do for you?

Os Guinness who wrote the great book 'THE DUST OF DEATH' has given us a statement that I have quoted a thousand times. It was in reference to the resurrection of Christ from the dead. Os said, by this resurrection Jesus 'blasted apart the finality of death.' And to that I say a great hallelujah and a million amen's.

FINALLY

From the lyrics of the late and a great musician Larry Norman there are these words. You can hear the song on you tube also.

I Wish We'd All Been Ready
Life was filled with guns and war,
And everyone got trampled on the floor,
I wish we'd all been ready
Children died, the days grew cold,
A piece of bread could buy a bag of gold,
I wish we'd all been ready,
There's no time to change your mind,
The Son has come and you've been left behind.
A man and wife asleep in bed,
She hears a noise and turns her head, he's gone,
I wish we'd all been ready,
Two men walking up a hill,
One disappears and one's left standing still,
I wish we'd all been ready,
There's no time to change your mind,
The Son has come and you've been left behind.
Life was filled with guns and war,

And everyone got trampled on the floor,
I wish we'd all been ready,
Children died, the days grew cold,
A piece of bread could buy a bag of gold,
I wish we'd all been ready,
There's no time to change your mind,
How could you have been so blind,
The Father spoke, the demons dined,
The Son has come and you've been left behind.

CHAPTER 43
AGGRESSIVE PREPARATION
THE PHYSICAL

"Ants are creatures of little strength, yet they store up their food in the summer" Proverbs 30

"As it was in the days of Noah, so it will be at the coming of the Son of Man." Matthew 24

"Lately we have all seen how following a catastrophic event, stores will be closed, utilities will be unavailable and emergency personnel will be tied up helping those most in need of immediate medical attention. The dramatic lesson is that each of us need to take responsibility for ourselves and our own family's personal welfare. The time has come when we must be ready to be self-sufficient during great emergency."
www.surviorMall.com

CRISIS

"A crucial or decisive point or situation; a turning point. An unstable condition, as in political, social, or economic affairs, involving an impending abrupt or decisive change. A sudden change in the course of a disease or fever, toward either improvement or deterioration. An emotionally stressful event or traumatic change in a person's life. A point in a story or drama when a conflict reaches its highest tension and must be resolved."
www.answers.com/topic/crisis

The lights went out once and then twice and then for good, well for two days at least. The food in the fridge and freezer had to be thrown out and we had no....heat, phones, computers or water. No water meant having nothing to drink, no toilets could flush and the pumps did not work. O yea and no showers either so my wife and daughter went to other places for that. I stayed around the house for those two days just to keep an eye on things. The whole neighborhood was dark and everything was really quite. For two days it was mostly just inconvenience and the loss of some food.....but what if it was for a week, a month? We would not have been ready for that at all. Two days can tell you a lot and reveal how vulnerable you and many others really are. If you're not ready for two days you're not ready for 30 and most folks are not ready for..... massive chaos, anarchy and insurrection. What if the black awakening does occur soon and everything is out and red hot chaos is in.

We do prepare for a lot of things, like trips and winter cold but what about the big stuff. If the banks are closed and the stores are overrun and out of most of its stock where will you go and what will you do? Preparation is a big thing and even more important for when those big things do occur. When you have the time, do a word study in the scriptures on preparation. You will see how deep God Himself prepared for so many things. You will also see the wisdom God gives us so we can be prepared and ready for just about anything. Always remember that for the believer in Christ there is a powerful testimony in how you react to crisis, see here:

"Whatever happens, conduct yourselves in a manner worthy of the gospel of Christ." Philippians 1

Another good word for preparation for believers in Christ is to be able to tell others about Gods grace and truth in the midst of catastrophe. When prophetic revelation is fulfilled and events like the great revolt (Black Awakening) occurs many will need to hear and may be very open to hearing what Scripture has to say.

"But in your hearts set apart Christ as Lord. Always be prepared to give an answer to everyone who asks you to give the reason for the hope that you have. But do this with gentleness and respect," 1Peter 3:15

So let's take a look at some of the areas you can begin to nail down when it comes to needed preparation.

BE PREPARED BY KNOWING

If you know trouble is coming economically it would be best if you can get ready. Many were not ready for even small declines and lost everything. Job loss also means financial loss and that can affect everything. You will have to keep your eyes open and seek wisdom (James 1).

Know what time it is on the prophetic calendar and know what time it is when it comes to the spiritual needs of all those around you. A powerful believer who can react with strength, pray with power and act quickly will be of great use and witness in these last days. Do you dear reader, know what time it is? The scripture points us to the necessity of knowing...

"Dear children, this is the last hour; and as you have heard that the antichrist is coming, even now many antichrists have come. This is how we know it is the last hour." 1 John2

Know the scriptures and dig deep into Proverbs which will give a lot of the best preparation we can find. Knowing involves watching what is going on in the world around you. You watch as you drive your car...not to would be a set up for disaster.

If you know disasters do occur and that a massive collapse is coming it's time to watch, get prepared and live with wisdom. If the black awakening would break out in the next 3-5 years would you be ready for that? It will mean far more preparations that just having 30 days of food. The timing of the event and length of time of the black awakening is not something we know in detail. We just know is will occur and maybe soon. So if it did start...if it did just now burst upon the scene would you be prepared:

- To stand up spiritually and be a witness for Christ. Can you still do the mission of Christ during crisis?
- To have food, water, shelter and or alternative places to meet/go?
- To defend your family and others who are defenseless?
- To be mobile and get from place to place?

These are just some things to consider if you see floods, hurricanes and earthquakes coming. There is so much more if it's the black awakening and the collapse of a nation.

BE PREPARED BY PLANNING

If you can think over the story I have told at the beginning of this book, you may have an idea of some of the things you will need. The problem is that if you don't plan and prepare now it will be clear that you will be in grave need when this chaos occurs.

You can make a list of things you will need and or need to do. Think through that story in the beginning of the book and ask yourself if you can maintain 30 to 60 days of shortage, danger and defense. I would suggest you read these two great books as you plan:

- 'HOW TO SURVIVE THE END OF THE WORLD AS WE KNOW IT' by James Wesley Rawles
- 'HOW TO OVERCOME THE MOST FRIGHTENING ISSUES YOU WILL FACE THIS CENTURY' by Tom Horn and twenty experts

This along with thinking through the 'prophetic story' in this book will help you make the lists you do need. And if you make the planning list...nail it down and get the items, do the stuff and prepare. If you don't do the list then the list will be only a reminder of regret. Dear reader, dear believer in Christ, plan and prepare well!

BE PREPARED SURVIVAL OF THE FIT

Think in terms of what you will need and how much you can store. Think too who you will let know and who you will join with for greater resources. Here is a partial list:

- Spiritually! Be a person of deep prayer and know that God does answer and answers in big ways. I suggest that you use the book of Acts as a field manual. In it you can see how early believers lived and grew strong in the context of persecution, famine, crisis, attack and loss of goods and homes. Know this book well. God will use it to show you the possibilities and that He is the same yesterday, today and every day (Hebrews13). More on this in the next chapter.

- Food and more food. See www.survialMall.com and consider getting some stored food now. As a believer in Christ get extra so you can share it with those who will be in need. When the prophet Agabus in the book of Acts spoke of a coming famine the body of Christ got ready.
- Note! Maybe whole local Churches can plan, prepare and even have minor practice runs!
- Water and more water. Learn to store and even dig a well with an old fashioned hand pump.
- Gas for motors, tools and all the things needed to work on things and working the ground.
- Learn how to plant a garden, bottle and store.
- Have a ready defense. If someone came to tear your kids up or rape your wife will you be able to stop them? Do you have a gun? Will you use it? Read the book 'SHOOTING BACK BY Charl Van Wyk.
- Hide your weapons if you need to but I do suggest you arm yourself. Of course your ultimate defense is being in the hands of God. Seek God's wisdom in this.
- Can you defend yourself and others spiritually? Know your need for the armor of God and of the authority Christ has given. Remember the black awakening will bring with it the deepest outpouring of demonic manifestation in all of history!
- Have a plan with your family if all hell breaks out, where you will meet. If your house is destroyed where do you go? Set up a plan of communication.
- Have a battery or wind up radio and see if you can get a short wave radio.
- Have money or what you can use to barter with stored up and not just in a bank. When they're closed where do you go?
- Waste and a good old fashion out house!
- Learn to camp now. Get rugged and learn some skills with rope, tents and even camouflage.
- Think through some more areas and issues. Sit down as a family and plan, prepare and practice.

BE PREPARED AS AN END TIME WITNESS

I have had folks come from the mountains of Montana to conferences and survivalists call and email me. I agree 100% that we must learn all we can on how to survive, but saving yourself is not the main thing a believer in Christ is all about. What if the black awakening does occur and you do hide out and make it through 90 days. You come out of hiding and most everyone you know is gone or dead. What is the plan for 'after the chaos'?

I am planning and preparing and doing all I can to get others ready. Readiness to me means being saved, knowing God and being spiritually powerful. Being prepared means that I don't just hide to save myself and let everyone else go to hell....or be consumed by the chaos. I am preparing to be the best witness and to do the most possible good I can.

While there are many who are preparing and millions who will oppose the new world order the question for them is...do you even know why it has happened or who that new super world leader really is? In the end heaven and hell are the ultimate destinations and the best preparation for all of the chaos and the very end is in knowing God.....personally! Are you saved? Is Christ in your life and do you know what will happen when you die? Death will come whether by age, disease, chaos or sword. It will come. Death is here because of sin and your sin needs to be taken care of. Look at the Cross where Christ gave Himself for you.

FINALLY

If you don't prepare for eternity then what are a few extra days here in the madness.....when you don't know God? In the end will you be with God or lose your very soul?

"Then Jesus said to his disciples, "If anyone would come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. 25For whoever wants to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for me will find it. 26What good will it be for a man if he gains the whole world, yet forfeits his soul? Or what can a man give in exchange for his soul? " Matthew 16

CHAPTER 44
AGGRESSIVE PREPARATION: THE SPIRITUAL

"....prepare to meet your God....." Amos 4

"I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God so that you may know that you have eternal life." 1 John 5

"Luther said, 'When I get to heaven, I expect to be surprised three times. There will be those in heaven I thought wouldn't be there, and there will be some missing I thought would be there, but the greatest surprise will be that I am there myself'." P 240 'THE JUDGEMENT SEAT OF CHRIST'

"Blessed are those who wash their robes, that they may have the right to the tree of life and may go through the gates into the city. 15Outside are the dogs, those who practice magic arts, the sexually immoral, the murderers, the idolaters and everyone who loves and practices falsehood." Revelation 22

Karl went to Vancouver British Columbia years ago. At the time he was a spiritual seeker who was versed in new age spirituality and was seeking spiritual powers. A drinker and alone Karl made friends in a bar on Hastings street. He had no idea that he was being marked and prepared for recruitment...that's how it's done.

There was a group of some kind of satanists. He does not know for sure. Karl has a hard time remembering. You see they drugged him, confused him and then abducted him. They took him to what he thought was a hospital where they played mind games and took him through some type of sexual ritual and sought to split his soul.

I had met Karl at a restaurant when he was a professor. He talked about a strange demonic experience and was at that time in deep bondage. A chosen one was with me as this educator told his story. I met Karl again and began to work with him when one day he came to church on a Sunday morning and stood in the isle.....just looking. I have seen that look before and knew we would have a fight on our hands. Karl walked forward and came to the front in view of the whole Church. Then it happened. A demon voice came out of his mouth and said, "We will kill you Dizdar". The response was immediate; we prayed out loud and commanded the demon to be quite and come out. Karl dropped to the floor and it became a spiritual fight. Not everything was done at the time.

A friend who worked in this area was with me when we met Karl again. It was at a coffee shop and I was talking to a girl who was learning new age teachings. As I shared Christ with her Karl came in and sat down. Looking at him I knew we had to get out of the shop and....once again fight some deeply entrenched demon presence. Once in the truck, with Karl in setting in the middle… it began.

We started to pray and a demonic presence came up and challenged us. The demon so shook Karl that the whole truck was shaking as I drove down the back country roads. I had one arm on Karl and the other hand on the steering wheel. My friend had his arm on Karl too.

The prayers went on for some time until finally there was a break. Karl came back to full consciousness and began to ask what happened. Karl went through some more prayers and fought for his freedom in Christ. He still wants to know more of what that group did to him and where they went....we are tracking them now too.

Karl has become a good friend and helps on cases that deal with SRA/MPD and demonic possession. He is a student at the local Bible school and is joined by his son whom he helped come to Christ. They go to a local church where He gets to preach and teach. I have even interviewed him on the live Preemption Broadcast Sunday night show. Karl, once lost, deceived and preyed upon is now free, growing and doing great things for Jesus Christ.

Karl's life story reminds me of the need for a Savior who has defeated the lethal powers of darkness (we have Him...Jesus Christ) and a Church that should be well equipped to do the very things Jesus did. Anyone reading the book of Acts will notice that the early first and second generation believers did do what Jesus said to do. They also had all the power and presence that Jesus pledged to us.

"And having disarmed the powers and authorities, he made a public spectacle of them, triumphing over them by the cross." Colossians 2

"He replied, "I saw Satan fall like lightning from heaven. 19I have given you authority to trample on snakes and scorpions and to overcome all the power of the enemy; nothing will harm you. 20However, do not rejoice that the spirits submit to you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven."Luke 10

Would to God we would see the Church be what it was in Acts. Would to God believers in Christ would take up the Cross and follow Jesus as they did in the beginning. We have the same instruction, the same promise of His unceasing Presence and full Power of God ready to move but many believers are so engrossed by the world, suppressed by compromise and defeated in spiritual warfare that this massive 'giant' body of Christ sits idling as the sequence of satanic evolution presses its dark metal! Have we forgotten? Have we lost our faith? Don't we hear His voice...."Whom shall I send? Who will go?" In the face of what seems like a Goliath are there no David's to go down and fight?

Will we stand by and watch the world go down in the black flame of a masqueraded globalism? Will we hide out as the end is approaching and as homosatanas rises? What about the Cross, the Power of God and the Mission to reach the world? The safest place to be my dear reader is in the center of God's will, clothed in Holy fire and doing the works Jesus called us to do.....and doing this aggressively to the very end of the age! We must and can become filled with faith and the Holy Spirit (Acts 6) and grow powerful. As an experienced believer we too can grow more and more powerful proving that Jesus is the Christ. (See Acts 9:22)

"I tell you the truth, anyone who has faith in me will do what I have been doing. He will do even greater things than these, because I am going to the Father." John 14

"Jesus came to them and said, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. 19Therefore go and make disciples of all nations....." Matthew 28

"Then the disciples went out and preached everywhere, and the Lord worked with them and confirmed his word by the signs that accompanied it." Mark 16

"I am going to send you what my Father has promised.....clothed with power from on high."Luke 24

"And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age." Jesus Matthew 28

AGRESSIVE SPIRITUAL ACTION

Some have forgotten, some have slipped while others blaze with heaven's fire and do great things for God. Which dear believer are you? In the presence of God right now will you make a choice; hot or cold/alive or dead? The lukewarm are foul tasting and useless and I don't want to live like that or appear at the judgment seat of Christ with massive regret!

"For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, that each one may receive what is due him for the things done while in the body, whether good or bad." 2 Corinthians 5

So let's get blazing! We need to be all that Christ willed and designed. We are not Lord, He is and He is Lord of the Body of Christ; enough with the blame, shame and excuses! For those who are willing, the door is open for massive revival and an enormous unleashing of the power, grace and action of God...through his people.

- Let's repent of all the sin and rid ourselves of everything that contaminates. 2 Corinthians 7:1; John 1:9 and Proverbs 28:13. Dear believer in Christ ....go all the way with this!
- Let's look at Christ and never look away. Hebrews 12: saturate yourself in the Gospel of Mark today and may God give you the Spirit of wisdom and revelation that you might know Jesus...awesomely! Ephesians 16-20.
- Let's dig into daily devotion, Psalm 3:5 and grow stronger..... Acts 9:22
- Let's open wide to be filled and clothed with power from on high. Luke 24; Acts 1:8
- Let's look at the biblical prophetic clock and know what time it is. 1 John 2....the last hour!
- Let's look at the mission of God and do it like Jesus said. Matthew 28; Mark 16; Luke 24 and Acts 1:8
- Let's see Stephen, Peter, Paul, Barnabus and Phillip and what it meant to be filled with the Spirit and winning the world to Christ. See Acts 8 and all of Acts.
- Let's know our authority, armor and need for awareness to be alert and move to fierce action.

Let's realize that if we don't get it after reading this book and the above scriptures we can't expect to inspire others. Don't wait! Move and blaze a trail whether anyone goes with you or not. You can be absolutely sure of one thing, Christian.....Jesus won't fail you and will surround you with all of Him and heaven!

SPIRITUAL EVALUATION

Can anyone:

- Win a soul to Christ? Acts 9
- Pray with power and get answers? Acts 4
- Command demons out in Jesus Name? Acts 16
- Love and pray for the sick and see some healing? Acts 3

- Seek revival to strike and see it happen just like before?
- Stand strong when spiritual warfare and conflict come? Acts 8 and 16

Where are we?

WE NEED AGRESSIVE:

- Awareness of the enemy's work - 2Cor.2; 1Peter 5;Eph 6 & 2Thess.2
- Alertness to all impending dangers - Colossians 4:2
- Authority of Christ unleashed - Luke 10
- Armor on so the mighty power of God will manifest -Ephesians 6:10-
- Action by obeying the great commission, unleashing the gospel and advancing the kingdom - Acts 8

FINALLY

In the end will we have regret? Do we have regret right now? If so let's change that...right now:

"Lord Jesus, I don't know how I could have ever failed so much. I repent of letting the World, the flesh and the devil steal what I am supposed to be. I repent of failing to honor You and I surrender right now to You and all of Your powerful Presence. I want you to cleanse me and set me on fire with the Holy Spirit. I want to help win the World to You Jesus. I don't want anyone lost! I will stand no matter what. I will take up the Cross, dig into the Word and learn to pray with power and effect. I will fight! I will fight to be on fire, give my time and grow stronger! I will fight for the lost, the victims and for my brothers and sisters. I will fight the dark side and fight against radical evil....O Lord Jesus I will fight till the end!

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

TO MY CHILDREN COLLECTIVELY--Mountains of love are still held in reserve for each of you as I take this necessary step toward insuring your ultimate freedom. Please forgive me for divulging and making public the persons and events that should have remained private to your lives. However, the magnitude of the problem we face requires that I do as God guides me. I know that in a 'normal' healthy family I would have been able to discuss this all with you so we could have decided how to do this together. But, that was not possible. Forgive me for taking any liberties that may effect your lives in ways I could not have anticipated. I have put my decisions before the Lord and trust in His infinite wisdom to lead us all to sweet peace and freedom. The mother-child bond we share has very powerfully been the wind beneath my wings.

KEVIN--My child who was also my friend. Thanks for always being so helpful, capable, thoughtful of others, kind and cheerful. I am proud of you and pray for your release so that you can take the many talents and gifts you possess and use them in ways you and you alone choose. I love you Kev.

KELLY--A promise is a promise! And I will keep mine to you. I will never let go, and I will never stop exposing this and seeking help, no matter what. Thank you for always being so kind and loving. Your gentle nature and the immense love you are shines through even the mind control you are under, in ways everyone can feel. I pray for your release from the programmed state that keeps you shut away from yourself and the world. I miss you and know that God is working powerfully in and through you to bring healing to you and others. I love's ya.

DANNY--My child who walks to the beat of a different drummer. I wait in great anticipation to see what you do with the many individual gifts and talents that are yours, yet not yet yours. I grieve for the necessary separation that caused you to have to grow up without a mom at a very early age. I pray that God will restore those years in divine ways. I love you more than you could ever know!

TO THE BABY SON TAKEN FROM MY ARMS AT BIRTH--My soul longs for you. I still grieve the immense loss of your physical presence. I've missed you over the years and look forward to our reunion if it is God's will! God has promised restoration of family and I look forward to meeting you again, only this time as a big strong man!

MY PARENTS--Thank you for allowing me passage into the genetic and spiritual structures that would insure the success of my mission here on earth. I love you for birthing me and for allowing me to have the necessary experiences my soul required to learn and make my contribution. Dad, your ability to be ahead of your time and Mom, your ability to unconditionally love, even under mind control, helped me find my way, ultimately. I know now that you were both caught in the same dark web that I found myself in. I love and forgive you both.

CRAIG--We never had a chance, but we did love each other through it. Thank you for your gentle nature and for supporting me in the ways that you were able toward my recovery. I forgive you. Do you forgive me?

MY BROTHERS--Like Pop told us: "May the Truth Set Us All Free!"

CATHERINE GOULD, PHD--What would I have done without you? Thank you for so many things, the first of which saved my life ...the clever safety letter attached to my memory packets that I believe kept me alive. Your continued support and helpful listening ear proved to give me that extra leg up that I needed to trust myself in order to go forward with this manuscript.

MARGIE PAUL, PhD--Thank you for helping me connect to my innate spirituality and my inner child (children) and for holding and loving those little one's within me as I healed. Thanks for your willingness to go into the fearsome darkness with me and for your dedication to love, stretching beyond professional rules to serve in the ways I needed. I love you!

TED GUNDERSON--Thank you for helping me begin to stay safe with security measures and bodyguards and for kneeling before the Lord while the Holy Spirit worked within us, so that together we could work toward exposing the horrors that have been a part of so many victims' lives, in order that those planning the New World Order would fail. Thank you for being there over the years to remind me when I became discouraged, "Remember who wins in the end!" May God's larger plan set the captives free at last!

WALTER BOWART--May God bless you abundantly for holding the space of truth for victims of all ages starting way back in 1978 when your first edition of Operation Mind Control hit the bookstores. You have stayed in the battle for truth and justice and I thank you for continuing to hold onto the reality which most were faint of heart and not strong enough to endure. Thank you for being there!

JOE--Thanks for encouraging me to continue and for teaching me the place mat method.

LAUREN STRATFORD--Thank you for being courageous enough to heed the call of the Lord when you walked out in front of us all to pioneer a healing path for those who wanted to be healed. Thank you for your encouragement in times of trouble and may God bless you for your continued support of survivors all over the world. I love you.

LYNN MOSS-SHARMON--Who had the spiritual courage, fortitude and determination to found Stone Angels to support mind control victims in Canada, and then ACHES-MC (ADVOCACY COMMITTEE FOR HUMAN EXPERIMENTATION SURVIVORS-MIND CONTROL). Your work is crucial, as you've documented the reality of mind control experimentation through the chronicling of countless victims' testimony. May the Great Spirit richly reward you for your beautiful spiritual purity and faith ...and your work here!

BOBBI GAGNE-May the love and compassion you have shown for countless survivors return to you multiplied. Thank you for educating many in the field of law enforcement so they may now help victims who are still suffering. Thank you for doing what Christ would do! I love you!

ALICE MILLER--The example you showed me through your books was priceless. Through them I was to learn that by trusting my own experience, especially those that I had as a child, that I might transcend what is currently known in order to more fully advocate for children.

STUART PERLMAN, PHD--Thanks for telling me the truth was within, when others told me to forget the past and live in the present. You were right! Thank you for listening for hours to the horror of my past. I know it was very difficult for you to hear. God Bless You!

CLAIRE REEVES--President, Mothers Against Sexual Abuse (MASA)--Thank you for holding the shield of protection for children and for being there for and with me, even in court, when I began exposing my affluent abusers back in 1992! I know it has been difficult at times and that you have had to withstand much opposition, but just know that many have been helped because of the work you have done! God Bless You.

MARGARET-My sister in Christ. Thank you for being my trusted secretary, best friend, and support team through the rough times. I thank Jesus for guiding you into my life so that together we could fulfill

His plan for freeing His children, large and small! May God bless and keep you all the days of your life. You are so precious to me.

MARY LEWIS--For constantly doing what Jesus would do. Without funds, outward direction, or much support you have single-handedly done a miraculous job in helping endless victims of mind control break free and heal. May God bless and keep you safe as you continue His work!

LOWELL LEWIS--For bringing humor and love to your work in supporting Mary and the many victims that the two of you have worked with and loved over the years. Thanks for sharing your Bible with me.

STUART MERLOT--Thank you for your continued support of me (especially with the editing) and your awesome devotion toward exposing and ending the inner workings of the New World Order and of the mind control that fuels it. Thank you for not stopping, even when it seemed hopeless. May your selflessness and dedication be richly rewarded by God.

JUDITH--Thanks for your loving support and help in the initial typesetting.

DORIS--My loving prayer partner. Thank you for your continued prayers for my family's release. I love you.

TERRY-Thank you for your loving support through the intense birthing of this book.

LAURENCE--Thank you for teaching me how to rest and for being my friend.

ELIZABETH--Thank you for being the beautiful light of compassion and love, and for crying when you first heard me speak about my life. Thanks for being with Kelly while I studied the brainwave technology that enabled me to help her at home and for encouraging me to keep learning, when I felt I couldn't do it! Your constant prayers have been an incredible upliftment! God Bless You.

CHIP TATUM--Thank you for heroically sharing your first hand witness of CIA mind control, even validating it on video with me! I'm sorry you had to go to prison for telling the truth, but I'm so grateful that now you are free! God Bless you and your wife in your new life.

ALL THOSE THAT WENT BEFORE--I want to thank all those courageous souls who gave their lives in the service of ending this abuse.

JESUS--The love of my life, my Lord and Savior. Thank You for Your leading. Thank you for bringing the Holy Spirit to lead and guide me through the danger to make this contribution. It is because of You that I survived through this life and healed in order to bring the truth to light. Continue to work in me to create my mind to be more like Yours!

A NOTE TO RITUAL ABUSE SURVIVORS AND/OR THOSE UNDER MIND CONTROL, WHETHER CONSCIOUS AND IN RECOVERY OR STILL UNCONSCIOUS AND UNAWARE

Certain material contained within these pages may illustrate the precepts of mind control. Nothing in this book should create any problems in the internal structure of those who have Dissociative Identity Disorder (formerly called Multiple Personality Disorder), or those currently under mind control; however, some survivors report difficulty in reading anything which relates to their current perception of their victimization. Readers who know or suspect they are incest, ritual abuse, or mind control survivors and are in therapy would do well to consult with God before reading this book.

Foreward by Walter Bowart: Thanks for the Memmemmormee!?[1]

More than 25 years have passed since I began research into what was then called "brainwashing," a comically euphemistic term invented in the 1950's by CIA propaganda specialist Edward Hunter. It's been 21 years since my book on the subject Operation Mind Control was published internationally, and five years since it reappeared as the greatly expanded Limited Researcher's Edition, featuring an account of "Lois" that offers a synopsis of the book you hold in your hands. Now it can be told. "Lois" is Susan Ford, whose pseudonym is Brice Taylor. Her book Thanks for the Memories, which, by all reports is greatly anticipated by an audience better educated than the one I encountered in the 1970's, is now published for all the world to read.

I wrote my book Operation Mind Control while living in Arizona, still 'a backward state, dominated by Federal funds and jobs, and the dissociated and extremely provincial beliefs that come with it. In the 70's most of the people I spoke with about what I called, generically, "mind control" thought I was crazy. Those who were not afraid to express their opinions on the subject believed it to be impossible. They strongly believed they could not be made to do something against their will and without their own knowledge. They believed they had indomitable powers of will, like the CIA funded psychologist, Timothy Leary's fellow debater and Watergate burglar, G. Gordon Liddy. They believed, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that they could not be broken, fragmented, and mentally enslaved by any technology, even if it included hypnosis, drugs, electronic brain stimulation or what came to be called biological process control.

My interest in this subject was piqued by a young man, David, I had known all my life. He returned from a four-year tour with the United States Air Force in a confused and deeply tormented state. You could not say that he had a destroyed mind. He suffered from complete amnesia about the past years of service in the USAF, but he was making straight "A's" in premedical courses at a prominent University.

I did not recognize him as he sat, slumped in an overstuffed chair in my living room in 1973. He had undergone a couple of years of treatment with a competent psychiatrist and was finally asked by her, "Do you want to know what this is and how it was created, or do you just want to be able to function?" He decided the functioning was good enough, and his treatment accelerated, taking a wide turn away from the historical events he remembered, which included being a "human tape recorder" and witnessing the most secret negotiations with North Vietnam and with "Royals" of the Arabic persuasion who beheaded a prisoner he had just witnessed being interrogated. The image of this decapitation still haunts him in his dreams.

In 1973 the Rockefeller Commission's Report revealed that CIA Director Richard Helms had supposedly destroyed 153 separate files on a long running, top secret project called MKULTRA, as his last act in office. In years to come many of those files were discovered as "misplaced" files. They revealed a long history of criminal activities by individuals who hid behind the National Security Act and ran amok, arrogantly treating citizens of their own country as just so many lab rats.

"I can hypnotize a man -- without his knowledge or consent -- into committing treason against the United States..." -- Dr. George Estabrooks, 1943.

This Canadian-born Rhodes Scholar was a hypnosis expert and former Professor at Colgate University with long-standing ties to U.S. military and domestic intelligence, and to Martin Orne, MD, a master

[1] James Joyce, Finnigan's Wake, 1938

"spy-chiatrist," author of Patty Hearst's "brainwashing" defense, and founding Board member of the False Memory "Spindrome" Foundation.

As I was researching The Rockefeller Commission's Report, following anecdotal evidence, putting the pieces together, then writing what turned out to be Operation Mind Control, I felt like the villagers in this Sufi tale:

> An elephant had entered a cave near a town in Morrocco and had bellowed all night, keeping the whole village awake. Nobody in the town had seen an elephant, nor did anyone know what an elephant looked like.
> The villagers held a meeting and four brave people among them volunteered to go into the cave to investigate what was making the strange bellowings.
> The first one felt the elephant's trunk and came running out to report a large python was making the noise they heard
> The second one felt afoot and came out to report that a palm tree was making the noise. The third one felt the elephant's tail and came out to report that a broom, obviously controlled by a witch, was making the noise.
> The fourth villager felt the elephant's ear and came out to report that there was nothing to fear because a large leaf from a tropical plant was making the noise.
> Once they understood there was nothing to fear, the villagers went to sleep that night and didn't hear the elephant snorting and bellowing as he left the cave. Nor did they mention it again.

In those days, shrinks (psychiatrists and psychologists) told me that what I was reporting were the results of a disease called "schizophrenia." The word meant fragmented personality, but in time, schizophrenia turned out to be a familial disease which could be treated and controlled with medication. The stories I was reporting took several years to understand. I eventually discovered that what I was reporting was the real cause of the cryptocracy's trained elephant in the particular cave next to our hometown.

I cannot tell you the experiences Sue Ford reports are accurate to the letter, since I was not a witness to all of them. But, as I revealed in Operation Mind Control (1994), I once saw Sue on a Palm Springs golf course in the company of her alleged handler, Bob Hope. At that time I was Editor-in-Chief of Palm Springs Life magazine, which had just won the "Maggie" Award for publishing the best city magazine. It was at the Bob Hope Classic that I saw Sue, but I didn't speak to her, as I was busy covering the happenings and celebrities, which have graced the magazine since the 1950's. Sue was one of the Bob Hope Classic hostesses, assisting the public and the press in a variety of functions.

My path crossed Sue's again years later when I was interviewing another survivor of mind control, but I'll spare you those details. Just read my book. I can tell you that Sue Ford believes the story she has written with all her being, and her account as described herein has remained consistent.

Most of her memories, conveyed in her book, she obtained outside of the therapy setting on the Island of Kauai, while journaling on the beach, since she could not afford a therapist at that time. The perceived safety of the location and the steady sound of the waves in the background provided her with the ability to focus inward, allowing intense flashbacks to recur, including intense memory of her physical sensations during those events (called body memories), all of which she was able to write down in her journals. Sue's journals are amazingly free of mistakes, and that's no small feat since they were written in indelible ink. One gets the impression that Sue simply 'downloaded' this material from her inner 'multiple personalities,' who were desperately wanting to get this information out.

Offering up these truths in these post-False Memory "Spindrome" Foundation days takes courage. The well-funded "foundation," composed of alleged pedophiles and spy-chiatrists, my term for professionals who worked for the CIA in mind control projects over a period of approximately fifty years, has led an effective fight in the courts to establish the fact that a person can easily be made to believe things which are not true. When I asked many of those who would later sit on the FMSF Board, if a person could be made to do something against their will and without their knowledge, they denied that it was possible in the mid-seventies.

They have not yet turned their earlier stance completely around. Nor have they taken the next step to offer proof that a person can be made to do something against their will and without their knowledge, but they have gone far enough with their argument that "justice is no longer served by 'eyewitness' accounts." Responding to FMSF lawsuits, the State of California, I'm told, has made new laws, which would disqualify the testimony of anyone who has ever confessed to having been hypnotized.

Most lawyers and judges don't understand dissociative disorders because most "mental health professionals" don't understand them, and/or haven't bothered to educate the judicial branch of government. To begin to understand the full range of dissociative disorders, from Post-traumatic Stress Disorder to Bipolar Disorder to the former Multiple Personality Disorder (now called Dissociative Identity Disorder), one must confront the National Security State and its military/industrial complex, which created the killers who all too often came home from their service to their country to beat and sexually abuse their wives and children.

One gets the impression today that the majority of both "mental health experts" and judges believe that Multiple Personality Disorder can easily be faked during expert examinations. However, most professionals with experience treating DID will tell you that it is almost impossible to fake an autonomic response, the kind of response that is used to assess the reality of a dissociated state. Faking an autonomic response would be about as easy as deliberately dilating or contracting your pupils without any change of light stimulus.

On one case the Freedom of Thought Foundation sent me to investigate, the case of Robert Joe Moody, an alleged serial killer with a Top Secret security clearance in the USMC, I brought one of the leading experts in the treatment of DID into the prison conference room. Within minutes this doctor had the killer manifesting four different personalities. When he first switched into the killer personality the room filled with heat. The doctor told me it was not unusual for a whole variety of physical changes to occur when a multiple switched. The room quickly getting hot from the temperature change of Moody's body when he switched from one personality to the other is a good example of the sort of autonomic response I'm talking about. I'd like to see even the best-trained actor do that on cue!

After the interview with Moody, as we were leaving the prison, the doctor said to me, "Well, what do you want to do? Integrate these personalities, or just let the little nine-year-old personality take the punishment (death by lethal injection) for all the others, just like he has always been doing."

In the only study of death row inmates in America, roughly 14% tested as being undiagnosed cases of DID. Only a few prisons were used in this study. It focused only on convicted murderers and did not investigate violent criminals who were convicted of assault or crimes less than murder. Other non-capital offenders were omitted. This study clearly showed the ignorance, or prejudice, of the American judicial system, one in which the diagnosis "malingering" is given to people suffering from DID. Malingering is a psychiatric term that means the subject is faking an illness. The poorly trained psychologists and psychiatrists working as court appointed "expert witnesses" don't know how to test nor diagnose Dissociative Disorders.

The most tragic moment of Moody's story, for most, is when they view the police videotape of the accused killer being read the Miranda Warnings. Here, clearly, is the nine-year-old personality, "Bobby," picking at a scab on his hand, speaking in a halting voice, not understanding who he was, due to Amnestic Fugue, nor what the words in the Miranda Warnings meant. It was the only time the accused was read his rights. And as you might expect, Bobby wasn't the killer, nor was he even "present" at the scene of the crime. The killer personality was named XE and was, by all present indications, created during Moody's service in the Marine Corps.

"Mental health professionals" generally overlook the possibility of deliberate programming. Or maybe that's part of the conspiracy against freedom of thought. Many shrinks are themselves unwitting accomplices in this conspiracy. Professional expressions of denial about the access and deliberate programming of dissociated children by agents of National Security States is about as comforting as if they'd told you that the conclusions of the Warren Commission Report were accurate and correct. Even certain members of The International Society for the Study of Dissociative Disorders has put DID in a separate legal category, so that, people expressing multiple personalities cannot be found "not guilty by reason of insanity."

Dr. Colin Ross, one of the leading experts on Dissociative Disorders, expressed the opinion that DID may be the cause of most of the serious problems of our society, such as gangsterism, drive-by shootings, schoolyard assassinations, random acts of terrorism and all the rest of the trauma America has been experiencing over the past few years--an idea not yet examined by criminologists, prison experts, and others who would supposedly protect and serve.

To understand dissociation is to understand the paradigm shift in our culture--from an industrial culture to an information culture. To understand it is to look into the heart of the Dissociated States of America and the Dissociated States of Europe and the Orient.

The seeds of dissociation have been sown throughout history, from our earliest recorded days until the present. You can find evidence of it in the first terrors of the cavemen, in the shamanic practices of most primitive cultures, to the present co-option of severely dissociated people found among the ranks of modem military recruits. A cross section of our society finds its way into military service, and a representational number of them suffer from Dissociative Disorders. These form a fertile pool for recruitment of programmed personnel.

After you've met a few of them, you realize they have one thing is common--they are highly suggestible. Thus it is easy to capitalize on the trauma implanted in their child's mind by daddy, uncle, a neighbor or whomever. Once dissociation shows up in the military "entrance tests," they are sorted out for programming. From their ranks are created autonomic assassins, amnestic couriers, and Mata Hari sexpionage agents who've given their involuntary all with no consent form requested.

Who would do such a thing you ask? Read on. Learn about the cryptocracy that has been gradually amassing its power over the human mind since the days when the swastika was forced underground, and its armbands torn from the sleeves, but its legacy was not removed from the hearts and minds of those welcomed to America under Project Paperclip, when Nazi war criminals, posing as scientists, were flown from the front, hidden among those who had spilled their blood fighting fascism.

The value of programming to the cryptocrats is understood when you realize its usefulness in harnessing a slave labor force and covering up crimes. More than one forensic psychiatrist has told me that our criminal justice systems are not prepared to deal with these cases. And it's been that way for quite some time. The litigious actions of the False Memory "Spindrome" Foundation have done further damage to justice by successfully obfuscating the realities of Dissociative Disorders and by blaming its cause on the treatments of incompetent "mental health professionals."

Whether a victim of DID, trained and conditioned and honed for govemment use, claims they have been raised in a Satanic Cult, or a Secret Society, or been abducted by aliens matters not at all. For eons of time, throughout the entire history of mankind (as far as we know) war and trauma have created this evil, which is multi-generational, passed down the family tree from parent to child in an unbroken chain. The flavor of the torture matters not--it is none the less torture. The style of programming matters not--it is none the less programming. Usually the women are tumed into slaves of one kind or another; the men are turned into killers or handlers. Regardless of the content of their story, the professional can only take it at face value, support the client, use it as a metaphor if nothing else, and try one technique after another until they get the results they are seeking, reintegration and eventual recovery.

After spending the past five years studying programmed killers, it is refreshing to turn once again to Sue Ford's case. Most of us cannot keep from wincing at her vivid descriptions in certain parts. Others similarly victimized have experienced tortures so terrible (literally unspeakable) that they might think Sue had a "privileged" time of it. Though, Sue was used at a very "high level" in such ways that required her physical preservation. Many survivors, it would appear, are generally too incapacitated to write their own story and too destitute or crippled to achieve sufficient recovery.

Sue's story, truly a spy-chiatrist's "nightmare come true," is like a fascinating, multifaceted gemstone washed up on a white, sandy Hawaiian beach after having battled typhoons, rip tides and the treacherous forces of man and nature. It is the story of a survivor who truly has emerged as a 'Victor' against all odds.

We must salute Sue. She has preceded the therapeutic community's understanding of dissociation and reintegration in the context of mind control. She's been a teacher as well as a patient, and has inspired many of those who are leading the way toward real healing, not just a drugging of symptoms as is too commonly found to be the "mental health" cure for MPD/DID. Through her valiant recovery from trauma-based mind control, Sue has paved the way for other survivors to follow.

Let's join her in shining the light on the path for those survivors who are ready, willing and able to stand and be counted. Their liberation will be ours--all of us!

Historical Overview: Mind Control in the Modern Context

'Mind control' is a rather vague and nebulous term used to label methods of extreme coercion that result in an individual's involuntary, robotic compliance. In order for the reader to fully understand the account presented in this book, it is essential to gain some background knowledge about the history of mind control.

There was a Special Report (article) that appeared in the US. News & World Report (January 24, 1994) entitled "The Cold War Experiments," which provides one with an introductory and conventionally accepted perspective on the subject of mind control.

The article begins, stating the widely held view that "...U.S. government scientists, spurred on by reports that American prisoners of war were being brainwashed in North Korea, were proposing an urgent, top-secret research program on behavior modification. Drugs, hypnosis, electroshock, lobotomy -- all were to be studied as part of a vast U.S. effort to close the mind-control gap."

At the time this article appeared, congressional inquiries were being held to examine new disclosures about government experiments that had intentionally exposed American citizens to radiation. The article continues, "But the radiation experiments are only one facet of a vast cold war research program that used thousands of Americans as guinea pigs." And, "From the end of World War II well into the 1970's, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Defense Department, the military services, the CIA and other agencies used prisoners, drug addicts, mental patients, college students, soldiers, even bar patrons, in a vast range of government-run experiments to test the effects of everything from radiation, LSD and nerve gas to intense electric shocks and prolonged "sensory deprivation." Note the portrayal of this activity as a "vast" governmental effort.

The article also illustrates the recent congressional concern: "'It's not just radiation we're talking about,' says Democratic Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, a former Marine and astronaut who is holding hearings on the subject this week. 'Any place government experimenting caused a problem we should make every effort to notify the people and follow up. We ought to set up some sort of review and compensation for people who were really hurt'." Years later, on January 22, 1997, Sen. Glenn introduced before Congress the Human Research Subject Protections Act of 1997. It was referred to the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources, chaired by Sen. Arlen Spector (author of the Warren Commission's 'single bullet theory'), and never made it out. With the many bare-brained pieces of legislation that make it to the Senate floor, you would think that one which attempts to safeguard human subjects of experimentation would be a 'no-brainer,' but apparently it is not with this Congress.

Parallel with this activity, President Clinton published an Administrative Order known as Memorandum of March 27, 1997 entitled "Strengthened Protections for Human Subjects of Classified Research" (see appendix), which attempted to implement the recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments, which he established in January 1994. To date, these well-intended efforts have had little or no impact.

Last year (April 15, 1998), Harlan Girard, on behalf of the International Committee for the Convention Against Offensive Microwave Weapons, brought suit against the Federal government for its non-compliance in carrying out President Clinton's Administrative Order. This case is still in the process of working its way through the Federal courts. The U.S. News & World Report article concludes with the following paragraph:

"Another former CIA official, Sidney Gottlieb, who directed the MKULTRA behavior-control program almost from its inception, refused to discuss his work when US. News reporter visited him last week at his home. He said the CIA was only trying to encourage basic work in behavior science. But he added that after his retirement in 1973, he went back to school, practiced for 19 years as a speech pathologist and now works with AIDS and cancer patients at a hospice. He said he has devoted the years since he left the CIA 'trying to get on the side of the angels instead of the devils'."

Gottlieb's praiseworthy activities since 1973 speak to the seriousness of what he had participated in prior to that date, under Project MKULTRA. He was one individual who at least tried to do something to 'save his soul,' which is more than one can say for the host of others who were similarly involved. Gottlieb passed away earlier in 1999, just in time to miss all the 'fireworks.'

The following article, "Project Monarch: Nazi Mind Control" by Ron Patton, provides an excellent historical overview on mind control in its many different aspects and is reprinted here almost in its entirety. The article appeared in the trend-setting, alternative press magazine Paranoia: The Conspiracy Reader in the Fall 1996 issue. This magazine, one of several 'iconoclasts,' has published a number of such informative articles on related subjects and, to date, appears to be the leading source for news and information about mind control.

Note: The actual name of a classified project known to many as 'Monarch' is yet to be officially confirmed, therefore, the reader is advised to substitute the phrase "trauma-based mind control" for the author's usage of the code name "MONARCH."

PROJECT MONARCH: NAZI MIND CONTROL by Ron Patton

Amidst the subtle cerebral circumvention of the gullible populace, through a multitude of manipulated mediums, lies one of the most diabolical atrocities perpetrated upon a segment of the human race: a form of systematic mind control which has permeated every aspect of society for almost fifty years.

To objectively ascertain the following, one may need to re-examine preconceived ideologies relating to the dualistic nature of mankind. Resolving the philosophical question of whether we are inherently good or inherently evil is tantamount in shaping our perception of reality; specifically, the spiritual variable within the equation of life.

This exposition is substantiated by declassified U.S. Government documents, individuals formerly connected to the U.S. intelligence communities, historical researchers knowledgeable in mind control, publications from mental health practitioners, and interviews taken from survivors unwittingly subjected to a highly complex form of trauma-based mind control known as MONARCH programming.

A word of caution for survivors of intensively systematic mind control and/or some form of ritualized abuse: There are numerous "triggers" in this article. It is therefore recommended not to read it unless appropriate support systems are in place or if you have a thoroughly reintegrated personality.

A Brief History of Control

The Mystery Religions of ancient Egypt, Greece, India and Babylon helped lay the foundation for occultism, meaning "hidden knowledge." One of the earliest writings giving reference to occultism is the Egyptian Book of the Dead, a compilation of rituals explicitly describing methods of torture and intimidation (to create trauma), the use of potions (drugs) and the casting of spells (hypnotism), ultimately resulting in the total enslavement of the initiate.[1] These have been the main ingredients for a part of occultism known as Satanism, throughout the ages.

During the 13th Century, the Roman Catholic Church increased and solidified its dominion throughout Europe with the infamous Inquisition. Satanism survived this period of persecution, deeply entrenching itself under the veil of various esoteric groups.

In 1776, a Bavarian Jesuit by the name of Adam Weishaupt was commissioned by the House of Rothschild to centralize the power base of the Mystery Religions into what is commonly known as the Illuminati, meaning "Enlightened Ones." This was an amalgamation of powerful occultic bloodlines, elite secret societies and influential Masonic fraternities, with the desire to construct the framework for a "New World Order." The outward goal of this Utopia was to bring forth universal happiness to the human race. However, their underlying intention was to gradually increase control over the masses, thus becoming masters of the planet.

The Anglo Alliance

By the 19th century, Great Britain and Germany were recognized as the primary geographic areas of Illuminati control. It then should be of little surprise to know the first work in Behavioral Science research was established in England in 1882, while much of the early medical and psychiatric techniques involved in mind control were pioneered at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Germany.

The Tavistock Institute of Human Relations was set up in London in 1921 to study the "breaking point" of humans. Kurt Lewin, a German psychologist, became the director of the Tavistock Institute in 1932, about the same time Nazi Germany was increasing its research into neuropsychology, parapsychology and multi-generational occultism. Interestingly, a progressive exchange of scientific ideas was taking place between England and Germany, most notably in the field of eugenics: the movement devoted to "improving" the human species through the control of hereditary factors in mating. The nefariously enigmatic union between the two countries was bonded, partly through the Order of the Golden Dawn, a secret society, which consisted of many high ranking officials in the Nazi party and British aristocracy. Top SS Nazi officer, Heinrich Himmler, was in charge of a scientific project called Lebensborn, which included selective breeding and adoption of children, a peculiarly large number of twins among them.[2] The purpose of the program was to create a super-race (Aryans) who would have total allegiance to the cause of the Third Reich (New Order). Much of the preliminary experimentation concerning genetic engineering and behavior modification was conducted by Dr. Josef Mengele at Aushwitz, where he coldly analyzed the effects of trauma-bonding, eye-coloring and "twinning" upon his victims.

Besides the insidious surgical experimentation performed at the concentration camp, some of the children were subjected to massive amounts of electroshock. Sadly, many of them did not survive the brutality. Concurrently, "brain-washing" was carried out on inmates at Dachau, who were placed under hypnosis and given the hallucinogenic drug mescaline. During the war, parallel behavioral research was led by Dr. George Estabrooks of Colgate University. His involvement with the Army, CID, FBI and other agencies remains shrouded in secrecy. However, Estabrooks would occasionally "slip" and discuss his work involving the creation of hypno-programmed couriers and hypnotically-induced split personalities.[3]

After WWII, the U.S. Department of Defense secretly imported many of the top German Nazi and Italian Fascist scientists and spies into the United States via South America and the Vatican. The code name for this operation was Project PAPERCLIP.[4] One of the more prominent finds for the U.S. was German General Reinhard Gehlen, Hitler's Chief of Intelligence against Russia. Upon arriving in Washington, DC in 1945, Gehlen met extensively with President Truman, General William "Wild Bill" Donovan, Director of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) and Allen Dulles, who would later become the stalwart head of the CIA. The objective of their brainstorming sessions was to reorganize the nominal American intelligence operation, transforming it into a highly efficient covert organization. The culmination of their efforts produced the Central Intelligence Group in 1946, renamed the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in 1947.

Reinhard Gehlen also had profound influence in helping to create the National Security Council, from which the National Security Act of 1947 was derived. This particular piece of legislation was implemented to protect an unconscionable number of illegal government activities, including clandestine mind control programs.

Evolution of Project MKULTRA

With the CIA and National Security Council firmly established, the first in a series of covert brainwashing programs was initiated by the Navy in the fall of 1947. Project CHATTER was developed in response to the Soviet's "successes" through the use of "truth drugs." This rationale, however, was simply a cover story if the program were to be exposed. The research focused on the identification and testing of such drugs for use in interrogations and the recruitment of agents.[5] The project was officially terminated in 1953.

The CIA decided to expand their efforts in the area of behavior modification, with the advent of Project BLUEBIRD, approved by Director Allen Dulles in 1950. Its objectives were to: (1) discover a means of conditioning personnel to prevent unauthorized extraction of information from them by known means, (2) investigate the possibility of control of an individual by application of special interrogation techniques, (3) investigate memory enhancement and (4) establish defensive means for preventing hostile control of agency personnel. In August 1951, Project BLUEBIRD was renamed Project ARTICHOKE, which evaluated offensive uses of interrogation techniques, including hypnosis and drugs. The program ceased in 1956. Three years prior to the halt of Project ARTICHOKE, Project MKULTRA came into existence on April 13, 1953 along the lines proposed by Richard Helms, Deputy Director of Central Intelligence CDCI with the rationale of establishing a "special funding mechanism of extreme sensitivity."[6]

The hypothetical etymology of "MK" may possibly stand for "Mind Kontrolle." The obvious postwar translation of the German word, "Kontrolle" into English is "control."[7] A host of German doctors, procured from the Nazi talent pool, were an invaluable asset toward the development of MKULTRA. The correlation between the concentration camp experiments and the numerous sub-projects of MKULTRA are clearly evident. The various avenues used to control human behavior under MKULTRA included radiation, electroshock, psychology, psychiatry, sociology, anthropology, graphology, harassment substances and paramilitary devices and materials (LSD being the most widely dispensed "material"). A special procedure, designated MKDELTA, was established to govern the use of MKULTRA abroad. MKULTRA / MKDELTA materials were used for harassment, discrediting or disabling purposes.[8]

Of the 149 subprojects under the umbrella of MKULTRA having been identified, Project MONARCH officially began by the U.S. Army in the early 1960's (although unofficially implemented much earlier) appears to be the most prominent and is still classified as TOP SECRET for "National Security" reasons.[9] MONARCH may have culminated from MKSEARCH subprojects, such as operation SPELLBINDER, which was set up to create "sleeper" assassins (i.e. "Manchurian Candidates") who could be activated upon receiving a key word or phrase while in a post-hypnotic trance. Operation OFTEN, a study which attempted to harness the power of occultic forces, was possibly one of several cover programs to hide the insidious reality of Project MONARCH.

Definition and Description

The name MONARCH is not necessarily defined within the context of royal nobility, but rather refers to the Monarch butterfly. When a person is undergoing trauma induced by electroshock, a feeling of light-headedness is evidenced; as if one is floating or fluttering like a butterfly. There is also a symbolic representation pertaining to the transformation or metamorphosis of this beautiful insect: from a caterpillar to a cocoon (dormancy; inactivity), to a butterfly (new creation) which will return to its point of origin. Such is the migratory pattern that makes this species unique.

Occultic symbolism may give additional insight into the true meaning. Psyche is the word for both "soul" and "butterfly," coming from the belief that human souls become butterflies while searching for a new reincarnation.[10]

Some ancient mystical groups, such as the Gnostics, saw the butterfly as a symbol of corrupt flesh. The "Angel of Death" (remember Mengele?) in Gnostic art works was portrayed crushing the butterfly.[11] A marionette is a puppet that is attached to strings and is controlled by the puppet master, hence MONARCH programming is also referred to as the "Marionette Syndrome." "Imperial Conditioning" is another term used, while some mental health therapists know it as "Conditioned Stimulus-Response Sequences."

Project MONARCH could be best described as a form of trauma-structured dissociation and occultic integration in order to compartmentalize the mind into multiple personalities within a systematic framework. During the process, a Satanic ritual, usually including Cabalistic mysticism, is performed with the purpose of attaching a particular demon or group of demons to the corresponding alter(s). Of course, most [people] would view this as simply a means to enhance trauma within the victim negating irrational belief that demonic possession actually occurs.

Alters and Triggers

Another way of examining this convoluted victimization of body and soul is by looking at it as a complex computer program: A file (alter) is created through trauma, repetition and reinforcement. In order to activate (trigger) the file, a specific access code or password (cue or command) is required. The victim survivor is called a "slave" by the programmer/handler, who in turn is perceived as "master" or "god." About 75% are female, since they possess a higher tolerance for pain and tend to dissociate easier than males. Subjects are used mainly for covert operations, prostitution and pornography; involvement in the entertainment industry is notable.

A former military officer connected to the DIA told this writer, "In the 'big picture' these people [MONARCH victims] are in all walks of life, from the bum on the street to the white-collar guy." In corroboration, a retired CIA agent vaguely discussed the use of such personnel to be used as "plants" or "chameleons" for the purpose of infiltrating a designated group, gathering information and/or injecting an ulterior agenda.

There are an inordinate amount of alters in the victim/survivor, with numerous back-up programs, mirrors and shadows. A division of light-side (good) and dark-side (bad) alters are interwoven in the mind and rotate on an axis. One of the main internal structures, (of which there are many) within the system is shaped like a double-helix, consisting of seven levels. Each system has an internal programmer who oversees the "gatekeepers" (demons?) who grant or deny entry into the different rooms. A few of the internal images predominately seen by victims/survivors are trees, the Cabalistic "Tree of Life," with adjoining root systems, infinity loops, ancient symbols and letters, spider webs, mirrors or glass shattering, masks, castles, mazes, demons/monsters/aliens, sea shells, butterflies, snakes, ribbons, bows, flowers, hour glasses, clocks, robots, chain-of-command diagrams and/or schematics of computer circuitry boards.

Bloodlines and Twinning

A majority of the victims/survivors come from multi-generational Satanic families (bloodlines) and are ostensibly programmed "to fulfill their destiny as the chosen ones or chosen generations" (a term coined by Mengele at Auschwitz). Some are adopted out to families of similar origin. Others used in this neurological nightmare are deemed as the "expendable ones" (non-bloodliners), usually coming from orphanages, foster-care homes, or incestuous families with a long history of pedophilia. There also appears to be a pattern of family members affiliated with government or military intelligence agencies.

Many of the abused come from families who use Catholicism, Mormonism, or charismatic Christianity as a "front" for their abominable activities (though members of other religious groups are also involved.) Victims/survivors generally respond more readily to a rigid religious (dogmatic, legalistic) hierarchical structure because it parallels their base programming. Authority usually goes unchallenged, as their will has been usurped through subjective and command-oriented conditioning.

Physical identification characteristics on victims/survivors often include multiple electrical prod scars and/or resultant moles on their skin. A few may have had various parts of their bodies mutilated by knives, branding irons, or needles. Butterfly or occult tattoos are also common. Generally, bloodliners are less likely to have the subsequent markings, as their skin is to "remain pure and unblemished."

The ultimate purpose of the sophisticated manipulation of these individuals may sound unrealistic, depending upon our interpretive understanding of the physical and spiritual realms. The deepest and darkest alters within bloodliners are purported to be dormant until the "AntiChrist" is revealed. These "New World Order" alters supposedly contain call-back orders and instructions to train and/or initiate a large influx of people (possibly clones or "soulless ones"). thereby stimulating social control programs into the new millennium.

Non-biological "twinning" is yet another bizarre feature observed within MONARCH programming. For instance, two young non-related children would be ceremoniously initiated in a magical "soul-bonding" ritual so they might be "inseparably paired for eternity" (possibly another Mengele connection?). They essentially share two halves of the programmed information, making them interdependent upon one another. Paranormal phenomenon such as astral projection, telepathy, ESP, etc. appear to be more pronounced between those who have undergone this process.

Levels of MONARCH Programming[12]

ALPHA. Regarded as "general" or regular programming within the base control personality; characterized by extremely pronounced memory retention, along with substantially increased physical strength and visual acuity. Alpha programming is accomplished through deliberately subdividing the victim's personality which, in essence, causes a left brain - right brain division; allowing for a programmed union of L and R through neuron pathway stimulation.

BETA. Referred to as "sexual" programming. This programming eliminates all learned moral convictions and stimulates the primitive sexual instincts, devoid of inhibitions. "Cat" alters may come out at this level.

DELTA. This is known as "killer" programming, originally developed for training special agents or elite soldiers (i.e. Delta Force, First Earth Battalion, Mossad, etc.) in covert operations. Optimal adrenal output and controlled aggression is evident. Subjects are devoid of fear; very systematic in carrying out their assignment. Self-destruct or suicide instructions are layered in at this level.

THETA. Considered to be "psychic" programming. Bloodliners (those coming from multigenerational Satanic families) were determined to exhibit a greater propensity for having telepathic abilities than did non-bloodliners. Due to its evident limitations, however, various forms of electronic mind control systems were developed and introduced, namely, biomedical human telemetry devices (brain implants), directed-energy lasers using microwaves and/or electromagnetics. It is reported these are used in conjunction with highly-advanced computers and sophisticated satellite tracking systems.

OMEGA. A "self-destruct" form of programming, also known as "Code Green." The corresponding behaviors include suicidal tendencies and/or self-mutilation. This program is generally activated when the victim/survivor begins therapy or interrogation and too much memory is being recovered.

GAMMA. Another form of system protection is through "deception" programming, which elicits misinformation and misdirection. This level is intertwined with demonology and tends to regenerate itself at a later time if inappropriately deactivated.

Methods and Components

The initial process begins with creating dissociation within the subject, usually occurring from the time of birth to about six years. This is primarily achieved through the use of electroshock (ECT) and is at times performed even when the child is in the mother's womb. Due to the severe trauma induced through ECT, sexual abuse and other methods, the mind splits off into alternate personalities from the core. Formerly referred to as Multiple Personality Disorder, it is presently recognized as Dissociative Identity Disorder and is the basis for MONARCH programming. Further conditioning of the victim's mind is enhanced through hypnotism, double-bind coercion, pleasure-pain reversals, food, water, sleep and sensory deprivation, along with various drugs which alter certain cerebral functions.

The next stage is to embed and compress detailed commands or messages within the specified alter. This is achieved through the use of hi-tech headsets, in conjunction with computer-driven generators which emit inaudible sound waves or harmonics that affect the RNA covering of neuron pathways to the subconscious and unconscious mind. "Virtual Reality" optical devices are sometimes used simultaneously with the harmonic generators projecting pulsating colored lights, subliminals and split-screen visuals. High voltage electroshock is then used for memory dissolution.

Programming is updated periodically and reinforced through visual, auditory and written mediums. Some of the first programming themes included the Wizard of Oz and Alice and Wonderland, both heavily saturated with occultic symbolism. Many of the recent Disney movies and cartoons are used in a two-fold manner: desensitizing the majority of the population, using subliminals and neuro-linguistic programming, and deliberately constructing specific triggers and keys for base programming of highly-impressionable MONARCH children.

Music plays an instrumental role in programming, through combinations of variable tones, rhythms and words. Frightmeister Stephen King's numerous novels and subsequent movies, are purported by credible sources to be used for such villainous purposes. One of his latest books, Insomnia, features a picture of King with the trigger phrase "WE NEVER SLEEP," (indicative of someone with MPD/ DID) below an all-seeing eye.

[Recent informative mind control related movies: Total Recall; Brainstorm; Long Kiss Goodnight; Johnny Mnemonic; Conspiracy Theory; Mindfield; 12 Monkeys; Barbwire; Fortress; Trancers III; Jacob's Ladder; Videodrome; Circuitry Man; Lawnmower Man; Color of Night; Blade; Enemy of the State; Adventures of Baron Von Munchhausen; and Ninth Configuration. Older movies include: Altered States; Slepford Wives; and the classic Manchurian Candidate.]

Programmers and Places

It's difficult to figure out who the original programmer of this satanic project was, due to the substantial amount of disinformation and cross-contamination propagated by the "powers that be." The two that went by the color-coded name of Dr. Green are a Jewish doctor named Dr. Gruenbaum, who supposedly collaborated with the Nazis during WWII, and Dr. Josef Mengele, whose trademark of cold-blooded and calculating brutality has not only scarred the souls of survivors from Aushwitz, but also a countless number of victims throughout the world. Mengele's direct involvement at the infamous Aushwitz concentration camp was suspiciously downplayed during the Nuremberg Trials, and consequently no intensified effort by the U.S. and its allies was directed toward his capture.[13]

As a means to confuse serious investigators as to his whereabouts, U.S. officials would report Mengele being a non-threatening recluse in Paraguay or Brazil, or that he was simply dead (the "Angel of Death" miraculously must have come back to life at least five different times). His unprecedented research, at the expense of thousands of lives, undoubtedly was a significant bonus to U.S. interests. Besides using the pseudonym of Dr. Green, survivors knew him as Vaterchen (daddy), Schoner Josef (beautiful Joseph), David and Fairchild. A gracefully handsome man of slight stature, Mengele would disarm people with his gentle demeanor, while at other times, he would explode into violent rages.[14]

Other characteristics remembered by survivors were the cadence of his shiny black boots as he paced back and forth and his "I-love-you/I-love-you-not" daisy game. When he pulled off the last daisy petal, he would maliciously torture and kill a small child in front of the other child he was programming. Distraught survivors also recalled being thrown naked into cages with monkeys, who were trained to viciously abuse them. Evidently, Mengele enjoyed reducing people to the level of animals. He also would purposely restrain his victims from crying, screaming, or showing any excessive emotion.

Dr. D. Ewen Cameron, also known as Dr. White, was the former head of the Canadian, American and World Psychiatric Associations. Because of Cameron's extensive experience and credentials, the CIA's Allen Dulles funneled millions of dollars through front organizations like the Society for the Investigation of Human Ecology, which Cameron ruthlessly presided over. Experimentations were conducted at several locations in Montreal, mostly at McGill University, St. Mary's Hospital and Allan Memorial Institute.

Besides the conventional methods of psychiatric tyranny, such as electroshock, drug injections and lobotomies, Cameron conceived the technique of "psychic driving," wherein unsuspecting patients were kept in a drug-induced coma for several weeks and administered a regimen of electroshocks, while electronic helmets were strapped to their heads and repetitive auditory messages were transmitted at variable speeds.[15] Many of those exploited were abused children who had been run through the Roman Catholic orphanage system.

Not surprisingly, Dr. Cameron has been conveniently left out of most psychiatric journals. This may have been, in fact, largely due to Project MKULTRA being publicly exposed in 1970, through lawsuits filed by Canadian survivors and their families. The CIA and Canadian government settled out of court so as not to be required to officially admit to any wrongdoing.

A former U.S. Army Lt. Col. in the DIA's Psychological Warfare Division, Michael Aquino, is the latest in a line of alleged government-sponsored sadists. Aquino, an eccentric genius, founded the Temple of Set, an offshoot of Anton LaVey's Church of Satan. His obsession with Nazi pagan rituals and his hypnotic manipulation of people made him an ideal candidate for the position of "Master Programmer." Aquino was connected with the Presidio Army Base daycare scandal, in which he was accused of child molestation. Much to the dismay of the young victims' parents, all charges were dismissed. [sentence omitted]

Heinrich Mueller was another important programmer who went under the code names "Dr. Blue" or "Gog." He apparently has two sons who have carried on the trade. The original "Dr. Black" was apparently Leo Wheeler, the nephew of deceased General Earle G. Wheeler, who was the commander of the Joint Chiefs of Staff during the Vietnam War. Wheeler's protege, E. Hummel, is active in the Northwest, along with W. Bowers (from the Rothschild-bloodline).

Other alleged master mind manipulators, past and present, are: Dr. Sydney Gottlieb, Lt. Col. John Alexander, Richard Dabney Anderson (USN), Dr. James Monroe, Dr. John Lilly, Lt. Comdr. Thomas Narut, Dr. William Jennings Bryan, Dr. Bernard L. Diamond, Dr. Martin Orne, Dr. Louis J. West, Dr. Robert J. Lifton, Dr. Harris Isbel and Col. Wilson Green.

In order to keep MKULTRA from being easily detected, the CIA segmented its subprojects into specialized fields of research and development at universities, prisons, private laboratories and hospitals. Of course, they were rewarded generously with government grants and miscellaneous funding. The names and locations of some of the major institutions involved in MONARCH programming experimentation were/are: Cornell, Duke, Princeton, UCLA, University of Rochester, MIT, Georgetown University Hospital, Maimonides Medical Center, St Elizabeth's Hospital (Washington, D.C.), Bell Laboratories, Stanford Research Institute, Westinghouse Friendship Laboratories, General Electric, ARCO and Manking Research Unlimited.

The "final product" was/is usually created on military installations and bases, where maximum security is required. Referred to as (re) programming centers or near-death trauma centers, the most heavily identified are: China Lake Naval Weapons Center, The Presidio, Ft. Dietrick, Ft. Campbell, Ft. Lewis, Ft. Hood, Redstone Arsenal, Offutt AFB, Patrick AFB, McClellan AFB, MacGill AFB, Kirkland AFB, Nellis AFB, Homestead AFB, Grissom AFB, Maxwell AFB and Tinker AFB. Other places recognized as major programming sites are Langley Research Center, Los Alamos National Laboratories, Tavistock Institute and areas in or by Mt. Shasta, CA, Lampe, MO and Las Vegas, NV.

Notable Names

One of the first documented cases of a MONARCH secret agent, was that of the voluptuous 1940's model, Candy Jones. The book, The Control of Candy Jones, (Playboy Press) portrays her 12 years of intrigue and suspense as a spy for the CIA. Jones, whose birthname is Jessica Wilcox, apparently fit the physiological profile as to be one of the initial experiments or human guinea pigs under the government's "scientific" project, MKULTRA.

The most publicized case of MONARCH monomania has surfaced through the book TRANCE Formation of America: The True Life Story of a CIA Slave by Cathy O'Brien. On the back cover it emphatically states, "Cathy O'Brien is the only vocal and recovered survivor of the Central Intelligence Agency's Mk-Ultra Project Monarch mind control operation." This documented autobiography contains compelling accounts of O'Brien's years of unrelenting incest and eventual introduction into Project MONARCH by her perverted father. Along with co-author Mark Phillips, her rescuer and deprogrammer, Cathy covers an almost unbelievable array of conspiratorial crime: forced prostitution (white slavery) with those in the upper echelons of world politics, covert assignments as a "drug mule" and courier, and the country-western music industry's relationship with illegal CIA activities.

Paul Bonaci, a courageous survivor who endured almost two decades of degradation under Project MONARCH, has disclosed strong corroborating evidence of widescale crimes and corruption from the municipal/state level all the way up to the White House.[17] He has testified about sexually-abused males selected from Boy's Town in Nebraska and taken to nearby Offutt AFB, where he says they were subjected to intense MONARCH programming, directed mainly by Commander Bill Plemmons and former Lt. Col. Michael Aquino.[18] After thoroughly tormenting the young boys into mindless oblivion, they were used (along with girls) for pornography and prostitution with several of the nation's political and economic power-brokers. Bonaci recalled being transported from the Air Force base via cargo planes to McClelland AFB in California. Along with other unfortunate adolescents and teenagers, he was driven to the elite retreat, Bohemian Grove. The perpetrators took full advantage of these innocent victims, committing unthinkable perversions in order to satisfy their deviant lusts. Some victims were apparently murdered, further traumatizing already terrified and broken children. [The following information is provided by Brice Taylor, at the time of this writing in 1999: Uri Dowbenko wrote an article for Media Bypass magazine (June 1999) where he reports that justice was finally served when a U.S. District Court recently awarded a $1 million settlement to Bonacci, after years of legal aid from his attorney John DeCamp]

An insatiable actress of marginal talent (now deceased), a morally-corrupt TV evangelist, a heralded former Green Beret officer and a popular country-western singer are a few others likely having succumbed to MONARCH madness. Lee Harvey Oswald, Sirhan-Sirhan, Charlie Manson, John Hinckley, Jr., Mark Chapman, David Koresh, Tim McVeigh and John Salvi are some notable names of infamy, strongly suspected of being pawns who were spawned by MKULTRA.

Deprogrammers and Exposers

Dr. Corydon Hammond, a Psychologist from the University of Utah, delivered a stunning lecture entitled "Hypnosis in MPD: Ritual Abuse" at the Fourth Annual Eastern Regional Conference on Abuse and Multiple Personality, June 25, 1992 in Alexandria, Virginia. He essentially confirmed the suspicions of the attentive crowd of mental health professionals, wherein a certain percentage of their clients had undergone mind control programming in an intensively systematic manner. Hammond alluded to the Nazi connection, military and CIA mind control research, Greek letter and color programming and specifically mentioned the "Monarch Project" in relation to a form of [operant] conditioning.

Shortly after his groundbreaking speech, he received death threats. Not wanting to jeopardize the safety of his family, Dr. Hammond stopped disseminating any follow-up information, until recently.

[paragraph omitted in original]

New Orleans therapist Valerie Wolf introduced two of her patients before the President's Committee on Human Radiation Experiments on March 15, 1995 in Washington, DC. The astonishing testimony made by these two brave women included accounts of German doctors, torture, drugs, electroshock, hypnosis and rape, besides being exposed to an undetermined amount of radiation. Both Wolf and her patients stated they recovered the memories of this abuse, without regression or hypnosis techniques.[19] Wolf presently devotes much of her time to counseling such survivors. A former labor attorney for Atlantic Richfield Co., David E. Rosenbaum, conducted a nine-year investigation (1983-1992) concerning allegations of physical torture and coercive conditioning of numerous employees at an ARCO plant in Monaca, PA.[20] His clients, Jerry L. Dotey and Ann White, were victims of apparent radiation exposure; but as Mr. Rosenbaum probed deeper in the subsequent interview sessions, a "Pandora's Box" was unveiled. His most astonishing conclusion was that Jerry Dotey and Ann White were likely the offspring of Adolf Hitler, based in part on the uncanny resemblance from photos (facial features, bone structure and size were taken into consideration). Rosenbaum also states, "They both exhibit feelings and experiences that indicate they are twins." Dotey and White were allegedly subjected to torture of many kinds while under drug-induced hypnosis, with each one undergoing at least three training techniques by plant physicians.

Each victim was trained to enter into a hypnotic state upon the occurrence of specific stimuli, usually involving a "cue" word or phrase and trained to "remember to forget" what transpired in the hypnotic state. They were repeatedly subjected to identical stimulus-response sequences to produce nearly automatic reactions to the particular status. MKULTRA veterans Dr. Bernard Diamond, Dr. Martin Orne and Dr. Josef Mengele regularly visited the ARCO plant, according to Rosenbaum. The special conditioning of Dotey and White was intended for the artificial creation of dual German personalities. Rosenbaum, who is Jewish, has maintained a deep friendship with the two, despite the seemingly precarious circumstances.

Other renowned therapists involved in deprogramming are Cynthia Byrtus, Pamela Monday, Steve Ogilvie, Bennett Braun, Jerry Mungadze and Colin Ross. Some Christian counselors have been able to eliminate parts of the programming with limited success. Journalists who have recently expounded on the subject matter in exemplary fashion are Walter Bowart: Operation Mind Control, Jon Rappoport: US. Government Mind-Control Experiments on Children, and Alex Constantine: Psychic

Dictatorship in the USA [and Virtual Government, plus author/researchers Alan Scheflin & Edward Opton, Jr.: The Mind Manipulators, Harvey Weinstein, M.D.: Psychiatry and the CIA: Victims of Mind Control, and Jim Keith: Mind Control, World Control and his latest book Mass Control: Engineering Human Consciousness.]

Conclusion

The most incriminating statement to date made by a government official as to the possible existence of Project MONARCH was extracted by Anton Chaitkin, a writer for the publication, The New Federalist. When former CIA Director William Colby was asked directly, "What about monarch?" he replied angrily and ambiguously, "We stopped that between the late 1960's and the early 1970's." Suffice to say that society, in its apparent state of cognitive dissonance, is generally in denial of the overwhelming evidence of this multifarious conspiracy. Numerous victims/survivors of Project MONARCH are in desperate need of help. However, the great majority of people are too preoccupied with themselves to show any genuine compassion toward these severely wounded individuals. Apathy has taken over the minds of the masses, who choose to exist within the comforts of this world. Reality has thus become obscured by relativism and selfishness.

Although there has been some progress in deprogramming and reintegrating therapies, a much greater problem needs to be rectified. The Holy Bible addresses this problem as the fragmentation of the soul (Ezekiel 13:20). A spiritual restoration is what is truly needed (Psalm 23:3) ... [sentence omitted]

[paragraph omitted in original]

Statistically, the road to recovery for these survivors of unimaginable depravity is a long and tedious one, but God is the ultimate healer and only within his time, through His strength and by His grace, can the captives be set free (Isaiah 61:1).

MANUFACTURING THE MIND CONTROLLED SLAVE

"If the child has survived the initial trials, and if they also prove intelligent but malleable, then if the programming goes right, a very, very small infant that has been conditioned from day one is a powerful weapon, because if you get a mind that early, as anyone knows, you can, 9 times out of 10, I would say, determine the general behaviors of that child and the adult that they will become."
-- Gloria"-- A former patient, and mind control subject

My first experience with a patient who had been involved in mind control experimentation began when "Gloria" initially called me, looking for a therapist who accepted Medicare insurance. She said she had been sexually abused as a child and had been in therapy periodically for a number of years. I was not a Medicare provider, but agreed to see her temporarily while she looked for someone else. On the day of our first appointment, I walked into the waiting room to greet her and asked for "Gloria."

A woman looked up from a corner, and slowly, shyly, with head lowered and eyes looking up, shuffled toward me. In a child-like voice, she held both of hands together tightly, hunched her shoulders and said, with a sweet smile, "Gloria asked me to come; I'm Sally." She then twirled on her toes and pointed to a plant on the table, saying again in a child-like voice, "That sure is pretty!" Puzzled, I smiled and asked her to follow me to my office. During the course of that one hour, 4 different personalities, with different ages and genders, presented themselves to me. We would be talking about some topic, and suddenly, a switch would occur, and someone else's voice, mannerisms, and way of sitting and speaking would present. It was as though 4 different people were in my room, although all were housed in the same body! Although I had heard of Multiple Personality Disorder, or MPD, before, I had never seen it, and had been told in graduate school that it was very rare. I remember thinking after Gloria left, that if she were faking it (as patients are often accused of doing by clinicians who don't understand) she would have to have the mimicking abilities of a Billy Crystal, and the acting abilities of a Meryl Streep, to consistently stay in character for each of these personalities! For, before we were through, I had met 27 'inside people' (also referred to as alters) within Gloria, and learned about the names and roles of literally hundreds more!

Since that introduction to MPD (now known as DID, or Dissociative Identity Disorder), I have worked with dozens of patients with that diagnosis, and have consulted with other clinicians and their patients so often, I have lost count. These patients have taught me so very much about the human mind, and have challenged me to learn about topics I have never thought to explore. In my efforts to convince myself, "surely what these people are saying cannot be true," I have researched and studied both scientific and popular literature in a variety of fields, and have time and again, come to the conclusion that what they are reporting could, indeed, be true. The historical background, technology, methodology, motivation, funding, and opportunity are all in place. My task now is to help others understand and believe.

I'd like to define some terms that you will hear when learning about people with "multiple personalities." Dissociation is a key term that refers to the ability of the mind to "cut off" a part of itself from conscious awareness. An everyday example of this ability, which we all have in varying degrees, is the experience of driving down the freeway and missing the exit you take everyday because you are thinking about something else. You "come to" an exit or two later and realize you have missed your exit, even noticing that you "saw" the exit sign but it didn't "register" within you to take it! Part of your mind was dissociated, or separated from, the real world around you while you focused on internal thoughts. Another example is reading every word on a page in a book, then realizing you had not comprehended a single word, because you were thinking of something else. All of us have had these experiences.

This ability of the mind to detach from itself is a brilliant coping mechanism that the mind uses in situations of extreme threat as a way to protect itself from the full awareness of a traumatic situation. You may recall reading about Vietnam veterans, who had amnesia for their war experiences, but would have difficulty coping with life. They would feel detached or estranged from others; they would have difficulty feeling any kind of feelings, except for outbursts of anger; they would have difficulty concentrating, would feel anxious and on edge without knowing why, and would have an exaggerated startle response (over-responsive to stimuli). These are all characteristics of the diagnosis "Post Traumatic Stress Disorder" or PTSD. In addition, these veterans would have sudden memories of the horrors of war. These memories would be "triggered" by something that reminded their unconscious mind of the war experience (for example, the sound of a car backfiring, reminding them of gunfire). In these sudden memories, they felt as if they were actually re-living the experience, smelling, tasting, feeling, hearing and seeing in vivid detail everything they went through during an actual battle. These memories, complete with all the sensory memories, are called flashbacks. During those flashbacks, the veteran would be out of touch with the reality around them; they would no longer know it was 1985 and they were in America; they would think it was 1968, and they were in the jungle, reliving a particular battle. They were totally dissociated from reality, and were reliving a past reality that was now only in their minds. Later, in processing these experiences, the soldiers would report that during the actual battle, they would feel very detached, even numb, from what was happening, even though they may have been wounded themselves. At times, they reported feeling as though they were standing outside of themselves, observing themselves going through the trauma of the battle, but not feeling anything. They were dissociated from their reality. But their brain was recording all of the experience, exactly as it occurred, and those "mind and body" memories were being re-experienced during a flashback.

When someone is exposed to a "psychologically distressing event that is outside the range of usual human experience ... is usually experienced with intense fear, terror, and helplessness," (DSM III) then dissociation usually occurs as a way for the mind to process the event without overwhelming the person. Parts of the experience (either knowledge of what happened; the emotional feelings associated with the event; the sensory experiences of the event, or the behaviors expressed during the event) become separated from one's conscious awareness. The more frequent the trauma, the more dissociation occurs. This phenomenon is why children who have been severely sexually abused and tortured, are amnesic for those events. In a landmark university study by Linda Williams hundreds of children brought into a hospital emergency room who received medical confirmation of sexual abuse, were contacted at intervals throughout a 20-year period. Only one-third of these children, when reaching adulthood, retained conscious memories of the sexual abuse -- all others had repressed, or dissociated, those awful memories. Such is the power of the mind to block out painful experiences.

During times of torture and extreme physical and emotional pain, the mind is in an altered state, as it dissociates itself from reality. But there are other ways to alter the mindstate, for example, by sensory deprivation, or meditation, whereby one focuses internally, with sensory stimulation from the outside minimized or eliminated. You may recall in the 1980's that "float tanks" were popular. In a float tank you are floating on very heavily salted water; you are enclosed in a totally darkened metal tank, and you float for an hour without any sensory stimulation. Many people felt claustrophobic, and couldn't take it. But if you could stand it, you would eventually report having an euphoric experience. If you had been hooked up to a brain wave machine (EEG), your brain would no longer be producing beta waves (the brain state associated with usual waking activity). Instead you would be in a theta state, the state associated with deep relaxation, as when you are just about ready to fall asleep (the twilight state). In this state, the brain produces lots of endorphins, the body's natural "feel good" chemicals that give you a profound sense of well-being. It is important to note that this twilight state is associated with the ability to rapidly absorb and learn information. Without the "filtering" mechanism of the conscious waking mind, information seen or heard "pours" into the subconscious mind. Biofeedback expert Thomas Budzynski of the University of Colorado Medical Center reports, "We take advantage of the fact that the twilight state, between waking and sleep, has these properties of uncritical acceptance of verbal material, or almost any material it can process; it is in such "altered" states of consciousness that a lot of work gets done very quickly." (For much more information about brain research and technology associated with producing altered states, read the fascinating book Mega Brain, by Michael Hutchison.) Other methods used to alter brainwave states include, but are not limited to, rapidly flashing lights, drugs, phased sound waves, negative ions (electromagnetic energy fields), electroshock, alterations in gravity in the cerebellum (spinning), microwave emitters, and lasers.

It is vitally important to understand about dissociation, because in learning about how someone's mind can actually be controlled by someone else, you must understand how it is possible to program the human mind as you would a computer. "Programming" is a fairly recent term in the history of mind control (and is of course associated with computer technology). Perhaps you'd recognize it better as "brainwashing." In the POW camps, captors would refer to "freezing," a term used to destroy the person's identity. Using food and sleep deprivation, isolation, torture, chronic assault on a person's values, and instilling total dependence on the captor's for survival, a person's whole sense of self would be destroyed. They would be totally helpless, broken, with no will of their own left. They would then be ready for the "brainwashing," or "refreezing" whereby a new value system and a new identity would be put in through reward and punishment, conditioning or "programming" that person to believe or do only what the captors wanted them to believe or do. (For more information on brainwashing, including USA and Canadian government experimentation, read: Brain Control by Eliot Vallenstein; Deep Self by John C. Lilly; Inside the Black Room by Jack Vernon; In Search of the Manchurian Candidate by John Marks; Journey Into Madness by Gordon Thomas; I Swear by Apollo -- author unknown -- published by Canadian publisher.)

Just as it is possible to break down a person in order to create someone you can control (by getting them to do anything you want them to do), so it is possible to program a part of a person's mind (a dissociated part that is split off, by trauma or other means, from connection with reality). You can "teach" that part of the mind to do what you want it to do without the part of the mind that is conscious and aware knowing what's going on. Hence, people with multiple personalities report that they "lose time," whereby they don't remember where they have been or what they have been doing. Here is how a patient, repeatedly sadistically sexually abused as a child, explains it:

> "Dissociation is a way of escaping the intolerable. I'm sure it happened first during the trauma itself, and was a sanity-saving way of dealing with overwhelming physical pain as well as the psychological pain of betrayal. For me it took the form of physical numbness and cold, and to this day, when I dissociate, I most often go numb. First my hands and feet go; I can't feel them, and if my eyes are closed, I have no sense of where they are in space. Then the numbness in my face starts. I can't feel my lips or cheeks. When I dissociate badly, the whole body goes and I feel and move like a block of wood... Worse than the physical dissociation is what happens mentally while the physical numbness is in place. I guess the only thing I can say in comparison is that it's the mental equivalent of white noise, or radio static, that can leave me blank-faced and staring into space. The thoughts that are there whip through at the speed of light with no coherence, organization or form. I get very confused. It can range from being a little vague and spacey to full white out where I don't see or hear much. This is really dangerous if I am driving. There have been some episodes where I don't remember getting someplace. I also sometimes just "clock out" and lose time. When I come back to myself I may not be immediately conscious that I've lost hours." – Penny

During that "dissociated" time, when she "clocks out," what is going on? Another part of the mind has taken over; in Penny's case, another personality is "in charge of" the body. This personality (or alter) interacts with others and carries out certain tasks, but when Penny "comes to" she has no knowledge of this other part of the self. As her therapist, I have talked to this other "person" inside (the person is really only a part of her mind) and I know the personality characteristics of this person. I know that this part of Penny responds to the name "Diane," she is outspoken and can get angry if challenged (as opposed to Penny, who is meek and allows others to tell her what to do). Diane also has a peculiar way of tilting her head, almost in a flirty, cocky manner, something I have never seen Penny do, as she is much more rigid and controlled, both in posture and feelings.

How do these dissociated parts get created? And how did "Diane" come to be? And why? To answer these questions, I will let a programmer herself tell you. This person was used from infancy in the United States Government mind control experiments, and her job as a youth and adult was to "split off" parts of others' minds in order to program those parts to do what the experimenters wanted them to do. By programming, I mean that the human, in a dissociated or altered mind state, has been systematically and deliberately taught lessons, attitudes, beliefs, behaviors and responses to specific cues ("triggers") so as to respond on command in ways that benefit the person/groups doing the programming. Just as Ivan Pavlov's dogs were taught to salivate to the sound of a bell, in anticipation of the meat that was delivered soon after, so human beings can be taught to respond in infinite ways to cues in their environment that "trigger" responses. Assume that first, the child has been exposed to torture and hideous psychological and physical abuse to the extent that the child has learned to dissociate into altered states of mind. (Remember as well that current electronic technology -- as mentioned in Mega Brain -- makes torturing children obsolete, in that trauma is no longer necessary to access altered brain states -- thus, programming people is much "cleaner" and easier to do.) Here's how they do the programming:

Techniques on 'Creating' New Children

"Daub fingertip size glob of vaseline or K-Y jelly on pressure points -- wrists, inner elbows, behind knees, under ears. Take ends of 2 wires (black and red are easiest, negative/positive easier identified) with metal attachments (round, copper, holes in center) and tape with surgical tape on top of vaseline. Calibration - watch for muscular reactions, eye glazing, sweating, involuntary loss of bladder control, bowel control. Want to give enough of a current w/o being too much. Want child to remain alert. Words, codes given. Assignments given. 'Yes, one finger; No, raise two; Confused -- raise right hand.' Clarify instructions. If still confusion, time to stop, take a break. Do not allow any contact between patient and others until cycle is completed. Do not, under any circumstances, offer juices, snacks, etc. which could be construed as a 'reward' until the cycle is completed. Check carotid pulse for significant elevation in blood pressure. Do not wish to affect a heart attack. Heart attacks can occur in children. (Children are outfitted with diapers before the sessions begin, are also taken to the bathroom beforehand. Keeps down unnecessary interruptions). Keep voice on same level at ALL times. Not hurried, not raised or lowered. Same pace at all times. Droning, hypnotic effect. Helps to stabilize heart rate.

"When instructions given to child, and received, then and only then give reward of name for identification purposes. Code phrases -- 'well done,' 'very good,' or 'you did real good.' Avoid hugs, touch, any other forms of physical contact. Eye contact necessary, stabilizing. Allow alter-state to form place of safety within, encourage alter to describe internal surroundings. (All is taped, voice-activated, recorded later in the computer records for others to refer to).

"One response is 'I want my mommy.' Necessary to remind child that, 1) 'Mommy is dead,' 2) 'Mommy brought you here' (only use if true), 3) 'Mommy is right outside -- you can see her as soon as you've finished,' or 4) 'Mommy told me to tell you to be a good boy/girl.' Room is kept low lighted for maximum effect. They prefer only one person (interventionist) to be with the child. Less distractions. They also prefer it to be a person the child will not be able to ID on a day-to-day basis in 'outside' regular activities.

"Sessions can vary greatly, depending on the time allowance, expense allowance, urgency, etc. Occasionally exceptions are made for disciplinary measures. May (in that case) be an all-nighter. Keeping the room dark also helps simulate nighttime, which is conducive to their 'rehabilitation.'

"The children are taught responses according to Pavlov's theories -- inpracticum. This basically involves uses of 'triggers' usually found in the subject's natural, normal home-based environment.

"Audiological: Grandfather clocks, church chimes set for certain hours of the day/night are the most preferred. Long-running TV programs are effective on short-time bases (due to the fact that they may change times, etc.). Dogs that bark at certain times of night are also effective; revving of an engine; car door opening and shutting; footsteps outside bedroom window. Preferable to use natural sights and sounds due to need not to arouse suspicions of any household members not actively involved.

"Visual: Phases of the moon, clock-faces (preferably digital for younger children), lights in most neighbors' houses turning off, moon rays coming through window in darkness of night (full moon), and fireflies can be very effective and seemingly harmless trigger.

"Other: nursery rhymes, flags, date on a calendar, religious holidays, hand signals, words, phrases, eye winks; virtually anything can be used as a trigger.

"Step #1 is invasion, step #2 is intervention. Once the first plateau of the cyclic invasionary process is completed, the child will be 'tested' -- again in-office, using a number of visual/audiological sight/sound external invasion techniques to record the level of response of the subject (nicknamed 'knee-jerk' response). This can be a valuable tool in assessing the cost-and-time-effectiveness of this particular technique on this particular subject. Those children who respond more spontaneously are considered to be higher-value prospects for future experimentation." -- Janus (the programming alter's name)

Are you beginning to understand how scientific principles and techniques are used to program people? Here's more from "Janus":

> "I personally was assigned 12 babies as an older child. I was about 7 or 8 when I was first introduced to them all in a room. They were all children of families. So they were long-term projects. I programmed other children, too. I was found to have a knack for trouble-shooting -- figuring how what went 'haywire' and 'reprogramming' them. I didn't try to memorize the systems. That wasn't my job. My job was to CREATE alter personalities. There were other people who were more trained in the specific skills of teaching the alters specific jobs. Once an alter was created, and trained to come out in response to a trigger, then they had to learn their jobs. Sometimes I would visit different locations and help train others how to train the children."

Recall how I told you that technology is available that allows massive amount of learning in an altered state to occur? Patients have drawn pictures of and described in detail very sophisticated electronic equipment used in programming. When I first discovered the book Mega Brain, I was astonished to see some of the very machines that my patients had described, years before the book was published. Similarly, patients had described virtual reality machines used in training alters (dissociated parts) long before that technology was presented to the public. And even before machines were used in programming, enough was known through secret experimentation on human beings, that experimenters knew humans were capable of memorizing enormous amounts of information when in an altered state. In that theta brainwave state, we have access to an "inner encyclopedia" of all that we have ever learned or experienced. Thus when patients tell us of their "photographic memories" and are able to recite verbatim seemingly endless scripts, it is a phenomenon that is very real and very understandable, if you can know how the brain works.

This knowledge will also help you understand how programmers use audio and videotapes and movies to confuse people as to what is reality and what is not. In an altered state, people are forced to watch movies and listen to tapes that form what are called "screen memories" that hide or distort the memories of what actually happened to the person. If a person does begin to recall memories of abuse, or memories of information that is supposed to be buried so deeply in the unconscious that it never reaches conscious awareness (such as knowledge of abusers, the particulars of how people are programmed and abused, or top secret information ferried to others), then the screen memories (also known as "scramble programs") pop up. When someone begins to tell tales that others recognize as the plot of a movie or television show (I heard the "plots" of the X-files from patients long before the television show existed!), they can be discredited and not believed as others say "oh, she's just seen the movie and is remembering that."

If any of the readers are still doubtful about whether mind control really exists, I invite you to read the public transcripts of the hearing by the Senate Committee on Radiation Experiments that was held on April 15, 1997. On that date, Valerie Wolfe (a therapist from New Orleans) and her patient testified before the Senate committee about the mind control experiments that are still being conducted in our country. They were allowed to testify because, even though they were reporting mind control, rather than radiation experimentation, the high-level people named as conducting the experiments were many of the same names that had been exposed as doing the radiation experiments. When they finished testifying, Valerie reports, "you could hear a pin drop." It was not in the mandate of that committee to investigate the mind control experimentation; but the Committee did formally issue a request to the President that a thorough investigation be conducted. The transcript of this hearing is riveting; no one can tell the story more convincingly that those who have been through it. As you read Sue Ford's story, keep in mind these things that I have written. Know that thousands of people have come forth with information about these abuses.

"If people truly want to combat this phenomenon, it must be brought out into the public; it must be brought out into the light of day, and it must be done so very publicly so as to protect the people coming forth. It cannot be combated just on a national level, because it is international in nature. Governments work in collusion with other governments throughout the world; people who want power work in collusion with others; they use each other to gain social, economic and political power." -- Dr. Green (a programming alter)

AWAKENING TO THE REALITIES OF MIND CONTROL

I was born in the Land of Lincoln, following the war to end all wars, in 1947. It was a time of new hope, and as a baby boomer born to a family of educators, I was taught to believe in God, motherhood, apple-pie and the red, white, and blue: America was beautiful. I was raised in a conservative, traditional home, the second oldest child in a family of seven children. We practiced the Catholic Faith by tradition, and we children attended the local parochial school when one was available. There was no physical or sexual abuse in my childhood, so of course I was unaware of its existence. Because the media had not yet begun to play out the truth of such things, I actually reached late adolescence secure in the knowledge that the world was a very safe place in which to be.

I met the man of my dreams as a senior in college, and we married after graduation. I look back over those years and I marvel at the simplicity of our life then. There was nothing to fear, except of course the threat of some awful communist country again trying to mess with the United States. I truly lived my life believing in our government. In 1985 I began to realize that a new career might be in the making, as I saw my children growing into their own and myself responding more and more to requests for help by various troubled people. I decided to go back to school and get a Masters in Social Work.

During my undergraduate work, a professor discussed incest briefly, and then with some disdain, assured us that we would probably never see such a thing, since it only occurred in the "Hills of Kentucky." I believed him. The idea of such a horrible thing happening to another human being never crossed my mind again for many years. During my masters program, I again received no information about sexual abuse, or for that matter, any other abuse. I did not learn about addictions. I learned about research, and how to do it. That is an over-simplification of my experience, but suffice it to say, it did not prepare me for what I was to learn in the field of social work as I came to know it.

I was assigned an internship as a unit social worker in a freestanding psychiatric hospital. Thus began my real education. In October of that year, I experienced a poignant moment, branded in my mind. One of the nurses on the unit was commenting on the unusually high number of sexual abuse cases we had on the unit, when another nurse commented, "Oh, didn't you know this is borderline season?" I was shocked to hear such a statement, but it was a long time before I understood the full implications of that remark.

Following my internship, I was then employed as the unit social worker at this hospital. It was here that I began to hear bizarre stories of satanic ritual abuse from several of the patients. We also saw several cases of self-mutilation, something I sincerely did not know ever happened, much less in such massive numbers. Cutting, burning, using acid to burn the skin, even one patient who purposely put a screw in her leg and let it get infected. This was all new to me. I didn't know what to make of the ritual abuse stories; they were extremely serious in nature, and beyond my ability to believe. I had never heard of such a thing, and yet, hearing the same type of thing over and over from so many different patients, confused me. Something was most certainly not right, but I still had no idea what was really going on.

As I began my private practice, I began to hear more and more stories related to horrible, ritualistic, disgusting abuse. One particular case was most disturbing. This person was most articulate about what had happened to her. Her childhood saga would be food for Stephen King. I was still confused and concerned about how I could be hearing so many similar things from such a diverse population of people.

My belief system did not include even the possibility of such trauma, and yet the possibility that it might be true started to seep into my mind. Over a period of a year and a half, I had three different clients draw pictures for me, talk to me, and cry to me about the horrors of what happened to them while visiting Disney World. They all three drew pictures, explained details and were horrified at what they had endured at the most wonderful of rides "It's a Small World." This was my family's favorite ride, in fact we so enjoyed Disney World, we had taken our children two years in a row when they were younger. So, indeed I was shocked, and scared when I began to hear such things that were so similar, from people that did not know each other. Better yet, I was still extremely skeptical. I did not want to believe that it was possible. I did not want to give up my dream world. I did not want to change my way of thinking.

I acquired Brice Taylor's first book, STARSHINE: One Woman's Valiant Escape From Mind Control, at a conference where she was speaking. As I began to read her story, I actually felt sick, because so much of what she was describing in the book was so similar to what I was hearing from others. A client I had could have written the book, and yet, I knew this client had told me her story several years before the publishing of STARSHINE. Still, none of this made any sense to me, as the idea of mind control was still a very far-fetched concept in my mind. I contacted Brice, who told me her real name was Sue Ford, and she and this client made contact, only to discover that they knew a lot of the same people, experienced a lot of the same programming, and endured their own private holocaust. My skepticism was eroded by this time, as I personally witnessed the sharing of this misery.

Although I had to completely alter my life concepts, my belief system, and my purpose in doing my work, I knew I had no choice but to stand beside these courageous people who had lived such lives of horror, and to help them to have hope. The mind control concept made more sense to me than just the ritual abuse alone. I now know that the ritual abuse was just a means to an end.

As I continue to honor these survivors with my belief, I learn more and more about the evil that surrounds us, and the determination of that evil to succeed. It is with the same fervor that my husband and I persevere. No one can change my mind. I know too much now, I have seen too much now, and my only hope is that others of you that read this book will believe her truth and help stop this living nightmare.

I have concluded that the success of the programming depends on the triumph of the assault on the five senses. The programmers use sight, hearing, touch, smell, and taste to alter a child's perceptions. The method used works on the principle of operant conditioning. For example, tones paired with electroshock, in turn wires the commands about these things into the hard drive of the child's mind, in order to control them. Programmers very cleverly use common things and ideas to guarantee that a child will be sure to encounter these things throughout their lifetime, thus assuring control.

The telephone is an example of such programming. A programmed person under mind control is extremely tuned into the telephone. The tones are important, as well as the number of times a phone rings. It is extremely hard for a recovering person to let a phone ring, and often just the ring alone can trigger a panic-attack. The tones played in the act of dialing the telephone can serve as a trigger to mind controlled victims and can be extremely troubling to programmed people. Things that other people take for granted as just a helpful tool, play a frighteningly scary role in the lives of those who were tortured with mind-control.

Certain themes have surfaced throughout the years, which to this day continue to amaze me as I hear them over and over. The Disney Parks, MGM Studios, Disney Movies, Disney characters, and Disney songs have been used in conjunction with the programming. My understanding of this is that using such a familiar and popular theme assures that the program will be triggered easily. To anyone who is a Disney fan (and who is not), this is probably one of the hardest things to believe. However, sitting where I sit, hearing what I hear, and seeing what I see, I cannot refute this truth anymore.

Certain animals are used in the programming. Dolphins are a common program. Birds are also used to ensure the silence of the programmed person. The child is told that birds can hear what they do, and if they tell, the bird will fly back and tell on them. There is a constant fear of going to jail, as well. One of the ways this is instilled, is the child is forced into participating in some diabolical, criminal act, and then the child is told they are an accomplice. Thus, if they ever tell, they too will go to jail.

Monarch butterflies are also used for programming. There is what is known as the "Monarch Project." Again, I don't purport to understand all of this, I just know that being obsessed with Monarch butterflies is one thing in one client, but to have it reported over and over again becomes suspect.

The programmed people I have worked with seem to have an obsession with their own birthdays. Once in recovery, unless the suicide programs are disconnected, the desire to kill themselves as they remember their past is overwhelming, especially around the time of their birthday, and this has proven true with each individual I see.

Sleep is also an issue with programmed people. They rarely sleep for more than a few hours at a time, or they have bouts where all they want to do is sleep. There are sleep programs, designed to shut down the mind if it starts to remember. This is a serious problem for recovering people, and one that is often written off as mere depression. This is another ploy of the programming; almost any one of the symptoms taken out of context could be attributed to another cause. All this is very cleverly orchestrated.

There is programming associated with childhood games such as the game of LIFE. Played over and over again it is a way of instilling the idea of how their life is to be played out. Grow up, get a job, make babies, make money, live happily ever after, so simple, clean, and coy. Another game reported to me, over and over again is the game "No Place to Run, No Place to Hide." This game was actually physically acted out during the programming. The child was made to run and hide, and then was tracked down and punished. The result being, the child learns they can never get away from this horror.

Certain television programs and actors have also been a source of programming for the mind-controlled person. Over and over again I hear the same programs being mentioned, that they were forced to watch as children, and often feel compelled to watch in rerun form. Certainly I know that we all have our childhood favorites, but the obsession that I have witnessed over certain theme songs, shows, and even entertainers goes well beyond the norm. Using music as a form of mind control is insidious. Our minds are like steel traps for words of songs we hear as children and thus will trigger us immediately. For the purpose of mind control, hearing a certain song can send a recovering mind-controlled victim into sheer panic. Two particular shows seem to be universally known to the recovering people I have seen: THE WIZARD OF OZ and IT'S A GOOD LIFE. The phrase "follow the yellow brick road" is a program used to trigger someone into doing whatever he or she is told to do.

Food is reported to me constantly as a trigger for many of the mind-control survivors. Oreo cookies are a big trigger, as well as M&M candies. My experience has been that if a mind-controlled person is asked how they eat M&M's, they will answer with clarity as to the exact way they do so. It might be by color, it might be by color sequence, it might be not eating a certain color; but there will be a pattern that must not be altered. If asked to do so, they will often be visibly shaken by the request. Ask a non-programmed person how they eat them, and they might say "by the handful," "I don't like them," or just say that it's a silly question.

Probably the most disturbing food I find universally reported to be programming is McDonald's french fries. I know there is always some kind of taste war going on among the fast food giants as to who has the best fries, but it is not O.K. if a person feels compelled to eat McDonald's fries daily. The urge to do so is so strong, that several people have reported that this is their little secret. It embarrasses them, because they don't understand the overwhelming urge to eat them. I also know about food addictions, but that doesn't fit for so many of these people.

The one program that has been a universal theme in all of the people that I have worked with over the past 10 years is their abject fear of going to hell for lying. This is a particularly clever ploy on the part of the programmers, because if indeed a person actually has the courage to begin to heal from this horror, and start revealing to someone, they are instantly paralyzed with fear. The ultimate insult to their truth is that they have been told that if they believe anything really happened to them, and tell, it will be a lie. It is a "Catch 22" designed to keep the silence.

Thank God a few brave souls have reached beyond that fear and into the light of truth. This truth has set them free. For many of the people I know who were programmed as children, this truth is now their reality. Like Sue Ford, they no longer have repressed the horror, but instead can recall it. Not unlike the survivors of the Holocaust, these courageous people have overcome their own private war, to conquer Evil in it's finest hour. To those who don't or won't believe what I know to be true, I pray for you to see the truth, to help those in need, and to stop the evil from spreading any further. Healing is possible, and is happening. Once the healing begins, the people can reach out to others that need healing. We need to light the "candle of hope" for these precious people, and pass on the "light of truth."

AUTHOR'S INTRODUCTION

Who with conscience could read the following autobiographical account and, in the name of freedom, justice and love, brush aside the misuse of power, human slavery and mind control described in this book? For it is true that we have still not rid the world of slavery and in this generation it is slavery born of a most malevolent and menacing type. In a society where competition for wealth, power, and control of others is foremost, we as a people are doomed to self-destruction, unless we change. Our values need to change. We need to help our children grow to believe in equality and justice, and they need to be taught the spiritual values that we as a society have come to disregard over the decades.

Our country is a young 200 years old. At the conclusion of the adoption of our Constitution. Benjamin Franklin was asked, "What have you wrought?"
In his own words he answered, "A Republic, if you can keep it."

It has been through my life experience that I see the need to take a serious look at how we have so dangerously strayed not only from the ideals set forth in our Constitution, but also from our fundamental God-given spiritual values. I know that for my sons, daughter, myself, my ex-husband, and countless other men, women, and children, who at this time are unable to speak for themselves, the following amendment to the Constitution has been violated. It reads:

> Section 1. Neither slavery, nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for Crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist Within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

My children and I have never consciously committed a crime. WE HAVE NEVER HAD THE CHANCE TO LIVE OUR LIVES IN FREEDOM. Instead we have been put into a hidden bondage by a heinous form of slavery -- one far more evil than has been in existence in our society before. The magnitude of horror and the level of secrecy that shrouds it has allowed a level of atrocities against mankind to exist that surpasses even those in Nazi Germany under the leadership of Adolph Hitler; and those men who worked in his concentration camps have carried his legacy to our country. Whatever term one wants to put to this hideous activity, it is one of total and complete disregard for humanity, for human freedom, civil rights and the right to live safely on this planet. For, when we as a people allow certain individuals in our society to experiment with and enslave other individuals for the so-called 'advancement of technology' or the 'race toward world domination,' we are doomed.

What most of you have not been allowed to know is that years ago, at the outset of the Cold War (if not before), permission was given to a hidden group of so-called "professionals and leaders" to experiment on the unsuspecting American populace in an effort to further a variety of advanced technology. The technology gleaned by the American leaders, medical professionals, and scientists was and still is in the form of genetic engineering, mind control, brain research, near death experimentation, paranormal/psychic experimentation, remote viewing, time and space travel, bioelectromagnetic frequency medicine, and other advanced research that make our current level of technological understanding and application antiquated. I am not suggesting that the technology was not, in certain projects, valuable; however, I am stating that it was often attained by the American government at the expense of American lives, as many of its citizens were experimented on without their knowledge or consent.

Many books have been written describing innocent peoples' firsthand accounts of various forms of ritual abuse, unauthorized and non-consensual medical experimentation, genetic experimentation, radiation experimentation, drug experimentation and mind control. And yet, these numerous first-hand accounts of extremely violated human rights have been cast aside and denied, even by our own FBI, CIA and government. Why, you ask? I believe the following information, gathered by my personal involvement as Henry Kissinger's personal 'mind file,' will help you understand the situation we face and what has occurred. Morally I feel it is my responsibility to share with you what I witnessed as I walked among those participating in these projects. After I have shared with you what I experienced, it will be your responsibility to choose what you do with this information. And I will finally be able to rest, knowing I have done my duty, first to God and then to you, my fellow citizens, by sharing the truth of my experiences so that you can be informed as to what has occurred, to your detriment and at your expense, but without your knowledge or permission.

People often ask me if I'm afraid that my controllers might kill me. Honestly, I have had so many near-death experiences that I am familiar with dying. Death is not at all frightening to me. My life has been restored through Divine intervention countless times and I trust that when God is ready for me to leave this world, I will go, and I won't go until that Divine timing is completed. What is frightening is living without doing something to alert people to the invisible danger and loss of rights and freedoms that are before us. Some things are so precious and sacred that to violate them is worse than death. Specifically, I am referring to the sacred nature of our minds and spirits and the Divine core bond that goes between a mother and a child. The pain and suffering that results from the destruction of this bond, due to a life of torture and mind control intended to intentionally shatter this bond and other family relationships, in order to establish control, is so excruciatingly painful that I will do anything necessary in the service of stopping it from happening in future generations.

A few years ago, after I spoke at a Surveillance Expo in Washington, D.C., an intelligence officer approached me and asked me how I managed to stay alive. I explained to him that I sent documentation of my recollected experiences out to professionals who were vocal in regard to these issues, with a letter stating that if anything happened to me, my children, or my ex-husband, I gave them permission to more widely distribute my information. This officer laughed and said, "Little lady, I believe you have the CIA by the balls! They are probably having to protect you." Although I am still alive, the harassment that I will share with you later hasn't stopped.

I submit this information to you as respectfully as I can. I apologize for the apparent lewdness of some of the material, and yet this is how it happened, this is what occurred. Please forgive the nature of the writing, or how I need to present it, often in it's original context, the way it was experienced by the many parts of me. What you read is a glimpse into the events as experienced through the eyes of the programmed personalities who endured this abuse. You may notice the different perceptions of different personalities at varying ages, and some of the values, or lack of them that they were taught. Much of the following information has been copied, often verbatim, from my private journals. Over the years, daily, I painstakingly documented my memories, in an attempt to deal with and sort out the often vivid, though confusing, memory flashbacks I had. What I remembered was so far from the reality I thought I had lived, that it was deeply disturbing.

What you are about to read is a composite of years of memory work describing the details and information as I worked to untangle the knot. Having been programmed to have a perfect photographic memory greatly aided me toward this enhanced, often meticulously detailed account. The training my controllers gave me backfired on them. Once my secret life began leaking into my conscious mind, I experienced so many intrusive flashbacks not only in my mind but also in my body, that it forced me to recall these experiences in extensive detail to the point that it disrupted my everyday functioning ... so much so, that I was forced to leave my master's degree program in graduate school and enroll in daily therapy. In an attempt to understand and contain all the information that came flooding back to my mind, I was compelled for years to write out each and every memory the way I saw it in my mind's eye, and heard, smelled, and felt it in my body, so I could attempt to maintain some semblance of my own personal reality. This information, chronicled in my journals over the last 14 years, beginning in 1985, created a way for me to report to you what happened to me.

Desperately, I struggled and worked diligently over the years to pull myself together in an attempt to help my children, my husband, and myself. Looking back, I felt like a person with no arms or legs attempting to run an Olympic marathon. My body was able but I didn't have the use of my mind, which was shattered into a thousand pieces and further locked away from me in a programmed bondage. Although I couldn't think about it, deep within my soul my heart ached and the wounds festered.

People often ask me, "How did you get out?"

I answer, "By the grace of God," and I explain that as I grew older, although I could not think about what was causing me so much pain, I had moments when I could feel that something was very wrong. When those deeply, emotionally troubling and painful moments came, I asked God to please help me. Through daily prayer and the leading of the Holy Spirit, I was led out of bondage, one step at a time, until my programming was broken and I was integrated and free.

It was then, and continues to be, horrifying to me when my experiences are validated because it makes them more real, and then I am less able to dissociate from the excruciatingly painful emotional component of my past. During the initial stages of my recovery I had to learn to reconnect to my body and emotions, to learn even to cry in personalities that had never been allowed to express emotion. Then I had to learn to think logically and contain my tender, innate female emotions so that people could begin to hear what I was saying and not write me off as a hysterical woman -- although I had every right to be, given the traumatic life my family and I managed to live through.

This manuscript is not a dramatization, as was my first book, STARSHINE: One Woman's Valiant Escape from Mind Control. Instead it is a documentation of events as they happened from the best of my recollection. It is not written to entertain. In fact, I hope you don't find it entertaining, for if you do, you've missed the point. The pornography that has proliferated in this world has destroyed countless lives of children, women, and men who were used in it and has taught those who view it to objectify people. The telling of the following information is not done with the intent to further pornography and lewd sexual behavior, but in an attempt to stop what has gone on and to insure freedom of mind, body and spirit.

I am now fully integrated and deprogrammed. I feel very fortunate to have survived and to have healed to the point where I can now be a spokesperson for the many who have been abused in similar ways and are not yet recovered enough to speak on their own behalf. And, there are many. Over the years, I have painfully witnessed those who reside in mental institutions, diagnosed as psychotic, schizophrenic, borderline, or delusional; or others locked up as political prisoners; or worse yet, those who couldn't overcome their programming and committed suicide. Many others walk the earth dehumanized and enslaved in programming, living a life of internal and external hell and terror, separated from themselves and their Divine Creator. It is for all of them that I divulge these very personal and painful parts of my life.

Over the years, the CIA and other groups have strategically and very effectively orchestrated campaigns to discredit victims and the professionals who attempt to help the victims to bring the reality of what is actually occurring to light. Up until recently, the dark hierarchy that shrouds and protects the secrecy of this hidden control of many has been very effective in keeping this reality a secret. The victims have not been heard. They continually suffer discrediting tactics in the courtroom through the ignorance of uninformed -- possibly mind-controlled (or compromised) -- judges and lawyers; in therapy sessions, often with uninformed -- possibly programmed -- mental health professionals and therapists. The church clergy, through innocence, disbelief, ignorance, fear, or possibly programming, often turn their backs on victims who need aid and protection. The victims, regardless of age, need to know that other people and especially God, hates what has happened to them. We need the church to stand in its rightful place in the public arena and call our nation to account for the suffering of the most vulnerable. If spiritually awakened individuals can't do it, then who can? The Holy Spirit has shown me it will take the most spiritually erudite to stand in the face of this evil deception. Only by enacting the practice of spiritual discernment and carefully listening to Divine spiritual direction, can this horror be eradicated forever. It is our last and only hope.

It is time the public is made aware so they can begin to abolish the dark, controlling system that even began to target pre-school's in the 70's, torturing and programming children who didn't even come from an intergenerational satanic background, in order to ever widen their circles of an unpaid, slave labor force. I am continually amazed that the public is still swayed by the CIA-connected, False Memory Syndrome Foundation's propaganda, which explains that therapists instill these memories of horror into their desperate clients and that children with large imaginations are making up these stories. Ask yourself how a child three or four years old could make up these vile stories that are beyond their age-appropriate understanding ... and what a coincidence that the accounts match other children's testimony across the nation. Have the children been secretly uniting, sharing their "large imaginative experiences" across the nation in order for them to all come up with similar accounts? The facts of many preschool court cases, the testimony of the children, and the bungling and misrepresentation from lawyers and judges in case after case has allowed the truth to be squelched.

Those within the American Psychiatric Association who still cling to the false notion that Multiple Personality Disorder (Diagnostic and Statistical Manual IV now calls it Dissociative Identity Disorder) is rare, rob the many suffering victims of the opportunity to recover. We need to begin to more fully understand that a child's, and especially an infant's, psyche is vulnerable and can be shattered into other personalities due to early childhood abuse. When we understand this we will be able to raise more stable children who can then grow into healthy, creative adults. Many adults, like myself, find themselves spending the rest of their lives trying to recover from their childhood. Early abuse wreaks havoc physically, mentally, and spiritually on the most vulnerable and most valuable resource we have, our children.

Once again I apologize for the pornographic nature of some of this material. In light of my current Christian values, it is difficult and often embarrassing to mention the sexual perversions that I was exposed to, and yet to alter the information that was brought back to my conscious awareness through the eyes and perception of those personalities who were forced to experience it, seems to compromise the reality of what actually happened. I have attempted to report my history in the best way I know how, yet I have found it impossible to report my experience to you with the wholesome morality that now rules my life. If you are faint of heart or have difficulty dealing with horrific or lewd material, please ask God to strengthen you to face the truth set forth in this book.

In the words of Edmond Burke, "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good people to do nothing." We have reached a point in time where it is imperative for good people to act. It is time for those who have any moral judgment to react, and then to pursue their reaction with action. It will take all of us, standing for what we believe in, questioning old beliefs and old value systems until they are aligned with the Mind of Christ. Do we really still believe in "One Nation Under God," or have we lost our way in the hundreds of mindless duties and realities presented by the mass media? When will we slow down? God is not a God of confusion, nor is He a God of hurry, or suffering. He is our Almighty God, in Him whom we can trust. For generations humanity has been deceived and those who are willing to put their trust and faith in God, shall rise to His Glory, as He shows the way to victory. Our God, whom we once put in charge of our nation, is still waiting. He is still there, wanting to be of assistance, and never in the history of mankind have we been in such desperate need of His help, of His guiding hand. And so as we begin this journey together, with me as the reporter, and you the reader that God has called to be present, I offer this prayer:

Dear Father God, Jesus, Lord of Lords, God Most High,

We come to You now, in humbleness, God, asking for Your help. We know of our own strength we are unable to solve the problems at hand, and God, we know that things in this world are out of control and that only You can guide us back to balanced ways. We also know as Your Word has promised that we are cared for by You, much more than the birds and the lilies of the field, and now we ask You to show us the way. We thank You Lord, we Glorify Your Holy Name. Thanks for sending Your son, Jesus, to show us the way. Please be with us now, as we enter a time of national and international unrest. We know that these are growing pains. We know that You didn't cause them, that Your will is not for our suffering, but that by our own actions these disasters and wars have and will continue to occur. Bless us with Your anointing. Open the eyes of our understanding. I pray that in this book Your will may shine forth so that all of us who partake can shine for You.

In Christ,

Susan Ford

Chapter One: The Creation of Human Robot

My name is Susan Lynne Eckhart Ford and I am a 48 year old, native Californian. Until 1995, I suffered from a debilitating condition known as Multiple Personality Disorder.[2] In 1985 I embarked on the long and tedious, painful road to recovery. Through years of therapy and deprogramming I completely reintegrated my multiple personalities back into my uniform core self, and through the grace of God, I am alive today to convey to you my true life experiences. This account of my remembrances will be so shocking and amazing that you may feel that you've entered the 'twilight zone.' Many waking up today, call this making a 'paradigm shift' in reality; I call it knowing the truth. But, do keep your faith in God and humanity, for, as my father reminded me day after day, "The truth will set you free."

My multiple personality condition resulted from what I had first thought in 1986 was solely sexual and ritual abuse. But, as I began to heal and remember more of my hidden past, I realized that ritual abuse was merely the mind control trauma base my ritually abused, programmed, pedophile father, Calvin Charles Eckhart, and others used to condition me for participation in the still active top secret Project Monarch, the Central Intelligence Agency's white slavery operation that is related to MKULTRA and it's numerous sub-projects.

I was raised in the affluent area of Woodland Hills, California, but was abused my entire life in many locations in and out of California, including hospitals, universities, and United States military and NASA bases, where I was subjected to 'high-level' programming. The result of many years of trauma, intentionally inflicted on me by my father and others to CREATE within me multiple personalities, was that I was transformed into a programmed, totally robotical slave that could not remember to think or tell what happened to me, due to the mind control and sophisticated programming I was under.

I was used frequently in child and adolescent prostitution and pornography. By my preteen years, I had many personalities specially programmed to be the perfect sex slave -- a "presidential model" with government mind files and a photographic memory equipped to deliver (most often through sexual encounters) messages, some cryptic, to top government officials, entertainers, and other world figures.

From 1987 to 1991, I was in intensive daily therapy in California, remembering a complex childhood that now has been validated, in part, through intelligence community, CIA, and FBI contacts (active and retired), as well as through investigative journalists, knowledgeable mental health professionals, and family members. In my quest for understanding and self-knowledge, I attended school to attain my Master's Degree in Psychology. But, in April of 1991 I was forced to leave my home and family in California, due to a clever plot and threat to my life if I continued to pursue remembrance of my past in therapy and try to become healed. One of my therapists, Margaret Paul, Ph.D., who is also a popular author, suggested that for my safety I should leave Los Angeles for awhile. Upon her recommendation, I fled to the island of Kauai, Hawaii, where unbeknownst to me I was still part of the project and still not free.

After I fled from California and was no longer living in the midst of my programmed abuse base, nor was I in therapy, I began having vivid, detailed memories of being used both as a sex slave and human mind file computer to some of our nation's highest level governmental officials in and out of the White House. Among them: John F. Kennedy (sex and delivered messages). Lyndon Baines Johnson (sex and delivered messages), Henry Kissinger (masterminded my U.S. Government and international mind file use), Nelson Rockefeller (mind file use coordinated in conjunction with Henry Kissinger),

[2] Multiple Personality Disorder (MPD): Current American Psychiatric Association listing in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual IV is Dissociative Identity Disorder (DID).

Gerald Ford (sex and delivered messages), Jimmy Carter (delivered messages), Ronald Reagan (sex and delivered messages), George Bush (mind file use; he is a known pedophile and had sex with my programmed daughter Kelly), and top entertainment professionals, such as my "owner" Bob Hope (sex and message courier).

The media surrounding the exposes of Bob Hope's secret life and the books written by Arthur Marx (Groucho's son), The Secret Life of Bob Hope, and Lawrence J. Quirk's recent book, Bob Hope: The Road Well-Traveled, begin to portray some examples of the flaws to Bob's seemingly All-American, patriotic, and family loving public image. My controllers and abusers were not low-level criminals, but instead were some of the so-called "adored" leaders and entertainers of our country.

I felt alone and terrified as I began to break free from the control I was under. Catherine Gould, Ph.D., an internationally known therapist with years of experience treating ritual abuse victims explained that she couldn't be my therapist, for fear of losing her license or being sued since she sensed I was a 'high-level' survivor. At that time, although I had begun to have memories of being with Ronald Reagan during the time he was Governor of California and other government officials, due to the fact that I was still under mind control, I had no way of understanding what 'high-level' meant. At that time, many therapists, including my own - Margie Paul, were beginning to have their licenses pulled and often suffered professional consequences for treating ritual abuse survivors, especially those who were "high-level." In April of 1991, when I fled to the island of Kauai, Catherine agreed to consult with me by phone, and advised me to write a book, which resulted in STARSHINE: One Woman's Valiant Escape From Mind Control. She further advised me to continue documenting the names, dates and places of my abuse in an effort to one day go public in order to free my husband, my children, and myself.

Over the next year on the island, I recovered more of my memory, but was devastated to be separated from my children and tried to adjust to a radically changed lifestyle, including the fact that I was now living without my family, friends, and loved ones, and had very limited finances. I was overwhelmed with grief, carrying a burden that few wanted to seriously look at. Several people stepped forward to help me in whatever ways they could, offering emotional support and friendship, some even financial support when I ran out of money, but no one could really keep me safe, until I was fully deprogrammed from inside of myself so I could not be accessed. To reiterate a vitally important fact -- until I was fully deprogrammed, I was not safe. In 1991, there was no one who knew what I was talking about who could help me. I had to find help within myself. And I did. Throughout my healing process, Angels guided me when I was too afraid to connect with Christ, due to the satanic ritual abuse I had endured in the church as a child. The Angels continually led me to books and incredible people, thereby fulfilling God's plan for my eventual freedom.

Since multigenerationally abused and traumatized victims are selected for the mind control projects, my three children, Kevin, Kelly, and Danny were naturally trained to follow in my footsteps as assets of my controllers. Except for Kelly, they are still locked into their abuse base. Despite my efforts to get help for them. Their similarly programmed father unfortunately 'doesn't have a clue,' as yet, and so all legal custody has been taken away from me by the State of California. Toward the goal of getting my children free, I have spent years desperately documenting my past, a task at which some of our top governmental officials and entertainers would have liked to see me fail.

My affluent abusers made sure that I was instilled with very sophisticated programming that would insure my death should I begin to remember or tell. Despite the fact that I was programmed to have an 'accident,' self-mutilate, or kill myself, I am healthy, in control of my own mind, and have NO intentions of hurting myself in any manner. I am taking extreme precautions through publicizing this autobiographical account to encumber these power mongers from stopping my efforts to obtain help for my affected children. It is in hopes of freeing them, and the many other suffering adults and children locked into the bonds of the mind control projects, that I share my experience.

The intentionally inflicted and often extreme child abuse I endured was the necessary "preparation through trauma" that my controllers regarded as prerequisite to my creation as a sex/espionage agent serving within the government and beyond to an overarching cabal of only a handful of individuals, who I overheard referred to as "The Council." For years I witnessed the attempts and deeds they performed to control not only our government, but foreign governments as well. This initial childhood trauma was necessary to create within me multiple personalities for later use by them, insuring their success of my involuntary use and participation in their plan for a one world government, where you and I are to work in varying levels -- as controlled slaves or, as they say, "worker bees."

Chapter Two: Early Childhood Preparation

"Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things." -- Galatians

In order for my birth to be accomplished on presidential inauguration day, January 20th, 1951, my mother's labor was induced at St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica, California. My parents named me Susan Lynne Eckhart. The selection of inauguration day for my birth was especially meaningful given the position I would be groomed to one day fill. My parents told the story for years that my first words were, "I like Ike." Even at the early age of one, they were training me to be politically-minded and had me cheering in a campaign effort for the President-elect.

Once my mother and I were released from the hospital after my birth, my father began the rigorous training and intentional torture required to shatter my base personality with the goal of creating many separate and individual personalities for training and use by others as I grew older. When my mother left my father to babysit me, he withheld all food until I was starving. Then he held my bottle in front of me, but instead of allowing me to have the bottle, he would slip his penis into my mouth for me to suck. I felt I was dying through suffocation, as my airway was blocked and I gagged for breath. There were many such traumas to follow, most often on a daily basis.

For you to understand how I came to trust the things I began remembering at age 35 about my earliest childhood, I will share the following experiences. In meditation, I began remembering small, inconsequential things at first, like the time my mother left my father to care for me when I was four months old. He laid me on top of the dining room table and watched as I fell off! I clearly remembered the panicked feeling of terror as I was falling and remembered the overwhelming sharp pain that resulted in my body as I hit the floor. I also remembered the color of the carpeting, the design on the wallpaper and other details about the room. We moved from this house in Santa Monica when I was 6 months old, and I never saw it again.

Unable to fathom what these earliest of childhood memories could mean, I began reading about the experiences of Vietnam veterans and how they suddenly relived flashbacks of traumas they witnessed in war. I thought this might be the same type of memory phenomenon. In order to test my recall of this particular incident, I shared the details of this memory with my mother. Her reaction was one of amazement although she seemed terribly confused about my father's actions. She said I had described our first house and was surprised I could remember so accurately details from an event that happened when I was only an infant. Being the third child to a very busy mother, there were no pictures taken of me in that house that I could have seen. The validation she gave me made me feel more trusting of the other memories that soon began flooding back into my awareness.

Trauma to Create Multiple Personality Disorder

Memories of trauma too overwhelming to bear as a child unfolded for me to deal with as an adult. Bit by bit, piece by piece, I began to remember and understand just what had actually happened to me as a child, but in no way did the memories come neatly packaged in chronological order. It took the test of time, as each memory fit into ones before and after them and, like a puzzle, with all the pieces laid in proper place, I began creating a more complete yet horrifically devastating picture.

Armed with that first validation from my mother and the support of two therapists, I began daily therapy remembering heinous tortures, terrifying abuses, and strange details that were painfully yet neatly compartmentalized into the reality of separate child and adult personalities programmed within me. Many had separate names. This was in 1987, two years after my initial "awakening" first began. And I was, now, for the first time, accurately remembering my earliest childhood. I was referred to Stuart Perlman, Ph.D., a Westwood clinical psychotherapist, and began seeing him a few sessions a week until the self-harm and suicidal crises I was attempting to live through, triggered by remembering things I was programmed forget, quickly required my sessions with him to escalate to seven or more per week. I was also having weekly sessions with Margaret Paul, Ph.D.

At the time I began therapy, neither of my therapists was familiar with dissociation, Multiple Personality Disorder, or ritual abuse. The vivid, painful and often terrifying flashbacks and abreactions of the traumatic memory I retrieved in and out of their offices left all of us in a quandary, trying to make sense of what was happening to me. Dr. Perlman wrote an article on MPD/ritual abuse for a psychoanalytical journal, where he shared that as time went on he came to understand that Multiple Personality Disorder was not as rare as he had been taught it was in school. Although his quiet, aloof, non-interactive, psychoanalytical stance often made me uncomfortable during therapy sessions, I was later grateful that he had not interjected his own reality into my memory retrieval process and kept to himself his initial belief that I was delusional. My first session with Dr. Perlman was deeply touching as tears fell from his cheeks when I recounted instance after instance of childhood abuse. His wise words to me that day were, "Everything you need to heal is within, you have all the answers inside of yourself."

My other therapist, Dr. Paul, and I were continually perplexed as to what all the memories meant and didn't have an answer until a year later when I attended a Victims of Incest Emerge as Survivors (VOICES) conference in New Jersey by myself, where I heard a female minister speak about satanic ritual abuse. At the end of the lecture, I felt numbed, as the speaker recounted many tortures similar to those I had remembered from my childhood. The "big, beautiful, perfect fairy tale life" I thought I was living began to crumble, one memory at a time. The following is a carefully compiled documentation of my past.

When I was six months old, my father and mother decided to move to a more rural setting to raise their young family. My brother Jim was eight, my brother Rick was four, and I was six months old. My father borrowed money from my mother's mother to purchase a three-bedroom ranch home located in the midst of a walnut grove in Woodland Hills, California. This home was to be the base for hidden and extreme torture and trauma for me over the next 19 years. Those years of trauma should have been enough to kill ten children, but somehow it didn't kill me. My father told me each time he hurt me that he was doing it to toughen me, to strengthen me for the future. In response, I was split into many personalities to cope with the overpowering physical and psychological pain and betrayal.

My father worked for others as a welder until 1957 when he decided to be his own boss, prompting the opening of his own welding shop. This business, Eckhart's Welding Shop (located on Pico Boulevard in West Los Angeles), initially was our only source of income, since my mother stayed at home as a full-time housewife and mother. We lived simply and frugally, getting by on the amount of money my father earned. Sliced in between and existing parallel to the everyday conscious reality we shared as a family, was a very dark, secret and painful reality shared in sub-consciousness and in pain. I will share many of these slices of darkness with you so that you the reader can understand how this all came about.

When I was a year old, my father placed me in a blanket that was suspended by a rope from the high ceiling in our living room and spun me around and around and around until I was completely dizzy and disoriented. He then introduced a trauma, like putting something sharp up my vagina and my young psyche shattered, splitting off another personality to withstand the pain. He began sexually abusing me in my early months, by inserting objects into my vagina, gradually stretching it so that I would be able to accept a full grown man's penis by the time I was two. I was being groomed for early child prostitution, pornography, and a position in the "inner circle" at church.

When I was just months old, my mother recounts that she tearfully handed me over into the arms of her brother John who took me for a week to Santa Barbara. When she told me of this incident she always sounded like she had no choice, no free will from where she could command that no one could take her new born baby away from her. The memory of what happened in Santa Barbara with my Uncle John remains inaccessible to me at this time, yet I know it must be significant.

Unfortunately as you can well understand, my poor mind-controlled mother never had a chance and was totally manipulated by my father who I believe suffered from Multiple Personality Disorder (MPD/DID), had been ritually abused himself, and was most likely also under mind control. Much of the time my mother was a loving, caring, gentlewoman, but she was controlled. She spent her daytime hours obsessively cleaning house, ironing everything that she perfectly washed, scrubbing floors, washing windows, cooking, and attending to our needs. After dinner, while my mother did the dishes, my father sat down to watch television and read the paper. While he was relaxing, my mother began her next job doing the bookkeeping for my father's business; she didn't stop her duties or sit down until she collapsed into bed at 11:00 o'clock at night.

When I began recovering in the 80's, I asked my mother why all she did was scrub and clean the house and didn't pay attention to me as a child. Her response was, "Sue, looking back, I felt like there was something really dirty about our home."

My mother was able to feel what she wasn't allowed to think about, and she was right; there was something dirty. She subconsciously tried to take care of the problem in the only way she knew how; by cleaning it away. She slept through, was programmed, drugged, or was in a dissociative daze when I was being abused or when she was being beaten by my father or abused by others. She obsessively listened to music, which helped her to tune out and mellow. Knowing what I know now, most likely she was listening to music she was told to listen to in order to keep her memory of our actual life locked deeply within her subconscious mind, while the programmed reality of herself and our "perfect happy family" was kept alive through programmed phrases in the music.

My father made medicine for my mother. She followed my father's orders and programming to a tee. Dutiful to her programming, she delivered me to and from places where I was to be prepared, trained, programmed, and used, without ever being consciously aware of what she was doing. To this day, if asked about it, my mother cries and says that, while she believes and feels the allegations of what happened to me are true, she just can't remember.

Church Ritual Trauma

Around this time, my mother joined the First Baptist Church of Woodland Hills, and began taking me with her to church. Later, in therapy, I remembered and drew pictures of tunnels that I remembered running under the church that connected with neighboring homes of inner circle church perpetrators. On Sunday mornings, my mother left me in the nursery while she went to the sermon. Members of the church staff, some of them neighbor women and the minister, ritualistically abused me in that church. The elder minister who abused me was Rev. Grant B. Yeatman.

By age two, I was out of the church nursery and attending a small Sunday school class with other children. One Sunday, when I was a bit older, Rev. Yeatman walked into my Sunday school class and watched as we played a game and drew pictures. He pointed to me and said that I was "God's chosen" and told me to follow him. Once we were outside in a protected area, he forced my head down under his robe to perform oral sex on him like my father had prepared me from birth to do. After I was finished, he wiped my mouth with a handkerchief and told me that I was going to hell for what I had just done, but that I would be forgiven if I never told anyone about it. He further offered to pray for my soul and then sent me back to my Sunday school class.

Another Sunday, after being sodomized in a back room by Rev. Yeatman, he took me by the hand back to my Sunday school class, bent down and pointed to a picture of Jesus sitting with the little children around him and whispered, "Jesus will never love a little girl who is as bad and evil as you." From then on I believed there was something terribly wrong with me and that I would never fit in with other people. I figured Jesus couldn't love me because I was so bad. Parts of me died inside. But deep within my soul, in my innermost hidden and protected self, angelic beings continually reminded me of God's love for me and of their support. When I was tortured to the extent of being projected out of body due to the extreme pain, Jesus' Angels spoke lovingly to me and explained that I needed to go back into my body, that some day when I was older I would understand. But subconsciously, in my limited child understanding, I believed I was unlovable and hideous in the eyes of God.

Other Sundays, different children were "God's chosen" and had to leave the room with the minister.

Many of the people who worked at the church, the church secretary and the Sunday school teachers, were neighbors of ours and, I now understand were most likely ritually abused as children and were carrying out their violent actions via their own unconscious childhood programming.

Mrs. Winkler, the church secretary, lived across the street. In addition to Christianity, she also practiced sorcery and witchcraft in her darkened home, isolated and protected from outside intrusion by drape-covered windows. As a toddler, my father would wake me, early on Saturday or Sunday mornings and take me across the street along with a carrot, to "feed the horsies." We always did feed the horses but the actual purpose of these outings was to get me out of the house to go see Mrs. Winkler for what they called "my training and preparation."

Mrs. Winkler lit candles and laid my tiny body down on her table, performing chants over me, while she was sticking sharp needles in my feet, burning me with the hot candle flames, or scaring me with spiders. She would say, "Hold real still, Susie, so this potion can get in. You will be powerful and very special one day. Your father is paying for this, for you to be made special because he loves you. You will be known."

She told me at other times that I was chosen by God to fulfill some mission. Instead of organized Satanism, she practiced her own perverted form of Christianity with the purpose of "purifying me" to rid me of all evil. She never directly addressed Satan, but instead spoke of hell and damnation; it was a fire and brimstone style of fundamental Christianity, mixed with witchcraft. Mrs. Winkler cut pieces of my hair and saved them for rituals that were held with other "inside" church members and my father in outdoor rural places, in the middle of the darkened night.

Trauma Programming

For years, my father performed a variety of brutal, ritual-type physical and psychological abuses, among them: confinement in closets, cages, and a coffin, while I was told I was being left to die; near drowning; isolation; needles inserted in sensitive body areas; food and sleep deprivation; electroshock via electric wires, welding equipment, cattle prods, etc.; drugging; sophisticated hypnotic and electronic programming; tying me upside down to walnut trees out in the isolated walnut groves and other places; forcing me to participate in torturous rituals and orgies; and sexually abusing me, each time in more perverted ways.

At that time, Woodland Hills was still in its own infancy. At first, there were only two or three other houses built on our street, insuring my father and others plenty of wide-open spaces to conduct their crimes. In 1952, what is now known as the "101 Freeway" had not yet been built. The area was still largely undeveloped and rural, allowing for these crimes to easily go undetected.

While I was still very small, my father had an affair with another church secretary named Selma McGrew who lived in the house behind ours. She participated in my "preparation" by allowing my father to include me in the sex they were having. Being so young and small I often felt I would be killed during these encounters, and so I split off more personalities to endure it.

Nighttime was never intended for sleeping at our house but instead was a time of training. My mother was the only one allowed and/or commanded to sleep. My two older brothers, Jim and Rick, and my father came into my room night after night, creating an endless array of different forms of sexual abuse, all under my father's direction. My brother Rick, who is four years older than I, was selected to participate more often and my father used him to help "prepare" me for use as a child prostitute and for my approaching debut in pornography.

The two of us were sexually abused together and were both electroshocked with bare electric wires to our genitals. I painfully remembered my brother sitting robotically while my father attached a bare wire to his penis and then inserted the opposite end in the electrical outlet, sending his little body into uncontrollable spasms. Tears flooded my brother's eyes and ran down his cheeks as he then was forced to watch as I was electroshocked. For years my mother told the story of how she continually found my brother hiding behind the couch shocking himself by inserting bare wires into the electrical outlet. She laughed a kind of confused, questioning laugh as she spoke this. She probably couldn't think to question where the bare-wired cord came from or why her young son was continually seeking to electroshock himself. I stuck a table knife in an electrical socket so often that there was a knife in the kitchen drawer that was notched from being repeatedly inserted into the outlet. This unconscious act reinforced our programming.

I was often awakened and drugged in the middle of the night by my parents in order to attend rituals that were performed in the empty lot behind the church and at other locations around Woodland Hills. Many of the gullies and outdoor places that were used for rituals when I was a young child have since been developed into homes or large cement drainage areas, but in the 50's these areas provided seclusion for this group. The whole congregation did not participate in these nightly horrors, only a select inner circle was allowed in.

At two, I was initiated into the inner circle with a celebration dedicating me as the bride of Christ. I was drugged, dressed in a long white lace gown, and passed around the circle of drugged members as they sat around a bonfire in a vacant lot, during the middle of the night. Each member fondled me sexually, then I was lain on an altar to be raped and dedicated to Christ and the group. The inner circle members wore black robes and participated in sexual orgies and the killing and ingesting of animal and human flesh. Their belief was that these cannibalistic and sexual acts would transfer the energy or life force from the victim to them in order to make them more powerful.

I was involved in endless rituals that included being burned with candles, having crucifix's jammed up my vagina as I lay on an alter or hung upside down on a cross, having pins inserted into every area of my body including my vagina and the roof of my mouth, and having animals and babies killed in front of me and being forced to eat their raw flesh and drink their blood or urine. Other children were involved in the rituals, and when we reached a certain age we were forced to participate in killing animals and babies. In order to psychologically survive these experiences, many additional personalities within me were created. Nothing was ever as painful as being forced to inflict pain on another or watch as others were tortured or killed.

My Doll Collection

I had a doll cabinet that my father had specially made for me. It was filled with dolls from all over the world, that were given to me to love. My father used my dolls to program different personalities within me, as he abused me night after night. Often when my father tortured me he would hand a different doll for me to hold in order to create different parts of me with different identities that in my young mind I could relate to the doll I was holding. He told me the doll in my hand was part of me but separate and then he would call it by name. There was the little doll with the red hair and freckles, the baby doll, Cyndy the bride doll, Rebecca, Sally, Thumbelina, Barbie and Madame Alexander, to name a few.

There were dolls everywhere around me, especially in that doll case that my father had made for me with the sliding glass window front so the dolls could be seen. Each doll was "displayed" which my father said meant they couldn't play until he said it was time for them to come out of the case. At night when he woke me for abuse, he took out the doll whose personality was to be the front, or presenting, personality of my inner system of created personalities. As he pulled a doll out of the doll case he'd say, "she's no longer on display, she can come out and play now," and at that tender age, I would switch into the personality my father called forth. Then he would say, "You Susie, will step aside as Doll fully enters your body. Whenever I snap my fingers three times, Doll will enter the body and Susie will step aside, like this now," and he would snap his fingers three times and I would follow my father's command, totally and completely.

Holidays

Holidays always signaled times of trauma. One Christmas I awoke excited to see what Santa had brought for me. My two worlds and the personalities that lived in them were continually subjected to different realities, and this day was to be no different. Susie in her red velveteen robe got special treatment while other personalities had "Xmas," a very different painful and evil reality. While Susie got a Christmas stocking full of goodies, Sharon got razor blades and coal and parts of dead animals. "Sharon" was another one of my inner personalities my father created, which he developed as my "inner twin" to Susie, my conscious everyday personality. One Christmas ritual trauma I vividly remembered was when my father laid me down on the rug in front of the fireplace and placed his finger inside my vagina while he readied a hot poker in the fire. Somehow putting me in a trance-state, he began, "You won't feel this. You will only continue to feel the pleasure, just like I am rubbing now. Does it feel good?"

"Yes Daddy," I robotically answered.

"Good, then when I do this it will only increase the pleasure," he kept his finger in place until he got the hot poker out of the fire and as he put it inside me, he took his finger out and as hypnotically commanded, I felt only the pleasure of the hot inside me. Very lovingly he said, "Very good, honey. You're doing very well. Now take a deep breath and count to three and feel like you have to pee. Then when I take this out, you will feel even more pleasure. Okay?"

"Yes, Daddy," I said putting my little hand up in front of my face while I counted off, "One," as I held up one finger, then "two," putting up two fingers, then, "three," and when he had taken the poker out, I felt really happy. It didn't even hurt. I couldn't feel the pain of the red-hot thing. In months that followed, I reached out and touched a piece of red-hot angle iron when my father was welding, and when it burned my hand badly, I was surprised. I didn't understand that it would bum me. My father was an expert at those "games."

At other times he put something scary in front of my face to startle me before he did something traumatic to me. Then he would tell me to feel numb while he put a silver metal band around my wrist and forehead and would shock me with the black box that was attached to the bands with wires. He'd say "you're doing very well," but my face would be sweating and it stung when he gave me what he called "a jolt."

At odd times, even when other people were around, my father would say, "Do you want a jolt?"

I'd say, "No," while I giggled nervously, acting like it was a game but it wasn't.

Often after one of these jolting experiences, I felt so sleepy and my mom would say, "What's wrong with you? Are you sick?"

"I dunno," I'd say, because I didn't know anything. To know was to 'know,' and to 'know' was very bad and you got very hurt. So certain personalities within me took the pain and torture after which I would be switched back to Susie who had no knowledge of any of it.

There were nights my father would wake me out of sleep and devise ways to spin me until I was totally disoriented, after which he took me to look at myself in front of a mirror and called me by another name other than my own, "Sandy, that is you in the mirror, and Sandy is my friend. She is going to help us. She is a friend of Susie's, but Susie doesn't know Sandy exists. Susie doesn't even need to think about you, Sandy." And these were some of the tactics used to shatter and then create alternate identities within me from a very early age.

In hypnotic trance I was told, "The balloons will take you away, take you to the rooms with the many personalities, but as you look at each one, you know that they are you. They are all you. But only one at a time. One room and one person at a time."

Other nights, I was awakened from sleep and sexually abused to create the dissociative barrier and to create more personalities or attitudes. I was told, "Now look into the first room. There's Darla. Isn't she cute and pretty, and she is always happy. Darla's dedicated to the stars. She always knows just what to say and do to make others feel good, to make them happy. Now look into the second room. There's Sandy. She's the dancer. She can dance very well and she is able to bend in all different directions ... to everyone's amazement. She's not at all embarrassed to take off her clothes in front of people. She likes that, it makes her feel good. But she can only do that when the time is right." My father also placed stars on my ceiling that lit up at night to remind me of the programming.

Over the years my controllers created programming for every single thing they could dream up. And they programmed in angel personalities intended to handle the pain when I could not.

But their spiritual short-sidedness left them in the dark when I transcended their created angelic personalities, and left my body escorted by real Angels. I owe my life to God and those beautiful loving Beings who kept my soul and my love intact as they continually interceded for the little girl they witnessed tortured unceasingly.

Military Base Programming

Dick Hof was a marine in the reserves. He and his family moved in next door when I was around three years old. He told me he didn't, know exactly how to treat little girls because he only had boys. On certain weekends he wore his uniform and took me to military bases where the men wore tan uniforms. They saluted him when he was around and he acted very normal until we were out of the other men's sight. He took me into top-secret places where he showed some sort of pass to gain entrance. Once we were in the secret place he put me into an empty, cold, cement room and restrained me to a metal examination table. There were bright lights overhead and the men that joined him put bands around my wrists, ankles, and forehead, then turned out the lights and left while they shocked me real bad. They had a screen I had to watch and messages I listened to immediately after I got shocked. Sometimes Dick carried a briefcase that had some of my favorite dolls and toys inside, like my dolly with the red hair and freckles and my sock monkey. When they hurt me they often pretended to hurt my dolls and toys, too, and told me that my dolly friends would keep reminding me every day about what happens, "if you don't obey and follow the rules -- then you get zapped," and they would shock me again. Dick also threatened me with his gun and said that all the men had them, and if I "stepped out of line" it would be over for me, so I'd better listen up and obey the rules. The doctors played tricks on me while I was drugged. They played day and time tricks trying to mess me up. They told me over and over that someone other than the person who really brought me there did. Most of the time I knew it was Dick Hof. They told me this astronaut brought me and a man in an astronaut suit would walk in and say, "I am the adult who brought you here."

I'd say, "No you're not, my neighbor did." So they would inject me with more drugs and keep hammering verbally at me over and over until I'd break and agree wholeheartedly with them. But inside I had to remember to keep the truth hidden in a part of me, so I'd not lose control of reality and believe their lies. Sometimes I felt like I shattered and went over the edge and couldn't really tell what was happening. At those moments I'd pray to God that another part of me was remembering what was really happening because I couldn't maintain myself any longer. After they were through with me I was so messed up that I needed their help getting off the table and then to walk, and the next week I'd have to stay home from school because I was throwing up and very sick. My mom said I just had "the flu." All this torture and mind manipulation kept my inner and outer worlds far apart.

There was a cabinet way up high in our kitchen and Dick Hof told me that I could be like a monkey and climb up there to get the little white candy pills that would make me feel better, but I couldn't tell my mommy because he said she wasn't really my mommy because she was born of lower class and he said I was upper class, like my father. He said my mom didn't know enough to help me, so if I hurt I could climb up and get the pills and eat them and feel better.

There was another military base I was taken to when I was about five. A doctor in a white lab coat examined me there. He questioned me a lot in order to check all my "systems." As you can see, this abuse was very intentional and very premeditated, with long-range plans and goals.

The Network of Abuse Widens

The trauma was ubiquitous and involved all the people who were close to me, and others who were strangers. Threats of consequences if I remembered or told, made during times of extreme trauma, were buried deep in my subconscious mind and dictated my actions daily. Huge amounts of my own subconscious vital energies were used to keep my personalities in control and to keep secret the activities in which I was involved.

By the age of four, I was taken to my father's friend, Andy the policeman, where I was instructed to perform oral sex on Andy, in exchange for a courtesy card my father proudly carried in his wallet that pardoned him from any violation he might acquire, should he ever be stopped by a police officer. At a very young age, I was subconsciously aware that everyone was in on these activities and that policemen wouldn't even protect me, but that knowledge was kept from my conscious awareness because I believed the reality, as my programming commanded, that I had a perfect life.

When I was less than five years old, my father took me to Long Beach for what my mother was told was a visit to my father's Aunt Maude. We did go to visit Aunt Maude, but really we were there to meet with Uncle Charlie. Uncle Charlie was very distinguished looking and wore very formal clothes, even though this was just a family gathering. At this young age, although I sensed this was a very important event, I had no way of knowing how pivotal this meeting would factor into the design of my life. In a complete nightmarish horror, I watched as my grown father looked retarded and became very childlike when this relative, Charles Lilley Horn, spoke to him. And when the talk turned to subjects I could not fathom, and Uncle Charlie held out a paper for my father to sign, I pulled on my father's hand and begged him, "Daddy, stay big, this is really important, please Daddy." But due to my father's own early childhood abuse, he could not maintain his adult mental state because he, too, had Multiple Personality Disorder, with many wounded, fragmented, hurt children inside of him whose consciousness had also been programmed for use by others. And so, when Uncle Charlie asked him to sign the paper, he reached out robotically, and without thought, signed it. Somehow I knew that this event was a very important moment when I needed my father to pull himself together to protect me. But he was not able to, due to his own dysfunctional state of mind.

Uncle Charlie further directed my father where to take me for the early programming that involved machines and told him about the arrangement with Bob Hope and the connection to the government. My father continued to look retarded and just kept robotically shaking his head, nodding in agreement, while Charlie told him what to do.

Slave Auctions

Elitists in the market for mind control slaves attend auctions that appear at first like children's fashion shows and then progress to striptease acts. I made "appearances" in many shows before I was actually sponsored or sold.

My father took me to a slave "model" auction where I wore a fancy white taffeta and black velvet polka-dot dress, a hat and matching purse that my mother had bought for me at the expensive Stardusters clothing store.

Bob Hope

At this particular show where Bob Hope bought me, there were lots and lots of little girls and boys competing. They said these children were what they called "sponsored" if they were chosen. And they said it was better to be chosen early because then the sponsors (owners) could mold you the way they wanted. There was a modeling ramp where all of us children were displayed. I modeled casual clothes, then sophisticated evening clothes, and then sensual/sexual attire and, finally, appeared totally naked. First I performed Swan Lake Ballet in pink feathers for my casual and wore black velvet for my formal and my naked performance was called "the tiger dance." I won first place at this show and was sold to Bob Hope on the open market. They put a white cape around my naked body and Bob came up and stood with me while everyone in the audience cheered. Somehow it seemed like a sport for some of these people to attend auctions. Then I was seated again next to my father. When the whole show was over, an older man dressed in a tuxedo came and escorted me to Bob Hope who shook my hand and said, "Hi ya, Honey. Do you know who I am?"

"Yes, Mr. Hope." I answered like I had been instructed.

"I'm going to be your man, but we'll have to talk more about this later ... when you're a little older." He laughed.

I smiled at him and said, "Thank you, Mr. Hope. My father will be very proud." But my father never came over to meet Bob. He stayed in his chair until the man in the tux ushered me back to him.

Throughout my formative years, I was molded to be extremely sexual through the sexual abuse with my father and others. The personalities that were created from that abuse didn't always experience the encounters as abusive, because that is all they knew. Bob later told my father through an instilled message delivered through me during an incestual encounter with my father, "Daddy, Bob says he wants me to really love sex and have a lot of it. Okay?"

"Sure honey, whatever you want. You're the boss," my father answered from his own split consciousness.

Bob was Catholic and so was the part of me that performed. She was my "inner twin sister" for programming purposes, to keep that part of me separate from my created "normal" reality and her name was Sharon. Bob said he liked Catholic girls because they were easy and he liked "em like that."

Bob was always racy until he got to acting old around 1987. I had a lifetime of Bob Hope and his antics, and over the years, he lost his funny and happy persona and became just a mean and nasty old man. And then, he became cruel to me, there wasn't anything fun left in him. He was just real old and mean.

Uncle Charlie

Consciously unbeknownst to my parents, I was in contact when necessary with my "Uncle Charlie." He escorted me to many affairs when I was a child, even in Europe. Often they were arenas where the mind control elitists gathered to share their latest creations. At these gatherings, I walked out on a ramp on Uncle Charlie's arm. I was the "latest in human technology," and all the "uncles" were there to display their "wares." It was a fashion show of sorts for what they called "children attendants." Men in the audience held little placards and they held up certain numbers for different things. I think they were like judges. I don't think they wanted to buy me because someone else already had. While I was presenting, a man announced I had already been sold to, "...a very funny man they say, called Bob Hope. Do you know him?" And everyone in the audience laughed.

When I asked Uncle Charlie why those people were there and what we were doing there, he said, "This is a show for Cadillacs and you my dear," he took a hold of my chin, "are my Cadillac."

"I am? What is that?" I asked very enthusiastically, straightening my blue satin dress and pushing on the skirt that kept popping up on the other side due to the hoop around the bottom.

"A car," he answered. When I kept asking questions he said that big word others also used to describe me, "My, you are precocious, aren't you? Well it's time for you to run along now," at which point another man in a suit took my hand and led me away.

Later that day when we were alone, Uncle Charlie very secretly and with great import informed me that he was my real father and that my dad wasn't my real father, but had adopted me for some very specific purposes. He said it was my destiny, but I didn't know what that word meant either, and didn't ask because I was still pretty upset about my dad not really being my dad. Uncle Charlie said he had the money to take care of me in the ways I deserved and that my father never would have the money to do what he was going to be able to do for me. I didn't understand what this all meant then but he made it sound good. (Forty some years later through my constant search to piece together the actualities of my life, I would discover that Charles L. Horn was the owner of Federal Cartridge Company, which later funded Olin Foundation, where he sat as President.)

When I asked Uncle Charlie who my mother was he just nodded quickly and said, "You don't have one, it doesn't matter." He seemed busy like I was bothering him by interrupting his thoughts or something. I guess he didn't understand the needs of a child my age. So I went ahead and made up my own imaginary mother. I created her to be sort of plump and happy and she made great apple pies and cookies and all sorts of candies that we ate anytime we wanted. She was 'the perfect mother' for "Sharon."

So as I understood it from the other side of my personality structure, Charles L. Horn was Sharon's -- my inner twin sister's -- father. Uncle Charlie said he wanted me to call him Uncle Charlie instead of dad because he had "... some very important business contacts that just wouldn't understand if you called me father, so call me Uncle Charlie." Often he introduced me to people as his niece, Sharon Weatherby. Sharon, the wild personality, is who Bob Hope purchased from Uncle Charlie and it was Sharon who was trained to be stunning, smart, sexual, comfortable with wealth and elite family members. Uncle Charlie, who lived in Minneapolis in the summers and Scottsdale in the winters, said he loved me but couldn't spend a lot of time with me because of business, though he would be a powerful part of my life.

Uncle Charlie physically introduced me to Henry Kissinger one day in an open grassy park-like area when I was very little. I shook Henry's hand and Uncle Charlie explained that Henry was my "Uncle Henry." So I, as Sharon Weatherby, began to have a whole new family and it just kept growing and growing, adding "uncles" here and there and everywhere.

Henry Kissinger

When I was little, with a short pixie haircut, Henry Kissinger would call me on the phone at home. In those days, those personalities who were created by and for him thought he was funny. He set up times of connection by telling me beforehand, "meet me on the comer at 7:00 p.m." and that meant to be standing at the direct corner of the kitchen cabinet desk at home at 7:00 p.m. to answer the phone. So I'd stand there when it was 7:00 p.m. and when he called I'd pick up the phone real fast like he had instructed me to do. Henry, who communicated to me as "Susan" rather than "Sharon," then said, "Hello Susan, how are you this evening? I am just testing."

"Oh, hi," I said as I smiled and twisted my short hair.

"You can hang up now, I was just testing." So, I hung up and went off to play in my room. Henry was in contact with me often. I think he had studied lots of psychology so he knew how to best control me. He used positive psychological means because he said he felt it would work better.

My mom said, "Who were you talking to?" She had on her red Christmas dress and her slippers. Her hair was still brown.

I shrugged and said, "No one," because due to the programming I was already under, my normal everyday conscious personality didn't house the phone experience with Henry Kissinger. I wasn't lying, the event was registered under a different personality than the one that interfaced with my mother. Henry could call anytime and 'get me.' When I saw him in person he always said right off, in a silly teasing voice as he reached out and tickled me, "I'm gonna get you." Which switched me to the personality he wanted and in that way he accessed, or "got me."

Henry set up a group of personalities to be my neighbor's, "Joe's and Mary's child." He told people it was an experiment he was performing to see if one person could be brought up in two ways from two different perspectives to see how the physical/genetic influences really did work since both personalities' mindsets shared the same physical body and genetic structure. It was a controlled experiment about the role environment and behavior versus genetics played in IQ. They wanted to see how strong the mind could be - if it was the overriding factor. They were trying to see if thinking you were elite and being brought up elite would increase IQ or if a common child would have the same IQ if not stimulated as much. Susan was the common experience part of the experiment, the control; and Sharon, the inner twin personality counterpart, was the elite. More on this twin programming in the next chapter

I was instructed by Henry Kissinger to eat alphabet cereal on certain mornings and do mental exercises that he gave me. For instance, I had to get the alphabet sorted from the box and all lined up on the kitchen table. Then I had to put a piece of cereal that was shaped into an 'a' on my tongue and then hold up a mirror and look at it in the mirror. I had to do 20 of the alphabet backwards and 20 of the alphabet forward while I was looking in the mirror. It was usually only 20 because often some letters were missing from the cereal box, so Henry said to just do 20. I don't know why I had to put them on my tongue and then stick my tongue out with the letter on it and look in the mirror, but I did it just like Henry said. My mother got mad at me because she said I should eat my food not play with it, but she didn't understand my need for training. Henry said she was uneducated and ignorant, and that he was making me into a genius. I didn't know what that meant. Other times, I had to focus my eyes on a pin that was stuck into the top of a pencil eraser and follow it back and forth and up and down. And I learned to cross one eye. leaving my left eye looking straight ahead. All this was done in preparation for my later use as Henry's 'mind file'.

Further Condition

Following instructions, my mother took me to "meetings" at a church lady's home who lived behind our church. The purpose of these meetings was to instruct my mother how to "train me." She was given instructions on forms of punishments and abuses to give me at home if I didn't do what was "prescribed." Those punishments included being locked in a dark closet for long periods of time, having food withheld sometimes for a day or two, being slapped across the face or burned by a cigarette if I resisted any of the rules. Often I was abused in these ways, as my mother carried out her own programmed instructions, in spite of my "good behavior."

I was taught to write backwards at the age of four because my programmers felt that I would be more intelligent if I was forced to use both sides of my brain. In addition, I was given special eye exercises to perform several times a day. I began ballet at five and endured years of ballet training from a perverted ballet teacher named Madame Olga. Episodes of sex rituals and traumas were laced into our dance classes. At times the entire ballet class was abused out behind her little dance school that was located just off Topanga Canyon Boulevard in Woodland Hills.

My dentists, the Phillips brothers, had a dental office also located on Topanga Canyon Boulevard, around the corner from my ballet school. Acting independently of the church, but being friends of my father, they participated in my "preparation" by torturing me with sharp dental instruments by drilling my teeth and poking exposed nerves without the use of Novocain. Who could have known then that, when I grew up and married, my "chosen" husband would be first "in line" to purchase these successful dental practices, which is just what happened.

After I started kindergarten, my mother informed me that a group of people from the First Baptist Church were going to leave the church and form a new church called the First Presbyterian Church of Woodland Hills. In the beginning days, the church met at my elementary school, while we waited for our new church to be built on Platt Avenue. Our new minister's name was Rev. Alden McKelvey, and nothing seemed to change much, except the minister had a different name, we had a bigger building, and now more people were involved.

School was somewhat of a respite, but even there I was not always free from abuse. Starting in first grade, I was taken out of my class at Woodlake Avenue Elementary School (located a mile from the church), to attend 'choir practice' at the children's choir director's home a block from school. Her name was Mrs. Rebecca Muir. At her home, in conjunction with practicing church songs for performances at Sunday church services, I was trained to perform and participate in rituals and was forced to participate in child pornography films when a group of men entered her house and took over. Snuff pornography where little children or babies were killed was also filmed at her house. Like the other women involved, Mrs. Muir, publicly, a meek, gentle woman, dutifully complied with the direction of these men.

One day just after returning to school from Mrs. Muir's house, I went straight to the principal's office. Her name was Mrs. Stella Greer. For some unknown reason, the threats of death if I told were not consciously available to keep me silenced and switched out of the personality who had just witnessed the pornography, and I told her everything I had been forced to do at choir practice. I had seen Mrs. Greer talk sternly to us kids at assemblies and just knew that she was a person of great power who would be able to stop the bad people from hurting all of us children. But, her response was enough to reinforce everything my abusers had threatened over my young years. I will never forget it. Mrs. Greer's face turned red with anger as she wrathfully shook her finger at me, sternly warning in no uncertain terms, "Young lady, I don't ever want to hear such filth out of your mouth again. You stop making up these horror stories and get back into your classroom where you belong!"

At that moment, I realized that what my abusers said was true. No one would help me. People would think I was crazy if I did tell, and I had "no where to run, and no where to hide." I couldn't survive without them and there was no one to help, just like they said. I was trapped. Why this adult woman, my school principal, was unable to logically question how a child of my young age could be privy to or know such adult and pornographic language, never seemed to cross her mind.

Our pediatrician, Dr. Cusack, located on Ventura Boulevard in Woodland Hills, participated by suturing up my vagina when it was torn from abuse, and cared for me in other ways when the abuse became too physically obvious. When I requested my childhood medical records several years ago, I was told that Dr. Cusack had moved out of the state and that all of his records had been destroyed.

At home in the evenings, while my mother was picking up my grandmother from work at Lockheed in Santa Monica, and in the middle of the night, my father continued his own form of tortures; raping me, sodomizing me, filming me pornographically with my brother, submerging me in the bathtub or swimming pool until I was nearly dead, torturing me extensively at his welding shop with the use of electroshock delivered through hot welding equipment inserted into my vagina, and leaving me outside all night alone during rain storms. He also kept dead bodies under our home for his sick perversions. He tortured and "trained" me under the house lots of nights before dinner, and would lock me into boxes and leave me there for long periods of time, often with body parts from cadavers he kept. One night he took me to a graveyard and forced me to watch as he dug up a coffin, opened it, forced me inside and reburied it. I split off more personalities. One personality split wasn't enough to handle this trauma.

One Saturday my father took me and one of my dolls out to the old refrigerator that was in the corner of our garage. Quickly, he shoved me inside and clutching my blond baby doll, I begged, frantically clinging to my father's shirt, "No Daddy! Please don't."

Slapping my hands away, my father scolded, "Now, show Daddy what a big girl you can be. If you try to get out," he knelt down beside me, "Daddy will have to beat you." He slammed the door shut and I could hear him taping it closed with the black electrical tape he used on endless mechanical things. When I cried out from inside the cold refrigerator, my father angrily pounded on the door, yelling for me to shut up.

Petrified in the dark, cramped cubicle, I listened for any sound that might indicate that my father was opening the door to set me free. Ominous silence prevailed. Feeling unbearably cold and unable to take another breath, I experienced the intervention of three ethereal beings, transparent yet sparkly, misty-blue colored angels who suddenly materialized outside the refrigerator and appeared to reach through the insulated metal to infuse me with life-sustaining energy. In a transcendent state, it was as if I was held in suspended animation as these angels lent their life energy to me.

Some time later, when my father came to release me, probably thinking that, like all the other times he had taken me near death, I would emerge fragmented yet grateful to him for saving me, he checked the pulse on my neck, and finding none, he panicked. He carried my limp body across the garage and laid me on his workbench. "Now I've done it, damn it," I heard my father say to himself from my out-of-body vantage point. "I've gone too far and killed her, now what am I going to do?" Quickly he slid my lifeless body into a black plastic trash bag, tied it off, carried me out the side door, and placed me in the crawl space beneath the house.

The rescuing angels reappeared and one telepathically communicated that it wasn't time for me to leave my family, that I needed to get back into my body and go on up for dinner. Unbeknownst to my father, I still had a spark of life left in me, and God, knowing His plan for my life was not yet complete, fanned that spark until I came back to life. When I reunited with my body, it ached and I felt nightmarishly sick but crawled out of the bag, wobbled out of the crawl space and walked in a dissociated state, back into the house where my family sat eating dinner. My father looked up at me as if he had seen a ghost and my mother, unaware of any of the "incidences" of the day, smiled and told me to sit down to eat.

The trauma and torture was endless, occurring nearly every day and night of my childhood. The tortures were so numerous that it would require a separate volume to chronicle all those I have remembered so far. Leaving my body in order to 'dissociate' from the pain and continuing to create separate personalities, often alongside personalities my abusers intentionally created for their own use, was my mind's way of keeping me alive to function in the day-to-day world.

I had two worlds: one secret world that I lived and knew only when I was triggered into it; and a second, 'normal' conscious world of day to day experiences. These worlds were kept separate by the use of trauma and programming. I was my father's and other people's project for the future. An investment that provided him access to high-tech hypnotic information, financial security, and most probably immunity from prosecution for charges involving pedophilia, child prostitution, and child pornography.

"He shall give His Angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone." -- Psalms 91:11-12

Chapter Three: We're Off to See the Wizard

Common Mind Control Themes

Hand signals are a common mode of control for victims of ritual abuse and mind control. There was a hand signal program I was taught when I was very little, that was sung to the song Frere Jacques, with the nursery rhyme, Where Is Pointer? The common song/game is played by singing; "Where is Pointer? Where is pointer?" And then you put up your pointer finger and say, "Here I am, Here I am. How are you, today sir? Very well, I thank you ...run away, run away..." Then you put your hands behind your back. I was taught the version:

"Where is silencer?" With a finger held up to the lips commanding silence.

"Where is kingpin?" With large pin inside the middle finger, that I was poked with just before singing, "run away, run away."

"Where is little man?" Holding up a pinky finger while singing, "Little man can't run away."

"Where is thumbkin?" Holding up a thumb and being thumped on the head while singing, "You can't run away."

Wizard of Oz

In conjunction with the traumas at church and school, my father reinforced my programming with the use of fairy tales, among them Disney themes and The Wizard of Oz. I watched the Wizard of Oz every year and at other times my programmers laced in other programs and hypnotic commands in a creative way that allowed the movie themes to keep me under control. Although I could not consciously remember what I was programmed to forget, this use of fantasy, used in an effort to keep amnestic and to scramble what I had actually participated in, was very effective ...almost foolproof.

Sometimes in the middle of the night, after having watched the Wizard of Oz, my father would traumatize me in order to cause me to dissociate, which created the perfect trance state for programming. In this altered state, he would tell me that "over the rainbow" was a bridge to the "other" world, and that I could walk over the rainbow bridge into the other world and it would remain separate from my everyday world. He told me that what happened over the rainbow would feel unreal, like a dream. After encounters that I was supposed to forget, I was conditioned to the word "home." It began with "There's no place like home" being associated with being back in my bed, sleeping, after a night of being used in child pornography or prostitution.

Later my mother, father, or others would say these words after my use in Washington, D.C. in the White House or other places I was sent under program. For years these words functioned as a way to reorient me back into my everyday world, without carrying back with me the reality of what had happened. I was instructed to, "sleep and wake up at home in my bed with the Land of Oz so very far away. That place that felt like a fairy tale ...that I must have made up ...was only a dream ...was now very far away." I was now on the other side of the rainbow and was conditioned to believe that those experiences never really happened, that they were only a dream. Later in my teen years all it took was for my mother or father to say, "Honey, you can sleep all the way home," and I was conditioned like Pavlov's dogs to respond to the word "home" with total and complete amnesia of what had just happened to me.

If my subconscious mind threatened to divulge the secrets, my father programmed me to "wake and eat chocolate chip cookies to remember to forget." And for years, the next 40 years, as this powerful programming commanded, I awoke out of a sound sleep if memory of this secret world seeped up as I entered first theta and then delta brain wave sleep patterns. Following program, I robotically walked into the kitchen to eat chocolate chip cookies in order to "re-mind" myself.

Another Oz theme that was used to program me was the song, "If I Only Had A Brain." During a programming session, a man whispered in my ear, telling me, "It's safer not to have a brain, it's easier not to have a brain; all you have to do to stay on track is to follow the yellow brick road. Then you won't be scared like the cowardly lion and you can keep your heart which you will need to get you down the yellow brick road to the land of glitter and gold, glitter and gold, glitter and gold. Follow the yellow brick road to somewhere over the rainbow way up high." In my trance state, this verse went deeply into my subconscious mind and was an evervigilant internal reference to remind me to forget, and could be enforced by any of my controllers when the need arose to keep me from unlocking repressed memory.

Alice in Wonderland was used as a theme to program in 'time awareness.' My programmers said, "See the rabbit who says, 'watch the watch, watch the watch,' and feel your eyes grow sleepy and tired so you can no longer watch the watch but you know it is always there ticking away, keeping perfect time. It knows what time it is so you won't ever have to worry about what time it is for the watch will keep perfect time. And now at the count of three I want you to wake up ...1, 2, 3..." he snapped his fingers, "and awake. Good girl!"

There were other programs based on fairy tales and Disney themes. Other survivors around the world have also reported many of these same common themes.

Disneyland

When I was five years old my mother and father took me to the newly-opened Disneyland in Anaheim, California. As we walked down Main Street, we ran into Walt Disney and my father stood aside as Walt Disney, larger than life to me, bent down and shook my hand. He told me that if I would write to him he would write back to me. I didn't consciously remember anything else after that. What happened next, though, as I later recalled, was that Walt Disney looked at my father with eyes that said important things I couldn't understand. My father then led my mother in the other direction and I was left alone with Walt Disney. My parents never said goodbye or anything, they just left me and walked away. I was terrified and confused at realizing that my parents just disappeared. Walt took me to an office, lifted me up on a big desk that had a glass piece on top and told me that he was my real father. He said the Mickey Mouse Club was my real family--where I really belonged. Everyone was always telling me I belonged to a different family than my parents and I didn't understand, it was all very confusing. Walt Disney seemed nice but I wasn't with him very long. He called another man in and that man took me by the hand and led me away. This man was a very bad man and he really scared me. He took me into another room and gave me those viewmaster box glasses to look into. He showed me pictures in them that were so scary that other parts of me had to come to see them. It was too much for a little girl to see. Dead things--cut up bodies, dead cats skinned with big eyeballs and their tails cut off, people cut up, etc. We had that toy at home but mine had cartoon pictures in it. This event involved several of my personalities.

Next, the man took me to scary rides and poked me with needles in my waist and legs while he said things during the Alice in Wonderland ride, like, "This is not really happening. I am not really sticking this needle in your leg. You are just like Alice. You also ate the large mushroom and feel funny--this is not real." He kept laughing and acting like all this was fun and games and really amusing, but it was terrifying and confusing to me, and I couldn't understand why he was hurting me. Parts of me split off as they withstood the abuse and I pushed the experiences deep into my subconscious mind as my programming dictated.

Then the man took me to Mr. Toad's Wild Ride and sexually abused me by taking off my panties and pushing me up and down on top of his penis while we were going through the dark, enclosed ride. During many years that followed, I got hurt on Mr. Toad's ride. I was instructed to be extra sexy and wild and crazy in order to be "good" and not get hurt. If I did it right and performed on cue, then I didn't get hurt when it was over. When we came out into the light from the darkened ride, it was over and if I did it right I could stop and go back to my Mommy. If I did it wrong, I had to do it all over again until I did it right. They always hurt me real bad if I made a mistake. I tried my best. It seemed like I had to stay at Disneyland for a long time, but at the end of the long day, I got to have a pretty balloon that I looked at as I laid in the back seat of the car all the way home. I was devastated, exhausted and out of it during the ride back to Woodland Hills, but looked up at the pretty Mickey Mouse ears balloon or the Mickey Mouse balloon within a balloon, before I finally fell into a long deep sleep.

We went to Disneyland yearly, often for birthday celebrations. On another visit, a suited man escorted me to the front of the Snow White ride. As he guided me on board the boat, he flashed a badge to the attendant and explained that he had special permission to take this special guest on the ride. We entered a boat and rode through the canals while he refrained the fairy tale themes. As we passed them by, he stuck needles in my thighs at different times after he finished a line about a story. All the classic fairy tales drifted in front of us--the Three Pigs and the Big Bad Wolf. He told me that the big bad wolf could always find me and get me, even if I was in the well-built brick house, and that the wolf could huff and puff and blow my house down. He told me my parents couldn't protect me from the wolf either because he was big and bad and wild. I can still hear the Big Bad Wolf song playing. The man kept poking me with the needle and it hurt. I kept watching his hand with the needle trying to anticipate the pain and he kept telling me the scary stories. I didn't know what to do and couldn't get away because we were in a boat and I couldn't get off. Then he almost choked me to death in the front of the boat but kept talking and telling me the fairy tales, as if nothing had ever happened. I was terrified.

Later on, in the dark of the night a man in a suit took me on the Matterhorn and stopped the rollercoaster ride at the waterfall where he told me everything that happened was washed away and gone forever. He made me get off the ride and stand on the rocks high up inside the Matterhorn all alone in the dark that night. I was really tired. He said they were leaving me there alone because I didn't do it right and I didn't listen well. I was terrified in the dark, wet, rocky area that was whooshing with the sound of the wind and cars from the ride speeding by. But it got even scarier when the area fell silent. Cold and tired, I was left totally alone for what seemed to my child self like forever. When the man finally came to get me, he asked if I was ready to be good. Then he said a lot of words while he carried me to my parents. Handing me, all limp and wet, over to my mother, he said, "She's asleep." My mother was crying, my father was smiling and the man in the suit said, "It's been done, she's now ready for the next level."

My father carried me out of Disneyland but stopped to buy me a Mickey Mouse balloon to look at, to, as he said, "remember the good time you had." Disneyland was never really fun; there was always pain and torture.

Another night at Disneyland I climbed the steps to the Swiss Family Robinson Tree House. Once inside one of the rooms a man grabbed me, slapped my face really hard and flashed a bright light in my eyes. He said, "Your mother is not your real mother, your father is not your real father. You are made of much greater things, so great in fact that Walt Disney would claim you for his own. So remember what I've said about who your real parents are." When he was finished with me I climbed down from the treehouse, sobbing hysterically with each and every step. My mother was waiting for me at the bottom and took me over to the Fritos snack stand to try to get me calmed down.

It's A Small World ride was purposefully used to create the reality in my mind that I was really just on a ride at Disneyland when later I was taken to foreign countries for use. The programming that blossomed up into my conscious mind after such travel was that I was merely at Disneyland. One day my father accompanied me into the international phone display. I picked up many of the colored phones and listened to the different languages and my mom stood close by while my father appeared to walk away.

But my father really hid behind the phone display and talked like he was sending a message through the phone. Initially, I thought it was someone else talking to me through the phone, someone who mysteriously knew my name. When I caught on that it was my father, I knew better than to let on and continued with the charade. Soon a man in a Disney uniform came and linked arm in arm with me like the characters do in the Wizard of Oz, and escorted me over to the main headquarters near the dog kennels.

On another trip, I was taken on the Jungleboat ride at Disneyland at night. It was very dark and I noticed that no one was in line as my parents guided me through the area where people normally waited to enter the ride. We were all alone and I was terrified, anticipating what was to occur next. I had learned early on, and knew at a very deep subconscious level that my parents were of no protection to me; instead they were often the very ones that delivered me to very terrifying people, experiences and places. This night was no different. I was taken to the very back of the boat and a man in a dark suit emerged, and said, "I will take it from here," at which point my father took my mother by the elbow and escorted her robotically away. I was afraid.

"Laura," the man called out. Laura was my school personality who was programmed to be cooperative and helpful. He said, "Laura, I need your help so that things run very smoothly tonight."

"Yes, sir." I replied, now switched to Laura.

"I want you to turn around 7 times and I will be tying a rope around your waist so we don't lose you here tonight."

I couldn't imagine how I was about to get lost on this big boat, but I complied as he tied the rope around my waist and as commanded, I began turning as he counted, "One, two, buckle my shoe, no, three, four, shut the door. The door to your mind, that is, five, six, pick up sticks, and ...seven will do the trick." I didn't know what the trick was but I was soon to find out. "Here, now you just sit down right here," as he pointed to a place at the back of the boat, while he held onto me with the rope like I was a dog on a leash. Before I knew exactly what was happening he lifted me up and plunged me into that cold, dark water. As I hit the water, I was sure that the alligators that I'd seen earlier that day on the Jungle Cruise were going to get me and eat me alive in the dark. The boat was going and I was being dragged behind it. I held onto the rope so that I could stay facing forward. Reminding me of the Wizard of Oz programming theme, the man yelled, "Lions and tigers and bears, oh my." Then pointing into the dark water near me, he tapped into the Peter Pan theme I was also programmed with as he anxiously warned, "I believe there's an alligator there on your left, no I mean on your right, right there behind you, he's swimming right up behind you on your other left." I was frantically panicked; and in an attempt to make it all go away I squeezed my eyes as tightly shut as I could, and held onto the rope for dear life.

"You're a very strong little girl," he called out, "just like your father told me you were. You know, the survival of the fittest." Then he began to reel me back in and lifted me up by the rope as I climbed over the railing to get back on the boat. "You passed that test with flying colors! Your father said that this test would be easy for you."

I felt numb and my teeth were chattering from the cold. My dress was all wet and so were my shoes and socks and panties. I was freezing. My father always did talk to me about the 'survival of the fittest' and how I would be strong.

"You could fly like Tinkerbell does, across the sky at night attached to this rope like you are. Should I leave it on so that you can fly with Tinkerbell tonight, high up in the sky?"

"No, sir," I replied looking down at the rope and shivering.

He laughed real loudly. "You know that you fly with her every time you see her fly; you fly high, high away from all the things you think you remember here, but none of those things really happen; they are all just figments of your imagination. Do you know what figments are?"

I shook my head no.

"Figments are fruit that you eat. And you have enjoyed all the rides here tonight and had a lot of fun and now it is almost time for you to go home. You know, like Mickey says in the song, "Now it's time to say good-bye to all our company, M. 1. C. K. E. Y. M. O. U. S. E.; you know the song on TV, the one that you hear when you watch the Mickey Mouse Club?

"Yes," I said, now in total hypnotic, robotical program.

"When you see Tinkerbell and all the beautiful fireworks here tonight, you will remember the good and only the good things that happened here today and tonight. All the good will float up into your conscious mind just like Tinkerbell flies high in the sky, so will all the good things [that happened] fly high up into your conscious mind. You have had the best day here at Disneyland and want to return as soon as you can for more fun."

In a complete hysterical panic, my mother rushed up and threw her arms around me as if she was rescuing me. She threw some sort of dark cloth over me, and she and my father took me off the boat. She took me into a bathroom to change clothes near the Jungleboat ride. My mother ushered me into a stall and began changing my clothes without closing the door behind us. I was embarrassed. A lady came into the restroom and my mom said to her, "My daughter fell into the water and we are changing her clothes."

No wonder it has been difficult, at times, for me to trust my own awareness, even as an adult.

One night, my programmers decided I was to actually replace the real Tinkerbell in flight over the park at night in the dark. The men in park uniforms walked up behind the real Tinkerbell who was actually an older lady and this night she was in costume, ready to fly. The men told her to step aside, that I was going to fly that night. I didn't know where my mom and dad went and I was cold and scared. The woman was very angry. She wanted to do her job and yelled at the men but they told her just to relax, that she would still get paid and that no one would have to know she didn't fly and she could go home early and still collect her paycheck. Still angry she left and the men dressed me in a white Tinkerbell costume and strapped me into the flight harness. After I was secured, a man asked me if I was ready. He showed me where to hold onto the front straps so I wouldn't get my hands or arms ripped off while I was flying high above the Magic Kingdom. The whole experience was terrifying. They must have given me a drug because everything appeared to be in lots of pictures like a camera with a whole circle of lenses of the same picture, like a kaleidoscope. As I flew, I felt afraid that I would fall out and splat below on everyone, but after a little while I became numb. I could no longer think or feel. I must have fainted because when I got to the other end of the sky ride, a few men removed the harness and tried to get me to come to. One man slapped me but that didn't even wake me up, then someone else put smelling salts under my nose and I woke up. I don't remember much else except I couldn't walk very well and had to be carried out of Disneyland. That night there were no stops on Main Street to get toys or a balloon or candy. I felt sick and laid in the back of our old Buick until we got home. My brothers didn't go with us, it was just my mom and dad and me. My father said I was the 'star' of the family. I didn't like being the star if that's how it was, but he seemed very excited about it.

Twin Sister Programming

My neighbors, my "second mother" Mary and her daughter Peggy, took me to a Hollywood theatre to watch The Parent Trap, a 1961 Disney Movie starring Hayley Mills. The theme of this movie helped to shape the reality of my inner "twin sister," Sharon. I was Susan and my twin sister was Sharon. This Sharon personality was created in an attempt to further split my mind and was anchored within my personality structure in order to house a vast reservoir of experiences with the elite. Sharon was to identify herself with "high society."

Now of course, my inner twin sister Sharon also had to have programming experiences at Disneyland. To accomplish that our neighbor Mary took me to Disneyland with her daughter Peggy, who was my age. At one point we visited the beautiful Magic Castle that is located in the middle of the Magic Kingdom. As I walked through the Castle, exploring the area, I rounded a corner and as I stepped into a darkened area, a man in a black cape that had been hiding in a dark corner of the castle stepped forward and grabbed me. He put his hand over my mouth so I wouldn't scream and he elbowed me in the stomach before he raped me. Then he took me in the direction of the dog kennels in the front of Disneyland where other bad things happened. Every year, Sharon had to watch the "President Show with Lincoln" that played in a theatre on Main Street and in order to keep her secret experiences hidden from her conscious mind, this twin sister part of me also had to be exposed to many of the same kinds of trauma.

Sharon was created to be Catholic, and Mary and Peggy often took me with them to Catholic mass. (They didn't know about my connection to Henry Kissinger.) I was taught about Holy Water and genuflecting and the Stations of the Cross and Confession and Hail Marys and saying the Rosary. Peggy let me borrow her rosary beads that had a little blue enamel picture of the Blessed Mary on it. I learned to say, "Hail Mary full of grace the Lord is with thee," over and over again for each bead. We always had to wear a hat or a scarf. They had a lot of rules you had to follow. Had to get that Holy Water and dab it on yourself at your Stations of the Cross; forehead, heart then each shoulder, before you genuflected upon entering the pews. Then we knelt down and said the Rosary for a very long time. With my childlike consciousness, I thought it was a dumb thing to do and kept asking everyone why we had to say that and what it would do, but all everyone ever said was that I asked too many questions. During the many times I attended mass with Mary and Peggy, I silently prayed to the statue of the Blessed Virgin and asked her to help me, although I was unable to "think" about why I needed help.

Sharon was a "child of the elite" and later on, serviced the elite, such as the Rockefellers. She was often the sexually-oriented personality when I was used for sex and mind file work. "Sharon" was my highly sexual counterpart and "Sue" contained the messages in mind files.

To further my split conditioning, there was a small stone building in a cemetery where the men in suits locked me in for the whole night. They took my clothes away from me, pushed me into the dark room and closed the door. It was cold on the concrete floor and I could feel spider webs in the corners. It was scary, so I just sat down on my feet in the corner, hugged my legs to my body and closed my eyes.

After awhile, an angel appeared. She said her name was Maria and that I was being prepared for the future. She said that she and other angels would help me and I would be "sustained." I didn't know what that word meant but felt like it was okay because I felt so much love from her. While my spirit self was sitting next to her on a bench, my physical body was still in that concrete room. She told me she would be very close to me later when I was older and could understand more. She explained that these people were unkind because they didn't understand, but that my angel friends loved me very much and would be there whenever I needed them. All of a sudden, before I was ready to leave her, I was back in the cold concrete cubicle, still sitting squatted on my feet and she was gone. I felt like I had traveled somewhere and I wanted to go back there because it didn't hurt and wasn't cold there, but I couldn't figure out how to get there. I had to wait for the angel to escort me. Everyone was always escorting me everywhere--on earth and in heaven. When the men came to let me out, it was still dark and they dropped me off at home. Entering the breezeway, I went through the back door, into my room and went to sleep.

The Golden Arches

Now of course, in order to insure that Sharon's memory was kept separate from my conscious mind, trauma had to be induced to create the dissociative barrier. Among other traumas, I was taken to St. Mel's Catholic Church in Woodland Hills and was molested by a short fat "Father," at the back of the church in a side room. This priest who spoke with an Irish accent and smelled like alcohol, pulled my hair while he sexually satisfied himself in my mouth. When he was finished with me, two men in suits escorted me to an awaiting limousine. I had short hair and wore a felt poodle skirt, flats, white socks and a white blouse. It wasn't unusual to see limousines lined up in front of this large Catholic church for use at funerals or weddings. It was nearing dark and once out of sight of the public, these men were very rough with me. They threw me into the back seat and once inside the limo I laid on the seat in a fetal position, rocking myself, terrified out of my mind.

Arriving at the new McDonald's, one man told me, "Look at the Golden Arches, they are your Highway to Heaven. Whenever you enter to cross over, you won't remember having been here." I went in as Sue and after I was drugged I came out as Sharon. I had no awareness that Sharon was me. In my internal, subconsciously created reality, I believed Sharon to be my physically separate, twin sister, but consciously I had no knowledge of any other part of me except Sue. All I knew was there were lots of times when I was told that I would be allowed to see my twin sister, my secret twin sister. I felt sad. I missed her desperately and I felt that she was always in danger and needed me. The man who was present to create this part of my programming was a very affluent and locally well-known and respected Catholic OB/GYN doctor, named Dr. McGinnis. He told me that I could find my twin sister in the bathroom, so I ran there to find Sharon. The doctor and another man followed me as I ran into the small one room bathroom that I entered from outside McDonald's, in tears desperate to find my twin sister. Once inside, as directed, I looked around and came out and told the doctor that he could come inside, that there was no one else there. I felt very robotic. Entering the small bathroom with me, he locked the door behind us and told me to sit on the floor in the corner of the stall. I did as he instructed. He took my arm and put it up on the toilet lid, slipped a rubber cuff around my arm and got a big needle out. As he injected the drug into my arm he commanded, "count backwards from three."

"One..." I started.

"NO!" The doctor yelled angrily. "I said backwards, starting from three."

"Three, two," I slumped over and passed out.

He began slapping my face and I couldn't wake up but he called out, "Sharon, Sharon, Sharon."

Finally after lots of slapping, Sharon said, "Yes."

"Get up and walk out to the car." The doctor commanded. Sharon obeyed.

He carried his black doctor's bag and we took off as soon as he got into the limo. I overheard him say to the driver that if he ever got caught he would just take his black bag and say he was on an emergency, that way no one would ever question him.

We drove down Ventura Boulevard to a jewelry store. The doctor and I went in, myself still switched to my twin sister Sharon. He told the store owner I was looking for a present for my mother, but I wasn't really. These people always told lies. He put a diamond bracelet on my arm and said, "You're used to jewels, remember?"

"Yes," I said, smiling. It was true that Sharon was used to riches.

"That is all you need to remember, that you're used to jewels." As we turned to leave, he called out to the owner at the other end of the store to say that we were finished shopping.

Next, I was dropped off at a big house somewhere and taken downstairs to be filmed in child pornography. There were men in leathers and chains with guns. A man ripped my clothes off and sodomized me while another guy watched as it was filmed. Then I was chained up, whipped and filmed more. They liked it when I cried out. They said I had to, in order to make a good film, but I really wanted to be quiet and keep all to myself so it would ruin the film. They put a baby on a wooden table and killed her while I was being raped and they said her lifeblood was filling me and that I liked taking the baby's life into me. I didn't really. I didn't want them to hurt the baby, ever. But I had to smile and laugh while they filmed it or they said I would be killed, also. They made these snuff films often with babies or little girls. "The younger, the purer," the men said. They believed fetuses were the best to get the purest untouched lifeblood. They often ingested the flesh afterwards, and sometimes the heart, while it was still beating. It was terrifying, vile and disgusting. And they fed it to me for the filming. I was always forced to smile.

After it was all over I was taken by limo back to McDonald's, into the same bathroom where some man snapped his fingers in front of my face and said, "Susie, you've fainted," which, by calling out that name, switched me back into my conscious personality. Once revived, these men drove me to my street, dropped me off and told me to walk the highway to heaven into sleep. In program trance, I walked the short block home, went through the breezeway into the back door, and climbed into my bed. It was dark outside but the yellow porch light was on and I knew my way through the house with my eyes closed.

That night, alone in my bed, I said the prayer I usually said with my mother or my grandmother each and every night, "Angel of God, my guardian dear, to whom His Love commits me here. Ever this day be at my side. To light and guard, to rule and guide."

I beg of you, dear reader, to be open to the possibility that these sorts of atrocities did happen, and that they are still happening to other children today, even right now at this very moment. Please open your heart and know that this could be true so together we can all put a stop to the abuse that terrifies and threatens to destroy the children.

McDonald's was often a part of my abuse whether I was in California or later away from home when after use in different states or countries, they took me to "The Golden Arches" and gave me coke (later aspartame-infused diet coke with a twist of lemon) and french fries. McDonald's was a very powerful program for repressing events of national and international usage.

The Foundation is Built

By the tender age of five, 1 was conditioned through torture and high tech hypnotic tect and electroshock, to hurt myself in many ways should I begin to remember the secret activities, was a part of. Per programmed suggestion, if I began to remember I would stub my big toe c burn myself on the stove, thereby removing my focus from the remembered secret experienck and re-routing my attention to my wound. I was instructed where to cut my wrist in order to take my own life, should I begin to remember or tell. There were also accident programs instilled t insure my death if I began to remember. Endless programs were installed int in my life that were available for later use in suppressing my hidden activities

Over the years, I was told the following while I was being tortured, in an~ you remember, you will kill yourself; if you tell, people will think you are crazy and will loc you up in a mental institution; if you don't obey us, we will kill your family or your dog and ca if you tell, we will kill you." I had witnessed killings for years and knew these were not id threats.

My programmers also created within me, reporting personalities that were instructed to tell on me in regard to anything I did that was stepping out of line. This common feature of mind control is reported by many survivors.

"He called a little child and had him stand among them. And he said: "I tell you the truth, unless you change and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. Therefore, whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven."
--Matthew 18:2-4

"See that you do not look down on one of these little ones. For I tell you that their angels in heaven always see the face of my Father in heaven."
-- Matthew 18:10-11

Chapter Four: Uncle Charlie, Kissinger, Hope and their Little Puppet.

My Inner Twin Sister, Sharon Weatherby

I was paraded in many circles as a child, as Sharon Weatherby, and sitting on the fringes watching me was my Uncle Charlie. He told me that he would always be there, rain or shine.

Uncle Charlie was always at my father's Aunt Maude's when we went to visit her, just dad and me. He would be waiting for us on her little couch with the lace coverlets, the sheer curtain behind holding a green chameleon lizard that I thought was real until I got older. All decked out in a tan suit, his Dapper Dan shoes and a carnation in his lapel, Uncle Charlie smiled, shook my hand and winked at me. If he had on glasses, he would take them off to make sure I caught the wink and that was my cue to keep the secret. He told me before that it would hurt my father's feelings if he knew he wasn't really my father so I shouldn't ever mention it. "Otherwise," he said, "it would likely break his heart." I sure didn't want to hurt my Daddy anymore than he already was with his neck injury, slipped disk and parents who abused and didn't love him. And he loved me so much, unless he had to hurt me. Uncle Charlie said, "Unfortunately he has to do that to make you powerful one day." So when I met Uncle Charlie with my father the first time, I never let on that I knew him. Later Charlie said, "Young lady, that was the finest acting job I've ever seen. You're hired!"

Well I was "hired" at a very young age, but was never paid a cent. And Uncle Charlie was my representative, come to take me to meet first, Bob and, soon after, Henry. Sharon was indeed programmed to be precocious and one day reported the following joke repertoire to Henry and later to audiences Bob and Henry sent me to:

> "I told my owners, it's enough that you clowns expect me to work for free. You know it was bad enough that they broke the child labor laws and I told them about that when I learned it in school. They just laughed. But on top of that was SLAVE LABOR, and I recited the Constitutional Amendment that was causing a problem in my internal mind file legal systems. I told Henry it kept getting thrown out and I pretended it was repeatedly escaping and leaping out of my right ear. He thought I was funny and told me to refile it anyway - then I was sent off for more reconditioning. I never thought they would stop with that stuff and I was right. Zap, zap, zap."

These were the type of jokes that Bob Hope programmed into me for shows when I was demonstrated to others that had similar mind control "interests." The first time I recited it to Henry for his approval, he raised his eyebrows and looked at me over his glasses; he usually seemed either pretty amazed or leery at the jokes Bob installed into me. I was too young and too fragmented to have come up with this type of material on my own.

In later years when people would ask Bob where I came from, Bob jokingly told them I was picked off a conveyor belt. He always teased about where I came from. Bob told me once that he chose me because there was that little something special that he saw in my eyes.

Henry created my personality system and Bob handled the dialogue, jokes, songs, dances, and entertainment, and supplied Henry with famous friends and connections from all over the world, including Hollywood celebrities and business and political connections. Henry said contacts were everything, and that he and Bob worked well together because, despite their differences, together they more than doubled their influence and efficiency. They did wield influence over a large group of people. Henry had the mind and Bob had the means and the connections.

Creating My Inner Universe

Henry worked with me more in the beginning to set up all my systems. He even marked my forehead all over with little x's delineating what he called a "stellar map" of my system. Then he had me look into the mirror and what I saw, in addition to my little five or six year old face, framed by short hair, was black x's all over me. He said those were planets within my inner universe of knowledge and that they were laying in wait for the day they would be occupied. Later he attached the foreign countries, using It's a Small World for the different planets. This kept the information totally separated since the planets had no way of communicating with each other. So all the information remained self-contained but held in orbit in the big blue vastness by stars. All the stars were used as mind files for different movie "stars" or politicians I was used with. The larger stars held larger files of personalities I was used with more regularly and the smaller stars were reserved for people I only saw on occasion. The largest stars were reserved for Presidents, Kings, Queens, etc. The Council, that all-powerful group of men secretly orchestrating this whole drama, had very specialized, highly advanced satellite systems that traveled all over inside my mind, constantly monitoring my internal "worlds." They could also access interstellularly or interplanetarily and gain access to any information they wanted about any area or person in the system. Council members were the only ones who didn't have any security blocks throughout the system anywhere. They had full and total access like Henry. Bob's access was limited only by his ability to be able to fully access every part of the system. Henry just didn't inform Bob about planets or stars he didn't want him to know about. And Henry told me that he and Uncle Bob rode on little space cycles all around inner space in my head in order to police everything and make sure everything was always in perfect order, with no file on any planet or star ever getting out of order or loose. That way Henry kept my mind files in perfect order. Henry told me the mind files are limitless because the universe is limitless and contains an infinite vastness, always new areas to chart. Henry said it could never be full.

Kissinger And Ever More Sophisticated Programming

Kissinger was the mastermind behind my personality structure, and used others to further his creation. He was usually inside the top security places my father and others took me. There they did all the "prep work," they called it, before I was taken to Henry for his expertise. Prepping, to me, meant torture in machines, chairs, all sorts of horrors and then, when I couldn't function any longer, didn't know my own name, or if I was even real, they would take me to Henry. Henry had a notebook of diagrams he worked from. A "distilled" diagram meant that the original idea and intent had been identified and worked out, and the succeeding diagrams were a further refinement until the end result was total perfection. That's how Henry created my personality structure. Mind control was a secret weapon that he perfected over the years.

Henry had other "robots," as he called them, but I was the one with whom he spent the most time perfecting. He said I was the perfect subject and that my father had done such a great preliminary job that his work was guaranteed a success, where other robots fell short because they "bled through" and so couldn't be relied upon. I knew Henry had other robots because he said he had them for various and sundry things but said that I was the cream of the crop.

Henry said we had a "roving headquarters," and that was always his black briefcase. When I saw his briefcase I was programmed to feel familiar, and my surroundings didn't matter. I could now do my work knowing that everything was okay. At least that is what was suggested for me to think and feel.

As I grew older, I was taken to military bases for more sophisticated programming. Helplessly hooked up to high tech machines that did things to my brain, I had no way of understanding what these people were doing to me or why. I was placed in large metal chambers and left in isolation, sometimes spun, with colored lights, always with only one color at a time. I was restrained in sophisticated chairs with electrodes attached to my head, then electroshocked in a variety of ways. Sophisticated audio equipment also was used on me. Often loud, piercing sounds were relayed through earphones, usually with different sounds being fed into each ear. I didn't know what exactly they were accomplishing with all of this technology, but I felt tortured by it.

Mind File System

I also continued to be taken to Disneyland for base programming for my government mind file system. At around 8 years old, Henry made up some clever programs to create a place and organization in my head for my international mind files. He created within my personality system one or two children for each nationality; as is similarly portrayed in It's a Small World ride at Disneyland. Henry said the international themes were to anchor in different mind file systems that he said were "culturally oriented." Around The World In 80 Days was a song I sang over and over again when either my mother or my brother played it on the organ or my brother would play it on his accordion. The words I was programmed to respond to were, "Around the world in 80 days, I traveled on when Hope was gone to make my rendezvous..." Henry Kissinger and Bob Hope continued to be cohorts over the years and played around the world with people and governments, as much as that song played repeatedly in my head.

Henry linked a whole array of different programs to the It's a Small World ride and said, "When you walk up to the clock you will hear it tick-tock and then you will dock; tick-tock, ticktock. Keep all information separate. Keep all information clean and neatly in its space with little walls in between." I walked up to the ride, and saw the huge clock tower going tick-tock, then I was told to file through the turnstile until I got to the ride. Henry meant for me to think my actual trips abroad were really just memories about this ride. Due to this programming I had trouble distinguishing reality from fantasy. Disney fantasy was really meant to hide my international experiences from my conscious mind.

Once I got off the ride Henry said something hypnotic to me to lock in the program. He spent a good part of the day with me at Disneyland. He was really funny to the personalities he was programming. I almost laughed when I first saw him. I knew it wasn't allowed, but he did look really funny in the disguise. He had on a beard, wig and hat. He looked okay, but I knew it was really Henry, and so I said, "Henry, why are you wearing those silly things?" I couldn't comprehend why he needed to pretend he wasn't himself.

In his thick-accented, deep, monotonic voice, he told me to be quiet and with irritation in his voice said, "You, my child, are too precocious."

Henry put me on ride after ride, and after I got off the rides, dizzy, nauseated, lightheaded, disoriented, frightened, or whatever, he told me to "listen intently," while he programmed all sorts of things into my mind file system.

"My Name Is Henry Sims"

Henry bought me popcorn and a balloon, too, just like my parents did in order to lock in the program. If people had known that Henry Kissinger was there at Disneyland that day, they would have been very surprised. And if I were the cause of him being recognized, I would surely have been terminated. I was never to allude to being associated with Henry Kissinger. Henry gave me a lot of mixing up on that agenda by having me read "Henry books and cartoons," in his attempt to keep his identity anonymous to my conscious mind. He attempted to scramble my association to him by having me read a variety of books; one was about Henry and the donut machine. He was always whispering, "My name is Henry Sims," in my ear, so no one else could hear him. He also had me eat "Oh Henry" candy bars and read "Oh Henry" cartoons, after he'd given me a hypnotic command to wipe away all memory of him while I was reading or eating the above.

Sometimes Henry would drive us to a parking lot, where we got out and walked some distance to a shopping center or a waterway. Each time we were together, he usually wore a different type hat (sometimes a Dick Tracy one) and a stick-on mustache and/or beard. He used to have a square mustache and a square goatee to match. He wore those off and on. Henry was a master of disguise and could keep his roles straight. He seemed very smart to me as a child.

In the early days, Henry would tell people, "She's a smart cookie, isn't she?" That was when I was about 10, just before my big political White House sexual liaisons were to begin. But I'm getting ahead of myself.

Carousel Program

Henry also programmed me in front of a carousel ride. He had me stand in front of the carousel but he wouldn't let me sit down on a horse or a bench on the ride. I was only 8 years old or so and I wanted to get on the ride and have fun, but Henry said I had to stand up outside of the ride. That day, the carousel in my mind had to be created with me standing up and the files in my mind were to glide smoothly and as easily as the carousel turning. Then it would come to a stop, like the wheel of fortune, at the country in the mind file that Henry would ask for. He told me, "There's a whole other world in your mind files, the whole world." Then he told me, "The carousel makes the files in your head turn easily and effortlessly." My programmers also linked memory of times I was spun until I was dizzy and disoriented in their attempt to keep these mind files under the cloak of national security. As I deprogrammed I often mentally bumped into spin, sleep, suicide, migraine, and drug programs that I had to fight through in order to get to the original experiences. I was often physically sick, as my program dictated, and suffered massive migraine headaches and pain in different parts of my body while retrieving this information I'm sharing with you.

Henry told me, "You are a computer and like magnets repel, if you try to work on a computer, your mind will repel. It will go away and you won't be able to think to operate it. That is of course unless it's "apple blossom time," which was a cryptic reference to New York. Later he programmed in "cherry blossom time," as a code for JFK. In 1991, some 30 years later, as I attempted to document my memories on computer from the island of Kauai, I was continually frustrated, as I would become disoriented upon starting to write my remembered experience. Often after I tenaciously battled my way through the journalizing of my memories, I would smile having won, only to become immediately disoriented, and look again the next moment to find that the information I had just spent one to two hours documenting had been erased by another part of my personality structure who was still following the ordered command of my controllers. It was extremely frustrating, but I was stubborn and refused to give up!

Inner Clock Program

Henry programmed in reporting personalities so he could use them to debrief me in order to access the data he carefully requested I acquire on certain targeted information or individuals. He created a very sophisticated system that allowed me to have an inner clock that not only kept perfect time but, when asked, I delivered the time audibly, and also knew the times around the world and could even record and playback the time that events occurred for me each day. Henry would ask me, "What did you do between the hours of 8 and 5 on June 5th?"

I would recite, "At 8 a.m. I woke up, at 9 a.m. I took a shower, at 10 a.m. I saw so and so..." At anytime Henry could check the inner record to find out where I'd been, who I was with, and what I was saying or doing. He instructed the set-up to house, "who, where and what," and be able to enter "the schedule recording file" into the framework of the base program.

My most important job was to drop the message to people he sent me to, at the right time. Henry said timing was everything. So he taught me to drop messages at the perfect time and to look into the person's eyes and notice other facial mannerisms and how he or she was breathing. He said I would get it like "perfect clockwork." That was the actual name of a mind file category, to list and recite all the different world times so Henry would know exactly what time it was in each and every country in the world anytime he would ask me - and all this time and place orientation looped back into the It's a Small World ride and the Clock Tower programming.

Henry could remember file names and numbers better than anyone could. He always remembered the major ones all in his head. He had a small notebook where he kept track of other mind files; large lists for intricate blueprints, classified documents, and detailed listings under subheadings. The system of files he created was multi-leveled and multi-tiered, like a wedding cake. Henry told my respective personalities how it looked overall and created a picture in our head so we could see how it worked from inside. We also had an inside "teacher" that we could hear inside the head to teach, remind, command and organize. This teacher was important and worked inside subconsciously and separately with Henry, until I was thirty-six or so, when a chiropractor inadvertently connected my conscious mind up to my inner teacher, who later ultimately helped lead me to freedom. The result was that Henry's inner teacher program was made conscious and I was taught to my conscious mind what was previously subconscious, thus, my conscious and subconscious minds were linked together making the program even stronger and accessible to learning information from others. So, I was then consciously able to realize I was assigned my "inner teacher" and "inner guides," who really were just code names for projects or areas I was involved in. Then, I began to hear the codes consciously and it was activating subconscious personalities or material in my mind files. But once again I am getting ahead of myself.

Chess Anyone?

Henry played games with me; chess, checkers, tic-tae-toe, and concentration; all mind games "to create other files and nooks and crannies to store files," Henry said. He set up a system with a chess game that was intended to house cryptic messages between Henry and others. The Council contacted Henry and built a very strong relationship with him through lengthy discussions and information they sent to him through messages encoded in my mind file system.

Over time, Henry wooed them by creating very sophisticated (yet simple for the intelligent) ways of communicating through the coded chess game where each piece had a very specific meaning that he taught me to memorize in order to relay the code. Over time the secret players knew what the moves meant by heart. They were time worn. "You see the chess board like a clock and all the pieces are recognized in a clockwise motion," Henry instructed me under his hypnotic command. When the chess board was set up, all Henry (or the Council) had to do was to make a move on the chess board and I would memorize and carry the move, containing the cryptic message, back and it would be understood what was meant by the communication. Unilateral wars were directed; the players in the game of war were clearly demarcated. There were no mistakes because everything was programmed and cross-checked like a computer. My mind was programmed and catalogued like a machine, so there could be only absolute precision.

The chessboard was a bridge to the "other world" where my controllers all existed, "like when Dorothy went to Oz," I was told. Henry and Bob and Governor (later President) Reagan and the others were to be seen like Dorothy's friends and family--they existed over the rainbow while my mom and dad and friends were where Auntie Em lived, in the real world. "So just like in the mirror, everything is just the opposite of what you see. Like Sleeping Beauty looking into a pool of clear water and seeing her beautiful reflection, you will go over the rainbow, melt into it." "Over the Rainbow" was always going toward the world that was like Oz, that pretend world of Henry Sims and Bob. Everyone was on the other side, all I had to do was "walk through the liquid mirror to face the other side and that will immediately switch you and turn you around to face a new situation, calm, refreshed and invigorated. Every move, smooth and efficient," Henry instructed me.

The Older Look

Henry created many personalities inside of me who were programmed to be older and wiser than my young years, for his use with others. These personalities were formed and created by watching different selected movies as a child, like My Fair Lady. This was necessary, I overheard Henry tell others, in order to use me at 10 years old, passed off to others as a 16-18 year old. Since I was physically developed by 10 years old, they could pull it off, especially by creating very mature personalities to handle some of their very important clients. By that time I began having my hair done professionally once a week. My hairstyle was short and "chic," was the word Henry used. He needed to provide me with an older look and, in those days, everyone needed me to be older looking, older acting, older everything. My hair was professionally styled every week, in order to more smoothly portray the very mature, polished personalities that he and others helped create for their use. One obstacle was during the time I had my braces on. At that time, there were occasions when I would be taken to my orthodontist, James Mulick, DDS., a UCLA graduate, and late at night, he would remove my front braces and then a day or two later after my use was over, he would replace them. Like everyone else, he was probably also under programming.

In those days, Henry accessed information from my mind files with needles that he stuck in between my knuckles, though never in public. When we were at a meeting or in a public place he just touched my hand to put me into a mind file mode, then he would cue me with key/code numbers to access the specific files he wanted. Later, he used a "time clock theme" and fortunately for me he abandoned the use of needles.

Over time, many personalities were specifically created and enhanced for future use with targeted people, such as presidents, entertainers or foreign leaders. There were "president mind files" that were created strictly for the President's use in whatever way they needed or wanted. I was instructed to wear pearls for times I was to be used strictly as a mind file, and diamonds when I was to be used primarily sexually with presidents, heads of state or world leaders.

I can still hear Henry's voice giving me the commands, with his thick heavy accent he said, "Your eyes are getting so sleepy a train wouldn't rattle you. Now when you are deep asleep you will be able to retain vast reservoirs of information for safekeeping and retrieval by me and only me. This information is safe, very safe, because it can only be accessed by me. Do you understand? Nod if you understand." I nodded my head. "Good," he said, "now we can begin with the taping of the message, 'Mr. President, I was aghast at your stance in Iran. Change directions and face east. The success of this operation depends on it.' "

Other memory compartments he created for other usage were seen to me, inside, as blocks of memory banks that housed information. They all had combination locks that Henry knew the codes to. Many had number and letter codes like, "16R, 17L, and 12 up straight." With the access code, the door to the memory bank in my head would swing open wide and I could go in and read the information Henry wanted. He told me the file to go into and I'd read through the alphabetical mind file system to get to the subject he wanted. Then, I read him the data or accessed messages directed to him from others.

Later on when I was older, I had numerical codes for laundering money to and from places he told me to go.

UCLA

Henry spent time at UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute in Westwood, California, in the area where they tested me and worked on my brain with all of their high tech equipment; bright lights, goggles, drugs, electroshock, cat scan tubes, etc. Henry walked with the big, heavy Caucasian doctor dressed in a white lab coat down the halls and I walked behind them until we got to the double swinging doors, and then the doctor held one door open for Henry and I to enter. We all went inside and Henry told me to hop up on the table. The doctor examined my reflexes and looked into my eyes with different lights and gave me tastes and smells and all sorts of things that they said would powerfully effect my brain. Henry told me the doctor was my imaginary friend. He told me that was what I was to think, anyway. In an attempt to further scramble my brain the big doctor crossed his arms over his chest with his hands pointing in opposite directions and said, "Is it east or is it west? I don't know, I just get confused."

NASA

Another time doctors in white coats played perceptual mind games with me at a NASA installation. First they took me "through the course," they called it, and I was taken from chairs that performed different operations, like one that spun, then next to an isolation chamber. They put huge eye machines up to my face and had me close one eye and then the other in order to program each side of the brain separately. Some things were then reversed and programmed into another area of my brain through the opposite eye. They called this "cross-programming." For other functions, both sides of my brain had to be operating syncronistically. Information for mind file use was stored only on one side of my brain. Then, they allowed me to rest a moment before they injected me with some drug after which they put me through the course again (first by a woman, then by a man). They led me from each piece of equipment by the hand because at this point I was a total zombie. When I finished the third go-around of the course of equipment; they put me in a totally soundless isolation chamber. I don't know how long I was in isolation, but doctors in white lab coats released me and asked me questions. I was still spinning; I felt like I couldn't even prevent my head and eyes from continually spinning as I attempted to answer their questions. Focusing my eyes was very difficult. I can still feel and experience, to the point of abreaction, how awful and disorienting it felt. The doctors always acted very superior, but even as a child under mind control, somehow I was able to wonder, "who couldn't win with mind games, under these circumstances." I was only a child who had been put through torture and drugged, and now they wanted to ask me questions as if they were somehow better than I was. After one doctor finished questioning me, he would leave and another doctor would question and test me further.

At the time I was unable to consciously fathom the fact that that there was never any normal life for me. Only "acting" normal outwardly and for the public. Normal was what most people deemed acceptable behavior and I was told to emulate the normal people. So I copied behavior and was only allowed to be around certain people. All other relationships were not allowed. Both my mother and father watched me "like a hawk;" they said I wasn't allowed to go to social events that were not part of my programmed reality.

Henry Got Me into the Pentagon Lots of Times

In order to ready me for this assignment, Henry played "a bingo game" with me inside my head and directed me to the files in the Pentagon by a map he also created inside my head. In the Pentagon file room a code identified each filing cabinet in the room by giving it a letter code for the row and a number code for the number of the cabinet, starting with # 1 at the left. There were 12 rows of 12 cabinets in the area. The floor beneath the cabinets was smooth concrete or marble-like. The files inside the cabinets were labeled with letter and number codes. You had to look up the document you wanted from a listing, to get to the code number in order to look it up in the files. These were kept on the opposite side of the building for security purposes so a person would have to break through two security systems to get to the document they wanted. None were just filed alphabetically, but had a different system altogether for security. The building's windows had those small wavy, wiry lines in them. But the file room didn't have any windows. There were different types of security systems. Some systems set and unlocked with cards, others with keys, and still others were heat, light, voice or pressure activated. In some areas there were red laser beams that shone through the area that housed the filing cabinets.

There were many times that he dressed me in different disguises; dressed me as a man, complete with beard and mustache, or a woman with padding to make me appear heavyset. These disguises were also successful in making me appear different ages. He often had hats that completed my disguise for a job. Henry disguised me and took me in one night. He only did the night entrance on one occasion, when there was an emergency that was worth the risk of abandoning me inside with instructions to self-destruct if apprehended. Henry did something to get an armed guard to agree to take me through the long, gray halls and lines of desks to the area where they had rows of file cabinets full of classified documents. Henry needed some information on a document, so he said something to the guard and the guard took me all through the building unlocking systems as we went. He took me up to the file room and just like in the game Henry and I had played, I went straight for the file cabinet, coded in the row and number on the map in my head. Like a rat in a maze, I knew my way exactly to the desired destination and I used a small flashlight that Henry had given me for this purpose. The file area had cameras that filmed the area, like in banks. Those had to somehow be shut down. Henry told me to pull the file, photographically memorize its entire contents within a prearranged mind file and minutes to completely "photograph" a multi-page document with my mind. There was no, enough time to read it, but I photographed it quickly, and then I returned to the guard. I think the agreement was that I could only have 2 minutes in an open drawer once I located the document I think Henry challenged guys that thought I couldn't do such things that fast or other things than seemed humanly impossible, so that he could get me into different highly secured buildings Henry also palmed guards and at other times got special clearances, or would work a deal out with a guard or the guard's boss. It was tricky because guards had to log their Henry would help provide them with an alibi for the time they were helping him.

During regular business hours, Henry would prostitute me to top Pentad, guards, whoever he needed to manipulate or access in order to gain the information he wanted There were certain Pentagon officials who were more cooperative than others. In later years he took me to meetings with men at the Pentagon in order to "debrief' me in front of them.

At the Pentagon there was also an audio-visual room, as they called it back in the late 60's and early 70's, where persons with top clearances could go to see a movie (later videos), of top secret projects and other classified information. Henry got me in to see lots of those over the years. There used to be a large movie screen, but later a large monitor for video showings

Henry and The CIA

Henry sent man,: at the airport in a limo. Once in the office, Henry sat me in the large wooden chair that turned, r, order to give me the message while he spun me. Later, I was driven with him while he sorted through my mind files, listened to messages from people, and inputted information on new projects until we reached Washington, D.C. Then he sent me into buildings and I gave the information to whomever I was told to and in whatever way Henry said. Most of the time se, was just an avenue to deliver messages or maybe just used as a payoff to officials who were willing to overlook their security command in order to allow me access to certain classifies areas. Henry was well greased into the inner network of the FBI and CIA. He and his groin made sure they had control over these agencies. The director was always "one of theirs," but Henry had a lot of important information to give these agencies in order for things to groove, like well-oiled cogs.

They sent me to "give a message to the man on the second floor in the hall who has a rep handkerchief in his left pocket and bumps into your left shoulder and leans over to say, 'Sorry little girl.' Then you tell him this message."

Henry had a lot of business with the CIA and the FBI and it was all a big secret. He sent m, in even at eight and nine years old to deliver some of his most sensitive information to the most sensitive of connections. It all began with him spinning me in the wooden chair and inputting the message. Then he would have someone deliver me to the destination where I passed off information, often to older, very dignified, wealthy looking gentlemen. Sometimes I "ran into". cute little old man with white hair who bumped me on the shoulder and dropped something on the floor like a rose, handkerchief, or key ring and as we both bent to get it, I'd deliver information. Sometimes it was a long string of numbers and sometimes just a word like "Ajax, or "coma," or "barley him "or "make him into a ham on rye," or "tonight, 3 a.m. Federal Building job."

Chain Of Command

My chain of command was Henry first and then Bob. Henry Kissinger created Sue and Bob Hope created Sharon, and initially they were to only work with their respective sides of my personality structure. Messages could be sent through the inner personality system. Bob was never to access Sue and Henry wasn't to access Sharon, but Henry taught many personalities how to send messages back and forth through the system in order to get information about Sharon without accessing directly through her and thereby keeping it secret from Bob that he was breaking their agreement. Henry created "inner runners" that took messages from Sue to Sharon and then replied back without ever having to have Sharon present. It worked well, but Bob didn't access Sue. Since Bob didn't create my personality infrastructure, he lacked the sophistication to know how to access information without being caught and he knew Kissinger would find out because Henry programmed me to always tell the truth. I couldn't do otherwise and I would tell on Bob because Henry told me, "You watch him and tell me everything he does."

After lots of contact with Henry, he said, "Like in a good marriage, after awhile there is unconscious communication going all the time." He meant that it was like knowing each other so well that you know each other's thoughts, and that's how he trained me to be attuned to him.

In the early years lots of my instructions came by way of the telephone. My controllers would call out a specific personality's name and I would switch to her, listen for instructions and when they said, "Bye Sue," I'd switch back to my regular personality, with no conscious awareness of the event.

Bob took me to more places as a child to gain experience, but Henry just sat me in the chair a lot and read instructions or stuck that big pin in my thigh or hand, and gave me things to look at to "take a picture with my inner camera."

Who Would Suspect a Kid?

Henry had his driver take us to different parks in New York and they would let me out. I was eight or nine years old one time when Henry told me to, "walk toward the man in the blue suit," and when he dropped his handkerchief I was to give him a message. When I walked back to the car, Henry said, "You're some kind of homing pigeon." He called me that often when I was little and doing "errands" for him. He wanted me to have short hair so he could disguise me to look like a boy or a girl, whatever the job required. He had me be everything including "invisible"--that is, hidden inside of a box that was transported into a large warehouse. Of course I was instructed that once inside, to wait two hours, get out of the box and come and unlock the warehouse, and if necessary I was instructed in how to break the security code to get out. Like Henry said, "Who would suspect a kid?"

Chapter Five: Initiation into the Political Arena as a Sex Slave

My father sold me as a prostitute to neighbors and business contacts. He programmed me to ride my bike to the gas station at the corner of Ventura Boulevard and Fallbrook Avenue in Woodland Hills. Mr. Teesdale and Mr. Roberts owned the station. Frank, the auto mechanic and gas station attendant who worked there, traded my father free gas and auto servicing in exchange for having sex with me in the bathroom at the station. That went on for several years. The gas station has since been demolished and in its place stands a large office building, but the memories of what happened to me remain. He also took me to the next door neighbor, Mr. Faciano, to perform sexual favors, always in exchange for twenty dollar bills. My father also sold me for sex to groups of men who met at the welding shop he owned. These men took me by the hand, behind Smitty's Wood Lot, and sexually abused me (I performed oral sex, or they would rape or sodomize me) in exchange for cash paid to my father. My father, and later my brother Rick, who through a series of events ended up owning the family welding business, sold child pornography out of the shop. These pornographic materials were kept behind a corrugated metal wall and sold to interested customers when they came in. (My brother may not be consciously aware of his criminal activities.) Over the years, I was well trained, through trauma and sexual abuse, in line with the technology that was shared with my father so he could condition me for a higher level of future use.

One night at the dinner table my father announced that the actor, Robert Taylor, had been in to visit him again. I never knew why a famous actor like Robert Taylor would want to visit my father at his welding shop, but even though I couldn't yet piece the separate parts of my mind together enough to understand, I was impressed nevertheless. During this time when I was around 8-10 years old, my father told me that Robert Taylor watched a ballet performance where I danced the Swan Lake ballet on toe shoes. I wore a pink sequined leotard with pink sequined straps and the outfit had pink feathers attached to it. I had a pink-feathered headband that made it look like I had pink feathers all around my face, like a swan. Later on I found out that Robert Taylor liked child pornography; my father sold it to him from his welding shop, and he also liked sex with 7-10 year old girls.

This was an important time of deciding just how far I would "go." Dad wanted me to go all the way to the top. He said he was so proud of me and together we'd make his father Ivan, a proud grandfather.

My father had a group of pedophile friends with daughters my age. They traded us sexually and each independently participated in filming us pornographically, sometimes including bestiality. I had many personalities who were trained both in porn and prostitution.

Corbin Bowl

At age seven, I was further trained by older women prostitutes in a back room at the Corbin Bowl, located on Ventura Boulevard in Tarzana, California. I was taught the "tricks of the trade," most of which I already knew from years of sexual abuse. The prostitution and pornography I was a part of was a highly organized activity.

There were times a personality within me was programmed and used to entice and kidnap other children off the street and into a big black car. The kidnapped children were initially kept in cages in back rooms and then used in pornography and usually killed, often in snuff films. We were all shocked with cattle prods or other electrical devices for lots of different offenses. Pornography was filmed at the Corbin Bowl, with other children, women, men, and animals. Perhaps this is where many of the missing children, whose faces we see so often on postal cards or billboards are disappearing to and why they are never found. At this young age, I was also locked in a small, darkened room with a bed and sold as a prostitute to large numbers of men in a day. The people in charge left ropes, whips, and sex toys for use by the men who paid for sex with me.

One of my father's pedophile friends and partners in the child porn and prostitution business was Dean Hartshorn. Although Dean was nearly 20 years younger than my father, their shared sexual perversions kept them close friends. Dean and his family lived in the Encino Hills area and he operated a pesticide business. Dean had a beautiful daughter, named Donna, who had the blondest hair and bluest eyes I'd ever seen. She was traded to my father for sex and I was traded to Dean and some of his friends and relatives. The Hartshorn family joined my family on vacation several times a year and Donna and I were filmed as we performed sexual acts with numerous different people.

Other Locations

Over the years I was taken to many different locations and filmed and/or programmed. Some of these were: Turlock Lake, Mount Shasta, Clear Lake, Lake Arrowhead, Bass Lake, Lake Cachuma, Lake Isabella, Millerton Lake, Pine Flats, Lake Elsinore, Big Bear Lake, La Jolla, Mission Bay, Salton Sea, Coronado, San Juan Capistrano, the Colorado River, Lake Mead, Lake Mohave, Lake Havasu, Death Valley, Las Vegas, and other places we went for so-called "waterskiing vacations."

Cliff Spear was also a pedophile friend of my fathers. His daughter Debbie (also known as DeeDee) was my age and was in my brownie troop and class at school. I was traded to Cliff by my father, and was molested by him every time I spent the night at Debbie's house. In the middle of the night, Debbie and I, and sometimes her younger sister Jana, were awakened and taken to Cliff's carpeting business to be filmed pornographically.

Guy Cooper was a man who filmed me in porn at his home in Hidden Hills, with his younger daughter, Buffy. In this porn I was also forced to have sex with animals, some of them large farm animals. You can imagine how shameful and degrading these experiences are to a child.

To my knowledge, my father's affiliation was not limited to any single group, nor did he subscribe to membership in any group for any length of time. Instead, his membership was temporary, as he moved from one group to another, suiting my programmer's needs for the time. The groups I am aware of that he attended for different periods of time were the Lions Club, Ku Klux Klan, and Neo-Nazi groups. Publicly and consciously my father adamantly professed that he was not prejudiced against any race or religion and taught me not to be racially prejudiced. In private, secret gatherings with like-minded men, he witnessed and participated in ceremonies where they humiliated, tortured, dismembered and killed Black people and Jewish people. I know, because as a child I was present at some of those "meetings."

I was taken often to rituals that were performed late at night. One incident that stands out in my mind was a night near my 10th birthday when a group of men sacrificed a Black man, saying it was done in my "honor," to give me power. As I watched in sheer panic, devastation, and horror, they tortured and then threw this man alive into the bonfire. To withstand this extremely traumatic event, I split off another personality to deal with it. On another occasion, as a Fourth of July event, a small child was delivered by a black sedan to my father at the gully at the end of our street. I watched in horror as my father strapped a homemade bomb he had made to this little boy's body and told me he was so powerful he could make the child live or die. The next thing I knew the bomb went off and the child was nowhere to be found. The tactics used to keep me dissociated and split were endless.

The Shriners

I remembered my father and our Shriner neighbor, Jack Rice, taking me to a meeting where a group of men, all wearing red Shriner hats, sat at tables. My father was given a Shriner hat and acted like he felt uncomfortable wearing it. I was patriotically wearing a navy blue v-neck dress with a large white sailor collar. Mr. Rice sat on one side of me and my father on the other. They ate dinner but I just sat at my place in a daze and didn't eat anything. One of the Shriner's stood at his table and clinking his glass to get everyone's attention, he announced, "We have a little member here tonight to entertain and delight you. Please welcome her with a round of applause."

I walked up onto the stage and began dancing to The National Anthem. "Oh say can you see, by the dawn's early light," the words played as I danced and slowly began taking off first my dress, then my shoes, pantaloons, nylons, bra, and panties until I stood dressed only in a tiny tasseled white satin g-string. Why I didn't strip all the way I don't know. All the men cheered and after I was through Mr. Rice stood at the bottom of the stage stairs to take me backstage to dress. He held out his arm and I took it. I felt like I was blind and couldn't see to find my way so he led me as he recited the program he had continually taught me to memorize, "There was a man who had no eyes and he went out to view the skies, he saw a tree with apples on it, he picked no apples off but left no apples on it." It was a "blind" program and I was told I couldn't see while I was there. Mr. Rice led me to a back room. It wasn't like a dressing room, just a side room. He gave me some kind of red robe to wear, "They'll bring your clothes on into us in awhile, we'll just wait." Other nights at different Shriner places, there were satanic rituals where I was raped on an altar in front of the group of robed men. There were many other Shriner meetings; lots of them disguised "under the big top," at Shriner circuses. Circuses were a place of trauma over the years and I usually ended up getting hurt.

My neighbor Peggy and I performed Alice in Wonderland in what seemingly appeared to be an innocent backyard neighborhood play for these elderly neighbors, Mr. & Mrs. Rice. They sat on their patio, having cocktails like they always did at happy hour and watched while we performed. In the middle of the play, Mr. Rice wiggled his finger and calling me over to him, he said, "Come here, Susie, I want to tell you a secret." I stood by this elderly man's chair on the patio and he motioned for me to bend over so he could whisper a secret to me. His pungent alcohol breath permeated the air as he said, "I have a little surprise that will help you act out the play better," and he put a small role of lifesavers into my hand and told me, "open your mouth for the next surprise." Naively and with complete trust, I opened my mouth as he said, "Close your eyes for the hidden surprise, and remember the real surprise is in your hand." Then he reminded me, "open your mouth for the hidden surprise."

In childlike innocence, I kept my eyes closed, waiting in anticipation for the surprise. Mr. Rice placed something in my mouth that was round as he said, "This is a heavenly wafer, my dear, a hidden heavenly wafer, in which you will appear." I didn't know what he meant but I began feeling very weak and funny inside, just like Alice in Wonderland did. Then he said, "Go finish your play now and act your part. Your part is about to start, so don't be late for a very important date or you will end up in trouble over and over and over again. Always obey the white rabbit, follow him inside for he has the time of day in which you will play. So go now and play your play. Which is it, play? The play or the play?"

In a confused stupor, I walked back over to my friend Peggy and entered the play again, saying my part, which was, "I'm late, I'm late for a very important date."

Mr. Rice was my date at other evening affairs with the Shriners, some where I was even the "altar girl" but it wasn't like a sacred ceremony at the Catholic Church, instead, I was taken to satanic rituals. They were really bad rituals where I was raped on an altar in front of lots of Shriners late at night, in dark outside places and they hurt and tortured me in the name of what they called, "the holy one."

Peggy and I also performed The Parent Trap for the Rice's. This was a way of cementing and concretizing the Susan and Sharon twin sister programming. I played Sharon in the backyard play and Peggy played Susan. We even cut my dress just like in the movie.

As I remembered what had actually happened, in full detail, instead of merely recalling the small slice of conscious reality of this past event, I could smell the Rice's home, Mr. Rice's alcohol breath, and his daughter Joanie's perfume, which was strong and also had an alcohol base to it. Hidden behind all the fairy tales and seemingly good things were painful memories of the places I was taken to for programming.

The Onset of Puberty

I began puberty around this time and my father snuck into my room like he always did at night. He explained to me while I was in a haze of sleep, that I was of the superior race, that I was of Aryan descent and that he was proud of my blond hair, green eyes, and fair skin. At the time, I had no idea what he was talking about and ignored it, pretending I didn't hear him.

I started menstruating at ten. This heralded abuse in rituals which involved being raped and impregnated, sometimes twice a year. When the fetuses were two to three months old, they were aborted at rituals and ingested by members of the group in order to fulfill the beliefs of the group; that it made those participating "more powerful." These were devastating, deeply traumatizing, and soulfully painful experiences, the memory of which was repressed along with all the other traumas. These traumatic events served as mind control reinforcement, to insure amnesia of my use in pornography, prostitution, and later projects I was to serve in.

By the end of the 5" grade, when I was almost eleven, I had gone through puberty, was fully developed and had already had my menstrual cycle for a year. Despite the abuse, I was programmed to be an average student, with many "school" personalities who helped me act like a "normal kid." Often I displayed behavior problems in school, as I acted out, due to what was secretly going on at home and at other dark, hidden places. My teachers merely passed off my joking and constant disruption as typical mischievous behavior and I won an award for class clown. I also had personalities who were totally amnesiac of any of my abuse who were able to function normally at school. As I entered junior high school, I did the things that normal kids do; I was a cheerleader, performed in the chorus, sang solos at school performances, won awards for the most beautiful smile and for being the class clown, and obtained other awards for service. And my mother had the cleanest house in the neighborhood.

To all outward appearances, all of these families I've mentioned, seemed to be normal, upstanding citizens of the community. NO one would have ever suspected that, in secret, all of this abuse was occurring. The mothers kept clean children and clean houses, smiled and were polite and caring in public, and the fathers acted charming and were considered responsible businessmen in the community. What went on behind closed doors--that no one wanted to believe or hear about, not even my school principal--was the spiritual, physical, and emotional devastation of many, many children.

In my desperation to obtain help or understanding, I started very early trying to figure out what was wrong. I kept bumping into mind control programming that re-routed my thoughts, and exasperated with my statements and questions, my mother constantly "re-minded" me from her own programming, "You just think too much!"

When I turned eleven, my father announced he was flying me to his small hometown of Correctionville, Iowa, to meet my grandparents. I was surprised by this invitation, as family problems had estranged my father from his parents for years ...in fact, from even before my birth. My father never had anything pleasant to say about his parents. But I was excited to fly on an airplane (which I mistakenly thought was my first time) and curious about meeting my grandparents for the first time. The telltale fact that my father hated them, and had stolen their car and run away from home at fifteen never entered my thought processes. Nor was I able to wonder why my mother and brothers were not invited to go along. Unfortunately, due to the mind control I was under, I did not have the ability to question or to wonder about anything along certain lines. I merely went along with what I was told to do.

I was impregnated several months before we were to go to Iowa. My mother took me shopping to a clothes store called Stardusters. It was like Hollywood there. The saleslady picked out dresses and took me into the dressing room and, in spite of my embarrassment, dressed me in outfits complete with accessories. My mother bought me several expensive outfits, complete with hats, belts, purses and fancy, frilly undergarments, although she wore old, ragged clothes and at home the word was that we were broke.

On the way home from our shopping spree, my mother took note of my maternally pooching tummy, and over the next few months, yelled at me constantly saying, "Hold in your stomach." Neither of us consciously knew that I was pregnant and I tried my best to hold in my tummy. During my teen years, I was usually anorexic, very thin, and didn't eat much, so the fact that I was pregnant for a month or two was not easy to detect, especially to those who wouldn't have ever expected it.

My paternal grandfather, Ivan Charles Eckhart, was a Jersey Ice Cream manufacturer, a multimillionaire and mayor of the town of Correctionville, Iowa, where he lived with my grandmother. Later on he won a landslide election to become the supervisor of the Third District and for years was involved in both local and state politics.

My paternal grandmother, Leah Eckhart, was a small but angry-tempered woman. Now I understand why. Instead of sleeping upstairs in the plush bedroom with my grandfather, she slept in the bare cement floored basement on a small cot. At the time I could not question or wonder about that either. My grandparents are now both deceased, left with never having the opportunity of understanding or healing the intergenerational abuse that created this problem to begin with.

I had many traumatic experiences on my visits to Iowa. I suppose, back then, my father's return visit to his parents appeared just to be a family reunion, but nothing could have been further from the truth.

While in Iowa, I had the first of several forced abortions, which was performed in a torturous fashion by a local doctor. Although I was actually raped and made pregnant at a ritual, I was humiliated and shamed for becoming pregnant. As in all trauma-based mind control, everything was a double-bind. I was blamed and shamed for everything that happened, none of which I ever had any control over. My baby, which was not yet old enough to be born alive, was nevertheless a perfectly formed fetus. My grandparents and my father performed a ritual behind their house in which they convinced me that I had killed my own baby (it was obviously born dead), and they ate it and forced me to participate. Since I was suffering from Multiple Personality Disorder, this traumatic experience, along with many others, was stored neatly away from my conscious mind, hidden in alternate personalities, and sealed away from my conscious awareness by programming that covered and hid the truth of my life.

One night after returning to my grandfather's house, somehow the experiences that terrified me were not so neatly hidden from my consciousness and in an act of panic and desperation, I frantically tried to phone my mother to ask her to help me. Overhearing me, my grandfather grabbed the phone out of my hand and proceeded to rip the phone out of the wall and in retaliation, tied me to the post of his iron bed frame for two days, while they went out of town. My grandfather was very brutal. But my father was very proud of the human technology I possessed. He was pleased to be able to show his father all of my "trained" abilities.

During the remainder of the time we were in Iowa, I was forced to entertain my grandfather's business and political friends. I danced naked on the table at meetings and performed sexual favors for many of my grandfather's associates. To demonstrate my abilities, my father prompted the men to use their cigars or cigarettes to burn my vaginal area as I kneeled before them. My father wanted to demonstrate that I would smile and show no signs of the pain due to mind control. After these meetings, I was connected to a higher level of politicians.

From then on, when my father took me on our yearly trips to Iowa, I was slowly connected to more and more political figures. In the meantime, he used me wherever he could to get cash, or more often, courtesies for favors. We started having enough money to go out to dinner, which was a treat we could not previously afford. It's likely that some of the money came from my father's payoffs from my use in porn and prostitution.

Training Farms

There were child and adolescent training centers called "farms," that I believe were located in Montreal, a city in the French Canadian Province of Quebec. I was taken to one for "grace training," and to step up the etiquette and formal training I would need to be used a notch higher. Other teenage girls were also there in training. It felt like a prison. I think I was there for a week - it was difficult to determine the actual span of time. It had to be winter because it was chilly and windy outside, and the trees were barren and there were leaves on the ground. This place was located out in the countryside. It wasn't on the way to anything so if anyone came near they could easily be identified as intruders. We were seen to public eyes as unwed mothers. We even had to stuff a pillow in our pants and go into town every once in awhile. I slept with other girls in a white farm building that had cement floors and cots with mattresses that lined the room. We all compliantly took the medicine they gave us every morning. The people that worked at "the farm" changed daily, men and women both, but never the same ones two days in a row. We ate dinner and we all got into bed, then someone told us a story. They treated us like a herd of cows and we all totally obeyed instructions; there was no fuss and no fight, just total obedience.

I was taught how to walk elegantly with a book on my head and had to be able to squat down without dropping the book, and then stand up again. I was assigned to work with language input tapes in a small sound room equipped with headphones. I was given a mirror to look into to practice making certain sounds. All the instructions were given to me auditorily, even down to, "hold your mouth like you are saying A or O," and then I heard the sound I was to mimic. Once I learned the physical impressions of how to make the sounds they could easily attach language skills. I don't know how it all works, but later they had me lay down with headphones on while they played sounds so fast that I couldn't hear the words. Later they said that it had "worked," and that I had received French language enhancement. The lady explained that in most foreign countries it was proper to ask for a translator, but it was to be common background for the upper class to at least speak fluent French and Italian, and preferably German and Russian also. Since I was going to be used with foreign people and in foreign countries, I had to know their languages and customs.

I was also shown movies from a film projector onto a screen. I saw films on different foreign countries in order to obtain the necessary culture. They instructed me, "Put this in your China file," and then I would watch a movie intently recording all of it, the places, the names, dates, historical facts, everything. Then later on when Henry and I arrived in these foreign lands, I was familiar with their cultural background so I wouldn't make a faux pas.

All we did at the training farm was eat lightly, sleep and learn; input was ingested in large quantities for later use. Henry didn't visit me there. He said he might stop in to check on me, but he never did. Beforehand, he tied my Wizard of Oz programming to this event when he told me to believe, "I left my bed in Kansas, and went on the wings of a tornado to the farm." When I came back "to Kansas" I woke up in my own bed in California and was very, very sick. My mom took care of me and told me that I had the flu. I had a high fever and was a little delirious. I couldn't even manage to keep my eyes focused. I felt exhausted and so sick that I couldn't sleep, so I lay in my bed and prayed to die.

During summer vacation one year, Mr. Rice, our Shriner neighbor, re-introduced me to his daughter, Joanie Rice, who was visiting for the summer from her home in White Plains, New York. She was much older than I and was very attractive. She wore lots of makeup and jewelry, and wore a heavy perfume called Royal Secret. During that time, my maternal grandmother who lived with us had to be put in a rest home and my mother visited her every day, so Joanie, stayed to babysit me and played with me by our pool in my mother's absence. It all looked like a nice arrangement from the outside, but her presence was planned to further my programming. She taught me to be "dignified." I heard that word over and over and over. She taught me social etiquette--to act polished, to have good manners, and she was there to voice-program me when the men came with the equipment. At these times, she and a group of men held me down on the couch, drugged me, placed a band around my head, which they retrieved from a black briefcase full of special equipment including bright lights and machines which delivered different sounds and instructions. I was given names of politicians and programmed with instructions that, when I saw them on TV or heard them on radio, I was to become completely amnestic of who and what I was involved in. She also programmed me from lists of numbers and codes. Other years, I was flown to her glamorous apartment in New York. She escorted me to Washington, DC at first, so I wouldn't feel afraid or alone and could work at my maximum capacity. My mother and I also began to wear Royal Secret perfume, like Joanie.

Twenty-nine Palms

My family bought property in Twenty-nine Palms, California and built a small cabin on the desert land. One weekend my father explained that my mom needed a little time to herself since her mother had just passed away. I, too, was sad that my grandmother had died. My controllers told me she went to the streets of hell as evidenced by the blood coming out of her face. She died of high blood pressure, which caused the bleeding. But they said she went to hell and I hoped she would come back alive so we could re-route her. But after awhile that didn't scare me because I knew my "Gram" didn't go to hell. Although in a programmed state, my grandmother participated at times in my abuse, I knew she was really a nice quiet, gentle woman, who like my mother, never would have intentionally hurt anyone.

So, my father took my brothers and I to our Twenty-nine Palms cabin and one day they involved me in a sex ritual. They got me drunk, then stripped and tied me by my wrists and ankles face up in the sand in the intense desert sun. They seemed so excited as they did this to me. My father painted a satanic pentagram and green swastikas on my body. Later on, as it began to get dark he poured gas in a wide circle around me and once it was really dark he lit a match which started a fire burning all around me. I thought they were going to cook me. They put a half-dead, sandy, horned toad in my mouth and told me to hold it there. My brother Rick was running all around in an excited frenzy and my brother Jim was there also. At this ritual, in addition to traumatizing me, they were being taught how to be in charge. I was raped by all of them and their friends.

My Future Marriage Was Arranged In 7th Grade

During this time, I attended Hale Junior High School, which was located directly across the street from our church, the First Presbyterian Church of Woodland Hills. It was at Hale, in the 7'" grade (we were thirteen), that I met Craig Ford (Robert Craig Ford). One afternoon, my mother picked me up from school and I introduced Craig to her. After Craig left and I got into the car, my mother announced, "That is the boy you will marry." I laughed and asked her how she knew. She said she just knew. I never questioned further. Craig asked me to go steady soon afterward.

Over the next several years, Craig and I were "bonded" to each other through crossprogramming and shared trauma to insure that Craig was under sufficient mind control to later serve as my "handler." A ritual at the First Presbyterian Church served to seal our bond, and soon other more sophisticated means of programming were utilized.

White Programming Vans

Large white vans with men in suits in the back picked us up at differing locations in Ventura and Oxnard, California, and directed us into the back of the van. Specialized equipment in briefcases and other larger equipment in the van awaited us. They routinely beat Craig in front of me to demonstrate what a weakling he really was and how powerful and in control of me they were. They would slap me around in front of him, as well, to show him how powerless he was to help me and how much in control they were.

Electroshock was used on both of us, first by inserting and activating an electric prod in my vagina and then delivering the same to Craig on his penis. We were forced to watch in a dissociative, trance state as the other was tortured and traumatized as they readied us for programming.

The bond that was formed by shared trauma was profound. It created subconscious feelings of being in this whole mess together and enforced the feelings that we would never be able to get out. After they had sufficiently worn us down, they strapped us into sophisticated chairs and hooked us up to electrodes. Tones were combined with electroshock in order to create access cues that gave them quick and easy access to us both later on. Hypnotic suggestions and love songs were presented to us, in order to facilitate our "falling madly in love." In fact my controllers created an entire system of songs intended to invoke selected, preordained feelings toward Craig and others. The list of songs was added to and cultivated over the years depending on what attitudes and emotions they wanted to create within me. These songs were some of the strongest measures of control and literally created what I thought were my own feelings about Craig, but which really were contrived feelings created to support the interests of my controllers.

Combined with scenarios such as this, my brothers and their muscle-bound friends would intercept us when we were parked after a date to kiss. They pulled Craig out of the car and beat him up as they instructed him not to touch me sexually. Then one of them would rape me in front of him as they restrained him nearby, rendering him once again powerless to help.

All these conditioning experiences served to "prepare" Craig to robotically deliver and hand me over to other men, then step aside while I passed messages or serviced them sexually. It was always his job to make sure I was delivered to the right place, at the right time, to the right person, and for many years, that is exactly what he did.

I didn't have sex with Bob Hope until later. Bob said the wait would do him good, "give him something to look forward to," and then he would lean down and poke me and do that ole' softshoe dance. He did that often. He said, "I like my fruit ripened, not plucked before its time." At other times he would say to his friends when I was around, "See, I know how to pick my fruit, huh?" Then he'd say, "Hey kid, get me some grapes," and I'd go get them and he would show off how cute and efficient I was. He was always showing off my new acts. He would say, "Do your Coca Roca dance." So I'd do a dance. Then he would say, "No, the other Coca Roca," and I'd take off my clothes while dancing. Or he would have me sing I Enjoy Being A Girl, which was a song I sang for a junior high school performance and later for him and others.

The Theater in the Round was built and opened in Woodland Hills and drew large crowds to watch the live action plays that were performed in the round theater. I attended the plays often and it was there that I was prostituted to Bob's friend, Sammy Davis, Jr. It was a brutal event that I "forgot" about as soon as he was through with me.

Chapter Six: JFK and the Sex Shuttle

During a demonstration of the high level of technology available to those willing to join the ranks, Henry masterfully delivered a slide presentation of the mind control technology. I sat in the darkened room in "park mode," with my conscious mind seemingly blocked from the information, yet carrying out the command of my master to perfectly record all that went on around me. First Henry flashed a slide of me in my normal California life. He said, "Who in their right mind would believe that this kid was having sexual relations with the President of the United States?" The men agreed. Then he followed by a series of slides of me artfully made up, dressed formally and in different disguises. The men were amazed at the difference.

Many men were brought into the cause simply because they wanted to own a piece of the rock and have their own robots to do their work or create their pleasures: At first they were given just bits of information at a time, to determine if they would be cooperative. Then they were given a little more information to test the waters to see if they were ready for the final blow. Usually dozens of meetings occurred on superficial levels before any real information was given out and that was only released when the men were "deeply committed," which meant that they would be compromising themselves or their family if they backed out at a certain point.

In the beginning when Henry was cultivating my relationship with JFK and insuring him of my security guarantees, Henry didn't fill me with much of an agenda except to give JFK the "royal treatment," which meant the same as Bob's (Hope's) full smorgasbord of sexual positions and favors. Henry told me to carefully note everything JFK said and did for debriefing afterwards. Henry had a challenge with JFK because as he said, "he's so damn self-initiating," and so Henry couldn't have me take the lead, thereby slipping in comments intended for Henry's covert purposes. So for awhile in the beginning, he just let me be with JFK so that he would get used to me, and Henry said, "Then a plan will inevitably open up."

Kissinger didn't spend a lot of time with JFK. They spoke but it was like they were "...polar opposites and constantly repelled each other," Henry said. But Henry, and especially Bob as the front man, got to JFK and paved the way for his acceptance of me. Once we were in, then Henry started strategizing heavily. That is what happened after I began having sex with JFK. Henry said, "Mind files were created to delight the young president." As Kissinger counted on, JFK was a romantic and seemed to get caught up in many of the messages I delivered to him. The messages made him feel good and Henry wanted him to feel good and powerful with me. I was delivering high level Council messages created by Bob and Henry, that Henry instilled in me to deliver to "John-Feeee," that's what I called him. They got a war underway through JFK, a big war that was to influence not only America but also the international climate.

It was as common for foreign dignitaries, heads of state, senators, congressmen, governors, and other leaders, to ride the Lincoln Memorial (Oral Sex) Tour, as it was for them to get their shoes shined in the local hotels. In fact, that was one of the jokes I was instructed to deliver to get a man loosened up. I was programmed to say, "Want your shoe shined?" Then I would unzip him and begin. There were lots of men who wanted further servicing later on, but I was instructed to refer them to my boss.

I serviced many men on this so-called shuttle service over the years of my life that should have been filled with junior high, high school and college extracurricular activities of my own choosing. The elitists I worked for had an endless supply of slaves that kept the tour shuttle running regularly. I wasn't really giving tours, just sex in the limo. The men felt safe and protected from public exposure by their placement in the back of the limo because they couldn't be seen due to the security windows. They had privacy when they exited the limo so they wouldn't be exposed. Security employees would always await the arrival of the shuttle limo to open the door and coach them out when the "coast was clear," then transfer them immediately into their own personal limo so no one would ever detect.

There were times when Henry would have a driver take us from DC to his office in New York. He would work with me in the back seat after he told the driver, "I'll be busy working and I don't want to be interrupted." So the driver shut the window between the seats and Henry would debrief me and take sketchy notes, draw diagrams and plans while I was talking or he would touch his finger to my forehead and start uploading me for future assignments. Much of our work took place like this on drives between places usually just before or after I had been used at the White House or other places. It was convenient, as well as a security measure, because he could account for his time spent with me by saying, "I was en route to NY or DC," or wherever he was going, and since I was on the same time track as Henry it was all very time efficient, and concealed his activity and connection to me. To Henry the efficient use of his time was everything. He told me, "When people can master their use of time, they have the secret to success." He often talked on and on to me about his ideas, events and people, using me as a sounding board, completely assured that I couldn't ever break the security programming necessary to remember his conversations.

Henry said I was much more than his efficient secretary, I was a "diplomat extraordinare." I wore a brownish tan wool suit, tailor-made by my mother, to my first meeting in the Soviet Union. Henry taught me then that the Soviet Union, USSR and Russia basically all meant the same thing. He also told me that my mother was always with me giving me strength and maturity, and that I could feel connected to her by wearing the suit she made for me. I guess I was emotionally needing to be older than 10, my actual age at the time. So he bolstered me maturationally by mentally tying me to my mother. It was funny because if I wore wool pants or a wool jacket, I would scratch myself and I couldn't stop it. And no matter how many times Henry gave me the hypnotic suggestion, "it's not scratching you, the material is soft and smooth on your skin," it still itched. So my mom had to line everything she made for me that was wool.

JFK rode the L.M. sex tour regularly and while I was down on my knees he would pat me on the back and say, "You are really going to move up the ranks." Or, "You're really going to amount to something when you grow up, kid." He loved lunch-time oral sex and the secret service agents rode in the front with the limo driver and chewed him out royally for, as they said, "...breaking stride that is nullifying National Security, Sir."

To calm the disgruntled Secret Service agents, Jack would laughingly explain, "Relax, I deserve a relaxing lunch break, that's all." I can still remember his accent so clearly.

JFK was really gutsy. He would even sneak me into the White House for "nooners." Sometimes there was another sex slave with me and when we'd get up to the bedroom he would say, "We're just furthering your training so you'll be top-notch when you grow up." He taught me, "A man likes a woman who's aggressive sexually. My wife doesn't satisfy me. She just lays back and waits. But a man likes a woman who takes charge." Then he would lay back and wait for the two of us to stimulate him, at which point he turned into an animal. Jack said he was training me for the future. I didn't know what that meant. He said I was serving my country by meeting the needs of their leader. He said, "By easing my stresses you help me make better decisions." Touching the tip of my nose he continued, "So young lady, you are very important to our nation." I was just out of braces.

JFK had a lean muscular body and a hairy chest. He worked out on the rowing machine. On one occasion as we were lying in bed together, he said to me, "You know, we both have the same kind of teeth." I reached out and put my hand into his mouth to feel his teeth and he was right, we both had big teeth--only his were more squared off.

JFK also liked anal sex, like his brother Ted. After he found out I was with Ted he asked me what his brother was really like. When I explained that he hurt me, he just shook his head and said, "I never could understand what happened to my brother. We both had the same parents, but we did go to different boarding schools and had different friends." He further explained that they didn't see their parents often and that their family had so much money that they chose the school that was the most fitting for their sons and sent them there. So as he explained, there weren't many family interactions. He said he felt lonely a lot when he was growing up, that he was closer to the maids and nannies than to his parents. He said, "The Kennedy Clan publicly appears to be a close knit family, but I never saw my parents except on holidays when they would meet in Hyannisport and us kids would be flown from our respective schools to meet them. It was more like getting reacquainted with strangers than meeting my family. Everyone was awkward and we really had nothing to talk about. I went out in a boat we had there and spent hours alone, playing all by myself. I was estranged from my brothers also because none of us lived together so when we came together we didn't know each other. Usually by the end of the holiday, we were friends again -- like real brothers -- but then it would be time to go back to our respective schools and it would start all over." Then he added, "I don't know why I'm telling you this, you're just a kid yourself and wouldn't really understand." He looked shy and vulnerable as he said, "I'm sorry for telling you all this."

I smiled and said, "It's okay." It seemed to be the fact that I listened and couldn't think to talk, that made these men feel good. All they really wanted was someone to really listen.

JFK never caused physical injury to me. He wasn't violent, just aggressive sexually but never brutal like his brother Ted. JFK liked all kinds of sex. He liked things varied, nothing routine. He got bored easily and asked for new things all the time. We had sex in many places. He got high on taking risks ...the riskier the better. We even had sex in a public bathroom somewhere in DC. On those occasions, the Secret Service Agents were doubly mad at him. They would totally freak out and say to him, "We could loose our jobs when you pull one of your little disappearing stunts." And they would be really upset, sweating and nervous because as they explained, they'd been running all over the city looking for where he had ducked them. Jack just told them to relax, that he was fine and that they still had their jobs.

I went on late night walks with JFK in DC. Sometimes the cherry blossoms would be in bloom and it smelled so sweet. The Secret Service agents followed close behind us. They seemed irritated to be on duty for JFK because he was so uncooperative and unpredictable. We walked by a river or waterway. He really enjoyed seeing it at night and said the exercise did him good. The Secret Service agents complained of being tired and hated having to get up at 1:00 or 2:00 a.m. to go outside with him. But when the President left, they had to go with him. I don't know where Jackie was, but she wasn't always at the White House the nights I was brought in. Jack would sneak me to his room and supposedly no one knew I was there. Like I explained, he loved taking risks.

Sometimes I had difficulty understanding exactly what Jack was saying because of his accent and at other times, I wouldn't be able to hear for awhile from the noise of the helicopter or plane I had been flown in on. My hearing would feel muffled, like I had earmuffs on.

I felt so much older than my young years, but then I was totally physically developed by the 5th grade (ten years of age). The personalities that were created to be with JFK were created to be older and more mature than my actual years.

During my years at Hale Jr. High School there were times Henry Kissinger preprogrammed and sent me in with a message to deliver while I was prostituted to JFK. I was a cheerleader and was prostituted to the boy's coach along the way. I had a group of girl friends that were part of my Girl Scout Troop and one of my friends was named Beth. I wasn't ever allowed to go to boy-girl parties, but I went to a lot of sleepovers. Many times I didn't end up staying overnight, but was instead shuffled off for a quick rendezvous to the White House or to Massachusetts or wherever the higher ups wanted me to go to be with JFK.

I called him "John-Feeee" (pronounced "John F.E."). Craig was "president" of the Student Body and it may have been a cover for my White House presidential use.

Beth's mother was an attractive petite blonde woman and she was hardly ever home. I think Beth's father was a pilot and maybe her mom was a stewardess, but she was gone most of the time. Beth had older sisters though and so they counted as adults in my protective mother's eyes, so I was allowed to spend the night when Beth's mother was not at home. One day I walked home from school with Beth, as she lived very close to Hale. We messed around and listened to records, and then, suddenly, I became upset and told her I wanted to go home. She said her mom wasn't there to drive me and she didn't want me to go home, but I called a number from her kitchen phone and a yellow checkered taxi came to the house and picked me up. Beth followed me out the door crying and said, "Do you want me to call your mom?"

"No, I'll be home in a minute anyway." I handed the driver a note I had in my overnight bag and he took it from there. I was driven to LAX. The airport was much smaller in those days, but still busy on Friday's and weekends with lots of traffic. The driver dropped me off in front of TWA and asked if I needed any help. I said no, I was fine. I walked up to the desk and told the woman my name, "Sharon Weatherby," and she had a ticket waiting for me. She asked if I knew where to go and pointed me in the direction of the gate.

I usually flew TWA, United, or Continental on national flights - not international - and I even had a little pin with wings, that a pilot who knew me gave me because he said I was an honorary stewardess. He had sex with me on the way back from assignments but no one had sex with me before JFK. There were usually pilots on commercial airlines that were "regulars," which meant they knew me and were instructed to keep me under their wing. Sometimes I helped the pilot on flights, but usually I slept up in first class. I think one of these pilots could have even been my friend's father, and he was told to keep an eye on me. I usually curled up in first class and slept for the long flight. When I arrived at the airport in DC, I was met by different people. This time it was a blonde lady in a uniform and she walked me out to a waiting black limo and opened the back door for me to get in. I did and she put my bag in next to me. This was before I met Craig so I was eleven or twelve years old, going on twenty-five.

I wasn't taken directly to JFK but was taken to the area where they operated the "Lincoln Memorial Shuttle" (oral sex ride). A limo pulled up and I was whisked into the back of it. Once inside I saw that "JohnFeee" was there and he said hello and began tickling me. He played with me and teased me a lot. Then he pulled me over close to him and said, "Now it's time to be more serious." And he started kissing me and slipped his hand inside my shirt and felt my breasts. Then he unfastened my bra and pulled my shirt up and began sucking on my nipples. He said that really got him hard to see young, firm breasts and he circled my nipples with his fingers. I didn't like it when I saw his wedding band on his hand while he was doing that to me because even under mind control, I knew who his wife was. Henry had told me to emulate her and so I felt bad... like here was this innocent, beautiful woman and I was having sex with her husband and there was a feeling of guilt--even under mind control.

That day, JFK took sexual initiative and liked being in charge. Before he closed the window and left us alone, the driver had said to him, "Jack, don't you think we should connect back up to your security?" meaning the Secret Service.

JFK said, "No. Hell no. I deserve to have a life." And so we toured around the city while "John-Feee" got himself warmed up--sucking and licking me all over and I gave him a "preview" of the coming event by way of oral sex, backing off just before he orgasmed. He loved to run his tongue over my belly because he said, "I love young, firm, tummies," and he loved mine especially because he said it was so tan. He said I had a "golden tan."

After awhile, JFK tapped on the inner window in the limo to get the driver's attention and said, "Stop here."

The driver said, "Here, Sir?"

JFK commanded, "Yes," and opened the door and grabbed my arm and took me into this small motel. He already had the key to a room and went right to it and opened the door. It wasn't a very nice place but he said we wouldn't be looked for there, that "certainly no one would come looking for the President in a place like this," and then he laughed, lit up a cigarette and sat down at the small table and chairs. Taking a puff off his cigarette he said he wanted to take a break to "enjoy the view" and indicated I was to take off my clothes in front of him.

Slowly, I began removing my blouse and then my skirt, bra and then my nylons attached to my lacy garter belt and then my panties. I had on those plain white ones and for some reason he liked them, so Henry had me wear them with him. Then I stuck my finger into my vagina while I had one leg propped up on the bed and the other holding me up. Then I put my fingers to my mouth and that's when he jumped up and came over to me and said, "You're a big tease."

I smiled seductively and he put his arms around me and held me for a long moment and then when he moved back I began unbuttoning his shirt. It was a bit stiff like it was heavily starched and then I rubbed his chest and belly and talked to him about how his hairy chest and hard belly turned me on. I put my fingers in my mouth again. He said, "I'd like to be where those came from." I can remember his accent so well. He laid me back on the bed after he pulled the sheets back and he began oral sex. I told him how hot I was for him and began wiggling and moving all over, while I moaned. He said I was making him dizzy and he came up and began kissing me passionately, hard, almost roughly. Then he went inside me and satisfied himself. After he came he pulled back and said, "Sorry it couldn't have been longer, but I've got to get back." So he dressed and stepped outside the door and whistled. The driver came right up to the door. He went out and opened the door for me, and we got into the limo and left. The driver dropped him off at another limo to a bunch of Secret Service agents all in a tizzy over where he had gone. He shut the door and walked into the center of them without saying goodbye or acknowledging me.

These agents were really angry with him. I could see him using his hands and speaking to calm them down. JFK escaped from his Secret Service agents often. I heard one of them say one time, "I don't know how he does it, one slip and he's gone."

The driver put the window back up and drove me directly to the airport. I picked up my bag and he let me out and said, "Will you be needin' anything, ma'am?"

I smiled and said, "No thanks, I have everything I'll need." And I went to the ticket counter and said, "You're holding a ticket for me? Sharon Weatherby?"

Handing me my ticket the man smiled and said, "Your gate's in that direction."

Henry had me think of the gate numbers as the numbers on billiard balls and all I had to do was follow the line of numbers until I got to the one that matched my ticket. Sometimes I got lost but someone always helped me, often saying, "Excuse me, miss, but are you lost?"

I'd say, "I'm looking for gate eight," and they would point me in that direction. Once I got onto the airplane it seemed like there was always someone there to watch over me and I would go back to sleep. The return synchronization between my mother and me had to be perfect and this time I was driven back to Beth's house to wait by the curb for my mother.

The driver said, "Just sit here and wait, your mother will be here any minute." He pulled away from the curb and went and parked nearby. I saw him watch until my mom picked me up. She, too, always waited for me to get picked up when she dropped me off at places. Everyone always waited to make sure the exchange had taken place and I was in the correct hands.

JFK was my first presidential assignment. After having sex with Bob Hope in his 50's, a younger President wasn't as bad. Sharon was the personality programmed to be with JFK and due to the reality that was created for her, she had a lot in common with him, like being Catholic and from an elite family. One time Bob arranged for him to have some time out with me in Key Biscayne. Bob flew me there to take care of him, keep him happy and entertained. The Secret Service agents stood outside. JFK started by shaving and I sat on the counter and watched him. I giggled and hugged him while he stood in front of the mirror with a small white towel around his waist. I licked the shaving cream off his ear and then put my fingers into the remaining shave creme and licked it. Gently, he took my hands away and laughed softly as he explained that you weren't supposed to eat shaving cream. I thought it was whipped cream, like I had tasted in the pornography I was filmed in, and mistakenly was triggered into reciting my program, "Lick it and suck it, 'til it's all gone, yum, yum don't miss a drop, or you will stop; your heart that is." This must have been a program glitch because I wasn't suppose to recite this program out loud; it was supposed to just drive me from inside. Maybe JFK knew how to handle me nicely because of his sister who seemed like she was retarded. They didn't let her out much, and later I was glad when they didn't have her at their reunions, because I didn't understand what was wrong with her.

During this time, I wasn't allowed to eat as much sugar as I had been previously used to. I was told to be repelled by it and that, even as my hand reached for it, the sugar would move away and I couldn't ever get it so I should quit trying. Before this programming I was used to eating tons of sugar, so it was a major adjustment. Also, my mother used to get so angry with me for not eating enough at mealtimes, but I couldn't, as my programming dictated. She said I didn't eat enough to keep a bird alive. But when I tried to eat I usually felt sick.

Catholic girls had to act proper and Jack never had any cause to be embarrassed by my actions. He was spunky and aggressive and tickled me a lot, often until tears were falling down my cheeks. Then he would lay me on the bed, kiss my tears away and start having sex with me. He said he liked my short hair - that it was stylish - and he would play with my hair and mess it up. I'd just get it done again; in those days I didn't even know how to do my own hair. I never had to, my own personal hairdresser, a family friend, came to the house and washed it, cut it, curled and styled it.

Afterwards, JFK and I ran around naked, playing like school kids, and when it got dark we walked on the beach and the Secret Service agents always walked close behind. Boy did they get an eyeful. They would wink at me sometimes if I turned around to see if they were still there, when I was getting ready to make a move on John-Feee.

One night, Henry let me off at the White House to target JFK. I didn't go up to his bedroom, we had sex in a room near the kitchen that had two beds in it. I had on a short white crop top and low hip hugger jeans. My belly button showed and he said it turned him on. He would stoop down and lick my "bare spot," he called it. His pronunciation sounded funny to the personality dedicated to him because of his accent. I was tan and slim, and he said he liked that my tummy was flat. He said he hadn't had such a flat one in awhile and it turned him on. After we had a quick sexual encounter, I had to hurry to get my clothes on and exit real fast. He would open the door and look down the hall to see if the coast was clear. Then he would say, "Okay, now." And, I would run down the hall, out the door and down the steps to Henry waiting for me in the limo smoking his cigar. He would usually say something derogatory about JFK and tell me to button my clothes correctly. My bell bottoms had buttons on the front and if I was rushed I had trouble getting them buttoned right. I was always skipping a button. Henry would look down at my buttons and tell me to straighten up. Then I would button them correctly. I couldn't help that JFK had rushed me - I think he enjoyed that part as much as the sex. He seemed to like the adrenaline rush.

There was a very close call on another night. Jackie was down the hall calling out, "Jack, Jack, Jack!" Looking surprised, he grabbed me and put me in the closet, fixed the bed and answered her quickly before she opened the door. You could hear the sound of her shoes when she veered off the hallway runner and onto the wood floor. I was in the closet when she came in the room and asked, "Jack, what are you doing?'

I heard him laugh and say he was looking for John-John's shoe. He said one was missing. Jackie asked him to come upstairs and he told her he would just look for a while longer and then he would be up. This guy actually let his wife out of the room, pulled me out of the closet and started having sex with me again, this time with more passion than ever before. He seemed to thrive on the risk factor. When I left, the Secret Service agents usually walked me from the White House down the block to a waiting limo, unless Henry was waiting for me outside.

Henry was cultured. There were little blue vases with flowers in the back of his shiny black car. They had a little light next to them and you could see the flowers in the dark. If after one of these escapades I began talking silly and sexual, Henry would give me the sign to hush up by simply buttoning or zipping his lips and then I knew to be silent and obedient. I could be turned off or on, volume up or down. I ran very mechanically like a Rolls Royce. Henry didn't like noise or children so he created me to be quiet and dignified. As I grew older it wasn't as hard because I was more fully trained and didn't get my personality switching messed up. I got used to being silent with Henry. But it was a difficult transition after I was in the presence of JFK because he was wild and noisy, and his playfulness put me in the same frame of mind, until Henry toned me down.

Why JFK and His Brother Really Got Shot

JFK had ties to Frank Sinatra and his group. I was shared around all these type groups because of Bob's and Henry's influence. The Kennedy's were highly mob connected, especially Bobby, as surprising as that might seem for the family man image he projected. JFK took a mob dispute with him clear to the White House and attempted to use his political power as President to shut down his enemies. He publicly appeared to go after the Mob, but he was interested in shutting down only one enemy faction. But he had to publicly say he was going after all underworld crime in order to be able to legally do what he tried to do: dismantle the Mob that opposed the Kennedy family clan. I overheard Joe Kennedy yelling at JFK at a family reunion when he was President. He told him to stop messing with the Mob, to leave it alone, that he didn't know what he was doing. It was shortly after that that Joe Kennedy had a stroke or brain seizure, and Rose blamed Jack for causing it.

Joe Kennedy was very happy with the marriage of Jackie to Jack because Jackie brought with her a faction of mob that would help build up Jack and the future Kennedy dynasty. At least that's what I heard him say. Joe Kennedy was big on mob connections, like his friend J.P. Morgan, who was an important mob buddy and supporter. They supported each other.

As Joe Kennedy got weaker, the tight rein of coexistence he held with the Mob began to loosen and his sons became sloppy and careless, and didn't take seriously the rules of the Mob. Like Uncle Frank (Sinatra) said, "You don't ever try to go against the Mob or you'll wind up in the morgue or worse yet, sleeping with the fishes." I was born into Uncle Charlie's mob connection and he heavily influenced my life because of his arms, munitions and drug connections all over the globe. These were some serious connections that made him sought after by members of the Council. In those days, the Mob made the money and powerful connections. Different mobs supported each other like allies from foreign countries do. They were the power behind the Council, initially - the connections that allowed the Council to get such a toehold, as the mobs worked cliqueishly for or against one another. The Mob provided important funding in the early years, but later the Council took away much of their power over monopolies when the Council outstripped them of their power through intelligence and outsmarting them with technology.

The Mob couldn't begin to compete. In the beginning the Council knew how to work the different factions of the Mob for the Council's benefit and gain. Once the Council attained the strength they needed to get over the hump and into the big money, they outsmarted the Mob with their mind control technology and were then able to control the Mob. It was a game of intellect and the Council won- checkmate!

Joe Kennedy, William Randolph Hearst, J.P. Morgan and others were part of a powerful underground group. They created their own revenue and their own justice, and they knew how to play by the rules to stay alive and in the game, but the rules suddenly changed with the power created by the Council as they utilized the Mob's success and made it their own. People like Jack (JFK) didn't play by the new rules so they got snuffed.

Often when I was sent in to target JFK, I would be loaded with messages from the different mobsters like Uncle Frank (Sinatra). I gave instructions for JFK to do some favor for the Mob or else, he was told, "the small, sweet favors will dry up." JFK scared me because he always laughed and acted like he didn't take the messages with the seriousness I believed they carried. I had seen Uncle Frankie in operation and he had friends, lots of them, who killed people for nothing much at all, and I was afraid that if JFK didn't listen and do as they said that they would kill him, too. But he didn't seem the least bit concerned about them ...ever. I took them even more seriously after JFK was killed. Then I knew they weren't joking but were very serious and meant what they said about doing everything they said or be killed.

I heard Uncle Frank talk often about people's positions in the Mob. He talked to lots of Mob buddies in front of me. I was used for dangerous connections and, as far as Frank and Dean Martin were concerned, I knew far too much, so they wanted me to "sleep with the fishes." But Henry wouldn't hear of losing his "personal computer" and threatened serious retaliation if they harmed me. Henry had a new kind of power that the Mob didn't understand at first, until they got burned a few times. Then they understood. But some serious action had to be taken to prove this power, like, as I overheard, "the assassination of a President and his big mouth brother who just wouldn't listen," in order for the Mob - a strong political faction of it - to see where the new power lie, so they would know to back off. By then the banks and newspapers were taken over and reorganized by the Council and their constituents, and HIGH LEVEL TECHNOLOGY took over - something the Mob knew nothing about. It took the wind out of their sails. This was happening during the 60's and early 70's, when I was only a teenager approaching early adulthood, and listening and recording everything I heard per instructions from my boss, Henry Kissinger.

One day in his office, Henry said, "You won't be servicing him (JFK) much longer. The higher ups have some alternate plans for him." At the time I felt he meant death. Henry said, "This will lock you in for life." Later, they used JFK's death on me heavily.

When JFK was killed I was in junior high school and my controllers told me, "If we can take out the President without anyone knowing, who would miss the likes of you?" They told me I was dispensable, easily replaceable, and that no one would ever miss me if I were gone. To give me a clear example the suited man reminded me, "Does your mother even have a clue where you are right now? NO. So who would miss you? Not even your own mother."

In order to insure that I was under program and their total control they continued the ritual torture and trauma. Then they tied the ritual trauma that occurred at home or at the church across the street from my junior high school to songs or hypnotic commands, like "If you try to begin to recall this area of your mind, you will immediately recall this horror scene," which they reminded me of in complete detail, in order to keep me terrified and programmed.

Most people are now familiar with Marilyn Monroe's connection to the Kennedy family and her use with the President. It has been said by insiders that Marilyn was one of the first programmed Presidential models, created under mind control for sex with the President and use in Hollywood connections. While I did not possess the physical beauty that Marilyn Monroe did, I had the mind files and all the right connections to further my controller's interests.

For my assignments, when I wasn't flown out of LAX, I left from Van Nuys Airport, John Wayne Airport, or local helicopter pads that were atop buildings in Los Angeles. My mother took me and picked me up and nursed me back to life if I was hurt or really messed up mentally or psychologically. She would try to make me eat if I couldn't and she put me to bed. I was usually so out of it from the food and sleep deprivation and electroshock done for "National Security purposes" to keep memory of the events safely away from my conscious awareness, that I often couldn't think to bathe, eat or get into bed to sleep. My mom would tell me what to do and the parts of me that participated in these escapades always felt so relieved to be back in my clean bed at home. In my attempt to create some semblance of safety and security I slept against the wall to remind myself I was in my own bed and safe. That was, until my father came into my room at night-then the nightmare started all over again. More than anything in the world I wanted my mother, or someone, to help me--to protect me--to stop the nightmarish experiences. But she never could.

I will do everything in my power to stop these atrocities from happening, so that my daughter, my sons, and any future children born into our family will not have to suffer any longer. I am sure the Mob with their huge capacity for family love and loyalty will understand and pardon this need I have. And to Dr. Kissinger, Bob Hope, UCLA, CIA, NASA, U.S. Department of Defense and all those who participated in my family's high-tech programming, I ask that you honor this request for my family's freedom and safety. I will hold you in prayer, asking God to show you the ramifications of your actions.

"Be ye kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." -- Ephesians 4:3

Chapter Seven: All the way with LBJ

Lyndon Johnson was a very tall and large man. He had a pocket watch on a chain that he wore in a high pocket in his vest or coat, not in his pants. He wore glasses to read. I remember him sitting at his desk reading on into the night. The rest of the room was dark except for the light on the desk that he was reading by. He liked to wear his hat even when he was inside. He just loved his hat. He told me his hat was a Stetson and that back where he came from it was the best... "Like a Cadillac," he explained. His clothes smelled of cologne and his suits were often gray or brown and he often wore boots. He wore big white baggy boxer shorts and they didn't ever look new, as one would think a person in his position would wear. He had a bridge with a few false teeth on it, smoked a cigar at times and other times he puffed on a pipe.

On this occasion, he kept me in the bed in the darkened hotel room while he sat at the desk to finish up reading his papers. Then he turned off the light and came over to the bed where I was tucked in, wearing a skimpy teddy. It was cold in the room. All Lyndon had on was his boxers and brown socks. He laid his clothes by the table and chairs, and when he walked to the bed he pulled his penis out of the hole in his boxers and pulled my head over to him. He commanded, "Suck," while he pulled my hair to bring me closer to him. He stood, moaning with pleasure and then complained that he was needing to bend over too far so I got up on my knees and finished. He gratified himself in my mouth and liked to watch me swallow. Then LBJ climbed into bed and held me like I was a teddy bear and asked me to rub his back. One time he had me get out of bed to get him a cigar. He wanted me to light it but I wasn't very good at it because I was just a kid. I coughed a lot and nearly choked to death, but I got it to him in bed all lit. I handed him the cigar and he said, "Thank you, little lady." He usually called me that. He didn't want to go to sleep right away and had me turn the TV on for him. He never took his socks off the whole time.

One time when I was with LBJ he asked me questions about school and seemed to like to hear me talk about it. He also liked for me to wear my black and white saddle shoes. I had very shiny patent leather ones. This was during the time I was still attending Hale Junior High School. Lyndon liked that I was very young. At this time I was around 12 or 13 years old. I was with him quite a few times.

Another time my father took me to Texas on the flight back from Iowa. That's when LBJ showed me his Cadillac convertible. He kept it parked in a separate garage away from the ranch so it wouldn't get so dirty. "Hell, everything gets coated with dirt on the Ranch," he said. He had on his dress-up cowboy clothes and said that "Lady B" was off at some china convention. He drank beer in the car when we went on a "joy ride," he called it. I sat next to him and gave him a "super-duper," which was complete oral sex gratification. He said, "Be careful, I don't want to get any on the seat."

I laughed and teasingly said to assure him, "I know. I'm an expert in this area. Remember?"

"Well you sure do have spunk, I'll say that for you," he replied. LBJ smelled but not like body odor; it was just a strong male smell. He had his arm up over the back of the seat and we only rode for as long as it took to satisfy his sexual urge. Then he took the car back and had me keep my head down so no one could see me. I didn't go inside the ranch and when we got back he said, "This is as far as you go, little lady." I let myself out of the car and slammed the door. "You could have waited for my assistance," he said.

I laughed and said, "I can do it myself." A suited man escorted me into the back of a black sedan that was waiting under a tree at the front of the ranch and I was taken away.

Another evening as I waited for Lyndon, dressed scantily in a black lacy bra, garter belt, black nylons and red high heels, he declared I was making smoke come out of his ears and that, "it shore wasn't from his cigar." He wanted me to keep turning around and around and around while he looked at me. "My, my..." he said, licking his lips and as he put his hand to his mouth he continued, "My Lord, what do we have here?" The heavy stench of his cologne and smokesaturated clothes followed him over to me as he told me to bend over the bed with just those garter belts on and he stuck his penis in my bottom and then into my vagina but I had to give him oral sex in between, "to clean it off," he explained. It was disgusting and vile, even under mind control. Then we had intercourse and he liked it when I made noises. He had a cattle prod or some sort of electrical device nearby but didn't use it much. When he pushed the lever it made a crackling sound and what emerged looked like a jolt of yellow fiery-type electricity. He said he didn't have to use it with me much because I was so good.

He asked me if I liked what I did. I shrugged my shoulders and said, "Yes," but due to the mind control I was under I was unable to really think about his question. He told me he loved the young ones, "...beautiful little lady." He liked to kiss open mouth but he tasted yucky like cigars. His private parts smelled, too. But then there was the cologne to cover up the smell. He was pretty fat from my perception, but big and tall. Lyndon had a medium to small penis for his big body, but he said he used it well. He wasn't really hairy and the hair on his head was thinning. He used something like Vitalis on what was left of his hair when he combed it. I think maybe that is why he kept his cowboy hat on all the time, even in bed.

I usually slept all night with him because he wanted me to. He slept really close and held on to me. I spent the night and then in the morning I was taken home. When I was in the 10'" grade, I spent the night with him more often - even sometimes on school nights. I didn't go to school until 11:30 a.m. anyway and no one could ever seem to tell I had been gone. Sometimes I missed a full day of school and no one at Hale or Taft High ever said anything to me. Another form of trauma was added when one day after school, I was forced to watch as the men in suits roughed up my junior high school principal.

I was taken to the White House to be with Lyndon. One night he told me all about this lady named Agnes who he loved before Lady B. That's what he called his wife, "Lady B," instead of Lady Bird. He said he never got over Agnes, just couldn't forget her. He said Lady B fit into his future plans and worked out better but that he just really loved Agnes. When he talked about Agnes he had a goofy faraway look on his face.

Lyndon told me his wife had grown to act old early on in their marriage when something of a maternal nature happened to upset her. He said from then on she wasn't much for sex, so he took care of his needs elsewhere. He told me so much personal stuff that I think he must have forgotten how young I was. A lot of what he told me I didn't really understand. But I listened, apparently to his satisfaction, because one day he complimented me by saying, "You are a very good listener, young lady."

Lyndon also liked for me to cuddle on his lap while he fondled me in an armchair as he watched TV. He usually covered me with a blanket. It made it more secretive and he pretended people were present in the room with us watching but they didn't know what we were doing. Then he would ask me if I liked it.

I would smile and was programmed to say, "of course," or, "do more," or, "you're so big." He loved it all. I wore Unforgettable perfume with him. It was pungent and strong but he liked it. He especially liked sex when I was menstruating - he said it turned him on. He liked to do all sorts of perverted things to me during that time, which I don't feel comfortable sharing here. He also suggested that I do whatever I usually did for the cameras and take charge of our sexual activity. "You're in charge of the whoring, little lady," he would say as he smiled and tipped his hat. That hat was such an important thing to him.

He talked to me a lot and told me all kinds of stories over the time he was President. He liked for me to call him "Prez." He said when I called him Lyndon it made him feel guilty about Lady B so he said to call him Prez and I did as he commanded.

Sometimes he wore those dumb elastic things to hold his socks up like Bob (Hope) did. He looked so ridiculous wearing those dumb socks, his boxers and his hat, while he sat and smoked. He must not have cared what he looked like. The room was always kept pretty dark. He said he was most comfortable like that, but my eyes would adjust to the dark and I could still see how silly he looked. The teen personality programmed to be with him during those times was respectful and performed as her programming dictated, but through her teenage eyes, felt he was just a dork.

I did things that made him laugh. They were really dumb things but he seemed to like them. Like once I pulled my hair over and around and onto my upper lip and scrunched my lip up, pinching the hair under my nose to make it look like a mustache. Silly things made him laugh.

He tested my programmed capabilities. He burned me with a cigar one time, because he said he was told to try it to see what happened. He looked pretty amazed when I took off my clothes, sat down, got into position and told him to go ahead and stick it in, that it wouldn't burn me. So he pressed his cigar to my vagina and it didn't burn me. The pain didn't even register - "it didn't even hurt," is what I told him. That made him turned on and he said, "Little lady, you give me a big boner." He told me there was an endless stream of young ladies who liked his "big boner."

He liked the song that goes, "I'm a long tall Texan, and wear a 10 gallon hat." He also liked Born Free and Burt Bacharach's Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head and Blue, Blue, My World is Blue. He also liked hot dogs and hamburgers, but hot dogs best. And he told me he liked dachshunds, those little wiener dogs. I often felt like a dog with him because he was always patting my head. I joked with him about it and started barking when he patted me. I could really get off-the-wall with him and he seemed to love it. He laughed and laughed like Nixon and Reagan did at the silly things I was programmed to say and do. I don't know if he was aware that I had been programmed with most of the jokes.

The men in suits usually took me to him at a hotel. They put me in the room to wait for him. I'd say the suits were the Mob, but Secret Service agents waited outside the door once the Prez got there.

Once we were alone I was programmed to say, "Hey Prez, got a big boner for my little pussy today?" He would get all excited and start kissing and licking me. Yuck, it was gross. But it was the saddle shoes that really got him every time. He liked me to wear my school-type clothes and so I did. I was helicoptered from somewhere near Woodland Hills. Usually I was not flown in on a big commercial airline to see Lyndon. I don't know why but it was usually private planes. Then I would sleep with him all night and be flown back to California. There were times when, after I was used, the men in suits would let me out of the car near school and I would have my school clothes on from the day before, and I would just walk to school and go in like nothing had ever happened.

One time when I was sent to Lyndon, somehow I ended up wearing the St. Christopher metal that my programmed boyfriend Craig had given me for going steady. The men in suits would have normally taken away any personal item of this nature, but for some reason they missed my necklace this time. Johnson examined it and asked me what it was. Unable to think to lie, I told him it was a necklace my boyfriend gave me. Immediately he looked depressed. So I climbed into his lap and told him not to worry that my boyfriend couldn't hold a candle to him and that I was forced to be with my boyfriend, but that I choose to be with him. He smiled, pulled his hat down over his face, and leaned back in his chair ordering, "a blow job a-la-carte." So I performed as commanded. He said most women didn't love it the way I did.

Lyndon thought Texans were the best and most powerful type of men. I was taken to Texas to be used sexually by the Prez at a cabin or ranch out in the middle of nowhere. It had fences and horses and a woodcabin type house, but there were hardly any trees or greenery, like in California. The cabin was wood inside and he had a lamp that was made out of a bootleg. He loved it and I teased him about it, "Who's leg ya' got there holding up that light?" On a table there was a picture of Lady B that had been taken at the Ranch. We had sex there on occasion, because, as he explained, it was a place he could go and not be seen or bothered by anyone. The Secret Service could guard him well there since there was nothing else around and no one had any business going there unless they knew LBJ and had been invited. Despite the security there, LBJ often wore a small gun strapped to his leg by his boot. He said he enjoyed carrying it. He waltzed me back to his room, to the bed he shared with his wife. He said, "By sleeping here with you, when I'm f- -king the little lady, you can bet I'll be thinkin' of you."

There were white limos with Johnson. He liked oral sex when we rode in the back. He made the Secret Service agents ride up with the driver instead of in the back with him and he would have them close the tinted window behind the driver. He told them he didn't want to be disturbed because he and the "pretty little lady were going to have a nice quiet chat," which in actuality was a sexual encounter. Usually he was being driven to some location and upon reaching his final destination would debark the limo, leaving me in the back, or I would be kept waiting in the back for more when he returned. He could handle up to three oral sex encounters a day without any problem. He had his pocket watch on a chain in his vest pocket and would check the time to inform me if we were rushed or not. Usually he would say we were rushed which meant I had to work quickly and get him aroused and satisfied rapidly.

Later, he wanted me to dance cowboy style with him and I tried but wasn't very good. He said, "Don't worry, you know how to do the most important things - you've got what counts." One day he gave me an iris from an arrangement on a hotel table. He bowed and did a little dance as he held it out to me. It was really out of character for him.

At the end of "the Prez's" administration, I was also filled with more mind file information. I was taken to different offices in DC to be imprinted with more top secret, classified data by a female administrator.

LBJ also told me that the White House was a very lonely place to live and that he really wasn't very happy there. He said he was most at home in Texas at his ranch. Occasionally he had meetings there and other men were present. I had to give oral sex to many of them. I was usually there for one overnight and then driven back to town by limo, then flown home. Before I was put on the plane to California, the men in suits always took me for a coke and french fries at McDonald's. This was part of my programming to believe I was at McDonald's in California, so I wouldn't remember where I really was. The fries and coke were delicious since my programming required that I was food deprived before and during the time of my use. Then the men put me on the plane with the suggestion to sleep and forget. Because of our programming my mom never noticed I was gone and neither did I ... not until 1991 ... over twenty-five years later.

Chapter Eight: Brain Surgery at UCLA took away my Father's Free Will

Bethesda, Maryland

In my early teens, one of the places I was taken to was a hospital in Bethesda, Maryland. Two men in suits met me at the airport, drove me there and waited while a nurse helped me out of the car and took me into the emergency room. I was doubled over in pain, having trouble walking because the men in suits had just slugged me in the stomach. They told the old greyhaired nurse in the pink uniform with the little white apron, that I had appendicitis and to take me immediately into the emergency room. I don't know why but the men put a blond curly wig on me. I had on blue jeans, tennis shoes and a T-shirt.

I was terrified and couldn't help myself. The nurse took me in and waved me through all the paper work. Two doctors, clad in full surgical garb met me at a door to emergency surgery. They told the nurse they'd take over from there and laid me directly on an operating table and put a mask over my face and a needle in my arm. I had needles put in my arms all the time so that wasn't anything new, but it hurt. They told me they weren't who they appeared to be and then they put me to sleep with some sort of anesthetic, but parts of me from inside watched and knew exactly what was happening. There was great fear that they would really cut me open and take out my appendix when I didn't need it taken out. But instead, they put electrodes on my forehead, temples and head, and headphones on my ears that delivered one sound to one ear and another sound to the other. Then they varied the sound volume, quickly bringing the volume up so loud that it was excruciatingly painful. I felt like I would go crazy. They kept delivering electroshock to my head. Then they inserted something into my vagina and shocked me vaginally, then shocked my head, and they kept that routine up for what seemed like eternity. I could smell the alcohol and could feel when they put a cold scissors-like thing up my nose. It tickled and itched. Then a doctor said, "It's in place."

Everything inside of me felt psychedelic from the drugs they gave me. There were lots of colors and flashes of light that caused a very unreal feeling. I don't know how long I laid there. Eventually, they called for a nurse and told her to help me back out to the car. They said that I checked out fine, that I must have just eaten something that made me sick. The nurse put my arm around her neck and helped me outside. I had trouble walking but managed and she delivered me back to the two men in suits.

They, in turn, brought me to a darkened room all alone for awhile and then hooked me up to some of their own equipment. I sat in a chair while they put a band around my head and wrists, and shocked me while I listened to something they played through headphones on my ears. I couldn't understand the words I heard, as they were all mixed up and it made me nuts to try to understand. Then they unhooked me and said it was time to go home. I was put onto a military helicopter with two rotors, one at the front and one at the back and transferred to another plane that didn't have regular seats like a commercial airplane. There were just a few seats on either side and all sorts of straps and equipment on the floor. I laid on the floor during the whole flight.

My mother picked me up at the airport and I slept in the back seat of our Cadillac all the way home. She put me to bed and I could hardly move. I was in lots of pain and was nauseated, sick, and exhausted for the next two days. I couldn't eat or get out of bed. I just slept it all off in a hazy, drugged sleep. Mom just thought I had the flu again.

There were lots of times I was taken to places for programming. They had all sorts of schemes to get me to the programming sites - even getting me to pull my car over to the side of the road, after I learned to drive. I remember how one man told me to get out of the car, while another man pulled my hood up before taking me away in an ambulance to Westlake Hospital. Then they flew me from there to wherever they wanted me to go.

I remembered an incident where I was on an operating table and I saw a whole roomful of women like me who were also laying on gurneys with white sheets over them, and we were all linked up together through a single wire. There were mirrors all around and while I was deprogramming I realized that these other women were all parts of me; they all looked like me but had different lives and different jobs. That's what my programmers told me in order to create and enforce my multiple personalities.

Sometimes there were groups of doctors or scientists watching from chairs in a circular arena that extended upward. In this setting the doctors made presentations on their findings in order to display the research and show their progress so they could get additional funding or permission to do more mind research into areas they wanted to explore. The stage where I was being tested and displayed to the doctors in long white lab coats was low and as I looked up there were rows of ascending circular chairs in the arena from where they watched. Sometimes while I laid on the gurney, they would shine lights into my eyes and tape them open so I couldn't avoid the lights. They blinded me with one color for a long time, like white, and then added in another color like red or green. It was painful, so I escaped like I had been trained from birth to do, into mental dissociation so I couldn't feel the pain. Often they paired electroshock with the bright lights and music or word phrases. At appropriate times, they displayed a picture of Craig onto a holder in front of me while I sat in a chair that spun around and around. They played love songs while they spun me and when I came to a stop, I would see the picture of Craig and feel relieved. They told me Craig was my lifeline and to sever a connection with him was equal to death. Later on in my life, they did that sort of programming with my children's pictures.

My Father Has Brain Surgery
UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute 1967

The summer of my 16th year, our family physician, Dr. Stoddard referred my father for brain surgery to UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute. Dr. Robert Rand was the Neurosurgeon who performed the operation. My father never had a chance. Suited men came to visit and monitor us at crucial times. They were always watching and they gave him shots in his thighs and then asked him questions over and over, and told him what to do with me. Very scary and frightening events happened there to keep me further under control. I can only imagine what they did to my father's brain. The day before his scheduled surgery, a nurse came into his room while the whole family was visiting before surgery. He held out a box and explained very matter-of-factly that the hair in the box was my father's, just shaved from his head, and in the event that he didn't make it through the surgery they were keeping his hair to put back on his head in his casket. These insinuations, coupled with the ritual abuse I had previously endured, were enough to further dissociate me. There were other horrifying events performed to frighten me into further dissociation, creating even more control.

My mother and I were told to wait in the hospital lobby until they came to tell us the surgery was over. They called a code name for me over the loudspeaker and responding to the call, I walked up to my father's hospital room. A doctor in a white coat met me in the room and said he wanted me to enter the surgery room and watch. As I entered, I saw my father with his head cut open, with tubes in him everywhere; in his head, in his nose, in his arm, and they told me that my father would no longer hold authority over me. Now he was totally under their control and, now they would be in total control of me. Then they strapped me into the bed next to him and gave me some sort of gas through a mask they put over my nose and mouth. They told me to turn my head so I could watch everything they did to him that day - they took my real father away from me and the doctor said that they would be in charge of everything that happened to me and all my progeny from then on. I didn't know what that meant, but I knew it was bad. They performed some sort of surgery on me, too. They inserted something under my nail bed and later they told me they moved it somewhere else and I would find places on my body with skin flaps where I figured they had put them in. They tested and experimented with implant after implant on me. With some implants they were trying to see if they could totally control me from a distance.

Later when my mother came to look for me, she found me sitting in my father's room bent over with my head down to my knees, while a nurse standing by me explained, "She fainted, that's all. She'll be all right." My father made it through surgery and was placed in intensive care.

Soon after, my controllers told me my father had died in the surgery, that all I had to do was remember how he looked with his eyes closed to realize he was dead. They told me that my 'real' family would take over now and that I needed to understand that it was really best that way. And, although everything outwardly appeared to remain the same, nothing ever was again. The life essence of my father was totally gone; he was not in control of himself any longer. My brother Rick took over the family business and I began traveling more, internationally.

Months after my father's release from the hospital, he came into my room and sat down on the floor next to my bed while I was studying. Upset and very emotional, which was very unusual for my father, he said, "Honey, big things are happening and I've lost control of you." Tears were streaming down my strong father's face. I didn't know how to react. My macho father never cried. I couldn't think to question him or to wonder just what it was he was trying to tell me. So I let it go, along with hundreds of other questions and thoughts that any normal, unprogrammed daughter would have thought to ask.

Institute Of Higher Learning

Sometime later, I was taken to a hospital in Montreal. My controllers called it an "Institute of Higher Learning," but instead of higher learning, I was put in a hospital gown and kept drugged and in restraints. A very important French personality inside of me was created and enhanced there. If I didn't cooperate they put me into a padded cubicle in the dark until I "came to my senses" and began behaving properly. I'd seen over the years just what they had done to my father and I couldn't take anymore. I had nothing to lose by not cooperating. From one of his personalities that was 'in the know' and before brain surgery took his free will away, my father told me, "You don't have to do anything they say honey, they want to take your mind." Years later as I retrieved pieces of my memory that allowed me to see the bigger picture, I remembered numerous occasions when my father laid in programs to help me exit my abuse. He even gave me suggestions to heal and bring my personalities together. I've often wondered if this was a more significant contribution to my successful healing than I could ever imagine.

Chapter Nine: They didn’t see me as Human

Sweet Sixteen

Bob Hope was one of the first high-powered men Craig 'delivered' me to. This, of course, was by no means my first meeting with Bob, but it was a test for Craig and the first time my young 'handler' would use the programmed skills he learned to take me to my assignment. For my 16t' birthday present in 1967, Craig surprised me with a trip, by train, to the San Diego Zoo for the day. Consciously we were programmed to be committed to a non-sexual relationship, waiting for our projected wedding date to consummate our marriage. At least that is why we thought we were only spending the day, and not the night in San Diego. Due to our programming, neither of us had any conscious awareness that anything other than that was occurring.

We boarded the train, and after a while Craig delivered me to a private car where Bob Hope, Senator Alan Cranston, and a couple of other men were waiting. Craig left me with them and then robotically left the room. I had sex with each of them as the others watched. They were all old men, even in those days.

Later, Bob said he had a little job for me to do and the next thing I knew I was in a big office with wooden floors and a desk with an American flag beside it. When Bob introduced me, I shook hands with the man behind the desk. He impressed me then as an important man, like the President, but he wasn't. Bob left me alone with him. The man asked me all kinds of questions and I told him that I had been insurance company bonded as a requirement of my Christmas employment in a jewelry store. He seemed to like that. He also wanted to check out my body. Following his instructions, I removed my clothes and he 'checked' me all over by feeling. He put his hand behind my neck and pulled me over to him and began kissing me.

This dark-haired executive was much younger than Bob. He turned me around facing away from him and I could hear the noise of the zipper as he unzipped his pants. He pushed me over at the waist and began having sex with me from behind. He explained that he was checking the fit. I didn't know what that meant but was very embarrassed, as evidenced by my red cheeks. He commented on how he liked it when I blushed. He said it meant that I was naive and innocent, and explained he liked them that way. When he was through 'questioning' me, he opened the door and went and got Bob. He told Bob that I'd be fine, that he was very pleased, and went to his drawer, took out a folder, and wrote out a check. He carefully put the folder away, handed Bob the check and said, "Here's a check for the cause." I didn't know what that meant either but they shook hands and both seemed pleased.

When we left in the limo, I couldn't see where we were going, because Bob pushed my head down on a man's lap for me to perform oral sex. The rest of the day was a blur. I didn't know where my boyfriend Craig went or if I would ever see him again. I was exhausted when we finally got 'home' and that night I 'slept away' all memories of this experience just like I had been programmed to do.

During my teen years, I remember Craig and I would lie around my backyard pool for hours, swimming, talking and playing. At the time, that was all I consciously remembered. But, when I woke up to reality years later and began recalling what fully happened, I remembered Craig holding a small brown bottle with a dropper in it. He put some of the clear liquid from the bottle onto a piece of celery and peanut butter and gave it to me to eat. After I did, everything kept moving, like a movie, except each frame was moving in a fractured, uneven, hazed way. It was hard for me to even walk to the pool. I bent over, my stomach cramping and everything was spinning. I wasn't suppose to notice that he had given it to me, but I did, and later I remembered other tunes.

Happy Daze

By the time I entered William Taft High School in Woodland Hills, my life began to change even more dramatically. Due to the mind control I was under, I constantly had a smile plastered on my face whether I was happy or not. The ritual abuse became minimal during this time, done only on occasions that were required to maintain my mind control. Through a vast array of the latest in human programming technologies, I was well on my way to becoming a total and completely compliant, efficient and multi-tasked robot.

Looking back now, high school felt like one big blur to me. I remember having only one close friend at a time, and knowing that I was "popular" but never feeling that way. Instead I felt ugly, stupid, awkward, shy and set apart from the other kids at school that were my age. I was made part of the Student Council so that I would have a public school image. Often my picture was posted on walls to announce upcoming events, or to announce contests I was entered into. My presence leading and organizing certain school functions served to allow many of the students to know who I was; yet very few students really knew me or were close to me. A whole strategy was devised to keep me popular in the eyes of my schoolmates and most of the faculty by making me a continual face or body by plastering pictures of me all over the school; yet, I was not in attendance on a very regular basis. Henry said it was for my protection, so others would feel below me and many wouldn't even approach me as if I was a celebrity, and I was instructed to "act" that way also. I was known in school, without ever really "knowing" anybody because of the projected image that was publicly created for me. I felt isolated and alone, in a daze, like I really didn't exist.

I was programmed to act snooty and too good for people, to remain very aloof. Yet I was deeply locked into my own inner world, constantly mentally working to keep all data filed correctly in all the areas Henry created. I was so inwardly focused that I had a very hard time in the physical world, hence the reason my mother did everything for me at home. Henry told me to spend all my time tending to the mental files. And while my mother did all the domestic chores, I did as Henry commanded, often floating on a raft in our backyard swimming pool, sorting mind files all the while in a trance state. I had many mental exercises Henry assigned for me to perform at home. The system he created and used during my 16th to 22nd years was extensive and required mental work to keep organized, cleaned and neat. Henry said it took mental muscle to keep the files in complete order.

I was elected Vice President and then President of the Girl's League Association at school, and was part of the Student Government. I was voted 'Princess' at the prom, was paraded in a convertible at a football game and had my picture pasted all over the school for fashion shows and contests I was in. But, I never felt like I belonged; I just felt like a robot, living in a complete fog, and looking back that is exactly what I was.

As Girl's League President, I was in charge of a fashion show that was called "Tivoli Gardens," a foreign affair that was so named in order to scramble a lot of the international work I was doing with Henry abroad. They even used times I was supposedly buying flowers in downtown Los Angeles at the flower mart as a scramble. My mother reluctantly accompanied me on the stage at the fashion show to introduce the models. She was so shy and embarrassed but she did it for me because I asked her to. Henry had already taught me to see the audience in totality as one person I was comfortable speaking with and to begin my speech as if the two of us were alone. And I was instructed to wear my speaking dress to give me confidence and poise. Armored with these inner crutches, I could speak with no hesitancy, no shyness, and no apparent problem at all.

I also spoke publicly for Henry at other occasions where he would load me up and book me a time slot on stage. Sometimes it was a debate between fellow robots on political issues but I wasn't trained like they were - I was trained only to deliver. Many others were adroit at debating, but I wasn't. So I'd go up on stage, deliver my pre-programmed speech, everyone would clap and later Henry would say I did a great job. But I had to have on my speaking dress, and no matter what I was really wearing, it became "my speaking dress." If he was present, Henry commented before I went on, "My, you look lovely in your speaking dress," and then my speech would be internally engaged and I'd be ready to deliver. I performed in these ways for many "show your latest technology in robots" shows. After I passed those, I got to move on to more diplomatic matters.

Henry used me to warm up groups that his constituency was going to speak to and I often wore several different disguises and always looked different. Henry was the puppeteer and I was his puppet and at anytime he wished, he could pull my strings and make me change into a different puppet, with a different face with which to meet the public. And like Mr. Potatohead, he could order what kind of face he wanted me to put on. "Squint your eyes a bit, curl up the ends of your mouth, flair your nostrils, pull your jaw forward"...all sorts of different facial mannerisms and contortions that I was programmed to perform, combined with wigs, glasses, body padding, hats, etc. It was all quite effective as I played my role creating different faces to present to the public. Not many people know about this technology yet and Henry said we had a definite edge on the others. He said that it was always important for us to strive to reach greater and greater knowledge and awareness, to stay ahead of the pack in being the first, the best, and the brightest in our latest endeavors. He was constantly experimenting with me and adding things like archival information and classified documents, in order to have the latest information to draw from.

Henry said, "You're the leader of the pack in this diplomatic endeavor and as such we will continue to update your system in order to insure that you stay "the leader of the pack." In a hypnotic session, he said to me, "Each and every time you hear the song, "Leader of the Pack," on the radio, you will think of the motorcycle bikers only and will remain in the dark otherwise." The word "dark" was internally linked in my system to all sorts of ritual horrors and terrors, thereby plunging this information that was subliminally linked to it deeply into the recesses of my subconscious mind. I could not consciously retrieve it; yet it ruled my actions. In this way the ritual tortures that I had endured as a child and as a young adult at my church were linked to these other memories. They tied the ritual trauma to these memories by saying, "If you begin to recall such and such, you will immediately recall the ritual, and they would go into great detail to remind me of the tortures that happened at those rituals. They used the ritual tortures on and off at strategic, necessary times to either bring to the forefront an old group of personalities, or to create a new group. A traumatic ritual could effectively create a whole new group of alternate personalities, since it was such an extensive trauma. Henry often spoke to his colleagues on this subject, advising them when and where to use trauma. Henry consulted with other men who needed guidance as to how to create and maintain a robot or group of them, as in Bob Hope's case.

Bob had a whole group within me, eight personalities at one time, but Henry advised him to cut it down to four because he said he couldn't effectively maintain that many until the level of technology rose, allowing for more of the programming and maintenance to be performed by machine rather than by man. Henry said my prototype was not new but was highly expanded and more technical and he was building on an older model of a sex robot and mind computer prototype, combining them within me in hopes of expanding technologies and coming up with a more versatile workable model. He actually viewed me as a machine.

Dr. Olmstead, our principal, gave me orders in his office. When he did I would go into robotic receiving mode and record all the data he gave me. I transferred what was appropriate to my blue inner calendar and filed the rest of the information into the suggested files for use at the correct time. My Student Government (Student Council) teacher, Saul Rowen, would drive me, to catch a plane or, more often, to a helicopter port where I was then transported to a government approved shuttle plane to Washington, DC or New York. Usually I was taken to Nixon for sex and to straighten out his often dour attitude and then to Henry and the research team for further instruction.

Back home Dr. Stoddard prescribed a continuous supply of the antibiotic Tetracycline. He said I had to take the medication so I would not have pimples. I never was able to question this at the time, could not think to, but realized later on, as I healed and integrated, that I never suffered from any type of acne and must have been given this antibiotic to insure I did not infect the government leaders with any "social diseases." He also prescribed mood elevators and mild tranquilizers for me during times when I was extremely depressed as a teenager. These helped to keep me "happy." During the times I was being used by others, they utilized personalities that were cheerful and energetic, so my moods were never a problem. Dr. Stoddard also gave my father shots of testosterone to boost his sexual desire.

Looking back, my high school years had a very unreal feeling to them. I didn't eat much in those days, in obeisance with programming, and was very thin like the popular model of the time, Twiggy. I had programs in place that guaranteed that my physical body would maintain a perfect size 6, or less, and usually in those days I wore a size 2 or 4. If I ate very much I became nauseated and could eat no more. When I went for a few days without eating while I was on assignment, my stomach shrank and so it was difficult to eat much, plus I would often be very sick and shaking from the high voltage I was subjected to. My mother often got into my twin bed next to me and held and rubbed me to get my body to calm down. She also kept saying, "You're home honey, you're home." My body often convulsed and I had dry heaves but after I slept I was usually better.

Rocketdyne/Rockwell International

Ken Golliher was a nuclear physicist and a Mason who was respected as 'the brains' behind a lot of scientific plans or inventions while employed at Rocketdyne in the Woodland Hills area. He worked with Ellsworth Ford, Craig's father, who was plant engineer, and Mary, the women I've previously mentioned, our neighbor who for many years was my 'second mother.' Ken's daughter Shelly was a member of the young women's Masonic organization, Job's Daughters, and attended the same school as Craig. Through their friendship I came to know her.

But it wasn't until some twenty-five years later that I began remembering Ken Golliher, adorned with a white lab coat, white hard hat and goggles, waving me through the security guard at the front guard gate at Rocketdyne. From his lab coat pocket hung a plastic badge with his picture and other information on it. I don't know what he told them to gain entrance for me, maybe that I was his daughter or something. Anyway, they let me through the security gate driving my family's old '57 Chevy. I must have been around sixteen years old.

Once inside the building, Ken showed me the monkeys in a cage and one monkey was sitting in a chair with its little head screwed into a metal framework that wrapped around his skull. Ken told me it didn't hurt the monkey at all. Before I knew it, I was strapped into a chair, with electrodes positioned on my head. They told me that I was strapped in so I wouldn't move around. Ken was an excellent photographer and before me was a slide screen. At first I was shown slides of nature scenes like flowers with bees on them and then they began flashing technical slides with pictures of moon landings, instrumentation information, satellite diagrams, craft designs, mathematical equations and all sorts of technical information. There were slides of page after page of numbers, formulas and diagrams of assembly information for certain projects. One picture was of a mechanical chair that a robot--I mean astronaut--could maneuver around on the moon. It's possible that some of the astronauts are human robots, because I saw the formulas for programming them so they could be controlled from earth and scientists would never have to rely on the astronauts human emotions' or human errors in thinking. I saw a whole set of plans for training and conditioning an astronaut.

The United States actually sent many more people and animals onto the moon and to other planets than they let be known to the American public. They were experimenting with all types of life forces on the moon and didn't announce many of their experiments, or findings. The ones that were made public were strictly to control the feelings and beliefs of the American people. Unscrupulous scientists sent "indigents" as they called them, to the moon and other planets, and they usually didn't return ...or if they did they tested them to see what killed them. So great was the desire to explore other planets to beat the Russians, or to quench the curiosity of some totally left brain scientists, that they didn't care who they killed or hurt to get the desired results.

They were doing initial research and used mind-controlled slaves to explore the possibility that humans could live in outer space - on space stations and other planets. This was done in preparation for the elite families to have a place to go should the need arise.

Even back in the late 60's they had tracking stations on the moon that were highly sophisticated, and used to measure many things. Somehow they were even able to monitor the 'feelings' of a population. They monitored the earth from the moon much more than they monitored the other planets. This monitoring system was set in place to control a society--to control their feelings and thought patterns. They rationalized these actions explaining that in this way they would be able to create a society free of crime and violence, but that is because people won't be able to think for themselves. Their plans are for a society of mind controlled robots. I saw them perform studies on hamsters and rats where they totally controlled them by these means. Now they can do it with human beings and create any situation on the globe they want to peace, chaos, violence, whatever they want and then they can go in with their invisible frequency warfare and publicly visible police force and take control. In this way people could lose all the freedom they once had. It is already happening. Without knowing it, people are loosing freedom over their own thoughts and emotions and will become controlled instead by technologies that they could never even have imagined, let alone thought possible. It is a sick, twisted, and sinister scheme of global mind control. (See Nick Begich's book, Angels Don't Play This HAARP.)

Back then, Rocketdyne had a test site in the Santa Suzanna Mountains, a missile range firing plant where the scientists had the privilege of quickly testing their inventions on the spot without having to wait for them to be sent to other firing locations. The scientists liked that instant gratification. They could see how their blueprints worked right away. So they had a total loop from blueprints, to manufacturing and then to launch - and it was more than mere missiles they were firing off.

Ken got me into the facility over and over in my teens, to hook me up to equipment that bypassed my conscious mind to record in my "top secret mind files" information about their ideas which needed to be passed on to alternate sites or the Department of Defense. They were all secretly inter-connected with a huge web of criminals on the inside and at the top who operated without the knowledge of the public.

Army Base Programming

More programming took place on an army base where I was escorted past some men in army uniform to an underground facility that we arrived at by walking down a steep flight of stairs to a large cement and grey metal-walled warehouse. I was taken past a room with desks and computers to a room behind where the programming equipment was kept. They put me inside large cylindrical machines where I either laid or sat while they did all sorts of things to me. One time they put me in a decompression chamber where I felt like I was getting squeezed to death and then they put in some gas that made me laugh and feel weightless. They hooked wires and electrodes to my head and limbs and they used loud sounds intermittently with soft sounds, then blasted the loud sounds again during which time an army officer in a brown uniform delivered word phrases to me that were inaudible to my conscious mind because of the other loud sounds I was being subjected to. They put me through a series of machines ...ones that spun me, rolling me tumbling head over heals, for long periods of time. Then they laid me on a table and shined bright lights in my eyes and loud sounds again in my ears. At the same time, the officer yelled at me. I was so confused and out of it that another officer tried to calm me down on the table so I could dress and leave. I was escorted out into an awaiting limo. I did notice that we were in an area that looked like the California desert.

I watched and recorded in my mind files, much like a court reporter, while the American doctors in coats mapped my forehead and face and hooked me up to electrodes. There were other people in the room sitting like zombies all with their heads mapped out. We all have numbers that follow us no matter what research projects we were assigned to. They were studying our brains in a variety of different contexts, in all different environments, with different stimulation. They were also studying genetic effects, cultural effects, nutritional effects, every effect of environment and genes on a person's brain function, their life function, their longevity, their functionality and productivity. They monitored (by the electrodes) and registered and mapped lots of data that was imputed on brain function. This also furthered their understanding of how humans would do on other planets and space stations. The movie Coma (1978) was later used as a screen memory (to scramble this abuse), but the experiments were reality. Some data was taken much later on at Pepperdine University in Malibu, where I attended as a college student in 1985-87, and some at international locations; one, a big huge room with dark marble floors in England.

Back At Winnetka Tech

Jokingly, people referred to my high school as "Winnetka Tech," and in essence that was an amazingly appropriate title for a high school that had an inner group of teachers and faculty whose agenda it was to create "enhanced minds." The high school was a factory of "young adults," as Henry Kissinger called us. In junior high Henry began creating my friend Candy's mind files, but said she was too robotic. Henry said I was a natural and ran smoothly with no rough edges. Then there was Helen, the student who was Girl's President before I was and there was also a male student, whose name I can't remember. Henry worked on them all but I was chosen above all of them because I appeared so natural and All-American, while the others he viewed as too ethnic or too robotical. Henry said he could still use them all at different tasks, but I was the most versatile and would fit into most situations. One of the women astronauts also graduated from Taft High School.

At other times in high school I was driven on those small 'special' Los Angeles School District buses - the kind they used for kids with special needs - to the Van Nuys Airport, or to LAX, or to different heliports on top of buildings in Los Angeles. During the late 60's I was taken out of school often and bused to different places for all sorts of different things; sexually servicing important businessmen or politicians, or meeting Nixon at some place on the beach in California, or meeting Reagan at the Motion Picture Country Hospital, or meeting Bob and his friends somewhere. There were lots of important businessmen in Southern California, Northern California, Sacramento, Santa Barbara, Ojai, San Francisco, San Luis Obispo, Santa Cruz, Carmel, etc., that I was delivered to for sex and to deliver Council messages. Suits, suits, and more suits! I never knew where I was going and the driver of the bus was usually a different person each time. One time the driver was a lady who said she came all the way from the inner city to drive me. She said, "You don't look handicapped to me." I didn't respond, couldn't think to, instead I just walked off the bus and into the courthouse where I was to sexually service and pass a message to some circuit judge. Often I would get out of the special bus and later another special bus would pick me up and I would be taken back to Taft High School. I didn't spend a lot of time in class, but my teachers didn't say anything when I didn't turn in my homework. I don't know why, but they didn't.

There were times in high school that I was dismissed from classes for an entire week and spent the time traveling internationally with Nixon and Kissinger. While I traveled at times with Nixon, I was programmed to carry Henry's strategic plan for Nixon to tap into, whenever he needed to refresh himself with Henry's plan. I often stayed in hotel rooms, or waited in nearby rooms or the lobby, appearing to be a regular person. Nixon would access me, before, during, or after a meeting, always leaving the sex for much later on. But I was at Nixon's fingertips, armed and loaded with all the possible input and data any one man could ever want. That's how Henry described this when I accompanied Nixon to China, USSR, the Far East, Vietnam talks, etc., always disguised as someone else in order to serve Henry's interests.

So, in addition to my secret life during my so-called studies at Taft High School, I was flown all over the country and internationally, serving those individuals Kissinger set me up with. I was having routine sex with the health and government teacher, Mr. Saul Rowen, who later became the owner of Cali Camp, an exclusive children's camp in Southern California. Some days when I was at school, during lunchtime, I was filmed pornographically by my brother and others in the photo lab at Taft. And I was having sex, all the while unknown to my conscious personality, with members of the business community, and earned myself the D.A.R. award for service, from the Woodland Hills Rotary Club, upon graduation.

Rockefeller and Kissinger Confer on My Future

Uncle Rocky was my corporate sponsor and was in Henry's office one day when Henry turned to me and said, "My dear, don't you have something to say to Mr. Rockefeller, here?"

"Yes, Sir!" I exclaimed all bubbly and excited. I took his hand and said exactly as Henry had preprogrammed me, "Mr. Rockefeller, I would like to ask you if you would sponsor my further education?"

"Of course," he said, "I would be most delighted to be a part of your future growth and contribution to mankind." Standing, he went on, "For me to finance your education means that you are now part of my family and any young lady as bright as you are should call me Uncle Rocky," and he shook my hand. Now I knew that he was part of my real family that Uncle Charlie (Charles Lilley Horn) had spoken of.

My reliability had been tested for several years and I seemed to "graduate" to a higher level of use. What could be higher level than the President of the United States? In my experience, the Council, and certain international individuals like the Rockefellers, was a higher level, standing head and shoulders above the government and United States politicians.

With this 'honor' bestowed upon me, it took just three days for this highest level of programming to be accomplished. I'm not sure where I was taken but the walls in the room I was taken into were white like in a hospital. There was a flat silver metal band that was fitted to the top of my head with adjoining circular outer bars that haloed around it. They coupled that with finger connectors joined to wires that delivered electroshock to my fingers and toes. They sent electroshock first to both of my smallest appendages; my little fingers and toes. Then they simultaneously sent electroshock to my next finger and toe, and continued in succession until all paired appendages had been included. At the same time they delivered the electroshock, they shined different colors of the red spectrum, which went through blue to purple, while they were flashing the light. Next they did the yellow spectrum paired with a different set of fingers and toes. They completed the whole 'rainbow spectrum' using each finger/toe paired in sequence. I overheard them mention something about creating a perfect coordination between not only left and right brain motor symmetry but actual motor functioning, paired with brain wave patterning so that, "the android robot appears perfectly normal and human." I had to sit in this electric chair for what seemed like hours while they did all this to me.

It was also during this time period that I was introduced to Ronald Reagan.

"Faith comes from hearing the message, and the message is heard through the word of Christ." -- Romans 10: 17

Chapter Ten: Introduced to Governor Ronald Reagan

I was slowly introduced to Ronald Reagan when I was a teenager. Private meetings were set up by Bob Hope, for me to meet with Reagan at the small theater that is part of the Motion Picture Country Hospital (MPCH) located in Calabasas, California, just 10 minutes from my childhood home in Woodland Hills. The hospital is owned and operated by the Screen Actor's Guild (SAG). After my father suffered a heart attack my mother took a job and worked there for 10 years, in the late 60's and early 70's, as secretary/bookkeeper to the Assistant Executive Director.

I was programmed to walk or ride my bike to the hospital to watch some of the movies that played in the small theater on the hospital grounds. I was instructed to watch many movies that were used for 'programming purposes' to instill certain preferred attitudes or moods within me. Among them: My Fair Lady, Gone With the Wind, The Unsinkable Molly Brown, Disney movies, and the Wizard of Oz. Often during the showing, a man would come up behind me and zap me with an electronic piece of equipment. At other times, seeing a movie was just a cover for privately meeting with Ronald Reagan. I was also instructed to read the book, Flowers for Algernon, which was intended to scramble, cloud and cover the memory of experiences that happened at the MPCH and elsewhere.

It was there, in private, at the MPCH, that Ronald Reagan began to get acquainted with me, and with many of my created personalities. I was instructed beforehand that I would have "an important guest" and that I was to "make a good impression on him, to give him the full treatment." The Council had big plans for Ronald Reagan and he fit the requirements for what they were looking for - someone who was pliable and could be directed. He proved that by following their directions from the beginning, even before he was elected Governor. He was a person who was patriotic, personable and was seen as wholesome, good and genuine in the public eye. He was a "good actor" and was willing to jump through their hoops without question. They always told him he was working for the "good of his country" and he never seemed to question anything. But I am getting ahead of myself.

That first meeting, Reagan and I were alone in the small theater. When the lights were lowered in the audience section, that was my cue to begin my routine. The "full treatment" consisted of singing and dancing on the small stage for him, ending with a striptease dance. After my seductive act, I walked out to where he was sitting all alone and climbed, naked, into his lap to recite my program. Following my programmed instructions, I told him that I could satisfy every desire or whim he could imagine, that I came complete with instructions and top security, and was referred by his friend Bob Hope.

He seemed embarrassed, a reaction that would follow him over the years in relation to me, and a bit overwhelmed, but his response was, "I'm sold ...tell Bob I'm sold!"

Having carefully recorded his exact response within my photographic memory as instructed, I clambered out of his lap, collected my clothes from the stage floor and got dressed.

I had several personalities that were specially created to please Ronald Reagan sexually. One was created for total devotion to him over the years.

I was used extensively on and around 1968, at age 17, by then Governor Reagan and soon after with United States President Richard Nixon. These top politicians were guaranteed that my training insured the highest level of security. The high level of mind control I possessed guaranteed that I could be used with these leaders who were involved in some of the highest levels of national security, without my own awareness, therefore creating the most sophisticated level of security our nation had to offer. The spy doesn't even know she's spying!

Rendezvous with Reagan occurred often at the MPCH but the way it was set up was very secretive. On Sunday afternoons, or in the evenings, I accompanied my family to the small movie theatre on the grounds. While we were waiting outside in line I was instructed to say that I had to go to the bathroom and instead I would slip into the backside entrance to the little theatre and wait for him to show up. Often he was waiting in the back of the theatre and I'd quickly deliver the message and return to my family. Other times, I waited for him in the back of the darkened theatre. He would arrive looking secretive like he was trying to travel "incognito." After we connected I would get up and go to the front of the theatre to join my family and he would sit down in my vacated seat. During the movie I would announce to my family that I was going to the restroom and I would slip into the row of seats in front of Reagan. As soon as I was in position in front of him I rattled off a bunch of information meant to guide him. If he passed these tests by doing what he was told, then he could enter a higher level of the political arena. He was slowly informed that I was a robot who was merely reporting to him from the higher ups. In the beginning they told him not to underestimate my abilities just because I was young, that I had years of powerful training to make me the way I was and that he was to utilize me to the fullest.

Once he was elected Governor, they had me working between Nixon (as President) and Reagan (as Governor). They worked them together and were able to effect powerful change and legislation between the two. That was escalated when Reagan got into office as President and later they utilized Pete Wilson in the same way. Lots of legislation was pushed through and by the time Wilson hit the office of Governor and Reagan hit President, they had the channels cleared to get through laws, bills and whatever else the Council needed for their own advancement.

There was an older gray-haired, feeble looking man with a diamond pinky ring to whom I frequently reported at the MPCH. He often brought my mom a paper to sign. At times he coordinated and delivered me to different rooms or cottages to meet with different people. He told me to go inside and wait. Often Reagan was the person I was to wait for. Other times he would say, "Wait in here," and I sat in a lobby or room where a Secret Service agent came to deliver me to then-Governor Reagan. They took me often to a little housekeeping cottage to have sex and deliver messages to Reagan. Later the older man with the diamond pinky ring would come and take me back to my mother's office. He didn't even see who I was delivered to meet. The Secret Service said they liked it better that way because they said it was "once removed," so it wasn't as risky.

There were instances where my mother would pull open a file drawer in her office, remove a file and lay it on her desk for me to read and record. Displayed before me were logs of upcoming dates and times I was to meet Reagan or others at the MPCH. At other times I viewed papers full of instructions of things to say, including specific phrases, to certain people, or lists of columns of four figure numbers that I was instructed to encode and decipher.

At some meetings Reagan would practice a speech in front of me in the theatre. I'd take it all back to the Council and they would correct a line or two, give the exact wording to be used, and I'd deliver the message to Reagan again and he would modify his speech and deliver it as they dictated.

Other times I was instructed to ride my bike to the MPCH or I accompanied my mom to work when she had extra work to do and I'd say I was going outside. She never questioned me. After I started driving at 16, I was instructed to report to my mom's office and ask for money or permission to do something, be ore I went to the theatre so she wouldn't suspect anything if later someone told her they saw me. The man in the theatre who let me in during off-hours 'appeared' to be a janitor, but I guess he was a part of it. Sometimes a group of men at a round table met as I sat off to the side in "park mode," while they discussed what needed to be done with me next or they'd argue about what I was being 'exposed' to. One man ended the argument explaining, "that's what the boss ordered." The boss was Bob Hope. These men seemed to know all about me. But Bob didn't like to meet or have sex with me at the MPCH because he said, "Frankly, the people there are too old." It seemed to depress him to think about old age.

Million Dollar Babies

I overheard conversations where the President of the United States and other top politicians were offered the services of "escorts,"--the CIA's latest human robot technology--programmed sex and espionage slaves. They were encouraged to use these escorts to satisfy their sexual and emotional needs, instead of exposing themselves to outside individuals, because these escorts were guaranteed safe - had passed many tests to insure security, were able to provide guaranteed secrecy and were safe from venereal disease.

The presidents and others were highly discouraged by the CIA from other avenues of sexual indiscretions for fear of public exposure. This fear of the consequences of seeking "outside" sexual gratification, fear of adverse publicity or disease, and other security risks, created a heavy demand for the use of this latest human technology.

As I later learned, Project Monarch beta trained sex slaves were called "million dollar babies" referring to the large amount of money each slave would bring in from a very early age. In the 60's the use of a Project Monarch presidential model sex slave cost around $1200 for an evening. Henry called me his "million dollar machine."

My father and his controllers had done their homework, insuring I was Multiple Personality Disordered, certifiably under total and complete mind control and ready for use by certain individuals in top political and entertainment positions, by the time I was a preteen.

But what many of the CIA officials may or may not have been aware of was that a powerful group of men, whom I refer to as "The Council," secretly ran the government. They were also able to access the "mindcontrolled escorts" and program them to subversively influence top government officials in ways that benefited the Council. The CIA's latest human technology was now being used against our own government.

"Each of us will one day be judged by our standard of life...
Not by our standard of living; by our measure of giving...
Not by our measure of wealth; by our simple goodness...
Not by our seeming greatness. " -- William Arthur Ward

Chapter Eleven: Mind Control in the Prisons

Wearing white sandles, a red shirt and skirt, I was flown by helicopter up near Sacramento, California to the Vacaville Prison. It was another mind control experiment only this time not on me. Mind control programs were tried out on the inmates - programs they wanted to implement with criminals, soldiers, etc., if they worked. Governor Reagan, who was busy touring the facility, wasn't around when they tortured and programmed the prisoners. He went off with a prison official while I was taken to deliver the verbal portion of the program to the men.

On one side of the walkway the inmates were left alone and on the other side they were hooked up to electrodes, with a band around their head and wrists, and were shocked. Then a guard took me to say programming phrases to them like, "I will not commit a crime. I will behave in society like a good citizen. I will no longer offend. I will not rape. I will be calm. I will be peaceful. I will not fight. I will not swear. I will be an asset to society. I will follow orders. I will obey commands. I will serve my country to the best of my ability." They even hooked up their penises to electroshock as a trauma-programming tactic. When they were tortured, the men broke out in a sweat and some even cried, and after the trauma, they had me deliver the program phrases. Whenever I was alone with them, a renegade personality within me that could relate and sympathize with their plight, slipped in the suggestion, "I will fight for my own freedom."

One man was sitting holding his head in his hands and crying. His toe was being shocked through a cuff that went around his toe. These men were writhing in pain and were emotionally broken by the time they brought them to me to deliver the program suggestions. I was told to deliver the messages slowly, distinctly and quietly so their subconscious mind would have to reach for it. Their conscious mind was way out of the way by then. Some men urinated in their cots while they were being electroshocked. Their bodies jerked, they sweated profusely and cried. A man who could still talk afterwards begged me, "Why are they doing this to me? Help me. Please help me get out of here." It was awful.

They helicoptered Reagan and I in and out. It was a top-secret project. By the time they finished with these poor men, they didn't even need to lock the jail cells. They looked and acted comatose.

At one time they said it was cheaper to keep criminals in prison than to sentence them to death. That was probably so they could further their experiments on the mind.

Ottawa Prison System

In the early 1970's there was a penal colony in Ottawa, Canada that Reagan corresponded and collaborated with to compare their rate of success with ours. I was flown there with Reagan in order to completely and efficiently retain all the statistical data on their inmate projects. In the early 70's the inmates were heavily targeted like the preschools were in the later 70's. Once we got to the prison location, he had to show a special clearance badge to the man at the door. It was a door inside, not the door anyone could pass through upon arriving. The area we were escorted to was maximum security, which sounded like it was labeled that because of dangerous felons, but it actually held a top security status due to the sensitive nature of the experiments that were held there. Reagan said to the guards when we passed by, "It's okay, she's with me." They usually just waved me through on his word alone. One time in one of the prisons we were in, a black guard said, "What the hell...?" when Reagan showed his badge and then tried to get me waved through.

It made Reagan so mad that he looked at the guy and said, "Do you have a clearance?"

The guy said, "No."

"Well that's why you're behind that desk and I'm cleared to go through." Reagan responded angrily.

The black guard just said, "Suit yourself, Sir." And, we passed by. After that they got a phony clearance for me so there wouldn't be any more problems or questions asked when we went through together. My job once we were in the secured area was to record with my photographic memory all the "stats" on the projects. Later in New York, I filled Henry in on the latest data. Henry took brief notes, maybe to follow up on certain statistical data, I don't know.

Reagan and I went into secured NASA areas the same way. I was waved through in order to photographically record the data into my mind files in those areas, also.

Sometimes we wore white hard hats and sometimes safety glasses or goggles were required in different areas. I liked when I had to wear them because then I didn't stand out so much. It was generally not as acceptable or understandable why I was there since I was a girl (later a young woman) ...that's why they created my son Danny with the mind files. It was awkward to have so many questions asked where, if I'd been a man, people would not have wondered so much.

The Canadian prison officials were very cooperative in the effort to share data on mind control of criminals. They saw mind control as a means of benevolent restraint of a population that was destined to fail. They saw the experiments and research as helpful to these criminals as it would eventually allow them the means to move more freely within society without endangering that society. These statistics laid the groundwork for a much higher level of technology to proliferate than had been previously possible. They began working on pre-school children who would have the basic programming structure set in so that in later years they would have the foundation already in place for future use, with a solid structure upon which anything could be built.

Kissinger was totally in alliance with the pre-school targets because he was sure that the system was foolproof and self-contained, whereby he constantly saw the prison system as an area of vulnerability since the subjects were older and didn't have the basic programs locked in and attached to much of anything except drug barriers and torture. Lots of these men were put into padded solitary cells and were drugged, electroshocked, and experimented on. They experimented on the effect of drugs, music, implants, and hypnotic suggestions in conjunction with these other stimuli.

Many countries were interested in the mind control technology. In some places it was traded for favors or different deals made with a country, but we kept the leading edge technology.

NASA

In later years, Reagan brought some of the prisoners to a certain location to demo them to the officials at NASA. He showed them the progress he was having artificially "lobotomizing" these criminals (who Reagan often referred to as "indigents"). It wasn't actual surgery, but instead, implants that were somehow controlling neuro-responses to the brain, making the prisoners incapable of doing anything they weren't told to do. He demonstrated how when angered they wouldn't respond violently. He even had other people throw things (like a bucket full of some liquid) at them - something that would have normally made anyone angry. He described how he could justify laying off some of the prison staff, thus eliminating some of the costly prison system overhead in order to reduce the state budget. I carried the state budget in my mind files that were used extensively during the time Reagan was Governor.

Mind Control Demonstrations

During one demonstration Reagan said, "Strip for the surprise effect, drive those scientists wild like you did me the first time." They were demoing all the uses for mind control application - like for behavior (violence) control, or for intelligence operatives like me, a mind file or sex slave for the government, so the men in high offices could have their needs met without security risk. These men felt they were that important. The elite, in fact.

Reagan said, "Our jobs are so vital to meeting the needs of the majority that having a little help like this really makes a difference in how we can perform in our chosen field of employment. You will see that this is the technology of the future."

At another of these demos, there was a military man in a green uniform with a bunch of those colored bars on his pocket and an admiral in a white hat and uniform adorned with all kinds of metals. They were there for the demonstration of mind control slaves and to see what could be done to help them get the most out of their "boys." They carefully took notes while Governor Reagan spoke and they watched as he demoed me.

When demonstrating me after 1976, Reagan explained to the audience, "Now this one has had a child and you might think that as a sex slave that puts her out of commission. Not true. What occurs is they become as maternal towards helping the government grow as they do helping their child grow and as I am sure you all well know, nothing gets up a mother's dander more than having someone mess with their young. And that gentlemen is precisely what we do. To the extent that this mother loves her child is the extent to which she will go to protect that child. All we have to do is alter her perception a bit in order to make her fear injury will come to her young and you've just tapped into the highest source of dedication and intense emotion that can be regulated to fit the occasion."

He went on with the following 'pep talk:' "Many of the top minds in our nation are supporting this endeavor, both through scientific research all the way to financial banking and these men are among those who will insure that we in this country are not overrun by Communism. That will be our demise should we fail to continue this valuable research, for the Communists are already in the lead in the area of behavior control. They've already sent a monkey to the moon and we understand that they are making major advances in the field of the control over the minds of their victims. So we should not fall prey to their evil intent - we strive to stay steps ahead of them. We owe it to the people of our country to have the best technology man has to offer. We cannot wait. We must do it now in order to preserve our freedom."

Somehow, Reagan actually believed he was championing prisoners' rights and furthering the safety of the public. He talked about finally putting to ease the troubled minds that these criminals were born with - by altering their brain function. "Lobotomies without a lobotomy," those who spoke of this technology all said.

Kissinger thought the prisoner stuff was "a waste of precious time when more productive technologies could be applied to 'brighter subjects,' instead of wasting the technology on the prison population." Henry said he thought Reagan was an absolute imbecile, who didn't have license to operate. I didn't know exactly what he meant by that.

Reagan did horrific things to demonstrate his progress with the prison population, even to the extent of sticking one of the prisoners with a long needle to show he couldn't any longer feel pain, inside or out, and would no longer be a problem to himself or to society. Reagan talked about how they were able to lay in a new framework for life for these people. He was talking about the mind control projects done to "normalize" prisoners that were to be put back on the streets. That way they felt they would be able to empty the prisons and reduce a large percentage of the state budget, and it would help with federal funding as well. His vision was that one day all criminals could be "cured" in this way and go on to live a life free from crime within society, not locked behind bars.

There were actual programs instilled into the minds of the prisoners with the use of audio and other equipment, located in various areas around the country. Some of it looked like electric chairs but they were modified to deliver regulated doses of electricity to simply slow or alter the mind in certain areas. He said these men were simply "routinized," which meant they awoke the same time each morning, ate breakfast, went to work, came home, watched television, ate dinner, went to bed. Reagan laughed when he said, "We even go so far as to suggest they keep their lawns and yards well manicured in order to keep the neighborhoods up." He said, "This spills over into all areas of society. These people will become productive and the cost to all of us taxpayers will be greatly reduced and, eventually, as we become better at this, we may not even have further need for our prison system. We will have a crime-free society--just imagine that!!"

Henry cringed when he heard Reagan's ideas and often berated him in front of me for acting irresponsibly by putting out a product that was not time-tested. Henry said an experiment on the public (although criminal) sector was risky, as there were no controls in place to insure the person's memory would remain locked up. Nor, Henry reasoned, "do ve have the test of time to know how the experiments vork. You're sending these people back into society vithout any exterior controls and no means of monitoring them. It spells disaster, Ron." Of course I never mimicked Henry's accent when delivering messages, but this is how I heard them.

But Reagan had the power to do what he wanted and so he did, and Henry just constantly shook his head and said, "It's people like him who will ruin this whole area for the rest of us."

Henry worked behind the scenes trying to align other powerful California politicians, like Alan Cranston, against Reagan in areas that wouldn't be detected but would be felt by Reagan. He wanted to get him out of the way before he, "ruined the prospects of the future." Perhaps Ronald Reagan's recent demise is more than Alzheimer's disease.

Kissinger and Reagan often had heated arguments where Henry gave him a piece of his mind, but Reagan just rationalized it all away by saying Henry was "an unbalanced egghead," or an "unbalanced intellectual," depending on who he was talking to. But publicly he acted like he got along well with Kissinger. He never did, although Henry prepared me for a lot of seeming "favors" with Reagan, like using special mind files and sexual pleasures. He didn't let his disdain for Reagan get in the way of using him for his own benefit. While Reagan was carrying on and on about his great contribution to society, Kissinger was slipping in all sorts of information for me to drop on Reagan. I was meant to get him to change certain laws or to veto certain bills or to get friendly with some politician or foreign leader - the list was endless and Henry Kissinger "worked" Reagan for years. Since I was so intimately linked with Reagan over the years, Henry "seized the golden opportunity" to influence Reagan in the White House. Henry felt it was important to see beyond Reagan's apparent weakness and capitalize on it for his own benefit.

Henry Kissinger and the New Age Craze

Henry Kissinger also manipulated the New Age craze. Henry said people who would believe that guides and masters were leading them should be guided by masters, and he considered himself one. Henry said I could trust anyone who wore a crystal as part of my 'family of man'...that's what he called our mind controlled group because it was a family experiment in dynamics, breeding, rearing, etc. These experiments encompassed how everything effected a person, and they felt they might as well learn on the slaves what would be the best for their future progeny.

A whole business was made of the New Age to the slave community. As books and items were created for those searching for truth, the self-appointed 'enlightened ones' who were 'in the know' manipulated the spiritual ideologies in order to hide many of their mind control realities. What was behind much of it was really a group of men, controlling mind-controlled robots and herding them in the direction they wanted them.

I was programmed to deliver to a famous Los Angeles channeler, the words to say just before a Whole Life Expo event where he channeled the message to a very large group of people in an auditorium who were in an altered meditative state. Henry gave me the exact words to say. They were targeting high-level slaves and it encompassed those programmed with whales and dolphins, angels, ascended masters, eastern religions, energy, quantum physics, UFO's, aliens, channeling, and listening to your guides and angels. They felt if Los Angeles failed then the rest would because most were patterned after Los Angeles.

I have met persons suffering from Multiple Personality Disorder that felt they were channeling entities, when in fact they were channeling parts of their own personality structure. One day a woman 'channeler' named Shirley graciously offered to channel privately for me. Earlier, other people had paid her $50 to channel for them, but I was not among them. I told her I would be glad to ask any questions she had of herself while she was in a channeling state of mind. She agreed. The answer to the question when posed about "if Shirley had been involved in any of this ritual abuse stuff," was, "Shirley is not ready to face that reality yet." Channeling can be a very clever way to cover the reality of Multiple Personality Disorder and offers a way of covering up when personality systems break into conscious awareness, explaining it away as 'an entity.'

When a slave is told "it is destiny that your guides and masters brought you here," or "feeling drawn to a place" or being told, "You know it's no accident that you are here," it can really flip them out because unconsciously they know it's not an accident that they are there, and they know they are not supposed to tell and so it does a double whammy on their mind-controlled system.

When I arrived on Kauai, people I had never met before warmly and lovingly came up to me, hugged me and dropped the message, "Welcome Home." I was conscious and recovered enough to know that they were unaware that they had just delivered a very powerful Oz programming word phrase intended to lock down my programming, insuring I couldn't access the deeper levels of my mind that were being used for "national security" and were not supposed to be my own.

The New Age was used to help usher in the New World Order. It was part of a miniexperiment on total and complete mind control. Henry created lots of concepts to use. It was implemented in Los Angeles as the pilot experiment using a new form of philosophy to direct the people into mindlessness until the higher technologies could take over creating by the year 2000 'the perfect utopia.' The New Age was the formula for complete takeover - a way to lead many in the ways they needed in order to be in total control of Los Angeles by the year 2000. While I still lived in California, I was given instructions for New Age things to read, watch, and places to go, etc.

They were beginning to get people to identify with 'globalism' as associated with love, peace, and good feelings. Many songs also readied people for this one-world, global reality with powerful love harmonics. I, too, believe that the earth and the people living on it in harmony is a beautiful idea, but we need to insure that we don't loose the freedoms that we all hold so near and dear to our hearts, especially the freedom of our own minds and to know where our thoughts come from.

Many slaves were also being used in projects for remote viewing, one of the CIA's secret weaponry, and in experiments in regard to parapsychology. Many of us were taught to telepathically communicate, as a means of reading the enemies' minds. While the media cast a negative image on psychic ability, our own government was dabbling heavily in it, using mind control operatives to participate in their projects.

NASA Future Technology as Seen from the Past

Lyle Curran, a NASA employee and Craig's uncle, often tapped into my NASA mind files when we went to their home in Los Alimitos or when we met up with them on our numerous trips to Mexico, mostly Mazatlan. From the information Uncle Lyle accessed from my mind files way back in the 60's, 70's, 80's, rockets and missiles were a thing of the past, and directed energy in the form of weaponry systems was what they were planning on using as the new weapons of the future. No one can see it coming, nor defend against it. They could take out the lights in entire cities and blame it on UFO's. The Department of Defense experimented for a long time, until they mastered this technology. It puts nuclear weapons right out of business. I am not saying that I don't believe extraterrestrials exist, because I think that would be extremely ignorant. All I am saying is that there are real live human beings that need to be taken into account for the evil deeds that were done. They can do surgery with energy, making no incisions. They can insure a body doesn't disease by monitoring the electromagnetic field variations. I witnessed awesome medical feats, but even as they are funding these projects, the public is still not benefiting from the use of this technology. This information is held in top secret clearances.

Chapter Twelve: Nixon, Kissinger, and International Business

All roads lead to Hope ...Bob Hope that is. President Richard Nixon was connected to Bob Hope also - it seemed like everyone was. President Nixon used me sexually from approximately 1969 until he resigned in 1974. I was with him in many different places and sometimes Henry Kissinger was with us also.

Henry Kissinger never used me for sex; it was always strictly mind file use. At times, Nixon participated with Henry in utilizing and accessing my computerized "government mind files," but both functions (sex and mind files) could not be used at the exact same time, there had to be time in between uses.

The Council

The Council accessed me many times without the knowledge of the politicians who were enjoying my services. In this way, the Council was having direct access to information channels with and about influential people, like presidents, governors, senators, foreign leaders, and celebrities.

Looking back, I was likened to a satellite orbiting around the globe, used by then Governor Reagan (for sex and messages), President Nixon (for sex and messages) and Henry Kissinger (for mind files). Later, the Council would access me and send me back to the politicians with different messages and motives than the ones originally intended by the Government.

The Council had me delivering messages between President Nixon and Governor Reagan. The Council worked them together and was able to effect powerful change and legislation to suit their own needs, by manipulating the two of them.

Sometimes there was a problem if I was programmed by two different factions for the same event and was instructed to target two different people--or worse yet, the same person. In this situation, I would carry programmed messages from two different groups, with one group's message contradicting the other group's message. This type of situation created terror and confusion in my inner system of personalities, and I was usually punished by one or the other faction for not delivering the information correctly.

This happened at a Gubernatorial Ball during this same time frame. The Mob/CIA had one set of instructions I was to deliver to President Nixon, and the Council had a whole different set of messages for Nixon. The Council programmed me way in advance for this Gubernatorial Ball, but the Mob's/CIA's programmed instructions came to me last and closest to the event.

Like a jammed computer, I sat in a chair in the corner, afraid to move, until a Secret Service agent came over and hand signaled me as he rubbed his finger under his nose a few times, cleared his throat and said, "Are you lost, little lady?"

The Secret Service agent's prompting got me "back on track" and I was triggered into action. I delivered the message from the Mob/CIA instead of the Council's message.

This particular occasion was around a time when the Mob/CIA wanted to control a drug line going through Nicaragua and Paraguay to the United States (Chicago). They were trying to ignite terror in that area, via civil unrest, in order to create a situation where the United States would be persuaded to go into the foreign country to supposedly "protect them." What would really be happening is they would just be opening up a "legal" but hidden drug pathway into the country so they could have free access to their drug sources.

In light of this set of covert 'goals,' the Mob/CIA programmed me to approach President Nixon after this gala event and after sex, report how admirable I would find him and our government if he would authorize our troops to go in and help the Nicaraguans--to give them the aid that they so desperately needed. Per program, I relayed innocently and sincerely that I felt it was our duty as a free nation, concerned with maintaining freedom for all people, to aid those less fortunate, since we held so much power. I continued persuading Nixon that all Americans would be proud to have a president who was so conscientious, reminding him that other presidents before him had gone down in history as heroic defenders of democracy and freedom.

It was a very "patriotic speech," a slick story, intended to appeal to his well-known sentiments. He seemed to fall for it; at least he seemed inflated and inspired by it.

Although I did not have the ability to comprehend or make decisions on my own behalf due to the mind control I was under, the delivery of the Mob/CIA message was a fortunate choice for my personal safety. The Council was more forgiving but to get caught not delivering a message from the Mob/CIA was like stealing the drugs or money at a drug deal. There were severe consequences, and often I was violently punished. When they debriefed me in order to get the information about what I had or had not delivered, and what the reaction was of the person receiving the message, I operated like a machine, with no defenses of self-preservation and no ability to lie. So I reported exactly what happened and ended up getting beaten up or tortured in some way if I made a mistake. They were very brutal.

I was in yearly attendance at the Celebration or Birthday Party of the Elephant, the Republican Party - the GOP. The large room was decorated with red, white, and blue banners; the decorated tables set for dinner and celebration. There was also a large stage, decorated for the political speakers. It was crowded, noisy, and people were taking pictures with camera flashes going off all over the place. I was sent in to be a sex/espionage agent.

It was strange to see people there I knew like Governor, and then later, President Ronald Reagan or Senator Pete Wilson, only I was programmed to not consciously recognize them. In fact, I was programmed not to be able to even see them at all. "Just ignore them," were the rules ...unless they approached me. Although I obeyed my orders at the time, the fact that I was Multiple Personality Disordered allowed other parts of me to not only "see" them but register these occasions into photographic memory as I had been trained.

Sometimes at these conventions, I never made it out of the back of a limousine or was restricted to a separate room away from everyone. Men, usually politicians, were brought to me for quick sex. They called this activity by names that are not appropriate to print here.

This particular evening, I was programmed to target President Nixon. I wore a blue, off-the-shoulder dress with a diamond necklace. I probably looked like just some other young girl, partying at the convention. There were other slaves there also, to perform quick sex for other politicians. I don't know if the Council was also accessing them.

Pat Nixon accompanied President Nixon, so he had to break away from her to have a "quickie" with me in a back room. Nixon did things like that before he got depressed with the Watergate scandal. After that he started acting old and beaten down. It was like the life just went out of him.

President Nixon accepted me with smiles because he was grateful for the times I had been able to help him quickly recover from depression or negative emotional states. I could perk him up so he felt better and could more efficiently function in his important job. At least that is what they always told me.

The Council made sure I had the road paved to President Nixon, free and clear, and over time he listened to me despite the fact that I was only 18, 19, 20, 21, or 22 years old. I helped him with what they called "his difficult times," until the end when he had to resign the Presidency.

Henry Kissinger Took Up Residence in My Brain ...and Never Paid Rent

In the late 60's and early 70's the mind control programming technology was advanced, but certainly not as advanced as it was in later years. Instead of being hooked up electronically to a machine that could automatically program information into my mind files, like is available today, my programmers used the less efficient, but only tried and true method available at the time. They used my programmed ability to have personalities who were equipped with photographic memory, read or scan documents to memorize them. To accomplish this a personality was put into a receptive mode and told to look at a document as a whole, like I was taking a picture of it in its entirety. That way, later on, I could look inside my mind files, see in my mind's eye the picture of the document and read it to Henry or report whatever information he requested. For Henry, it was like having his own invisible laptop computer (within my mind files) available whenever he needed information.

In the beginning when I was first being programmed with mind files, Henry took me to different places with filing cabinets, and instructed me to go through certain file drawers to digest information. He put me in the mode to store data in coded mind files and then left me to absorb information.

The "government mind files" that I possessed were created from being put into rooms in Washington, DC at the National Archives, Pentagon, State Department, the Federal Reserve building, Rocketdyne/Rockwell in California and other places. I was also instilled with information at military bases around the United States regarding top secret project's. So, I had the latest information regarding top secret experiments and defense and space information if Henry needed it for reporting to others at meetings. Kissinger arranged a special clearance to get me into these top security places. He also took me into some private offices at night in the dark. We had to be very quiet while I digested huge amounts of private party information.

Some of the files I have been able to identify are information regarding: history; foreign countries; travel information; federal and state documents; visual orientations to certain locations; maps of foreign countries, including information on climate, terrain, ocean access, mountain access, etc.; individual person's profiles listing preferences, perversions, place of residence, friends and connections; a postal file where those involved all over the globe could log on to send or receive messages from each other; peace talks files; foreign leader files; research findings and experimentation files; strategic logistics files; banking systems files; etc. It was a wide and vast assortment of information to be accessed easily by Henry. There were hundreds of files and many new files were added over the years from different agendas between the Council and Henry.

Kissinger was more familiar with how to access the information than anyone else because he created my internal system. He knew how to access me for different functions, in addition to keeping the plan of the global elitists organized. This form of communication allowed them to secretly communicate around the globe at times when they didn't want anyone to be able to publicly associate their connections. I not only kept rooms full of information, neatly tucked away in my brain for easy access, but it gave Kissinger and others an advantage as it appeared they were less prepared and had less data at their fingertips than they actually did. No need to carry armfuls of books and brochures. He just brought me along and utilized me when it was time to recite information he wanted on any subject he had programmed into me. Plus, he and others who knew my programming could instill and retrieve arcane 'e-mail messages' from around the globe, often with the latest top secret knowledge gleaned from classified experiments and projects or messages in regard to the New World Order agenda. I was a REAL robot.

At one time, Henry had a dark wooden desk with a glass piece covering the top of it and his big chair squeaked when he sat down. There were lots of wooden floors where Henry took me initially - "old culture" places. Nothing was ever really new looking in those days but that changed over the years.

Henry brought me into his office, sat me down at a chair across from his desk while he pulled file after file out of his filing cabinets, and laid them open on the desk in front of me. Then he said, "Quickly memorize this data, we're going to a meeting." He would also categorize the data by saying, "File this under A-3," or whatever name or code number he labeled it. He meticulously named each file and when he would loan me out to people he would tell them the file identifier so they could access the information they needed. He usually would leave me alone with the files to memorize. When he returned, we went to the meeting.. Henry rationalized this, saying this way he didn't have to hold trivial details in his mind but could save it for more important matters, such as strategizing. That's how I heard him explain it to others who knew about the mind control technology.

At times he would hand me top-secret documents and say, "Record document #1-12," and then he would leave me alone to photograph them in my memory. Later when he needed specific wording from one of them he would call me over and, if he wasn't talking to someone or in the middle of something, he would have me read the information from my mind aloud to him. If he was in a meeting or was busy he instructed me to write the information on a note pad and then later when he needed it he would pick up the pad and read the information from it or refer to it and people present would just think I was his secretary or aide. This happened for years.

At night, Henry snuck me into lots of top secret places where documents were stored and gave me a flashlight and instructions to go through and memorize documents. He let me into these places and then would leave me alone, recording documents into mind files, often for hours at a time. Later he came back to get me. There were times he was sweating when he returned and was in a real hurry to leave, even if I was right in the middle of a document. Then, when we got into the car he would sigh like he was relieved. He would become very nervous, though.

Henry always readied me for the Rockefeller Christmas parties, but so would a group of other men who were sometimes with him and knew how I worked. It depended on who was to attend the party. When they obtained that information, they went about strategizing and deciding what I should say to whom. The Rockefellers have been in a position of power for a long time. Kissinger seemed to work hand-in-hand with them often, in order to "satisfy their goals in the most efficient manner."

There were times Henry loaded me up with information specifically for someone and then I would be the secret liaison between the two. This occurred between Henry and Pete Wilson. Pete was often Henry's California arm. This way Pete could carry out his wishes without it being known where the instructions were coming from.

The White House

When important meetings were held at the White House, sometimes Henry took me along if he felt there might be information that was "crucial" to have at the "ripe" time. He told people I was in training or some other excuse. One time he even had me write information on a napkin under the table so as not to be noticed. This specific napkin event occurred around 1971, because I remember that I had my hair done up with a hairpiece full of curls on top. I was 20. Henry had my clothes ready for me; usually very tailored, conservative, dark clothes, most often a navy blue jacket, skirt and low navy heels, or a disguise. He laid my clothes on the bed in a room with two twin beds with white bedspreads - the bumpy kind. He told me to get dressed and left the room, closing the door behind him. Later he returned to get me.

At other White House dinners, I wasn't present at the table with the other guests, but Henry was. When I didn't fit into the plan of the evening in order to sit at the table, Henry still "prepped" me and kept me in the kitchen or another room in the White House, close to the dining room so he could come and access me if necessary, without anyone knowing. So I sat there in 'park mode' and watched the White House kitchen staff cook and serve. At those times I was dressed like a kitchen staff member with a black skirt and white blouse, so I didn't look out of place. Henry explained that if I didn't stand out no one would notice or pay attention. My "attire," as he called it, was never meant to call attention to my presence but instead was to make me fit in and look like I belonged. Over the years Henry parked me in some pretty strange places. When he would arrive to access information, I would scribble it on a piece of paper he would take with him, or if it was brief he would access me verbally and would simply remember what information he extracted. Henry often said, I was his "left brain," so he could use his mind for more important matters.

At times while I was sitting with he and others in the dining room, Henry would often leave the table to go make important phone calls. He would either leave me at the table to smile and be pleasant, but instructed me to avoid conversation, or he would take me with him to obtain further input via the telephone. Sometimes he would carry his linen napkin from the dining table and looked pretty dumb but no one seemed to notice.

The White House was a place I was taken to in order to "do a job" on certain leaders - some foreign, some domestic. I was given very clear suggestions and instructions on who to target and how to go about it. I was briefed on their likes, dislikes and preferences and was told certain phrases or key words to use throughout the conversations I was programmed to have with them.

Henry was often invited to the White House when the President was entertaining foreign guests, even after Nixon wasn't President any longer. They felt, and rightly so, that Kissinger was well versed and knew many of the cultural customs of foreign dignitaries so the risk of making a faux pas could be avoided. Henry was confident and seemed to know everything about foreign policy. When he was invited to a dinner with a foreign dignitary that the Council wanted to have me privately entertain later on in the evening, he wouldn't use my mind files at the end of the evening so I could be used for sex.

Henry secretly knew that messages conveyed to targeted individuals during the 'behind-the-scenes' sex stuff meant more to people because then they psychologically interpreted and categorized personal experiences such as sex in with their memories of personal or family experiences. Thus the message became stored as more valuable since it wasn't strictly business. Henry said combining his messages with sex would store it in a different part of the brain, with the personal experiences being filed with more importance emotionally and so it would carry more weight or influence.

Usually arrangements for a sexual encounter with me were made secretly between Henry and the foreign guest. Then the guest and I would be limoed away somewhere to a hotel or taken to another place. But most of the people at the White House gathering were unaware this took place as we would all leave separately, and rendezvous at another location later on. Or, Henry would have a limo waiting and I would enter and wait. Usually I was put in the limo first and waited for the dignitary. Then we would spend a few hours or the whole night together, while I dropped a preprogrammed message at the perfect time to the leader. Then I was flown home.

One day I was in the White House delivering a message to Nixon from Kissinger. Nixon and I were standing in a large room where there were some tables lining the walls and couches and large rugs covered the wooden floor. Old pictures dotted the walls, fresh flowers were in beautiful vases and heavy drapes covered the windows. I guess Nixon thought we were alone as we stood facing an oil painting on the wall by a long table. Dick had his arm around me as he was inputting a reply back to Henry through me. A hand on my right shoulder was standard procedure to encode incoming messages and Nixon was doing it all properly, however, halfway though the message, his daughter Trisha came into the room.

She looked very pretty in her nice dress, but she didn't know I was there and when she called out, "Dad," it startled her father and I, and, in turn, she was surprised and shocked. It was one of those very awkward situations where it appeared she instantly summed up the whole situation and thought her father was being romantic with me. Nixon acted extremely guilty and stammered uncomfortably until he finally introduced me as someone from the State Department. She didn't seem to buy his explanation and left the room annoyed and upset.

Nixon said to me, "Don't worry about her, I'll take care of this." But he said it with his hand still on my right shoulder, so instead of it just being a casual statement meant for me, it actually became part of the his message to Henry. After that Henry began to devise a way for messages to be encoded without having to touch my shoulder in order to avoid these types of situations.

International Assignments

There were times I was flown to foreign countries so Henry Kissinger or President Nixon could utilize my computerized "mind files" at meetings they were attending publicly or later privately. On the flight to these countries, it was my job to make the President comfortable. I took off his shoes, rubbed his feet, pampered him and brought him anything he wanted. Secret Service agents surrounded him.

When I flew with Kissinger and Nixon was not there, I was told to sit or sleep quietly next to him. Henry often slept on the airplane. Nixon did not.

I believe that the Secret Service agents at times knew what I was really doing sexually with Nixon because occasionally they witnessed when I came on to him. Like one time when I leaned over and put my head on his shoulder and reached down to unzip his pants, a Secret Service agent who was just walking up from behind, laughed and said, "Excuse me, Sir." At this point Nixon took my hand away and quietly said to me, "Later, dear."

Beijing China

There were dirty waterways in some parts of China and the streets in some areas where I was taken were dirty. One square was full of flags in the courtyard. I was there on foreign assignment with Henry Kissinger. I flew independently and was taken to a hotel by a Secret Service agent. The Secret Service registered me in the hotel under a phony name with a phony passport. Henry met me there. Usually I flew privately on a chartered jet with Henry, but this time it was last minute notice so we flew commercially but separately.

We were there to swing a deal with the leader of China. Henry told them I was a foreign correspondent and we sat at a long table with lots of Chinese men and I sat next to Henry. I always sat to Henry's left for his convenience in tapping me with this left hand leaving his right hand free to write or smoke his cigar. He told me to smile, look pretty and "take it all in," which meant record data into my mind files. He notified me who to zero in on and "listen intently" to. He also used access codes to refer to my mind files. No one knew that I was a high tech programmed computer that was carefully and precisely recording details and spewing information when my mind files were accessed and called upon.

President Nixon's Loyal Friend Bebe Rebozo

BeBe Rebozo was President Nixon's good friend. He was present on many occasions when Nixon used me for sex. One such time was in Miami, Florida. I was flown into Miami and taken by limo to the beach where I was to meet Nixon.

As usual, I was put into isolation before my use with VIP's and this time was no different. BeBe Rebozo and his men took an active role in my "preparation" for Nixon.

Rebozo was violent and cruel to me, slapping and hurting me. He took me to a totally dark, windowless, cement room and left me there, naked and alone in the dark. Before he left, men injected drugs into my lower arm and left me for hours without food, water, or clothes. This was before I had children, so they could not yet use that powerful maternal bond to keep these programmed secret events amnesiac, like they did later on. Because of this, the physical torture to me during this time was accelerated, but was never as painful as the things they later did to my children in order to "keep me in line."

Rebozo dressed in fancy expensive suits and wore gold jewelry. Subconsciously I hated him.

On this occasion, Rebozo came and released me from isolation and took me to a restroom to clean up. I showered and put on the bikini they left for me and soon was readied for action with Nixon.

I don't know exactly where we were because I was programmed never to look or notice our location, but I was taken to President Nixon at a private beach house. My instructions were to "tease him, please him, ease him and help him relax in the sun." It was on this private beach, watched from every angle by the Secret Service, that I seduced Nixon. I was laughing and joking with him as I undressed him from his suit, tie, and dress shoes. Then we slipped into the water while I further seduced him. After he was satisfied, I was removed and taken somewhere to get "prepared" for an evening event with the President.

Nixon had dinner in his room and I accompanied him while he ate, then satisfied him sexually and was taken away. Nixon was not as passive sexually as Reagan was. He made an effort and took initiative. He preferred the missionary position. I suggested we keep the light on, but he always wanted to turn the lights out, so he did. I never slept in the bed with Nixon after sex - it was his rule. I never did spend the whole night with him, like I did with some of the others. I was instructed to wait until he was asleep and then to very quietly notify the Secret Service agent at the door to the suite. The agent took me out of the room and I was flown directly back to California with all details of the event carefully tucked and hidden away within the personalities programmed for Nixon. Per program, I slept the whole flight home.

In the beginning years with Nixon, I was programmed to make him happy and to satisfy him in the ways I had been trained and programmed to. Just as the Council anticipated, over time, Nixon's trust built in relation to me, paving a way for me to be used in ever more influential circumstances with him.

There were times I was taken to Key Biscayne, Florida, to service Nixon. He was with BeBe Rebozo there and it seemed that BeBe was in charge of the events that occurred while we were on his turf.

Each time, Rebozo put me into isolation in a small cement room and slapped me around before he left me alone in the room naked, cold, and hungry, in his words, "to get ready for 'the boss,'" as he called Nixon. Rebozo would tell me how "the boss" deserved respect and whatever it took to make him comfortable. He spoke in broken Mob language. He acted like a really tough guy and was very loyal to his friend Nixon.

When he came to release me from isolation, BeBe instructed me, "make yourself presentable," and I was cleaned up and dressed. Then, I was taken by limo to a beach that had palm trees on it. We arrived at sunset. Since I was programmed not to notice where I was geographically, I had no way of knowing where I was, but at times I overheard others speak of our location and that information was stored along with memory of the event. We pulled up to a very secluded house where there weren't a lot of other people around. The house was on the beach and a lawn surrounded by a short fence led out to the ocean.

Miami meant more serious business, but Key Biscayne laced pleasure with business. Deals between the Mob, Council, Rebozo and government officials or other interconnected mob factions took place in Miami or Key Biscayne.

At times, the "big guys," very important or influential people, would join in the business and pleasure at Key Biscayne. Connections were big business with the Mob. I was instructed to sit with the guys and make them happy by giving them whatever they wanted.

Men with guns stood in windows in the back of the house to guard Nixon. The Secret Service let the Mob protect Nixon up close and they kept guard further away. I think Rebozo arranged this protective situation but I do not know why it was set up like that. Rebozo was very protective of Nixon; he even rode in the back of the limo with Nixon while I was with him. BeBe was only nice to me when Nixon was around and he made it very clear that he didn't trust "dames" and that I was only there because Nixon wanted me to be. BeBe watched protectively when Dick and I went for a swim together. Rebozo did not go in the water. I guess he didn't want to get his guns wet! He never was without them.

During these times, I was instructed to come on to Nixon, and thoroughly and enthusiastically excite him. He liked it and said I was "good for him," and that I helped him a lot when he was upset. Nixon said I could pick him up when he was down and refresh him. I was programmed to be funny and silly, without a care in the world. Nixon said I made him laugh.

Rebozo was most often present when I downloaded Council messages to Nixon. BeBe seemed to understand "the language" and so Nixon wanted him to be present when I relayed memos because he always had to make the decision and give me an answer before I could go back. That was the rule. I gave the message to Dick and BeBe; then the three of us stayed together until they were able to come to an agreement. Usually it was a yes or no question. But no one could leave until I was uploaded with the return message.

When it was time for me to leave Key Biscayne, an agent whose job it was to prepare me to go home, took me out for a walk on the beach. He bent down and holding up a shell he picked up in the sand, 're-minded' me that all events that happened there were now out of my head and forever locked in the shell. To finalize this compartmentalization of my experience, he threw the shell out into the surf, in an effort to keep the memories hidden from my conscious mind. From there, I was helicoptered to an airport and flown home. This all happened before I was married at age 20.

Watergate Created a Depressed President

During Watergate, Nixon had a very hard time. He looked gray and dismal, and it was very difficult to cheer him up. But after a drink I could lighten him up a little. I teased President Nixon in his down months, telling him how cute I thought he was when I saw him on television, even when he was in deep trouble and was being publicly challenged over the scandal. Due to my programming, I was not really able to ever "see" him when I watched television, but was programmed to say that. The things I would say to him were so opposite the truth that, as he said, he found my statements "refreshing and funny." These statements seemed to be just an added bit of entertainment to cheer up old Tricky Dick. In those days, it wasn't much else with Nixon; just delivering sex and messages.

BeBe Rebozo loved Nixon dearly. He was very protective of him and had tender, emotional moments with Nixon that I was present to witness. BeBe cried when Nixon told him he had to step down from the Presidency. I can still hear BeBe now as he said, "Oh no, Boss, not after everything you've worked so hard for." He touched Nixon on the shoulder and was genuinely concerned as if it was happening to him. That always confused me about Mafia guys - they would torture or kill someone one moment and then turn around and show deep, caring concern for one of their own the next. To them loyalty was everything.

Henry Kissinger was not involved with BeBe Rebozo. Henry was "too intellectual" for BeBe. Kissinger said he did not like to mingle with the Mob. When Kissinger was present it was strictly business, concentration, work and strategizing. Pat Nixon was never around at these times either.

Richard Nixon was manipulated by the Mob and by the Council. He was part of their intricate network and when Watergate came down, he was the most dispensable. They viewed Kissinger as more important, someone they vitally needed to protect and so their strategy dictated that Nixon would take the public fall.

I was not sent to sexually service Nixon after he resigned the Presidency.

International Mind File Postal System

Henry created a mental postal exchange system inside my head. He created it first visually by telling me that there was a large box in my head with separate boxes inside of it and they each had a different key. He explained that there were rows of numbered boxes positioned layer upon layer. Programs were attached to numbers or people, places, or documents, etc., which were attached to numbered boxes. George Bush wanted always to be #1 in everything so Henry had to change someone else's number to give George the #1 box. This system worked like a post office so that people had a box and they could receive or send information at their box. This system was the way the higher ups kept their communication clear and anonymous when access was necessary. It kept the Council's messages clear for me to deliver accurately or to receive a message to take back to them. It kept messages clear and straight to be delivered between people who were involved and who didn't want to be identified as knowing, or communicating with, each other. I met with and delivered messages to the Council, at times, on huge ships out in the middle of the ocean.

I was most often helicoptered to ships, hotels, islands, or wherever I was to deliver this anonymous information. Once the information had been exchanged, I was helicoptered back. Henry created the programmed system for these communications. He was the mastermind of lots of their plan, and used me to further it. Kissinger, Bush, Reagan, Carter, Thatcher, Mitterrand, Trudeau, Gorbachev, Salinger, Ford, Nixon, etc. all participated.

Sex Paves the Way for Diplomatic Relations

I was briefed, in advance, about the customs of the countries we visited, in an effort to further diplomatic relations. At many foreign meetings I was told, "be invisible, and smile when smiled at." I was also instructed to hang back, be quiet and just listen, unless I was cued to report information. I was further briefed in detail if I was to be sent in on a foreign leader or diplomat. In addition to all the sex training I had acquired over the years, Henry added his 'two cents.' He said in many foreign countries lovemaking is an art form. Henry expounded, "To the degree you can match that slow deliberateness, is the degree that you can sexually gratify your partner." Henry spoke of sex like the art of eating. He didn't show any emotion, or embarrassment; it was something he instructed me about very openly and plainly. He explained that the slower and more deliberately a person performed sex, demonstrated their level of self-esteem, selfassuredness and that, as a woman, I had to balance that with a fair amount of shyness, in order not to appear bold. Shyness was what Henry said would soften what otherwise would appear as being too forward.

With one leader (a king) I was sent to, Henry had me say, "May I have the honor, Your Highness, of pleasuring you in the American way? We have many means of pleasure." Henry said this was to deeply seal an attitude that America equaled pleasure, so diplomatic relations would go smoother. He often called it, "paving the way to diplomatic relations," and he used sex as a means to accomplish that. The statement quoted above also allowed me to ask for permission, so as not to break cultural rules without having set up a framework for taking the King into a different experience. I was told to strictly avoid oral sex until close to the end and then feel out if it was appropriate or would be accepted.

Henry said, "I wish I could give you precise instructions, but the research team is only able to get certain data. Some is not available so I will have to trust your judgement along the way in some of these areas." And oral sex was one of those areas. In front of me, Henry explained to his research team that to get in close enough to someone who would have knowledge of that level of intimate detail about a target would be a risk he would not want to take. I overheard him say, "She will have to be briefed on the cultural mores and then her own expert skill and timing will have to take over in limited areas such as, if or not to offer oral gratification." The research team was present often when I was prepared or briefed for an assignment because each would often have their area of expertise to instill into me, especially in the area of foreign relations and cultural differences. The research team even had foreign members who Henry heavily relied upon for certain "key" countries he was targeting. These men often had been born in the foreign country and so could easily and accurately relay all customs. Henry explained, "Every country of the world has different customs and our job is to ensure that you are fully aware of those customs before you are sent in." The members of the team changed at times as we moved on to different countries.

Henry had many ethnic traits, yet was polished to an almost non-cultural bias on the surface, so as not to be encumbered by his ethnicity. He treated each person as a challenge to face and beat, even if they were from a culture he couldn't understand until he studied it. The more exotic and different the culture, the better. Then, he would go to extremes to study it, in order to emerge the victor because he would understand them totally, often understanding them more than they did themselves. Henry usually won, and most people, totally unaware that there was a game of wits going on, would have sex with me for the night and not even know to take the message bait when I threw the line out. They were what Henry called "simpletons." And he said he despaired of them. At other times he was grateful for "simpletons" if they were in strategic positions and he could use them in the power and control game. Then he did what he knew best researching until he devised the ideal strategy, and finding the best person to pull it off. When he knew, he put the strategy through whomever would deliver it with the most favorable outcome. Within me he had two distinctly different agents - one being Susan, the serious, conscientious, motherly, intellectual, organized, loving and understanding type, and, Sharon, the clever and often humorous and entertaining sex slave and friend of the elite.

The World Health Organization

The World Health Organization (WHO) was a cover for bringing together an inside group of people whose purpose and intent was much different than what was generally thought and publicly portrayed. Lots of illegal activity went on without detection and across borders internationally as this inside group hid its covert operations under masked projects, purportedly for world advancement. Among other things, it was also a cover for drug deals, child prostitution, heinous experiments on human beings, illegal sales of babies, etc. Some of the players I saw participating were a select group of politicians, celebrities and leaders worldwide.

I sat in on many meetings. I heard Ted Kennedy speak, as well as Henry Kissinger, and there was a group of women who worked for the WHO that did not seem to have a clue about what was actually going on behind the scenes. Many were naive, honest, pliable people and actually played into the hands of the corrupt inner group without being aware that they were being used.

Masked behind the publicized "do good" activities were illegal ventures intended to fund this corrupt group, with their secret, hidden motives and agendas. So while the United States appeared to be having benevolent beliefs and actions, these activities were put into motion. They sent a group to "aid" children in foreign countries, but behind the scenes what was actually taking place was a masked drug connection or some other illegal enterprise that brought top dollar to this group of self-selected men who seek to eventually control the world.

Some meetings of the WHO were televised, but the agenda the public saw and heard was not the complete agenda that was secretly carried out.

I heard and recorded into my mind files, the words that a man spoke. He was standing at a microphone in a large room filled with row upon row of stationary, red upholstered wooden chairs, arranged in a semi-circular shape. I was there for Henry's usage of stored data in my "government mind file system." I suppose an individual at these meetings who was not aware of this type of technology; using human beings for storing and hiding information known only to the National Security Agency and others, would have just assumed I was an aid or secretary to the UN, or an assistant to Kissinger.

One day I heard a man state, "Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak to the issue of free trade, internationally, between countries." Most of the free trade these men were REALLY alluding to was in illegal drugs (cocaine, heroine), pornography, prostitution, and weaponry. They used anything that would cull large sums of money to fund their causes and their desires with no thought of the human or financial cost to others - like the violation of basic human rights - and had no regard to others' pain and suffering. These men had no scruples, no compassion or ability to empathize with the feelings of others; instead they were self-seeking and ruthless - without conscience.

The following is an example of the kinds of flashes and memory retrieval that continued to flood into my mind. One day, Bobby Baker, House Appropriations Committee was at a meeting. He was wearing a light tannish-brown suit and he argued with everyone about everything, and Henry felt he disrupted their meetings so that nothing ever got accomplished. Henry didn't like him at all.

At another meeting, I heard, "Mr. Speaker, I would like to address the subject of the arms control race," Baker said. Then he spoke of his concerns about Russia escalating the arms race, that they were gaining speed and technology at such a pace that we the United States would be in serious jeopardy and at a disadvantage if we didn't set up immediate appropriations for arms research and arms production. Baker appealed to the United States' fear of being "taken over," in order to get money appropriated for arms; when in fact, much of the funding was not used for what it was designated for, but instead was used in hidden, covert activities for the benefit of the Council and those politicians that were supported by the Council.

At the time, the World Health Organization was often an excuse to bring together people from all over the world. This created an opportunity for the "inside group" to secretly meet and intertwine their agenda with the public agenda of the WHO. Those in attendance who were unaware of the New World Order agenda, were also unaware that there was a small cadre of people dominating the group and making sure they had enough key players on the panel or board so they could win when votes were cast or decisions made.

In those years, I was not able to understand these people or political issues in the general historic way that the public remembers or understands. My perspective was solely from my personal experiences. I was generally programmed to not listen to political information I heard or saw. Consciously, as my programming dictated, I was not interested or involved in politics or public news in any way. So this information comes to you, the reader, from my personal experience at these or other meetings. After I downloaded this data from my mind, I actually had to ask others, or research to find out what the common public historical belief was, as portrayed by the news media back in those years.

I believe most California Governors that I worked with were a part of the WHO and other such groups. It seems to me that these men and their functionaries, who seek control, hook into every individual and key organization that they can use in order to maintain control of their interests. They were strategically placed, often under the direction of Henry Kissinger and others, in order to insure they got what they wanted, when they wanted it. It was like a game to them, and they were all on the same team, in the same way a crime syndicate operates.

Nuclear testing sites, Energy Commission, NATO, Council on Foreign Relations, House Appropriations Committee on Foreign Trade, and the Trilateral Commission, were just some of the organizations whose meetings Kissinger took me to, both in the U.S. and abroad.

Henry used my mind files at meetings of the Trilateral Commission. We sat at a table with a group of men. There were microphones sitting on the table. What went on behind the scenes at these meetings often had nothing to do with what was outwardly portrayed. There were meetings within meetings and secret meetings were held behind the scenes of other credible public meetings. Often, the Council (not to be confused with the CFR) was involved in directing the way things went although no one knew they had any part in the outcome.

They all spoke their lies publicly, often directed by Kissinger the strategist, Hope the entertainer, and the Council from behind the scenes.

Kissinger as Global Mastermind

I was in Henry's office often in my final years of High School, while he worked heavily with Nixon on foreign relations. I would meet him in New York or in Washington, DC. Sometimes the team would brief me a month in advance for different assignments, but Henry always said, "It works best and is most ideal when she is prepared directly before the assignment and then goes from here." There was very little I knew to do on my own because the team had usually filled the agenda in order for me to deliver culturally specific or personally specific words and physical acts to entice the target. The team heavily researched every detail and it sounded, from their conversations, like they used separate espionage agents to collect some data they didn't want to ever be connected to or associated with, as it would have completely blown their cover. Henry used every means available, even down to manipulating a person through his or her own religious beliefs.

Henry's strength was that he was able to remain detached and able to pull from a wide variety of cultural differences in order to create the end product. Whereas, he explained, most Americans just went in to grab for the product and failed, due to their lack of cultural understanding. Henry said to me, "The closer you can align yourself with the subject in every way, the more successful you will be. Therefore you have to know him or her as well as possible before you are sent in and that is our job. You will only need to be the actress, the point person carrying out our plan. You will think only in this area we are working in. All else will fall away as you are focused only on this one particular area. You are beautiful, young, and have expanded sexual capabilities and we will supply the rest. All you have to do is receive the instructions." Henry Kissinger groomed me to be culturally adept with each foreign dignitary he sent me in to be with. He said, "This is where the success rate lies - firmly in cultural understanding first, then complying with their culture's mores second, and third, is equally your physical attractiveness and your sexual expertise." Henry told Nixon in my presence that this was the reason for my success and he told Nixon that sometimes it took him hours to have his researchers gather the data necessary on a foreign target in order to begin to prepare me for the assignment.

At one particular meeting, we sat at a large table with a group of men and I was seated next to Henry. President Nixon sat on the other side of Henry. Henry did not smoke his cigar at this meeting.

Nixon told him it was much too sensitive a meeting and for some reason Henry complied and didn't smoke. He usually smoked regardless of who objected.

At key junctures in the meetings, Henry would reach over and push his finger into the top of my hand. In response, I began reciting my programmed information or message. The message I delivered at this particular meeting was in Chinese or Japanese and, since I did not consciously speak these languages, I had no way of knowing what the content of the message I was delivering was. At this specific meeting, the foreign leaders listened to my message, and spoke back directly to me. Although I did not understand, I smiled and looked at them as if I was very interested, like I had been instructed to do. An interpreter would then translate the foreign leaders' response and then Nixon or Kissinger would speak. At other meetings, sometimes the interpreters were women but mostly in that country they were men.

Whatever messages I delivered seemed to be a softening agent in the talks because the foreign leaders always smiled or laughed. Sometimes, they were touched so deeply by whatever it was I was pre-programmed to say that they took my hand with tears in their eyes. Due to my lack of conscious knowledge of the different foreign languages, I do not know what it all meant.

If anyone ever questioned where Henry got me and how I was so advanced for my young age, Henry told them I was a child prodigy and that I had completed my university training abroad at a very early age and was good at my job, but socially shy. That explanation served to keep them from asking me questions later that I could not answer. Henry usually took me out of the meetings when they were over, in order to avoid situations where I would appear ignorant, should anyone ask me questions with any substance to them. For the truth was that I attended public high school and later junior college and was of average intelligence. I just had the advantage of programmed capabilities that served the interests of my controllers.

After we broke for lunch, Henry took me to a pay phone and dialed a number, and the person at that location began giving me additional data in the foreign language. I was instructed to remember what was said, verbatim. Each subject was given a marker number for identification. Henry took the phone, talked a bit, and jotted notes in a small black book, before he hung up.

These foreign talks really challenged Henry Kissinger and the Council, but they had done their homework. Kissinger did the same sort of diplomatic work with Reagan when he became President.

At many of these talks those representing our country said we were creating peace, but what they were really doing was opening up trade with these foreign countries because we needed resources they had. Our leaders turned it around to make it sound like the United States was doing them a big favor and we were being gracious to them. Expensive gifts were often sent ahead to foreign leaders, to arrive just before the President did, but I think that is as far as the real favors went.

There were times at night in foreign countries, when I was programmed to have sex with Nixon. Then I was returned to sleep in Kissinger's room. Even though I was being used like a machine, I still had very sensitive olfactory senses and Henry Kissinger was at times nearly intolerable to share a room with because he smelled so bad from cigar smoke or gaseous explosions that erupted from his body.

I was taken in and out of Russia during the Nixon years with Kissinger to attend NATO meetings, SALT talks, peace talks, and the secret hidden meetings of the Council. Henry brought me to the meetings to recite any pertinent information I had stored in my "mind files."

It was easier to justify my presence to people like Nixon's wife after I started working with Henry. They would explain I was at a meeting because of my work with Henry or in preparation for an international trip. It worked the same way with Reagan, justifying my presence for business reasons, but I was mostly there to pass messages or keep the President happy ...whatever it took.

There were times when I was limoed to the airport and when Nixon stepped off the plane after a foreign trip I would be in the back of the limo waiting for him. I was told to crouch down so there wouldn't be any way of spotting me and then Nixon would get in and give me a message for Henry or I'd give him a message and often we would have sex later. He would go to the White House and shower and freshen up and I'd be held in a "state of suspended animation" unless there was another job for me to do. I'd sit blankly for hours in the same place until I was directed that it was, "time to move into action."

Henry Plays Chess with Real People

During those years my work with Henry Kissinger and others continued, although Henry had to begin taking more of a back seat position in the public eye for awhile after the Watergate scandal. His position within the outskirts of the Council did not change. He was an important man for them and they utilized him because he was an expert strategist. I do not know exactly what that meant but I heard many men say that about him over the years. I guess it means Henry knows how to get people to move around and do things he says without them ever knowing they are being manipulated or controlled ...like a puppet master or chess master.

Henry knew how to think ahead in regard to key moves with key players. I watched him. It was akin to watching him play chess with real people. He knew how to get the desired outcome by motivating certain key players. He used researched information gathered on targeted individuals to manipulate them however he wanted, through their own weaknesses, addictions and/or obsessions. Targeted people did not even know that they were being influenced because he sent in people like me who looked naive and innocent, like they were just being kind or nice or sexy and cute or whatever was called for, but it was not really what was happening because there was always an ulterior motive beneath the seduction act or plan. Henry and the men in suits always sent in the perfect match. They hired whatever kind of girl or woman would turn their target on. Obviously, I was not "hired" or paid, I was just slave labor. I saw lists of "programmed slaves," with numbers by their physical descriptions, programmed expertise and usage capabilities, so they could be matched perfectly for certain situations. Unfortunately, their identities were in code.

Henry said if you really wanted someone to believe you about something that was not true, you convey it the first time as a Freudian slip. Then you attempt to conceal the fact you made the slip, but you make another Freudian slip. Then you try to say what it was you were originally going to say and they believe the first statement regardless of your attempt to simply state the truth. Then Henry said the last line saves your neck legally.

One day, I sat next to Henry Kissinger as we were seated before President Ford. Henry always said that he had to work harder than with any previous president to "guide" Ford where they wanted him to go. He said Ford kept going off in his own direction. Henry said he was glad Ford was not in office long. He said Nixon was easier for him to work with and guide.

Henry thought Reagan was a "bimbo" and "stupid ignoramus." Those were the words I overheard him use to describe Ronald Reagan to a group of men. But, when we met with the Presidents he never let on his true feelings. Instead, he always "acted" the role of diplomat all the way around so that the plans of the Council could be carried through as easily as possible.

Henry Kissinger was known for looking at documents with a "magnifying glass." He was able to find loopholes and incorrect wordings that would not be to their advantage in agreements, treaties, etc., before the United States signed. He was very thorough. Often, I sat by him the whole time he was reviewing a document so he could reach over and tap me to gain access to some needed information stored in my mind files.

Henry was very slow, deliberate and methodical. He thought that way, talked that way and moved that way. He ate European-style with his fork upside down, like I was taught was bad manners. And, he was obsessed with business. He was usually very serious; I do not believe I ever truly saw him have any fun. He avoided social occasions whenever possible, attending when necessary to further political agendas or the cause of the New World Order.

In the beginning Henry had to install huge amounts of data into me, but as time went on he didn't have to place in as much because the database was already in place. I heard him explain this to people who were "in the know." I also overheard him say that a man might have served the purpose better because there were certain times he said my presence as a woman was questioned when the subjects were sensitive. I am sure they remedied this situation by programming more males for the job. Henry was less interested in how I looked and more interested in how I worked. For mind file use he programmed me to dress very tailored and conservative. They dressed me in attire to fit specific assignments.

There must have been other girls and women being used for the same thing, in the same ways, because I heard Henry compare me, saying I was more reliable than the others--more able to capture the details and never make mistakes. He used to say he was saving me for the important assignments because of my reliability. I now believe the fact that I was poly-fragmented contributed to my success. I could only be used on a limited basis because he was afraid there might be questions asked. To others, I just looked like I was smart. They did not know I wasn't operating in a conscious state, but instead had been programmed, drugged, and electroshocked to maintain THETA brainwave patterns used to retain the vast amounts of data and keep it hidden from my conscious mind.

He was proud of himself for the way he had loaded me up with data and could access my mind files in public without others knowing what he was doing. He used different techniques over the years but one he was most proud of was what he called "time programs."

Some mind files were organized by a numerical system and Henry could access them by calling out a certain number. He combined this concept with the time of day in order to remain less conspicuous. He would point to his watch and say, "It's 1:30," and that would correspond to file number 130 in my system of mind files and gave him automatic access to that particular file. Henry thought the time reference to accessing my files was brilliant. Using this method, no one could tell that he was doing anything other than simply stating the time of day for that particular day or some other hypothetically scheduled date. This way his uninformed peers would not be able to find out what he was doing and what type of secret technology he possessed.

Henry had to be very cautious with whom he shared information about me. Most people did not carry the clearance to be allowed to know about the top secret government projects that created such technology as programmed, robotical slaves. People saw me working with him at meetings and other places, but very few knew how I worked or that I was a government programmed robot. The only ones who I knew were aware of this technology were certain top politicians, Bob Hope, some of his 'cronies,' and the Council. Henry kept the technology very, very secret and if there were any problems with me while we were in public, he would escort me out of the room and go about resorting and/or refiling my mind files to get them straightened out.

Henry gave me instructions at times from a closed circuit television before I was flown to DC, and at other times he waited and instructed me while I sat next to him at a round table with other men present. These four or five other men in suits knew exactly what was going on and why I was being briefed. At times, each of them would have different input to instill into my head. After each had put in their information, I was told, "And when the time is right, it will all come out just like clockwork." These were the words they used to program the correct delivery of the material they had just instilled. They said I was doing a good job in getting information from people as well as delivering information.

There were times when I was let out of the limo and escorted into the White House by a Secret Service agent. This agent knew he was just "acting" as my escort for the evening, and would conveniently disappear when I was targeting some man (or woman) I was told to give a message to, and then the agent would reappear to take me home after I was finished. I was often dressed in very sexy evening gowns, gloves, and high heels. Sometimes the dresses were totally backless and I would be dressed in sexy nylons, undergarments, just in case my assignment required later evening sexual attention. I was taken to a beauty salon and had my hair, nails and make up done before being dressed. Sometimes the Secret Service agents took me to get ready.

There were times Henry gave me little pills and instructed me to slip them into my glove to use if the person I was targeting was not cooperating in giving up information. I rarely found the pills necessary. After sex the men seemed to listen intently to the words I was saying to them and would open up and give me the information I was instructed to get. Henry explained to the men in suits that I could say things after sex that "influenced the men deeply."

It was at the White House that I did my best work and met the people whom I was to influence or as they called it..."seed." Over time I learned that seeding meant to drop an idea that would start an individual thinking in a certain direction that would support my controller's position. For example, information that would influence a person's thinking about upcoming legislation, or information (false or true) in regard to key individuals (politicians, leaders, wives, husbands, etc.).

The White House was an easy place to work because there were so many side rooms we could secretly slip into. Sometimes I would get some "target" into a room, like an office and lock the door behind us and seduce him right there. The men usually got very excited, especially if it was their first escapade. I would assure them that this little secret was safe with me because Senator so and so (my escort) wouldn't like it if I was fooling around either. This assured them that 1, too, had a good reason to keep the secret to protect myself, which usually made them feel more willing to take the risk. Sometimes I had to take the targeted person outside the building to another location and have sex with them. That was a little trickier, but I could do it.

As far as I know, the "targets" never did know that in having sex with me, they were really being taken advantage of, or politically raped and coerced by the Council itself-five men in suits who cleverly installed their own agenda. In this way, the Council controlled money and/or coerced many people in key places, often without the person ever being aware of it.

Henry usually seemed very proud of me after I delivered messages or extracted information successfully from people. He acted like a greedy old man when he debriefed me. Often, he insisted on debriefing me himself because he said the words that came out of me were "fresh" in the first debriefing and were key to issues at hand. The debriefings could take up to an hour for just one evening spent with a targeted individual.

Henry said I helped him do his best work.

Accompanying Henry to Foreign Countries

Sometimes when Henry and I traveled internationally the time difference worked in his favor. For instance, we could leave after I got out of school on Friday, reach our foreign destination the next morning and it would still be Friday when we arrived. Henry worked it so I wouldn't miss more school than necessary, and he made sure I slept on the 8-12 hour flight. We always flew first class when we flew as private citizens. At other times we flew on military or government aircraft during times he was in public office. There were occasions when I would leave school and fly with Henry, or my mom would put me on a plane and I would meet Henry somewhere like New York and then we would fly the rest of the way together. Once seated on the flight, he would press the top of my hand and I would go to sleep as commanded. When he pressed my hand in surroundings where I had been commanded many times for the same thing, he didn't have to give commands - like sleep. I automatically knew, so over time, things became pretty routine. I didn't eat while we were out of the States, when we only went for one meeting and were gone 24-48 hours. He would simply tell the stewardess I was sleeping and my sleep was more important than food. So she would bring him food and I would sleep. And although I was asleep, I was aware of what happened around me; I was recording, as commanded.

There were occasions that we didn't fly back in time for me to go home and I was taken by limo directly to Taft High and dropped off a block away from the school to walk the rest of the way, just before school began on Monday morning.

Henry took me to France, at times to Marseilles in the South of France, to meetings of the elite. We often met with bankers, as well as other leaders and key businessmen. They met at round tables and each pulled papers from their briefcases to share. Henry sat his briefcase by his side on the floor because he had me and had little need for papers unless they were presented merely for the effect that it would have to help influence someone. If papers were needed, he always had the best, the neatest, cleanest, most professional paperwork money could buy. Everything was planned for effect. He gave varying reasons for my presence, explaining when asked who the young lady was, that I was his personal secretary and that I was advanced far beyond my years and was quite a help to him. When he began the meeting, if none of the men objected to my presence; as instructed, I sat next to Henry and took notes. While I appeared to simply be taking sketchy notes in shorthand at the meeting, when he debriefed me later on, he had me recite, verbatim, what each and every man said at the meeting. Henry liked for me to be present at meetings when he felt that sort of information could later be important for his use. Henry loved to come out of meetings and go immediately back to his room to debrief me. He would sit at a table writing diagrams as I recited what I had heard. Then he would have more data to use to strategize with. If there was to be a second follow-up meeting, he would be on top, ready to drop his carefully planned ideas and solutions into the meetings with foreign leaders or businessmen. Henry called this "International Business."

At times when I was sent alone, he said the information he got was better than if he had gone himself, "because it is distilled," he explained. So he sent me to many locations as a "presidential model" to Presidents, and to many leaders at parties at the Rockefeller's and Bob's, and also sent me abroad. I knew whom I was to target, because Henry had shown me a picture before. I was sent to foreign embassies to entertain foreign ambassadors that were working for Henry. Often they worked for the United Nations in order to have some peace-loving humanitarian effort that justified the U.S. presence in a foreign country, and then Henry and the others would go about doing their real business.

There were other times we traveled by trains in different countries like Russia and Henry would debrief me in his private compartment. We slept on the train and traveled to meetings during the daytime. Henry said the food was bad, so he would often bring some of his own food in a brown paper bag that he kept in his briefcase. At the meetings he didn't need papers because I was with him. People thought he was really smart and had an excellent memory because of that. It got to the point where I could literally "read his mind," as he termed it, and give him a simple answer on paper that others wouldn't see and then he would take off on the data or idea.

We also traveled to China (both sides), Japan, England, France, Italy, Israel, Germany, and wherever else he needed to go to do his "International Business." Often when Henry was extended an invitation to attend a social event in a foreign country, he declined saying he was tired and suggested they take me instead. Then he got what he really wanted anyway - the information from them without having to expend social energy to get it. Then, before I went he loaded me up with questions to ask the leader and instructions about the stance I was to take sexually with him or her. Dressed in appropriate clothing, I was off. There were bullfights with leaders in Spain, polo games to watch Prince Charles, and golf with others. The events I attended were indigenous to the individuals and their countries.

At the end of trips abroad, if there wasn't a McDonald's to help me remember that I was really in California (wink), then there had to be some type of trauma to seal the experience off from my conscious awareness. Henry had others perform the trauma; he wouldn't do it. He said it was out of his league. So the men that accompanied him "took care of me" when the need arose. When we finally arrived at McDonald's, I was usually starving. There, I was told I was in Woodland Hills in order to “re-mind” me to forget. McDonald's spelled safety and the end of my assignment.

Because I was a robot, and so, "security proven," I was allowed to function as the go between for Henry and the Council. They even gave me things to bring back to Henry that couldn't be safely delivered any other way. I was flown to remote places to meet with them and then flown back for debriefing by Henry. He always seemed so pleased with the information, like he was getting just what he wanted. The Council often sent messages to people directly, bypassing Kissinger. When I would deliver the message I would tell them it was from "the group." That was how the Council often identified themselves to insiders who knew how the group functioned, but didn't know their actual identities. Over the years they changed their 'nickname' so as not to be conspicuous.

From my perspective, no one in government office knew as much about mind control as Henry Kissinger. They might have been told "the basics" but it didn't seem like most of them were aware of the extent to which a person could be enhanced with programming and used especially that an individual could possess the capability of organizing and recording the conversations of a whole group of people at a meeting.

Kissinger: The Council's Top Dog

One time at a Gubernatorial Ball, Henry got very mad at Ted Kennedy because Ted tried to take me off to another room to have sex with him. Henry got very angry with Ted who was a Senator at that time and threatened him with exposure if he did not back off. As a result, Kennedy left me alone, at least for that evening. At other times Ted Kennedy forced me into very violent and sadistically torturous sex. It was often scary for me when Henry wasn't around to make sure certain people didn't rough me up.

Bob Hope didn't seem to care or at least he didn't watch me as closely as Henry did when I was with him, but Henry did not seem to know this. Bob lied to him sometimes about who I was seeing, and sometimes Bob used me with people Henry wasn't supposed to know about. Bob had his own separate interests in using me with people who would benefit him but Henry told Bob what to do as far as government issues went. Bob was just a useful servant who had a lot to offer ...connections, money, fame, and slaves. Bob suited Henry's needs to a tee, handling the social scene and celebrities. Bob's social elite contacts greatly added fuel to Kissinger's long range plans as he found places to use different people of influence in strategic positions. He just waited for the right opportunity to arise.

Henry didn't view the President as anyone necessarily having any power. He knew how they were manipulated and he liked to be the one who was pulling the strings. He told me once that ambassadors to foreign countries have more power and control than the President of the United States. I didn't understand then what he was talking about, but just listened and nodded.

Henry was the top dog as far as the Council was concerned. He had the mind they needed that could so carefully strategize plans far in advance and so he usually got the desired results. In the Council's eyes, Rockefeller was more dispensable because he had money and power but didn't have the mastermind that they saw in Henry. So Henry was given everything he needed in order to fulfill their plan. If he wasn't in office it didn't much matter - he always had access to the person sitting at the reigns of political power. Behind the scenes, Henry controlled decisions and actions taken by the State Department in matters of foreign relations, always attempting to bring about a situation where the Council was in total control globally. They saw it as a game, a lifelong plan, with the outcome hopefully being that, finally, this generation of the global elite would succeed in the game that their forefathers had not been able to pull off. It created ambition and drive among them.

All I saw these men do was manipulate and control people by covert means. It seemed that most people they targeted had no idea they were even being manipulated or set up. When a country needed some shoring up, messages, or coercion to further the implementation of their plan, then they would send Henry or me or both of us, depending on the importance of the situation. I was merely an extension of Henry, delivering "strategic influence" in ways he said he never could. He felt that he would have more influence with many of the men he wanted to coerce or manipulate to see or do things his way by sending in a soft, cuddly, human sexual toy. He often joked with insiders that his sphere of influence was limited but he could use me to get in those "hard to get places." Henry said I could make those men twist into a pretzel and so he used me in many foreign countries to tap into vast resources, the human resources he needed to puppet. He felt that those human resources would lead to natural resources and that's where the money would be. Henry was often referred to among the insiders as a "genius of his time." So the presidents came and went but Henry was there behind the scenes molding me, with Bob's help, for the Council benefit. Mind control was the secret weapon that Henry perfected over the years.

Usually the individual would be so busy focused on what was planned that he would miss the hidden agenda that was taking place. Henry loved this tactic. Sometimes these guys would be taken into Henry's confidence (the oldest trick in the world to get people to be on your side, and feel important so they will cooperate) and told I was an espionage operative, but he didn't tell them my capabilities so they wouldn't be able to imagine what I was really doing or what I was capable of.

Henry and Bob often did deals together, sometimes involving "influencing" our troops overseas, or influencing a Senator, Governor, celebrity, a President, or a world leader. Sometimes Henry Kissinger told Bob Hope to make certain connections for me in regard to people I was to be placed with in and out of California.

"I am the light of the world. He that follows Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." -- John 8:12

Chapter Thirteen: Bob Hope "Let me entertain you."

Bob Hope involved me with many celebrities. His parties were star-studded, filled with the glamorous, the famous, the rich. If people did not have a title or talent they could buy themselves into his circle of "exclusive people."

ZaZa Gabor was often in attendance. Lucille Ball was his friend also. She was often drunk. Also present were Peter Finch, Alan Arkin, Dezi Arnez, Bernadette Peters, Suzanne Sommers-to name a few. Bob rarely drank at his own parties. Perhaps he wanted to stay in control.

One night at a party, the trees outside began moving from a helicopter downdraft. Lights from the ground illuminated the helicopter and the extravaganza that followed. It was an extraordinary show. Guests were gasping, "Oooh, ahhh," as they watched beautiful women dropped by tether down into the party, wearing very skimpy, elaborate, glittery costumes that were set aglow by the lights.

Bob liked fanfare. Some of the women wore only body glitter in scant places. The "elite," as they were often called, were encouraged to choose a girl, any girl they wished for their 'personal party favor' and enjoy her as they wished. Girls in skimpy aprons, but otherwise naked, served champagne and chocolates on silver platters. If a man wanted her in addition to the candy or drink, she complied. Every desire, every whim was satisfied. These girls were totally compliant.

At times, children were there. After I had children, sometimes even my daughter Kelly was there to be used. The children were held in reserve in a back room for men with 'alternate' sexual preferences. From a very early age my daughter was well-trained sexually, just like the other children. It was all very bad, but Bob's contacts were paid--in favors or connections. Bob didn't need money, but connections always came in handy.

At many of Bob's parties there were no rules, no restrictions, no boundaries. Sex was allowed anywhere and everywhere. To partake only required an oath of secrecy. And many partook.

Bob was in charge of me at these times, but I also had an alternate agenda as dictated by the Council. I was often preprogrammed to target certain key individuals at these parties that they wanted to influence. Some people spent the night at Bob's house if they were too tired to go home.

U.S. Senators like Alan Cranston, governors, congressmen, celebrities, even foreign ambassadors and dignitaries, were in attendance at different times. Military people, also. People were invited if they had something to offer to Bob or "the cause"...the New World Order.

Reagan attended Hope's parties at times. So did Nancy.

When the parties were over, Bob liked for me to sit on his lap and feed him his favorite piece of See's candy, followed by what he called, "his favorite piece of ass." He always laughed when he said, "You feed me and I'll feed you." But I never got to eat the candy, only him.

Bob liked for me to take off his watch (per program) while I was sitting on his lap and carefully put it on the table by the chair. He loved it when I was silly and giggly and teased him, but he did not like me to carry that attitude to bed. Bob always asked me to do things nicely the first time. He said, "There won't be a second time ...that you'll remember," and he held up the zapper (stun gun). Some nights he teased me and said it was really just a bug zapper, but then it would bite me, and it hurt.

In bed I was supposed to be serious and passionate, not silly. He would say, "Show me your tail feathers," and I would take off my panties and turn around. Then he would hold me on either side of my hips to "examine the merchandise," and give it a "stamp of approval," which was a spankie. Bob loved to give me spankings, not real hard ones, just enough to activate my sex program.

Bob liked for me to put on the pretty lacy nighties or teddies he left out for me. So I did. He had a butler who would bring him drinks or whatever he wanted before bed - he often liked a "hot toddy." If he wanted a regular drink, he would have me pour it for him from crystal decanters that he had in his room.

Bob snored at times while he slept. I was usually taken away early the next morning, sometimes even before Bob woke up. The butler or some other man in a suit would come to get me and deliver me to the waiting limo. Sometimes I would fly home by plane, but was often helicoptered. Endless songs that commanded my mind played inside my head at appropriate times to 're-mind' me. When I was taken to the Palm Springs area the song lyrics, "In the desert you can't remember your name... " helped me forget - until I remembered.

Pornography, Hollywood Style

Late at night, I was programmed to walk out of our Woodland Hills home and down a block or so to Royar Street where a black sedan picked me up and whisked me to Universal Studios or other locations, to work for Bob filming porn. The sedan took me through a chain link fence and past a security booth where the driver had to stop and check in with the guard to gain clearance to the lot. Then he dropped me off in front of a very plain-looking building, with just a door to it. There were wooden step platforms up to the door.

Bob often watched while pornography was filmed. They usually filmed at night so they would have, "more freedom," as Bob would say. Men at the studios, wearing t-shirts and jeans, dressed me in all kinds of sexy garments and made my body up with all kinds of make-up. One night a man handed me a beautiful, thick wooden and gold hanger from which hung a small teddy made of nothing but a series of vertical strips of ribbon that created a see-through effect. Bob followed me into the dressing room while I slipped on black stockings, garter belt, heels and then the teddy. The black-ribboned teddy was belted at the waist but I was naked underneath and you could see through and between all the ribbons. I was instructed to lay out and get a suntan before filming, and I wasn't allowed to have tan lines on my back or shoulders. They put makeup on my breasts so I would appear tan all over. The make up they put on my body was really put on heavy and was very itchy and uncomfortable. The oily kind was less itchy but didn't stay on as well as the drier type. There was another man who did my hair, often in curls or in a side ponytail. They used curling irons and designed all sorts of hair creations. I just sat there while they chose how I would appear; my hair, nails, toenails, make-up, and costumes. And then, I did whatever they told me to do. Finally, they draped me with whatever jewelry they decided on. At times body jewels were glued onto my body. Once they glued little sparkly rhinestones all over my skin and filmed me in a skimpy white bikini-type outfit. The costumes were always different, unique and original. Bob wanted me to be like Dorothy Lamour, but I didn't know who she was. He talked about lots of old actresses that I'd never heard of. There were lights and cameras all over the place in the halls, and backstage was full of all sorts of costumes on racks. Bob liked pornography with feathers so he had a man work with me on the act, including songs and dances. Bob said it was, "porn for the sophisticates, not just for low-lifers." Bob saw pornography as an art form and went into a very deeply loving, emotional mode while it was filmed. When they finished filming that's when he wanted me the most.

Another man was assigned to "work me up," training me for the act. This porn was filmed Hollywood-style all the way, with glitter, diamonds, flair, special props and stage lighting. I usually sang beforehand and Bob made sure that I had a pre-recorded voice tape so I could sing but not have to be concerned with putting power behind my voice while I was doing the sexual acts. The whole show was directed by another man who told the male porn actor and I what to do. The prop man listened to the director and moved props all around, while the camera and lights men fell in line. There were many different themes and many nights when pornography was filmed. One night Bob showed Hugh Hefner some of his porn in the back room at one of Bob's parties. I was in the room, but Bob acted like I wasn't real or really there. I was.

USO Tours

In my late teens and early 20's I was taken aboard U.S. Navy aircraft carriers when Bob was doing a show on his USO tours, to "entertain the troops." I had several personalities who were specially trained to sing and dance, and many personalities who were expertly trained to dance and strip. Usually Bob and I were flown into a base and then helicoptered the rest of the way to the ship.

On tour with Bob there were large bands, with lots of music and lights. Red, white, and blue banners decorated the stage where we performed. Sailors stood packed together to watch the show.

If the media was there Bob totally controlled what they captured on camera, what segments could be filmed, and when they had to leave. One time when I came out on stage, they began shooting my part, and after the show Bob had a huge fit (he could be very temperamental) and threatened to break their equipment on the spot if they didn't give him the film. They gave him the film. This way Bob controlled what was shown to the general public.

The shows usually took place on the outside decks. Professional make-up artists made up my whole body. For one show, I was dressed in a white 'navy' dress, only it wasn't like the regular standard uniforms the women in the navy wore. It was a specially sewn costume, short and extra feminine with lace top and scoop neckline. I had special white lace panties with little anchors on them. For one show I sang Anchors Away after which Bob would "joke them!"

What the "boys" didn't know was that Bob knew how to control their emotions with certain specific words and phrases and songs. He knew how to "lighten them up," get them really "emotional" and worked up, and then he would slip in suggestions, keyed to programs, that "helped them with certain unwanted attitudes." I overheard the Council making jokes about the "herds" (the troops) and how stupid and easily led they were.

At the shows where I was present, singing usually came first, then Bob's jokes, and then another song and dance. Once I did a semi-strip dance, never "took it all off" for "the boys." In order to project a semblance of 'wholesomeness,' I just stripped down to skimpy bras and panties, and also took off my heels, dress, nylons and garter belt. I was instructed to wear those for "the effect" of taking them all off.

After shows, sometimes I was taken to the Admiral's and/or Captain's quarters to further "entertain" him in the privacy of his room. These officers displayed attitudes created by years and years of being honored with medals and ribbons for "service to the country." The Council often slipped messages to Naval officers, through me, possibly without the officers' knowledge.

I never knew my exact location; I was not allowed to know. We entertained the Air Force and Army, also, but I was used more often with the Navy.

Bob took me to a specific recording studio in Southern California to pre-record the songs I was to sing before doing a show for "the troops." In the recording studio, I wore headphones that played back into my ears the music I was singing so that I could stay in tune. I enjoyed singing and the studios could make anyone's voice sound good, but Bob liked me to sing soft, breathy, high and sexy. Sometimes, in the beginning, he would sit just outside the recording room where he could hear the music and would cue me so we could get it just right.

Once I was programmed to sing The Star Spangled Banner, in a really sexy manner for the troops. When it was time to sing it live, they played the tape and I sang along, because it was hard to sing and dance at the same time and maintain good voice quality. In this way, I could put my all into dancing, splits and all, without being concerned with the song. (You can imagine my amazement when I began healing and integrating personalities and discovered I could do the splits! I never consciously knew that I could do that.)

I found the lights that shone on us while performing to be blinding. Bob taught me to not look into them but to look past them so they would not bother me so much.

Another time when I went with Bob to entertain the troops, they wrapped me in an American flag. I had on a tiny sparkling, red, white, and blue lacey bikini and sparkling red high heels. Two soldiers, in green army uniforms and boots held me up, one holding onto my feet and the other holding me up around my shoulders. As they turned me, the flag unfolded off of me and slowly I was unfurled to bright lights and lots of soldiers yelling, whistling and cheering. In addition to the entertainment, this was part of my 'spin programming.' Bob had the microphone and had been telling jokes, but stopped as they unrolled me. He pointed to me while the drums rolled. When I was unfurled, they played The Stripper and I danced around while all of the guys cheered.

For other shows, I had a feather plume on my bottom that went up my back. The costumes were always different. I rolled around on the floor, did the splits and "spread 'em," as instructed, for the boys. Sometimes I sang, sometimes I just danced, and sometimes for smaller private audiences, I stripped all the way. And there were times I was just there to dance seductively for Bob's personal and private pleasure later on in the evening.

After the show, some man would put a prod or stun gun to my forehead. I totally collapsed into his arms and he carried me over and laid me down until it was time to leave. The physical sensation I experienced was a jolt of white-hot electricity, and then I felt very, very cold. This was the reaction to the electroshock. The man delivering the electricity also delivered programming to me. Before and after he zapped me, he said, "You are fat and ugly and no man could ever be attracted to you." As commanded, I carried the belief that I was fat and ugly and I never would have believed I was attractive enough to perform on stage, had I begun to remember. They would zap me with electroshock either on the forehead, the base of my skull, or on my back or thighs. For some reason on this occasion, Bob laughed just before they zapped me. He had some goon do it - he rarely did.

I was often in very poor condition when we were helicoptered away and Bob laughed and made excuses for my listlessness, saying things like, "Ah, don't worry about her, the kid's just had too much to drink." Truth was I wasn't even allowed to drink, not even water. My physical reactions were all from the aftereffects of the electroshock intended to erase my memory.

Another show I was taken to was for the boys in the Army. Bob wore an Army uniform, just like the soldiers, and made jokes about being just like "one of the fellas" in his uniform. They loved it and cheered. Bob could get away with saying just about anything to them and they would laugh. When he introduced me, he said, "Watch this little one shake her tail feather!" I came out with a glittery bra and a g-string with tail feathers attached to the back. I danced carrying matching purple feathers in my hands and placed them over my breasts and then turned around and held them over my bottom.

When I was winding down my act, I was instructed to distribute all but the last of the feathers to soldiers in the audience and then turn my back to them, spread my legs far apart, turn my head and say, "Sorry boys, I need to leave something to keep me warm!"

I felt like I was on lots of naval bases in the United States at some time or another. Sometimes for entertaining "the boys" with Bob, but more often for programming. The programming at these bases was torturous. I was hung upside down in tanks filled with water or gases. There also were chairs with straight backs and arm rests, with bands that fit tightly around my forehead, wrists and ankles. They also used electroshock and light and sound equipment, combined with food and sleep deprivation. I was subjected to lots of high tech equipment and machines. I didn't have a clue what these machines actually did or why my controllers were torturing me with them.

Bonded To Bob

Bob took me with him to lots of places when I was 16 to 21 (1967-1972). Wherever we were, or whomever I was to be with, I usually came with the silver limo. I would be held in the back and no one from the outside could tell I was there. I was accustomed to performing oral sex to whomever I was instructed, and in limos and public places it meant swallowing. As a result I would become sick some days when there were a lot of men "to do."

Sometimes the limo would be full of Bob's friends and I would be told to wait in the back after a premier, gala or show openings, etc. Bob would bring his friends "along for the ride" and they got to "sample his goodies" is what he would say to his friends. One evening at a Hollywood event that took place in front of Gromin's Chinese Theatre, Elizabeth Taylor looked curiously past Bob as he stood in front of the entrance to the limo I was "parked" in. She asked him who I was. Then she made fun of him, saying, "Couldn't you at least get one that doesn't look like a child? She doesn't even have any breasts!" They didn't seem to get along too well.

My programming made me feel bonded to Bob Hope. Almost like being married or comfortable being with him, like it was second nature to be with him. I was programmed to know what he liked so I could easily please him. He liked to find me in his bathtub, full of bubbles, giggling and happy and ready for him. He liked for me to take off his shoes, rub his (smelly) feet, inch up his legs, unzip his pants, and perform oral sex, but stop just before he orgasmed and wait a while before continuing. Following program command, I sat on his lap, kissed him, and told him how handsome he was, as he sat in his favorite winged back chair in his room. He had a footstool that I sat on to rub his feet.

Bob did not always want sex actually, but always liked to be reminded of it by talking about sexual things or how young I was. He loved young women and I was just that, and always was young to him because he was older than the hills! He was older than my father. He could have been my grandfather, with nearly a 50 year age difference between us. I had been trained all my life to please older men. I knew just how to treat them, flatter them, and make them feel good, psychologically and, of course, physically. Bob sexually desired me from ages 16-20 or so, after that he just had sex with me, almost as a convenience to him. When I married, his sexual desire seemed to change. During my teen years he'd take me around to friends, parties, clubs, and he bragged to whomever he was with, that he still got the 'young stuff.'

I do not remember ever being involved in satanic trauma with Bob. But he must have known and liked what it created from my childhood years. He was above the trappings of satanism, like most of the higher ups. They looked at people who practiced satanism as low level, but the job had to be done (trauma base for mind control) and they rationalized it by saying, "look how beautifully she turned out."

Bob's Parties

I had lots of party girl personalities programmed for Bob. Bob spent a greater amount of time with me when I was a teenager, until I was married. The personalities dedicated and devoted to Bob were clever and programmed with silly jokes for Bob's company. Bob liked me to start the parties out right, so guests were served mixed drinks, champagne, hors d'oeuvres, etc. Then Bob had me entertain in skimpy little outfits he provided, such as a red leotard, with netting around my wrist, red fishnet stockings and red sparkly high heels. I'd sing and dance and would strip if it was an appropriate time. One of the first times Bob had me start the party, he said, "You took control of the room!" He seemed surprised.

When I stripped in front of couples, I did a lot of the same 'couple bonding' techniques that I did with couples in the intimacy of their own bedrooms. I was programmed to say something about the husband to the wife like, "God you have good taste in men! I wish I could find one like this." And while I said it, I would lasso him with a silk scarf or feathers and pull him close, usually to my bare navel or chest. Or I'd say to the husband, "You have won the charms of one of the most beautiful women in the world! You must be quite a man." And I would go on and on whispering, as if just to them, yet still having everyone in the room watch. Usually, unless Bob said it wasn't appropriate, I'd eventually strip and it seemed to loosen everyone up and very often I invited them if they cared to, to join me. It was usually like watching a group of little kids doing something naughty. Everyone would stand up and start getting naked, pulling off their clothes and throwing them all over the floor. Then they would go skinny-dipping or off to a side room for sex. People later told Bob the experience really stimulated their sexuality and they had not had such great sex in 20 years of marriage.

Different nights brought different types of people together, usually carefully matched and pre-selected so they would congeal. Most of the couples were usually older and the men were businessmen, politicians, bankers, stock brokers, movie and music artists, and other people that were important to Bob's interests. The parties' guest lists were planned and coordinated to match up and network people who they needed to get together, or groups with similar sexual preferences like gays, lesbians, heterosexuals, or pedophiles, so they could feel free to let their hair down. Unfortunately, after it happened Bob owned them.

Often, people did drugs at Bob's if they wanted to. At some parties, drugs and alcohol were in large supply, usually in labeled dishes or on little platters. Everything had little ribbon identifier tags or small signs, "so people knew what they were getting into," Bob would say.

For some private parties, Bob had me act like I was his dummy and he would load me up with most of the lines so he wouldn't have to think so much or memorize the jokes. He often had me say the key lines so he could easily bounce off of them and deliver a one liner. He dressed me in skimpy clothes and he put his hand up my back like he was making me move like a dummy. He did that dummy gig often or had me mime with him or mime alone. When people got high they really liked the mime act, especially if there were strobe lights flashing on and off.

Bob usually had some real maids who were older and who really cleaned and served. I only had to do that if it was the way they (Henry, Bob, and the Council) had planned for me to go in on a target. For example, I would serve the target champagne with two strawberries in it, and then I'd say to him, "Could I eat your ...(pause)....uh...strawberry?" I'd wiggle all over and smile or giggle. Sometimes the men would blush, but usually they would smile and say, "Why yes!"

As programmed, I would take the man's drink and take him by the hand to a side bedroom and say, "Can I suck your '----' now?" Then I'd perform as programmed. To cover himself, Bob had me say, "Please don't tell Mr. Hope about this." But other times Bob told me to say, "Bob wanted to share with you the pleasure he gets on a regular basis." It all depended on the angle they were using according to the information that had been gathered on the man prior to the evening. Before I left the room I was instructed to show the man to the adjoining bathroom and shower, and offer him towels, combs, deodorant, dryers, etc., anything he might need to freshen up, and I'd explain he was free to rest, sleep or shower. If it was a serious target for the Council, I would stay with the man longer, sometimes all night and at times I was instructed to take him away from the party, somewhere quiet, where it was just the two of us. I would take him wherever I was instructed - to a hotel, park, beach, restaurant, disco, etc. If it was a serious target they got the red carpet treatment, if not they still got sex. Prince Charles was the red carpet sort, where minor politicians or businessmen were less catered to.

At other parties I carried a silver tray with a glass of champagne on it and I'd have a cherry stem with a cherry dangling out of my mouth. Seductively I would say, "Would you like a cherry, sir?" and then I'd take him to another room for sex. Or I'd put a very expensive gourmet chocolate truffle in my mouth and say to a target, "Would you like one of these?" as I slowly and sensually took it in and out of my mouth, sucking and licking it, and if he said yes, I would put it on the edge of my lips and say, "Oops, this is the last one, do you share?" If he indicted he did, I would lean over and share it with him. Then I'd ask him if he wanted seconds and if he said yes, I would take him off for sex. Other occasions, with a slice of peach in my mouth, I was programmed to ask, "Would you like a California peach?" and then I'd give it to him, in the bedroom.

Henry told Bob the strategies and they often worked together to create a script for me to deliver, especially if jokes were needed. If it was intricate or complicated, then Henry did the uploading. Sometimes though, for Bob's parties, Bob would load me up with statements for different people before the party began. He had a list of party guests and he often had his writers come up with something clever and funny along the subject lines Bob chose. I remember hearing him call different writers to chew them out if they were late delivering the scripts or if he was unhappy with the material they came up with.

The Council used Bob and Henry together and was able to achieve enormous strides because people oftentimes didn't realize they were connected, or that Bob and Henry were strategizing or manipulating them, let alone that they were connected to the Council.

Bob's Political Connections

Bob was involved in local, state, national and international politics and had a network of "cronies" all around the world. He would 'scratch their backs' for the same in return. Since he wielded so much political power, because of his wealth and connections, people listened to him and often did what he asked. Most people were bought. He had a network of people (politicians, judges, police, etc.) in his back pocket and in this way he remained protected and often operated above the law. He seemed to know everyone everywhere we went and people seemed anxious to get near him. He had the money to buy anything he liked, including programmed sex slaves. Once he told me, "everyone has his or her price," and he usually found it. It was not always money that people were after; sometimes it was connections, fame or sex.

By the time I was 18, I was in operation heavily with Bob Hope, California Governor Ronald Reagan, President Richard Nixon, and Henry Kissinger. They all knew I had what they called "expanded faculties." I was often used as an intermediary between Sacramento and the White House - keeping information flowing per instruction from the Council. They were the top controllers. So, for example, during the time Reagan was Governor of California, I was flown to Reagan's ranch to have sex with him and deliver him messages. Then I was flown to the White House to have sex with Nixon and deliver messages from the Council. The Council was overseeing all this. They debriefed me after each assignment and reprogrammed me in light of the information I reported. I don't know if Reagan or Nixon really ever knew to whom I was really reporting ...whose interests I was really addressing. The Council always made it look like I was attending to Reagan or Nixon's sexual interests and then subtly slipped in messages or suggestions from the Council. My programming 're-minded' me, "Mine is not to question why, mine is but to do or die".

I was only 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 years old when I was performing many of these earlier sex/espionage missions. It was the perfect cover. Who would have suspected me, a very average, innocent looking, silly, young blonde to have been involved in U.S. Government and Shadow Government activities?

Ronald Reagan and Bob Hope were connected through the entertainment field and were doubly connected through their political and military friends when Reagan was Governor of California and later on when he became President of the United States. Bob was also friends with high-powered men like Walter Annenberg, who had a sweeping estate in Palm Springs, or more specifically Rancho Mirage. When Bob took me there for meetings or parties I was told, "This is a mirage, this just a mirage." Walter Annenberg was at one time an Ambassador to Britain and was also connected to the Reagan's and the British Royal Family.

Bob was politically connected and knew how to lure people in and insure they would work for him. He invited them to his parties and dangled various kinds of illegal or immoral perversions in their faces. Once their perversions were uncovered, he could blackmail or control them. That is how Bob worked. Bob was very good at this. I watched him do it to people over and over. He lured them in, detected their weaknesses, then used that knowledge in his favor, for his connections, and ultimately for his personal gain.

He was like a black widow spider, luring people into his web and then moving in for the kill. Except instead of killing his prey he simply put them to good use in his life. He used them "in the scheme of things," he would say, "to make life a little easier." Once lured into Bob's snare, there was no getting out without dire consequence.

Bob especially liked to do this to politicians because as he would explain to me after a party, he liked "to have a few key politicians in his back pocket." Bob demonstrated my "abilities" to people he wanted to gift me to. He gave me as a sexual gift to a lot of people he wanted to "have in his back pocket." Later, he talked about how incredibly stupid these people were, to take the drugs or alcohol and then make a public spectacle of themselves.

J. Edgar Hoover

J. Edgar Hoover was at Bob's parties. One night he ended up dressed in a blue sequined dress. Henry and Bob had put together a list of other politicians who were like J. Edgar so they would feel comfortable together. J. Edgar Hoover, "Jerry" to his friends, must have thought Bob was safe and that he was out of his political arena so he could "let his hair down." But it was really a clever set up between Bob and Henry, as they set a trap for Hoover. At the party onset, I was brought in to dance naked and get them going. They all dressed up in "costumes" left out for their "party enjoyment." I presented it that way so they wouldn't feel uncomfortable or inhibited. Then they were given booze, cocaine, anything they wanted. There were party poppers and dishes full of different recreational drugs with little tags attached explaining the type of ride they would go on if they took a certain pill or powder - everything short of injectables was offered. This group of men got really high and silly and changed into the costumes. Once they were high, I worked them for information as pre-directed by Henry Kissinger. J. Edgar must not have known that Bob Hope was connected to Kissinger. So, the information gathered that evening - not only Hoover and his friends' direct answers to questions, but their attitudes, and sexual preferences, etc. - were all recorded directly into my mind files.

From then on the Council had "Hoover by the balls or was it the pussy?" my controllers joked. From then on the FBI was under Council control and they even got Hoover to put blocks and different rules, regulations, and codes directly into the FBI operations. That began to set up a controlling mechanism for the future so that when the next FBI director took office, things inside the Bureau would be in place so the Council could continue to manipulate them toward their Ultimate year 2000 goal.

Alan Cranston

Senator Alan Cranston was Bob's right-hand political man in California. He also attended Bob's parties. Alan carried out things Bob wanted done in the government sector. Bob's business dealings ran deep into world governments. He used government agencies as a tool for his benefit and he "bought" people already working in the government so that he could control them and "get things in order," he would say. Which meant bend or change laws to his benefit. Cranston was the center of the political wheel, the inside corrupt wheel, in California. If anyone wanted anything done, all they had to do was contact Bob and he would go through his political cronies to get it done-no matter what it was.

Senator Cranston was tied into Bob Hope and from what I saw, Bob was tied to the outskirts of the Council, but Cranston was not. Politicians were never allowed to be that close or to be directly affiliated with the Council, but were given information, as they needed it from unidentified sources. That is what I was, an unidentified source.

Cranston was one of Bob's favorite connections. Cranston liked "spankies" over his lap. He would make me lie over his lap and he would spank me, "to turn me on," he would say. The more turned on he got the more brutal he became. He was into beatings, sometimes with a belt, and tying me down. He was very aggressive, very scary and unpredictable. Alan Cranston was a bony old, evil man.

Cranston was not allowed to leave marks on me. Henry Kissinger saw to that. Henry kept tabs on me during the Nixon and Reagan administrations because he had his interest in using the information that he had carefully instilled in my mind files and did not want me damaged.

Cranston and Bob seemed to be close friends. Bob and others ran a lot of California politics from Palm Springs and made sure they had the people they needed in their "back pockets" in order to "enact change," which meant bending things for their own financial gain. It usually always boiled down to money, but occasionally Bob did things out of vindication for certain people. He always made people "sorry" if they were not nice to him. He usually got his way ...his power went high.

One night on the Queen Mary, in the mid-1970's Cranston tied me tightly to a headboard and then got so drunk or drugged up that he could not untie me. So he had sex with me standing up, with me still tied and then he passed out on the bed. I had to stay tied up like that until the wee hours of the morning when Bob came and found me. My hands and feet were purple/blue from the lack of circulation and I was exhausted but quickly "snapped out of it," when Bob told me to. I switched to being happy, refreshed and bubbly, while Bob attempted to get Cranston sobered up.

Sometimes at parties, Cranston stayed the next day to pull himself together around Bob's pool. If Dolores was there, Bob would tell her I was hired as the maid for the day, but when I would sit on his lap, Dolores would just roll her eyes and walk away disgusted. Theirs was not a marriage made in heaven.

The Chief of Police is Compromised

There was a small Italian restaurant located on Laurel Canyon Boulevard in Los Angeles, called Cafe Galleria. My brother Rick introduced Craig and I to the unique little restaurant in the early 70's. I remember one evening, as we pulled away from the restaurant after we'd had dinner, Craig looked back in a quiet, dissociated manner and said, "Bad things happen in the back room there." When I questioned him further, he didn't answer, so I immediately tucked it away in the back of my mind and went on to another subject. But he was absolutely right and years later I had the memory which pieced together the answers to the questions I would have liked to have asked him back then. With the detailed flashback of the event, I had a fuller picture of what really took place that night.

I don't know who specifically was behind the blackmailed event, but I remembered being taken into the back area of the restaurant into a smoke-filled room full of men. I was told to strip and dance, and ended up sitting on Police Chief Darryl Gate's lap in the nude. Cameras flashed pictures of me on his lap after which I was ushered out with my clothes to meet my husband. With only fragments of this memory, I am left with an incomplete picture of what my controllers' actual agenda was. You can come to your own conclusions.

Pete Wilson

California Senator, and then Governor, Pete Wilson was also tied to Bob Hope. Bob manipulated Pete through Pete's desire for fame and recognition and through his desire for political gain and for sex. Bob originally invited Pete Wilson to his parties and used me to lure him into his web so he could gain further control over politics in California, or at least protect some of his interests. As Pete discovered, Bob was a direct link to insuring success politically because he had connections to so many people and was connected with the Council and the U.S. Defense Department.

In the beginning I was used with then-California Senator Pete Wilson on Catalina Island. Pete Wilson was in line to be used by the Council in a big way. Back then they felt he was one of the most promising candidates they had for the U.S. Presidency. The last information I had overheard in conversation concerning this was that they were not sure he would be ready by the election in 1996, but they had him in a holding pattern for later use when the time was right. As Pete went along with what the Council wanted, doors were to immediately open for him.

I was programmed to deliver "news" to Pete from the "higher ups," the Council. Over time, he became conditioned to associating me with. news about his future success. But, who from the outside would have ever suspected that 1, initially a young woman and later, a seemingly ordinary housewife and mother, would be carrying secret information to him from this very elite group that secretly rules the world from the shadows? At that time, the Council sent a message to Pete through me, asking him if he "wanted to step upstairs?"

Pete's answer was, "Yes!" Lots of the information between Pete and the Council was filtered through me. That way, no one knew of his connection, just like they didn't know of Nixon's or Reagan's direction by the Council.

I delivered messages to Pete from the Council on many occasions. He seemed fully conscious of their connection to him and their support of him, although I don't know if he was aware of their actual identities. At that time my instructions from the Council were given to me by phone or over closed circuit television, where their voices and bodies were scrambled. No one was allowed to know who they were. Pete either didn't know or didn't care how they were able to accomplish what they did in regard to world affairs. Or, maybe he also was programmed and operated with me from a programmed alter state.

One night, while 'vacationing' with my family on Catalina Island, men in suits came and took me from them in order to ready me for use with Wilson. It was the same routine as usual trauma, isolation, food and sleep deprivation that occurred before I was used to insure I would later be amnesiac of the entire event.

After the traumatic preparation took place, I was escorted by men in suits past the yachtsmen's club out to a dinghy and was taken to Pete on a plush yacht moored in the Avalon Harbor. My controllers dressed me for the occasion in all white - white blouse, slacks, gold belt and shoes. It was late at night when I was placed on board with Pete. After we were left alone, he wanted to slip over the side of the boat naked and swim in the dark with me. I obeyed.

Pete was in good shape physically and had a little more than average share of penile endowment. After our swim, we got into bed and had sex. He pinched my buttocks and told me what a "great one" I had. Sometimes he got very aggressive and it traumatized me. On this occasion he nibbled me all over my body, from head to toe-we were both laughing hysterically, I because I was programmed to be "congenial." He liked to have sex in many different positions and was an active participant, unlike Ronald Reagan. He seemed to enjoy showing me how physically strong he was. When I first met him, he would have two of us (two women) at the same time, but later on just me, as he said I responded better to him just "one on one." He had massage oils that we used sometimes during sex also. He loved oral sex and liked for me to bring him just to the edge of orgasm and then back off so he could last longer. I was programmed to have a lot of "passion" with Pete Wilson.

It was normal after sex for us to talk. Usually this was when I delivered the messages I was carrying to him from the Council. We talked a lot in bed as I delivered information to help him climb the political ladder. This particular evening on the yacht, I stayed the night on board with him. He often had very bad breath upon awakening.

The next morning, I was taken off the yacht and reunited with my family at our spot on the beach, programmed to think I had never been gone, never missed any time with them. As usual, they didn't notice my absence or my return.

Pete Wilson knew how to utilize me in the same ways Henry Kissinger did by accessing my mind files. I was used in Sacramento, the State Capital, with him in this way, even before he was Governor of California. But Pete often had trouble remembering the mind file names and would say, "Now what was that file name again?" He'd snap his fingers and go to his desk to get the listing of files located in the "Peter Wilson Library." When this personalized filing system was gifted to him through me, Henry said to tell him, "Pete, you had a whole library donated and built just for you." It was complete with every volume, every book housed just precisely where he could gain access to it inside my mind files, all by a simple command.

For Pete I was a total sexual robot as well as a computer robot. But I was never set up to serve both functions at the same time. I was flown to meet him in different locations, as far back as the early 1980's and met him in Sacramento when he was there on business. Pete had trouble getting my mind files open to access information because he couldn't wait two hours in between for sex! I overheard Henry ask him, "Well, did you wait the two hours in between usages?"

But Pete lied and Henry knew he lied when later he accessed me and asked, "What time did Peter enter the Wilson Library?" And I would tell him the exact time and he would catch Pete in a lie every time. Pete didn't seem to know or understand the level of sophistication that allowed me to report exactly when Pete initiated sex or mind file use.

The Council operated in these very cunning and manipulative ways with Pete Wilson and others. Slowly they introduced people, knowing that over time, trust built and later when an important event or issue needed to be dealt with, the connections had been made, a bond was formed and it was easy for them to use people.

They had plans for Wilson to be Governor of California long before he was elected--so far ahead, in fact, that they started putting me with him for the Council to begin "grooming" him for the job of Governor.

Since I had also been used with other California Governors, my programmed years of experience in regard to the ways the Council worked with politicians was helpful to Pete in his early days. The programmed information I carried included familiarity with people and agencies, and could help him get acquainted and adjusted.

I was programmed to work with Pete Wilson in regard to the new educational plan for children, that was first implemented in California. That is a whole separate, but very important subject, which I will address in a later chapter. I don't know if Pete was aware of where my information was coming from but he seemed to enjoy large amounts of sex with me in between "business engagements." Pete Wilson also had sex with my daughter at one of Bob's parties when she was older.

Obviously, my personal experience with Bob Hope is contrary to the "All-American good citizen" image that he and the media have managed to fool the majority of the American people with all these years. In truth and sorrow, all I have left to say to him is, "Bob, thanks for the memories." For now armed with the truth of what has happened, I can begin to work to stop this once secret, human atrocity called 'mind control.'

"They struck me," you will say, "but I was not hurt; they beat me, but I did not feel it. When shall I awake?" Be not envious of evil men, nor desire to be with them; for their minds devise violence, and their lips talk of mischief.

“By wisdom a house is built, and by understanding it is established; by knowledge the rooms are filled up with all precious and pleasant riches. A wise man is mightier than a strong man, and a man of knowledge than he who has strength. He who plans to do evil will be called a mischief-maker. The devising of folly is sin, and the scoffer is an abomination to men." -- Proverbs 23-24

Chapter Fourteen: Parties at the Rockefellers

...Or, what do the Rockefellers, Kissinger, Alan Greenspan and the Federal Reserve all have in common? ...Me as a mind file to organize their plan.

Parties were given in New York at the Rockefeller mansion around Christmas time each year. I was flown to New York by commercial airline and was met at the airport and limoed to their home. I was taken by a woman to get my hair and nails done, then brought back and dressed to be used to entertain top people from all over the world, usually ending in a sexual encounter with individuals they were targeting. At the parties, I was dressed formally in expensive evening gowns and was often provided a diamond broach or huge diamond necklace to wear for the evening.

There was a whole room, a vault, that had a bank of thin but wide drawers that housed necklaces, broaches, tiaras, all mounted on special stands shaped to fit them. There were tiered drawers for bracelets, diamond watches and rings. I was taken into the vault at times in order for someone to select jewelry that was appropriate for my outfit. Usually it was a blonde, blue-eyed, soft-spoken woman who wore her hair up. She was pretty and knew just how to dress me. If I was to target an important official, foreign leader, or king, they put an especially alluring piece on me. Then she'd escort me out of the vaulted room down a hall and into the house. It was like a secret hallway that led to "the collection."

One evening she dressed me in a long red strapless formal. It was form-fitting and the bodice was low cut. I had to wear a push up bra to look bustier but she said she loved my small waist. She fastened a diamond necklace around my neck and said she liked how it dipped down to accent the bodice of my dress. My hair had been done up and she had me wear large diamond drop earrings displaying lots of diamonds that dangled together.

After I was finished being dressed with accessories, the lady took me out into one of the main rooms - this one was forest green and Prince Philip was there. She reminded me beforehand to curtsy and bow deeply to him and to stay down and bow my head for awhile - which I did, before this man dressed in a black tux, complete with cummerbund and shiny black shoes. Rocky came into the room and put his cigar down in an ashtray, bowed to Philip and said, "I wanted you two to have some time to get acquainted before the other guests arrived." Then he went on to explain to Prince Philip, "She has been dedicated solely to you for the evening. Your wants are her desires."

Philip smiled.

Rocky shook Philip's hand with both hands and explained, "It's an honor to have you here this evening and to express our sincerity, this young lady has been dedicated to you for your Highnesses pleasure for the night."

"Thank you," Philip replied. "You're most kind."

They continued speaking in formalities. That's how everyone spoke around Philip. Rocky handed him a drink that the butler/bartender had made and excusing himself, said, "I'll leave you two alone for awhile and I'll be back to check on you to see if there's anything you want or need." As he walked out of the room, the butler who was on his heels closed the doors. I was just a teenager, but my inner twin sister, Sharon, was the personality that was groomed for these assignments with the elite.

Philip and I sat on the couch and I smiled at him and was shy, as programmed. He reached out and took my hand and sipped his drink. He was nervous like he wasn't sure how to act or just what to say to me. But he began, "You're very young and very beautiful."

"Thank you, your Highness," I replied shyly.

Prince Philip reached out and put his arm around me and I leaned up and kissed him. He was younger and more squarely handsome in a homely kind of way than the old men I was used to. "This is just the beginning of a very wonderful evening," I said as I kissed him on the cheek. I knelt down in front of him, placing my carefully manicured hands on his knees and looked into his eyes as I started inching my hands near his crotch.

Quickly he said, "I'd like to enjoy looking at you this evening at the party, knowing you will be my dessert." I smiled up at him and nodded yes, then got up and sat back down by his side.

He stood and ushered me out to the other room without waiting for Rocky to come back to get us. I thought, "He didn't follow the rules," but it didn't seem to matter.

The beautifully dressed people at the party bowed to him all night, even the men. I sat off on a couch in a corner alone for some time and he just kept looking over at me and smiling. Since I was under mind control I couldn't think to accurately identify the Royal family structure and mistakenly thought to myself, "I wonder where the princess is, or if there is one?" In addition, I couldn't think to question or to know what I was actually involved in. This wasn't a large party and I didn't know or recognize the others.

Philip spoke very formally but didn't act how I thought a prince or a king was supposed to act. I had no way of understanding his position in the Royal family, but assumed that since everyone was bowing to him, he must be a king. He just kept looking at me like he was reminding himself of what was to come. Later, people began to leave, and they all took forever saying goodbye. Then some men in suits took us by limo to a hotel there in New York - a penthouse suite - and escorted us up to the room. I didn't know who the men were, if they were guards or his own security, but they acted like the Secret Service agents did. I had been given a white, full-length coat to wear. I felt like 'a princess' since I usually wasn't dressed quite that formally.

Once inside the room, he started to undress out of his formal clothes. "Please your Highness," I offered, "allow me." He sat on the bed while I took off my coat and kneeled down to take off his shoes, socks (with the elastic straps), and then I undid his cummerbund and unbuttoned his shirt very slowly and seductively while I kissed him gently all over his face. I rubbed his neck and shoulders for awhile and then took off his pants. He wore boxer shorts, the baggy kind.

Once he was undressed, he slowly took off my clothes, and then pulled back the sheets and laid me in the bed and began kissing me. He was passionate and didn't hurt me. I was sent to sexually service him at other times.

As usual, I was always kept in extreme isolation before and after I was taken to these parties and was deprived of food and water most of the time until I was delivered back to the airplane. I was told things to say to key people during the parties and continued delivering their important messages after the party, when I had sex with an individual they had pre-designated. When my job was finished, I was debriefed and put into isolation again before being flown back to my home in California.

Nelson Rockefeller continually accessed me by closed circuit television in California, especially before an upcoming event. I was programmed to drive to a local Holiday Inn, go to the front desk for a key, and then directly to room 222. It was there by closed circuit television that I was instructed what to do and what to say to certain individuals that I was soon to be connected to in Los Angeles, such as Barbra Streisand and other celebrities or individuals I would be seeing later at his parties.

One year Gerald and Betty Ford were there and another year Ronald and Nancy Reagan. There were always lots of celebrities, royalty from England, and leaders from countries all over the world.

Henry Kissinger took me to a Rockefeller party one year and kept coming back to me during the evening with instructions about whom to approach and what to say to them. He instructed me to approach Jackie Kennedy Onassis. He told me to tell her how much I respected her and the late president, and how I admired the way she picked up and went on after his assassination. Jackie smiled and displayed shy mannerisms when I first approached her. She said she was very happily remarried and her life was running as smoothly as could be expected. Later she told me she wished she could spend more time with Ari but that she understood he had lots of business dealings all over the world and was a busy man. Aristotle Onassis was not among the guests at the party. Another man escorted Jackie. He was very tall, dark and handsome. Noticing I was talking with her, this man returned by her side and escorted her to another room. He seemed to be very protective of her. Henry told me things to tell lots of people so I would be familiar to them and more trusted if they ever needed to send me in on them at a later date.

One of the rooms in the Rockefeller house was decorated in deep forest green with a rich green plaid that went half way up the wall. It was a beautiful house, full of beautiful wood and glass. It was decorated, of course, to the hilt. The front doors were massive wood and glass, and the entire estate was monitored by remote access televisions so someone inside the house could always see what was going on inside and outside on the grounds.

Happy Rockefeller wasn't called Happy for nothing. She drank a lot at their parties and later at the end of the evening they usually had to take her away because she was sloppy drunk. Henry got mad at Nelson about it but Nelson stuck up for her. Henry told Rocky that it looked very unprofessional and undignified, and that she should be kept away from the public eye, but Rocky wanted her there anyway.

Famous people who attended the Rockefeller parties had their identities protected. They arrived in limousines with tinted windows and in this way were protected from public exposure. The highly sophisticated alarm and monitoring systems that constantly scanned the grounds provided the security necessary for the VIP's who visited. No one was ever to disclose who attended the parties. On the surface the parties looked like mere social gatherings of friends, but they were much more, as secret and sensitive information was passed around a select group.

A small group of men always met in a back room after the party to discuss world strategies and business. It was not unusual for guests to spend the night, but only a select few were invited to the meeting.

At these private meetings, I watched the men who literally ran the world. Men who decided when it was profitable and/or strategically important and timely to start a war. They even had it planned who would begin the fighting and where. It always added up to big money, power, and control. At times, I was allowed into the room because they were aware that I was under mind control and my services were utilized in whatever way they needed to use me.

People in America think they elect their Presidents, but from what I witnessed, they do not as the process of putting them into office is a highly controlled and corrupt one. The media is so controlled that the American people never get the full and accurate story. The Presidents are selected long before they are 'voted' into office. It is no accident that Ronald Reagan and Pete Wilson won the governorship of California. It was rigged through financial, business, and political connections from this controlling group, headed by the Council, right down into various business and political factions, and then on down into the public arena.

They own the press. They own key television stations and famous anchormen. They have key people who own the newspaper companies. They buy magazine companies and own many large corporations that allow them to have leading edge media exposure, thus allowing them to control the information people see on the television news, read in newspapers and magazines, or hear on the radio. They are funded by the richest men and corporations in the world who get what they want, when they want it, by whatever means it takes to do so. They operate above the law, above the federal government.

I witnessed and recorded in my photographic memory many of these encounters as I was bounced around the globe in the company of varied and influential "people in the know."

Rockefeller Connections

Nelson Rockefeller was connected to Bob Hope and many people in positions of power Nixon, Ford, Reagan, and Bush - even before these men were Presidents.

At the Rockefeller mansion, there was a direct phone line to the White House that no one was supposed to know about. It was kept in a side closet behind a mirrored liquor cabinet. Nelson didn't even have to dial; he just picked it up and began talking. I couldn't understand what he was saying, but he often spoke about the Chase Manhattan Bank. There was a clear plastic box on the mouthpiece of this phone. I don't know the purpose for this device.

When I was at the mansion, Nelson called Reagan at times. He never told Reagan I was there. My instructions were to keep quiet.

John D. Rockefeller operated independently from the rest of the Rockefellers. There was animosity between John D. and the rest. They didn't like or trust him, so they kept secret their operations from him. They also didn't trust his political connections.

There was a very ornate, very 'old wealth' hotel in New York where I was set up to meet different people. This time they sent me in to "visit" John D. Rockefeller. The Council wanted to see if they could "win him over," so they could use him. I was preprogrammed in room 222 at the Holiday Inn in California and then sent to target him at that New York hotel. They dressed me in a small short black dress with black nylons, black heels and I carried a small black purse. I knocked at his door and he answered. He was about 5' 11" and on the stocky side with greying hair, nice face and skin. He had on a grey suit and white shirt and his tie was undone. He looked like he had been resting.

He asked me why I was there, and in a very upset voice, I screamed, "Someone's been shot!"
He said, "What!?" I told him again. Then he pulled me into the room and questioned me more. I said everything just like I was programmed to, but he didn't fall for any of it. He said, "I don't know who sent you but I'm not interested," and he showed me the door.
When I arrived back downstairs my contact said, "You're back so soon?" We left quickly through the large brass revolving door out into the cold, to an awaiting limousine.

Supreme Court Justices

Nelson Rockefeller was also the connection to some Supreme Court Justices who were old friends of his. They called him, "Old Rocky." I was sent in on different Supreme Court Justices and I was instructed to make sure neither judge talked about or knew that I was being intimate with the other. The Council knew just the perfect phrases to have me deliver in these situations that would shut the door to these judges ever mentioning our private, intimate experience to anyone, especially their colleagues. All these judges knew each other well. It was like an inside men's club and so the Council would tell me something no one would have known about judge so-and-so, and I would tell the judge I was with about it and that his colleague, judge so-and-so, was extremely sensitive about this subject. This would cause him to not want to have anything to do with the other judge and so it would be in that judge's favor to not ever mention our little affair. For example, they had me say, "I overheard judge so-and-so talking at a party and he was saying how distasteful he found it when men his age were dabbling with younger women. So to protect your relationship with him, it would probably be better for you if you never mentioned this evening with us together. Now I can understand perfectly well, how a man like yourself would desire and benefit from an evening with a young woman like myself. To be perfectly frank, it's very normal and healthy, but certain other old 'stick in the mud' judges just don't see things the same way. I'm sure you understand." And if the judge was convinced, then I had him locked into the secret and if not I would report back and my controllers would give me another tactic to slip in later, after this one had passed. I was trained to read their body and facial language early on. I was taught not to trust their words as much as their body language.

There were two very old Superior Court judges who I was sent in to seduce and probe for information. These very old men actually believed all the lines I told them about how attractive I found older men, how wise I knew they were and how I really appreciated maturity and experience over the younger men of the day. And I got them tipsy and then asked them questions very innocently, like I was just curious about a certain subject. They usually answered me in strictest confidences to help me understand how things worked. Sometimes their egos would get so inflated from all the flattering I delivered, that they would be flustered and say more than they probably normally should or would have. Even under mind control, it really made me lose my respect for old men - especially Supreme Court Justices, because they had no morals and totally believed and ate up all the lies. The Council sent me into many different areas within the government to "feel things out." I knew that meant to have sex and ask the questions I was directed to ask. They didn't say, "feel things out," if I was only to ask questions or give information.

Alan Greenspan and The Federal Reserve

I was assigned to be with Alan Greenspan. He is currently Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and controls the nation's economy by intentionally manipulating the Federal Reserve Banks and the Stock Exchange. Through this manipulation Alan is able to skim off monies for use within the shadow government. It is similar to money laundering only this is done at the highest levels, channeling huge amounts of monies into, among other things, classified, hidden government projects.

This agenda is tied into Henry Kissinger and Bob Hope. And is largely directed by the Rockefellers. David in particular was connected to the banking system and financial aspects of the New World Order. George Bush was also connected up very high in this plan.

The Stock Exchange was often nothing but a charade, publicly displaying one facade while privately carrying on a very separate, private agenda. This agenda is aimed at funding many branches of what is to be the new inner structure and workings of the New World Order--the One World Government. The financial infrastructure was put in place and further honed beginning in the 60's and by now it is well-greased and operating at full capacity with the target takeover by the year 2000. By the year 2000 all parties are to be in place, all subsidiaries are to be up and running optimally with direct funding coming from the large New World Order funded and controlled corporations of which there are many and which are multi-layered. There is a whole network of men who manipulate a lot of international business around the world, including the World Banking System. Chase Manhattan Bank was just the tip of a whole network of banks all over the world that were set with a framework to control the world economy and hide illegal funds. These illegal funds are never detected if they are distributed into the internal workings of this banking system. In the early years, I was programmed to make large deposits into banks all over the world. Many mind-controlled slaves were doing that work.

There are programmed people involved in global implementation all the way to the top in order to insure that by this time, through this generation, their plan will not fail. Mind control was and still is their failsafe mechanism intended to alleviate any human weakness or human interference. If the world's computer systems were to shut down, their systems, carefully created within the mind file systems of mind control victims, would continue to operate. Cryptic information passes to people in the know with the "eyes to see and the ears to hear," as I overheard them during Stock Exchange dealings cryptically refer to those involved with New World Order agenda. Those programmed are able to glean plans and agendas as well as command instruction while watching the stock trades on television or by their actual physical presence while there.

When I was sixteen, my future mother-in-law, Sara Ford, got me a job at a stock brokerage firm in Pasadena, called Independent Securities. Most people my age wouldn't have even been hired but I was "lucky" and unlike other new employees, didn't have to start in the mailroom. Instead I started work in the securities exchange room. There were cocktail parties attended by men and women in expensive clothes. There were more men than women and there were times when Mr. Hecht, Sara's boss and president of the company, briefed me on a certain "fellow" who I was to be especially nice to and was to "cater to," in an attempt to sway him to do business with Independent Securities. I was told to act naive, innocent and sweet because some of the "older gentlemen" preferred it that way. So that's what I did. I served drinks at the parties in order to have a substantial reason to interact with these wealthy gentlemen (potential investors).

Parts of me were filled with lots of information on stocks, bonds, annuities, the Federal Reserve and these parts knew exactly how the Federal Reserve manipulated business, corporations, and large investments for their own gain. Funds were amassed through the Federal Reserve for use in anything but what the funds were publicly portrayed as being used in. By the way, nobody audits the Fed, not even the IRS.

I was heavily used for both mind files and sex, but my mind file use during my teens and on into adulthood, always took priority as the Council, Henry, and others sent messages and information back and forth to each other without the risk of being publicly linked. For example, Henry would say when an international crisis would/could be created and what countries were to be involved. Then those players involved would get their monies or exchanges, step up to be in the right position to gain monetarily and then step out. There were lots of corporate men who backed these endeavors with money from their corporations. They fronted the money in exchange for favors from the Federal Reserve or politicians. Their needs were always researched by the Council to determine (before they went to the negotiating table) what would entice them most. The corporate owners were often targeted from many different positions like sending in other successful players who had profited considerably in the past, in order to further influence them to participate. Often at the final time I was sent in (if the corporate head was open to sex with a young woman), I was preprogrammed with line after line that was designed to hit them deep to get them to "our side" or to cooperate with the business venture.

Henry and Alan Greenspan worked hand-in-hand sending endless messages through me to coordinate many of these so-called "business ventures." They uploaded me with information in New York when I was there, usually for other Kissinger or Rockefeller business, or I was instructed via closed circuit television from California. I believe this was around 1967-68. 1 wheeled patients and old people to a closed circuit viewing of a church service on Sundays, at the Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital, where I went with my Sunday school teen class - the same church where there were rituals occasionally. Anyway, my class wheeled people from their rooms to watch a church service, via closed circuit television in the hospital. When the service was over, my friends went to take these patients for a snack and back to their rooms. I sat alone, my attention glued to the front of the close circuit television that sat on top of a metal stand on wheels. I knew from instructions to flip through the channels to 22, then pulled up the antenna and watched and listened carefully to instructions given. There were times when the man on the screen talked while he pointed with a pointer to figures on a chalkboard that I was to retain. Percentages, actuaries and places to go, people to meet, and things to say. I photographed with my mind the names, figures, etc., and listened carefully for dialogue I was to repeat to certain individuals like Reagan or Hope, and later Nixon or corporate heads. When it was over, it just cut off and the television went all fuzzy again but I was always instructed to change it back to a normal numbered station - preferably the one that had been on, so no one would detect. Church activities were used often as a front to get me to places where I was supposed to acquire further information for upcoming events. Then the occasional rituals or traumas at church were performed to keep all this information hidden. Reagan was governor during this time and I was given information over the closed circuit television to deliver to him. Later on, I delivered the information to him at places like the Motion Picture Hospital, where my mom worked.

The Rockefellers, especially Rocky, used me often during this time, but not without going to Henry first. Henry was still always in charge of me, but let Rockefeller use me to further his own interests. Henry would ask for "updates" on all of these other people's uses of me so he knew what was going on in lots of different circles at once. And, he would use any confidential information he found to further his own interests in business or government dealings. He found out the 'dirt' on others by debriefing me from my use with the Rockefellers or different corporate heads, then he or Bob would take advantage of the information to further their interests. He already had free access to the Federal Reserve information through Alan Greenspan and others, but he could tap into mind file data anytime he wanted or needed. After high school I took bookkeeping classes at the local junior college, alongside my psychology major.

At the base of some of my banking mind files was my bookkeeping coursework at Pierce College to which Henry then attached a framework for his use adding lots of data from classified documents, videos, etc. It was a very sophisticated system that worked on the inside of my mind while I was doing another job and then the completed reports were ready when Henry needed them. Henry sometimes gave those internal systems a day or week to come up with the final data. He often said this was the "brain of the future," making the need for computers obsolete. Henry said that, in the future, man would explore "inner space."

The Council was the glue that held the major corporations together at the very top, the large international corporations. The Council was above Henry Kissinger, their international political mastermind and Alan Greenspan who used the Fed to gain the money to fund and further their plan - to cement and make uniform the world economy for more efficient organization and ease of controlling.

Alan Greenspan had a lot of big business backing, thus furthering their banking deals. They laundered huge sums of money through subsidiary treasury banks so the action would be taking place off to the side in unnamed, unmonitored banks. That way the main Federal Reserve Banks, were kept freer to operate without detection. The plan covered the overall banking system so nothing could be traced. So if there were large sums of money that needed to be washed, they were put through the smaller, subsidiary banks that weren't being monitored, so no one would know. Sometimes these subsidiary banks ended up actually handling much larger sums of money and transactions than the larger Federal Reserve Bank in the same geographic area in order to hide the money laundering schemes. The way the system is set up, all monies from an area are supposed to funnel through the Federal Reserve Bank in that area in order to monitor many different things, so they can keep control of the money in specific geographic areas. With the large, washed funds filtering through the subsidiary banks, the laundering system did well and was never detected through the main Fed, which is highly monitored by Congress. Otherwise the Reserve would come up out of balance every step of the way, since so much money was laundered in certain areas and there was no way to begin to explain the large percentage of imbalance there would have been between even neighboring cities' or state's holdings.

The Federal Reserve had areas like political districts. In some areas, it was essential to have the subsidiary banks 'in place' in order to funnel the funds from covert operations. San Diego was one. Los Angeles was another and Hollywood was also. Wherever clusters of worker bees (mind control operatives) were located, money went into a subsidiary bank of the Federal Reserve to keep the funds continually channeling back to them. This was true in areas of immense illegal profit, like in Vegas, where the whole town was built on graft and everyone inside knew who got paid first so no one got hurt or stepped on.

I was constantly traveling to meet with members who were tied into the subsidiary Federal Reserve Banks. Pete Wilson, who at that time was a San Diego based Senator from California, was one.

These individuals tapped into my mind files for the Federal Reserve information and input banking information - everything from profit/loss standpoints to new account numbers in subsidiary banks that worker bees could be given to use to launder covert monies. Then, I reported it all back to Henry and I even had internal computer analyzers, bookkeepers, data compilers, statisticians, etc., that Henry created inside my mind file system so all the data/input that was delivered to me could be instantly filed, computed and readied for delivery to Henry. I also had a system to maintain the original information from individuals, so Henry could double-check my figures. He ran cross-checks, periodically setting me down and accessing information while he ran tabs on his calculator. This wasn't his job, it was Greenspan's, but Henry always double-checked and cross-checked everything to keep everyone honest and to make sure my systems were properly gathering and compiling, then computing, the information. It was as if I had a whole set of financial workers inside my head that were specially trained to handle all of this, like a computer program. I believe lots of the corporate heads that reported their earnings to me were not aware I was a robot. I even had to write down numbers for some of them, just for show, when they got overly concerned that I wouldn't be able to remember all they had reported to me. So, that observation leads me to believe that they weren't all aware of the mind control enhancements I had in place, guaranteeing I would perform to perfection.

Kissinger and Nelson Rockefeller's Plan

One day, Nelson Rockefeller was leaning over me in the back of the limo talking to Henry as if I didn't exist. They were talking about the advanced research projects on brain studies and they spoke as if they were the only intellectual elite capable of understanding the advanced technology, as compared to the "peons" as they called the uninitiated. They spoke of their elite dream of ridding the world of the non-thinking, the genetically inferior, the deficient people of the world, so they could have sole heir and control over the earth for advanced purposes. They spoke over me, leaning on me and using me as a table or having me hold their drinks, or Henry's cigar, while they conversed about erudite and diverse scientific topics.

There were times when Henry and Rocky planned lots of strategies between the ride in the car from New York to Washington, DC. Henry had a different type of smell - a European aroma and his suits always smelled of him and his cigars. He smoked cigars the whole entire way, at times they were Cuban. Often he blew the smoke right in my face and it was hard to breathe. Sometimes I couldn't tell what world I was in, the real world or the one "over the rainbow." It got extremely confusing at times but Henry told me to rely on those around me to help me know where I was. I was told, "like a pretty ballerina led through the dance steps by the perfect lead man, your partner is always a reliable mirror for you to see yourself in." New York and Washington, DC were my home away from home, but Henry made me keep my eyes closed often while we were in transit and frequently asked me, "Vhere do you think you are?"

I would try to answer, guessing our location and he would intentionally attempt to scramble my reality by telling me, "No, you're now in San Francisco," or some other place we weren't really. In front of me, Henry would tell Rockefeller that we were in Pennsylvania, when we were actually on Pennsylvania Avenue at the White House.

Henry and Rocky often placed me between them in the back seat. The glass partition was closed, shutting out the driver, creating the privacy they needed for their strategic planning. There was a television and a bar inside but they didn't drink alcohol, as they were very intent on what they were planning. Rocky often got all excited in regard to an agenda and he would tell Henry, "Put this message in for her to deliver to Nixon," or whomever the plan was for.

Henry placed the needle in between my knuckles and if I bled, he pulled out one of his fancy handkerchiefs to wipe it off. One time he joked to Rocky, "My vife vonders vhere all the kerchiefs she buys me are." He laughed and said he had to throw a lot of them away because he couldn't explain the blood spots. It was better for both of us when he was able to replace the needle with touch programs.

Rocky always agreed with Henry but Henry didn't always agree with Rocky. So in his coarse, froggy voice Rocky would say, "Okay, advise me." Then Henry would tell him how to correct the plan. Henry was always right with the people he was with. One day they talked about Happy, and Rocky said he was worried about her drinking. He told Henry he didn't know what to do.

Henry said, "You need to get her into a program."

Henry's Love for His Friend Rocky

Henry and Rocky got along extremely well. Henry genuinely laughed when he was with Rockefeller. He seemed to love to be with him. Henry really wanted him to be president and said that then they could have really been a team. Henry said it was fruitless, that Rockefeller would only lose anyway and it wasn't worth risking the whole party's success by running someone who couldn't win. Henry said Rockefeller didn't have enough popular following, despite his name, and that people would hold his wealth against him, since he was already publicly known to be rich. Henry thought it was really smart of Bob to cloak his wealth for as long as he was able to. He explained that most people didn't like their leaders to be rich, he said, "well off would pass, but not rich."

Henry's first thought usually was "How will the masses react to this?" What will their attitudes and impressions be?" He decided what they needed to think and then he went about structuring his eventual desired outcome. "May take awhile, but we've got time. We'll just work on them until we get them the way that we want them. Then they will be happy and we will be happy because we made them that way."

San Francisco

I was only a teenager, and was in San Francisco with my mom and dad and Craig. I was taken from my family and men in suits escorted me through metal gates, almost like a prison, into a big building with cement floors. They took me into a noisy room where a machine was printing sheets of money. There was lots of money! A man who worked there said, "The boss says to inflate it. There's a munitions deal comin' down and we don't want the Fed (reserve) to show a surplus in this area."

One of the men holding my arm said, "Okay," and stepped aside.

I delivered the message, "The dock at 5," and was immediately escorted back out. They took me down a hall and out past a turnstile into a black sedan and put me in the back seat, pushed my head down and we drove away.

There were lots of arms and drug shipments in San Francisco and they raised and lowered the amount of money in the Federal Reserve to hide the activity in the area. They had to inflate it when there was no drug or munitions activity, so when there was, it would be even and steady and won't show the influx of the money into the area. I was taken to many large buildings, with high fences and guards.

On another one of our so-called trips to Frisco, I was taken from the St. Francis Hotel where I was sitting in the restaurant with my parents and Craig. When the men in suits arrived to get me, I had on a yellow dress and went into the bathroom and removed from my large leather purse, a carefully folded, white form-fitting sleeveless shift that my mom had made for me. I had never worn it before. After I changed and put on a small white-veiled pill box hat and fixed my hair, which had been professionally teased and ratted into a flip, I went out from the bathroom where a suited man took my arm and led me out a back entrance of the hotel. It was cold and foggy, and I had short sleeves and no jacket. I didn't know where Craig or my parents had gone. The man in the suit took me out to a black car and put me inside and told the driver, "Deliver the young lady downtown, like we discussed." I just sat in the back seat and the driver rolled up the window between the seats. Another man stopped the car on the docks and came around, got me out, and replaced my little white hat with a wide brimmed one and told me to go down to a ship, and pointed his finger in its direction. I walked down there and it was still very cold. I stood by a big ship until a man brought me aboard. Then I waited in a room, in "park mode" until a man came up to me and said, "I'm Fred."

I replied, "Pier 69," and he pushed me away. I walked back to the dock where the driver was waiting and he waved me back into the car and took me back to the hotel. I changed back into my yellow dress and went back to meet my mom and dad and Craig in the restaurant. I never got to eat what I ordered.

I returned to San Francisco many times over the years, for different assignments, some including the United States Mint. Henry said there were some jobs that just had to be taken care of from the inside, so he sent me there, often in conjunction with an agenda from Alan Greenspan. One time, I was heavily disguised as a male and armed with false security badges.

At other times, another slave accompanied me and we were both disguised as males.

In the early years of the late 60's before Craig and I were married and then in the early 70's after we were married, we often drove up the California coast to Lake Naciamento with friends or family to waterski during the summer. Craig and I often took side trips where he would take me to San Francisco for the day or to other places in the California Redwoods, where there would be private meetings held and Henry needed me there for mind file usage.

Lee Iacocca

I delivered many names of banks and available subsidiary bank account numbers to many corporate owners, including Lee Iacocca. They continually changed the accounts so they couldn't be traced and sent me all over to sleep with and/or deliver account numbers to corporate heads all over the nation. I was even flown from place to place on corporate Lear jets in order to deliver account numbers comfortably and in an entertaining manner, with security features included, to corporate heads.

Lee had monopolies with other big corporations, international ones, and he also owned parts of major utility companies. I heard him talk on his personal phone often. It was a big deal back in those days for a man to have a portable phone, and he had one he wore under his jacket. I traveled the skies with Lee Iacocca, doing whatever he needed in his private jet. There was lots of room inside, but it wasn't a fancy one at first. I polished his shoes, gave him oral sex, whatever he wanted.

I performed oral sex on Lee Iacocca on his Learjet before giving him the number for the new accounts he needed to use, plus some other information from Henry. I was instructed to offer, "Can I take your glasses, Mr. Iacocca?" And after he was satisfied, I was to smile and say, "I hope you were pleased."

Lee insisted on these information transfers happening in the private confines of his jet for security and I had to wear disguises to board and deboard the jet. I just looked like a maid or at other times a secretary. Never the same disguises, and for Mr. Iacocca I had to even wear some of the tooth disguises while getting on and off the plane. He always had me remove them once we were airborne and then I removed my clothing disguises in exchange for something more comfortable and appropriate for traveling.

Lee Iacocca wore a tie block with a gold chain on it. I sat next to him, put my head on his shoulder and played with his chain before I unzipped his pants and performed oral sex. He was kind enough to hand me a handkerchief to wipe my face afterwards and then he took a quick nap. He said it always cleared his mind to take a quick nap but not a long one because that type made him feel thick-headed.

I usually accompanied him on a business trip he already had planned. There were other stops after him and I seldom flew back with him, but instead connected with another flight or different people that Henry wanted me to see.

If I began to remember the Lee Iacocca information, I was programmed to jump off tall buildings. "You will have the compulsion to jump," they said to me at UCLA, after I'd been drugged and was lying on an exam table listening to my instructions via earphones.

Drug Operations

New York City was a major area of operation and I was taken there often to make drug connections for Nelson Rockefeller and the CIA. I think Rockefeller was manipulated by the CIA. I think they may have blackmailed him for things that they knew about him. I don't know for sure.

In New York, the Times Square Clock Tower was the site of many drug deals with Rockefeller and the CIA working together. On one deal my programming and information was as follows: "Meet me in Times Square. You will be known by your fruits. Go to the fruit stand and buy (always different combinations of fruit) an apple, two pears, a banana and two oranges, then walk over and sit on the bench and set your fruit out next to you on the bench so it can be seen. Give the man who sits down and eats the apple the message. Only give the message if he eats the apple. Give no one else the message." Once the man arrived and ate the apple, the message was to tell the man where to pick up the drugs.

It was dangerous business and they stationed three men on rooftops who were armed with high-powered rifles to protect and watch over the drug deal. They said that I was too important an asset to risk losing. Years before, I had been programmed to say to anyone who attempted to access me without permission, "Hi, stupid. Men who don't value their life mess with me when my owner is not around. But it's the last time they ever do."

Opium, heroin, and cocaine sales went down. All I had to do was to tell them where it was located.

There were also drug deals locally in California. These took place over the years at Disneyland, Busch Gardens, Knott's Berry Farm, World Fairs and other public places. These transactions occurred when I was with other people, like my family or friends, who took me to the location under the guise of 'a day of entertainment.' I was instructed to deliver information to a man who made himself known to me. My controllers told me what type of clothing the man would be wearing and what color hat. When I saw the target that matched the physical description that I was preprogrammed to look for, I excused myself from my friends and family, telling them I had to go to the bathroom. When the target made contact with me, I would ask him a question, like, if he wanted a 'Twinkie.' If he said yes, then I'd deliver the message to him. There was always a precise word combination he would have to say back to me in response to my question. Then and only then would or could I robotically deliver the message.

There were numerous drug and/or munitions transactions that I was used to facilitate that took place all over the world in conjunction with other outings I was taken on.

Reagan was in New York often. It was called a "Double Whammy" when I would sleep with and deliver a message to Reagan, and then deliver the message back to the Council. I usually had sex with Reagan after the drug deals. I don't think he knew about them. It was a separate deal. But, they combined the two jobs for me into one time frame, for efficiency.

Mondavi Winery

Robert Mondavi had a Lear jet. Craig took me to the Mondavi Cellers in Napa Valley, California in the wine country. There was a man to whom I was programmed to give numbers of accounts that Alan Greenspan had set up for him to launder certain monies through. I never spent the night with Craig during that trip through the wine country, though it was supposed to be our time away together, for just the two of us. All I consciously remembered until later was stopping at winery after winery, yet I usually didn't taste the wine. I slept with Mr. Mondavi; he always wore a suit or very nice casual clothes. He was "dapper," as Bob would say.

Big Sur, California

When Craig and I went to Big Sur for weekends away, we often went to a beautiful restaurant called Napenthe. It was located on a crag overlooking the ocean and at night it took on a magical glow, cast by the many tiny candles lit all over the restaurant. Craig got us a nice table and we sat down and then a switch would occur. When he got up to go to the bathroom, another man came and sat down next to me in Craig's place. I ended up having sex and delivering a message to this man. There were many such occasions where Craig "moved over" and changed places with governors, or presidents, or entertainers - whomever my controllers needed me to be with.

"For there is nothing covered up, that will not be revealed; or hidden that shall not be known. Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have whispered in private rooms shall be proclaimed upon the housetops."
-- Luke 12: 2-3

Chapter Fifteen: Hope and Kissinger Utilize the Kennedy Family

I remember being taken to a place where a huge green lawn defined by a white fence traveled as far as the eye could see. From what I understood, this was the home of the Kennedy family for generations. Joseph and Rose, the older Kennedys lived there. There was a big two-story white house that had a porch on the outside and a big circular driveway in front. This is where the Kennedy family met for family gatherings and annual reunions. Joe and Rose invited the entire family. I was there, dressed as a maid for the day, in a black dress and little white apron. It was my job to deliver the "goodies" on a silver platter. But there were lots of maids on hand for these types of occasions so when I slipped off with one of the Kennedy men, I wasn't missed. I usually started off serving hors d'oeuvres, but when a Kennedy man approached me and gave me the eye, I was instructed to continue holding my tray, so it still looked like I was working as we walked into the house. Then we would go to a back bathroom or bedroom for sex. Later, I would reappear, carrying my tray of food. Then I would mingle and usually would be approached again, so the whole routine started all over again and I would sexually service another of the Kennedy men.

I got started "maidtressing," as Bob jokingly called it, at their parties when I was a young preteen, "going on twenty-five," when I went there the first time. The younger men in the family selected me but it didn't take long for the word to get around and the older men wanted a try. I looked older than twelve.

The programmed personality for these parties felt that JFK taught me a lot. He played with me in a teasing, fun-loving way, so different than Ted who was so violent. After dinner JFK often went into the family television room. He sat on the couch, put his feet up on the coffee table and leaned back to watch television. He liked to have a short afterdinner drink. He didn't care if he was watching alone, he laughed and laughed at the shows he watched. He was an unusually cheerful man most of the time.

When JFK was assassinated, they told me before they did it, and after they had killed him they said to me, "He is the President and we can make him live or make him die and no one would ever miss you should you step out of line. Then we would have to take care of you, like your little boyfriend JFK."

It was sad the year JFK died. Everyone wore black and Rose, sitting in her wheelchair, kept crying. It was a very sad affair. I think the sex was down that year because evidently some of the men were genuinely grieving. Jackie cried a lot at family parties after he died. She had a hard time adjusting at first but the Kennedy family stood by her and helped her. She sat with the ladies and cried, and they listened and supported her.

Ted Kennedy was brutal. He was one of the most violent and meanest men I was with. He liked to have sex with me anywhere and everywhere he could, but he especially liked to have sex in cold climates in rooms with a fireplace. One place had a big rock fireplace and he made a big fire and then wanted to have sex all night. When he neared orgasm he would slap and beat me. He hit me so hard it felt like my head would explode. Then in his proper Kennedy accent, he would call me a "c--t." He liked to tie my arms over my head to the headboard or if there wasn't anything to attach my hands and wrists to, he would tie them tightly together. Lots of times he made me stay tied up for a long time. He liked to hand cuff me also. He was really into bondage and if I ever neared any sexual pleasure he would start hitting and slapping me, and once that began it was like he couldn't stop himself and quickly escalated into extreme violence. He seemed to require that in order to orgasm.

I was flown to him in the New England States. At dusk, we walked outside together in a forest. There was a real chill in the air. He told me to strip and I was forced to take my clothes off outside in the cold. He ordered me to dance around the forest like I was a fairy. Then he laughed like he was drunk or out of his mind. He had a rifle with him and he shot it into the air and it really scared me. He said he shot the gun just so my nipples would stand up.

There were other times after he finished violently satisfying himself with me that he would break down and cry. He was very disturbed. But the hurting he delivered never stopped. He used me often until I was just over twenty-five.

Bob offered my services to the Kennedys any time they wished. He said they could count on my yearly service at their family get-togethers. Bob told them, "It's so nice to get good help and it's so wonderful when they are versatile!" Then he laughed and pointed to me. So I was sent in year after year.

Over time, I had to have sex with all of the Kennedy men, including little John. He wasn't very old when they first brought him to me. Probably about twelve. They believe in training their males at an early age by expert women so that they will continue the Kennedy power that they felt was derived from sex. In their eyes to have sex was to be powerful.

Rose seemed to be a matriarch. From what I saw, she ran the family. She seemed to influence Joseph's decisions in business and would make it known when the family sat down to eat, usually at very long tables. She gave an update on their lives and then went on to give information on family business investments, trade, etc. Some relatives took notes and must have gone right home and followed through on Rose's suggestions. After she finished she would smile and look around at her family with such love. Then she sat down. Rose had a very commanding presence about her. She had more dignity than I witnessed in the Royal family in England. She just demanded respect and she got it. They seemed to treat her very carefully, not ever wanting to offend her. They had very formal, picture perfect dining tables and dinners, complete with a huge staff of waiters and waitresses. I hardly ever had to work as a waitress because usually one of the men would get a 'headache' or have to 'go to the bathroom' before, during, or after dinner. Instead, I was more often in a side bedroom wearing a skimpy french maid's uniform and sexually satisfying one the of the Kennedy men. I was never instructed to do two at once, though - they politely took turns. As far as I know, Rose never discovered their secret game.

Bob continually offered the Kennedy family clan my services, for free, and kept sending me there. So the Kennedys and Bob always had a good thing going, always scratching each other's back. Bob played golf with one or more of them and took me along to caddy, when they visited him in the Springs. There were times when three other sex slaves and I would have sex with one of them. The Kennedy men can't have too many women. I don't think all of the Kennedys golfed. Ted came along even if he didn't golf. He would get a room on the golf course and perform violent sex on me. Afterwards he would drag me back to Bob, who would be in the middle of his game and Bob would absentmindedly tell him to leave me with him. Bob was so focused on his game he didn't notice if I had blood on my face or body, or if I was a wreck, and I would have to follow Bob on the green and do whatever he asked until we left the golf course. Then he would want me to get down on my knees and give him oral sex in the back of the limo.

The Kennedys usually had their own means of transportation and drove separately. It seemed like it must have been in the family will that they had to drive in their own limos, with their own drivers. But Bob took advantage of us being alone in his limo; he never missed the chance for sex.

My daughter Kelly was prostituted to the younger Kennedy men. They had a lot of boys. The Kennedy boys were taught early how to 'handle' their women. And I was there to teach them about sex and they were learning how to handle a slave. They knew they could have anything they wished from me, and that I was totally subservient. They weren't old enough to be trusted with the full mind-control information. They had to be initiated first into the family secrets.

Kelly and I sometimes worked together at the Kennedy's. Sometimes Ted liked to have the "motherdaughter sex team" that our controllers programmed us to be. Ted always violently hurt us both. He had a son, who liked to pick Kelly for sex. He took her off by the hand when she was still a little girl, and he was much older.

All the Kennedy brothers - JFK, Ted, and Robert - had sons, and there were a lot of other elite families who carried the same sexual beliefs in regard to their men. And Bob gave me to lots of them, as he arranged for them to have me inconspicuously at their parties as a "maidtress."

I overheard Rose talk about the fact that some of the Kennedy money was tied directly into NASA "subprojects" they funded and somehow there was a huge profit from it. That's why there's the Kennedy Space Center. NASA is much more than it seems. Research has included "inner space stations," which was the term I heard used at times in relation to the mind. The Kennedys always wanted to be on the leading edge of technology. "First is best," they said. Rose was a shrewd businesswoman. She delivered the facts while Joe sat beside her. It definitely looked like she wore the pants in the family.

I never did have sex with Joe. He was elderly and mostly sat around and talked. I think he knew about me, though. I could tell by the look in his eyes that he somehow understood, but I believe that his sons kept the truth from him about my being under total mind control. I overheard Ted say to one of his brothers that, "he wouldn't be able to understand the technology." This leads me to believe that Joe was unaware of the mind control technology.

The wives and women in the Kennedy clan seemed oblivious of what was going on. Once they got together and began talking they didn't seem to notice where their husbands, sons, boyfriends, etc. were. The men sent me in to serve them tea when they were all together so the women would see me being busy. But I usually had sex with many of their husbands, sometimes more than once, before the party was over. I served the women tea an inordinate amount of times so they wouldn't suspect that I was doing anything else.

They even brought in other people's sons who were not relatives, but they were somehow connected to the family - maybe through distant marriage or something. They switched me, gave me instructions and then gave me their son. They wanted all these young men to carry on in the Kennedy tradition. If they were not actually close family relatives they would say they wanted them to lend their support always to the Kennedy family. It seemed like a one for all and all for one type situation.

Rose approved of Jackie. She thought Jackie was the greatest and spoke to her often at family gatherings. Joan Kennedy was always jealous of everyone, especially her sisters-in-law. She often drank until she got drunk and obnoxious. "An embarrassment to the family," is what they always said. And Ted treated her awfully.

As Joe got older, he was confined to a wheel chair. The last time I saw him he was tied into his wheelchair and had some sort of IV or oxygen unit with him. Then he died and wasn't there the next time I went. I knew because I was updated, by closed circuit television (room 222), what the family news was so I could have appropriate conversations with the Kennedys. They are connected to the Council and represent them heavily. Joseph Kennedy was big in business and had holdings that were well connected. What I overheard was that when their money was connected, it was protected and thereby guaranteed a place in the power structure. But the money, the big money, had to come before a person was accepted. The theory was that if a person could amass money then it proved they were smart enough, and if they knew how to get it 'connected' then they were pliable enough, and if they followed through on what was asked of them they could become RICH and FAMOUS. Then all that was left to do was to create a media public identity to portray whatever image they wanted projected by the media industries they funded. It was all a big cycle where one fed into another and they all ended up on top.

Bob knew the protocol with the Kennedy family. He was always kind and gracious and giving, and his nasty jokes about the elite were watered down whenever it came to any of the Kennedys because he didn't ever want to be in disfavor with them.

Bob also sent me to different vacation spots around the world, to entertain certain members of the Kennedy family. He never minded paying what he called, "Big bucks," to fly me to someone who could make a difference. Then he would say, "Ah, yes!" and get that little sly smile on his face. He knew that the connections into powerful leaders and influential people would pay off very handsomely. So he didn't mind paying to fly me, and later, me and "my little filly," as he called Kelly, all over the world, sometimes on the Concorde.

"So I declare to you, brothers, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does their perishable inherit the imperishable. Listen, I tell you a mystery: We will not all sleep, but we will all be changed - in a flash, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet."
-- 1 Corinthians 16

Chapter Sixteen: Viva Las Vegas

The Council targeted and used areas like Las Vegas and Tahoe that drew large crowds. They also were aware that when people were drinking alcohol and watching a show, their subconscious minds were even more open to taking in deeply what they were viewing. They knew all about harmonics and they used people who were big stars to deliver their messages. There were times when they didn't have their programmed entertainers in place at shows, so they didn't have an inside connection to the show talent in order to direct them to deliver their messages to the crowd. If this occurred they would send someone to attend the show. Preferably before the show or at intermission, this person would request of the master of ceremonies to ask this entertainer to say some specific words in a certain order, explaining that it would mean so much to a certain special person in the audience, and then they would slip the M.C. a large sum of money. Later on, the celebrity performing the show would deliver the preplanned words that were meant to have an "intended programmed effect" on certain programmed mind-controlled slaves in the audience. If the performer was under mind control he or she would have been preprogrammed to deliver the activating messages during the performance.

Metro Goldwyn Meyer (MGM) Grand was synonymous with the Mob and the Hollywood celebrity connection in Vegas. The hotels were small complex microcosms of an otherwise corrupt group of mobsters owning their share of 'the strip.' The hotels were a way of sorting their interests.

Bob Hope had ties to the MGM Grand and directly to the Mob that owned and ran it. I was used there with many mobsters; wealthy men who were sometimes ruthless but many times seemed to have large emotions and loyalties to certain causes.

Vegas held a lot of memories for me in the late 60's and early 70's, during the peak of my use with Hope, Nixon, Reagan, Kissinger and others. To insure their secrecy, I was taken to Vegas for "reconditioning" every so often. These times included trauma to keep the experiences sequestered from my conscious mind. After my children were born, they tied the memory of the trauma to threats used to remind me of the safety or lack of it for my children in order to keep their secrets really safe. These mob guys (Sicilian mostly) had lots of money and power in their own respective territory. That was as far as their power went, so they created a network amongst each other to insure their power in many places. They formed links to government 'political' figures in an effort to insure that they didn't lose their precious 'holdings' in areas that counted. Drugs, porn, baby sales, prostitution--they made their money wherever they could in order to keep their holdings.

After I sexually serviced Bob Hope in Vegas, I would often be visited by one of his mob buddies who would "give me the treatment." That meant drug me, isolate me, and rape me whatever trauma it took to keep my programming intact for use with Bob, the "Prez" and others. They were brutal, and knew just how to terrorize me but not physically damage me too much just inflict a lot of pain. The Mob was very connected to Bob and various government operations, and had their own pecking order that needed to be followed to insure that a person stayed alive. The Council was above the Mob, above the government, and literally coordinated how things went down with the Mob; and ultimately was instrumental in taking away much of their power and then redistributing it as needed.

During the trauma the mobsters sometimes called me "deafling," and told me the walls in Vegas had eyes and ears and could watch and hear me at all times, and that there were powerful men there who could see me all the time.

Frank Sinatra

Bob gave me to "Uncle Frankie" one night after Frank Sinatra did a show in Vegas. Frank liked to use whips and chains and those very scary leather straps with me. He liked to orgasm while I was lying there on my back with him on top, while he continually tightened the leather strap around my neck until I was nearly dead - at that point he could orgasm. I had sex with him often and did the things he told me to do. One time he told me to go over to the man wearing the diamond stickpin and give him a message, "I love you..." I wasn't able to retrieve all of this memory because it turned into carousel rides, whirling, spinning, like a top, so I couldn't think to remember. This programming is called spin programming and is intended to disorient and confuse. The whirling feeling I felt in my brain was often combined with hearing a popular song playing in my head, as the lyrics reminded me, "I'm so dizzy my head is spinning."

The whole Las Vegas scene was always an extremely painful nightmare for me. I was subjected to lots of violence there from Frank Sinatra, "to keep all the little secrets quiet," he said. He was brutal to me. He tied me up, down, tied my wrists together, slapped me over and over, used bright lights, raped me and strapped me with a leather belt. Vegas was never fun. Porn was also filmed there and I was prostituted to high government officials and friends of Bob. Uncle Frank took care of the "security" so I didn't ever step out of line. The consequences were disastrous every time I stepped out of line. There was a number system that measured things I did wrong - if I disobeyed in any way, I was marked down a certain number of points. Only I didn't ever know what the number system was or how it worked. So I never knew if I'd reached the point where I had to be "taken care of." It was very scary and I was always confused and couldn't think because I didn't know, couldn't remember, what it was that was bad to do. So I was afraid everything I was doing could cause some point to be added or taken away. They kept score for years and the stakes went up after I had the kids. Then they threatened to hurt them or when the kids were older they put me in front of all three of my children, and got very close to killing me, in order to traumatize all of us, so we wouldn't remember. In later years my little daughter, Kelly was often prostituted to many famous and sexually perverted men, including pedophiles like George Bush, Mickey Rooney and others.

Uncle Frank was younger than Bob, and Bob said Frank could run faster to catch me if the need ever arose. Uncle Frank was the single worst heavy with me - except for Ted Kennedy, Francois Mitterand, and my own father. Frank was very scary and I reported to him directly in Vegas. I met with him upstairs and listened and followed his every direction. I went into a hypnotic trance and listened carefully, and then he would snap his fingers to switch me into another personality, and later on I would do everything as he commanded.

"Uncle Frank" told me who to sit by at the baccarat, black jack or crap tables. He told me what to say to certain men, where and how to have sex with them and gave me a key to the rooms to take them to. These men had two hours of sheer luxury and sex, and sometimes it ended with me soaping them down and redressing them. Sex, whipped cream, chocolate sauce, whatever they wanted for added pleasure. Whips and chains and leather straps, that Uncle Frank often used to nearly strangle me, were provided to these men.

Frank was very private about his private life - to the point of violence if anyone ever asked him anything. Bob had to remind Frank that I was of small stature and told him he didn't want him to "break anything" on me. Frank could get very carried away. Once, he grabbed my hair and kept pushing my head into a full tub of water until I couldn't breathe and was gagging, choking and grasping for air. Uncle Frank was the one who made me really sick in Vegas. He nearly killed me and knew all kinds of ways to torture a person. I saw him break a guy's arm on the corner of a desk, very easily, like it was a pretzel. The guy fainted. He loved to do stuff like that to people. But I did the men Uncle Frank told me to, and did the best job I possibly could, or there would be retaliation. If I didn't perform to their standards I got hurt very badly. Uncle Frank would throw me up against walls and when my body hit, I felt like I was broken. "Body slams," he called them, and I got a lot of those. He nearly killed me after I was with some darkskinned, foreign leader dressed in a white robe with a white turban on. This man was brutal also. Frank shaved my pubic hair for this man. That was also scary. Frank told Bob he wanted to do it himself, so he took me into the bathroom in the hotel and took one of those big electric shavers and made me lie down on the floor and spread my legs so he could shave me. He pinched and nicked me with that razor, and just laughed when I jumped from the pain. Tears were running uncontrollably down my face, I wasn't allowed to cry but somehow, sometimes I just couldn't help it. One of the personalities that dealt with Uncle Frank was tied directly into a system of reporting personalities, led by 'Sandy,' my main reporting personality. These personalities reported everything that happened, out of trauma-conditioning, training and terror, with no ability to lie or protect themselves.

Often I was given instruction by a group of men in a darkened, smoke-filled room in Vegas. The man in charge of the security area I entered, knew me, and always waved me through. These men seemed to operate above the law, above the rules, and had connections inside lots of casinos. The messages I delivered were gambling tips, information about drug and guns deals, and other illegal and hidden agendas. "Number 9 on the line," was a code I was given and was sent in on many different men with a pre-programmed agenda. I was told a man's physical description and where he would be at a precise time. I met him and delivered the messages I was told to relay. If the man wanted more, I was instructed to "follow through," if they wanted sex. At times, though, I was told to "give them the slip," if my controllers didn't want me to have sex with them.

These top men all knew to watch out for me and someone was always "keeping an eye" on what I was doing. My father or mother just disappeared, as usual; I don't know where they went or what they were doing while I was working for my controllers in Vegas. My father had connections to these men, but they tried not to be seen together. They exhibited secret hand signals to each other from a distance. I watched as my father performed these signals, and in Vegas he always wore his diamond pinky ring. He raised his hands, crossed his arms and displayed his first two fingers. Then he shook his arms down once. A man watching him mirrored the same motion back to him then scratched his nose, after which they immediately turned away from each other. My father took me up to our hotel room where he escorted me around the room and "cued" me to certain things in the room. I was given suggestions that whenever I touched the gold fixtures in the bathroom I would forever forget what I'd been involved in. While holding my right shoulder with his hand, my father gave me the suggestion, "you will open the door, normally, and naturally, wide awake and ready for work, whenever I knock twice." He knocked twice on the door to demonstrate. He cued me to the telephone, either instructing me to answer it or later on when I was married to let Craig answer. At times my father would bring clothing, jewelry, or props for assignments. In a total trance state, I listened intently while he filled my head with instructions - times to report to different room numbers, who to look for and the message to deliver. My father would "snap me out of it," by snapping his fingers. There were times he slapped me to access different personalities.

Sometimes they had me so booked with men for sex that they had to program me to go to the bathroom in between men; I was so robotical I wouldn't remember to go to the bathroom or even be able to feel that I had to. I was just one big act, as I went from room to room with sometimes as many as four men a night. Each man had to have at least two hours. Bob said that was minimum time to have to wind up and then have to wind down (he pretended he was screwing something tightly and then he changed directions and started humping). I looped all around the hotels, from room to room, having sex with men. I was instructed to start at 8 p.m. and then did another man at 10, and one at 12, and the last at 2. At 4 a.m. I was finished. It was a nightmarish swirl of endless men. I performed the sex acts, was electroshocked in between and then switched personalities and went on. They were Bob's friends, Uncle Frank's friends, mob connections, entertainers and politicians. They had lots of friends between the two of them. They nearly owned Congress.

Uncle Frank reminded me I'd be meeting St. Peter if I didn't cooperate and toe the line. He told me about St. Peter at the Pearly Gates and explained why I would be there - which was because he needed to kill me because I stepped out of line. This was in the late 60's and early 70's, before my kids were born. Once they were born these men used threats related to my kids to terrorize me. Bob would throw his arm around Uncle Frank's neck, wink at him and say, "Take care of her Frank." That's when I knew I had gotten out of line again and was terrified, waiting in anxious anticipation for my punishment. Frank slapped me over and over, sometimes until my cheeks were stinging and burning like they were on fire. Then he would throw his head back and laugh. He was obviously very sadistic.

Sometimes Bob would fly in just to have a quick meeting with Frank. Sometimes I flew with him for a quickie.

Brutal pornography was filmed at the Landmark Hotel in Vegas during my late teens and early 20's (196874). They used costumes and sex toys, and had themes for the porn that was often violent. At times people were killed in the porn. They didn't kill me because I was a programmed asset and they had far-reaching plans for me.

Uncle Frank could have had me killed if he wanted to. He had friends who killed people quickly and neatly. He showed me what his friends could do and I was forced to watch as they tortured and killed people. Then I knew I could be snuffed at any moment and that everyone, including Bob, knew what I was doing. I couldn't comprehend that there wasn't any mysterious, miraculous reason why they knew exactly where I was; in essence, they knew because they had sent me there! In my programmed reality I believed that my controllers magically knew everything I did.

Uncle Frank played the following song for me to listen to, the words of which I will write as well as my memory serves me:

"Anybody here seen my ole' friend John? Can you tell me where he's gone?
You meet a lot of people but it seems the good they die young,
you just look around and they're gone.

Anybody here seen my ole' friend Martin? Can you tell me where he's gone?
You meet a lot of people but it seems the good they die young,
you just look around and they're gone.

Anybody here seen my ole 'friend Bobby? Can you tell me where he's gone?
You meet a lot of people but it seems the good they die young,
you just look around and they're gone."

While I listened, strapped to a chair, Uncle Frank sat and tapped his foot and when the song was finished he asked me, "You got that?" Then he slapped me over and over. He said the Kennedy brothers got what they deserved for being stupid and stepping out of line. He said, "At anytime you could be next if you get stupid on me." I still feel like crying when I hear that song.

Tahoe was connected to the Mob also and many entertainers performing in Vegas and Tahoe/Reno were used by the Mob. I believe Helen Reddy and Karen Carpenter may have been manipulated also. I was programmed to some of Karen Carpenter's songs and felt very sad when she died, like I knew her. I believe she was also under mind control. Bob supplied the Mob with illegal business and access to his political connections, and they supplied him with protection and connections all over the world. They were networked up, and inter-linked all over the place. There were certain favorites in Vegas that Bob shared me with.

Jimmy the Greek was a very scary mobster to me. He would threaten to kill me if I even looked the wrong way. He constantly changed his mind about what he wanted and it was hard to please him or to get what he instructed right. He would tell me to do something and then he would change his mind, but forget to tell me. He slapped me to the ground for not doing what I was told. He set up connections in Las Vegas and was in charge of sending me out to targeted individuals, but he always "wanted a little," before he sent me to have sex with someone else. I remember his visual image in my mind as a dark-complexioned mobster, and he spoke in that 'kind of mob accent' - broken and slangish English. He spoke in different sing-songy "lines" and I didn't always know what they meant. He gave me a message for Bob and included some phrase about a "donkey's tail" or "elephant's ears" and, at that time, I didn't know what the message meant. Now that I am free of mind control, of course I can tell what the nature of the messages were that were being sent through me, and this one obviously was referring to the political parties. He wore a diamond pinky ring on his left hand. I think wearing diamond pinky rings on their left had meant something, because my father also wore his diamond pinky ring whenever he took me to Vegas.

Jimmy the Greek directed me often in Vegas and set me up with people I was to be prostituted to. Of course, the Council had previously pre-programmed me for use with the people Jimmy the Greek put me with. I don't know how they all knew whom I was going to be with, but Bob Hope, Henry Kissinger and the Council always decided ahead of time. Maybe Jimmy was working for them in Vegas.

During the late 60's and 70's, lots of big names were in Vegas and I was prostituted to them at night. Elvis, Sammy Davis, Jr., Ed McMahon, Johnny Carson, Jimmy Dean, and others. My father took me to Vegas until I was over twenty-one years old, after that, my husband and I went without my parents. Craig would take me up to the room after a dinner show and tell me he would be back later, that he was going down to gamble. I often begged my husband not to leave me, but he acted like I was overreacting and would leave me anyway. Soon after he left, the men in suits would come and get me, and I would be taken to perform for our controllers.

More About Elvis ...He Was Also A Robot

The Mob and others had hold of Elvis Presley. Uncle Frank sent me in on Elvis to perform "favors." I was instructed to have sex with him and tell him things that they wanted him to know or say in a show or a song, or to do. If he didn't do as they said, they threatened or tortured him or "his ole lady," as he called her. I didn't know who she was, couldn't think to. They ruled Elvis and sent me in before his shows to instruct him what to say or do during his next performance. He was usually so out of it on drugs that he couldn't "do the sex thing," he'd say, so I would tell him what to say or whatever the message was to deliver to the audience. After that, Elvis would pass out on the bed, perspiring. He was handsome, even when he was like that, until he started gaining all the weight. Then he looked very pathetic.

I was used with Elvis until he died. The last time they sent me in to be with him he was nearly unconscious. I don't know what they did to him but they used him up and then felt afraid he would "crack" and spill what he knew so they kept him drugged until they couldn't safely use him anymore and then he "died." Of course it wasn't an accident or a natural death, he had a lot of help from his controllers.

Elvis was targeted heavily by these men. When I was given messages to deliver to Elvis or others, they would inject my arm with some drug and then unless I had been pre-programmed, they quickly whispered the message into my mind files and sent me off to deliver them to Elvis. Then Elvis would use the phrases he was told as he introduced his songs or in the early days they might have become a part of new song lyrics. Just a single key phrase was enough to keep the programmed individuals, who later heard the introduction or song, under control. Then, many slaves were "drawn to him," or they did things as a result of the effects of the harmonics in his voice, in his music, and in the orchestration. But at concerts the messages were often delivered directly through words he would use to introduce his songs. He was no different than Michael Jackson, who replaced him in many ways. In my opinion, both were controlled.

My controllers often gave me the key to his suite and sent me there late at night with a message to deliver after sex with 'The King.' In the beginning, when I was 18, 19, and 20, he was more receptive and we had sex, usually with me on top most of the time and then I would whisper the message in his ear. Sometimes the messages to him were in the form of words from his own songs, but all the words weren't there and it would take on a different meaning. Like, "Wise men say, only fools rush in," and then there would be words, numbers, or codes that I delivered that I didn't even understand. He was told certain 'lines' to say in between certain songs and I feel he may have been keeping many women 'in line' and programmed by these phrases. When he slipped the messages in between songs, as pre-instructed, the messages went deeply into the subconscious minds of the audience, especially to those individuals who were programmed to react to universal words that are common to virtually all high-level, programmed individuals. They are simple words that when put into a certain sequence have a great impact on people who have been pre-conditioned with programming.

In his later years, when I was in my early twenties, Elvis became more and more 'out of it' when I went into his suite. He was always alone when I got there, which surprised me. He was usually already in bed asleep and I'd be given the key to go in and he wouldn't even sit up or act surprised that I was there. He was totally out of it from his addictions to drugs and alcohol. Elvis had tons of pill bottles on the nightstand, and groggily said he needed them all. Sometimes he was even listless and couldn't have an erection; any attempt at sex was futile. So I couldn't always do my job as instructed, but would give him the verbal messages and then slipped out, always "leaving the key behind with the memories," as my programming dictated.

From my experience I believe Elvis was a puppet, a pawn, and in the end, totally directed and, finally, used up by these men in control of him.

It was my experience that the images he portrayed on stage were nothing like how he was in private. To demonstrate this, I'll share what I remembered; but, before I do, I will tell you that retrieving these memories was very sensorially uncomfortable, due to the completeness of the olfactory portion of the memory. You'll understand as you read further.

It was late at night when I entered Elvis's room. He was lying in bed, still adorned with the gold jewelry and white suit he wore in concert. I watched as he finished his room service dinner and then I waited while he threw up in the bathroom. He was very mad at himself because he was so fat and he said he had to lose weight for the shows. I guess he made himself throw up. All I really know is that I overheard him throwing up in the bathroom and when he came back to the bed, he smelled like vomit. It wasn't long before he jumped up again and I followed him as he went back into the bathroom. He cried as he stood in front of the mirror, and hitting the counter with both hands he screamed, "I hate my life! Everything's out of control and now you want me to f--k you and I can't! I'm ruined! I'm a failure!"

I put my hand on his back in support and then on the back of his neck. As he felt my touch, his head hung down even further over the sink and he cried, "God, I'm a mess. I don't know what happened, just all of a sudden, I'm destroyed." Then he screamed, "What is wrong? What is wrong with me!" and he started pulling his hair. I pulled him up. When he turned around I hugged him and he just kept crying and crying and almost collapsed in my arms. I guided him back to bed and helped him lay down. He was sideways on the bed but I couldn't get him straightened out so as programmed, I lay next to him and rubbed his chest. His shirt was opened and his very hairy chest turned me on, but he was passed out. His mouth was open and he was breathing but he was totally out of it. I covered him with the bedspread and tiptoed out of the room.

My father was standing outside, just down the hallway. He was wearing a beige suit and when he snapped his fingers, with the hand wearing the diamond pinky ring, I listened intently to all the directions he commanded and he told me to follow him. He guided me downstairs to my room with Craig, unlocked and opened the door and waited for me to get inside before he hit me high in my back with a stun gun. I collapsed to the floor and he pulled the door shut. He almost slammed me in the door. I just lay there awhile and then when, "I came around" (that's what they called it), I crawled to the bathroom and managed to get into the bathtub. The soothing water revived me but I felt very sick, drugged and out of it. I had trouble keeping my eyes open but managed to get out of the tub, dry and put on a white nightie to wear to bed. Slowly and wobbly, I shakily made my way to the bed and got in next to Craig. I felt very sick for the next two days and had trouble eating. I felt exhausted and very nauseated, but had no way to access my own brain in order to know why.

After awhile Elvis couldn't function any longer. Henry and his buddies laughed and said that Elvis was like the tin man, all rusted up and ready for the junkyard. They waited for him to become seriously dysfunctional from the increasing amount of drugs prescribed by his doctors. Then they "stopped his ticker for him so he didn't have to suffer no more." I think Frank and his friends were in on the "do in."

Playing Goldilocks and The Three Bears

Bob called it "Playing Goldilocks and the Three Bears." And he had me play that game with him and his friends in Vegas and other places. Some nights in Vegas, I'd play Goldilocks looking for a good bed with Dean Martin, Gene Kelly, Mickey Rooney (until Kelly was born). Mickey Rooney is, among other things, a pedophile and was afraid of publicly being caught with a child but he felt safe having a slave child. He thought he wouldn't be caught.

Gene Kelly liked to do the ole' soft-shoe for me. He always smelled of a different sort of weird cologne like Au de Bamboo. It was spicy and he'd wear a silk robe and dance around like he was in some musical play, before he sat down on the edge of the bed for me to attend to him. I took off his robe, kneeled down and gave him oral sex while he was sitting up. Half way through I gently pushed him back on the bed with the instructions to, "lay back so you can totally relax and enjoy. That's what my command is for you." And as he came in my mouth, I ate it like it was frosting, as my programming dictated, "good to the last drop," and finally I looked deeply in his eyes and said, "You were delicious."

Nearly asleep he said, "Thank you, please let yourself out." So I did. But I didn't know where to go so I just sat down on the top of the large staircase leading downstairs.

My mom came to get me. She walked up the stairs dressed in a light brown fur jacket and a beige brown knit dress with sandled high heels and took me by the hand and led me downstairs. When I was really out of it she led me almost like I was blind. I can remember hearing her charm bracelet jingling. She often put my left arm under hers and "walked me places." One night Frank Sinatra intercepted her in an elevator while she was walking me back to the room, and roughed her up in front of me, to show us both who was in charge. Due to mind control, my mother still doesn't remember this or any other of the traumatic experiences that were done to her in order to keep us all under control.

More About the Mob

Some of the same factions of the Mob that were connected to the Kennedy’s were also connected to President Nixon, Reagan and other presidents. Obviously this faction had become connected to national politics long before I came onto the scene and was already in tight, running a lot of business through the government and taking full advantage of political knowledge, insight, and position. I know because I ran messages from the Mob to U. S. presidents and back again for years.

Key Biscayne was another location where I was connected to the Mob and was told that there was no getting out - or so they said. There was some guy they called "Freddie" and other mobsters who were politically connected. BeBe Rebozo was connected to the Mob and to Nixon and he was public but not as mob-connected as the inner Mob. It was almost like BeBe was an ambassador to the Mob.

The mob guys scared me because for the most part they got what they wanted, any way they wanted and, often, that meant hurting me for information. One time they pinched my fingers to the point of almost smashing them. I didn't nor couldn't respond and so they kept increasing the torture. There were times when they nearly killed me trying to gain information I carried. Usually they lacked the technical knowledge of my codes, keys and triggers and didn't possess the technological sophistication to understand my programming. So, they couldn't get as much out of me as others who knew that I was a robot and could access me in that way.

One time when the Mob was interrogating me they tied me to a chair and one guy slapped me while another guy in a leather jacket asked me questions. I overheard him say, "These bastards are selling their own women. How low can you stoop?" It was incidents like these which told me that at least someone, even if it was the Mob, had some sort of humanity left within its membership.

One time, mob guys put a needle into my eye to try to get me to talk, but it didn't help. The needle must have hit a nerve and my whole body jolted back. They couldn't understand how a woman could endure so much torture and they began to 'respect' me. They just didn't understand that I wasn't really brave, I just couldn't respond due to years of conditioning and sophisticated programming that rendered me completely dissociative and not in control of myself. By the time they figured this out they had already tortured me half to death. I was a total robot, programmed not to respond to pain or torture, and there were many mob-connected meetings in which I was involved in Vegas, Tahoe, Reno, Key Biscayne and other places. By the time they understood more about how to get information from me, my access routes or codes ended up getting passed around. My husband just stepped aside and let them have me, as he was programmed to do. There was never anyone to protect me. The Mob involvement began in my early teens and continued for years.

Sometimes when they would get me into a room in Vegas they would accuse me of "carrying a wire" but I wasn't. They would strip me to check and some goon would end up raping me. They didn't understand yet the level of sophisticated programming that allowed me to record everything I was hearing, via mind files and photographic memory. Later, my programmers would instill messages that were to "kick in" when I was accessed by the Mob. Then, upon my return, I was activated to deliver a message to them and they acted shocked when I would deliver the message. The Mob often thought I was trying to get to some of the rich tycoons that sat at the Baccarat tables. I was usually sent to target someone there but they didn't know who or why. They never seemed to know that I wasn't ever operating from my own agenda. What they had to offer the group I was working for was minimal. The Council was going for higher stakes and most of the time, they saw these mobsters as worker-bees. But they all had their places in the pecking order. Over the years I was known in Vegas by the Mob there. Some mobsters were connected to Bob Hope in Palm Springs and others to Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra.

I used to be afraid that they would kill my children or me, but it will never stop me from doing what I know is right, now that I'm no longer under mind control. Somehow or other they knew everybody and controlled factions of business, politics, and people. Mickey Levinson, said I was "family" now, after my brother Rick and his first wife Leslie (Mickey's niece) were married.

Chapter Seventeen: The Rat Pack

"Birds of a feather, flock together..."

I was programmed to stay thin, tan, and silly, and to act like a stereotypical dumb blonde. One warm and beautiful Southern California summer day, I brushed the Malibu Beach sand from my bikini and feet, and jumped into my car to head down Pacific Coast Highway to my next assignment. Clad only in my bikini, a short white lace cover-up and sandals, I headed into the Malibu Courthouse. The woman at the desk waved me through to the judge's private quarters.

Without hesitation, I entered the judge's office and climbed into Judge Merrick's lap - sand, suntan lotion, and all. He laughed, sat back, and enjoyed the attention as I precociously performed my sexual acts on him. I satisfied him sexually and left as quickly as I had arrived. Bob had a joke for me to say to judges as a means for variety of orgasmic experiences. When a judge was orgasming he pre-programmed me to say, "Here come the judge, here come the judge," like they said on Laugh-In, the popular television show of the time.

Bob also had me instilled with top tunes, like a jukebox. I had a personality system that delivered impromptu verses from songs at the perfect time so that they would cleverly fit into a social situation. I had personalities that could sing the songs very closely to the way the original artists sang them. I knew the words perfectly and sang with similar inflections and tones as the singers. Lots of people thought I was very adroit when I cleverly popped a song into a conversation, but I was really programmed to do that.

Bob sent me to have sex with Casey Kasem, the KRLA Disc Jockey. Then the next day, I had to listen to his station all day long because he gave histories and stories about the singers of the current popular songs just before he played their records. Bob said I had to listen the whole day because it was important to "keep my lid on tight." Bob told me to think of myself as a trash can and that no matter what, he would always be there to hold the lid on. He used this trash can memory-stuffer and scrambler idea on me for a long time. My oldest brother, Jim, undoubtedly under his own programming, was used to help keep me in line by having me watch Sesame Street. I was told to sit down in front of the television and watch with his children and if my eyes moved away from the screen my brother would rap my knuckles. Watching the Cookie Monster trash can character in the show 're-minded' me to 'keep the lid on.'

During this time in my life, I was finishing up high school, and although my parents and school counselors reminded me that I wasn't college material, I was looking forward to attending junior college at Pierce College in Woodland Hills. Craig and I had been going steady since we were thirteen years old and except for a brief break-up in high school, I did not date any other boys. Craig prepared to go to the University of Colorado. I was completely unaware that secretly laced into my life was a whole array of discreetly hidden sexual rendezvous with men in powerful, yet diversified, positions.

I was filmed pornographically in many locations, including Woodland Hills, Hollywood, Malibu, Bel Aire, Studio City, other areas in the San Fernando Valley, and varied locations all over California. I also worked for a short time for Harold Anderson Construction Company in Bel Aire, but don't remember exactly what I did to work for him. I do remember lots of pornography being filmed at this stage of my life and the level of pornographic filming was more professional. There were themes, costumes, music, professional make-up, special props and lighting. Personalities inside of me were taught how to work with the lighting to catch the best poses, and to move my body so the filming crew could get the best shots. Upon completion of the filming, I went home to my mother and father in Woodland Hills and later might even go on a date with Craig, fully believing that I was an innocent, loyal and loving girlfriend. Due to the mind control I was under, I had no way of knowing that I was leading anything other than a normal life, as a normal teenager, in a normal family, in Woodland Hills.

The extensive contact I had with Bob Hope as a teenager and during my early 20's showed me that Bob was much more than an entertainer. Entertainment was actually just a clever hobby of his. I witnessed his participation as a strategically placed, influential, and integral part of an underworld group that secretly sought to control the world. He had direct ties to the White House, but not direct phone lines like Nelson Rockefeller had. Through my affiliation with Bob Hope, I was to meet and interact with many powerful businessmen, politicians, and celebrities.

I was flown into a small airport in Palm Springs to be with Bob and his cronies. I was picked up by a silver limo and taken to his house. The men in suits met me and took me to Bob, wherever he was - at home, on the golf course, or in town. Before I was delivered to Bob, they gave me clothes, shoes, and jewelry to adorn myself.

If Bob was in a meeting or at the club with 'the guys,' he would motion me over towards him and say, "Let me have a look at you honey." He often raised his eyebrows as if to say I met with his approval and/or was sexy enough for him, and then he would pull me to him and sit me on his lap. He wanted to show his buddies that he had what he called "a sweet young thing." Depending on which crowd we were with, he would introduce me as his niece, his budding starlet prodigy, or his "sweet young thing." Bob very often introduced me as his "favorite niece, Sharon Weatherby." I guess he left people to their own conclusions. But he never did refer to me by my own name - NEVER!

I often accompanied Bob to the golf course in Palm Springs. One day he was dressed casually, in light blue slacks, pastel yellow shirt, white belt and white golf shoes. There were several other men golfing with him. I was there just to serve Bob. I was seventeen or eighteen, thin, tan, blonde and dressed in a tiny white dress with spaghetti straps. I wore white sandals that came up from my toe and met at a strap around my ankle, with a gold heart anklet on my left ankle. Bob or the men in suits always gave me everything to wear. I was not invited to play the golf game, but was instructed to watch and SMILE! This particular day Bob sang to me, as he did at other times when he was feeling jovial in spirit, "Button up your overcoat, take good care of yourself you belong to me." He sang and joked with me often like I was able to really react and respond to him. As a programmed slave, I was merely compliant and smiled all the time.

After the golf game, we all went to the clubhouse and had dinner. A lady approached with a camera, attempting to photograph Bob. The men in suits denied her access. People often tried to take pictures but he directed someone to get the camera and remove the film. He commented on how rude people were to interrupt or to invade his privacy like that. There usually were not many (if any) people in places we frequented, unless it was for a show and then he had bodyguards to protect him.

At this dinner, when his male group hit upon a "sensitive" subject, Bob asked me to go powder my nose for awhile and handed me some money. I knew that meant to be gone for a long while. After what seemed like "a long while" had passed, I kept checking back to see if it was time for him to motion me back, as was his custom. Finally, he waved me over to join them and pulled me onto his lap.

Sometimes Bob met with men I recognized as Secret Service agents from seeing them previously with Richard Nixon or Ronald Reagan. After these "meetings" we would often go by limo to a hotel or to his home when no one was there. Most of the time his wife, Dolores, was not at home.

Bob and Dolores

On other occasions when we were with people and he wanted me to leave, Bob would pat my bottom and say good-bye with a smile. Then the men in suits would step in and get me. Usually I was taken back to his house to get ready for an evening event. Bob enjoyed having people around. He had parties attended by lots of famous people. Sometimes I was given as a gift to one or more of his friends for the night, but was programmed to return to his room to sleep. Unless Dolores was home. Dolores was not there often, but when she was, I was usually flown home early.

It was strange the few times I did see Dolores at a party, knowing that I was having sex with Bob and had accompanied him to different places with his friends and business associates. I couldn't think to question what Dolores thought her husband did!

Bob introduced me to many of his "famous" friends. At gatherings, with one arm around me he would elbow the guys and say, "Why would I want to be with an ole' bag like Dolores, when I can have this?" And his friends would laugh and nod in agreement.

Although my programming kept these activities hidden from my conscious mind, later I would wake up late in the mornings in my own bed in Woodland Hills, with burning, red eyes, feeling totally exhausted, after what I thought was a full night's sleep. I was not able to understand that the exhaustion was actually caused by food, water, and sleep deprivation, coupled with drugs and electroshock for programming purposes.

Bob had lots of security at his home in Palm Springs. The lights on the outside of his house came on at night automatically when a car approached. He also had numerous security alarms and systems in the house even a television monitor like Reagan had at his ranch. When I arrived, he would sit me on the bed and he would sit in the chair and say, "Okay, let me hear it." And I'd rattle off what Henry Kissinger told me to tell him.

Bob didn't have all the sophisticated numerical codes to my mind files that Henry did. Henry wanted it that way. I overheard Henry speak out loud to himself in front of me, saying, "I want you to be security safe." Henry put into my system of reporting personalities instructions to tell him if Bob tried anything out of line. I was instructed to report to Henry if Bob tried to access information he wasn't involved in and wasn't suppose to be privy to. Henry said, "It's none of his business."

Dolores Hope was elderly when Bob was fooling around with me; so was he, since he was nearly fifty years my senior. She did not like it when I was around and, unfortunately, Bob didn't have much of an excuse for my presence, unlike Reagan. Reagan could say I was his secretary or aide, but Bob told his wife he was spending lots of time with me to "groom me" for the shows for the boys.

I can remember hearing Dolores nagging at him while I was still there one morning after a party in Palm Springs. He lied and told her I was there with some other man at the party. Not that I did not have sex frequently with many of his friends and business associates, but this time I had not. When Dolores confronted him on these issues, Bob would stand behind her, and like a child, made faces insinuating she was going on and on and on and he was bored to tears. He heard her out, mimicking her behind her back, and then we would leave for the golf course together. But, to her face, he always played it cool, acted lovey, and sent her off shopping or vacationing. Bob called Dolores "dear" a lot. He would tell her he had to introduce me to some of his business associates so I would get to know the ropes. It was all a front, just a cover to use me for sex. Although I did meet a lot of businessmen and friends of Bob's and I did go with him, at times, to rehearse for the shows and do the voice-over tapes for some of the tours, most of it was for his sexual pleasure and to show his old friends that he could still get "the young stuff."

I certainly was never there by choice. I was a complete slave, under total mind control, with no ability to choose consciously for myself what or where I wanted to be, or even to know who I really was! I did not consciously know that I was being used in these ways. I simply thought that I was a normal student and I continued to carry the belief to my marriage bed that I was a virgin.

At times, the entertainer, Phyllis Diller, was at Bob's parties. She was really loud. She did not particularly care for me and just brushed me aside. She was always joking. Phyllis and Bob came up with one joke after another. Once when I was smiling adoringly at Bob, she yelled at me, "Wipe that smile off your face." Then she laughed that real loud laugh, and it frightened me. Bob told me not to pay attention to "that ole' bag," so I tried not to, but she was so loud it was hard to ignore her. I tried to avoid Phyllis Diller's disapproval at all costs.

At one time, Bob's bedroom was decorated in a large floral print with creme-colored background. He had a wooden bed frame and nightstands and a large closet. Sometimes there were fresh flowers placed in the room or one on the pillow. Bob usually had a new nightie waiting on the bed for me to wear and sometimes there were satin sheets on the bed. A drawer in his room was filled with all sorts of sexy panties, bras, nighties, and so on, and he said they were there just for me. He always went to the drawer and selected what I was to wear. He also had clothes in the back of his closet that were just my size. I don't know who bought them, but they always fit me. I was usually programmed to maintain a "perfect size six," although there were times I fell below that and wore a size two or four. My weight was within 99-102 Ibs. in those days and I was 5' 5" tall. "Young and lovely," he would say.

Since deprogramming and speaking out publicly, I've met other programmed sex slaves who were also with Bob. Most likely we were all programmed to be the same size, and Bob just said the clothes were for me, but they were available for a number of his girls. Bob preferred 18-20 year olds.

Bob had an average size penis. Sometimes Bob frightened me during sex, when he got aggressive, but he never physically hurt me. He "let" me do everything sexually I was trained and programmed to do, but he liked to orgasm in his own way. Then he would go to sleep. As he got older, he got meaner and stranger and subconsciously I hated him. There was a small metal high voltage cattle prod that Bob would insert in my vagina at times. He used that on me after sex late at night when we were in bed. After that it was "lights out" and I didn't remember anything else.

Bob slapped me at times, if I got out of line, which was also part of a program to stay in line. When I got slapped, I would switch into a different personality and then I would be happier, more "congenial" he would say, and he would lift my chin and kiss me. Once when he was mad at me for some infraction of the rules, Bob yelled, "You're just a wind up doll - a toy for my pleasure, and don't forget it!"

Hugh Hefner's

Bob referred to me in my earlier teenage years as his "little bunny." He was friends with Hugh Hefner and Hugh came to Bob's parties sometimes. He always brought at least two women with him, usually blondes.

Starlite was my personality that Bob named to become his "starlet." He told Starlite, and other people when I was on his "arm," that he was giving me a "leg up" into the industry. My instructions were that Starlite was to wear her hair parted on the side with it combed down over one eye for a sexy look. She was to act very sexy. When Bob took me to parties he would tell everyone he was showing me the ropes, that I had endless talent and potential in the industry.

Bob took me to several of Hugh Hefner's penthouse parties in Los Angeles. On one of these occasions, Bob went all out on his outfit. He wore a grey suit and ascot with a white tux shirt and a grey top hat and white gloves. He looked 'dapper' but old to me, though his clothes were perfect - not one wrinkle. There was a door panel, with small silver buttons on it that you had to push in a certain sequence to gain access to Hefner's penthouse. Bob knew the numerical code. I watched the perfectly manicured hand that stretched out of his clean, neat, white starched shirt sleeve go out from his black jacket as he punched in the sequence.

The elevator up to Hefner's had mirrors and Bob said, "You look nice tonight, honey."

"Thanks, Bob." I replied as he took my elbow from behind and said as he turned me around, "Look into the mirror. You can see yourself over and over and over again without end. Like a file, we will slip one out of a slot or like in the jukebox when one record is selected. This evening I want to select a sexy prom girl who is beautiful, intelligent, and submissive. Sexy is always the most important quality. Do you understand?" After I slowly nodded my head yes, he continued, "You are to stay close by my side this evening. There will be no intermissions so don't ask for any. You will simply stay close to my side. Is everything understood?"

I smiled and said yes. Next he turned me away from the 'infinity mirror' used for 'reminding' me in order to select from one of my many personalities, and we went through the elevator door as it opened moments later.

My dress made crackling noises as I walked and I had a matching black cape. When we arrived I handed my wrap to the doorman, a tall handsome man in a tux. And he, in turn, handed it to another man and replied, "This is for the lady with Bob."

Holding my cape, the older doorman looked me in the eye, and bowing his head said, "Ma'am," before leaving with my cape and Bob's show cane.

Bob took my arm and guided me over to the fireplace where a zebra painted girl walked through the fire without being burned. Her naked voluptuous body was painted all over with thick black and white paint stripes. The paint gave an appearance of dress but you could clearly see that she was naked. She smiled at Bob and continued dancing in very seductive poses within a very small area. She had a very haunting faraway look in her eyes.

There were windows all around and at night you could see a breathtaking panoramic view of all the pretty twinkling lights of the city below. They looked like jewels on a black velvet background. Bob told me that when I was "on his arm" for the evening that he was mine, but at other times he was someone else's.

The stars liked their parties because no one gawked at them like fans did in public places. Everyone was more equal and they could enjoy being normal like other people when they were at ease with peers. Hefner's parties were a place where many stars gathered and shared, a playground for the stars and their playmates. It seemed people floated in and out of Hefner's parties and there were times when there were not very many people. From what I saw people didn't necessarily come there to group together for the party. It was more like a place people got stimulated, wowed, and entertained in order to have their own private experiences and fun. Hefner's place was very modern, full of sharp lines and angles with lots of glass, and was some kind of meeting place for the stars and the wealthy upper class. Bob got ideas from Hefner's parties that he used at his own parties in "the Springs." Bob's parties were pure class, in the most exquisite Hollywood style. He had wild parties and some night's there were orgies.

Noticing Bob had arrived, Hugh Hefner came over and shook Bob's hand. Bob said, "Hal, this is my main tease ...I mean main squeeze." They both laughed and Bob leaned over and whispered something I couldn't hear to Hefner. Hefner never stayed around long to talk with Bob at the parties.

"Bob, it's good to see you." They shook hands again and Hefner placed his other hand on Bob's elbow and said, "I'll be back, don't go away, I just have to catch her before she gets away." He seemed to acknowledge his guests and then quickly excused himself. In a moment he returned and said, "Step into my kitchen."

Bob sneered and said to him, "I'll follow you anywhere the girls are!" So we followed Hefner into the kitchen where lots of playboy bunnies dressed in traditional black bunny outfits with black and white bow ties, fish net stockings, and black high heels were busy preparing food trays. Bob's eyebrows raised and with obvious sexual emphasis, he called out, "WHAT'S TO EAT!"

All the girls turned around and laughed and looking seductively at him sang out, almost in unison, "Hi, Mr. Hope!" One bunny said, "I'm available!" and she laughed as she arranged the butter squares that were stamped with the playboy insignia.

Bob said, "Well, maybe you can be course number five, honey. How's about you and I meeting at that course."

"Yes," she teased.

Bob looked around the room, "Any other's?" No one took him up on it but they smiled cordially. Bob ushered me back out to the room where the zebra girl was still dancing. "She's still at it," he announced and I smiled up adoringly at him, just like I was programmed to do.

Bob took a drink off a tray that a bunny offered him and when she offered me a choice of the different drinks, per program, I smiled and recited, "No thank you, I've had my quota for the evening." Although I'd really not eaten or drank anything for hours. Bob was good at taking a drink and then setting it down somewhere out of the way like he didn't want anyone to know he wasn't really drinking. Later on he'd take another drink or two, but I rarely saw him drink much of it before he set it down, abandoned it and moved on.

Hugh Hefner had bizarre, exotic entertainment at his parties ...naked women painted like animals ...or tamed wild animals, like lions that were 'whipped into shape' by a playboy bunny. One time he even had a man dressed like Tarzan whipping a playgirl dressed like Jane. They said the girl was not really being hurt, that it was just an illusion. I don't know if that was true. There were often scenes like that - magic sex shows.

Bob instructed me to pay attention, to watch the playboy bunnies so I could acquire 'bunny skills' and know some of the moves for our shows with the troops or get my edges polished so I'd be poised and ready for the Rockefellers. Bob was very impressed with the Rockefellers. He took me to Hefner's because he wanted me to be "bunny trained." Bob placed playboy collars on me and at other times put a diamond necklace round my neck for certain Hope occasions. It was a single row of diamonds that fit tightly around my neck. Bob liked me to wear them in private. He said I was "in training" and that these were "training diamonds." He said that I had better get used to wearing diamonds because I would be treated right my whole life, and sometimes he called me his princess.

Food, drink, whatever anyone, except me, wanted, was always available at Hefner's parties.

Champagne fountains were popular in those days. If someone delivered a drink - champagne, wine, etc., to me, sometimes Bob would let me take it and then he would quickly whisk it away. Bob told me to hold my champagne glass and look pretty and smile but not to sip it, "Not one little sip," he said. So I didn't. He told me, "One itty bitty little sip is all it would take for your coach to turn into a pumpkin and your beautiful dress into rags. We don't want that now do we?" This reference made to the Disney classic, tied my subconscious mind back into the Cinderella programming that was installed within me for the purpose of his and others control.

I smiled sweetly and said, "No, Bob." I was not allowed to eat or drink. Bob told me to say that I had just eaten and was not hungry.

Hefner was pretty unavailable at his own parties. I never knew why. One night, he had the current centerfold do a little show for a small group of guests. She had on a red sequined body suit, red heels and a feather in her hair. She danced around and stripped for the guests. The men loved it and clapped and said, "encore, encore..." but she left and didn't return.

There were rooms people could go into to have sex if they wanted. One bedroom had a huge four poster bed with black satin sheets and comforter. Bob parked me in the corner of the room while he had sex with the playboy bunny he'd propositioned earlier. He did those kinds of things often. Having sex with an available girl at a party and then sex with me later or I'd just give him oral sex, was not uncommon, depending on his whim for the evening. Bob got this girl into bed and kissed and mauled her and then got on top and finished her. They seemed to forget that I was in the room. She had real big firm breasts, and Bob always really liked those who were as he called it, "fully endowed." After they finished they got out of bed and Bob kissed her hand and she got dressed and left, closing the big wooden double doors behind her. Bob motioned for me to come over to him and I picked his clothes up off the floor and began redressing him. He always loved that game. I held his boxers as he put first one leg in and then the other. While I helped him he said, "I don't know what I'd do without ya kid." I smiled lovingly as programmed and retrieved his shirt and helped him on with it. The buttons were difficult and he said, "Whew, it took a lot less to 'get it on' than it seemed to getting it off!" And then he'd laugh at his own sexual joke.

Bob said, "Sex is a state of mind. A state of mine I'd like to live in!" I knelt down and put his socks and shoes back on, combed his hair and we reemerged together and joined the party. I didn't know most of the people.

Bob said to a heavyset man in a tux who I also didn't recognize, "This one's mine."

"It's a pleasure to meet you, sir." I said smiling.

Quickly, Bob quipped, "She was trained at the Gloria Swanson School of Manners." And everyone around including the man laughed. The man took my hand politely but he was also laughing. I always thought people were laughing at me because I was stupid, I wasn't able to be aware that they were laughing at Bob's jokes. I never could "get" the jokes, because I was programmed not to be able to think about them.

If nothing was available to him sexually Bob would take me to a hotel or we went home and had sex. He always scored, either way.

At another Hefner party, when we arrived, Bob said to Hefner, "Look who followed me home."

Hefner said, "Not bad Bob, not bad. Hey, tell me, where were you walking? Are there any more like her?"

Bob said, "No they broke the mold after they made this one."

Hefner laughed and they shook hands again. He used both of his hands in his handshake with Bob. He reached out in a regular handshake and then put his other hand on top. In keeping with his usual routine, Hugh Hefner said, "Excuse me Bob, I have some important matters to attend to. You and your lady enjoy. That's what it's all about here." And he winked and walked away.

Tarzan and Jane and a lion were at this party. The Tarzan guy had heavy make-up that made him look tan and he had blonde hair and a beautiful body. So did Jane. The lion was very small. I was allowed to touch him and the tan fur on its back was so neat it looked like it had been evenly shaved. Suddenly, the lion turned around and opened his mouth and it really scared me! He had big teeth. Bob laughed at my reaction and said, "Honey, maybe you'd like to have one of these at home. Lions and tigers and bears, oh my!" And as he cleverly weaved in a line to 'remind' me of my Wizard of Oz programming, he laughed again and so did the people who were standing around. Little did they know that Bob Hope had just masterfully delivered one of the program phrases intended to keep me from remembering the life I was living, serving him as a total mind-controlled sex slave.

Later at the party there was a huge square-tiled shower with clear glass sides and several nozzles. Lots of men and women all got in it at the same time and rubbed soap all over themselves and then rubbed up against each other and it ended in a huge orgy. Personally, Bob liked more of the one-on-one stuff, but liked to watch me be involved with groups, or to watch individual couples have sex.

Sometimes someone from the Council pre-programmed me to deliver a message to some entertainer or celebrity at a party they knew I was going to attend. I don't think Bob even knew some of the messages I was delivering. I was instructed to hold the message until I had gotten "in" on the targeted person and then after I had made eye contact and had their full attention, I was to carefully "drop the message" always maintaining eye contact.

I was usually very quiet, and when I would deliver these Council messages, Bob was not always aware I was going to speak. He was often caught off guard and would joke about loving to be with me because he never knew what would come out of my mouth from one minute to the next. He told people that I had natural wit, but I was really programmed by others to deliver clever messages, tailor-made for certain select individuals.

At one of Hefner's parties, Bob had me wear a black, form-fitting, long slinky, strapless and low-cut evening gown. A white flower was pinned over my left breast. I carried a black clutch and wore black high heels. We arrived at the party in one of Bob's limos. The limo drivers always waited for us in case Bob wanted to leave at any time. Sometimes Bob would take me to the car for sex during the party or for a "little talk" about my behavior or about what to watch for or remember. He liked to do spankings when I was naughty and he would make me pull up my dress and lay naked over his lap to be spanked. I was trained for that to be a "turn on" and when this happened, he got real turned on and the sex was better for him.

At the parties we attended at Hefner's, the men did not usually show up with their wives. The nights I was there, it seemed like there was an unspoken rule that wives were not allowed, as if it was their exclusive 'men's club' where repeat women were occasional, but no wives allowed. The rooms were often smoky and loud and the people, especially the women, were so made up they looked plastic.

At one party, Bob took me into a back bedroom where a playboy bunny was supposed to "teach me some things." She lay naked on a white fur rug and touched herself all over in front of Bob and me. Bob stooped down and told me to quietly and gently step into her world. The two of us were touching each other while Bob said, "What a thing of beauty you both are, like a piece of beautiful artwork."

The playboy bunny took off my dress and began performing oral sex on me while Bob watched. I am not sure exactly what I "learned," but from then on, I had lots of playboy bunny costumes - bunny collars, feathers to wear on my bottom, and high heel shoes to match. I ended up "treating" many men at Bob's parties to things I had "learned."

Sometimes I danced, too. I think lots of things may have been filmed without my knowledge. They used dancing often in pornography. Bob would snap his finger when it was all over and I was to "snap out of it," get up and go home with him or do something else. Some parts of me wanted my mom to help me, or get me out of there, but she never could.

Bob would put a playboy collar around my neck and say, "Is this your necklace or your collar?" I was programmed to respond to wearing those collars. When the bunny collar was on, out came Starlite the sexy show girl personality. Sometimes Bob would put the collar on me at his home, "just for the fun of it," he would say. The diamond collars or necklaces were reserved for use with the Presidents and other higher-ups.

When it was time to leave, Bob got our coats from the butler and we left. Two younger handsome men, in suits, who were buff and looked sort of like Secret Service agents, followed directly behind us and stayed with us until we entered the black limo that picked us up out front. It seemed like they were guarding Bob until we got to the safety of the limo. Somehow the limo drivers were always there or close by and immediately brought the car around when Bob appeared. Once in the limo Bob would ask me for a foot or neck rub or oral sex and, as programmed, I complied. This night he asked for a foot massage. "Golden foot award," Bob said. "Maybe I could manage to win the golden foot award since I can't ever seem to manage a whole Oscar," he said, laughing at his own joke.

Dean Martin

I was usually one of the youngest girls at the parties and most of the men were pretty old. Dean Martin was at a party one night and he was drunk. He wanted me to sit on his lap. Looking over at Bob slyly, Dean said, "Come on Bob, share some of your pretty young stuff."

I looked to Bob for direction and he answered, "Okay," smiling broadly at his friend. Shyly, I went over and sat on Dean Martin's lap. All eyes in the room were now on Dean. He took one of the straps from my dress down as everyone cheered him on. I looked over at Bob, feeling shy and scared but smiling, as my programming dictated.

Then Dean took the other strap down, pulled my dress down, and grabbed my breast. With each move he made he slowly turned to Bob, asking for permission, "Bob, can I take her bra off?"

"Yes," Bob said with a sly smile on his face as everyone continued to cheer.

"Bob, can I put one of her breasts in my mouth?" And as Bob gave his permission, Dean put his drink and cigarette down and leaned over to suck on my breast. He stunk like hard liquor. His eyes were all bloodshot and he spoke slowly and slurred. He scared me because I didn't know if he would hurt me. Then he asked Bob if he could remove my dress to which Bob replied, "Yes," while the group hailed him again.

After removing my dress, Dean asked, "Bob, can I remove her panties?"

Bob said it was all right with him and so Dean took off my panties and laid me over a table and began sticking his finger in me. I was moving all around and making sexual noises, like I had been trained to do. All the people watching were getting turned on and it started group sex.

When Dean was finished, Bob came over to "rescue me," took me to the bathroom, slipped me into the shower and told me to get dressed, that we were going home to our own private party, now that Dean had warmed me up.

Later that evening a man I didn't know approached us and said, "Bob, you must tell me your secret. You must have something you're not telling about if you can attract the attentions of a pretty young girl like this. So tell me... what's your secret?"

Bob looked snidely at him and said, "Geritol." And then he laughed and said, "You don't think I'd tell you my secret do you? Then it wouldn't be a secret any longer and you'd be getting the pretty young stuff instead of me." And then they both laughed but the man still seemed very curious, like he wondered how Bob did it.

"Is he paying you large sums of money?" the man asked me.

"No, sir, it's a pleasure just to be with Bob," I smiled, looking adoringly up to Bob like I was programmed to do.

The man shook his head and said, "Well it's been a pleasure to see you again Bob and to meet you Miss ...what did you say her name was?"

"Weatherby . . . Sharon Weatherby."

And the man smiled and said, "A pleasure," and walked away. The more that I attracted the attention of other men, the more Bob wanted me sexually that night.

Frank Sinatra

Bob Hope and Frank Sinatra played golf together. When I was with them on the course, Bob told me to call Frank Sinatra, "Uncle Frank" or "Uncle Frankie." Over the years, "Uncle Frankie," would show up as Bob's representative, 'the heavy,' to get me 'back in line.' He seemed to just appear at a place I was taken to and would let me see him and then quickly leave. Just the sight of him was terrifying because of the violent experiences I had with him from the time I was a teenager on. Frank Sinatra was connected high up in the Mob - very high up.

Uncle Frankie displayed some Catholic behaviors and used Catholic jargon and seemed sincere as when he talked about his love for his family and country, but his actions were never supportive of what he espoused to believe. He arranged, easily and with no remorse, many peoples' deaths, sometimes explaining to the hit men exactly how he wanted it done-at times while he was having sex with me. He once told this guy to dismember this man and throw his arm to the sharks. "Let the man stay alive to watch the shark eat his arm and then do likewise with his leg, but make sure he is still alive and watching so you guys will have to do it quickly. Use a chain saw for all I care and tell the bastard his whole body will be next and that his arm and leg were just appetizers for the sharks." I was horrified but knew better than to even acknowledge I heard anything, so I smiled and acted like I wasn't even listening and went to sexually satisfy him to insure my safety. Frank said, "Wait a minute doll, I have to attend to business first." So I lay there and waited, running my hands in short little nervous motions all over his chest.

After the hit man left, Frank started biting me all over and acted like he was in a good mood and was playing with me. But I will tell you he thought nothing of having someone killed and there were times I overheard him ask for a personal item of the persons returned to him for assurance that the job had been done. One time he threw a ring from a man he'd had killed into a waterway. The water was flowing fast and he told me the ring would be swept far away from where he had originally dumped it. I just smiled and took his hand. I was always trying to please him in order to stay alive.

Bing Crosby

One Christmas, Bob gave me as a surprise sexual present to his good friend and peer, Bing Crosby. Bing had just finished the taping of his Christmas show. Bob had me installed and waiting in a closet in Bing's dressing room and I was instructed to, "Stand there like a mannequin, without moving until Bing opens the door." Bob put me into a 'stay stiff like a mannequin' instruction mode and wrapped me with a huge red ribbon and bow. Otherwise I was totally naked. A card was attached to the ribbon. Bob instructed me to "stay put," until Bing opened the closet.

As he closed the closet door on me, Bob said, "You'll be okay."

When Bing opened the closet to get a change of clothes, there I was, totally naked, clad in a red ribbon and holding a greeting card. Bing started laughing and read a portion of the card out loud, "a f--k me doll??!" And he laughed and laughed. He laughed so hard he bent over and held his stomach.

Bing took off his tux and put his jacket over the back of the chair, laid the rest of his clothes on the seat and stood there wearing only his black top hat, shoes and socks. He had on the kind of socks that had black elastic holding them up. He kept watching me, never taking his eyes off me while he was changing his clothes. He seemed excited about this gift, but he also seemed apprehensive.

There were instructions on the card; I know, because he laid it down and I read and retained it in my photographic memory. It said, "This lovely young lady is yours for the evening. You can't wear her down. She will please you in every way imaginable. You have only to reach out, take her left hand, squeeze it and say, 'Come on honey, we're going home.' Oh, by the way, put a raincoat on her while you're in transport, she didn't come with clothes."

So Bing took my hand and led me out of the closet. He acted like I would break or wake up or something. He treated me like I wasn't real. He was very cautious at first.

Bing and I got into a waiting limo and went to a penthouse apartment, "to unwind," Bing said. It was his home away from home, a safe place, he said, like in the song "up on the roof." He sang and danced a little and I sat on the bed and watched him. He sang some old song that I had never heard of and he looked ancient but always had a smile on his face. It seemed like he danced out of nervousness, of not knowing quite what to do.

He never looked away from me for a minute. Then he came over, undid the tie on my raincoat and slowly undid the buttons. I was barefoot and my feet were purple and cold. He pulled down the bed covers and I climbed in, and he began touching me, still with his own clothes on, when the phone rang. He put the receiver aside while the person was talking on the other end. He laughed kind of awkwardly and whispered to me, "Just last minute instructions from Bob!"

Bing hung up and said, as if I could not hear or comprehend, "Bob said to rub here in circular motions to turn you on to HOT!" He began rubbing circular motions around my belly button, activating my sexual passion touch programs, and I began to do the programmed "ohhhhhh" moans and he got an erection after hearing that and pulled off his pants while he was still rubbing. It was as if he perceived me as a robot and was afraid of not knowing how to work me ...afraid something might go wrong.

I went into my dancing mode on the bed and took off the rest of his clothes. I did like Bob had instructed me, "Tell him you're dreaming of a White Christmas and then wink." Once I had delivered that, I performed oral sex and rubbed him all over. Then I climbed on top of him and satisfied him sexually. He'd had a drink in the limo that mixed with his cologne, and he smelled like alcohol. After we were through, he went right to sleep. I curled up beside him and fell asleep, too. Maybe all this was to make sure he had that White Christmas he was dreaming of.

Sometime later, the phone rang and woke us up. He got dressed, put me back into the raincoat and escorted me down the elevator to a waiting limo. He stayed and I left in the limo and was not taken back to Bob's but instead was taken to the airport and flown home. The limo driver gave me clothes to put on, and when I got on the airplane I slept the whole flight home, like I was always programmed to do.

You Can Sleep All the Way Home

My programmed mother picked me up at LAX Airport and handed me a brown paper bag with my own clothes in it. I robotically went into the airport bathroom, changed into my own clothes, and went out to my mother, who simply said, "We're going home, honey. You can sleep all the way home."

I slept all the way home in the car. When we arrived at the house, I crawled into my own bed and buried all memory of this occasion, like all others before it, deep into my subconscious mind, as my programming commanded.

If it was nighttime when I returned, I was instructed to wash away all remembrances of the evening with a nighttime bath. The hypnotic command embedded in my programmed mind was, "All that happened will go down the drain with the water and will be forgotten and gone forever." Then, I could go to sleep. If for some reason I didn't have time for a bath before I left Bob's to return to Woodland Hills, I was instructed to take one at home before I went to bed and it had the same amnesiac effect.

In those days, I felt very tired most of the time. Some days I had to go to high school the next day or, later on, to college, and woke up with my eyes burning and my make-up still on from the night before. My mother always had trouble waking me in the mornings. There were times she or my father would pour water over my head in an attempt to wake me. On weekends, I was allowed to sleep until 11 or 12 o'clock if I wanted. I could never figure out why I was always so exhausted. Now I know why.

During my high school years, Bob said he was training me to be a starlet, but he was really training me to privately entertain his rich political and celebrity friends, or the troops.

It was during these early years that I began being heavily accessed and programmed by the Council, for use with many influential men and women in positions of power. My use within government circles was guaranteed to be security proof due to the mind control I was under. They felt my programming kept the information I carried from my own awareness and from access by others who did not know the keys and codes to my system. But what those in government did not seem to know was that the Council also had the ability to access me. They were secretly slipping in their own psychologically tested and carefully researched messages for me to deliver to presidents, governors, senators, foreign leaders, entertainers, and many other people who were in positions of power or public influence.

The Council studied people's profiles and knew exactly what their likes and dislikes were, their sexual preferences, and any other information that could be used to influence people in ways the person was never even aware of. The Council pre-programmed me with instructions, all based on careful prior research of the targeted person... what to wear, how to act, what type of sexual stance to take, specific words or phrases to say, and the best time to deliver them. The Council always worked up a complete strategy and never sent me to a targeted person unprepared.

In these ways, they influenced government leaders to act in their own favor, to pass or veto laws or bills that benefited their corporate holdings, to bring into office those people who could be used as pawns, to influence judges and government agencies, to enlist large sums of monies, and to control people in all walks of life.

My experience was that the Council was publicly nameless and unknown, and this anonymity is what made it possible for them to wield power over the masses. From my perspective, these individuals acting in the shadows actually dictated in a subversive and inconspicuous manner the direction our government took at the time. They were connected to powerful people like Bob Hope, through me as their secret liaison, though I was programmed not to be aware of it. They felt they had their identities and security locked up tight.

"Command those who are rich in this present world not to be arrogant nor to put their hope in wealth, which is so uncertain, but to put their hope in God, who richly provides us with everything for our enjoyment." -- I Timothy 6:17

Chapter Eighteen: Gerald Ford

I called Ford, "Henry," trying to joke with him so he wouldn't be so brutal but he usually was anyway, despite my attempts at humor. Ford began with me early, as he liked young girls. He was into fantasies and often liked for me to wear an eye mask. We had sex often, especially during the time Reagan was Governor of California. He liked violent sex-tying me up, handcuffs, spankings, slapping, and all that kind of S&M stuff. He enjoyed the whips and chains routine, and liked to tie me up with thick black leather straps. He slapped me frequently. Often after he satisfied himself sexually with me, blood would drip down my legs. It was so painful that I felt like I was not only splitting in my rectum or vagina, but the excruciating pain exploded up into my head and out my arms and fingertips. Gerald Ford required violent sex in order to orgasm. He joked about needing, "the chain gig in order to get off." His jokes were very crude. He was in politics a long time and often traveled in political circles. He was "one of the good old boys" and had major Mob connections. He wore his own gun in a shoulder holster and was afraid for me to remove it. "I don't trust you with the gun," he said and he laughed. He was a short President and pretty hairy. While he was violent sexually he still was not as brutal as Ted Kennedy.

Ford wore nice clothes, silk shorts and good quality suits, and he was very proud of them. For some reason, these mob guys were into expensive, quality clothes. I don't know why that was, but image was very important to them. There was lots of mob involvement when Nixon was President and Ford was Vice President, and it didn't stop when Nixon stepped down. Same mob involvement, just a few different players who were close friends of Jerry. Ford had more mob organizations behind him than Nixon did, so he had lots of people to give favors to when he was in the White House. He was very corrupt. He had to be in a wheelchair briefly for something. I don't know what happened but they managed to keep it hushed up. He had a bandage like he'd been shot or wounded or operated on. I don't know exactly what happened, but I felt a little safer when he was in the wheelchair. Unfortunately, he wasn't in it long enough to suit my needs.

Ford didn't treat me like I was real. He often hurt me and was convinced that I was just a machine built for his pleasure. It was true that I was a non-thinking slave that obeyed every command, but it did register within me when I was abused and treated cruelly.

During the time he was Vice President, I remember him attending a ribbon-cutting ceremony. There was a beautiful white gazebo on a large lawn and he was there to cut the yellow ribbon. Gerald Ford participated in many of these grand openings. He was booked into these types of public appearances in order to enhance his image as a 'good citizen.' But, in my opinion, he was not. Anyway, he cut the ribbon with a large pair of scissors and then the crowd clapped and cheered and reporters took his picture. Soon he got into a black limo, where I was waiting in the back, and was driven away. I was placed there to deliver a message to him from the Council. Then, I had to get down on my knees in the back of the limo, unzip his pants and give him oral sex. He held onto a stun gun in his left hand the whole time. Just before he orgasmed I climbed on top of him and moved around until he came, after which he activated the stun gun near my tailbone.

He made a bunch of jokes about my name being the same as his daughter's. Like, "You're not supposed to f--k kin," or "That was great Susan Ford." Correcting him, a Secret Service agent said, "You're not suppose to ever use her name, Sir."

Ford smiled maliciously and said, "It's my name, too, and I'll use it whenever I please." He never liked to be corrected or told what to do. Henry Kissinger got angry with him about that, also.

Bob Hope played golf all over the world with his friend, "Jerry Ford." That's what Bob called him. Ford was a much better golfer than Bob, but Bob always shrugged it off and said, "I just had a bad day today." He said that often. The Secret Service stayed close, but let them have their space and they usually played when there weren't other people on the course. When Ford was Vice President and Bob would talk about Nixon or other political agendas, when the talk got heavy Bob would look over to me, point to the cart, and say, "Hey honey, take five," and I'd wait to be called back. Bob said they got very important work done on the course, sometimes more so than what went on during regular work routines.

One time, "Jerry," as Bob always called him, had on a Nixon watch. The round watch had a red, white, and blue band and a picture of Nixon in the middle. It was a caricature; not his real picture and Ford said he looked "kinda stupid." Calling Bob over, Jerry lifted his sleeve to show him the watch and I overheard him say, "This asshole doesn't know the time of day," and he took the watch off, threw in on the green and stomped it with his foot.

With a subtle nervous sort of laugh, Bob said, "You're very serious about this I can see." Bob liked to play it cool with all the politicians, especially presidents. He had a rule about not making negative comments to one politician putting down another. He said, "It is only diplomacy, which is essential in this business."

I was required to have sex with Ford as Nixon's Vice President and as President, but not ever as much as I did with Nixon or Reagan. I had sex with Ford as VP when he and Nixon were in different locations. Bush and Reagan appeared at places together occasionally, but Nixon and Ford never did that I was aware of. Henry Kissinger stayed connected to Ford, but at more of a distance after Nixon stepped down. Ford had connections all over the place. When Nixon stepped down Ford was right there--grinning like a shark waiting for the spoils--he and his mob buddies loved the opportunity to run the country from their perspective. I heard one of them say that at a private meeting. I was present at that meeting with directions to have sex with Ford and give him a Council message after sex.

I went along with Bob on golfing trips to caddy for him at times when he golfed with different presidents. He jokingly called me, "Katie the Caddy." Bob used me as a caddy so that no one could hear the sensitive nature of the conversations he had with prominent people. He often assured his guest at the club that I was unable to think, that I was retarded and that most anything. could be said in front of me and I wouldn't understand. He played me for a retarded person, at times, but other people knew I was really just a robot. Anyway, I had to hand Bob the correct golf club and I was instructed to anticipate his every need. I knew which club he preferred at each hole. I never was allowed to make a mistake and he would always wink at me just before he would swing. He whispered in my ear that it was just for luck. He said I was his good luck charm. He said that often to me in Vegas, too. In Las Vegas he would want me to hold onto his arm while he shot the dice or played Baccarat. Bob's attitude was much different after the game, if he lost. When he won he was in a great mood and would be happy and acted like he was real hot.

I handed Jerry's clubs to him also, but when I did, I'd smile and say, "Mr. President, Sir, how about this one?" He occasionally smoked a small white tipped cigar on the green and had me hold it for him while he swung.

Once while I was holding Jerry's cigar, Bob said to me, "Hey be careful with those magic hands of yours." Sex was always on his mind.

When I handed the club to Bob he would say, "I like that choice honey, let's give her a try." And if he'd miss a shot or screw up he'd blame it on a bad choice of the club or iron I selected. To cover himself, he'd say, "Let's use a seven iron on that next shot, I think it'll be a better choice for the condition of this green." I also got down, put the tees in the ground and set the ball up for Bob and his friends if they wanted or needed it, unless they had their own caddy. The golf course in Palm Springs had a lot of sand on the course.

Bob provided a visor for me to wear on the green and often slapped my bottom and said things like, "I just like to remind myself what's up for later." Other times he'd have me dressed in those little pleated short skirts with the little panties attached. During the course of the afternoon when Bob would stick his head under my skirt, I'd just smile brainlessly and do a 'Tommy Smothers act' and everyone would always laugh. Or, he'd pull my skirt up and mess around with it, showing everyone what he was finding, like the fact that the panties were sewn to the skirt and everyone thought it was so funny. He used me like a sideshow act and told people, "she's the butt of my jokes!"

Often after they finished the course, I had to give Ford oral sex or he'd have sex with me usually standing up backwards. This was extremely painful because of the thickness of his erection, and I could hardly walk later and I often bled afterwards; but he liked best to sit down and receive oral sex. It was always quite a mouthful with him and he'd ram it down my throat by pushing my head down real hard on him. Ford once said, "This is the best part of the game." When he was finished with me my mouth often cracked and bled. Sometimes I did it in the back of a limo or in a side room at the golf course.

Other times Bob would take Ford back to his house and tell him, "Enjoy her." And, he'd leave me alone by the pool with Ford or in a bedroom. When Ford was finished, he'd just leave me abruptly. Then I'd just sit and stare straight ahead waiting for Bob to tell me what to do next.

After I had children, Ford teased me that he may have been the father of my child and he would ask me, "How's junior?" He was responsible for a lot of the mob violence that happened to me during the mid to late 70's. He always wanted to insure that I was 'contained,' so he even had his mob buddies come to my home to rough up my children and me.

I was required to have sex with Gerald Ford on Thanksgiving Holidays at Big Bear and Big Sur. One holiday he jokingly said to Bob, "This is one of the things I am most thankful for," and they both laughed. Most of what I "thought" were our family vacations were actually times I spent servicing men from all over.

Chapter Nineteen: My Programmed Marriage – We've Only Just Begun

In my "conscious and public life" I entered junior college at Pierce College in Woodland Hills, just after my High School graduation in February of 1969. 1 worked toward a degree in psychology. Craig's family felt it would be good for him to go away for college so he left for the University of Colorado at Boulder and lasted there for a year. His grades were poor and we ended up spending all of our money on postage and plane fares to visit each other.

After Craig's return to California, he began attending Valley State College, which is now California State University at Northridge, with his eye on an eventual degree in dentistry. I worked a four-day week as a dental assistant for a Woodland Hills orthodontist named Michel N. Jacoby, D.D.S.

Craig proposed marriage in August of 1970, offering me a ring he worked a couple of years to pay for. Our plans were to be married one year later on August 21, 1971. Due to the mind control and cross-programming we were both under, we had no way of knowing that our marriage plans were not really our own. Following the secret plan, my father offered two options. Option one was to have a big wedding. Option two was to forgo the large wedding and, instead, take the money and use it on a lavish honeymoon in Hawaii.

Being a romantic and somewhat traditional with my Christian upbringing, I chose the large church wedding and reception. Craig and I were both surprised when my father informed us that he decided to give us the Hawaiian honeymoon, as well. He arranged an appointment for us to meet with his travel agent and the agent booked us a special package deal that would take us to several of the Hawaiian Islands.

On August 21, 1971, Reverend McKelvey, who at that time had quit being a minister and was selling real estate, married us at the First Presbyterian Church of Encino. Two hundred and fifty people were in attendance. After I walked up the isle on my father's arm, the organist played the song, You'll Never Walk Alone, which was a subconscious message to me that I would always be controlled. I cried during the entire ceremony but when asked, could offer little explanation as to why. My parents went all out on a sit down dinner reception that was held poolside in our newly re-landscaped backyard in Woodland Hills.

In order to keep our secret life concealed, Craig and I were also forced to participate in a separate 'black wedding' that took place before our white wedding. I had to wear a long black dress and a black veil and Craig wore all black including a black shirt with his black suit. It took place outdoors in a park late at night. Reverend McKelvey wore a black robe and married us in this ceremony, also.

But my secret hidden life would not and did not go away. In fact, it continued to exist even on our honeymoon. Of course, the reality of these secret events was kept carefully away from my husband's and my conscious awareness by very powerful programming.

One of the first nights we were in Hawaii, my newlywed husband took me to see Don Ho. Craig and I dressed for the evening and arrived in time for the dinner show. Don Ho appeared on stage, took the microphone in hand, and in his smooth modulated voice, sang Tiny Bubbles. When he was through he asked if there were any newlyweds in the audience. My handsome new husband proudly waved his hand in the air as he put his other arm around me and gave me a big hug. Don Ho congratulated us and requested the waiter bring a special bottle of champagne to our table. The bottle of champagne was a trigger for me to switch into another personality and Craig touched his watch as if adjusting it and that was to trigger and cue me. From then on, I acted from a totally unconscious programmed state. The next thing I knew Craig took me backstage to Don Ho's dressing room where, initially, there was some kind of drug transaction.

Next Don Ho took my hand and said to Craig, "Don't run away so fast. You don't think I am going to let a pretty California thing like this slip through my fingers." He looked directly at Craig. Craig stepped back and Don Ho took me by the hand to another room. Craig followed us. Don Ho ushered me inside, stuck his head back out the door and said to my husband, "You don't mind sharing your beautiful young bride with me do you?"

My bridegroom looked to the ground and said, "No, Sir." Craig looked nervous and agitated, but smiled.

"That's the way I like it - real easy." Don Ho said as he shut the door behind us.

He told me he wanted me to struggle, so it would be like a rape. "You would really like me to rape you though wouldn't you. You really enjoy being f----d. Or are you a virgin ...come for me to initiate?" As directed, I ran around the room, escaping his advances until he grabbed me and unzipped the back of my dress. He slipped it off, took off my sandals and said he would go real slowly taking off the rest and that he had a particular liking for pretty bras and panties.

Don Ho laid me on a large couch and began kissing me and then he slapped me and kissed me again. He was really strange. First he was gentle and then the next minute violent. He had been drinking and after he took my bra and panties off he said he needed to "powder his face," and he snorted a line of cocaine. He came over and kneeled on one knee and started having sex with me. He said he loved tight women and he satisfied himself with me fairly quickly but never did take off his pants, just his shirt.

When he was finished with me, I went back out to Craig and Do Ho stayed in the room. Craig took me back to our hotel room.

The rest of our honeymoon we went to several other Hawaiian Islands including Maui. I was used sexually by other political people on other islands.

When we returned from our "honeymoon" we moved into an apartment on Parthenia Avenue in Canoga Park, California. I continued working four days a week for Dr. Jacoby and Craig continued his studies as a pre-med major to become a dentist. Sliced into my 'expanded' duties as dental assistant, were 'special assignments' that began when a suited man, posing as a drug company salesman, delivered tiny implants that I was programmed to cement into the braces of certain 'select' young patients. Most often, they were beautiful young girls. One day, as another dental assistant and I were busily cementing a band on a particularly beautiful 10 year old girl, whose father was an affluent, prominent USC dental professional in the community, I was repulsed when I ran my dental instrument around her tooth and came up with a pubic hair. My assistant and I looked at each other in horror and, although I was under mind control, the obvious connections were made.

In 1973, Craig and I moved to Agoura Hills and my parents gave us a down payment to buy a condominium on Oakpath Drive. It wasn't long until my parents sold their home in Woodland Hills and moved down the street from us. They were always close by.

I was still accessed and used with Nixon, Reagan, Kissinger, Bob Hope and others, as well as in various experimental projects (including dental implant experimentation) and filmed in porn in many locations in California, especially Studio City and Bel Aire.

During his junior year at Cal State Northridge, Craig applied to 20 dental schools around the nation and was rejected at every one of them because his grades weren't high enough to qualify him for entrance. But my father saved the day by calling his rich Uncle Charlie, whom he supposedly hadn't seen or spoken to in over 25 years, to ask him humbly for the favor of helping his son-in-law into USC Dental School. Soon after, my father's "Uncle" arranged for Craig's acceptance to USC Dental School. Charles Lilley Horn, wasn't really my father's uncle but instead a cousin. He was owner of Federal Cartridge Corporation (munitions manufacturer), which later became a major subsidiary of the Olin Foundation, Inc. During the 1960's, as President of the Olin Foundation (a charitable trust established by F. W. Olin, founder of the Olin Corporation), Uncle Charlie contributed sizeable donations to USC and had connections to the school. More on all of this in a later chapter. Upon acceptance to dental school, Craig quit Cal State Northridge, before obtaining his BS degree, and worked full time until he entered USC School of Dentistry.

"Get rid of all bitterness, rage and anger ...be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you."-- Ephesians 4:31-32

Chapter Twenty: Jimmy Carter

Evidently Jimmy Carter was too directed by his Christian belief system and too connected to his wife to ever stray. It was my experience that if he was guilty of any sexual indiscretions, he did only lust in his heart. I never had sex with Jimmy Carter.

He did, however, listen and respond to messages delivered through me from the Council. He had a very hungry ear and listened carefully and responded helpfully to all but a few requests from them. He even bit on a bunch of Henry's messages, delivered through me. By then Carter thought I was only Council, he didn't know I was connected to Henry Kissinger and Henry loved that he was "puppeting a democrat" and "one that didn't believe in adultery but would take top secret information from a whore and run the country from it." Henry thought it was the best laugh ever. But he always ran parallel and complementary with the Council. They were his boss and he took many orders from them politically, but he could also place in his own input.

"But now the Lord who created you ...says: Don't be afraid, for I have ransomed you; I have called you by name; you are mine. When you go through deep waters and great trouble, I will be with you. When you go through rivers of difficulty, you will not drown! When you walk though the fire of oppression, you will not be burned up - the flames will not consume you. For I am the Lord your God, your Savior..." -- Isaiah 43:1-3

Chapter Twenty-one: The Hollywood Connection

Michael Jackson

Michael Jackson was just a little boy of four or five when I accompanied Bob Hope to a place where they were filming up-and-coming talent for television. Bob told me he supported and sponsored the Jacksons, getting them a professional foot in the door. Their father brought the boys in and I remembered seeing them taken into a side room where bright lights were on. They all had to drop their pants and before their performance a big man raped each one of them in a lineup. Then they were taken to a different room and dressed in little suits and sent onto the stage to perform. Due to the mind control I was under, I'm not sure exactly where we were, but feel that it was the early days of the Ed Sullivan Show. I watched as Bob, dressed in a grey pinstripe suit and bow tie, with white shoes, shook hands with Ed; and then the Jackson boys went on. They were made into a sensation and famous, on purpose, so that they could be used in the future to influence large audiences. Bob and his connections knew that all they needed was some talent, make-up, costumes, lights, glitter and lots of publicity. He said publicity was the most important ingredient.

I was just a teenager and Bob said that he wanted me to be present so I could learn the ropes to being a "starlet." He wanted me to see how it was done and feel comfortable around the stage. I think he just said that as a cover to other people to hide the real reason I was with him - for his and others sexual pleasure.

Bob explained to me how important clothes are to one with a public image to uphold. I had on a short, small, tight-fitting, low-cut, yellow, sheath dress. I did as I was told and wore it along with the gold high heels I was provided.

Bob was often the connection for new entertainment. The Council used his connections for their own interest and got 'key' entertainers in place for future use. Many were robots like me. I saw many of them get hurt. I never saw Bob get hurt though. The Jacksons were hurt; I was witness to their abuse. That first time when they performed, Bob got them onto the show and then we left in the limo and watched from the television inside. He told the driver to drive around until the show was over. Then Bob told me, "See how easy it is to be a star?" And he laughed and pushed my head into his lap for oral sex.

I think most would agree that the inherent love that is part of Michael Jackson's soul essence shines through for the world to see. In spite of the programming themes in some of the songs he sings, as I was recovering I often held onto the words he sang, the lyrics reminding me, "You are not alone," when I felt so very alone. To Michael, I extend a hand and say you also are not alone. Now there is a way out of this insanity.

Neil Diamond and Others

Publicly, Neil Diamond and Bob golfed together in the Springs. That's how I got connected to him.

As a teenager, I was programmed to serve Neil Diamond in different capacities for many years. He was not violent like some of the others, but he didn't have any morals.

One day when I was a young teenager, Neil walked though the breezeway into our backyard to the pool where I was tanning in my bikini. My father got very angry and told him, "Get the hell out of here!"

Neil replied, "Take it easy, Pops. No one knows I'm here. Just Relax." But he did leave after he kissed me on the cheek and ran his hands though my hair. He said he just needed to see me for "inspiration" and then he left. Neil always said I was his inspiration and after we'd have sex I'd whisper programmed phrases in his ear to incorporate into his songs or phrases for program lock-in or, as our controllers said, "to move the targeted generation up another notch."

When I was with Neil I felt merged with him. I didn't know who I was, where I ended and he began. I was programmed to magnify his essence so he could feel and see more of who he was. I was used often to contain Neil, to bring him back to himself and bring his "self" back to him when he felt he gave it all away to crowds and audiences. Over time I witnessed this being a problem for a lot of programmed stars. I was sent to do this service for other celeb's, both male and female, who needed to bounce off another person in order to maintain their programmed "selves." They got lost at times and I was programmed to help them.

I suntanned with him in the nude and like a protective Jewish mother, he always made sure I had lots of suntan lotion on, especially in crucial spots so I wouldn't burn. He didn't have neighbors and his home was located up on a hill in Malibu or the Santa Monica Mountains, so it was very secluded. They could have tricked me in regard to the location of his house, but I know I had to drive through the canyon to get there. He was building a new home and when the deck was stable enough to hold us we had sex outside. As we looked upward toward the night sky, he named all the stars on my list "to do." The list was lettered not numbered, such as, "(A) Barbra: Tuesday and Thursday 3:30 p.m. (B) Carlo Sangucci: 7:00 p.m...." and he continued inputting my schedule for the week. He gave me instructions to keep my schedule organized. If he ever missed me for the week, I couldn't function because I hadn't received my local assignments. For this reason, Neil and I were very regular with each other. In my late teens, I visited with him nearly every week. And, when I was with him I delivered lyrical words or phrases for songs to him after sex. When we were in our programmed "cozy" state, he'd say, "give me sugar," and I'd unload all I had been given into him and later it would show up over and over in his songs. Privately, he would attribute it only to my being his undying inspiration. I was used with Neil like I was with Elvis, which leads me to believe that Neil is also programmed.

Neil played the piano and sang to practice while wearing sweatpants and no shirt. He also had a room where the whole entire wall was mirrored. He stood and looked into the mirror and sang to himself to rehearse. In some ways he reminded me of Elvis.

I was never allowed to interrupt while he was playing. But when he was through, he had me do everything for him, including a massage or sex, manicure and pedicure - even if he'd just had one somewhere else. He could never get enough touching and attention. I had a whole grouping of personalities located beneath 'tiger sex programming,' seven in all, devoted to him and he would say, "I have seven so I can get to heaven and you darlin' take me to heaven." Neil programmed in, "Wine will take you to the place of love." He had a room with fountains, Buddhas, and ferns where he meditated. His place of "perfect peace," he called it. He created devotion in the personalities within me by programming into me the love and goodness of Jesus, His pure love, all into my heart chakra so that the feelings of devotion would be directed toward him.

Pornography was often filmed at his estate. Bob sent people from his parties that were sexually wild to Neil's for filming in pornography. It didn't matter if they were only children. Neil's porn business was so large that it kept a large number of Malibu, Pacific Palisades, Ventura, Calabasas, and Agoura Hills slaves very busy. Whole programmed families were used. 'Sex with families' videos were popular in the 80's among a certain group and Neil seemed totally fascinated, watching families together. He loved bodies. He said he was a connoisseur of the human body as an art form. That's why he said he liked to film the most beautiful act on earth, the love act, when people were as intimate as they could get. He said that children should be allowed to openly enjoy the pleasures of sex. He asked, "Why should they have to wait to enjoy these natural pleasures?" I couldn't think to answer. He liked to see their physical characteristics and he liked to watch them, as he called it, "make love, family-style." Other times when he was in a different sort of mood, he would refer to the pornography as, "getting it on, family-style."

Unfortunately and sorrowfully, I remembered being programmed to drive children to Neil's. Once we arrived I walked into the house like I owned it. I knew where the hidden key was and ushered everyone in and got them settled. The rule at Neil's house in the hills was that you had to check your clothes and shoes at the door. None were allowed, or else you couldn't enter, "the Sanctuary," as he called it. Neil often came out in his black silk robe and black slippers to meet his, "guests," he called them. He looked them over and if they were particularly appealing to him, he would want to have sex with one or more after the filming. Neil was what Henry Kissinger called "versatile," which meant he liked sex with everything. I will spare you the details but he relieved himself sexually, often, as he felt it made him powerful and continually virile. That was very important to him. Neil said he loved the beauty and amount of innocence that was present when a group of blonde neighborhood children were together. They were filmed often. Neil also filmed bestiality porn. He gave the kids cocaine and filmed it in the house or somewhere on the grounds. Sometimes the 4-H kids brought their animals, and they filmed the kids having sex with each other and the animals. We were all just viewed as worker bees and mindlessly did whatever we were told.

When we left to go home, I once again entered a programmed mind state, by traveling "The Highway to Heaven," which I was told was Kanan Road. I was given the hypnotic command to "remember to forget," whenever I saw many signs and signals along the canyon roads, in their attempt to keep memory of these events hidden from my conscious mind.

At other times, if I arrived before Neil, I was told to wait and so I sat down on his white sofa. Obediently, I waited, looking straight ahead or out the window to the distant view. Then I heard the chopper and on one occasion he came walking into the house wearing a tan suit and sunglasses. One time he even wore those guru sandals with his suit. Then I helped him relax and he would say programmed phrases to me like, "Honey, you're ageless, timeless, and all mine baby, all mine. You are my pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. All mine, devoted only to me." I got him anything he wanted or needed no matter what it was, and I was programmed to love doing it.

Some nights I was assigned to go to parties with him where we'd, "hob knob with the rich and famous," he'd say, as he held out his arm for me to hold onto. We didn't stay too long at parties because he would want to have a private party for two at home. Some evenings we were helicoptered to his home in the hills. He wanted and demanded my full attention. He never wanted to enter the reality that I had my own boyfriend or husband. He wanted me to think of him as my man, my only man. But, he had sex with lots of people in front of me. He always wanted me to stay right in the room during the filming of porn as well as later when he had sex with whoever was filmed. He would flip out and act like an emotionally temperamental boy at times. Regardless of his actions, I was programmed to be totally devoted and I catered to his demands exclusively.

Neil Diamond was a Council "treasure" and they kept him well taken care of. I attended concerts of his to shore him up when he said he wanted and needed me to be there. I got up from my ticketed seat next to my young husband and told him I was going to the restroom during the intermission. Instead I slid backstage with Neil, who was all sweaty, shaking and needing to share the powerful high he was on. He said that all the energy people focused onto him was totally overwhelming him and he said he needed me to ground him out so he could go back on stage. That meant sex and then, as programmed, I told him I loved him and that he was the very best and to go out and give them all that he had. I told him if he gave all of himself to the audience who loved him, that they would shower it all back to him. He was always afraid that when he gave so much at performances that he would become depleted but I helped him reframe that belief, so he went back out empowered, not consumed. Then he would snort a couple of lines of cocaine and go back out to the screaming fans, and I returned to my seat next to Craig.

Craig and I attended another of his concerts at the Universal Amphitheater. Neil told me to drink a champagne cocktail, which at times was against the rules, but for the night he was my master. He said he wanted me to catch up to him (he was on a drug high), but even after I'd had a drink I always came into focus for Neil and was instructed to mirror back to him what my controllers wanted him to be, do, say and feel. Lots of the words to his songs were program lock-ins for me ...like Starlight, Starflight, and Turn on Your Heartlight (ET). I was programmed to listen to his music to keep my programming and memories locked away from my conscious mind.

Neil used to say he was singing to me while he was on stage. That was pretty powerful for me to contain, while I sat next to my husband during the concert. In my conscious awareness I had no idea I was doing anything other than attending Neil's concert; but even as I sat in a conscious state of unawareness, the underlying feelings were powerful as I held my connection to Neil. We had an agreement that he would sing it all to me, send everything he had to me, and I would say, "And I will be here collecting all of you and I will bring it back to you filled with more love and more caring than you could ever imagine!" That made him smile. Then at intermission or after the concert, I'd go and give it all back to him to fill him back up. He pretended like he was taking it and then he dressed and went out with other people. Neil was hustled into a limo and was gone, and so were those parts of me that were programmed to go to sleep inside of me until they saw Neil again. Then Craig would come and take me home.

I also attended his Hot August Nights concert at the Greek Theatre in 1972.

Neil said he liked to be showered with love, and in response I was always soft and nurturing and loving with him. I catered to him exclusively while I was with him. He loved to trace his finger around my belly button to bring out "Jeanie."

I was still having sex and caring for Neil, even while I was in therapy in 1988. I went to therapy in Westwood and then swung home, down Pacific Coast Highway to meet Neil somewhere or at his home, have sex, and then I'd drive back to Agoura to my home, with "fresh fish" I bought for my family at the Malibu Fish Store. Bob laughed when he said it would be a good cover. Bob saw the world through a completely sexual orientation.

Stars had trouble getting "secured" sex with people. They couldn't trust that people weren't coming on to them to manipulate or hurt them, and since they were famous they couldn't risk losing their public reputation. So, slaves were provided to them. And Bob provided me to everyone he could, knowing the value of connections to powerful people. He laughed and said, "It's all right, she's broadening herself."

Word seemed to spread like wildfire to stars about the sex slave service. They loved it just like the politicians did, since they thought they could let their hair down and not have to worry because many were told I was a robot that couldn't ever divulge their secrets. With individuals not privy to the top-secret mind control information, Bob explained, "She's beautiful and highly sexual, but she's mentally slow and can't think. She doesn't have the ability to remember. She's been like this since birth, but...," Bob elucidated, "...what she lacks upstairs she greatly makes up for downstairs," and he'd smile slyly, "if you know what I mean."

Many people never knew that I was a robot, under total mind control. They just thought I was slow or deaf and dumb. That was another tactic Bob used. He had different explanations for different people, but for Neil Diamond, personalities were created within me who talked, listened, loved and cared for Neil.

Bob often called other men, "Son." I overheard him say, "Listen son, she'll please you and ease you and not spill the beans. She can't think to! But that won't hurt, it will only enhance your pleasure. Try it and see. I think you'll like it!" Bob maximized my usage by sending me to many, many stars and politicians over the years. He sent me to Quincy Jones, Burt Reynolds, Eddie Murphy, and others. Many of them didn't want to risk too much exposure with strangers for various and sundry reasons; they didn't want to become too attached emotionally, didn't want to risk the security of knowing someone too long where a person could find out too much and hurt them in different ways, or there were other reasons unique to individual celebrities.

Mickey Rooney

In yesteryears, I was taken to show openings or galas in Hollywood, because Mickey would want me to be there, usually disguised. Later on after I had children, my daughter Kelly would be waiting inside the limo to give him oral sex. Mickey wanted me there to watch. Mickey always liked to have tons of women, as many as he could amass, flanked by his side. I overheard him say to Bob that it was good for his image. Bob replied, "Anytime it can be arranged for you to use any of my girls, I'd be delighted."

And that was arranged, over and over again. Bob made sure Kelly was trained in many of the same ways he trained me. We went to the Playboy Club for Kelly to have bunny lessons. I was dressed in a long black velvet gown with diamonds and Kelly had on a long red velvet gown with her hair done up and make-up. She was around 10 years old. All this to insure Bob's 'little filly' was prepared for use with whomever he decided to share her with. There were times Mickey Rooney would rendezvous with my family at a small exclusive restaurant in Agoura Hills. When the cues were given, Kelly would get up to go to the restroom and Mickey Rooney took over, later sexually pleasuring himself with our beautiful little daughter. He had a house near the area. I am not sure where exactly, but his house had a solarium with an indoor pool and he liked to have a lot of naked women around the pool. He was absolutely disgusting, but he really liked Kelly a lot.

Jane Fonda

I believe Jane Fonda was under programming, also. She was part of the experiment on how to achieve "eternal youth," while participating to further the cause in behind-the-scenes political arenas. I occasionally passed Council messages to her at her Beverly Hills Fitness Center. They had a control group within the project to see if women would stay youthful and cease to age with just mind programming, or if exercise needed to be combined with the programming. They had a control group participating like Jane with the same eternal youth program, yet not exercising extensively to see which method prolonged longevity. In case you are interested, they found exercise to be a necessary component for successful anti-aging.

James Taylor

My husband took me to James' concerts; we went often when he was in town. During one concert I had two glasses of wine. My instructions were that after I drank them I was to go to the restroom and then go to the backstage door, and knock two times. When the door opened, I said, "Bob Hope sent me. Anybody interested? Anybody want any body?"

"Hell yes!" a man in a casual shirt said, pulling me in the door. "James will need a little at the break. A little pick-me-upper for his pecker. You just sit down here little lady and get yourself HOT. No," he laughed, "cool your wheels or is that heels? Just relax your c--t until it's time for the hunt. James is almost finished with the set." He pretended he was yelling to James in a high voice, "James, she's here, the one you hold near and dear, the c--t from Bob the Boss man." Then he looked over to me and said, "Just a few moments and you'll be on the Highway to Heaven with James ...little Jimmy."

James stumbled off stage all sweaty and took my hand. I was feeling shy and he said, "Follow me on the Highway to Heaven. You are in for the ride of the night, as you ride my jewel to heaven. It will be out of this world, otherworldly, outta' sight!" He took me into a room and laid me on a couch chair and said, "Look into the air, don't beware, your chicken is cookin,' you're good lookin,' but aren't aware." He pushed my head over to the side real hard and continued, "Show me your wares." So I took off my clothes and dropped them to the floor. He told me to sit and spread 'em so I did and he dropped his loose fitting off white cotton trousers on the floor. While he held tightly to the back of my head, he relieved himself in my mouth. "Oh, oh," he screamed, "that was gooooood. Swallow that please and then you can be excused." He swished on by, kind of dancy like and said, "That oughtta' propel me into the second half with gusto!"

He walked out, closed the door and I sat there like a robot until another guy came in and raped me on the couch. He said, "James saved your c--t for me this time." He stood over me and when he orgasmed he screamed, "I feel like a cock-a-doodle-do!" he said crowing like a rooster. When he was through with me he said, "Okay, its clothes time!" then he delivered a hypnotic hand command. I got up and pulled my clothes on and he led me out to the side door where Craig was standing at the door waiting for me. Craig took me by the hand, and I felt like a little girl going back to my seat where I sat robotically until the concert was finished.

Over the years I was programmed to listen repeatedly to James Taylor's songs while some of the word phrases "re-minded" me to, "...leave your mind behind, Mexico..." and "...you can run but you cannot hide, this is widely known ...."

Barbra Streisand

Barbra Streisand was used in the same way as other Hollywood celebrities before and after her. Through my personal experience with Barbra Streisand, I believe she is under the control of many of the same persons I was. She was pre-programmed to deliver messages she couldn't even have known she was passing on to millions of people. She sang her songs and was given carefully selected, pre-chosen words that would serve to lock in or open up certain programming in other mind control victims.

My own programming was laced with many of her songs. Victims of mind control hear the lyrics of a song and take the phrases that match their programming literally. The words they hear tie into subconscious memory of past traumatic experiences intended to keep them helplessly and hopelessly under mind control. Barbra sang a song entitled My Pa which I was told represented my feelings toward my father and the words were powerfully connected to my emotional state, creating a feeling of love and safety with my father, when in fact he was torturing me endlessly, nearly every day. The lyrics stated, "My pa can light my room at night with just his being there, and make a fearful dream all right by grinning ear to ear..." etc.

Her song, "I'm in a New York State of mind, " was tied to programming to orient me to events and people I was used with in New York in order to keep that reality separate from my conscious mind. Many of the lyrics from her song Memories, served as a hypnotic command to my subconscious mind, in order to 're-mind' me that, "Memories may be beautiful and yet what's too painful to remember, we simply choose to forget." Another of her songs, Send in the Clowns, reminded me and can remind other survivors of the abuse they endured as children in circus or amusement park settings where clowns were used as perpetrators. And, then there's her rendition of Over the Rainbow, which taps into Wizard of Oz programming themes.

As a teenager my cassette tapes and, as I grew older, my CD's of Barbra's songs, were well worn from endless listening, as the lyrics to her songs, coupled with my already intact program commands, continued to create my reality, whatever my controllers wanted it to be. Up until recently, my mother repeatedly listened to Barbra Steisand's songs. As a child I often had trouble getting my mother's attention because when she listened to the songs she became so fixated on the music that she was very far off somewhere in a programmed reality created by our controllers. She seemed very happy, almost euphoric. I've witnessed other survivors cling desperately to their Walkman delivering their programmed commands, while I'm trying to talk with them, due to their attempt to, as they've experienced, keep themselves "safe" by reinforcing their program "to forget."

When Barbra performed, which was rare, she was delivering a perfectly planned and orchestrated set of cryptic instructions to many of the people in attendance. She reached a wider audience, as mind-controlled victims bought the cassette tape or video of the performance and listened to it over and over and over again. Certain groups of mind-controlled people, like my mother and myself, were targeted for listening to her. Per program, we listened to her songs addictively and compulsively while following the command to reprogram ourselves by locking down the security of our own programming. Of course, Barbra herself is a victim and, from my observation, I am sure has no awareness that she is doing anything other than performing.

Barbra Streisand has extremely large breasts for her small body size. I've seen her naked at Bob Hope's parties and at other places. I was even involved in group sexual orgies where she was participating. And at other times, I was targeted to have sex with her one-on-one in order to deliver messages to her to keep her programming going or to instruct her on what to say at certain times. She is a mind-controlled robot. She did lots of cocaine at parties. She liked sex with women, and usually requested it. I was sent to her often.

My husband frequently took me out for dinner in Malibu when there was an alternate agenda to be accomplished. One night after such a dinner he drove me up a canyon road in his Datsun 280Z. He stopped along the road and we sat in the dark without saying anything until a black sedan pulled up next to the car. I got out and climbed into the back seat of the sedan. Two men in the front seat were dressed in dark expensive suits and the man in the passenger side had a gold pinky ring. They continued up a winding road to a house in the canyon and when we arrived they opened the door of the house with a key and went in. Barbra Streisand was robotically sitting on the couch and I was told to sit down next to her and link up by holding her hands. So I took her hands and then the man said, "Deliver the words." So I did. After I delivered the message, they used the stun gun on us both. Barbra laid face down on the couch, really out of it, with her hand hanging down over the side. Her face was very pale and she looked asleep. The man took me by the arm and pushed me toward the door and we left. Craig, still waiting in the Z, flashed his headlights and they stopped the sedan, transferred me back to my husband and we went home.

In September of 1986, Barbra sent out invitations to a special fundraising concert to be given at her home 'under the stars,' in Malibu. My husband received our invitation at his dental office and said we should go, but I remember saying to him, "It's $5,000 a ticket, what are you thinking of?" I was in school as well as therapy by this time, and spending $10,000 was a huge chunk out of the resources that I needed to spend on my healing and education. I was more interested in my recovery than one night of Barbra Streisand in concert.

My husband replied, "Well, it would be a great memory." Prior to this episode, Craig had never displayed any special attraction to Barbra Streisand or her music.

Later when she and I were both switched into a "programmed state of mind," she told me she was upset that I didn't buy a ticket to come to see her in concert at her home. Ironically, I ended up being at her concert in Malibu anyway to have sex with and target some military guy with a bunch of stars on his uniform and later after the concert, Barbra. I was incognito and wore my lace off-the-shoulder dress that I had previously worn for our family portraits. It was a $400 dress my husband bought me. I had to be at different places afterwards to help her relax and unwind, which usually ended up in sex. I had been instructed to say specific words to relax her. A therapist was there at other times to help.

When they could sell a certain number of very expensive tickets to her concert in the area of her home, they proved the results of a mind control project experiment to see if that targeted area was sufficiently under mind control. Checkmate! When it sold out they felt they had won because they sent the invitations to people that would be the hardest to control (the most challenging) and when it sold out they knew they had "cracked the code." Their victory was only temporary. As I now know, they were mistaken, for, I believe The City of Angels (Los Angeles) is spiritually destined to wake up to claim its name to fame!

No one could tell there had even been a mind control experiment that concluded with Barbara's Malibu performance. This was one way the controllers made large sums of money, all carefully concealed in such "charity fundraisers," which were then meticulously funneled into covert accounts. And, they further locked victims in, not only with the concert but with the video that was made of the concert. During her Malibu, One Voice performance, Barbra delivered one program-laced song lyric after another. First she sang “Send In the Clowns.” Then she announced that in her research she came across one of the finest songs ever written, and the lyrics felt so relevant she decided to sing it and dedicated it to the woman who first sang it. That song was Over the Rainbow, and encompasses these lyrics:

> "When all the world is a hopeless jumble and the raindrops tumble all around, heaven opens a magic lane. When all the clouds darken up the skyway, there's a rainbow highway to be found, leading from your windowpane to a place behind the sun, just a step beyond the rain. Somewhere over the rainbow, way up high, there's a land that I've heard of once in a lullaby. Somewhere over the rainbow, skies are blue. And the dreams that you dare to dream really do come true. Someday I'll wish upon a star and wake up where the clouds are far behind me. Where troubles melt like lemon drops way above the chimney-tops, that's where you'll find me. Somewhere over the rainbow, bluebirds fly. Birds fly over the rainbow, why then, oh, why can't I. If all those little bluebirds fly beyond the rainbow, why oh why, can't I?"

To further explain the significance of these word phrases for mind control victims:

"...heaven opens a magic lane," was for me a hypnotic induction for mind control.

"...there's a rainbow highway to be found, leading from your windowpane to a place behind the sun, just a step beyond..." for me was a program command to switch to the Highway to Heaven, which was a dissociative state in which I went over the rainbow to a subconscious place in my mind where I was commanded not to associate what happened there with my everyday, conscious reality.

In Barbra's duet with Andy Gibb, they sang the song Guilty and the words that powerfully affected me and could effect other ritual abuse/mind control survivors are:

Gibb quickly enters the stage from behind singing, "there's danger in the dark," which for me was a subconscious reminder of trauma that occurs in the dark. Over the years, the word 'dark' was linked in my subconscious mind to ritual terrors and horrors, a reminder that commanded me to remember to forget, or else.

Further lyrics were:

"...Shadows fallin' baby, we stand alone..." - victims are often told they will be left to stand all alone, that no one outside 'the network' will believe or help them, or even want to be around them.

"...Nothing to be guilty for..." - a release for the endless ways many are forced to participate in the evil deeds, puppeted and dictated by our controllers.

"...Eyes can see, that we got a highway to the sky..." - victims are told they are always watched, by the 'eye in the sky' and in other ways by their controllers. Eyes are often a common theme in the art/journal work of victims in recovery. These three small words, "eyes can see..." have powerful meaning, sneaking through a subconscious doorway into the mind of a victim of mind control in order to remind them to watch carefully that they stay in line.

"...that we got a highway to the sky..." - can be a hypnotic induction to dissociate in order to receive program.

"...how can I win? Where will The tomorrow?" -words of despair, defeat.

The powerful ending to the duet is: "and we got nothing ...and we got nothing, and we got nothing..." Let me tell you Barry and Barbra, and all of the other beautiful people locked under the bondage of mind control: that is a lie, a lie our controllers told all of us. The truth is that we have everything. We are rich, starting with our spiritual heritage. The One that created us is powerfully working within to set you free from those who for years have benefited, by allowing you to soar, sharing your talents with others as they controlled and manipulated you for their own benefit, through mind control - through the control of your mind and mine. I wasn't famous, so when I broke free I wasn't as large a threat as you are and will be. I was small potatoes to my controllers. But to God I was important, as all His children are, and He has commissioned me to dedicate my life to seeing to it that you, some of the most talented human beings on this planet, are freed. This is His wish because He has assured me that you have at the center of your being, love, and that when you can know the magnitude of issues we face at this time, that you will stand and reach your hand down to your fellow brothers and sisters, to help them. At this time I am lending my hand, via Him, to you in hopes that some of you may be freed in order to reach your hands out to the masses. It is our last hope and we are running out of time. God has placed a great magnitude of love in my heart for you and my children, and I love all of you more than life itself, because indeed in sharing this information it would seem that I am putting my life at risk. But the Master Himself has assured me safe passage, as I go for help for all of you. And this manuscript is my attempt to "go for help," for you. I also am aware that those of you who are programmed will not be able, like oil reacting to water, to read or comprehend what I have written. But I hope others will intercede for you in order that you can be delivered from the bondage you have been held captive by. I love you, as individuals and for the beautiful heavenly creative talents you possess, but not as immensely as God does. He wants your freedom, He wants your release and He won't rest until you are all free of this evil force, one that at this time you are unable to be aware of.

As the concert proceeded, Barbra said, "I am going to light this candle in memory of all those wise and good men whose lives were senselessly and violently snuffed out before their time: Lincoln, Ghandi, Martin Luther King, John Kennedy, Anwar Sadat, Olaf Palmer, men of peace and vision, voices the world so desperately needs now - father figures. I think we've all lost someone whose guidance and wisdom we miss in times of fear and confusion, and this is for them." After which she sang: "May the light of this flickering candle, illuminate the night the way your spirit illuminates my soul." Sounds to me like bits and pieces of reminders of people I watched killed over the years.

Next in her backyard concert, Barbra sang Pa Pa, where the lyrics say, "Pa Pa can you hear me? ...Looking at the skies I seem to see a million eyes which ones are yours?" Again, there is the "eyes watching you" theme.

Next was, of course, Memories, with the lyrics reminding our subconscious minds: "Memories like the corners of my mind, misty water-colored memories like the way we were. Scattered pictures of the smiles we left behind, smiles we gave to one another for the way we were. Can it be that it was all so simple then or has time rewritten every line, if we had the chance to do it all again, tell me would we, could we? Memories may be beautiful and yet, what's too painful to remember we simply choose to forget. For it's the laughter we remember, whenever we remember the way we were."

At the end of her concert, in a patriotic quest, Barbra sang America the Beautiful and invited the audience to join with her in song.

During those years, (although at the time I was consciously unaware of my involvement) her therapist and I were often in charge of keeping Barbra stable and balanced. The therapist worked with her psychological state and I worked on her body, doing massage therapy, accupressure, polarity therapy, etc. All this was done to keep Barbra in shape and in line. She was fragile and needed a lot to keep her going.

I was called in often to shore Barbra up, especially in between times when she was out of relationship or having problems with her male friends. Later in her career, she had trouble even having sex with men. When she was alone, she would get scared at night and need someone. As programmed,

I'd go over after my children were taken care of or when our maid was there, at which time I was free to go at anytime. I held Barbra and did whatever she seemed to need to get her stabilized.

We walked on the beach a lot, especially after she bought the home away from the Colony nest (the grouping of homes she owned) and people that knew her. She bought a place just a few blocks down the street. It was very clever because if people thought they saw her on the beach, they could assume she was at home, but then she'd disappear into the anonymous home that was purchased in another name to give her the privacy she needed. Then her therapist and I could go to her there unnoticed. She wanted privacy even from her maids, and would arrange for her therapist and I to be with her. If she didn't call on the car phone and tell me, she would walk to the new house and call me from her bedroom. I was instructed to go to the front gate and from a call box tell the maid a coded message to give to her. Barbra usually gave the maid the rest of the day off, explaining she was going to be with friends. Then after the therapist and myself arrived, we would take her to "the house-house," as she called it. One night we were called out for a 'Barbra emergency' and when her therapist and I arrived we found Barbra in the closet upstairs at the 'house-house,' even before it was carpeted. She couldn't wait. She was all huddled into a little ball and crying with her hair all stringy and hanging in her face. She looked like a little frightened child. She was breaking down often and her controllers couldn't afford for her to break up yet. She was a real mess. She just survived to do what they needed her to do. She sat in my lap and I nurtured her and she showed me her dolls and things. I massaged her and did reflexology, accupressure, polarity, whatever I could do to help her. I did body treatments on her often, usually more than once a week - up to five times a week - and it usually ended up in sex as she initiated it.

Barbra had to be kept together because she had been used to make the connections to some very important people, and especially to the masses. Because she had been so heavily invested in, as a mind control asset, they now had to keep her "maintained" 24 hours a day at times and had to use other slaves to shore her up. Unlike a "normal" person, she could never talk about what she saw and remembered in private (during sleep or upon awakening) without being monitored. Whatever it took or cost was worth it to her controllers because they built her up to a certain targeted audience so completely that her controllers paid exorbitant amounts of money to keep her together, and her fans would pay any amount to see her. Many may themselves be under mind control.

They carefully prepared Barbra to harmonically control crowds. She did, not only with the natural talent she has and the trained harmonics in her voice, but also with the hand signals and word combinations she sang. She is a total robot and is breaking down, but they will spend a fortune to keep her together (like poor Elvis) until she just can't function anymore.

So no expense was spared for her. We organized little tea parties for Barbra based on different themes given to us by my professor in the Master's program. We'd buy items that were just made for Barbra. I would stop at Michael's Party Shop and give them the list of items and the sales people would gather it all up for me. Then I'd go to Barbra, switched to the personality inside of me who was created to be older than me and older than Barbra, the one who was designed to care for the "Big B," the "Queen B," when she needed it. She was our friend. We hated to see her crumble.

Sometimes the Council gave me different drugs for Barbra. She always got to choose one, but I think they all must have done the same thing, just packaged in different wrappers or capsules. As soon as she would pass out, and that is what she always did, a group of men would come into the house with equipment to work on her. Sometimes it looked like her body came off the couch from the electroshock. It was awful to watch. Then when they took the equipment off of her body, it would be cold and clammy, yet she would have a band of sweat on her face. It was my job, or her therapist's, to get her back on her feet again. Sometimes she would sleep for days afterward. Then I heard them say they had to adjust her, that is, give her more "sessions." When she came around we would be soft and kind and gentle to her and eventually she would come out of it. A friend of her therapist helped Barbra, too, on nights she couldn't. It became increasingly difficult to manage getting her put back together. It was a team effort.

I gave her injections, also. I was taught to pinch the skin on the top fatty portion of her arm, then stick the needle in it so I couldn't hurt anything. I was given a syringe to deliver drugs to arms or thighs when and if the need arose, which later became quite often. I had to give Barbra the injections whenever they told me to; otherwise they would have killed us both. I'd seen them do it to others.

Barbra liked for me to sing with her and harmonize. She said it made her feel happy like the good ole' days when she was young. She had on pink bell bottoms and a white tank top. She was really out there, stoned, drunk, or drugged out of her mind.

The massage idea helped keep a slave enslaved and contained because the accupressure points often matched up correctly with programmed touch spots. It worked well. Bodywork eased the stress of the body while locking the mind in program - a great leisurely and heavenly containment idea to further imprison mind control slaves. With rich and famous slaves they said it was easy because they could send them off on endless journeys, trips, workshops, special spas, expos, etc., because these slaves had the money to pursue different avenues that often led them directly back into containment. The Colony is not far from Point Mugu Naval Base (a mind control programming center) and seems to have been in conveniently close proximity for reconditioning purposes. More on Point Mugu later.

They also programmed us to "psychically" deliver messages or directions for slaves to follow, since we all had the belief in psychic gifts, etc. and were so suggestible. To some celebrities (most of them women), while giving them a massage, I would touch certain 'points' on their body while dropping a psychic prediction and they would think I was really gifted when in a few days, my prediction would come true. The higher the level of the slave, the more the controllers were willing to invest financially to make the predicted experience "come to pass." Someone of Streisand's stature and programmed investment was worth a "prediction come true episode" that had class and dignity. This is not to say that I don't believe in psychic reality, because I do, but these psychic realities were created and controlled, by those who sought to create circumstances that were making them lots of money.

I was used with Streisand most often in 1985-1987, during the time I attended Pepperdine University in Malibu. Before 1985, I was sent to her when she needed me in the evenings in Malibu. Craig often drove me out to dinner to accomplish these rendezvous, but after I started at Pepperdine, I would tell him that I had to go back to the campus to study. I often parked in the Pepperdine Library parking lot where I was picked up by the men in suits and dropped off at Barbra's house. This way they had different cars going in and out. Lots of times I was told to go to her during daytime hours. I had a high level of fear that was present with me most all the time, only I was so scared and programmed that I was unable to think about it with my mind. But my pain-filled, often weary and exhausted body told the truth of my experiences.

Barbra switched personalities a lot. I think that might be why she was afraid to perform on stage. Those with 'the eyes to see and the ears to hear' might have greater insight in regard to an article written about her in the July 1994 issue of Ladies Home Journal. In it, when asked about her string of unhappy relationships and her inability to have long-lasting relationships, in her own words Barbra states, "I live with a lot of angst," and "I'm a mass of contradictions. I change and I grow. I change my mind all the time. So tell (whatever) man I'm looking for that if he likes to have affairs with lots of women, then I'm perfect for him!" Could she be referring to first-hand experience with Multiple Personality Disorder?

When she did perform, such as the concert she gave at her home in Malibu, she had to have someone like me to focus on internally, someone who was part of her programmed reality so she could feel stronger. To accomplish this she was programmed to pretend that myself or someone else was standing next to her on stage so it would shore her up to do the performance. Then she performed, just like she was programmed to do, delivering her controller's strategy to the unsuspecting and perhaps partially programmed crowd.

I once overheard Henry say that he would give the public what they wanted and demanded celebrities and fanfare - since that was all they were capable of understanding anyway. He said most of the private sector were totally ignorant of governmental matters and that, since they didn't avail themselves to knowledge of the way their country was run, it was evident that they really wanted and needed for "those in the know" to take charge and run things. He said that since he and other leaders were interested and capable, they would do the job, making the decisions and seeing to it that things ran smoothly.

Hollywood celebrities are constantly tied back into the White House to add flair and drama, and to bring in covert funds, but most importantly to add diversion to keep the American public focused in whatever direction the controllers want, instead of having the public focused on what is really going on behind the scenes.

One time when I was shoring up Barbra at her home, I found her huddled down, crouching, wringing her hands, terrified. She looked up at me in a childlike manner and said, "I don't have to sing tonight, do I?"

I said, "No, honey, not tonight."

She replied in a childlike voice, "Phew..."

I felt frightened to see her acting like a child when she switched to very young parts of herself, and didn't know what to expect when she said, "Let's play with the clay again." She had a table where we sat to play with clay. It looked like a child's table for adult size people. She switched personalities often then, so we would have tea parties and play games to entertain her child personalities.

Her son also played different games with her. One time she dressed like a clown and was acting and kicking like doing karate and she yelled out, "Hey Jason!" and he came running and jumped into bed with her and started cuddling. Then they both went to sleep and, as instructed, I could then leave. Sometimes she wanted her therapist to join them and would say, "Come and see how fun Jas is." And, one of us would. We were all unable, incapable, and not of our own mind to choose anything else. Usually we cleaned up the mess she had made playing and then afterwards, would cover her up, tiptoe out of her room and leave.

I flew from Kauai, after I had these memories about Barbra, in order to meet with one of my therapists. She met me at a restaurant in Los Angeles and as I told her about the memories I had about Barbra Streisand the color drained from her face. Later, I understood her intense reaction, as I became aware that Barbra was her client. That day we both sat in shock and silence. I knew then that, although my therapist and I did not understand what everything meant, the love that we both believed in and the Holy Spirit that led us was ever-present. And not knowing what else to do, all I know is that the love and compassion I have for Barbra Streisand and all victims of mind control demands that I now share this information. I told Barbra's therapist everything I knew at that time, so she could attempt to help Barbra. Since I was no longer in California and easily accessible, I stopped being the one used to keep Barbra Streisand under program. I am glad for that.

Elton John

Elton John's, "Goodbye Yellow Brick Road, " with its obvious potential to trigger those with Oz programming, called my attention. Elton wrote Candle in the Wind, in regard to Marilyn Monroe, and he later produced a version in honor of Princess Di. He sings, "...you crawled out of the woodwork and they whispered into your brain, they set you on the treadmill and they made you change your name." He continues, "...Hollywood created a superstar and pain was the price you paid. Even when you died, oh the press still hounded you, all the papers had to say was Marilyn was found in the nude..." and, "...the candle burned out long before your legend ever did." In Someone Saved My Life Tonight Elton sings "...sitting like a princess perched in her electric chair." "...You nearly had me roped and tied, alter-bound, hypnotized, Sweet Freedom whispered in my ear, "You're a butterfly, and butterflies are free to fly, fly away, high away, bye, bye." Perhaps Elton knows personally about these Project Monarch, mind control issues and in his own way, through his songs, has attempted to help others to freedom. I know that his songs personally affected me deeply and I felt that he might have 'understood.' So much so, that I attended one of his 1996 concerts at the St. Louis Riverport Amphitheatre and sent one of my books, STARSHINE: One Woman's Valiant Escape From Mind Control, backstage to him. However, I suspect that the stagehand that took the sparkling package from me never delivered it to Elton, since I never received his response.

We Are the World

Writing this chapter also brings to mind the video done in the 80's by a group of famous actors, actresses, and singers, who met in Hollywood with the special purpose of recording WE ARE THE WORLD. An urgent common concern brought these entertainers, normally competitive with one other, together and they set aside their differences to serve a higher purpose; bringing in funds for starving children in Africa. The line they sang, "We're saving our own lives," may be truer for some of these individuals than they can 'think' about due to the mind control some of them may be under.

This information I have provided to you may change the way you look at many of Hollywood's finest celebrities, many of whom myself and others have witnessed being victimized at the hands of the ruthless people who control others for reasons of power, money and domination, with the end result serving their agenda - the New World Order. I beg for you to question and look into these issues I bring before you, because the lives of many that are as yet in bondage rely on it.

If we truly serve others as we have been spiritually called to do, and understand that what we do for others we do for ourselves and ultimately for God, then we must join together to stop this control of the minds of some of our most talented and creative people. Together, we can help create a world that is safe and free, where creative and talented children are safe to grow up without the fear of being owned or manipulated by the hidden group of individuals who now are in power on our planet - a group who does not believe in freedom, but instead is invested in totalitarianism, torture, mind control and human slavery. Please help me expose and stop this insane form of abuse and hidden slavery and set the captives free!

"The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me, because the Lord has anointed me to bring good tidings to the afflicted; he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to those who are bound." -- Isaiah 61:1

Chapter Twenty-two: Prince Phillip, Prince Charles, and Princess Di

"I Know You, l Walked With You Once Upon A Dream"

For mind control purposes, a song from Disney's Sleeping Beauty was instilled into my programming to keep all memory of hidden events separate from my conscious mind. The lyrics as I remembered them reminded me, "I know you, I walked with you once upon a dream. I know you, with you in my arms you're so familiar again... " I was programmed to feel familiar with kings, princes, and presidents and this song served to reorient me into my dream reality, the one that existed Over the Rainbow.

I was prostituted to Prince Phillip and also Prince Charles. On one occasion, Prince Charles explained to me that royalty are given the right and reserve to have affairs outside of the royal family. He said it was in the interest of their country for the royals to remain balanced and happy, and that was done by whatever means needed in order to accomplish that. The requirement was that they were discreet and didn't get caught.

I was prostituted to both Phillip and Charles in Los Angeles on different occasions and was set up with them at other times in Washington, DC, London, and New York. Prince Phillip thought he was God's gift to the world, and was arrogant and egotistical. Charles was much different. He was quieter, more somber, and more controlled. The Council told me it was important for me to form a sexual bond with him.

Charles liked to talk a lot in bed. He would lay on his side with his head cradled in his hand and talk and talk to me. He said that he was very lonely, that Di never talked to him about anything of substance and that they just didn't seem to be matched that way. He told me that they had good sex but that was it, and that he had trouble getting her to act like a member of the royal family was suppose to act so they could lead their country in the way it needed to be run. He said that she didn't have much depth and was more interested in how she looked than anything else and he said, "Frankly, that bores me."

While I listened to him, his sharp nose, dark hair on his chest and the little crop of dark hair right at the small of his back grooved indelible memory in my mind files. After the first time we were together, he liked to be on top when we had sex. I don't think he knew I was a programmed slave. He just treated me like a trusted confidant, a friend, a lover, but sex was never paramount to him.

Charles explained to me that it was important for the royal family to have a good public image in order to wield the power they have, to lead the masses. He said that if the royal family was seen as weak and unstable, it could lead to a level of chaos within the English society. He said if a royal family could maintain stability, through whatever means necessary, then it was for the good of the whole country. So said Charles.

The Rockefeller family set me up with Charles and I was instructed to just be a good listener with him and to report back to them what he said. They wanted to know what his dreams, desires, likes and dislikes were so that they could use that information in the future to control him, and ultimately, his country. They wanted to know his "Achilles heel" so that they could use his weakness to their advantage in regard to political and business dealings between our countries.

They arranged a trip for the royal couple to come to the United States and they took great care to set everything up just right for their enjoyment. I was used as a guide, a person they could turn to for anything they needed or wanted. I was directed to anticipate whatever needs they might have and fulfill them. I was assigned to purchase Disney toys for the boys that were left in their room upon arrival. Food, clothes, rest, massages, shopping, entertainment, anything they wanted, I arranged it for them. They paid for Diana to get the full treatment at a beauty salon during the time set up for me to target Charles.

They put me with Charles while the rest of the royal family was being entertained and I was told to tend to him. As always, they told me that he was shy and, because of his position, could not ever make a sexual advance to a public individual. So, they explained to him that I was a trusted and safe person, and in turn instructed me that all I had to do was to come on to him; he knew the door was open and safe, all I had to do was lead the way.

While Di was off getting coiffeured and someone tended the children, I was told to lunch with Charles in the room and then to come on to him. When it was time, I reached out and touched the white dress shirt that covered his chest and when I saw that this created a favorable reaction, I reached out and took hold of his hand. I was trained that a man must feel sure that you care about him and will not humiliate or make fun of him in any way. He was to feel 100% safe with me. So during lunch, I listened very carefully to everything he said and kept building him up, complimenting him and showing him that I really understood what he was telling me completely. He seemed to need and like that a lot. Towards the end of lunch, he picked up my hand and kissed the inside of my palm and told me how wonderful it was to have someone he could talk to, someone who really understood. He explained that there were not many people he could talk to like this in his country, because it could leak to other people and then it could cause him and his country many problems. Prince Charles said that it had been explained how trusted I had been to the Rockefellers over the years and how he could also trust me, that I would keep private "our meeting," he called it. He was very sincere and acted like he meant every word he said. Evidently, Charles really trusted the Rockefellers. I don't know why. After he kissed my hand, I reached over and put my hand on his face and reiterated that he was safe with me and that I was thoroughly briefed on what his needs would be while he was visiting, and that he could totally relax knowing that anything that was said or done would remain private and protected. With sincere gratitude he said, "That means the world to me. It is not often that I am allowed this privilege."

The royal family was on a schedule and I only had a couple of hours to do the job I was assigned to do on Charles. After listening and a sexual rendezvous, I took him into the shower and soaped him down and rinsed him off, then helped him out, dried him off, and brought him some clothes. He seemed comfortable with all of the attention and I acted like I loved nothing more than doing everything for him. While he combed his hair he explained to me while he was looking into the mirror, that he was not used to the luxury of being alone in this way, that at home he always had servants attending to him and so he really liked the time we had together. Taking his hand, I delivered the message that I was pre-programmed to deliver, laying the groundwork my controllers dictated for future encounters. I explaining that I deeply enjoyed the time we had spent together and looked forward to many other such joyous occasions! He smiled and said yes, and I let myself out of the room. There were security men in the hallway by their suite and I smiled at them, neatly redressed now in my navy suit and heels, as I walked to the elevator.

My instructions after I left Charles were to go to a room down on another floor and let myself in with a key I would find in my pocket. Once in the room, I picked up the phone and dialed a number and began telling all the details of our conversation and time together. For all I know, I may have been talking to a tape recorder on the other end. Without making any other conversation, I finished my debrief and hung up. Then I went down to the lobby. The hotel was very elegant, with waterfalls, wood, glass, and brass decorating the lobby. I do not know the name or where I actually was.

Charles' repeated disclosure of the vital importance of his relationship with Di remaining stable for the good of his country was the information Kissinger and the Rockefellers needed to form their strategy. I believe that now armed with this information, they had the perfect way to destabilize England, through destabilizing the royal couple's relationship. So they did just that and began devising a plan to destroy Di and Charles' relationship from the inside out. Over time, little seeds of doubt were planted, originating from Kissinger's and the Rockefeller's strategic plan, at times delivered through me, about the royal couple's relationship and about Di to Charles and about Charles to Di, and they may have worked them both from other angles. I know that they had me give certain messages that were meant to be a wedge between the two. They were always subtle, never aimed directly at them, but the inferences were there.

For example, I was sent in to talk to Di. They had me befriend her by giving me information about her that I could 'drop' at a time when we were alone. I did and she opened up and began crying, which is just exactly what they wanted her to do. Then I talked to her and helped her feel better. They wanted a bond to be set in place for later use so they could get inside information about England. Even more they wanted to know how they could "get to Charles" in order to influence him without him knowing. I was with them several times and each time spent time alone with Di talking about her difficulties. She seemed starved to talk to someone who understood and I had been armed with enough information to be that understanding person. Our controllers wanted the familiarity to 'breed' in each succeeding visit so they could have more and more of a doorway in to influence the royals. I overheard our controllers arguing about using me with her again. They said, "We can't risk having her become a familiar face." To which another man reported, "She's a long way from home and so is Di and they will never meet again by accident in a million years. You worry too much. These things always have a way of working themselves out."

So, the other man said, "Okay, okay, we'll use her, but just one more time."

I could relate to Di. We were both married, had children and shared some common ground, including having husbands that were not sexually passionate and seemed disinterested in that way. They were hoping to be able to keep Di involved because she was so easy to access - as they termed it, "loose-lipped." But that isn't how it worked out. After Di was comfortable with me, I was programmed to disclose that I wished I had a husband who liked to be very sexual with me. All the while my programmers knew from my report of Charles' sexual encounter that he was not a sexually motivated man. Then they could go about directing their media arms to capture and detail any problems that came between the royal couple, even at times creating problems that were not there in the first place - creating suspicions on both sides. It was an ugly strategy, but looking back, it worked. The monarchy was destabilized by this plan.

"We cannot live only for ourselves. A thousand fibers connect us with our fellow men; and along these fibers, as sympathetic threads, our actions run as causes, and they come back to us as effects. " -- Herman Melville

Chapter Twenty-three: They Stole My Baby

London, England was cold in the winters and was very cold and dreary. Many of the buildings I was taken into were made out of grey stone, and everything took on a greyish cast. Maybe that was due to the ominous experiences I had while in England. There were a lot of ornate black wrought iron fences around estates; even the parkways and parks often had fences surrounding them. I accompanied Reagan to London many times. I overheard that these were important assignments in facilitating diplomatic relations.

This time Ronald Reagan had on a black overcoat and we were walking across the street to visit an older lady with dark grey hair. She wore a hat and very sturdy shoes and a suit. I think she was the Queen of England, or at least someone of importance. It was not Margaret Thatcher, though. She explained that she could walk around in her country without Secret Service agents but chose wisely the time she went on "outings," she called them. She had a medium size dog that she took when she went on walks. She was very opinionated and very dominating. For some personal reason she didn't like Nancy at all and said that Ron and I made such a handsome twosome that it was a shame that Ron and I weren't a couple. She told him that Nancy made him look older than his years, and that a baby born of Reagan and I would make her happy. She said she felt there was some special chemistry and she wanted it badly. She was convinced that I was Sharon Weatherby and that I had excellent lineage. All this bloodline stuff really meant a lot to her and for whatever reason, I was the target. Maybe the Council influenced her and told her I was someone I wasn't. I don't know.

We gathered to talk in a sitting room with all white wicker furniture. There was a bird in a large ornate metal cage and there were lots of beautiful plants around. I remember how she and everyone around her spoke in English accents. They talked about the PLO and other news of the day, but I couldn't retrieve all the words in order to more completely remember their conversations. She had seen my capabilities; the mind files, the profound statements delivered in public (pre-programmed though they were by the Council), the wit (pre-programmed by the Council) and she felt I had some extraordinary genetic structure and she wanted some of it. She viewed this breeding thing like people think about horse and dog breeding. She was really into it and she had her mind set on having an offspring of mine coupled with Reagan, whom she thought was the perfect father.

There were many meetings where this subject was discussed and eventually she got her wish. The child I bore for her was the result of many meetings of negotiations over the years. The talks started out slowly as she and Reagan took small safe steps toward defining their otherwise preposterous scheme.

The child that was born for the Queen was to be brought up in a strict environment and groomed for later marriage into the royal family. It was a baby that was delivered into the arms of some of her people.

They said this baby was a gift of diplomacy between our countries. Reagan called the baby a peace offering to show the United Kingdom our willingness to extend a hand toward future relations with their country.

When the doctors were ready to deliver my not yet full-term baby, I was taken aboard an airplane. They laid me on a cot-like gurney made of white canvas on a metal frame. There was an IV bottle hanging over my head and I was afraid it was going to swing off its stand as the plane was entering turbulent weather. I couldn't say anything, because I had a mask over my face.

My baby was born in the air, delivered by doctors dressed in surgical gowns and masks. They had utensils and long-shaped stainless steel bowls with alcohol or some type of sterile solution for their utensils. There were no nurses. Just two doctors. The baby was also to be part of some experiment. As I flashbacked, abreacted, and retrieved this memory I felt the uterine contractions and pain, my tailbone hurt and stung because they gave me a spinal injection. I didn't have the baby naturally; I heard the doctors say the word "epidural," but at the time didn't know what that word meant.

After the baby was born and the plane landed, one doctor wrapped him all up in a thin white blanket and soon headed out the door of the plane with him. I screamed with everything I was: "NO! NO! NO!" But I don't know if I was able to scream the words out loud or if I was just screaming inside. Tears were streaming from my face. I looked out the airplane window and saw a dark-haired man and a woman with medium-length blonde hair standing together on the tarmac. The doctor who took my tiny newborn son from me handed him first to the dark-haired man who, in turn, handed him into the arms of the woman. The doctor then pointed for them to go on and I thought I would die when this couple took my baby and walked away.

When the doctor reboarded the airplane he and the other man said I made a wise choice and made a great contribution to society. I didn't know what they meant. I hadn't made any choice. As they spoke of matters of national security, I was becoming increasingly more hysterical. The doctor injected a drug into the IV bottle that instantly put me asleep. The next thing I knew I was dressed in a grey sweat suit and groggily walked out of the airplane to my mom who was dressed in a red sweat shirt, white blouse and red pants. She took my face in her hands and said, "How's my sweetie?" and she helped me to the car.

I overheard the doctor say the baby was of good size despite the fact that he had been taken so early. All I could see was the top of his beautiful little head because he was wrapped so tightly in the blanket, but my love for him was and still is intense and powerful. He was part of me, but they took him away. I never saw my baby again. I was grateful when they drugged me out of my misery because the feelings and experience were overwhelming and I couldn't take anymore. My body started shaking uncontrollably and I was freezing but they said it was okay - normal in fact. It sure didn't feel normal. I was in a daze for a few days, quiet, withdrawn and very, very depressed. My soul ached. It still does today.

The grief is totally encompassing. When I think of him I still cry uncontrollably. How could they steal my baby? How could they?

"Jesus wept." -- John 11:35

"Thus says the Lord: Refrain your voice from weeping, and your eyes from tears; for your work shall be rewarded, says the Lord and (your children) shall return from the enemy's land. And there is hope in your future, says the Lord; your children shall come again to their own country." -- Jeremiah 31:1617

Chapter Twenty-four: USC: Higher Education or Mind Control

Uncle Charlie Donates $4.7 Million to USC

In 1973, as Uncle Charlie greased the way, Craig entered University of Southern California (USC) Dental School and commuted everyday from our home in Agoura to downtown Los Angeles. As I was to later find out, Charles Lilley Horn had quite a name at USC, as well as in San Francisco at the United States Mint. He personally knew members of the Federal Reserve Board. As I discovered, he was connected to Federal Reserve Bankers; old money, and Hearst newspaper type of old money friends. Uncle Charlie was a direct link with the Council through the money he was able to generate. He was revered by those who knew him as a trusted businessman, a family man who was adept in politics and investments. I believe Charles Horn was the single most important family link to my control by the global elitists. The reality of what I was involved in was carefully concealed every Christmas when I dutifully sent a box of See's Candy to him and his wife at their winter home in Scottsdale, Arizona. I was drugged and programmed that this act of gift-giving reminded me to forget, which it did for many years. And, I was programmed to watch the popular television series, Charlie's Angels, in my controllers' attempt to cover and scramble my memory.

Charles Lilley Horn, as Chairman of the Board, retained control of Federal Cartridge Corporation for many years until relinquishing control around 1970 to his progeny, Charles B. Horn and William B. Horn, presumably his sons. Federal Cartridge Corporation is a munitions manufacturer, based in Minneapolis, Minnesota (address: 2700 Foshay Tower, Minneapolis, MN). Dun & Bradstreet Million Dollar Directory indicates that Federal Cartridge Corporation was a long-time subsidiary of the Olin Foundation, Inc. headquartered in New York City. The Foundation Directory shows that Charles Lilley Horn also was President of the Olin Foundation, Inc. throughout the 1960's and 1970's.

The Olin Foundation, Inc. (currently F.W. Olin Foundation, Inc.) was established as a charitable trust in 1938 for Franklin W. Olin, founder of Olin Industries, which later merged with the Mathieson Chemical Company, eventually becoming the Olin Corporation of today. During the 1970's, the Olin Corporation was interlocked with the Chase Manhattan Corporation, whose Chairman was David Rockefeller (see diagram). The Rockefellers, of course, have long had controlling interest in the United States Federal Reserve, which as many people know is actually a private corporation, with shareholders.

According to The Foundation Directory (1995), the F.W. Olin Foundation, Inc. (with William B. Horn, Vice President) listed its assets at $317 million (as of 1993). The Directory describes the Foundation's purpose and activities as "primarily for constructing and equipping new academic buildings and libraries at private four-year, accredited degree-granting colleges and universities..." In the book, Understanding Foundations (1967), the Olin Foundation, Inc. is similarly described; it states, "Many grants in education are made, especially for construction. Grants show a preference for the field of engineering... Recent recipients have been the University of Southern California..." (among others). This information was confirmed by the USC Office of University Advancement, indicating two grants given to USC in the 1960's by the Olin Foundation: (1) In 1964, $2.4 million to fund the Olin Hall of Engineering and (2) in 1965, $2.5 million to fund the Vivian Hall of Engineering. With these donations, it is no wonder that Uncle Charlie (Charles Lilley Horn), who was President of the Olin Foundation at the time, was popular at USC, particularly with the Engineering School which is currently located in Olin Hall.

Interestingly, during the 1960's the USC School of Engineering was transformed into a major research facility and expanded into several new areas, including biomedical engineering. Today the Engineering School boasts several academic departments and research centers. One such research facility is the Center For Neural Engineering, which lists among its research activities: (1) Hardware

Models of HippocampusToward Brain Implants as Neural Protheses for Memory Loss; (2) USC Brain Project; and (3) USC DARPA (Defense Advance Research Project Agency) UltraScale Computing Project- to name a few. Apparently, the USC Brain Project is sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) and the National Aeronautical and Space Administration (NASA). It is also worth mentioning that the DARPA project involves "Hybrid Neuron-Silicon Computational Systems For Pattern Recognition" which includes the interface of electrode arrays with hippocampal tissue slices and neuron cultures, as well as growth techniques for cortical neurons on silicon substrates, and even technologies to interface silicon-based computer systems and neurobiological systems. In 1998, the USC Alfred E. Mann Institute for Biomedical Engineering received a donation of $100 million from biomedical entrepreneur Alfred E. Mann, for whom the Institute is named. The donation was said to be one of the largest in the history of higher education, and is second largest ever to USC, behind $120 million donated by Walter H. Annenberg to the School of Communication.

Standing back and looking at this patchwork picture painted above, highlighted by advanced research projects in biomedical engineering and incredible amounts of funding, one cannot help but be struck by the obvious potential at the USC School of Engineering for major advancements in the technology and application of MIND CONTROL!

HELLOOOOOO!

Now, ask yourself, why is DARPA (American Defense) operating in a university setting? What are they actually researching? What do you think is really going on?

One can see that foundations don't always make donations to university academic departments that one might expect, based on the donors' apparent line of business. Another example is the H. Leslie Hoffman and Elaine S. Hoffman Foundation, with assets approaching $20 million. H.L. Hoffman was the CEO of the Hoffman Electronics Corporation, a long-time Los Angeles-based company since 1932, in the business of manufacturing various electronic devices, generally entertainment related (including special ones for government agencies). The USC Hoffman Medical Research building is named after its donor Elaine S. Hoffman.

The Hoffman Engineering Company, located in Minnesota, is listed as a division of Uncle Charlie's Federal Cartridge Corporation. Hoffman Engineering makes metal and composite enclosures for electrical and electronic controls, instruments and components. I wonder if they made covers that house those nasty ECT devices I was regularly zapped with? To date, I haven't yet determined a linkage between Hoffman Electronics and Hoffman Engineering, but that Hoffman Medical Research connection sounds promising. Apparently later on, Federal Cartridge and Hoffman Engineering merged to become Federal Hoffman Corporation (FC Holdings, Inc.). In 1988, the company was purchased by the Minnesota-based Pentair Corporation, increasing Pentair's total sales by nearly 40%, and is currently listed as a subsidiary of Pentair in the Directory of Corporate Affiliations. After that transaction, Uncle Charlie's relations no longer appear among Federal Cartridge Corporation's corporate officers, but instead have been listed among the officers of the Olin Foundation, according to the Foundation Directory.

Uncle Charlie continued to be an invisible influence in my life. But even though I was unaware of this, in my public and conscious reality I was still working as a dental assistant, though unknowingly placing dental implants (some type of miniature electronic transmitters) into the teeth of unsuspecting patients, without my own conscious knowledge and awareness. My four day work week for Dr. Jacoby, a USC dental school graduate, was extremely productive, for him. While I did all the hands-on dental work with his patients, including fitting and cementing bands, making archwires and headgears, removing braces, making retainers, and performing general check-ups, Dr. Jacoby sat in his private office and either read magazines or worked on his computer. At 22 years old, Craig and I had no idea that our lives were totally controlled and not our own; nor could we have known that we were living our lives under total and complete mind control.

Who Are the Annenbergs?

Moses Annenberg made his fortune during the Prohibition days by creating an information monopoly on which bookies and gambling mobsters depended. His cartel controlled a nationwide racetrack news wire service, The Trans-National, headquartered in Chicago. The street savvy he gained first as a newsboy, then later as a high executive within the William Randolph Hearst media empire, gave Annenberg the wherewithal to pull off his racing news coup, and made him one of America's wealthiest men. However, in 1939, Annenberg was convicted of tax fraud and was forced to give up the wire service aspect of his business. This brought about a battle to take over control, which resulted in several sensational murders, including that of Bugsy Seigel, who, as Al Capone's west-coast agent of Trans-American, managed to wrest control over Trans-National through the strong arm tactics of his 'enforcer,' Mickey Cohen. Annenberg's media empire then continued on as Triangle Publications and included the Daily Racing Form.

By 1946, the dust cleared, but all the turbulence soon brought about a Congressional investigation into organized crime in America, headed by Senator Estes Kefauver's Committee. Following its hearings, the Committee concluded that mob-control of the racing news wire service was undermining America and represented the heart of mob operations. During 1950 and 1951 the Kefauver Committee heard from 600 witnesses, "...including most of the powerful gangsters of the day. It was an astonishing spectacle. Never before did so many criminals pass in review before the general public; never before were so many put on display singly or in tandem as members of a single community of outlaws." (Albert Fried, 1993)

During this time, Walter H. Annenberg had dropped out of the Wharton School of Business at the University of Pennsylvania in about 1930 to join his father's company, as a bookkeeper. In 1942, he became the company's president. As head of Triangle Publications, Walter Annenberg started two new hugely successful publications, TV Guide, America's best selling weekly magazine, and Seventeen magazine, and continued in his father's path as a media mogul. In 1988, Rupert Murdoch, a leader in the media industry, purchased TV Guide, Seventeen, and Daily Racing Form from Annenberg's company for $3 billion. The following year, Annenberg established the charitable trust known as The Annenberg Foundation. Its current assets are listed as $2.6 billion.

According to the Foundation Directory, the Foundation's current primary purpose is to support "early childhood and K-12 education (including public school restructuring and reform)." In 1993, Annenberg announced a $550 million gift, the largest private donation ever to benefit education, providing a series of grants for school reform projects geared toward improving elementary and secondary education. Regarding this donation, the Los Angeles Times (Dec. 17, 1993) reported: "Although White House officials refused to give details of the awards, three groups are expected to get a major share of the money: the New American Schools Development Corp. in Alexandria, VA [which is not far from the CIA's Langley headquarters]; the Coalition of Essential Schools at Brown University in Providence, R.I.; and the Education Commission of the States in Denver [boy, that area has been in the news recently, first, the JonBenet Ramsey murder mystery and now the Littleton school massacre]. The New American Schools Development Corp. was begun in 1991 [coincidentally, just before the 1992 election year] by business leaders and George Bush Administration officials who believed that they could develop more effective and creative learning programs outside the traditional public school system [I guess George's presidential lap would qualify in that case]. This colossal donation came on the heels of one just months prior, a gift of $365 million to four colleges, including the record $120 million donation to the University of Southern California, as mentioned earlier, another $120 million to Annenberg's alma mater, the University of Pennsylvania, $100 million to Peddie School, Annenberg's preparatory school in New Jersey, and $25 million to Harvard University [Henry's old stomping ground]. After creating the Annenberg Institute for School Reform, the Santa Monica - Malibu Unified School District received a $500,000 grant from the Los Angeles Annenberg Metropolitan Project. Prior to that, according to the L.A. Times (Jan 24, 1996), Annenberg had given $53 million to fund a fiveyear school reform project in Los Angeles County, purportedly "to begin work in elementary schools to wipe out [cultural] differences between the two groups [i.e. Santa Monica and Malibu kids]." The School District, after receiving a $5 million share of project funds, reached an agreement with Rand Corp., a Santa Monicabased 'think tank,' to evaluate the projects impact on the District's 10,500 students. Rand Corp. has long been known for its technoinformation-oriented projects, and is reputed to have participated in 'MKULTRA-like' projects during the 60's. Note two of its studies: P-2575 "Long-lasting Effects of LSD on Certain Attitudes in Normals: An Experimental Proposal" (1962) and P-2676 "Experimental Designs for Investigating Conditioning" (1966). In its Index to Selected Publications of The Rand Corporation, it lists among its areas of research investigation in the field of psychology, the following: "Automata," "Laboratory Man-Machine Studies," and "Sleep Learning" - many projects under these headings appear to have mind control applications.

The Annenberg Estate is a sprawling 300-acre tract, located near the intersection of Frank Sinatra Boulevard and Bob Hope Drive, in Rancho Mirage, California (near Palm Springs) and features a private golf course, swimming pool, and several lakes and ponds. Nicknamed "Sunnylands," it has been the magical destination of the British Royalty, as well as the simply rich and famous, and is considered a second "Camp David" by U.S. Presidents. Walter Annenberg established his friendship with the British Royals back during the Nixon Administration, when he had accepted the post as U.S. Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Great Britain. Later, during the Reagan Administration, his wife, Mme. Ambassador Leonore Annenberg, functioned as chief of Protocol to the White House. Their tie to Prince Charles was solidified during his visit to Sunnylands in 1974, when he reputedly attempted to play the private golf course polo-style from his golf cart. Bob Hope, whose home is in Palm Springs, was a regular guest at the Annenberg Estate. He was valued for his many contacts and his contribution to the Annenberg's social register, which at times included Henry Kissinger. Incidentally, Bob was knighted by Queen Elizabeth several years ago, as was "Sir George Bush."

Given my personal, though mind-controlled, involvement with Pete Wilson and others, in altering the California school system curriculum to include mind control (which I will discuss further in a later chapter), I believe my experiences reveal a mass plan for the 'enhancement' of many children in ways that do not respect their freedoms. I invite the public to help me bring together the pieces of this puzzle, in a way that will protect future generations.

USC Dental School 1973 -1977

A big part of what I thought was our entertainment during my husband's dental school years was frequenting USC football games. When we attended the games, I was told to dress immaculately, and be ready with carefully groomed hair, make-up, and polished fingers and toenails for the team. During the game I was programmed to stand up from my seat in the stadium and walk out through the tunnel to my left. My husband, now a USC Dental School student, stayed in his seat just like he did when we went to Dodger games. I walked to the locker room where the team went during half time. Lots of times I didn't even see whom I was servicing. I just felt like a sucking machine. On one such occasion the coach dressed me in a little cheerleading skirt and had sex with me in front of the mind-controlled football robots that needed extra incentive to work harder, or as the coach said to them, "Step right up and enjoy the pussy. Get it while it's hot," he'd say, like he was a street vendor and I was a piece of meat. Then he would caution the players, "But only if you perform today." If the players did well, performed to the coach's standards on the field, they got to have sex with a slave. If they did really well, they got to have one of us for the evening. I never stayed all night but entertained for the evening. I don't know where my husband went but he was waiting, later that night in the dark, for me in his Datsun 280 Z. There were also USC basketball mind-controlled robots. I had to have sex with one of them in the locker room after a game we went to one evening. It was just a quickie since they didn't view the basketball team as important as the football team.

O.J. Simpson was their star quarterback, their prize athlete, a real machine. He played at most of the USC football games that we attended. I remember hearing everyone talk about how the coach bought him an expensive new car. One time Henry gave some advice to the coach on programming that he appreciated.

One night at an alumni meeting, the coach spoke to a group of older alumni men around a table. They were all smoking and drinking at this so-called meeting. The coach said, "This young lady has a very wealthy uncle and she's a Trojan all the way." Then another man stepped forward and helped me onto the table as they started playing the song "the stripper" and I took my street clothes off and danced in front of these drunken men. I was around 22. The men in charge seemed to all know who I was and where I came from. They seemed to regard me more as my Uncle Charlie's than as my husband's.

After I stripped, a man helped me off the table and one drunken USC alumni yelled, "Put her back up on the table and let's see her put her clothes back on. If she's gotta' put them back on, let's watch." So I climbed back onto the table and a man kindly put a chair up there for me to sit on because I had nylons to put back on and it would have been hard to do standing up. They were screaming and hollering which clothes to leave until last so I did as they said. On the way out I kissed the coach on the cheek and smiled and waved to all the men as they whistled and cheered. They were drunker than skunks. I was trained to always kiss the man I was bolstering on the cheek and be affectionate with him in front of the other men. But if the wives were there I was to remain discreet. There were different rules for different situations. After that, I was passed all over USC, not as much among the mind-controlled robot students as the dirty old' alumni men. I don't think the men knew I was under mind control, but I believe USC Coach Reddin did.

I was prostituted to the Dean of the Dental School after Craig got accepted. Dean Walker and Dean Crawford also seemed to be 'friends' of Charles Horn. I was prostituted to Coach Reddin, also, at times, like I cited above, in front of the football team for incentive. And there were a lot of other important persons at USC in the main university, aside from the dental school, whom I was directed to "cater to." Some of these men seemed to know all about my Uncle Charlie's family. I felt strange because, depending on which personality I was keyed into, I didn't think of him as my family and didn't ever see him consciously, yet all these men referred to me as Mr. Horn's niece, Susan. I 'serviced' administrators at the main college and heads of different departments. Usually, I was briefly introduced to them in their offices and then after a football game or on an evening when I thought Craig and I were getting together with some of his classmates, I'd be taken to a hotel room to entertain one or more of them. From what I overheard and understood, Uncle Charlie had a big role in providing funding for the "furthering of education at USC." I believe a lot of his money went to further research or mind control 'projects,' such as different members of the football team. USC had to be full of mind control robots because USC was granted huge sums of money if they participated in the mind control project. So, they participated in the academic and sports end of it in order to qualify for the grants. Plus, of course, there were persons in positions of leadership at USC who were part of the 'elite' group.

Mind Control Demonstrations

I was "demonstrated" often at USC in front of doctors, scientists or other professionals who were 'selected' to be a part of the project. The moderator, who was a big, tall, salt and pepper gray-haired man introduced me as Charles Horn's niece, the founder of the project. Perhaps Uncle Charlie's money went to start the project at USC in the early 60's. Be that as it may, the moderator showed his audience how I worked by calling out simple commands. Initially they weren't shown much, because what the moderator was attempting to do was enlist the aid and future work of some of these scientists and doctors. Half the men present already knew all about the project and were there secretly posing as people who were unaware. In actuality they were planted to influence the moral attitudes of the other individuals; they would agree easily in hopes that others would also agree, comply and join their research program. It usually worked as they said, "To get them past any hang-ups they might have in regard to the fact that we're working with humans instead of animals." Then they proceeded to explain that the subjects were originally defective in some way or they would say, "all the results are actually doing is enhancing the person's abilities, not hindering them in any way." They went to great lengths to condition some of these men slowly over the first few meetings.

They demonstrated my typing capabilites, "speed and accuracy," the moderator said as he took the paper from my typewriter and showed it around the room. Then at later meetings they would demonstrate the photographic memory enhancement or some other 'enhancement' this project had provided me. Initially, some of the men were not so much in favor of it or were hesitant, so they were not invited back to subsequent meetings. In this way, the project's secrecy was protected and not further exposed to those who wouldn't support it.

Uncle Charlie seemed to have done his part by keeping the money coming to them. The goal of the group at USC was to turn out thousands of "enhanced citizens" who would do their work and function on behalf of the cause. Because Charlie was popular there, so was 1, and they had plans to create some fine physicians, lawyers, dentists, oral surgeons, etc., who lived in or around Los Angeles, so the likelihood of them remaining in the area was larger than the out-of-state people. They planned to make good use of them in the future after they were secured in their professions. They laughed as they said, "Hell, they'll owe it to us for making them some of the best professionals in their fields, so they won't mind donating some of their time back to their old alma mater!" They needed a cluster of professionals in and around the Los Angeles area to funnel illegal money through their business' at a high level, but many didn't even know their names were attached to separate monies filtered in at selected banks who were positioned for just this purpose. There was a whole financial framework set up to support the project in the future, with every year, yielding more and more financial backing as the children were born and used to create more and more funding, and then their children eventually would attend USC or another affiliate school to crank out more "cooperative" professional graduates. I overheard a lot while I was waiting at a meeting to service some man afterwards. But as instructed, I was recording into a mind file, what was said at the meeting in order to report back to Henry.

Henry programmed into my mind a map of the campus at USC because it was such a large campus. And when I would have to go somewhere to service some man, he would tell me to go to D-3, for example, on the campus map inside my head and I'd know where to go. There was also a coding system to keep track of where I was to be at a certain time at a future date. I went to many different buildings on the USC campus for various reasons; sex and to pass messages to different scientists, professors or doctors.

There were times I was taken to a USC football game the whole entire game, just for one man's sexual pleasure. Craig was so focused on the game that he never seemed to notice I was all messed up or that the perfect make-up that I had arrived in was smudged or that my hair was messed up. Some of the men I serviced had big motorhomes that they parked right outside the stadium or on the grounds of the Coliseum near USC where they would picnic and party with their friends before the game.

USC was a pilot project in Los Angeles, one designed to harness and utilize some of the finest minds in the country. These were the cream of the crop, some of the top achievers from all over the nation and they wanted to utilize them. They felt that mind-controlled doctors, especially surgeons, were 100% more accurate than non-enhanced doctors and surgeons. They were experimenting to see if by showing young interns how to do surgery visually, they could retain the procedures. There was an inner group of selected students who were chosen based on their childhood histories to be a part of the pilot project. They felt they were creating super humans and used them to do their work. They used the technology on my husband and some of his lab partners. I know because I heard Henry talk to Reagan and other "insiders" about this. He also made appointments for me to get 'treatments' there. Some rooms at USC marked "authorized personnel only," at first seemed like dark rooms for processing photos but they weren't. Instead they had chairs similar to dental chairs with goggles for virtual reality. The chairs vibrated, turned, and became hot or cold and made it feel like the scene I was seeing came alive. It sounded like, and the goggles made me feel that I was spinning in space, swirling and spinning, and I got very, very dizzy. They exposed me to a lot of weird scary things. They also played very loud, irritating noises, like high shrill screeches and 'nails on a chalkboard.' It was often excruciating but my hands were immobilized on the chair arms so I couldn't reach up and pull the headphones or goggles off; I dissociated in order to withstand it. These experiences happened to me on days when I went to the dental school in order to have Craig work on my teeth. After the dental work was completed, then I had this other torture. This was during the time Nixon was President, then Ford. Reagan was Governor and Kissinger was still in office.

The Council heavily used USC, and many 'enhanced individuals' were turned out to work for 'the cause' and proliferate, creating more new little Trojans. Those working for the New World Order saw "the takeover" wrapped up since the numbers would snowball each 20 to 25 years. My children would be destined to continue at a college or university that could 'further their enhancement.' The Council also knew how easily they could shape the minds of the students at the university, since their minds were as yet uncluttered and they could teach them.

These people were heavily into breeding and genetic bloodlines. They said things like, "Hell, people pay more attention to breeding their horses and dogs than they do planning for their future progeny," and that, "People in the project, however, have been fortunate enough to have that research and selective breeding done for them, so their offspring will be of the highest quality. It's time we quit wasting precious space on this planet supporting inferior human life. It's time for a quality race to people this planet."

This was the evolutionary step they saw. And they felt that, "since the common man can't think to bring about these changes on his own, we who are capable are left with the responsibility. Someone has got to do it, or we will be annihilated."

"Let us then approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need." -- Hebrews 4:16

Chapter Twenty-five: Baby Monarchs are Born

Craig and I decided, at least I thought we decided, that it was important for me to take additional means of birth control to insure that we did not conceive a child while I was working to put Craig through dental school. Dr. Stoddard referred me to Dr. Harold Lusk, a Hollywood OB/GYN who, on my first visit, examined me and told me not to worry, that my female reproductive organs were in such bad condition that I could never have children. I was so devastated that I couldn't talk, much less question the doctor. I drove home numbed by the news. Later that afternoon, sobbing through my words, I told my husband that I would never be able to have children.

Craig called Dr. Lusk immediately and was told that I had a disease called endometriosis, plus fibriod tumors and cysts, that the doctor explained were common in upper and middle class women when they put off having children until later in life. I was only 22 years old! He told Craig that if he performed surgery on me it might be possible for me to get pregnant, but that we would have to start the process of trying to have a child, immediately. Over the next year, I had two major surgeries for what I was told was to correct the damage, and began the medical process of dealing with what I was told was infertility. When, after the two so-called surgeries, I didn't get pregnant, as a last resort, Dr. Lusk gave me a fertility drug called "clomid," and soon after, I became pregnant. I continued working as a dental assistant until I went into labor and gave birth to our first child, Kevin Craig Ford, on October 19, 1975.

The Birth of Kevin Craig Ford

Late at night, as my labor progressed, we were met at the hospital by a group of anxious hospital staff. Craig phoned ahead alerting them that Susan Ford was on her way to the hospital. They thought I was Susan Ford, the President's daughter. I guess this was understandable due to the fact that Nixon had stepped down and Gerald Ford was now President. They thought I might have twins, since I was so huge, but after an intense natural childbirth, Kevin was born and was immediately taken away from me for what seemed like a very long time. They told me it was standard procedure despite the fact that there were no complications. But later, suited men came into my hospital room. One man took a syringe and some type of drug out of his briefcase and, while he was readying the injection for me, I began screaming, "Where's my baby? Where's my husband? What did you do with my baby?"

As he injected a drug into my arm, he said in a calm, emotionless voice, "You see me but you don't see me. You can't see. You can't see me." Waiting a moment for the drug to take effect, he said, "You need to calm down. . .just calm down. . . down. . . down. . . down. . . down... one ...two...three...going down ...deeper now ...going down. You're in the well, next to hell, and everything that happens there, oh well, or is it oh hell? You're there."

Taking my pulse, he continued, "This is our baby. Don't ever forget, it belongs to us. You will hand him over when cued. You will not react. You will simply hand him over, like he is a sack of groceries. Do you understand? Nod your head if you understand."

I nodded.

"Good, very good. This way no one will have to get hurt, we don't want that do we?"

I shook my head no. I felt very drugged.

"Good," the man said hypnotically. "Bad things happen if you don't obey. Very bad things."

I felt very sick, very tired, and very terrified. I couldn't breathe, I was too scared. "They'll take my baby," I thought, terrified beyond words. Frantically I worried, "Who will watch my baby, what are they doing to him? Help, I can't get help. No one can hear. I can't talk, I can't tell. THIS IS hell!" Afterwards, of course, I couldn't recall or think about any of this traumatic event.

After a brief hospital stay, Craig and I brought Kevin home and began trying to parent this baby who would not suckle at my breast and cried non-stop.

I was programmed not to lock the doors to our home in Agoura and often men in suits let themselves into our house. They always had guns and sometimes a knife. These men usually came in threes - one to handle and torture my baby, one to torture me, and one to guard the door. The men said they had a "little treat for the baby." They went to Kevin's room and took him out of his crib, where he was sleeping. They held Kevin in front of me and threatened me, with a gun pointed to my temple. They said that if I didn't cooperate they would cut his penis off, or slit his throat. At times they would cut him and make him bleed. Watching helplessly, as they hurt my baby, was the single worst nightmarish feeling and experience. I wanted my husband to help me. I wanted him to protect us, but he never did. Now, I understand that he never could.

The men did different things each time they came to harass us. At times they took Kevin into another room and while they had him, another man restrained me. I stood silently and helplessly while I tried to listen to what was happening to my baby. The agonizing silence was intensely painful and was always followed, after what seemed like forever, with the screams of a crying baby in excruciating pain. God, the screams and the torturous crying were nearly unbearable to listen to. I was so helpless. I could not help myself, nor could I help my son. Another time they asked me if I wanted to see a "blue baby" and then one of them proceeded to stick his thumb down my baby's throat until he turned blue. The lead man always said that if I cooperated and did a better job, they would not have to subject my son to this. But they tortured us no matter how well I did my job.

And, it is said that America is the land of the free and home of the brave. Where oh where have we strayed, so far from the ideals set forth for this country?

One day my infant son was swinging, peacefully sound asleep in his wind-up swing, when they came. They threw a glass of water into Kevin's face to wake him up. He cried and the suited man picked him up and carried him around the side of the garage out of my sight. Dying inside, I waited anxiously, hoping they wouldn't hurt him again. After the silence came the horrifying crying and screams. The suited man carried him back, his baby bootie was off and blood was dripping all over. Holding a razor blade up to me, he said, "Solve this problem my little cutie." He handed me my screaming son, who was dripping with blood. When they left, I took Kevin into the house and sat with him on the couch, sobbing, rocking him, and trying to stop the bleeding with a towel I wrapped around his little foot. He cried so hard that he was sweating and sniffling, gasping for air and sobbed himself to sleep.

Our neighbor, Ron Peters, was one of Governor Ronald Reagan's bodyguards. He was usually around when I was used with Reagan in California, but didn't appear to be the lead man. I never knew when these men would barge into my home. Sometimes they even arrived in the middle of the night. When this occurred, I was programmed to walk to the front door and open it, and the men in suits would push their way in. They often pushed me into Kevin's room and closed the door. Craig always slept and never woke up to protect us. It was always the same torture, horror and threats to both my baby and me, and when they were finished they would leave. These hellacious experiences happened over and over and over again. At times, in those early years, there were instructions given over the phone in the middle of the night, but later on there was programming done that paired tones on the phone with different instructions. I responded robotically to the different tones I heard on the phone. A programmed part of me knew the instructions that matched the tones and knew just what they meant and how to respond.

As my programming dictated, I robotically delivered my baby to my father's welding shop where I handed him over, probably for further trauma programming, and left.

This kind of trauma, tied to my maternal instinct, was enough to keep all the programming intact. It kept hidden the awareness of my use in high security work for the government and other secret criminal activities I was involved in without my knowledge, consent, or awareness. In my conscious waking state as well as my sleeping hours, I was unable to think about what was happening to me and my family, but after Kevin was born I began to have excruciating migraine headaches. I also had stomachaches, colitis and constant pain in my female organs. My body was expressing what I could not.

My husband graduated from dental school and immediately set up a dental practice on Topanga Canyon Boulevard in Woodland Hills. I continued to work out of our house, doing dental lab work, so I could stay at home with our baby. I also began working part-time at Craig's office. During the hours I worked away from home, Kevin was left at a babysitter's house in the old neighborhood where I grew up in Woodland Hills. When he was out of diapers he filled a long-awaited slot at Little Oaks Preschool, in Thousand Oaks, California, where he, and later, the rest of my children were further ritually abused. The fact that I had put my baby on a preschool waiting list just weeks after he was born was not a detail I could reflect on. Nor, did the fact that I left him at the home of this babysitter who gave me a very dark, gnawing eerie feeling that wouldn't go away, ever hit me mentally. I could not, due to the mind control I was under, consciously think about any of this.

Each year my husband and I would attend the American Dental Association's annual convention, which was often held in Anaheim, California. In addition to the regular dental convention agenda, I was programmed to switch and then slip off to side rooms where I presented the latest in mind control technology for the dentists who wanted to own the best assistants money could buy, complete with all the latest enhancements available. Then at night we went to Disneyland. On several of these nights the park was closed to the public at large, in order to entertain the dentists and their families. Our controllers never missed an opportunity to combine functions so that they could accomplish two or more things at once. Of course, at Disneyland my family and I were reprogrammed and reconditioned in order to preserve our high level programming. Nothing was ever what it seemed and often there was an alternate agenda, a parallel reality going on at the same time as a publicly acceptable event.

Back in Agoura, there were nights I was triggered to walk out of our home on Valley Heights Drive to the waiting car of Secret Service agents or other men in suits in order to be flown to many different destinations. Clothes were always provided and were kept separate from those I wore at home, lest I gain access to my memory by the sight of clothing I had worn on a "government mission."

Drugged

My husband's dental training came in handy, as he was adept at injecting my arm with drugs that our controllers wanted me to have. There also were flat, round, chalky tasting tablets, the size of Rolaids, that he gave me at times before I was taken away by the Secret Service agents. There were lots of drugs given to me orally and intravenously over the years and I never knew what they were, I simply dissociated and complied when they were administered.

Around this time, my husband announced that he had located a beautiful piece of property in an exclusive area of Agoura, called "Old Agoura." Wanting to share his find with me he drove me down a little one-lane country road that led to a secluded dirt road. We entered a beautiful rural area, dotted with huge oak trees everywhere and there was a beautiful stream that went through the land. Craig introduced me to Aaron Funk who was the owner of one whole side of the street. This stranger announced that he was hand-selecting his neighbors for this exclusive area, and we were to be among them. This property was located less than a block from the entrance of Bob Hope's 2,324-acre Jordan Ranch. Within days, an agreement was struck, and although my husband was fresh out of dental school, and our funds were extremely limited, he made a financial deal with Mr. Funk to purchase the acre of land for $78,000. This close proximity to Bob Hope's property factored into my family's abuse, heavily. (See appendix for map.)

When I was to be used at parties - like at the Queen Mary the night of a supposed dental party we attended where I was later taken away to service Bob Hope and Alan Cranston - first Craig put some liquid drug into my drink and I drank it as instructed, "Drink it like a shooter, one gulp and it's down." Then Craig gave me some drug from a plastic bag that he pulled out of his suit pocket. He took the white powdery substance and wet it on a mirror, put the liquid into a syringe and injected it into my arm. At different times, he gave me shots in a variety of places - my arms, thighs, hip and buttocks. Sometimes he tied a rubber tourniquet very tightly around my arm before he gave me the injection. These injections hurt sometimes, especially the ones in my lower arms near my wrist. Sometimes he would try to use veins there and the shots really stung. My husband was an expert in laying out this drug paraphernalia in preparation for readying me for an event. He knew my arm like a road map and where to hit the good veins.

A man in a suit frequently delivered a supply of the drugs to our house, intended for me. He left it high in the top corner of the garage, taped to the wall. I saw Craig retrieve it from that location on a number of occasions.

My husband also injected me before porn was filmed. They were still using me in porn in my 30's. Craig injected me, just before my use, oftentimes when I was in someone else's car ready to be taken to my assignment. If one of the kids came up at that time, he would yell at them to get back in the house. Sometimes there was a certain smell to certain drugs, almost like sulfur. When porn was filmed in the dental office, "Dr. Ford" injected me or gave me some tablet or wafer to eat, beforehand. I don't know what the deciding factor was as to whether the drug was given interveniously or orally, but I sat in the dental chair and watched as my husband mixed up the powder on the dental tray, liquidized it, placed the liquid into a syringe and then shot it into my arm. Only then could they start the porn. I was always drugged before filming pornography.

As our children grew older, they also were drugged before they were used.

While retrieving some of these drugged memories, I didn't feel any emotions. It was as if I was just a "doll" and not real. Rag doll is a very common program theme among female slaves. Bob used to refer to me as his doll.

It took two years after retrieving these drug memories before I could actually begin to feel the pain and betrayal of this act performed, unconsciously, but still, by my own husband. And, until I had a sufficient amount of memories of our early cross-programming, I could only see my husband as a perpetrator, and not as the victim of the same evil system that he truly was.

The Birth of Our Second Mind Controlled Child
Bob Hope's "Little Filly" and George Bush's "Bush Baby"

In 1977 we decided, or it was decided for us, that it was time to have a second child. I kept saying I wanted to go to Maui to conceive this second child after dental school. Actually, our controllers had planned it all. Craig and I arrived on Maui and he told me to dress for dinner. Being in the mood to celebrate, Craig made us a Hawaiian cocktail in our hotel suite. It tasted like a combination of a Mai Tai and a Pina Colada, and it must have been drugged. I drank the drink as we watched the beautiful Maui sunset from our balcony. Then I went into our bedroom and dressed in a beautiful clingy, long purple dress and we went out as my husband had told me I thought to dinner. Instead of what I thought was going to be a lobster dinner, I ended up staying in a hospital for a few days. In fact, I was flown from the island in a helicopter, with a facemask on through which I was breathing some kind of drug, to a hospital where they did something to me (I believe Kelly was genetically engineered) and I was in this hospital for awhile. The doctors wore green surgical scrubs and did something to me vaginally. I don't know exactly what. They had test tubes, the glass kind that were very long and slender, and they looked at each other over their green facemasks. They didn't speak out loud but their eyes looked very serious. I had an IV in my left arm that was tied to a board with cotton and gauze around it. After that night I became deathly ill, severely nauseated, and I don't really remember much else that happened on that trip.

When Craig finally picked me up after they finished with me, they had me dress once again in my purple dress, and then Craig took me to the awaited lobster dinner. At that time there was a switch in my personality system and I didn't (couldn't) consciously know what had transpired. But that is how I really got pregnant with Kelly. Craig and I weren't allowed to have sex for awhile, but were allowed to as they said, "enjoy it in your mind." Kelly was the classic blonde, blue-eyed prototype, with large cheekbone structure, and all the right things they wanted for her to be sexual. Years later, Sylvester Stallone would comment that Kelly looked to him like a little 'Bo Derek.' The UCLA doctors were in correspondence with other doctors on Maui. When I got pregnant with Kelly on Maui in June of 1977, they monitored this conception heavily. When we returned to the mainland, I found out I was actually pregnant. I began spotting and my doctor recommended I go to bed, which I did for a few days until the spotting ceased. Kelly has a personality named Papaya, in honor of, and use for, Hawaiian experiences. As I remembered this experience, in obedience with my programming, my heart started racing and I felt like I was having a heart attack.

Our daughter, Kelly Suzanne Ford was born on February 23, 1978, and from then on Kevin wasn't always the main focus of the torturous trauma - Kelly was.

The torture and trauma began right after her birth. While we were still in Valley Presbyterian Hospital in Van Nuys, California, three men in suits came into the hospital room and closed the door. They took my new baby girl out of her bassinet, held her up and put a pistol to her head. Another man put a gun to my head and the third man stood guard at the hospital room door. The man holding the gun to my head said, "If you fail to follow our instructions, just one time..." he clicked the gun, but nothing happened, "we will just have to kill this precious little one." Then the man holding Kelly took a wad of Kleenex off my hospital tray, wadded it up and put it into the glass of water on my tray in order to wet it. He held my precious baby girl faced downward and forced the wad of wet Kleenex into her mouth, interfering with her ability to breathe.

With a gun to my head, I watched in absolute horror and terror, as my baby girl choked and gagged and then went limp in the man's arms. I thought she was dead. Then he said, "That's all it takes. It's as simple and easy as that." He took Kelly into the bathroom and did something to revive her because she was breathing again, and began crying loudly. The man literally threw her into my arms and said, "Mama, your baby is crying, maybe she's hungry." Then, they forced me to breastfeed her in front of them while they watched and then they left. The hospital nurse never knew they were there and since I was programmed, I was unable to think or remember it had happened so that I could get help. That was one of Kelly's first life experiences - one of her first birth traumas.

As an aside, I will share with you the reader, that as I sought recovery and understanding of what was wrong with me, I attended groups for people suffering with Multiple Personality Disorder. It was an enlightening time of new understanding as I met and shared with other Multiples, some who were RN's, intensive care nurses and therapists also attempting to heal. It leads me to wonder if some of the nurses and doctors in the hospital who attended the birth of my children were themselves programmed and controlled? In one particular Christian group I attended for Multiples who had been ritually abused, in the opening prayer, an MPD'd, ritually abused nurse prayed for the Lord to heal one of us so we could expose this atrocity and get help for the others. As she made her request, I knew it would be me that would heal and go for help. I healed as fast as I could, but help didn't come as quickly as I would have liked.

When Kelly turned three months old, our family moved into a large doublewide portable home on the recently purchased Chesebro Road property in Old Agoura, where we began life as "chosen" neighbors. Soon we had an architect draw up plans to build a large two-story home. The open, undeveloped area provided access to our family in many ways. Aaron Funk moved away and we were left on the street with only one neighbor. Helicopters could land in the adjacent area, and Bob Hope's Jordan Ranch would later be used for countless encounters; none of them were pleasant.

Our lives went on and, as programmed, I dutifully delivered my little daughter to Point Mugu Naval Weapons Base in California where military men took her from my arms wrapped in a beautiful pink blanket my mother knit for her. They kept her for a long while and then brought her back out to me. Sometimes when they needed to have one of my children for programming I was instructed to park my car on Las Virgenes Road, just past Agoura Road, and the men in suits picked us up and drove us the rest of the way to Point Mugu.

As Kelly grew a little older, at around age two our programmers laid her by my side on a gurney where we were both hooked up to sensors all over our bodies - head, chest, and pulse points (wrist and neck artery), in order to monitor something. What exactly, I don't know. The men working on us wore surgical greens so I assumed they were doctors. Kelly and I were drugged and totally out of it. I watched as my little baby daughter's eyes rolled up in her head like she was convulsing. Sometimes they put a mask over our faces to further drug us or injected drugs into our forearms and sometimes there was even an IV bottle left to drip for us both. There was one IV bottle, with the tubing split into two, one for me and one for Kelly. They also hooked us up to sounds delivered through earphones and often added bright lights. It felt like they programmed Kelly and I through sound and light by hooking us both up to wires. It seemed like we were getting a blood transfusion, but we were connected to wires instead of tubes and there was no blood.

There were also water experiments. They put me into a metal ball with a door and plunged me into the water, spun it and immersed it deeply. It was hard to tell what was going on from my position inside. It was very dark and very confining. I just pretended I was somewhere on the beach until it was over. If I had to guess, I would say they were doing experiments and research on the mind and the brain. Sometimes we were encapsulated and were weightless. There were all different sorts of chairs; some were for electroshock. One had a headrest with a band on it and straps for our wrists and straps for our ankles. They would zap me, and Kelly would be in the same kind of chair facing me and then they would zap her. It was horrific to watch her being tortured. They would have to almost carry her off when it was through because she was so out of it. The electoshock was usually the last thing they did. But before the electroshock, sometimes we were subjected to virtual reality machines, like moving rides we entered with a video screen showing pictures with lights and sound. After we were in it for awhile, they took us out and tested us with EEG and EKG equipment and asked us to fill out questionnaires, or they would ask us to write down the answers to questions they casually wrote down. The questions were related to what we had just seen, how we experienced it, and how we felt or there were questions about different personalities within us; maybe they were checking our programming or our inner systems.

There were other machines we entered where the floor tilted while our feet were tied down and we'd lean over, and sometimes there were mirrors where we looked distorted. There was lots of virtual reality equipment. One apparatus was a helmet with front eyeglasses attached with wires all over. They placed it on me and I saw a visual of lightening striking the top of my head while I was feeling electroshock to the top of my head. Then I heard the words, "You feel no pain. Hit by a bolt of lightning yet you feel no pain." After all this they tested me neurologically to see if I could walk, touch my nose, etc. Once I was tied inside a big roller and, with hands and feet tied spread eagle, they spun it real fast and then took me out. Kelly wasn't always there, but she was present more often than I care to remember. I remember the two of us laying next to each other on the gurney with towels over our bodies, IV's in our arms, with glasses and goggles on and we were totally drugged. There was a dolphin tank at Point Mugu, with an underwater window where they could watch as we swam with the dolphins. Swimming with the dolphins usually signaled the end of it. After that, we were returned to our car that was parked somewhere in Agoura or in the canyon.

I thought United States military officials were supposed to be in service to protect and defend their country and its citizens. Where are the high ranking men of honor that protect and defend the women and children in this country? What has gone wrong?

Genetic Engineering

Soon after I had finished breastfeeding Kelly in 1979, I continued to have severe pain in my female reproductive organs that no one seemed to be able to help me with or understand the origin of. Dr. Galloway, the doctor that delivered Kelly, admitted me to Valley Presbyterian Hospital in Van Nuys, California. Late in the day I was assigned a hospital bed and understood that my doctor had ordered a D & C for me. He explained that this was standard operating procedure.

Later on, I was taken into surgery, a mask was put over my face, and I was anesthetized with some sort of gas. It was nighttime when they performed this procedure on me that wasn't a real D & C; they really took my ovum for in vitro fertilization with other genetic strains. "Ideal genes, from healthy stock," they said. I cannot identify the doctors who were doing this to me.

Before I became pregnant with Kevin, they had taken other ovum during times when I was previously hospitalized for so-called "surgery." They thought I couldn't hear, but I could hear and see what they were doing. I was out-of-body and could hear and see everything they did. Their perception of reality seemed to be limited to the physical world. They didn't yet understand that a person could be out-of-body, that it is possible to take your consciousness out of your body to see and experience events in other locations. While my body was lying on the operating table under anesthesia, from my out-of-body position overhead, I could see their side of the table with equipment they used to take my ovum and a special dish with a special solution that they used to put the ovum in. Immediately upon placement of the ovum into the dish, a nurse came in and quickly took it away somewhere.

This is genetic engineering. These people do this a lot - they steal women's ovum to experiment on. They take good genetic stock. This is why, later on, I wanted a hysterectomy; subconsciously, I wanted to stop what they were doing.

I recorded in my memory files what I overheard the doctors say that night in the operating room: "Her children by her husband are inferior to those created here. We can team this ovum up with superior sperm to create a superior genus. These children will one day rule the world and we will be able to weed out the weaker genetic strains. Room must be made for this advanced race. The plan has been carefully orchestrated. It will come about with "our strains" in leadership. We have chosen the genetic strains of leaders, those whose drive is to lead, and to that end we have "strained in" health, intellect, and leadership qualities. These children will be raised in isolation, like the leaders in the shadows and will be taught advanced skills from birth meditation, diet, emotion modulation, and will be fed a strict diet of higher knowledge. The rulers of the future will be elite in every way, shape and form. We have spliced her genetic health and intellect strains with those perfect physical forms of the intellect donor to create the perfect species - both male and female. These strains will rise to the top. The forms will be so advanced that the normal human species will not be able to compete, and so ours will be the elite - the ruling class - and the lower forms will be the so-called worker-bees. There is no way the normal man can compete. Ours is the elite. We will soon have enough of our people grown and implanted with our direction and our wisdom, and now that we know how to program their minds from birth, we will have total and complete control. They will be ours - a race - a genus we can be proud of, created from the best genetic structure on earth."

They said, "The future on earth belongs to the scientists. It is time we weed out the inferior races."

Under the direction of my doctors, I mindlessly and compulsively charted a graph of my temperature to know when I was ovulating. Now I understand why that was so important. They even did an experiment of combining my genes with those of my husband's best friend and colleague. On one occasion, while he was performing so-called "oral surgery," while I was under anesthetic, they had him mount me to impregnate me. Then, I was instructed to report to UCLA where they took the sperm-fertilized egg from my uterus. They compared which genetic structure was superior - between those created in vitro and those created by a natural union and then taken from the body to mature.

This determination to create a 'superior race' is, as you may remember, the same drive that fueled Hitler's regime in Germany. One needs only to read Linda Hunt's book, Secret Agenda: The United States Government, Nazi Scientists, and Project Paperclip, and then visit the Holocaust Museum in Washington, DC, in order to put two and two together. If you observe some of the pictures of innocent people in the concentration camps as they are being used for brain and behavior experimentation, it's easy to ascertain that more was occurring than just the torture of innocent Jewish people for religious or racial purposes. This experimentation was also done intentionally in order to further the understanding of the mind and body, and how people could be controlled.

We as a people have not fully embraced the reality of the horrors in Germany that were perpetrated on victims there, and to that end we allow it to continue to the present, as those who should have been prosecuted for their war crimes often went free. As a matter of fact, through Project Paperclip, many were brought to our country by the Office of Strategic Services (OSS), which was our own intelligence apparatus at the time. They were placed in our major universities and hospitals to continue their unconscionable scientific research. It was through the invaluable wizardry of one of these Project Paperclip Nazis, General Reinhard Gehlen (German Intelligence Specialist), that our fledgling CIA came into being just after World War Il, and the "Cold War" was born.

Len Horowitz, in his book Emerging Viruses: Aids and Ebola - Nature, Accident or Intentional? points to a linkage between Henry Kissinger and General Alexander Bolling. He mentions that Gen. Bolling played a major role in Project Paperclip as well as the Joint Intelligence Committee, a newly formed administrative unit that recruited former Nazi scientists expert in mind control. Their combined research activity soon led to classified projects that paved the way for the CIA's Project MKULTRA. Horowitz also links Kissinger to oversight of project MKNAOMI, a military program to develop biological weapons having genocidal application. The Rockefellers, who spearheaded a national eugenics movement, supported research activities of similar nature to Project MKULTRA and MKNAOMI through their preWW II funding of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute whose director was, at one time, Joseph Mengele's superior. As you may remember, Mengele conducted horrific medical experiments at Auschwitz, many that were related to mind control. All of these facts are discussed in Horowitz's meticulously documented work.

From reading I did after I reintegrated and deprogrammed, I began to understand that the newly created CIA and the Rockefellers with all of their money and foundations, carefully researched and hired top former Nazi scientists to carry on their personal belief in creating a "master (Aryan) race." They are doing so through mind control experimentation and genetics research in systems within the confines of carefully white-washed hospital or university research facilities, not to mention military bases.

The Holocaust has not ended, it has just gone underground, and the victims are silent due to the mind control they have been put under.

I believe these scientists have fallen short in their understanding that, while the physical, genetic structure a baby is born with is very important, God in His perfection has patterned a life for this child. When this is altered by human intervention, it no longer can serve the highest purpose for the child's lifetime. It is not just the physical structure that rules a life of a child. A 'soul' is born into the body, and if left to the natural order of God in His infinite wisdom, there is a higher agenda and purpose to be accomplished. How can man in his finite wisdom begin to believe that he can out-create the Creator? I don't believe that physical perfection is the main goal here. Scientists will forever be lost in their own egos until they realize the absolute divine and perfective nature of God.

Dental Office Money Laundering Schemes

Arnold Stengle was our first accountant, but was replaced by Bruce Frank who was an accountant from Soquel, California. He directed me how to handle the dental office books from his Northern California office, and visited our office every now and then in order to further direct me. To give me instructions, he would sit across from me at my little office in the back. I would put my hands up to my head, my elbows to my knees and in "ready and alert" program stance, I would listen as programmed to "every word spoken." And he always had lists upon lists of 4digit number series. I don't know what they meant, but I would rattle them off later to different people, especially Reagan.

I also was programmed to report to different banks in the area. One was Safra Bank in Woodland Hills. On a typical day I went to the Safra Bank underground parking and when I entered the parking lot I was programmed to switch to Sharon. Then I went into the bank. When I entered the bank a man in a suit was waiting and gestured for me to go to a woman teller. I did as instructed and handed her the envelopes that two men had just given me in the underground parking lot. I never knew exactly what was in the envelopes, but when the teller opened them there were usually checks and cash. When the transaction was completed, I drove back to the office, switched now to Susan, and not having a clue that I had just been used to perform an illegal banking transaction for my controllers. Years later when I filed for divorce, my California attorney, Doug Wolfe, told me to go sign papers at Safra Bank before the divorce could go through. I remembered feeling really scared, but I went to the bank like I was told and signed a paper a man put out on his desk for me to sign. When I was through at the bank a man later used a stun gun on my back near my waist as he said, "You're a real waste, do as you're told to do and nothing more, nothing less, or you will be a mess."

Reagan Is President and Our Vice President is a Pedophile

Over the years, Kelly was closely tied into the trauma I received. Repeatedly she was tortured and traumatized in front of me in an effort to keep me in line. Her torture fragmented her psyche in order to create multiple personalities within her, so she could follow in my footsteps for later use as a "presidential model." Unfortunately, she didn't have to wait very long for that so-called "privilege" as our newly elected Vice President at the time, George Bush, was/is a pedophile and Kelly was created to be, as I later found out from a renegade CIA operative, what was called a "Bush Baby."

Barbara Bush brought snacks in on a tray to the delight of the children clustered around her husband. The kids munched on animal cookies with sprinkles on top as they listened to the Vice President read them stories. The reality created and the accompanying program he delivered was, "You are what you read." This was during the time they lived in the house with the flat rock fireplace. The fireplace had a stone bench that you could sit on in front of the fireplace and George had his easy chair near it. There was a brown coffee table and a couch, and hunting pictures of Springer Spaniels holding birds in their mouths and pointing, graced the walls. George was into that sort of stuff.

Barbara thought I was there as a representative of the new educational system being implemented in California, which was true, although I wasn't consciously aware of it, and she was told that the children were there to demonstrate to the Vice President just how well the new system was working. But later, when the demonstration was over, Bush would take Kelly or another small child to the bathroom or to "show them something special."

During the time the Vice President disappeared with my daughter, Barbara often made lots of small talk, always smiling, cheery and pleasant, speaking nothing of importance. She talked a lot, especially when her husband was out of the room. I was on edge, even under mind control, as parts of me sensed that my little girl was being hurt. The connection between mother and child often makes physical presence unnecessary to know the status of one's child, and it was difficult to carry on small talk with Mrs. Bush while my child was being raped. The Vice President brought Kelly back when he was finished. She looked dazed and out of it.

Bob Hope arranged many other times for George to be with Kelly in different and more private settings. There was a weekend retreat home the Bush's went to in the mountains, so they could relax, and George would take their dog out hunting wild fowl. Barbara stayed inside and baked and did needlepoint, like a typical housewife. I believe that she was unaware that her husband was molesting droves of little girls. George always said he had a special place in his heart for little girls.

Bob Hope Utilizes His Little Filly Asset

When Kelly was brought to Bob's parties, he gave her as a gift to known pedophiles that liked little girls. Then, he really owned these men. He would act like he really thought it was okay to have sex with a child, to men he knew were pedophiles. Without actually saying it in words, he portrayed that attitude and then after the person had raped the child he would say something like, "Do you know what news like this could do to your career?...to your family?" At the parties, these children were kept in a back room. On nights I was programmed to act as 'the hostess,' I was instructed to escort men back to the room where the children waited for this expressed purpose. I was even programmed to facilitate their choice in which child they wanted for the evening. Sometimes, acting from program, I even offered my own daughter to these men.

Kelly was brought to Bob's on nights when men who had "younger preference" were in attendance. Bob used that term with people like George Bush. When Kelly was nearly three years old she was provided to George Bush to satisfy his pedophile desires. Bob invited a group of men with "younger preferences," and later provided them with a group of children, both male and female, for their pleasure.

With people he really wanted to own or use he would take pictures of the molestation with hidden cameras. He knew just how to get to these people. Then afterwards he would show them a picture of the rape of the child and say, "We sure don't want these pictures, or any others like these to get into the wrong hands and ruin your entire career, do we?" Then he would simply tell the man what he wanted, in exchange for impunity. It usually had to do with getting another "friend" of his into a "key" position in the government, looking the other way when a case came down, or getting a bill passed or vetoed. He knew just how to control these men and they usually complied.

In 1993 as I was attempting to get free and get my first book published, due to the fact that I was not cooperating and "staying in line," I was raped and then forced, under mind control, to pose for pictures that if shown to others would have totally discredited me, making me look like a perpetrator. In this type of scenario, the media is called in and a person is publicly discredited--end of threat! Back in the 60's and 70's I watched as people in positions of authority were set up and compromised in the same manner in order that they could be used. And in the 90's I watched with horror, as many of the dedicated individuals who were attempting to end this abuse and help the victims, were publicly discredited, often via mainstream media channels.

Hunted by Bush on Hope's Jordan Ranch

George Bush was one of the men in safari uniform on Bob Hope's property who hunted me when Kelly was little. Bob was laughing when he laid down the rules. "There will be no running, or hiding, you will simply stroll along the path, skipping, if you like, dancing if you wish, but NO running, until you are TRAPPED. It's inevitable, there is no escaping it, especially with an expert hunter like George." Looking me in the eye, Bob said, "Are there any questions?"

I shook my head no.

"Good, then remember, every step you take may be your last." As a helicopter touched down off in the distance in this rural Jordan Ranch area, Bob said, "Bush will be coming from a different angle."

I walked down the road, which with every step I took, became more and more like The Yellow Brick Road that I had been programmed since childhood to follow. I was absolutely terrified, waiting to be attacked, killed. . . whatever; I didn't know what they had in store for me this day. I walked for a long time and it felt like I was hallucinating along the way. In my mind, playing over and over like a horror movie were Bob's words, "Every step you take may be your last."

In my blue jeans and red checkered shirt, I kept walking. I was still walking when it got dark and I was really scared then because I was so far away from where I had begun. My arm ached from the injection they had given me in the bend of my arm and I rubbed it wishing I wasn't so alone in the world. I was getting frantic, totally panicked by now and I just kept walking. Nothing seemed real anymore. I felt like a caged animal and I couldn't remember the rules any longer. I was trying so hard to remember exactly what Bob had said, thinking if I just did it right that I wouldn't get hurt and my children would be safe. But my drugged terror was escalating, and I couldn't think anymore, I felt like I was losing control.

After what seemed like a very long time, George Bush stepped out from an old outhouse-type structure that was on Bob's ranch and calmly walked over to me, "Betcha didn't think I'd ever be hiding in there, did ya?" and he laughed. "Well, I like to play hide and seek a lot but there's only two of us here so let's play another game that only requires two, the two of us."

I nodded, frozen in terror.

"I just happen to have an apple. A beautiful red apple here in my pocket." He pulled the apple out and said, "I know the game is supposed to be played with a bow and arrow (I'd been accidentally shot with an arrow in the jaw when I was five) but I forgot mine. I did remember however to bring my revolver." And he pulled a gun out of his other pocket. "Now, this game is called William Tell, and you get to play William. Here, you stand over here, so if I miss, the bullet will go into the tree instead of traveling wildly out of control."

He placed me in front of an oak tree and put the apple on top of my head. By now I was crying. I couldn't help it, I just couldn't control it. "Please don't hurt my kids anymore," I begged.

Bush said, "Shhh, don't interrupt. We're playing a game now. Now just stand real still and remember your name is William Tell, and this is what happens if you don't." Slowly, he cocked the gun and took aim at the apple on my head or me, I couldn't tell which. Then, taking his time he said very slowly as he took aim, "Ok are you ready for the games to begin? Will you tell?"

I squeezed my eyes shut and he lowered the gun as he sighed real disgustedly, "No, no, you can't close your eyes, you have to see this coming, otherwise it won't be any fun at all."

So, I opened my eyes and George took aim again and said, "Remember this is what happens if you don't TELL." He kept aiming and re-aiming trying to get it just right and then he asked me again if I was ready.

"Yes, Sir," I answered.

He put the gun down to listen to me, then took aim again, "Now what's the magic message?"

"Don't tell," I answered. Immediately, he fired and shot the apple off my head. It blasted a hole in the middle of it and blew out a huge chunk and he walked over, picked it up off the ground and said, "Looks like we both won this time. You wait for your ride, I'll take mine another way," and he disappeared.

I tried to see where he went in the dark but I couldn't locate him. Shortly after, a couple of cowboys that tended the cattle on Bob's ranch came driving by in their old pick up truck and angrily said, "Get in, we'll give you a ride back to the end of the road. You're trespassing lady." So I climbed into the back of their pick up truck, not even on the seat in the cab and bounced all the way back to the end of the road. Then, I walked the short distance home.

When I walked in the house, Craig said, "Where have you been? I got dinner started and was getting worried."

"Oh, I was over at the neighbor's," I answered, falling into line helping with the kids and the dinner. During dinner, I just wanted to hold Kelly, who was two years old, and kept feeling so glad she was safe, at least for now.

I kept rocking her at the dinner table and it was a good thing my daughter was in my lap or I probably would have appeared as I really was, "psychotically experiencing an episode." That's what they told me the doctors would say if I went to them for help. "They'll say you're psychotic," Bob said, "and it won't take them long to figure it out. It will be obvious."

George Bush lorded and ruled over me for years once I had children. There were lots of scary program tactics they installed to insure the safety of his use of Kelly and me.

Mission Assignment on Maui

An early experience of cross-programming with Kelly took place in order for me to be used with newly elected President Ronald Reagan and Kelly with Vice President George Bush, on Maui.

My pedophile father, Calvin Eckhart, paid for my husband, young children, and I to vacation with him and my mother to Hawaii. This was a trip to the island of Maui in 1981 where I was taken from my family to be of service to my country, to serve President Reagan and others. Before the trip Bob Hope checked Kelly out at a distance. My father took us to a public park in Reseda, California and, although at the time he was very physically debilitated, he gave Bob a hand signal as we passed by. Bob looked at Kelly and gave my father a wink and a thumbs-up sign and we left.

Like all these "missions" before, I was totally amnesiac of this occurrence and could not remember much of what happened at all during the vacation. At the time, I did not realize I couldn't remember what happened on the vacation. It was only years afterwards that awareness was available to me. Then, the only thing I could recall about this trip was having dinner at the Charthouse on Front Street, in Lahaina with my parents, husband and children. I remembered that my five-year-old son Kevin ordered lobster, and that was all I could remember about that trip until years later when I returned to Maui without my family in 1991. Then the memories of that earlier trip began flooding back as I sat under the large mango tree located in front of the same place I had been taken to be with Reagan - the Puamana.

It all began like it had every other time before. Three men in suits barged into our hotel room where my family was sleeping and took Kelly and I out of the room. She was 2'/2 years old. Then they took us to another room and tortured us both in front of one another, programmed in some instructions for me, and then they took me away. At that time I didn't know where they took Kelly. The personalities inside of me that were programmed for use with Reagan and others on this trip never knew what happened to my children during that time. The personalities I had that performed everyday, mundane, routine jobs, were amnesiac to the whole experience-they never knew it happened. Such is the reality of Multiple Personality Disorder and mind control through trauma-based programming.

I overheard my controllers speak amongst themselves explaining that the Puamana was specially selected for security purposes and had the advantage that it could be accessed by both land and sea. Seaplanes could secretly fly in foreign dignitaries at night. It was a gate-guarded complex that was easily protected by the Secret Service, insuring secrecy and privacy.

I was on Maui for a ten-day stay, supposedly to vacation with my family, and was used part of the time as a go-between with Reagan and many other politicians and foreign dignitaries. During the time at the Puamana, my job was to help make Ron and Nancy more comfortable. I researched restaurants and places to order food and did everything I was told to do to help them, in addition to being the "secretary" for mind files use at their meetings and later having sex with Reagan. I took shorthand, but more importantly could secretly "record" everything I heard and saw for later debriefing by Kissinger or the Council.

Nancy could see that I had a credible job, but when she would say anything accusatorily about me, Reagan would deny it and tell her she was just over-reacting and he would kiss her very lovingly on the cheek. All in all, she was not pleased that I was there. She was angry and unpleasant to me. She hated it when I was around. I hated it when she was around too; everyone was on guard because of her attitudes. Reagan occasionally spoke to me about her as if she was unreasonable, but mostly he would defend her, saying she was probably just a little tired or cranky.

I liked it when Ronnie (that's what he told me to call him when we were alone) and I walked on the beach in the dark together, as there was no one to interrupt us. Nancy never knew where we "really" were because Ronnie would tell the Secret Service agents to tell her that he was going to be in a meeting. They were instructed to keep an eye on her and make sure she stayed inside the room for safety, since it was dark outside. Reagan told them he would need me to be at the meeting, as I was functioning as his secretary at certain times and he would need my help. Then we would go off together to "do business."

Sometimes we did do business, but more often we would go off alone together and I would give him my "undivided sexual attention." I also gave him any information I was instructed and preprogrammed to give to him from the Council and others. Once elected, Ronnie said to me, "Can you believe I'm President now? Does it feel any different to you to be here with me?" He often complained about his job and how hard it was. That seemed to be where I translated his words to mean, "Please baby me, pamper me, take care of me, coddle me," and I did just that. Whatever he wanted or needed, I was programmed to perform for him.

I was assigned a room on the beachfront at Puamana. The room was actually just another one of his rooms a place where they took me to be alone with him. The Secret Service agents acted like they did not see or were not watching, but sometimes I would notice them snickering or smiling at things I did with Reagan.

The Council told me what to do, when to do it, what words to use and what to say later on in the evening to have the greatest impact on Reagan. I don't think he ever knew I was being "an actress" - doling out the lines I had been programmed to deliver - but he loved it! So did Tricky Dick (Nixon). These tactics worked especially well on old men, and that is exactly what these men were.

This late night rendezvous at the Puamana, in the little pool overlooking the ocean, I bounded out of the pool and began unfastening my bikini top. I took it off and began dancing, slinging it around like I had been trained to do, as I sang, "Let me entertain you," like I had done for Bob Hope. Reagan was laughing and a bit embarrassed, I guess because of the Secret Service's presence, but he didn't stop me. I slowly pulled off my bikini bottom, danced around more and then slipped back into the pool next to him, naked. This personality, specially created and devoted to Reagan, was very comfortable being naked. I never even considered picking up my bikini afterwards. As I climbed out of the pool, Reagan put a large beach towel around me and the Secret Service agents picked up my wet bikini and brought it inside.

The Secret Service agents were usually younger than the Presidents and I could see in their faces that I had their respect and admiration, but was confused as to why. Sometimes after these antics, they would have a little grin on their faces.

The words that went with these little acts were not political, but were used by the Council to entertain and bring Reagan closer to me, to make him want me. They figured if he wanted to be with me, they could use me to slip important messages to him later on after sex, upon awakening or in the evening when he was just dozing off to sleep. The Council knew that, if they could keep him interested and pampered over the years, they could maintain control over him.

I was programmed to make him feel good. I did everything he wanted and helped soothe him when he was troubled or distressed, and I even had some opinions that he was surprised I was "old enough" to have. President Reagan said I was, "wise beyond my years," but he never did know that I wasn't really--I just had the Council pre-empting me. I would say that I was so interested in his success and the success of our nation that I read up on things in the newspaper and got a new "idea" or perspective after my research. Or, I would say that an idea just came to me. I don't believe he knew just exactly to what extent I was being set up for him. The Council knew just what would make a man happy, and more importantly they studied exactly what each man specifically liked or disliked.

Newly elected Vice President George Bush was at the Puamana for this trip, also. He and Reagan were having all sorts of leaders secretly flown in by seaplane to the back of the complex in the middle of the night. My job was to go and greet many of them as they arrived and help them to their rooms in the dark. Some were foreign ambassadors. They had meetings with these men and had a formal gathering one evening in the large banquet room that was used for parties. It was decorated in red, white, and blue, as it was soon after Reagan and Bush had been elected and many of the foreign dignitaries were congratulating them.

I overheard Reagan and Bush talking before the party and Bush told Reagan that this was an important night to lay the groundwork for future negotiations with certain foreign countries. These leaders were flown in, spent a couple of days and were flown back out.

The men from Saudi Arabia had to be flown in on separate days because I overheard them saying that they would not "mix" with the other guests. No one spoke of them afterwards to any of the other guests. They wore their white robes or native dress and were mostly dark-skinned.

George Bush seemed like the leader as far as these negotiations went and I noticed that Reagan "leaned on him" heavily for guidance and instruction. Bush had done his homework and studied the situations and Reagan took his expert advice. Although I don't remember Kissinger being present for this meeting, at other times, Reagan also took advice from Kissinger.

George Bush pounced on me when I least expected it, often delivering a devastatingly terrifying cryptic message while I was speaking to some foreign ambassador or politician at a White House function, gala, ground breaking, or golf with Hope. But this time we were on Maui at the newly-elected President's dinner. He waited until no one was around and then said, "I don't know what the President sees in you. He must have on some of those strange Elton John glasses, that make you look otherworldly like a little green Martian."

Later at night, I was told to stand out at the beach and wait until I was signaled with a flashing light and then I was instructed to swim out through the surf to the sailing vessel. A man aboard the big white sailing vessel took me aboard and into a darkened room below where a man sitting in the dark delivered a message to me, "You are to tell Reagan it's a green light. It's a go. And tell Bush to keep his dirty mitts off this one." Then he laughed and said, "No instead say, 'George, the men on high say that they have got this one covered. Anything you do would only interfere in the master plan.'" Then he said, "You may go now. Take flight and deliver your messages on cue."

I walked robotically out of the room and over to the area on the boat where there wasn't a railing, dove off and swam back to the beach. The Council maintained vigilant contact with Reagan especially during this trip. Reagan was aware that I swam to get information because he commented that it turned him on when I swam to my assignment.

I swam often and had programming that allowed me to swim long distances without tiring. This swim program was often tied to 'dolphin themes' in my conscious mind so, in case I began to remember, my thoughts were automatically directed to thinking about how much I loved dolphins. These are the words that directed my swim programming: "Your body is warm as you glide through the water, swimming easily, effortlessly, endlessly through the ocean, like a dolphin. Dolphins deliver messages, and so will you." Other times I swam out from the beach and waited to hear the sound of a helicopter, and like the dolphin waiting below the spaceship in the movie Cocoon, I waited to be "beamed up." My programming dictated my reality. I thought that I was living this intentional movie-scrambled reality while the actual event was hidden beneath the surface of this programming. As I experienced the flashback of the actual occurrence, I could feel the cold water on my body, taste the salt water and hear the helicopter. They dangled a rope ladder down and my instructions were to "climb the stairway to heaven." As I did, I entered the movie reality my programming commanded, and felt like I was on an angelic/dolphin mission. The rope ladder stung the bottom of my feet. When I made it to the top, a man grabbed my arm and pulled me in, sat me down, put headphones on my ears and said, "Listen and learn," as I retained the message to deliver to the leaders.

One night, the Reagans and a foreign guest went to dinner late in the evening. I was taken along as this man's escort. (I am sorry that at this time I am not able yet to remember his name.) We went by limo to a restaurant in a large shopping area that had storefronts like boutiques or the French Quarter, with brick walkways leading to the back and flowers alongside. We ate outside at a patio table surrounded by bushes and flowers; it was very private. The Secret Service were with us but kept a low profile, so as not to attract anyone's attention.

Something happened at the restaurant when Nancy and I went to the restroom. She said something to me about indecently coming on to her husband and then she slapped me. It really messed me up, as slapping was also part of a program to switch me into different personalities. A Secret Service agent quickly took me aside. I had switched into a child personality and was crying, and he could not let me go back to the table like that. He straightened me up, smoothed out the rough emotional edges, and took me back to the table where everyone was finishing up.

Despite this incident, we had a successful late night dinner with this man and went back to the Puamana without being detected. It was the only time I knew of that Reagan went into public during the entire trip. I think this guest had expressed a desire to see the small town of Lahaina. He did not seem too concerned about the security risks and Bush encouraged Reagan to go and entertain him. Reagan and Bush usually went into public places separately for security reasons.

After my use with Reagan at the Puamana was over, I was taken back to my family. I do not know what happened to them in my absence, but just like each occasion before, none of us experienced a break in time, and no one knew that I was gone or that I had "just" returned.

When we returned to California, no one in my family thought of this hidden experience again, as it was buried deeply under programming.

Reagan's Ranch

I was also taken to the Ranch to visit President Reagan, as I had at times in the past when he was Governor. I was picked up in front of my home in Agoura by a man in a suit and was flown to the Ranch located near Santa Barbara, California. Ronnie insisted saddling up the horses himself when we went riding, even after he became President. He did not want anyone (including Secret Service agents) to do it and so he did it himself! I rode the brown horse.

President Reagan "acted" very romantically while we rode, just like we were in some old movie! It seemed he lived in a type of "movieland" mentality a lot of the time. We rode all over the ranch, down near the Oak grove on the far side. It was beautiful in the springtime, with green grass and wild flowers as far as one could see. We got off our horses and he put his arm around my waist and pulled me to him for a kiss. He explained, "A man needs a young woman in his life to make him feel younger." I just smiled. I did a lot of that, didn't use many words, just smiled, and was pleasing, helpful and compliant. That is how I was created to be.

Then Reagan sang, "Younger than springtime." He took his hat off and put it over his heart while he was singing, just like he was in some musical. He could be very corny.

Later he explained he had barbed wire put in between the wood fencing on the Ranch to keep people out. He said he didn't like to have to do that, but the Secret Service suggested he go along with it for security reasons. He explained that he did not like to always have people watching him, but that it went with the job now-it was different than when he was Governor, but, he explained that nothing could change our relationship, we would just have to be more careful.

Nancy Reagan was very mean to me, much meaner than Barbara Bush ever was. Barbara Bush just sort of ignored me altogether, whereas Nancy was very angry and controlling. I liked it best when Nancy was not around. When Henry Kissinger or George Bush met with Reagan at the ranch, Nancy served them snacks. I was never allowed to eat, but just sat quietly wherever I was "parked" and recorded information into my mind files whenever I was directed to. Henry knew just how to file it inside of me, all in the correct storage areas for easy retrieval later on. They met at the ranch quite often.

Sometimes we flew to meet big leaders in their own country, if they were at all concerned about the security at the ranch. But most people felt pretty safe there with all of the security systems and the Secret Service agents.

I observed a lot of Secret Service security techniques because at times Henry left me with them when I was not being used. Henry sat me next to the agent at the security monitor and told him to keep an eye on me, but to not feed or talk to me. So, I was able to watch the monitor and listen to the agents. They even had agents placed at the far corners of the ranch all night long for security. Each agent carried a walkie-talkie to keep in touch with each other and the agents in the house. A Secret Service agent was stationed inside the house with television monitors and other equipment to help supervise the agents outside and was always listening to the men in the field with the walkie-talkies. The agents took shifts so that there was always someone fresh and alert manning all the "posts" 24 hours a day and night.

Reagan laughed a lot when he was Governor and in the beginning days of his Presidency, but he acted very differently after he was shot. Kind of like how different Nixon became after the Watergate scandal broke. Like the life went out of him.

Reagan gave me a bracelet on one occasion when we were at the ranch. But I had to turn it over to the men who flew me by helicopter back home to Agoura. Nancy had been gone that weekend. She usually was when Reagan and I were together sexually. But, she saw me when Kissinger and Reagan or Bush used me at the ranch for mind file use. It seemed like she hated it when she noticed her husband perk up when I was around, so she was mean to me. Actually, even under mind control the parts of me that were dedicated to Reagan felt sorry for her, having to be married to him, if he had sex with her in the same passive manner he did with me.

The Conception of Our Third Child Under Mind Control

In 1980, I felt a deep desire for a third child, though I am not sure if I ever really was solely responsible for having decided such things on my own, or if it was up to the Council, Bob, Henry, etc. My husband fought me for months on end, with the logical reasoning that we had the perfect family - a little boy and girl, and for him they were enough. But for me, it wasn't. I was experiencing excruciating female reproductive pains and had been for a long time, and my pain seemed to increase as time went on. When I sought medical help, Dr. Feldman, my OB/GYN doctor, examined me and said, "You have a large fibroid tumor growing in your uterus," and his avenue of resolve for my worsening condition was a hysterectomy. Looking back on this situation from where I am now in my more healed understanding, I realize it was indeed this man's attempt to help me remove my "hysteria." Unfortunately, I was unable to understand that this hysteria that manifested physically in my innermost female private part, was the cellularly stored terror and devastation of my children and me. I was unable to think on my own, but I could understand what I felt. And, what I felt in my heart was that I wanted a third child and I wanted him desperately. I don't know if I was programmed to know, but I knew then that this child was to be a boy.

From his authoritative position between my legs, as he examined me, my doctor's orders were that I could have 30 days to try to conceive a child and after that time I was to return for the hysterectomy.

Craig and I used the "scientific method," the same method we used in the past to insure that the sex of our third child was a boy. And he was. Daniel Robert Ford was born on March 15, 1982 at Los Robles Hospital in Thousand Oaks, California. I was 31 years old. I have little conscious memory of Danny as a baby. When he was visiting me in the summer of 1996, he looked at me emotionlessly and said, "Mom, I don't remember anything about my childhood." He just stated the fact. What was very apparent to me was that my teenage son had no emotion attached to this statement or even any means to think this thought through to understand what it all might mean. It seemed like he was merely reporting it to me and, having done enough of my own healing to realize what this all meant, I was devastated. Understanding now that my children will not be served by remembering anything about their past until they are in a safe, supportive environment to do that, I simply acknowledged his reality and recommitted to doing whatever I could to bring about his freedom.

War Games at Jordan Ranch to Terrorize Kelly and Me

When Kelly was around three years old, we were told to walk down to the "end of the road," which I knew to be Bob Hope's Jordan Ranch. Once inside the fence we were injected with drugs in the back of a limo and were told to start walking out onto the ranch. Somehow, all of a sudden, my little daughter was gone. There was a whole group of men in army fatigues who I later found out were playing war games. But in the drugged state of mind they put me in, I had no way to know this was just a game. Bob had a walkie-talkie that he used to radio instructions to the men in army fatigues. He told them what to do and say to us. I know because the guys would listen to their walkie-talkies while I heard Bob say directions like, "Ok, rape her now."

These guys were shooting their weapons and throwing hand grenades. As I revivified the memory I was able to realize that the hand grenades and gunfire were all fake, but the drugs I was subjected to made everything feel very real and very terrifying. While these men were shooting at me, I was running for my life, ducking under bushes trying to stay alive so I could find my little girl, and the drugs made it impossible to think clearly. They told me Kelly's life depended on me finding her quickly. A helicopter flying overhead landed nearby and I finally found Kelly, naked and huddling near a small scrub bush. She was very dirty and had cried so much that her little eyes were swollen nearly shut and her face was covered with dirt and tears all mixed together. She was crying so hard that she was shaking and had begun the involuntarily sniffling and jerking that infants do when they have cried for a very long time. I picked her up and took her, as directed, over to the helicopter. Due to the severe trauma, I was unable to retrieve the rest of this devastating experience. This is the type of activity these men needed to use in order to guarantee that, under national security, a mother and her baby daughter would never remember the perverted experiences for which they were being used by Henry Kissinger, Bob Hope and the agenda of our other high-level controllers. When I was deprogramming and really getting beneath my instilled trauma-based programs in order to retrieve my experiences, my programmed mother sent me a picture of Kelly that she had taken. In it, Kelly was crouched down, hiding beneath a bush. Most likely our controllers had my mother send that picture in an attempt to tap into this traumatic memory in order to remind me what my odds were, in order to keep me under control.

Trauma Before Use

After I had my children, they always inflicted trauma on me and one or more of my kids (always with my daughter Kelly) before an assigned rendezvous took place. Those experiences were terrifying and horrific enough so, that my controllers felt very certain I would never gain access to memory of the experiences the trauma was meant to cover. The trauma they inflicted on me and then on my children in front of me, began when they were born.

The following is a vivid example of the kind of programming and torture my family and I had to endure before I was used with a President, Governor, Senator, entertainer, or whoever else they decided they wanted to send me in on. I have no way of knowing what the rest of my family might have been assigned to, in my absence.

This time, we were in Catalina and my husband told the kids that we were going to look at a new hotel complex on the island. When we arrived, three men in suits told us to go into a room where there was a single row of chairs lined up against the wall. We were told to sit down in the straight back chairs. Passively and robotically, we helplessly complied. Kevin our oldest son., who then was nine, was the first in the lineup; then Craig, me, and Kelly, who was seven, and last, at the far end, our youngest son Danny, who was three. One of the suited men took a razor blade or something similar and started with Kevin and slowly and deliberately ran it over the top of his legs, then onto Craig's, then mine, Kelly's and little Danny's. All of us were bleeding and traumatized, in a daze, physically frozen, staring straight ahead. I was terrified and panicked, but sat there, helpless to do anything to protect my children, as a result of years of abuse and mind control programming.

Craig could do nothing to defend the children or me. He couldn't even defend himself. All of us just sat there like zombies with blood trickling off our burning legs. One suited man informed us, "This is just the beginning," and they took Danny and threw him up against the wall. With the air knocked out of him and in obvious pain, he crumpled over and crouched up into a small ball, already, at three years old, knowing better than to cry out or make a sound. They always did something horrific and if the kids or I cried out or showed any reaction or retaliation, they would hurt another one of the kids or me even more. Craig simply took his seat and never moved until he was told to. He was totally and completely immobilized.

Watching my children get hurt was always the worst; nothing they ever did to me was ever as bad. Then one of the men took a cotton ball doused with alcohol and dabbed the blood off our legs. It stung badly.

Then the men in suits took me away, and told my family, "run along and play at the beach. Your mother will be along in awhile. You will never even miss her, never even be aware she is gone." Without reaction, Craig stood up and robotically walked out the door with the kids following in like manner.

After my family was gone, they took me to an empty room, ordered me to strip naked and they began slapping me around until I sank into a shivering, naked ball in the corner of the room. The rest of the day, all night, and part of the next day, I was left in isolation. Food and water were deliberately withheld until I was reunited with my family, which could be up to three days. A man in a suit would come to get me out of isolation and take me to get ready for Reagan or Nixon, or Pete Wilson or whomever. I was instructed to shower and dress in the clothes they provided. Outfits, complete with accessories just my size, were left for me.

After the sexual encounter was completed, I was taken back to the room and ordered to put on my own clothes. Hypnotic commands were given to, "simply walk out and sit down with your family on the beach. You will not notice any lapse of time, but will resume interacting with your family normally and naturally." On this occasion, I was told to sit down next to Craig on my beach chair and it was as if I had never been gone! No one mentioned another word about it. The experiences were supposedly wiped away from all of our minds as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened.

Each time I was taken, there was similar trauma before they could "safely" use me and be able to insure that my programming and amnesia would remain locked up tightly. All of this for a Governor's or President's sexual perversions, or for the fulfillment of the New World Order agenda.

Bob Hope's Escapades

We owned a large family camper that was fully self-contained and we kept it stocked and packed, completely ready at anytime should we decide that we wanted to get away for a long weekend or week vacation. We traveled regularly on Thanksgiving holidays and during summers, often driving up Highway 1, winding up the scenic and beautiful California coastline. We went to Ojai Valley, Big Sur, Carmel, Monterey, San Francisco, Oxnard, Paso Robles, Santa Barbara, Leo Carrillo State Beach, Emma Woods State Beach, Pismo Beach, San Luis Obispo, and Napa Valley. At other times we went up into the High Sierras, to visit Mammoth, Sequoia, Tahoe, Reno, Yosemite National Park, Big Bear, and Crestline. We also took the children to Six Flags Magic Mountain and, of course, Disneyland.

Bob Hope showed up in many of these locations. It seemed like he was everywhere. I had a number I called to let him know my vacation plans or he would make the suggestion of where to go. When we arrived at our destination, I wouldn't consciously know to expect to see him but the part of me that was programmed and readied for the rendezvous was instructed to walk towards him when he appeared. Sometimes he would snap his fingers in front of my face or jingle his keys in front of my eyes to get me to respond. He often liked to meet for sex or information exchange in mountain cabins. He would say he needed some time away from the hustle and bustle of city life and I was his plaything. He said I was better than "Jeanie" (the genie) because all she did was come out of a bottle. He said with me he could rub my magic spot and it was magic-he'd come! He usually spoke in clever little lines and phrases. I met him aboard yachts, also, even when I thought Craig and I were simply going sailing with friends. What actually occurred often was a rendezvous with Bob or some leader they needed to get information to. Sometimes Reagan was brought out on a little ocean excursion and ended up navigating right to us. I was then transported aboard with him for sex and messages. Sometimes I stayed all night with him on his transport and then was put back on the sailboat I came on the next day.

Reagan in Mazatlan

I was with President Reagan in Mazatlan, Mexico. In fact, my husband and I acquired a timeshare, the "Presidential Suite," at the El Cid Hotel, in Mazatlan, where we went in later years.

One evening in the early 80's, while we were 'vacationing' in Mazatlan, Craig and I dressed to go out and I became panicked because I put my contact lens on inside out and couldn't get it back out. From my attempts my eye was becoming red and ugly. Craig's father was with us at the time and the two of them thought I was acting very strangely to be so upset about such a little thing. But, my inner system of personalities knew that this would not do when I was nearing an assignment with the President.

The next thing I remembered, I was escorted by the Secret Service to the back door of a dark Mexican Restaurant. I joined Reagan in a booth in the back of the restaurant and waited for him to finish eating. It wasn't long until we walked out on the beach. We walked hand in hand along the beach with the Secret Service agents following a short distance behind us. As we were walking on the beach that night, Reagan seemed upset and anxious, very nervous. He said he was concerned about the 'state of affairs.' With my pre-programmed sexual orientation, my mind immediately went to the thought of sexual affairs, but as he continued speaking I realized he was speaking of the affairs of the nation. He went on to explain that being President was difficult, that there was a lot more to it than I could imagine. He said he was concerned about the way things were going and was upset with Kissinger about some things he had handled. He said he was very upset with Henry for taking so many matters into his own hands. He said he knew a few hours with me would help him snap out of the mood he was in.

I had been given a few key words by the Council to help Reagan "snap out of it" when he got into one of his slumps. They were very simple phrases like, "everything will be okay," said while I was rubbing or caressing his forehead over and over. He seemed to respond to that like a kitten going into a purr. I would generally rub him all over, front and back, before climbing on top of him to satisfy him sexually.

We went into a little cabin-type motel on the beach. It was just the two us with Secret Service agents all around outside. The little room was done in Mexican design; a red bedspread in Mexican colors, yellows and blues, and a little pair of maracas sat on a wooden dresser. I had sex with him and then we left; he did not go to sleep as usual. He hugged me briefly outside the motel and kissed me on the cheek before he left with the Secret Service agents.

A Secret Service agent took me back to where I was staying with my husband. It was a very quick encounter; rushed, like Reagan had somewhere else to go.

Craig and I returned to our home in California without conscious knowledge of my "missing time" or of what he did during my absence.

NASA

When Danny was an infant we went for programming together. He was a year old when his innerspace mind files were created in order for him to have a wide range of access points, without the necessity of as much trauma as was necessary back in the days when mine were created. Time had shown our controllers that trauma itself was one cause for the breakdown in slaves. So Danny was exposed to their newer technology, from birth, and Danny and I were both heavily programmed and cross-programmed together.

I was there with Danny when he was 3 or 4 years old. It seemed like a school field trip, but the series of events that unfolded were much different. Danny had on long baggy blue print shorts and a light blue T-shirt. We were sitting with other mothers and children, in the front row of a circular auditorium. Men in NASA suits, who were dressed like astronauts were all around and one of them came over, lifted Danny up and put him into a chair. "Like the real astronauts sit in!" the man explained. This chair had equipment all around it.

Danny smiled so sweetly across the auditorium at me like he was so proud and so happy to be chosen to sit in the big astronaut chair. There was such anticipated excitement and innocence in his joyful smile. Soon the man instructed him to lean back so his head was properly aligned to fit into a silver band and when Danny was in the proper alignment, I watched the NASA official clamp the back of the silver band to fit snugly around his little forehead. Danny looked up at the NASA official, eyes wide with innocence and youthful exuberance, and smiled as the man said to Danny, "Hold on for the ride of your life!"

Another man brought in some sort of visual/optical glasses (virtual reality?) to rest in front of Danny's eyes and told him to look into the viewer. Then to my horror, the man standing next to Danny gave a cue to another man and I watched in agony as Danny's little body jolted. They must have been giving him electroshock and God knows what else. After a time, his little body went limp and he was unconscious.

I was dying inside, but knew from many past experiences with his older brother and sister that if I made any attempt to interfere things would only get worse for all of us, especially Danny, so against all maternal protective instinct, I maintained my composure.

Pretty soon the NASA official waved a smelling salt or something in a cotton ball bound with gauze, in front of Danny's face. He came to abruptly and they released him from the equipment and then from the chair. He was sweating profusely around his forehead and under his nose. As the man helped him out of the chair, Danny looked over at me and several facial expressions quickly washed over him. At first he looked utterly humiliated and embarrassed, which was soon replaced with a look of utter shame that spread over his entire face and down his little body.

He could barely walk over to me and when I stood to help him, the NASA man said, "He's a big boy, he can do this on his own."

"Mommy, I feel sick," my little son said as he hobbled over to me and put his head in my lap. The men did the same thing to several other children, including another little girl from Danny's preschool, Born Learners. Soon we were escorted out, put on a shuttle back to the airport and were flown home. None of this experience was available to my conscious mind until years later when I began the grueling process of deprogramming. And, to this day, Danny has no memory of this event available to his conscious mind.

Different parts of me took care of Danny and our controllers assigned other parts to take him to places for conditioning.

The Highway to Heaven billboard that we had to pass along Kanan Road on the way to Zuma Beach or Point Mugu dissociated me. Instead of the actual sign, I would experience an internal experience of, "You are going to another plane of reality, one that only exists in your imagination and this Highway is your start off point in going there," and, I would go into a programmed mode that my controllers called the Highway to Heaven zone. There were landmarks (landmines) all over California that they used in order to keep me in line, "in the right state of mind."

Danny's mind files were filled with data early on and expanded after he was three years old. I drove him to Point Mugu or we were intercepted at the intersection of Kanan and Agoura Road, and go in the car with these men. They usually drove a dark colored sedan with tinted windows. Whether I drove or not, these men took my son from me in the car at Point Mugu in the morning, and returned him back to me at the car by late afternoon. He would just limply lie on my lap all the way home, and then I put him to bed in his crib where he slept until the next morning without waking.

Whenever he and I would go to the beach to fly a kite or play in the sand, they always took him away from me and brought him back later. Once some men on a Coast Guard boat took him from me at Zuma Beach when he and I were playing. He was around five. They came up close to shore, yet remained just beyond the crest of the waves. A lifeguard type guy in a red swimsuit that was about 25 years old took Danny by the hand from the beach and swam out to the boat with him. Then they took off with my son, while I stayed on the beach waiting, just sitting all alone, zombie-like until they returned my son. I helped Danny walk back to our brown station wagon and we went home.

Henry Kissinger filled Danny with high-level information, intended to span many years and to be delivered whenever necessary at specific future dates to large crowds of people. Danny had historical files put in, as did I.

At Born Learners Preschool at three to four years of age, Danny started special computer classes that kept him at school long hours, sometimes into the evening. When I asked him if he wanted to stop he always said he loved it, as did his best friend Justin. I believe programmers do more of the training via computer screen now, often using virtual reality. After computer class, I took the two of them to Monarch's Gymnastics, the same gymnastics school his older brother and sister went to for lessons. I usually waited in the car or ran errands while they were there and I was always so exhausted I could hardly stay awake. I had usually been to therapy abreacting the horrors of my own childhood and hurried home from Westwood to pick up Danny and Justin from preschool, and later on Danny from Kindergarten. I didn't like Mike, the man who ran the gymnastics center. He had a very bad temper and was often emotionally out of control. Kevin, Kelly and Danny all went to Monarch's Gymnastics in conjunction with the Montessori preschools.

I thought I would not be able to bear the pain and grief when I began remembering scenarios of the ways in which I had been programmed to be a part of my children's preschool mind control experiences. This is information I would prefer to withhold because it goes against everything I believe in, but in order for people to understand how this system works, it is necessary for me to share the following. Keep in mind that this scenario could have happened to any three of my children and indeed it did. But once again, I will use an experience I remembered about Danny because, for whatever reason, I have more memory retrieved about him.

This event occurred in Danny's preschool. On occasion, I helped out in the class. I remembered standing with Danny's preschool teachers who were instructing the children in a game where they all had to take their clothes off, step onto a colored circle and then take turns doing sexual acts to the child next to them. The teachers were laughing and clapping and everything seemed surreal, just like it always did when programmed events of horror occurred. As the game progressed, with music playing in the background, the children looked progressively more stunned. They were told to walk in a circle and stop on a color. If they didn't do what they were told, the teacher yanked them out of the circle by the arm and yelled at them. I couldn't tell what she said but it scared the child into compliance. The games always took place at the same time in the mornings and were centered around colors, music, body movement and hand signals. Hand signals were taught to the children this way and put to music for reinforcement.

There was a VCR off to the side of the classroom where an individual child was placed to watch a special pre-selected tape. The child was taken out of the circle, sat in front of the VCR and told to focus on the movie. This way each child got the individual training they were supposed to have according to what their curriculum planners felt were their strengths and career aptitudes. All of the special private preschools my children went to took this approach. And, ritual trauma and sexual perversion was often the way we were programmed to begin with the children.

Danny completed computer classes in preschool before he was four years old. During my deprogramming process, I was horrified when I remembered that I continually read him the story of Danny and the Dinosaur. As I re-read the story years later, I found a phrase in the book, which states, "there's no place to run, no place to hide. " And here again was another example of how 1, as his programmed parent, was used to keep my own son's programming locked tightly in place, reinforcing the programs that were used to keep the parts of his mind that were compartmentalized for our controller's use, separate from his conscious everyday awareness. And consciously, neither of us had any idea that any of this was occurring.

Henry Kissinger has been Danny's main man. He was the one calling the shots and organized the creation of Danny's mind files for NASA/military use. Danny was, and may still be, scheduled for a major position within NASA one day, following in the footsteps of his grandfather Ford and Uncle Lyle Curran. They have him scheduled to become a scientist or something of that nature. I overheard Henry talking to someone about it.

Danny has very specific programming themes that center around all the planets - Jupiter, Mars, Venus, Pluto, Saturn, etc., and I was programmed to tell him often before he went to sleep, "I love you to the moon and much, much, much, much, more than that. A thousand times more than that. A trillion times more than that," and on and on until we got to the highest number beyond infinity, and Danny knew that number. For some reason I can't remember it. I never could. Then, he would go to sleep.

Danny and Kelly both had those neon, glow-in-the-dark stars and planets on their ceilings and so did 1. Danny has tons of high tech information in his brain. I saw him demonstrated at Point Mugu when they put him in front of a group to demonstrate his capabilities. Henry took Danny to different locations to 'display the technology,' showing that a five year old could appear to be genius level, "a computer whiz." He had mega memory, displaying the intelligence level of what they termed a "Junior College Student." Danny was seen as having the intelligence of the future and they said he would blossom in high school, whatever that meant. They said that, by then, Danny would be fully functional and used by them extensively in international work. Henry talked a lot about Danny and I remember Danny holding onto Henry's leg one time when he was demonstrating Danny in front of a whole group of people. Despite the programming, Danny remained very shy until he was 5 years old.

Danny was also traumatized at Disneyland year after year. The Matterhorn ride was one they used before they took him away from me at Disneyland for other programming.

There was further programming done at Edwards Air Force Base. Craig took us all there as a family in our camper and we stayed overnight and were programmed the next morning. Two men in white uniforms came to get Danny and me from the camper and compliantly and mindlessly we went with them. Kelly, in her little strawberry blouse, was crying that she didn't want Danny to go and Craig held her and spanked her leg to stop her crying. The men took us through glass doors and we were escorted once again to the big chair, where the nightmare started all over. We sat side by side in the big heavy, metal chair while we looked into the large goggles that were placed in front of our faces. Before they began, we were injected with a drug. Earphones played music at times, but mostly sound effects, while they told us we were 'one' and the solar system that we saw through our eyes would now exist in the innermost regions of our mind. There was a beautiful visual of the stars and planets and the whole universe. They told us that we each had a system, but that we also had the other half of the other person's system much like those friendship bracelets that are separated and when they come together they are whole. Afterwards, Danny's eyes seemed to be moving all over the place at once and not together. Even in my drugged state I was terrified for my child. Looking at what his eyes were doing was scary. Afterwards, they escorted us out and I helped my little boy into the camper and laid him up on the top bed so he could sleep. He lay backwards on the bed and didn't move, totally out of it for the rest of the day. I walked around outside in this big white gravel parking lot with the other kids in a total zombie-like state. I felt totally drugged out of my mind and I fell asleep sitting up outside. When I woke up, I ran frantically into the camper to check on Danny. I held him and loved him. He looked to me like he was going to die. I said, "I love you Danny, is there anything I can do for you?" He was sucking his thumb by then and without any words, shook his head no. So I just held him.

Kelly was taken to military bases in Ventura, Oxnard, Point Mugu, and Edwards Air Force Base, but Danny went mostly to Point Mugu. The whole family went to Edwards Air Force Base. Sometimes from Point Mugu, they would helicopter Danny away and I never knew where they took him. Parts of Danny were programmed very early on to play the perfect game of chess, in order to take up where I left off in deciphering and delivering cryptic messages.

Catalina Island Excursions

One or two weeks a year were set aside for a planned vacation. Extended weekend excursions were commonplace, often planned at the last minute. But, our August week on Catalina Island, 26 miles off the California coast, was a standing vacation for years. Craig and I went there almost every year from 1971 until I left California in 1991; nearly 20 years. My children still go there with their father and, now that they are older, they have gone independently.

I was used on Catalina Island, for sexual rendezvous with Reagan and/or sometimes other public officials or entertainers. I was programmed to have sex with Reagan at the Wrigley Mansion, the Zane Grey and other hotels on the island. It seems Reagan was usually on the island anonymously; for security purposes, no one was to know he was there.

While I was busy carrying out my duties, I had no idea what my children and husband were up to. It seems likely that there was some reason they had us all there together.

We're Paying Taxes For What?!

And, I am sure that you the reader were unaware that your hard earned tax dollars were being spent on security, airflight, and high tech programming in order that Presidents and leaders could be extramaritally satisfied sexually, and that messages fueling the success and implementation of the New World Order could be sent and returned via a national security mind-controlled asset. Not to mention the salary of politicians and NSA people like Henry Kissinger who spent countless hours strategizing agendas to carry out their personal plans. I can only imagine the cost to privately helicopter, task a team of Secret Service agents, coiffure, and ready a mindcontrolled operative and then pay a limo to deliver her to her assignment. A few years ago my daughter was transported via ambulance after one of her many suicide attempts, as she carried out her program command to kill herself if she began to remember. That bill alone was unfathomable.

Chapter Twenty-six: Dodger Diamonds

The following information documents some, but by no means all, of the experiences I recovered in relation to my use with Tommy Lasorda and the Los Angeles Dodgers. I have randomly selected specific events I believe will aid you the reader in understanding just how far mind control, gone unchecked, has proliferated.

Tommy Lasorda gave a new meaning to the Dodger lineup. Instead of the Dodgers lining up, it was women and children lining up for the baseball team to choose from, for sex. A Dodger incentive to do better - to win more! If they won, they got to choose - if they lost, no women.

"Dodger diamonds" had a double meaning. In addition to the baseball diamond as on a baseball field, in my experience, it also referred to the "Dodger Diamonds," the mind-controlled women the Dodgers could select from for sex. Lasorda often spoke in cryptic language, intended to manipulate and inspire the Dodgers. Here's an example. One evening as he spoke to the team, he said, "If you play good on the Dodger diamond (the playing field), you will get in return a 'Dodger Diamond'" (a sex slave). Presidential model sex slaves often wore diamonds as program identifiers. My daughter and I wore diamonds, as well.

Back in the men's locker room when the women and children in the "Dodger lineup" were in their places, Lasorda would point to a woman or child who had been 'chosen' by a player and say, "he'll take that one." He never referred to anyone by name - always just pointed and said, "that one." It was part of the "game" they played after a win. The Dodgers weren't allowed to just go up and pick one of us. They had to tell Lasorda who they wanted and then he would make the announcement. We then stepped forward to the player we were chosen by and went with him to another room, corner or wherever he pleased. Sometimes the locker room was filled with Dodgers having sex with women and children at the 7th inning stretch, to "inspire and invigorate the team," as Lasorda would say. But most of the time it was done after a winning game.

Sometimes I got stuck with that little short guy - the one that walked like a duck to first base. His name was Ron Cey. He would often pick me from the lineup. After I was chosen, he would lean against the wall with one arm and talk casually to me for a minute before he had sex with me. He was impressed with how well I could have sex standing up against the wall. He also liked my hair and the whole idea that I was married. He seemed to know all about me, while I knew nothing about him, except that he smelled like sweat and was really gross to the personality inside me who was created especially for this Dodger purpose.

Cyndy Garvey (Steve Garvey's now ex-wife) was often part of the "Dodger lineup" of women and children to be chosen by the Dodgers for sex after a winning game. My daughter Kelly was also occasionally used. They usually put Krisha and Whitney (the Garvey's young daughters) into the lineup. The players who performed the best during the game got to choose first.

One night when they put Krisha and Whitney in the lineup, it was Whitney's first night. She was now "old enough" to participate, in spite of the fact that she was only four or five years old. Cyndy started screaming, "No, not Whitty!" (That was the nickname she called Whitney.) Two men stepped forward and grabbed Cyndy by the arms and whisked her away. They took her into the next room and we could all hear her screaming. It was awful.

"If you step out of line, you always pay the price, maybe with your life." Lasorda said. Then they took Whitney out of the line and into a side room, and we could all hear her screaming and crying.

Lasorda said to those of us remaining, "We won't have that problem anymore, will we." He was very brutal.

When they brought Cyndy back into the room, Lasorda said Cyndy's behavior had caused Whitney to get hurt. He said, "If the mother had acted respectably, there wouldn't have been a problem."

When they brought Whitney back out, she could barely walk. She didn't make it into the lineup that night; she was too injured.

I experienced and witnessed these types of horrors that kept me from ever interfering with what they were doing to my children, especially Kelly. I knew from experience that they would hurt her worse if I ever tried to protect her.

On nights the Dodgers lost, there was no Dodger lineup game and we would all go home, but not before the Dodgers saw us lined up and then leaving. Tommy said he wanted the boys to learn from their mistakes and to have incentive to win big. "Big wins equals big bucks," Lasorda said.

Tommy Lasorda and others humiliated Cyndy. They brought me into the locker room and put me up against the shower wall. They put Cyndy across the room but close by, and they brought Steve in. He had sex with me standing up against the wall. Cyndy was forced to watch and then someone, usually Lasorda, would tell her she wasn't good enough or enough of a woman for Steve. They told her she was stupid and backward. Then Lasorda slapped her across the face really hard. I don't know why they did that, but they did it to me also and I watched other women get slapped often. While this was going on, Steve was laughing sadistically. Cyndy looked like she wasn't really "there." Soon after, Tommy Lasorda took her out and sat her behind the dug out where she usually sat during the games - being the dutiful and supportive Dodger wife.

On nights like these, Tommy gave the press orders not to talk to or interview Cyndy. He told them if they did he would have them thrown out of the ballpark and he would have their job. If they asked why, he would say, "She's not quite herself tonight."

In line with the information about Project Monarch, some rich people actually own certain Dodger players and their children. Often it's cryptically called "sponsoring," but it's really ownership (much like owning a racehorse) because the owner makes all the decisions about the players life without the knowledge or consent of the player. When the player does well, the owner collects large sums of money from behind the scenes.

Steve Garvey, his (now ex) wife Cyndy, and their two children were "sponsored" (owned) by some wealthy person and from what I saw, the family was manipulated much the same way mine was, through mind control, for the financial benefit of others.

One night I watched, as I waited for the "lineup," while Lasorda was coaching the team. He chalked a diagram of the field onto a large chalkboard. The Dodgers were all sitting on a bench in front of him. Lasorda spoke in funny rhymes to some of the players, rhymes that didn't make much sense to me. It seemed that the players were like robots that were robotically manipulated by the words Lasorda spoke to them. I overheard him say, "Steve (Garvey), you will hit a home run. Ron (Cey), you will bunt since you're a runt. Only runts bunt." And he went on and on like that, seeming to program the plays into the players.

I never did end up watching much of the ballgames. If I tried I couldn't concentrate to watch because I was programmed to not see the players or to recognize them if I should see them. I was pre-programmed to not look at the Dodgers with the phrase, "there will be blood everywhere, if you continue to stare," or "you won't recognize them anywhere, you won't even know they are there." People who didn't know how I was programmed often teased me about my inability to follow or understand baseball games. One time, after attending games for a long time, I asked my husband and the couple that was with us, "Who are those men down there in suits?"

They looked at me like I was retarded and laughed in embarrassment for my question, and then explained, "Those are the umpires." I didn't know. I was just obeying program.

Craig took me to the Dodger games, but I never wanted to go. I hated to go, but had no reason I could "think" of for not liking or attending the games. Sometimes our small children would go with us, and then they would show up in the "Dodger lineup" to be used by the Dodgers for sex. I felt very out of control, despite the mind control I was under. Personalities inside of me didn't know how my children got there or how they would get home or if they would be safe or killed. Craig stood and watched like a zombie and often had this strange, nervous laugh that happened when he was anxiously trying to be a part of things. We were both totally helpless to think or act in order to protect our children or ourselves.

Tommy Lasorda was connected to a lot of mob-type men. They were always around Dodger Stadium in their suits with concealed weapons.

At times there were secret, private meetings at Dodger Stadium during the games. Sometimes the meetings were between politicians and at other times there were meetings where drug deals took place, or meetings between mob members and other top leaders in politics and/or the entertainment field. These meetings often took place during the time the games were being played. In the early years, money was transferred for drugs, illegal stocks, bonds, or other investments. Money in briefcases was exchanged for something in another briefcase. In my experience, this could have been anytime from 1976 on. Bob Hope was limoed in just for a brief exchange and then left quickly. He had a thing for Cyndy, always kissing her and touching her breasts while she just stood robotically.

Whoever owned the Dodgers at one time used to come into the big fancy restaurant there at Dodger Stadium or into the locker room. Many times Bob Hope would limo me in and give me specific instructions on how to seduce this man and ask him key questions or deliver messages. One owner had dark skin, dark hair, was average build, and always wore a suit and dark glasses. He liked it when I took his glasses off his face, laid them down and started kissing him. He wore strong cologne and black underwear, and had a holder for a gun he carried on his ankle. I was used to "disarming" men by "carefully" removing their weapons while I was seducing and disrobing them. I was instructed to do that sometimes for people who wanted others eliminated. They sent me in to seduce and disarm the person and then they would send in a hit man. I wasn't functional for days after one of these events so they quit using me for that type of assignment.

This particular Dodger owner didn't like to be seen in public. He didn't operate alone and had a company of mob-type men who worked for him. One day Bob Hope sent me in to "console" him. He was sitting alone on a locker room bench. I walked up to him and put my hand on his back so as not to startle him. He knew me and thought I worked for Lasorda. So, he let me go through my routine as I kissed him, rubbed his neck, and got him calm and relaxed. Then he said, "Let's get out of here." And he took me to a room at the stadium that is plush with a big bed in it. He ordered a bottle of champagne and caviar from the restaurant and we got it quickly. I used the little white pills I was instructed to place in drinks to get the most cooperation when I was sent in to gather information. He had sex with me and afterwards I asked him questions about a Colombian drug connection. I asked him where the transactions were taking place and he said, "Jamaica." Then I asked him when they were taking place and he answered, "in the spring when the apple blossoms are on the trees." And I asked him "who" and he told me, "Tommy's group and the Feds." It seemed like everyone always knew everyone else.

Reagan came to the Stadium on occasion. He often met with Hope. They met in the restaurant there when the restaurant was closed to the general public and made plans. I know because I was witness to their conversations as I sat with them. Sometimes my job was to listen and correct them if anything they said went against something in my data/mind files. These deals were connected up to whoever was in the White House at the time. Reagan, Ford, and Bush were all there at different times. With the Presidents, it seemed that there was already built into this corrupt drug/porn network a place or slot for the highest levels of government - the President - because the people who were Presidents came and went, but the job they did was always the same. It seemed like the stadium was a place where they could meet undetected or something.

On occasion I was flown away in a helicopter with Secret Service agents and taken to DC and debriefed or given new information to deliver somewhere else around the country. Then I was flown home.

Leaders from all over met at the Dodger Stadium. It was where the U.S. Government, White House level and state level, met with the Mob drug connections and made "deals." These deals were made with people and leaders from all over the world. No one ever knew they were there as they were limoed or helicoptered in and out at precise times--carefully coordinated and timed by the Secret Service.

During the time Steve Garvey was playing for the Dodgers he had an office in Calabasas that was used by him and the group that controlled him for illegal activities and pornography-adult and kiddy porn. I was filmed pornographically in Steve's so-called office with a variety of people, including himself, his wife, and his children. Even my own children were pornographically filmed there at different times.

Sometimes they filmed my daughter Kelly with Whitney and Krisha in kiddie porn. Lots of other children were filmed pornographically including our oldest son Kevin. But these weren't filmed at Dodger Stadium; instead they were filmed in private offices or homes.

Cyndy and I were filmed together in porn, at Steve's office. We both had little skimpy French maid aprons on and nothing else. Cyndy wore something like a black eye mask, maybe in their effort to disguise her. She had a bowl of whipped cream that she held and smeared all over her body and I was forced to lick it off of her while they filmed. I was told beforehand what to do and say. They took close up shots when I was commanded to perform oral sex on her.

There was other pornography shot during this time, beginning in the 1980's. When my daughter Kelly was old enough (3 and up) they began filming Cyndy, our daughters, and myself. A title to one of these films was Mommy and Me.

Porn of Cyndy and I was filmed on a private beach in Malibu. I was picked up in a white van and at other times was picked up by a limo. Cyndy, some dogs, and I were running naked on the beach while they filmed us. Some of this was filmed in the "Colony" in front of one of Barbra Streisand's homes. Barbra wasn't home when they took us to do the porn.

Chapter Twenty-seven: Education 2000

Las Virgenes School District

Henry once said, "There is nothing more convincing than to have a pregnant woman speaking out for educational issues." He had me speaking to groups that were involved in various aspects of education from the top officials and big wigs down to California State legislators. He said I was fighting to increase the level of education for my future progeny; starting now, so by the time they were in school I could rest assured that they would get the finest education possible.

I began this in 1978 when I was very pregnant with Kelly. He used me in Sacramento to "further legislation for our children's education." And I went to Washington, DC, when it became necessary to take what had been won in California in the way of educational advancement and present it to influential people in DC who could make a difference in furthering this goal. California was the model and once the framework was set they wanted the new educational system to be used nationwide, but that took planning and fortitude. Years of preparation went into this to insure that the nation's children would be ready for the year 2000, when their transformation of the masses would be complete. "...And peace will guide the planet and love will rule the stars ...the dawning of the Age of Aquarius." Through programming, this song was instilled within my mind to anchor a lot of this educational activity and to also bring me under a greater influence of my true birth sign, Aquarius. The plan was for my humanitarian interests to be of such a magnitude that I would become internationally known as a leader in ending child ritual abuse. This focus would have served to keep those who found out about this abuse "busy" and distracted with "satanic behavior," and still not aware of mind control, until they could gradually implement the transformation to get people more completely under control. They referred to the time frame after the year 2000 takeover, as "The Great Transformation."

Don Zimring, the Superintendent of Schools for the Las Virgenes School District (LVSD) was heavily involved in deciding which children got special instruction. Each 'special' child in the school had their own program design and was individually monitored so they would get the early training and conditioning they would need to fulfill their destined position within the hidden inner circle framework. I was programmed to report to the LVSD office to see Don Zimring in order to be "instructed" in regard to the "special" children who were in need of individual attention and individual programs. I sat before him in a robotic "sponge" state, while he rattled off profiles of children and special videos or instruction booklets they were to be subjected to. By the time the children hit elementary school they were conditioned sufficiently so that their "programs" could be absorbed readily and easily through just saying a word that opened their access way to special abilities, like photographic memory or rapid learning states. Many women, purposefully placed in teacher and principal positions, were either programmed themselves or just didn't pay attention when a child was removed from class for "special instruction." Children were targeted for their natural talents and abilities. For example, in families who were athletically inclined, or where one or both parents excelled in sports, they put in access codes for "super athletes" and then someone from higher up had the option of stepping in and 'sponsoring' a child with a promising future. Which meant that this "higher up" funded socalled 'special education' for this child, often without the parent's conscious involvement or consent, and from then on had a special interest in how things were taught to the child. Kelly was monitored closely, always having a special tutor to "shore her up." Our controllers viewed her as a young beauty and noted her extremely positive social skills and built upon those. There was an "inner group" of school officials, parents and teachers who were involved in seeing to it that the preconditioned children were groomed in the ways necessary for them to step into future pre-designated positions.

The people behind this scheme have done endless research on the brain in response to everything, including spinning rides at amusement parks, and know just what level of stimulation is needed to make programming most effective. Over the years the research has been tried and tested through the experimentation on children who were targeted before birth. The genetic engineering aspect is highly used and they take into consideration the inherent genetic talents and abilities coupled with just the right training at the right age to produce a "highly advanced child." But, in essence, what they truly have created is a highly advanced robot that has been dehumanized to the point of not being able to think or choose for themselves. They have been robbed of their free will or any real choice in their lives.

The California Capital 'Sexcramento' and Senator Pete Wilson

The organization and framework is large. There were many people involved and the technology over the years has risen to the level where children in the preschools require less trauma and torture in the beginning stages to set in the "cues and programs" that will be built upon in later years. Pete Wilson was very involved with all of this and was set into position in the 1980's. I was sent to Sacramento with Ann Eklund, the principal of Sumac Elementary School, in the early 1980's, to set up these programs through the school districts. Although at the time I didn't know I was participating in this, years later, during a flashback, I remembered boarding a plane with her, getting off with her and being met by a taxi that drove us to offices of the California State Department of Education. It seems that the instructions to implement these "special programs" filtered down from "the top." The higher ups see it as technologically advancing the children, creating "mega minds of the future" for later use within their own system. The children are force fed information into previously set up inner systems of mind files and are trained to be able to accept vast amounts of highly technological information beginning at age three. They are not taught to think, but only to be used and accessed like a computer.

Ann Eklund was highly involved in the project and had been since its inception. The framework was set into great motion in Sacramento in the early 80's between Ann, Don Zimring, Pete Wilson and several officials from Washington, DC. I was flown to DC to speak before a committee meeting to describe how the program was progressing. Sometimes a child would be "demonstrated" to the committee to show the advanced mind technology that was possible. Disbelieving Senators and Congressmen 'in the know,' needed to see to believe. The child could be made to perform on cue and recite mega amounts of highly complex technological information. They saw these children as being prototypal descendents of mine. These particular politicians knew how I was used with Henry Kissinger and were "amazed" to know that any similarly conditioned child could possess the same qualities of mind ability. Reagan was also involved and so was Bush. Our instructions for individual children's programming often came from the White House level as many of these wealthy people "adopted" and "supported" children "with promise." These elite overseers viewed the 'special' children as the minds of the future, the future world leaders, preprogrammed with their own wisdom and desires for how they feel the world should be run, based on their own values. GOD HELP US!

LVSD was the No. l pilot program and many funds were approved to be used within the school district, but were actually skimmed off the top to finance a lot of "special programs," really aimed at the children who had been targeted. Children who were targeted were dismissed from class, taken to a room for special attention and were hooked up to special audio tapes, linked with accompanying picture books, in the beginning years, and then later on to computers and sound. Large reels of film were used occasionally when not available on video and it was timely for the information to be "visually cued" into a child's brain. But usually it was done by video or computer. It created complex brain function and set up controls within the child that these people manipulated. They have performed experiment after experiment over the years to develop the most effective equipment to use on children. Much of the funding earmarked for use within the school district was siphoned off to be used for research and to pay technicians to develop and test the equipment, computer programs, etc. During that time, many of the state school funds were misappropriated and used for things other than what they were approved for.

I am pretty sure now that the memories I had of accompanying Reagan to Point Mugu and other places for speeches, was when I was being "demonstrated" to others and was cued to speak about the same technology that was being used with children three, four, and five years old. Reagan used me often for demonstration because he said I stood the test of time, which meant that I had been in operation for over 30 years without a leak, or without a problem. I heard him explain to people that I was so "real" that he sometimes forgot I was a programmed robot. He said he liked that because, "you get all the benefits of a robot with human softness added." He was very proud of the technology and spoke freely about it within a trusted group. I was presented to the military, to politicians, etc., for them to see and witness the technology, and then I presented my pre-programmed information. Many requested private demonstrations of my sexual capabilities in order to become believers. Whenever there were men at the presentations, and usually they were men, there were private one-on-one sexual demonstrations afterwards.

In my head, when I was retrieving these memories, I kept hearing the phrase, "Senate subcommittee meetings on advancing education in America." I remember Pete Wilson speaking and there was a demonstration done on the educational system that had nothing to do with what was actually going on behind the scenes, but they had to justify the large amounts of money that they were trying to appropriate for their secret system. It was all a sham - they knew they would get the money, they knew where it was coming from and how they could get it. It was just a matter of making the steps and actions look like it was all above-board, while behind the scenes they planned the new technology in education, privately. Their attitudes were that other people in the private sector wouldn't be able to grasp what they were doing because they didn't have the required intellect. So, they justified its secrecy this way, feeling this new system was the advancement of society and until people could really see the results in action and how effective these methods of education would be in the advancement of society, they needed to keep the methodology quiet. They used big words to intimidate those people they wanted to leave them alone and they were quite successful at accomplishing that. People who couldn't understand what they were saying would back down and walk away. They used me for this project beginning in the early 80's and didn't care whether I was pregnant or just out of the hospital or what. They just overrode what my personal situation was by using my multiplicity.

Pete Wilson was probably elected governor so that they could pull this whole thing off without any problem. Ann Eklund introduced me to him in the very early 80's and the sexual connection was made, then I was fed information by the Council (from the hotel room in the Holiday Inn or the Marriott) to "deliver" to Pete even in the early years. He jumped though all the hoops they presented to him with no problem and so they kept promoting him just like they did Reagan. Only difference was, Reagan seemed ignorant compared to Pete and I guess that meant that Pete was more knowledgeable and better informed about certain situations, beyond acting in accordance with what the Council wanted. Reagan just acted in accordance, like a puppet with no understanding of what he was doing in so many situations, always worried about the state of affairs of the Nation, but easily calmed and his attention diverted to another subject.

The school district plans were directly tied into the preschool abuse. They made sure they had "qualified" preschools set up in areas near the elementary and secondary education schools so the children would be "prepared" before entering kindergarten. Then the public school system had in place the network of people to carry out the children's "further education." The controllers have people placed in positions, high up, in widely varying areas to fund their plan and to fill the positions required in order to make it successful. They had programmed people in place from the janitor all the way up to the school district supervisors and on into the state and federal government. All key positions were filled to make sure their plan is implemented and failsafe. They moved key people around as needed.

In 1985, not long after my April 12th auto accident, I continued on as coordinator of the carnival at Sumac Elementary. I had been working on it for months. But I was in so much pain that I had to do it with a neck brace and the aid of Percodan. My mother and father even attended, with my father in a wheel chair-all this took place before I remembered any of my past. The funds that came from that little Saturday event were significant enough, with thousands of dollars raised, that the head of the Park and Recreation Department for Agoura invited me to be the fundraiser for the local parks department. Between the money earned by this carnival and the large sums earned by the Agoura Great Race, organized by a friend of mine, the school was able to buy computers, turning a whole section of a stage area into row after row of computers. It was a few years later that I began remembering a little boy sitting at one of those computers working away, 'lost in time.' I walked behind him and, as programmed, I intentionally lost my balance and drove my knee into his back in order to further 'dissociate' him, and then I tapped him on his left shoulder twice. There was usually a word command coupled with these actions, something that would cue the child back into a specific mind state or program at a later date. I also remember going up to one of Danny's teachers and saying something like, "Are you going to teach the child about Napoleon?" Napoleon was the key word. I don't know what it did or was suppose to do to the teacher, but it also was coupled with a tap on the left shoulder. Of course, while I know that I didn't consciously plan why I said that, I also wonder who coordinated all of this, cueing me to cue her and some of the students.

This new computer area installed at Sumac Elementary got the 'special' children out of class and gave anyone who wanted to approach them, access to them. They got a permission slip from their teacher and went by themselves to the computer area. Later, in therapy, I remembered pulling a videotape from my purse and coming up behind a child and changing what he was watching on a VCR. Later, they had computer disks that were similarly brought in. These children had been targeted since they were very small. Many children at the school did not receive this "special attention" - only those who were to become leaders in the future and those who were sponsored.

Of course, in the intentionally created reality driven by the mind control I was under, I simply believed that I was a good wife and dutiful mother. I had no way of knowing I was being used in this way.

"If I can stop one heart from breaking, I shall not live in vain.
If I can ease one life the aching, or cool one pain,
Or help one fainting robin into his nest again, I shall not live in vain. "

Chapter Twenty-eight: Reagan, Kissinger, Bush and More Horrors

One day, on assignment, I was standing at the top of a very tall set of four or five tiers of marble stairs. President Reagan walked out of a room below and paused a moment before he looked up and saw me. Quickly he put his finger to his lips and I knew that meant to keep quiet. He motioned for me to come downstairs and meet him outside. I promptly looked away from him so I wouldn't be publicly noticed or connected with him, and started walking. Once outside, a Secret Service agent directed me toward a limo and as I got close he took hold of my head and pushed me inside. I was waiting when Reagan arrived. He stepped in backwards so no one from the outside would be able to see me. After the door was shut, he smiled and kissed me and said that he had missed me. He said he needed me to go with him to the Pentagon to introduce me to some friends of his.

There I was exposed to file after file of small typed information and was introduced to an officer who had on a dark blue uniform with gold trim that looked like a Navy uniform. Reagan instructed this man to show me information that was top-secret. This was information I needed to have in my mind files for some upcoming meeting. Then Reagan left. I followed this man to his office and watched while he opened his file drawer, took out some files and laid them open on his desk. He left me with them and went out of the room, locking the door behind him, locking me inside. I was in his office for quite some time and went over four files in detail. I couldn't remember the details when I was deprogramming the documents to read them to you now. The officer kept checking on me and when I was through he escorted me to a waiting limo. Reagan wasn't there.

White House Humor

"Once in the White House always in the White House, I know my own way upstairs!" Bob programmed me to say to Presidents.

When I said that to Reagan he said he didn't find that amusing. I told him, "Well Bob said for me to say that."

Reagan immediately softened up, laughed and said, "You tell that ole' buzzard I said hello."

Once you are on the list "to do the White House" they keep using you over and over if your Boss man agrees.

Cozumel

During September of 1984 or 1986, Craig and I went to Cozumel on a scuba diving vacation with a group of dental friends. A day and a half of the trip was reserved for Reagan. The men in suits came for me in the middle of the night. It often happened that way, where they just appeared in the room and took me away. They said they had come to "prepare me," which I knew meant torture and isolation, to be readied for my time with Reagan. I was put into a cement utility room. It was dark except for the pilot light from a hot water heater located in the corner. That was the only light until daylight. I was stripped naked and left in the cold cement room all night alone. The men opened the door every so often and used electro-shock on me, by putting a prod on my hips. My body contorted and convulsed, and my hands involuntarily rose uncontrollably into the air. Then, I collapsed into a heap on the floor and they told me to keep standing, not to sit down or go to sleep. They checked in on me every so often, to see if I sat down or had fallen asleep, and if I had, they zapped me again with high voltage, and even if I hadn't they would zap me. Either way, I got it.

If I had to go to the bathroom, I went in a corner and then they would slap me for that. The men in suits were brutal. Slapping me, shinning bright lights in my eyes, shocking my body. . . it was sheer torture. They injected my arm with some drug and I slumped over. One of them covered me up with a sheet and carried me to a black car, and the next thing I knew I woke up in a hotel room where I was told to shower, wash my hair and dress in the clothes they left for me.

When I finished dressing, they took me to a dimly lit restaurant where Reagan was sitting in a candlelit booth, already eating. It was late and there weren't any other people in the restaurant. Reagan smiled and took my left hand activating my touch program as he squeezed it. He winked at me as he continued eating. I just sat with him, with the Secret Service waiting behind him, while he ate. I was very out of it, and was having trouble focusing to keep myself together. My inner system of personalities was programmed to never make a mistake in regard to which personality was "presenting." I was forewarned by my controllers that if this ever happened it would be a fatal mistake and I was programmed to keep my inner personality system in check by an internal oversight committee that decided who was to be out in a split second snap of the fingers. It wasn't that I was switched to the wrong personality for this event; I think, at that moment, I was just physically incapable of performing.

Reagan said, "You look beautiful as always." I smiled shyly and he lifted his hand up, brushed my hair off my shoulder and pushed on the side of my neck. I felt like my eyes rolled out of my head. He looked to the Secret Service agents and said that he didn't think I was "quite ready. "

The Secret Service agents took me outside into the ocean air and walked me around a bit and then took me back to him. They said, "Perform!" and I sat down, this time more alert, bubbly and talkative!

Finished eating by now, Reagan took my hand again and said, "Let's get out of here." We walked through the kitchen and out the back door, with Secret Service agents before and after us, into a waiting limo. I asked him where Nancy was and he said, "She's home where she belongs!" He pulled my legs up over his lap as we drove away and said, "You're in for a real treat tonight."

It was late at night when we pulled up in front of a big white hotel. We went in quickly, after a Secret Service agent checked to make sure the lobby was clear. Reagan and I went hand-in-hand to the elevator up to the second floor. We followed the agent down the hall and waited as he stopped in front of a room, while two other agents guarded Reagan outside. There was a balcony off the room, and we could hear the surf. It wasn't the plushest of rooms, but it was nice.

Reagan took off the white summer coat I'd been given to wear and sat next to me on the bed. He started talking to me as he undid the back of my dress. He undressed me this time, revealing the sheer white lacy bra, panties and white nylons I had been given to wear.

Reagan was aggressive this night. This was not typical behavior for him, as he was usually so passive. He pushed me back onto the bed and kissed me eagerly while I began undressing him, one button at a time. He was in a hurry and very passionate. I was surprised at how different he was. He nibbled my ear, rubbed my navel to access touch programming, and I performed oral sex. While he lay on his back, I climbed on top of him to bring him to orgasm. Soon I lay down next to him, and we dozed off to sleep.

A few hours later, a Secret Service agent woke me up and put his finger to his lips to keep me quiet so I wouldn't wake up the President. The agent grabbed my clothes and shoes and took me to another room to dress. They put me into a dark sedan and took me back to my hotel, the El Presidente.

The next morning I woke up next to my husband in our hotel room, as if from a nap, feeling really strange, very tired, and out of it, but with no trace of memory of my time with Reagan. That evening my husband and I went to dinner with our friends and I was unable to think or do much more than eat my dinner and smile occasionally at someone as they spoke at the table. I did manage to stay awake through dinner but couldn't wait to go to sleep. The next morning I woke exhausted and feeling ill, but didn't know why. Waking weary and worn out was such a common occurrence for me and I had no way of knowing why I was really tired. I just figured that being tired, dazed, and feeling ungrounded was the way I was born. I never was able to think past that thought in order to penetrate the amnestic barrier, until much later.

Catalina Island

I was used on Catalina Island, for sexual rendezvous with Reagan and sometimes other public officials or entertainers. If Nancy didn't accompany Reagan to Catalina, it usually meant my use with him was for sex. She accompanied him at times when business affairs were at hand and other people were present for meetings. If Ronnie would touch me on the hand or look at me, she would get upset. Quietly and off to the side, he would tell me not to worry my pretty little head about her. I was programmed to have sex with Reagan at the Wrigley Mansion, the Zane Grey and other hotels on the island. It seems Reagan was usually on the island anonymously; for security purposes, no one was to know he was there.

There were usually two Secret Service agents who escorted me to my assignment. We often walked to our destination on the island when it was only a short distance. They directed me where to go and stayed behind me so that it would not appear that they were with me. An agent delivered me to the hotel room to wait for Reagan. Reagan preferred for me to wait for him naked, but he told me each time how he wanted me to be the next time and I did as instructed.

The agents who delivered me were always waiting right outside with the other agents when it was time to go. Then, they delivered me back to my hotel room.

When I looked at Reagan's body when he was naked he had a white flabby stomach and buttocks, not fat, just flabby and old looking. When I was scheduled to be with him, I was preinstructed to put on five strategically located sprays of Oscar de la Renta perfume - one spray on each side of my neck, one on each wrist and one in between my legs. He was very sensory oriented and my body had to be super clean. He often told me he liked how I smelled.

Reagan literally lay on his back the whole time we were having sex and had me do him. It was always one-on-one with him, usually quiet and sedate. No violence, no intensity. He liked for me to rub his back and then help him on with his pajamas. At this point in the evening, I often felt like I was pampering and putting a child to bed, despite the fact that he was 40 years older than I was! He made sure everything was comfy and in place. It was fairly routine, never much variation.

One night at the Wrigley Mansion, Reagan wanted me to pretend like I was forcing him to have sex with me. After the game, he put the stun gun to the small of my back. I never knew when it was coming with him because he would smile and all of a sudden I'd get zapped. Then I passed out, just sort of fainted over on him and he would catch me and direct my body over next to him, and then he would turn away and go to sleep, but his body was still touching me.

Sometimes the stun gun was placed at the base of my skull. Different places for different reasons. In the forehead it was meant to erase the mind file just used.

Chronic Pain

Over the years, I suffered from chronic pelvic pain and sharp stabbing pains that shot up through my vagina and rectum. I went to the doctor in an attempt to alleviate the cause, but by 1984 it was decided that a total hysterectomy was the only cure for my pain. I was 33 years old. After the surgery, the pain did lessen, but wasn't completely gone. At that time I was still unaware that I had been abused but when I began to have flashbacks and memories of the extreme sexual abuse that I had endured my whole life, the pain lessened. Once my hidden past was brought to conscious awareness, I healed and the pain went away for good.

Secretive Meetings with the Owl

I had to maneuver through lots of fairy tale programming like the following in order to gain access into memory of experiences when I was used as a mind file for Henry Kissinger at secret meetings. There was a fairy tale about a beautiful redwood forest, but it wasn't real, it was only fantasy. It had beautiful giant trees with red bark and it was in the mountains. There was a beautiful fairy princess who visited there and she was allowed to because she had special connections to the forest animals. She made friends with the great owl who watched over her and kept her safe. He alerted her if there were any problems because he was so big and so wise. He looked big to her because she had taken the magic mushrooms just like Alice in the Looking Glass and she couldn't tell if he was really big or she was just very tiny, but he could watch out for her.

This fairy tale was intended to cover and scramble the real memory of a men's camp of sorts in the California redwoods. There was a wooden box mounted on a tree with a special phone inside that the group of men who met there could call from. Henry needed me there to assist him with data. After the meetings during the day he would layer in the fairy tales at night in an attempt to scramble my memory.

Kissinger also met with George Bush at a place outdoors in the mountains that was like a men's camp. There was a large wooden building that they used for meetings. They slept in smaller sleeping cabins. I slept in a separate screened-in cabin and Henry put me into a mode to stay there and not leave until he came to get me. Henry met with George Bush when he was Vice President, more than he did with Reagan, who was President. This was because Henry and George had more in common on this particular endeavor and worked hand-in-hand on the project.

Then Vice-President Bush, Kissinger, and a White House correspondent met to decide what the White House Correspondent was going to put out through the media to the public to insure success of their plans. Henry always had his strategies and accomplished a lot behind the scenes by working through and directing other politicians or people connected to the White House.

At another meeting, Henry and George accessed my geographic locations file and gained access to information about certain foreign countries. They would pick perfect strategic locations to start wars and/or disputes they wanted in order to distract the American people and others about what they were really doing in an area. I would rattle off information about an area, describing it's climate, terrain, ocean access, mountain access, etc., and I would keep going on with information until they heard a location that would work for their plans. Then they would say STOP and I would stop. Meetings took place there often.

Kissinger Mind File Use During Bush's Vice Presidency and Presidency

During Reagan's administration, Henry Kissinger and George Bush used me often in a mind file capacity. When Bush became President, my job didn't change - only the person holding the office of President did. One day Henry and I were at the White House and he shook hands with Vice-President George Bush. I was there for mind file use. They were talking about the IranContra situation and Henry was telling George what to say publicly to cover their tracks. He had a lengthy conversation with Bush, telling him "key phrases" to say when asked certain questions so they could keep their stories straight.

George didn't like Henry smoking his cigar inside, but Henry smoked anyway. I guess Bush needed Henry's help so bad that he didn't press the cigar issue any further. Henry filled my mind files with information to bring back to the Governor of California, who I believe at the time was Governor Deukmajian. We sat in wooden chairs with leather seats in front of Bush's desk. The floor in the room was wooden, with a large throw rug over it. There was an American flag to our left - to Bush's right. Bush took his glasses on and off when he got upset or nervous.

Dinners held to entertain important foreign leaders or politicians from our own country often involved Henry Kissinger. He was not one to be social, but attended these dinners out of duty. If I was to target an individual in attendance, I often went with Henry. I was "strategically" seated next to him as well as the person they were trying to monitor or influence. Henry always briefed me beforehand in regard to things that were important to a foreign leader or a certain Senator or Congressmen. I would say sentences that had been implanted in my head to draw them out and get them talking. Sometimes I was given little white pills to drop in their wineglasses to "help them loosen up a little," is what Henry would say.

At these dinners, the President would clink his glass with a fork or spoon and propose a toast to the honored guest. All the presidents did it. Tapping of the wineglass was a means to call me to attention; most often it was a time when a very specific code was introduced to set me up for what I was to do the rest of the evening. After they clinked the glass, I subconsciously received the directions carefully embedded in the toast. Although Henry was the mastermind and loaded me up with information for targeted people for the evening, the Presidents were always told that I was at their service for the evening when I was included at a dining arrangement. Henry really had his own agenda that I fulfilled within the evening, mingling with those persons he predirected me to. But he took the courtesy of letting the Presidents feel they were in charge of me, so my instructions were to listen with an ear to hear the coded instructions and file them in with the instructions Henry had given me for the evening. Although I didn't understand consciously what to do, the coded parts inside of me knew exactly what to do and what area within the personality structure would carry out the duty. The Presidents I worked with knew exactly who I was, and knew that as a robot, I needed direction while I was sitting at the dining table with the guests. They gave me direction in relation to foreign leaders and which to target and what information to go after. If there were two foreign dignitaries then I would be told what to do with each of them. Bush utilized me often like this to hunt out information or find where loyalties lay.

Some of the guests at different times were royalty from England, foreign ambassadors, and other leaders from around the world. They often had interpreters with them at dinner so they could communicate. Henry put key phrases in my mind files, created especially for them because my knowledge of foreign languages was limited, but later, sex usually bridged the language barrier.

I was told what to say when questioned. Sometimes I said I was working for the State Department. Some of the men must have been given prior permission to have me sexually because they would touch my leg under the table or slip their hand up my dress. These men thought they were being given a gift, but they were really being interrogated or seeded by a programmed operative who had been well trained to do just that sort of job interwoven with sex. Sometimes it was just quick sex in a back office and then they would go home with their wife, or sometimes me. When I was to spend the night with a guest, we were often limoed to a nearby hotel for the evening. This happened when the men in control wanted some serious information. At other times, my instructions were merely to sit next to a targeted guest, deliver preprogrammed messages and record in my mind files their responses, reactions, etc.

Once a Machine, Always a Machine!

At times, Bob met and played golf with George Bush. "Once a machine always a machine," Bob said about me to Bush on the golf course in Palm Springs. Bush told Bob he acted like an old married couple with me. Bob laughed and said, "There's nothing old about her!" Bush didn't think it was so funny and just went on to the next hole in silence, followed by Secret Service agents.

George Bush knew all about my use as a human computer. He treated me very unkindly, like I wasn't human. One day, Henry and George got into a fierce argument over how George treated me. Henry said, "Would you go over to an expensive computer and kick it if it malfunctioned?" This was during Bush's Vice-Presidency when George accessed my files often and participated back and forth with Greenspan and Kissinger during that time. Henry said, "George if you're going to use the equipment you're going to have to learn to use it properly."

George said to Henry, "Hank, this young woman is nothing but a piece of equipment and if she continues to malfunction on me, I'll have to put a stop to her use." I sat blankly while they continued their argument.

The Game of Life or is it Slow Death?

George Bush was always mean, gruff and degrading. Overtime, he continually gave me brutal 'attitude adjustments.' He knew just how to twist the knife psychologically and could get me 'back in line' quicker than anyone else, due to the fact that he had abused my daughter and could devastate me by reminding me of the brutal things he did to her. Or he would say, "I can read you like a book and don't ever forget it. If you ever get a notion in your head like this again your daughter will be motherless. Don't cross me again." He was always yelling at me. He also started this program about 'life.' I had eaten LIFE cereal my whole life as part of a program, and he said to eat it and remember while I was eating it that, "only by going along with the program will you stay alive and continue your duties to your family and country." In programmed response, I ate LIFE cereal all the time, even carrying little snack bags of it around with me if I felt scared or threatened. Bush also had my children play the game of LIFE with me and reminded us, "Spin the dial and see what life has to offer." George would remind us to remember whenever we played, "if you get off track, you will loose not only your own life, but the precious lives of those traveling with you, your children." (Or, in my children's case, "your mother or father.")

Henry was so busy perfecting and guarding his technology within me that, at the time, I experienced him as protecting me, since he personally wasn't violent with me. But I know now that he was very much a part of the group of people that hurt me and, in fact, had to have orchestrated a lot of my high-level abuse. At times Henry acted like a mad scientist, so pleased with his creation, yet lost to humanity.

Mexico

Lots of drug transactions took place in the middle of crowds, such as in parades. I was involved in a big one in Mazatlan on Cinco de Mayo. We had just eaten dinner with Craig's family, aunt, uncle and cousin at the Shrimp Bucket restaurant. They had a lot of alcohol to drink and Craig's aunt took me into the restroom and passed some drugs off to me and told me to put the bag inside my dress. I was wearing a peach colored cotton sundress and I did what she said but didn't like to put the package in my panties like she told me to because it made me look pregnant or fat. Soon, we all left the restaurant and stepped out into the street where a festive Cinco de Mayo parade was in full swing. As we entered the huge crowd of people dancing and marching in the street, we moved along helplessly sandwiched in between the crowd. Craig kept laughing hysterically and smashed confetti eggs in my hair. I was terrified because nothing felt real, and the loud noises and all the people jammed close together frightened me. A man with dark skin, wearing white cotton pants, shirt and straw hat grabbed my arm and pulled me away from the crowd, down a dark side street. He pulled me through what at first looked like a doorway into an old abandoned building but as we made our way to the back, I was escorted into a room that was restored and decorated. A group of men were sitting around a table with a low hanging lamp, smoking and playing cards. "Here she is," my guide announced.

Another dark-skinned man came over to me. I think they called him Johnny T. He patted my stomach and said, "What do we have here? A gold mine?" He pulled up my dress and removed the package. In front of all the other men, he set his cigar down, pulled off his belt, unzipped his pants, let them fall to the floor, stepped out of them and said to his comrades, "This is what I've waited all night for." And he pulled me to the ground and raped me in front of the group. When he was through with me he opened the package I had delivered and said, "Tell the United States government, we thank them for their gifts, for their generosity, and tell them we like the way they do business," everyone laughed as he continued, "and that we will continue to hold up our end of the bargain." Another man took me out to a waiting car and I was delivered back to Craig's uncle.

George Bush was often a part of the illegal drug activity in Mexico. It felt as if he followed me and my family around on our vacations; no matter where we went, he and "the boys," showed up. I realize now our vacation spots really revolved around our controller's agenda but in those days I had no way of knowing that. It seemed like Reagan was just a puppet and Bush made all the arrangements, did the thinking, planning and carrying out of the deals. At meetings and social gatherings, Bush made the connections and cut the deal while Reagan just acted oblivious - which is not to say he didn't know or wasn't aware, he just wasn't ever the mastermind. Bush was ruthless and brutal; the end justified the means. He even had a red handkerchief he kept in his pocket for wiping blood off of Kelly or me. He had high expectations and often expected us to do things that he had inadvertently forgotten to tell us, at which point Kelly or I got slapped, beaten, or dealt with in other torturous ways. There was a time on Maui when a Secret Service agent came to my aid saying to Bush, "Sir, I don't think you told her that." That was the end of his job; Bush fired him on the spot. One day Bush took a pocketknife out of his pants pocket and I was terrified that he would use it on me, but instead he used it to cut the skin off a green apple. He told me I'd be next to have my skin cut off in the same slow, torturous manner if I didn't cooperate.

I saw the Mexican leaders more frequently at the White House than in Mexico; they were usually brutal and violent.

Craig's Uncle Lyle Curran, who worked for NASA, specially arranged for us to purchase a timeshare; the Presidential Suite, at the El Cid Hotel, in Mazatlan. My husband purchased the use of this suite, for the same week in April, every year for the next 25 years. My family and I always thought we were going there for a vacation. But that was never what occurred. On one such vacation, a man in a suit met Kelly and I just after we had bought our 'strawberry banana smoothies' at the hotel shake stand. Later I discovered that these drinks, although very healthy, were programming cues that were installed at an earlier time when we were taken to the Santa Monica Pier and put on the Carousel Ride. A man put both of us on the horses and told us, "tied together, you are one." There was other mirror programming and suggestions that created confusion over where I started or ended physically, and Kelly began or ended. There were to be no separate identities.

Anyway, we had on our bikinis and this suited man followed us over the bridged overpass that led to the Presidential Suite. As we went into the room he slipped in behind us. He told us to sit down on the bed. He put earphones on both of us, and injected our forearms. Kelly sat with one leg folded under her, in half Indian style position. We were body programmed and different body positions meant different things. George Bush arrived, dressed in a tan suit, and Kelly was "prepared" for him. Bush, a couple of Mexican leaders, and one other man had a meeting in our suite. I sat next to Bush at the meeting while he accessed my mind files. When the meeting was over George waited until everyone left the room, shook their hands politely at the door and when they were gone he went into the bedroom where Kelly was waiting. I sat robotically at the table.

Awhile later, when Kelly came out of the room, she had a smile on her face. Per programmed conditioning, she always wore a smile but she didn't look good to me. Bush left with two Secret Service agents that were parked outside the door to the suite. One of them called him, "Geo."

Another time Henry Kissinger was sitting with George Bush at a meeting that took place at the large dining table in our Presidential Suite at El Cid with two Mexican men. I was there to be used in mind file capacity. There were other such meetings that took place at our family timeshare, at El Cid, in the "Presidential Suite."

Chapter Twenty-nine: Back to the Future

More High Tech Classified Projects

In 1985, after a head-on collision and the ensuing healing process necessitated by the auto accident, my direction and course were irrevocably altered. I left my position in my husband's dental practice, returned to college and attended Pepperdine University in Malibu to begin classes to fulfill the requirements for a degree in Psychology. But as always, in addition to the coursework leading to my degree was an alternate, hidden agenda, planned and orchestrated by my controllers. Along with attending classes at Pepperdine, I was used in the Malibu area for experiments that furthered parapsychology research, as well.
